'JIM' BARRETT DIGS DEEPLY INTO RECORD

"Old-Timer" Highlights Achievements of Workers' Paper in 25 Years

Declares Publication Has Prevented Industrial Strife and Represented Labor on Highest Ethical Plane for Quarter Century—Co-operation of Local Unions in Support Is Called Outstanding

By JAMES F. BARRETT

This issue of the Chattanooga Labor World is published in its best dress, enlarged to this unusual size, and goes on parade to its thousands of readers in proud manner this week, all in celebration of its Silver Anniversary.

The Chattanooga Labor World is twenty-five years old today!

Twenty-five years of continuous service to organized labor in Chattanooga! It takes but a moment for the skillful fingers of the Linotype operator to put into type these few words, these words saying to this city and state that the Chattanooga Labor World has given "twenty-five years of continuous service to organized labor in Chattanooga." But to those fine men who founded this paper, and to those who have been charged with the responsibility of editing and publishing it week after week throughout this quarter of a century, these few words are filled with a significance and tell a story that would require many more pages than are being used in this issue, should an attempt be made to tell the whole story.

It was in April, 1916, that Jake Cohen and F. T. Carter founded the Chattanooga Labor World. Mr. Cohen was from the Machinists' union and Mr. Carter was from the Typographical union. They founded the Chattanooga Labor World as a measure of defense against the unscrupulous methods employed by that gentry which swoops down upon cities, fastens its claws upon a central labor union or a local labor union, and goes out to devour an advertising public in the name of Organized labor. Messrs. Cohen and Carter, with the advice and counsel of leaders in the labor movement here, began publication of this paper as the official organ of the Chattanooga Central Labor union. Appearance of this paper, with such well known men as Cohen and Carter operating it, put a stop to the fly-by-night operators of "labor publications" whose only purpose was to high pressure advertisers into signing a check for an ad. in the so-called labor publication.

For more than a year Messrs. Cohen and Carter struggled against many odds and faced and waded through many difficulties in estab-

Some of our members want to know who the healthy gent was in last week's paper. I promised not to tell, so here it is. It was none other than our president, Brother J. L. Smith.

Brother Homer Long said Brother Smith had a black cat's bone, because he had to pay a fine the very next day.

Mrs. Leslie Cooper is able to be out and she and Brother Cooper spent the week-end in Lake View, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Magill are expecting a blessed event.

Friday, May 10, is the next meeting date. Hope to see all members present for we shall have something very interesting.

Brother Homer Long had a good Model A Ford he swapped for a Plymouth. Now he only gets 11 miles to a gallon of gas, so he leaves the car at home and walks to work.

Louise Barswell is able to be back at work after some weeks' illness.

Chairman

A. C. KAMIN

The success of any paper is not due to the efforts of the editor alone, and this rule applies particularly to The Labor World. Being owned by the labor movement, policies of the paper are rigidly laid before the editor by the board of directors named by the Central Body.

A. C. Kamin happens to be the chairman of this board, and a harder working unionist cannot be found. When he refused to run for the sixth consecutive time unopposed as president of Central Body some years ago he was presented with an expensive gold watch by Central Body as a small token of recognition of his services.

He is a member of the Movie Operators, a recommendation in itself. He has served the state federation as a board member and has been on the Labor World board for a long number of years.

AFL Fights Order in Hearst Newspaper Case

Chicago.—The American Federation of Labor and the affiliated state and Chicago federations have begun a vigorous legal fight against the order of the National Labor Relations Board in the long drawn-out Chicago Herald-American case. The first move of the A. F. of L. bodies was to petition the federal circuit court of appeals to review the NLRB order, which was announced on April 13.

The federations' attorney, Daniel D. Carmell, charged that the labor board decision, as it affected two A. F. of L. unions, Newspaper Commercial Associates and the Chicago Editorial Association, was arbitrary, unlawful and "an unwarranted invasion of the unions' constitutional rights."

The decision ordered the Herald-American management to withhold recognition of the Newspaper Commercial Associates or any other labor organization pending an election among editorial and commercial department employes to choose bargaining representatives.

Employes who were members of the CIO American Newspaper Guild called a strike against the newspaper, one of the Hearst chain, on December 5, 1938. The guild asserts it is still in progress.

CENTRAL BODY OUTSTANDING IN ITS SERVICE

Powerful in Matchless Spirit of Unity and Organized Purpose

Has Served Mankind More Effectively and Obtained Greater Advancement for Its Members Than Any Other Economic Group — Make-up of Affiliated Locals Is Explained

Powerful in numerical strength, more powerful in its matchless spirit of unity and organized purpose, the Chattanooga Central Labor Union stands out as this city's greatest single force and influence, and the record of achievements of this great organization proves beyond any question or doubt that the Organized Labor Movement in Chattanooga has served mankind more effectively and obtained greater advancements for the citizens of this city than has any other group or organization. The people who do the work of this vicinity are proud of the record made by the Central Labor Union and its allied Local Unions.

In this issue of The Chattanooga Labor World, the official organ of the Chattanooga Central Labor Union, and owned and operated by the Central Labor Union, a list of the local unions is being published, to the end that the readers may know something of the bigness of the Chattanooga Central Labor Union. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the organizational structure of the labor movement, let it be stated here that the Central Labor Union in a city is just what its name implies —the centralized body of all organized labor unions within that city. It is made up of duly elected delegates from each of the local unions, and these delegates constitute the Central Labor Union. Officers of Central Labor Unions are elected at stated intervals by the duly elected delegates from the several local unions who make up the Central Labor Union.

In the meetings of the Central Labor Union the problems of each local union are brought to the attention of the central body. Then this information is carried back by the delegates to their respective local unions, hence the entire organized labor membership of a city is kept informed of the problems facing each local union in the city.

Taking the list of the local unions in Chattanooga and vicinity in alphabetical order, let a study be made of the almost complete coverage of all working people by and through the organized local unions constituting the organized labor movement in this section.

There are three local unions of the American Federation of Government Employes—Local No. 186, No. 242 and No. 316. These local unions are made up of men and women who work for the United States government in positions not covered by specific national unions,

Building Trades Fight Two Wage Cutting Bosses

Two nonunion jobs, being constructed by an out-of-town firm and a local firm, paying wages less than those prevailing in this city were stopped in their progress this week when committees from the Hodcarriers and other building trades urged the nonunion workers to lay down their tools.

The first job was being done by the Lowe Construction company, a North Carolina firm that does not pay good wages, according to local authorities. A filling station is being put up at the railroad tracks on Market street. In the affair a nonunion man was arrested for drawing a gun and firing three times at the union men, failing, however, in his murderous attempt. One of the nonunion fellows was said to have been bruised up.

On Wednesday the Massey Construction company, a local outfit that has been doing some small work on the outskirts of the city, started operations on Chestnut street. A committee from the union asked the nonunion men to quit the job and insist on decent wages, which was done.

Federal Unions to Meet

Dayton, Ohio.—Coleman Claherty, Ohio American Federation of Labor director of organization, announces that a state-wide conference of Ohio federal labor unions will be held here June 15 and 16. Establishment of a general policy for Ohio federal labor union locals to conform with the laws and policies of the A. F. of L., will be the main business of the conference.

"Manages" Bakers

C. B. NORWOOD

Two of the most important jobs in any union are that of business agent and financial secretary, and in Bakers Local No. 25, C. B. Norwood holds both. When Curtis Sims was drafted by the international to represent them in the South, Norwood took over the job and doing well for the union. In fact, Chattanooga is getting to be known as a closed shop city regarding cakes, bread and candies.

Bakers' Scraps

Well, well, another week rolls around and we are here again trying to give you some news about your local bakers. Had a meeting last Saturday and was glad to see so many of the members present. It does my heart good to see a good attendance at our meeting because it shows that we are interested in the success of the local. Marie Johnson, Kenneth Donham, Lester Hamontree, James Dishroon, David Shauf and John Henley were obligated into the local as new members.

Union Label Trades Department
American Federation of Labor

THE 4-STAR ESSAY CONTEST will close at 12:00 Midnight, May 30. No essays will be accepted unless they are postmarked before or on this date. The Union Label Trades Department is anxious to have everyone who desires to write an essay to get under the wire before this contest closes.

In looking over the essays which have been submitted to date, we have found that many contestants have not strictly followed all the rules.

It is not too late for anyone who has submitted an essay to obtain the rules, rewrite his essay to comply with them, and resubmit it before the closing date.

The Union Label Trades Department is offering $1000.00 in cash and valuable Union Label articles as prizes for the best essays on the following subjects: "Why I Buy Union Label Goods," "Why I Use Union Services," "Why I Am a Labor Unionist," and "Why I Joined a Women's Auxiliary." The essays are limited to 250 words each. The Grand Prize for each essay is $250.00. This means a dollar a word for the prize winner of each essay.

The essays must be original. However, the contestant is allowed to quote from other sources providing he encloses in quotation marks any material that is not original. A rule is provided for a signed statement as follows: "This essay is my original production and is not copied from any source except as indicated by quotation marks."

The 4-Star Essay Contest is being conducted by the Union Label Trades Department to stimulate the sale of Union Label goods and the use of Union services. The two essay contests, "Why I Buy Union Label Goods," and "Why I Use Union Services" are open to everybody. They are free-for-all.

It is very important that everyone desiring to write an essay read the rules carefully before entering a contest for any essay.

Rules and regulations may be obtained by writing to the Union Label Trades Department, A. F. of L. Building, Washington, D. C.

Had a nice talk with Mr. and Mrs. Hamil of Ham's place last Saturday after the meeting and I think that we will be able to get some Erskine cakes in there. They are handling Hooper's and Mercer's already and if we can get Erskine's lined up we will have all 100 per cent union made bakery products there.

Glad to hear that Brother Garland Tyrell is up again and will soon return to work. We have been missing Brother Tyrell at our meetings.

There was a lot of discussion on the new labor temple at our meeting last Saturday. I think that it will be the best thing that organized labor can do to have a labor temple of their own. I pledge my support and day's pay towards the new temple right here and now.

A former member of our local, Brother Clarence Logan, dropped by the office for a little visit. Brother Logan is off from work sick with a strained back from lifting some heavy boxes at the M. & M. food store, where he is working. Hope he will be able to return to work real soon.

Dough Boy says when he buys cakes and pies he is sure that they are union made, for he is sure that the men that make them are making decent wages. Union made cakes and pies are: Stone's, Grennan's, Erskine's, Hooper's, Mercer's and Dolly Madison. Cakes and pies that are made under non-union conditions are: Virginia Dare, Jack's cookies, Frank's cookies, Effie's pies, Alton Park cakes and pies, Holsum, Dortch, Hostess, Malbra and Ward's.

DAVE PARKS

The woods are full of "Parks" around Chattanooga, and they are all "union." One of the most active today is Dave Parks of the Bricklayers Union No. 6. Dave is known for his courage and level head.

Lathers Started Here in 1903

Local 265, Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union, was chartered in Chattanooga a way back in May, 1903, just four years after their international union was organized. They are part of an organization that has today 498 locals affiliated.

The charter members of the local union are unknown, except for President Banks and Secretary H. A. McSpadden. Present officers are President John Howard, Vice President George McNish, Financial Secretary J. O. McSpadden, Recording Secretary Robert H. Powell and Business Representative J. C. Cameron.

The wage scale today is $1.25 per hour, and the local is in good shape financially.

ALMAND CRAWFORD

LABOR LOSES IN DEATH OF A. CRAWFORD

Operating Engineers' Business Representative Helped Put Local on Present Firm Basis.

Almand Crawford, business representative of Local 917, Operating Engineers, died last Friday evening, April 26, at Campbell's hospital on McCallie avenue. Brother Crawford had been seriously ill for about one week, and from the beginning he realized that he was about to go.

One of the touching incidents that portrayed the fine heart of this trades-unionist was when he called in to his bedside many of his co-workers and told them goodbye. He told them that maybe in the past there might have been harsh words spoken between them, but he wanted them to know that he held no unkind thoughts. He said that he was intensely interested in his craft and that whatever was said or done was all part of the job. He asked them to carry on for the labor movement.

Brother Crawford had been very active in the local labor movement for the past ten years, and was also a past president of Local 917, besides being business representative and general organizer for his craft.

He was a member of the Chattanooga and Knoxville Building Trades councils and Central Bodies. His church affiliation was the Bellwood Baptist church in Atlanta, and he was a member of Capitol City Lodge 642, F. & A. M.

The funeral was held from the Bellwood Baptist church in Atlanta, with Rev. DeWitt Reagans, pastor, officiating, with Rev. Willis assisting. Rev. Willis had baptized Brother Crawford when he was about 10 years of age.

Active pallbearers were Ed Cooper, Robert Gunther and John L. Hand, members of Local 917. Masonic representatives serving as active pallbearers were W. A. Witt, H. E. Durham and Walter Elzenberry.

Active Pallbearer Hand is president of Local 917.

Honorary pallbearers were Alec McDonald, international representative of Operating Engineers; Arthur Watkins, Evansville (Ind.) Local 181; H. H. Collins, president of Knoxville Building Trades council; John Hucabee, member Local 917-A; Mark Wardrop and J. E. Grant, of Stationary Engineers 917-A; J. L. Lawson, Electrical Workers 84; D. Leavens, grand master Capitol City Lodge, F. & A. M.

Attending the funeral from Chattanooga were W. A. Witt, Grover Tittle, W. W. Orr, O. E. Cook, W. A. Everhart, Corbett Sanders, M. J. Dulion, R. L. Malone, Joe Prince, Ed Tucker, Mrs. Nellie Green Stephenson and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davies.

Interment was at Crest Lawn cemetery in Atlanta.

Civic Chorus Ends Season Monday and Wednesday

Under direction of Conductor J. Oscar Miller, the Chattanooga Civic Chorus will end a brilliant season with the annual May Music Festival to be presented Monday and Wednesday, May 6 and 8, at the Memoria Auditorium. New York guest stars who will come here to assist are Helen McCartney, soprano; Mary Hopple, contralto; Theo Karle, tenor, and Robert Nicholson, baritone.

On next Monday night the four guests will present an artists' recital and on Wednesday evening will assist the Civic Chorus and orchestra in a concert performance of Bizet's opera, "Carmen." Local soloists for "Carmen" include May Archibald, soprano; Joseph W. Clift, Jr., tenor; Woodrow Wilson, baritone, and James Mahoney, bass.

The May festival concerts are on the season ticket series of the Civic Chorus, formerly the Cadek Choral Society. Edward Schaefer, who has recently been elected to serve a third term as chorus president, has announced that the auditorium box office will be open next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for securing reserved seats or single admissions for the May Festival.

Resolutions

At a regular meeting of the Building and Construction Trades Department, A. F. of L., the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, it has seemed best to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst by the hand of death, Brother Almand Crawford, business representative of the Operating Engineers and trustee of our council, thereby, depriving us of a faithful officer and delegate, who at all times, willingly gave his time, counsel and advice for the best interest of our organization and the membership of organized labor.

RESOLVED, by the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Department of the A. F. of L., that we tender to his wife and immediate family, our heartfelt sympathy in this, their hour of distress at the loss of one who is dear to them and cannot be replaced.

Trusting that our Great Ruler will soothe the sorrow and grief caused by the departure of their loved one, and be it further

RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of our meeting, a copy be sent the bereaved family, a copy be furnished to the Labor World for publication and be it further RESOLVED, as a token of respect that our charter be draped for thirty days.

CHATTANOOGA BUILDING & CONSTRUCTION TRADES DEPARTMENT,

G. C. Tittle, President,
W. W. Orr, Secretary-Treas.
(Seal)

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to call our dear beloved brother, Almand Crawford, from our ranks;

Resolved, that we, the members of Local Union No. 917, International Union of Operating Engineers, express our sympathy to the family who mourns his loss; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this meeting; a copy be sent to the official journal of the organization for publication; a copy be sent to his bereaved family also, and a copy be sent to The Labor World. Be it further

Resolved, that the members stand in silence for one minute as a tribute of respect to his memory and that our charter be draped for a period of 30 days.

MORE ABOUT

such as the Postoffice clerks, etc. The Chattanooga Central Labor Union, working with the American Federation of Labor, has accomplished much for the government employes who come under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Government Employes. All advancements and protection obtained for these workers has been obtained under leadership and through the influence of the American Federation of Labor and the State Federation of Labor and Central Labor Unions.

Bakery Workers of the city have two local unions—No. 25, and No. 166. The Bakery Workers are most active in the Central Labor Union, the president of the central body, Mr. Curtis Sims, having served the for six years as president of the Chattanooga Central Labor Union.

Barbers Local Union No. 415, is one of the oldest local unions in the city, and has long been a great factor in the Chattanooga Central Labor Union.

Brewery Workers Local Union No. 79 is an outstanding evidence of the effectiveness of genuine unionism. This local union embraces within its membership employes of breweries, soft drink establishments, etc. The fact that every bottling concern in Chattanooga, both beer and soft drinks, is working under closed shop agreements with the Brewery Workers union, is evidence of the effectiveness of this great organization.

Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Local Unions No. 526 and No. 384 cover both the inside and outside workers engaged in this line of work. No. 526 is made up of shopmen, while No. 384 is made up of construction workers. Both local unions work under closed shop agreements with their employers.

Boilermakers of the city have two local unions, No. 14 and No. 656, one for the railroad shopmen and one for the general trade mechanics. The Boilermakers are among organized labor's oldest and most influential groups.

Blacksmiths Local Union No. 408 has long been a strong factor in the labor movement here.

Bricklayers Local No. 6, of an ancient trade honored in Biblical history and highly respected and regarded in all ages and in all countries, has had much to do in building the labor movement in Chattanooga.

Building Trades Council, an organization made up entirely of building trades local unions, is a foundation stone in the Chattanooga labor movement.

Carpenters and Joiners, powerful in every trade union movement, have four local unions in Chattanooga—No. 74, No. 1592, No. 1882 and No. 1950.

Cement Workers Local Union No. 1 has a rich history. It was in this group that cement workers were first organized, since which an International Union of Cement Workers has been chartered by the American Federal of Labor, with the Chattanooga local union being given the No. 1 number. Paul J. Aymon was among the leaders in the local labor movement who assisted these workers in forming their local union and in the greater activity in perfecting the international union.

Electrical Workers have five fine local unions in the Chattanooga jurisdiction, these being No. 175, No. 450, No. 662, No. 846 and No. 311. The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has made unusual progress in the South during the past years, and in no other section have Electrical Workers made greater gains than in the Chattanooga area. The five local unions here embrace electrical workers in the general trade, in the radio field, among the linemen and in whatever activity that calls for labor in the electric business. No. 311 is at Lookout Mountain.

Elevator Constructors have a splendid organization in Local Union No. 77, and plays an important part in the general work of the Central Labor Union.

Federal Labor Unions in Chattanooga number four, these being No. 21046, No. 21061, No. 21983 and No. 21901. Several hundred workers are members of these four federal labor unions, charters for which are granted directly by the American Federation of Labor.

Firemen and Oilers Local Union No. 111 is filling an important place in the C. L. U.

Glass Blowers Local Unions No. 92 and No. 156, and Flint Glass Workers Local No. 51 constitute a strong force in the labor movement in this section.

Glazers Local Union No. 1181 is making rapid progress here, and has the active support of the labor movement.

Hod Carriers, Common and Construction Laborers International Union has seven local unions in the jurisdiction of the Central Labor Union of Chattanooga. A vast membership is embraced within these seven local unions, their designations being Locals No. 836, No. 846, No. 942, No. 1126, No. 1187, No. 1313 and No. 1320.

Hotel and Restaurant Employes, Culinary Workers, is doing a good work, and needs full support of the labor movement. Local No. 574 is appealing to all union people for support. All that is needed is for union men and women to eat in only such cafes and restaurants here union people work and the union house card is displayed on the walls of the place.

Labor League, a group of union workers banded together to promote the more general use of and demand for the union label on all purchases and the union button to be worn by union workmen and the shop card to be displayed upon the walls of all houses entitled to the use of same. The Label League is one of the most powerful influences within the Central Labor Union of any city.

Lathers Local Union No. 276 is one of the building trades, and this local has long been a great factor in the labor movement.

Machinists Local Union No. 56, Local No. 1450 and Local No. 1458, being chartered by one of the oldest international unions within the A. F. of L., represents a strong force in Chattanooga and throughout the country. The International Association of Machinists was organized in Atlanta, Ga., fifty years ago, and Local No. 56 is among the first locals to be formed in the very beginning of this powerful union. A new local has been formed in the last few months that take in auto mechanics. The local is No. 1001.

Mailers Local Union No. 92 has been of tremendous aid to the Central Labor Union here over past years.

Maintenance of Way Local Union No. 2685 is a splendid railway group.

Meat Cutters Local Union No. 600, and Local Union No. 323, are two strong organizations in the Chattanooga Central Labor Union.

Molders Local Union No. 8 and Local Union No. 53 embrace a membership that is always on the alert for the advancement of all labor.

Movie Operators Local Union No. 259 always answers present when any movement is on for the advancement of labor.

Musicians Local Union No. 80 has long been a pillar of strength in the local labor movement.

Operating Engineers Local Union No. 365, in which the men of this trade in the city proper belong, and Local Union No. 917, Soddy, for the workers in that section, are among Chattanooga's active affiliated local unions in the central body.

Painters Local Union No. 226 is an important factor in the building trades department of the Central Labor Union.

Paper Makers Local Union No. 219 and Local Union No. 362 represent a large and active force in the Chattanooga labor movement.

Pattern Makers local union is one of the oldest locals here and the international union dates back into the early stages of the formation of organized labor.

Plasterers Local Union No. 157 is another of the building trades

MORE ABOUT

lishing the Chattanooga Labor World. Mr. Cohen retired from the field and went over to Memphis, where he founded the Memphis Labor Review, now grown into one of the really strong labor papers of the country. Mr. Carter remained here, and Mr. Neil J. Crowley became active with him in the publication of The Labor World. After a while, these men became convinced that a labor paper owned and operated by the Central Labor union could render a far greater service to labor than it could as the property of individuals.

So the Central Labor union purchased The Chattanooga Labor World when it was not quite two years old. A publication board was appointed by the Central Labor union to have charge of the paper. R. M. Cooke was employed as editor of the paper in the late summer of 1917, and held that position continuously until 1935, when his election to public office led him to believe that he should sever his connection with The Labor World.

T. R. Cuthbert was then selected by the Central Labor union to serve as editor of The Labor World. "Tommy," as he is affectionately called by the thousands of unionists and their friends here, has been on the job continuously since that time.

The men above named, and the officers of the Central Labor union during the past twenty-five years, and the committees appointed by the Central Body to manage the Chattanooga Labor World, could tell a thrilling story about this paper were they so inclined to go into details. They have had to meet every condition in life, every opposition shrewd minds could muster, every difficulty that cunning, scheming agencies of labor's enemies could throw into their pathway.

On the other hand, they have had the hearty co-operation of real trades unionists, the sympathetic and effective support of many people in the business world who appreciated the good work being done by the Chattanooga Labor World, and the whole-hearted indorsement of men and women in all walks of life who are interested in the elevation of society and the advancement of civilization. The Labor World has championed every just cause that has agitated this community since it was founded twenty-five years ago. Likewise, it has bitterly opposed, many times single-handed and alone, every movement put forth by scheming individuals or groups the purpose of which was to feather the nest of a few and work a hardship upon the many.

Many splendid victories have been won by organized labor in the Chattanooga district during the past quarter of a century, and in every contest the Chattanooga Labor World has been in the thick of the fray, and it is safe to say that every victory won by labor, every advancement made by the laboring people, are due in large measure to the influence and fine work done by The Labor World. Nor can the services of this paper be measured only by the work it has done, the direct work. Many, many efforts would have been made to weaken labor that were never made, simply because those behind such contemplated efforts feared the exposure and opposition that they knew would be coming from The Labor World, should they try to put their plans into effect.

I well remember some of the great work done by the Chattanooga Labor World. I recall the big textile strike in this city back in 1917. At that time I was editor of the Asheville Labor Advocate, Asheville, N. C., and received The Labor World on exchange each week. I think it was about that time that the Central Labor union took over The Labor World and employed Bob Cooke as editor. The fearless fight waged by The Labor World in that struggle, the big, black headlines that told of the dastardly things being done to the textile workers during their strike by hired thugs and imported strikebreakers, inspired the textile workers, aroused all labor in Chattanooga, and attracted the attention of the whole southland. Thirteen weeks that fight raged, and in it all The Labor World was telling the facts, challenging the big moguls of the textile world, appealing to the citizens of this section for fair play, for decent conduct on the part of industry. The Chattanooga Central Labor union raised and put into that textile strike during its thirteen weeks duration the sum of $17,000. The effect of that contest and labor's support of the textile workers lives to this day, not only in Chattanooga but throughout America.

Such loyal and effective support as that given by labor to their fellow-workers in distress could never been so great had it not been for the fact that The Labor World was fearlessly telling the story and presenting the facts to the public every week.

Then came the street car strike, that same year, as I recall it. Once again The Labor World went into the thick of the fray, bearing the brunt of the battle. Back in those days public utilities of the country maintained a strike-breaking force of thugs and gunmen, escaped convicts and ex-convicts, who did nothing else but go into cities where street car men were on strike and serve as strikebreakers. It was because The Labor World told the truth about these thugs that an aroused public opinion here and throughout the country as a result of like publication in all sections forced public utilities to refrain from using such barbaric tactics in fighting men in their employ, all of whom in the Chattanooga strike were natives of this section. Today, employes of the street railway company here are union men, working under union agreement, and harmony prevails in that great public service. The Labor World is entitled to much credit for this greatly improved condition.

Other major contests in which organized labor was forced to fight for its right to organize have a voice in wages, hours and conditions of employment here in Chattanooga was the strike at the Lucey Manufacturing company, sometime after the street car strike. Then came the strike at the plant of the Mascot Stove company, followed shortly by the general strike of the railroad shopmen. In all of these, and in many smaller strikes since that time, The Labor World has been in the very front lines of attack. It has mattered not how big the strike might be, nor how few might be the workers in an unheralded contest for their protection, The Labor World has been right there, battling, speaking, pleading, daring the wrongdoer and defying the unjust. No contest has been too large, no injustice to a workingman too small, for The Labor World to proclaim the truth and expose the facts in the case.

The pleasing feature, however, in the life and work and activities of The Labor World, is found in the high esteem in which the paper is now held by all people. This high plane upon which The Labor World is so firmly placed was reached because it has been used by labor for labor, and has at all times been firm with its own friends and fair to all enemies; fearless in all contests with employers where labor's rights had been invaded, and co-operative with all employers who were willing to meet labor half-way. Proof of these assertions is found in many instances. There was Col. C. S. Steward, long time president of the D. M. Steward Manufacturing company and served as president of the Manufacturers Association. His understanding, his fairness, his cooperation with labor in Chattanooga is one of the bright chapters in labor's history. That gentleman became interested in labor through the presentation of labor's principles in the columns of The Labor World.

Then there was Mr. J. J. Mahoney, general manager for many years of the Cahill Manufacturing company, and also served as president of the Manufacturers Association. Labor won his high regard and powerful friendship largely through things he read about labor in The Labor World. There are and have been many others like Col. Steward and Mr. Mahoney whose kindly interest and friendship greatly aided labor in Chattanooga in making its splendid gains. In all probability these fine men would never have become interested in organized labor had it not been for the fact that The Labor World, telling of labor's hopes and aspirations, achievements of the past and determinations for the future, was read by them and appealed to them.

The Labor World led the fight for the organization of many local unions, among them being the United Mine Workers. Years ago this paper made it possible for the miners in this district to organize, and the organization spread from this district into other parts of this and adjoining states. In fact, every local union formed in the Chattanooga area during the past quarter of a century has had the loyal support of the Chattanooga Labor World. It is and has been throughout the years a strong factor in the success for all local unions. Being owned and operated by labor, it can serve labor at all times.

In a business way, The Labor World has been built upon a firm foundation. It solicits advertisements only upon a business basis—that is, it offers the advertiser a medium through which he can reach the greatest buying public in any community, the wage-earners. Unless the advertiser is convinced that he is getting value received for the money he spends, The Labor World does not ask him to advertise in its columns. This paper has an excellent standing in the business world in Chattanooga, because it is conducted upon a business basis.

The Labor World has been in the hands of good men. Bob Cooke, for so many years editor and manager of the paper, is now a city commissioner, a position which he has held for five years with credit to himself and great honor to the labor movement. He put the best years of his life into The Labor World, and his services to labor can never be calculated in dollars and cents.

Tommy Cuthbert is doing a good job as editor of The Labor World. Officers and members of the Central Labor union are loyally supporting him in his work. The majority of the local unions in the city, I am informed, support The Labor World in splendid manner. It is their own paper, and naturally they support the publication.

The Labor World is a constant, continuous, powerful, indispensable protection for every man and woman who work for wages in this vicinity. Let there be no mistake about this fact. Many things of ill nature would be done to labor in Chattanooga were it not for the fact that those who would like to do these things fear the publicity that would be given their attempts by The Labor World. I think I know something of the power and the powerful value of publicity. I think all union people will agree with me that the labor movement in Chattanooga would not be what it is today had it not been for the Chattanooga Labor World. The union man who fails to read The Labor World is failing to read the only paper published in this vicinity solely for his benefit. The local union that fails to take part in the support of The Labor World is withholding that local's support from the only publication in this vicinity that exists solely for the protection of the membership of that local union.

Let all of us in labor join in celebrating the Silver Anniversary of one of the most powerful labor papers in the south, and proudly proclaim our determination to make The Labor World a bigger and better paper in each succeeding year, to the end that it may continue to serve labor in this vicinity for another twenty-five years when your children may join in celebrating the Golden Anniversary of Chattanooga labor's own labor paper.

Communist Heads Of Fur Workers Get Jail Terms

New York City.—Ben Gold and Irving Potash, Communist leaders of the International Fur Workers union, CIO affiliate, received one year each, the maximum prison term possible under their conviction of conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust act through the use of terrorism to control jobs in the New York fur industry in 1932 and 1933. They were then heads of the defunct Needle Trades Industrial union.

Gold was also fined $2,500. Potash, manager of the Furriers Joint Council, was fined $2,000. Three other union officers were sentenced to jail terms of six months. Six others were given shorter prison sentences.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Tax Replacement Set-Back

Keen disappointment was felt by Tennessee representatives and distressed Tennessee counties when on Friday the TVA sub-commiittee of the house military affairs committee voted, 6 to 3, to recommend that all tax replacement bills be tabled. A supreme effort had been made to secure agreement by the hostile sub-committee on a tax replacement measure. Many proposals were made, but all of no avail. The recommendation will be submitted to the whole committee next week, where the vote will be extremely close.

The deciding ballot may be cast by Chairman May. Appeals from the district by officials and interested citizens have made an impression on him. Your representative urges that letters and telegrams be sent to Mr. May picturing the chaos that will result in school and county services if his committee does not act favorably.

Wage and Hour Amendments

The house this week began consideration of amendments to the wage and hour act. Three bills are before the house—the Norton bill, the Ramspeck bill and the Barden bill. The procedure for consideration of the amendments is very confused. A determined effort will be made to cut the heart out of the act.

A majority of the members appear to believe in the law and would like to improve it by clarifying certain sections and eliminating some inequalities that have arisen in its administration. But the fear that the amendments might lead to the law's repeal or emasculation may result in no amendments being made.

Under these circumstances, President Roosevelt has made an appeal for postponement of plans for amendment to next year. By that time, he says, "we shall know a great deal more about the subject." And he also pointed out that the wage and hour division will have had an opportunity to strengthen its administrative machinery and should be in a better position to offer advice as to how to make the law more practical and easier of enforcement.

Action in the Senate

The senate this week sustained the previous action of the house in increasing the appropriation for the CCC so as to prevent camps being closed. It also restored two-thirds of the funds which the house had cut from the appropriation for the national labor relations board.

The Tombigbee project for linking the Tennessee river with the Gulf of Mexico at Mobile was enthusiastically revived several weeks ago when the senate committee recommended an appropriation for that huge project. The enthusiasm was short lived, however, as the senate this week eliminated Tombigbee from the rivers and harbors bill. This project, which is recommended by the corps of engineers, will be a matter of controversy for years to come. It is of importance to the Third district, and interested citizens will do well to study the details of the proposal.

Democratic Women Come to Washington

The National Institute of Government, sponsored by the women's division of the democratic national committee, will have its first meeting in Washington beginning May 2. This committee will [illegible] women leaders and party work[illegible] an opportunity to study the dem[illegible]cratic record on the scene of [illegible]tional action, and to confer w[illegible] national leaders. Seven cab[illegible] members and Mrs. Roosevelt w[illegible] be among the speakers.

The Tennessee delegation h[illegible] made plans to entertain the [illegible] delegates from Tennessee at[illegible] breakfast on Friday morning, M[illegible] 3. Your representative is ant[illegible]pating with pleasure the arrival [illegible] the large number of delega[illegible] from the Third district.

Rights —

If civilization is to survive, [illegible] rights of the smaller nations to [illegible] dependence, to their territorial [illegible] tegrity and to unimpeded oppo[illegible]nity for self-government must [illegible] respected by their more power[illegible] neighbors.—President Franklin Roosevelt.

W. L. GARDNER MOST FAITHFUL OVER 30 YEARS

Walter Gardner, member of Typographical union, might be considered one of the most faithful members of organized labor in all the host of good trades-unionists. It was Walter Gardner who composed one of the group of men who put up the money to get The Labor World started some 25 years ago, and with the exception of one year, when he was out of the city, he has served on the board of directors continuously.

He has in addition been a regular delegate to Central Body from the Typos for over thirty years, this fine record being broken through no fault of his own when the Typographical locals were "disassociated" a few weeks ago. When that fateful evening came, because of men like Walter Gardner, it would not have taken much for Central Body to have rared up and refused to unseat those men.

He was invited by Central Body to continue his attendance and act as if nothing had happened, although he could not be recognized with a vote on the floor.

The Labor World takes this occasion to pay tribute to him for the splendid support and co-operation he has shown.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL CHATTANOOGA

FRIDAY, MAY 3, 1940

Insignia of Fair Play

Increased activity on behalf of the union label is reported by labor papers in many sections. Business men who handle union label products and employ union workers are benefitting from this activity.

Union men and women everywhere are alert to the need of promoting the demand for union label goods and services.

They know that the union label is notification to the purchaser that goods bearing it are made by American wage earners receiving fair wages and working under good conditions.

They are emphasizing that the union label is an insignia of American fair play and as such is deserving of the support of every American who has the interests of his country at heart.

Active Interest Urged

William Green recently pointed out something that union members sometimes forget. In his series of articles replying to attacks by Columnist Westbrook Pegler on the American Federation of Labor, President Green said:

"If members of a union are indifferent, then the union may naturaly fail to be responsive to their needs. But if the members of a union take an active part in its affairs, as they should, then they can run their own organization as the majority wishes. The same principle holds true of government in our cities, states, and nation."

25 Years of Service

This issue of The Labor World starts off our Silver Anniversary volume—Number Twenty-Five, in cold unadorned figures. But we have embellished these figures into type that tells short stories of progress of the labor movement in this city. Short stories of local unions now existing, doing a humane job, a constructive job for our citizenship, whether in the labor movement or out of it. In the telling of this story we feel proud of the part that The Labor World has had in our labor movement's successes and failures, its happy times and moments of despair.

Our happy times have been more numerous than those dark moments. This had to be so, otherwise we would have folded up long years ago. We do not mean that times of despair have been few, but rather we mean that a light on the horizon has never been lost sight of, a light that has never been blotted out and which has caused us never to lose hope and faith in a just cause.

We have been told the average life of business ventures is five years. We have outlived that span of time five fold, and when another twenty-five years rolls around, we will be here. Maybe not at the same old stand, but every Thursday night will see The Labor World in the postoffice ready to be delivered the next morning to members of organized labor and to other interested readers.

There must have been a good reason for a labor paper, small in resources, financially speaking, to have lived so long and to have earned the respect we are told we enjoy in this community.

Pardon us if we seem to boast, but once every twenty-five years one might be allowed that privilege. The Labor World is operated on a code of ethics that is far more valuable than financial gain. This code we speak of has been laid down from its inception by the owners of this paper, the Chattanooga Central Labor Union.

Our only purpose in life is to be a medium through which organized labor can voice its side of life's complex story. We tell our views, take the part of the underdog, and hang the cost. While telling that story, we might offend interests that can diminish our advertising volume. It has frequently occurred that actual advertising business has been lost because of our rigid defense of the rights and privileges of the working man or woman. In such instances, we not only lose such business, we refuse to accept it.

But in all our disputes, after the battle is over, our conduct has been such that the very people with whom we have disagreed are willing to receive us into their offices and carry on relations that existed previously.

Our history has not been one of fighting and disagreeing. Far from it. Whenever there has been a public cause, some goal to be achieved that will build up our community, The Labor World has helped point the way for the labor movement to follow. And we believe that as far as our limited resources have allowed, we have carried our share of the responsibility and credit for this fine community in which we live.

In this issue the merchants and business people of Chattanooga have been most generous. While we term the volume of advertising as generous, we know that every bit of advertising herein contained carries a message from the advertiser to union readers that will prove to be a good business investment. Our readers READ The Labor World from front page to back, and testimony of merchants indicate that advertisements placed in The Labor World bring good returns in sales volume.

As an interesting sidelight, we call attention to the absolute absence of advertisements from "A Friend." We flatly reject such contributions. Such "advertisements" are of no value to the person placing them because of anonymity, and we do not solicit contributions. We have sold advertising.

We hope that you enjoy this issue. We have worked hard on it to make it a credit to a paper that is rounding out twenty-five years of experience, during which time no business house has marked off one penny owed to it by this paper, nor have we been sued for any bill owed. We have paid our way, and we look any one in the eye with a feeling of self-respect.

We hope not to appear too cocky this week. Many mistakes have been made, and none have been quicker than we to remedy them when convinced we have been in error.

To the members of organized labor of this city, the owners of this paper, we have dedicated the future. The years to come hold grave problems that must be solved. We hope the past twenty-five years have so tempered us and given us wisdom to cope with those problems in calm and patriotic manner.

We believe that the presence of The Labor World in this community has caused our city to be free of violence in capital disputes with working people. While our punches have never been softened, we always advocate carrying on in a manner that is law-abiding and Christian. Had there been no Labor World it is quite probable that inflamed passions would have carried aroused working people to points that would have been regretted in moments of retrospect. This paper has been a safety valve more efficient and permanent than tear gas, militia and gun-thugs.

So let us say to our fellow citizens that we are proud of our home city. We want the same to be said of us, and we pledge that our sights shall never be lowered.

A Mark to Shoot At

In this issue The Labor World s progress of our movement in its va industrial, civic and economic pl One outstanding accomplishment, ever, which has heretofore been possibly too little attention is our for recognition in the administrati various governmental affairs. Unti cent years negligible progress has made along this line locally, and alth labor had carved many notches o political gun and had furnished the ance of power to place men in p positions in state, national and loc fairs, active trades unionists had to receive just and proper recognitio major local posts.

On another page of today's L World a paid greeting and congra tory message brings vividly to mind workers of Chattanooga regard a outstanding accomplishment and which we earnestly refer to the co eration of our hundreds of reade other communities throughout the So The Department of Public Uti Grounds and Buildings (Parks, P grounds, Recreation, etc.) signs its sage to The Labor World as follo "This Department is under the execu direction of: Bob Cooke, Typograph No. 89, Commissioner; Johnny Ma ney, Musicians No. 80, Secretary; R Olgiati, Bricklayers No. 6, Superint ent of Parks; Ed Hargraves, Teac No. 246, Director of Recreation; G Gamble, Truck Drivers No. 515, sistant Superintendent of Parks."

This by no means, we are infor constitutes a complete list of active men in that Department, although total number of employees is far than in any other branch of the city ernment. But the food for thought "sermon") is drawn from the w "this Department is under the execu direction of", etc.

It is worthy of note, also, that small organization has made an envi and widely recognized record for ciency in the administration of its af and in the disbursement of public mo allotted to it. No working man or w an need have cause to apologize for business ability of any of those name

Time was, and not so many years when organized labor frequently used combined influence in urging men public office to appoint active mem to minor clerkships or similar posts. we now have a city department u the executive direction of five sin trades unionists with a record of ser to our movement behind them is, we tend, a "mark to shoot at" and an spiration for our members to seek demand further recognition for movement in governmental affairs. Labor World is proud of having had spokesman for organized workers, a in the accomplishment outlined, pledges its best effort to a continua of the battle on this, to us, a practic new "front."

Good Time for Harmony

The Chickamauga Celebration h planned for this coming Labor should be a good time for a show of mony and pride in our city by all gro of Chattanoogans. The committee headed by Mark Wilson and is compo of industrialists, merchants and work men.

The way things have been work out thus far indicates that past feeli of ill-will between these groups are v ishing, and maybe we are going into era in which we are all for Chattano and everybody in Chattanooga.

Radio Union, Although Young, Has Good Growth

Chattanooga Radio Workers, Local Union No. 662, was chartered February 12, 1938. Its charter members were: Jean Paul Jones, president; Charles E. Curle, vice-president; Hubert Frazier, recording secretary; J. Claud Hall, financial secretary; Charles Smith, treasurer; Hubert H. Houston, L. C. Pinson, J. Gordon Orrell, W. C. Williams and E. E. Driggans.

Having one of the youngest, and yet one of the biggest industries of today, Local Union No. 662 has had many hard battles to fight.

President

JEAN PAUL JONES

Though about 80 per cent strong in Chattanooga now, they have had to educate the employers and the public in the value of having organized radio workers.

Three months after installation of charter, Local 662 was forced to call a strike. This strike ended after ten days of negotiation with persons concerned and they obtained a closed-shop contract, with an increase of 25 per cent in wages, shorter working hours, and better working conditions. Local No. 662 has a closed-shop agreement with some of the leading concerns of Chattanooga, including the two radio stations, and the relationship between these employers and the members is very amicable.

Radio Workers, Local Union No. 662, see a great future in the radio field. They have given their services to a class in the vocational school of Chattanooga for training the future radio worker. The radio industry is growing so fast and with the constant changes and improvements, it is necessary that the older worker continue his study in this line in order to give the best service to his employer and to the public.

In December, 1938, members of Local No. 662 who were working under unfair conditions for two concerns in Chattanooga and being unable to adjust their grievance otherwise, were forced to strike. One of the firms carried their case against Local 662 to court whereby a decision was rendered in favor of the members of the local union. Officers of Local 662 assured this firm that they only wanted fair working conditions and livable wages for their members and not to work any undue hardship on the management. This case was worked out satisfactorily to the management and members of this local, and their relationship is very pleasant now and profitable to both.

However, the strike is still in effect with the firm who has consistently refused to co-operate with the organized workers, and Local 662 has maintained a one-man picket at this location since date of strike.

The officers of Local 662 are anxious to make it clear that at no time are they trying to ask more of the employer than he is able to give. They are willing to gradually grow with him in his business whereby both, employer and employe, can receive benefits of improved business and a harmonious relationship. Their feelings have been to co-operate with the employer towards making his radio business profitable; protecting the public from racketeers in the industry, and bettering the conditions of the radio workers themselves.

The present officers in Radio Workers, Local Union No. 662, are: Jean Paul Jones, president; Paul McCampbell, vice-president; W. R. Owens, recording secretary; J. C. Hall, financial secretary, and Chas. C. Smith, treasurer.

Movie Operators Constructive

Fine Example of What Union Will Do For Membership

One of the strongest local unions in Chattanooga, and yet one that has had a stormy career, is Local No. 259 of the Moving Picture Machine Operators. This organization was first chartered as an auxiliary local on the 17th day of October, 1910. At that time the moving picture had just entered the field of amusement and was a new industry in every respect. The moving picture operators were directed in their organization work by the long established theatrical unions. The auxiliary charter was issued to: Edward Healy, Elbert Lowry, George D. Overend, Julian Hawkins, Cleve Smith, Shelly Sands, W. L. Brown, Leo Nichols, Joe McDowell, Tom Witt.

Many problems naturally confronted this newly organized group in an industry as new as the moving picture industry was at that time. There was no limit to hours of labor, and the general conditions in Chattanooga called for working from ten to thirteen hours a day for $6 to $12 per week, and only one man drew this higher figure.

On September 1, 1912, the local union was given a direct charter by the I. A. T. S. E., Local No. 259, Moving Picture Machine Operators' union. By Jan. 1, 1913, the union had succeeded in gaining recognition by the picture show owners and obtained a contract for a year.

Charter members of Local No. 259 contained many of the names of those to whom the auxiliary charter had been granted two years previously. Because of the long history and many battles waged and victories won by Local No. 259, the complete charter list of this local is herewith given as follows:

George D. Overend, Thomas F. Roberts, Alfred H. Green, Arthur C. Kamin, Tom Witt, W. L. Brown, Felix Hamil, Leo Nichols, Robert G. Stute, Edward Healy, J. C. Harkins, Thomas L. Warren, Joe McDowell and Elbert Lowry.

Many improvements were made in the conditions of the moving picture operators during the first year of the life of Local No. 259. One moving picture owner in Chattanooga announced, however, that he was going to break this "nickel union," referring to the Moving Picture Operators' Nnion No. 259. A battle ensued between the union and this owner that grew so intense that older people in the labor movement still talk about the great battle. Other picture houses in the city signed, and at the end of the three months' period from the day stroy this "nickel union" had signed up with the local.

By the first of 1917 the union had advanced its scale from the original $6 to $12 per week to $22.50, and had obtained some improved working conditions. In the early years of the picture show business the cubbyholes where projection machines were placed and which the operators had to turn by hand were poorly ventilated, and as a consequence of the condition many operators over the country became victims of tuberculosis The union waged consistent effort for improvement of conditions so that men's health would not be impaired at their work.

During the World War many difficulties were encountered by the members of the local union, as nine of the best men had voluntereed for service. Harmonious relationship, however, had been established by that time between the union and the management of the several show houses, and as the moving picture business grew the local union expanded.

In 1928 the sound pictures came into the industry and completely revolutionized the moving picture business. Hardly had the industry become settled, with the new advancement in science, when the period of the depression set in. Another effort was made during the depression to destroy the local union by a chain concern with houses in Chattanooga, and another battle raged between the union and the management, but Local No. 259 had early in its existence become affiliated with the Chattanooga Central Labor Union and was a recognized important factor in the general labor movement in the city. When the battle raged against the local union in its last contest the Central Labor Union stood squarely to its affiliate and a great victory was won.

A. C. Kamin was one of the leaders in Local No. 259 throughout all of these years and had served the Central Labor Union for many years as secretary, later being elected president of the Central Body in which capacity he served for five years. He is today recognized as one of the wisest leaders in the labor movement in Chattanooga.

Present officers of Local No. 259 are as follows:

J. B. Lowry, president

Leo Vick, vice-president and treasurer.

George D. Overend, secretary

Charles Curle, financial secretary

Felix Hamil, business agent.

It is worthy of note that Business Agent Hamil was one of the charter members of Local No. 259, while President Lowry is a brother of one of the signers of the application for the charter.

"Mother" Healy

EDWARD HEALY

In all of the struggles of Local No. 259, in many of which the local fought for its very existence, an interesting character has played an important part. Edward Healy, a charter member of Local No. 259 and one of its most ardent leaders today, has exerted an unusual influence over the membership and friends of No. 259. He is known in the moving picture field as "Mother Healy" because of his intense interest in the welfare of the members of the union.

The members of this organization enjoy splendid working conditions, but the members of the local have had to battle for these excellent conditions and fight in season and out in the establishment of the present wage rate. Local No. 259 is an outstanding example of what men can do to better their conditions when they are willing to stand together and take the bitter with the sweet. They did not attain their position overnight, nor was any of it brought to them on a silver platter. They formed their union, paid their dues, attended their meetings, stuck together, and their efforts have been highly rewarded.

RAILWAY MACHINISTS HAVE FINE HISTORY

On September 18, 1920, Railroad Machinist Local No. 450 was chartered. Members of this local consist of 380 men who withdrew from Machinist Local No. 56, which had a membership of 1,080 and was too large to function to the best advantage of the members. However this was a friendly separation, and the local has grown to a large and active membership.

Two active members in Local No. 1450 are T. F. Hall and J. C. Rogers. These two men are the only living charter members of their local's parent local—No. 56—and have held offices in both locals.

In 1922 Machinists Local No. 450 had to weather a general strike of railroad machinists which lasted eighty days. This strike was due to the employes being given an instant wage cuts and no recognition of overtime for Sundays and holidays worked. However, at the end of eighty days, representatives of the two sides adjusted the matter to the extent that the men went back to their work and have gradually acquired an increase in their wage scale and improvement in their working conditions.

Members of Local No. 1450 now enjoy a better understanding between employer and employe and work under closed shop contracts. They are able to settle questions now with a discussion at a conference table with representatives of each side which in the past could not have been ironed out so easily.

Present officers are Z. A. McCary, president; Leroy Bolling, vice president; Reese Davis, financial secretary; Burt Smith, recording secretary, and Ed Seagel, conductor.

Enriched

There is not a city or county throughout the nation which has not been enriched in some tangible way—a new or improved school, a water plant, new sewerage lines, a park or a swimming pool—through the labor of WPA workers.—Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner.

Common Enemy

Economic depression is an enemy which all countries have in common. The wide range and the success of its conquests have depended in a large part on the old strategy of playing one country against another until thus weakened none is able to withstand its advances. The best defense against economic depression lies in greater economic co-operation among nations—From a study of "Employment, Wages and International Trade," International Labor Office, Geneva, Switzerland.

AFL Lumber Workers Win Election Asked By Mill Company

Seattle, Wash.—In the first employer-requested plant election ever held in Seattle, the A. F. of L. Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union No. 2618 won a decisive victory over the International Woodworkers of America, CIO.

The vote was 218 to 95 in favor of the A. F. of L. union, the national labor relations board announced following the balloting at the Elliott Bay Mill company.

The election culminated a two-year period of jurisdictional controversy.

Oper. Engineers Have Grown Fast

The International Union of Operating Engineers was organized in 1897 but was then known as Steam Shovel & Dredgemen's Local. In 1933 a charter was issued to International Union of Operating Engineers Local No. 917 in Knoxville, Tennessee, but in 1938 this local was moved to Chattanooga, Tennessee, which is more centrally located, and a new charter issued.

Beginning with a membership of 25, this local has grown to a membership of approximately 300. These members consist of employes from various departments of construction where machinery is used, and their jurisdiction covers about 52 counties in Eastern Tennessee.

Officers of Local No. 917 report that they still have many problems to solve but are growing in membership and with good new contracts.

Officers of Local No. 917 are: John L. Hand, president; Fred Wilkerson, vice president; Fred F. Limming, financial secretary; Virgil Rader, recording secretary.

Local 917's business representative, Almand Crawford, died one week before this issue went to press.

Unions File Charges Against 9 Sawmills

Seattle, Wash. — Approximately 1,400 men are involved in a dispute between sawmill operators in nine Seattle mills and American Federation of Labor unions. The dispute has been submitted to the National Labor Relations Board for action, on charges of unfair labor practices, filed by union officials.

The charges were filed by Local No. 2519 of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union. The nine mills are accused of "failure to bargain in good faith" with the union.

Credit Unions Aid to Better Living, Modern Means of Solving Ancient Problem, Says Senator Mead

Washington.—Credit unions were warmly praised by Senator James M. Mead, of New York, in a radio address to the nation over the Mutual network.

Mead declared credit unions are the modern means of solving a problem of the common man as old as the ages. He said they had proved their worth and predicted their continued growth because they meet "so admirably the workingmen's need for financial services."

Problem of Usury Old.

Through the credit union, a cooperative finance society which working people carry on within their own group, the wage-earner of moderate income is enabled to conduct his finances in an orderly manner and thus keep his personal and family life on a sound basis, said Mead. Lack of intelligent management leads directly to debt and not infrequently results in disruption of families and permanent dislocation of individual lives.

Throughout the ages, the speaker pointed out, the common man has been the prey of usurers who took advantage of his emergency needs for money to get him so deeply in debt that he could not escape for years, perhaps for his whole life. Present times are no exception, he declared, and indeed modern conditions in some respects are especially encouraging to the growth of money lending at excessive interest rates.

Remedy Is Found.

Thirty years ago, Senator Mead continued, the men and women of moderate income began to discover that they had it within their own power to provide for their legitimate money needs and thus make recourse to the usurer unnecessary.

Combining their small savings month by month they found that they could soon build up a substantial fund from which each could borrow at need, paying a reasonable interest and repaying the loan by regular installments out of their pay envelopes. Thus the credit union was born, Mead said.

Credit unions now number 8,500, with a total enrollment of 2,500,000. Last year, Senator Mead added, they loaned their members a quarter of a billion dollars.

Tacoma Firm Signs Union Label Pact With Glove Workers

Wewanee, Ill. — A union label agreement with the North Star Manufacturing company, of Tacoma, Wash., has been negotiated for the International Glove Workers' Union of America, by H. S. McIlvaigh, secretary of the Tacoma Central Labor union, and officers of Tacoma Glove Workers' union, No. 102, says an announcement by Anton White, secretary-treasurer of the international union, with headquarters here.

The North Star Manufacturing company manufactures a complete line of canvas, leather palm, jersey and rubberized gloves which now bear the union label. Their brand name is "Star Brand Gloves" and a few of their trade names for certain gloves are: White Ox, Big Champ, The Champ, Jupiter, Big Shot, Little Star, Duxbak, Brawny, Dubaroc, Little Champ, Viking, Big Stiff, etc.

The North Star Manufacturing company, even before unionized, was one of the best in the glove industry, which has been notorious for harboring some of the worst labor exploiters in the nation. It now pays virtually the best wages and has probably the best of working conditions in the glove industry.

All union members and their friends are urged to demand the Glove Workers' union label when buying gloves and mittens.

No Silicosis Cure Yet Discovered-

Banishing of Dust Only Sure Preventive, Experts Agreed

Geneva. — No silicosis cure has been found and elimination of dust from work places is the only eeffective preventive of the dread disease, expert opinion compiled by the International Labor Office here is agreed.

Drawing a distinction between silicosis and other lung affections, expert opinion is also agreed that X-rays alone cannot determine the extent to which silicosis has incapacitated a worker.

The labor office has just released a report of its second international conference on silicosis which met in Geneva in August-September, 1938. Among the medical authorities assembled from the principal industrial countries were Dr. R. R. Sayers, chief of the division of industrial health, United States public health service.

"Marked Progress" Reported.

Specially trained physicians, equipped with X-ray facilities, are needed for the satisfactory diagnosis of early silicosis, the conference found. But, it was added, "radiological findings do not necessarily bear any definite relation to the degree of incapacity."

Since the first international silicosis conference, called by the International Labor Office at Johannesburg in 1930, "marked progress" has been achieved in the field of research, according to the report; similarly, "much has been achieved in recent times in the ognition of the danger of dust evidenced by various laws and ulations that have been introd to control dust." More than fo five countries now list silicosis their workmen's compensation islation.

Cure Still Unknown.

No cure for silicosis or mean stimulating the elimination of ica from lungs have yet been covered, the authorities report the field of prevention, they ag that only the elimination of from working environments effective.

Union Pact Sets Legal Work Conditions And Pay in St. John Building Industry

St. John, N. B.—As a result of negotiations between the St. John Trades and Labor Council, building trades section, and the Canadian Construction association, St. John branch, an agreement has been reached on wages and working hours. Submitted to the provincial government, the schedule has been ratified and proclaimed under the industrial standards act.

Minimum wage for stone and marble masons, plasterers, bricklayers, ceramic and clay tile setters, is 90 cents an hour; for cement finishers, setters of asphalt and composition floor tile, terazzo layers, 70 cents an hour; for journeymen carpenters and joiners, 60 cents an hour; for first year apprentices, 30 cents an hour; second and third year apprentices, 40 and 50 cents an hour, respectively; for plumbers and steamfitters, 65 cents an hour; for journeymen painters, paperhangers and glazers, 65 cents for painting, and 55 cents an hour for all other work.

Eight hours will constitute a working day, except Saturday during June, July, August and September, when the work will be from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Time-and-half will be paid for overtime after regular day's work. On Sundays and certain specified holidays the rate will be double time.

The negotiations had been in progress for eight months. Participating only were unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The ratification and proclamation under the industrial standards legislation, make the new schedule the only legal rates of pay and working conditions for the St. John district. This embraces by specific agreement the area within 15 miles in all directions of the St. John courthouse. The agreement covers the period from April 1 to Dec. 31, inclusive, of this year.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramplike pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI'S principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

Street Car Man Does Good Job For Labor World

One of the livest trades unionists in the city today is the corresponding secretary for Local 1212, Street Car and Bus Drivers' union. His name is T. R. Underwood, Jr., and it is seen every week under the heading of Street Car and Bus Notes in The Labor World.

Brother Underwood has driven the route on the East Lake line for twelve years, and he is as much a fixture in that territory as is the vehicle he drives.

WHAT NEXT?

The General Machinery Corporation, Hamilton, Ohio, is making a new machine for making fibre milk containers and bottling the milk in one continuous operation. Blanks made of pine or spruce fibre are inserted into a magazine on the machine and come out the other end filled with milk and all ready for the seller or consumer.

In the construction of the new Wisconsin State Office building, at Madison, concrete is pumped vertically to a height of 185 feet, constituting a new altitude record, Business Week reports. Though the "mix" is thick and tacky, it is forced through a six-inch pipe by a Pumpcrete unit developed by Chain Belt Company of Milwaukee. A flexible nozzle hooked to the pipe takes the place of wheelbarrows in distributing the concrete.

Labor Held Big Factor in Success Of Washington State Apple Drive

Seattle, Wash.—Organized labor is credited with having been made a big contribution to the success of the campaign to reduce Washington's apple surplus.

Reviewing the apple situation in the current issue of "Better Fruit," J. D. Hamilton, Wenatchee shipper, says that reports indicate the apple surplus has been reduced to normal or less.

Paul Revelle, public relations director of the Washington State Federation of Labor, says the fundamental reason for the success has been the improved and sustained consumer-buying power injected into the battle by the organized labor movement and other civic-minded groups of citizens.

Labor's campaign to make the state and the nation apple-conscious was initiated early last fall by the Teamsters' Union of Seattle. It was adopted by the Washington State Federation of Labor, the American Federation of Labor and has been carried on by all unions affiliated with the State Federation.

James A. Taylor, president of the Washington State Federation of Labor; Dave Beck, international representative of the Teamsters' Union, and many other union officials and members were active in the drive.

Plumbers Local to Celebrate Golden Anniversary

LOCAL UNION 43 ORGANIZED FIFTY YEARS AGO IN CHATTANOOGA

Local Union No. 43, United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters, will celebrate its Golden Anniversary during August, the Local Union having been chartered on Aug. 25, 1890, thus becoming fifty years old next August. Names of the charter members have been lost, because the first few years of the International Union's history the International officers served without pay, and maintained their offices in their homes, consequently correct records of the organization could not be well kept.

In a letter of congratulation to the officers and members of the Local Union signed by General Secretary-Treasurer Thomas E. Burke, praising the membership for havink kept Local 43 alive and growing throughout half a century, some early history of the International Union was given. O. E. Cook, business representative of Local 43, has made effort to get information about the early membership of the Local, but most of them have passed on to their eternal reward. Among the charter members, or at least members in the early days of the Local Union, Representative Cook found that among the deceased charter members were L. M. Davis, James Garnier, E. Jones, A. A. Kunz, Gordon Lowery, H. A. Rice, H. G. Stormer.

Present officers of Local No. 43 are as follows:

G. D. Davis, president.

Edgar Jett, vice-president.

O. E. Cook, business representative.

E. S. Stacy, secretary-treasurer.

Ed Bork, Jr., recording secretary.

George Hayden, sentinel.

Executive Board: Ed Jett, D. H. Malone, A. (Sandy) Wheels, P. L. Willbait, Frank Liddle.

Finance Committee: John Cotter, S. H. Martin, H. H. Kelly.

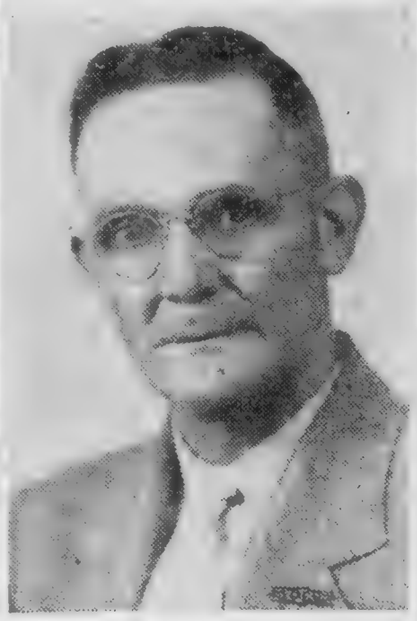
Concerning the Local Union and its plans for celebrating the 50th anniversary, General Secretary-Treasurer Thomas E. Burke wrote as follows to Business Representative O. E. Cook:

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"I have your letter on January 8th, wherein you desire information with regard to the date of the issuance of your Charter, which you say will be fifty years old in August of 1940.

"Our records show that your charter was issued on Aug. 25, 1890. I want to take this opportunity of congratulating you and your members on the maintaining of the Charter for half a century, and also for the activities and fine work that has been accomplished by your Local Union from the early pioneer days up to the present time.

"For your special information, the Charter that was issued to your local union on August 25, 1890, was signed by P. J. Quinlan, General President at that time, and R. A. O'Brien, Secretary-treasurer, who were the first two officers of the United Association. Patrick J. Quinlan died the first year in office; and Colonel O'Brien, as they used to call him, served a second term as Secretary-Treasurer. In those days their offices were in their homes. Prior to that time we had an organization of Plumbers and Gas Fitters and out of that international organization amalgamating with the independent unions and the unions of the Knights of Labor, which meeting was held in Washington, in October, 1889, the United Association was formed. I am just giving you this little bit of history reference so you will understand we had another international union before the U. A.



O. E. COOK

"Now, with regard to the names of the charter members you desire to secure. I want to say the records of the United Association were never properly kept for some years, or not until the establishment of the present index card system in 1907. We do have the old application cards of the men who were charter members of your Local Union, but there isn't one of these men who are members of your Local Union. Whether they went into business or joined some other locals later, or whether they are dead, we cannot tell you."

Workers in One State Gets Vast Sum in Year For Industrial Hurts

Albany, N. Y.—Nearly 28 million dollars was awarded in 77,357 compensable industrial accident cases closed in 1939 by the department of labor, Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller reported.

This amount, said Miss Miller, represents only the value of the compensation awarded to the injured workmen or their families and consists of biweekly payments to 76,593 injured employes who lost more than seven days working time or sustained some permanent disability and death benefits in 764 cases where the workmen were killed. It does not include the cost of medical and hospital care or expenses incident to administering the workmen's compensation law and maintaining insurance.

The compensation awards averaged $362 a case but ranged from many small awards for short temporary disability to a few very high awards for permanent total disability.

"All steel" office and factory buildings are being constructed for an industrial concern at Toccoa, Ga. The office building is of pressed steel panels and are welded construction throughout. It has no windows, is air-conditioned and flourescently lighted. The factory building has windows, but is of steel panel construction.

Negroes' Right to Jobs On N. Y. Transit Lines Now Held Assured

New York City.—The right of negro workers to employment on the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit system is assured, when the City of New York takes over the line, together with the Interborough Rapid Transit line in a unification program, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announces.

The announcement was made following the settlement of differences between the New York board of transportation, the mayor, and the Transport Workers' union, CIO, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen, over assumption of existing union contracts, when unification becomes effective May 15. Full assurance of the integration of negro workers in the transit systems was given to the N. A. A. C. P. by Mayor La Guardia.

At a hearing before the board of transportation, prior to the settlement, the N. A. A. C. P. expressed its determination to fight against a contract agreement with the brotherhood unions, which comprise 1,400 subway employes on the B. M. T., on the ground that the unions have specific clauses in their constitutions barring [illegible] workers.

At the end of the hearing, [illegible] H. Delaney, chairman of the board gave the N. A. A. C. P. full assurance that no discrimination against the employment of negroes in [illegible] category would be tolerated.

No Foreign Entanglements!

We are unalterably opposed to our nation becoming involved in European conflicts. We favor the exercise of neighborly and mediatorial influence by our Government in all efforts to promote peace. But in doing this we insist that our government pursue a judicious policy, exercising care and caution and a firm determination to avoid involvement in European wars.—Legislative Program, American Federation of Labor.

None But Union Molders Happy

Says the Oldest Member To the Youngest Member

Happy in the knowledge that their organization had contributed much to the life and well being of all the molders of Chattanooga and vicinity, a group of molders met on March 26, this year, at the home of their beloved leader for many years—Jim O'Connor, and planned a program of further expansion of their great union.

A request had been made to J. L. Heald, international representative of the Molders' union, by a representative of the Chattanooga Labor World, for a meeting of the officers of the three locals in Chattanooga. Mr. Heald, in arranging the meeting, found that it was the unanimous wish of the three locals that the meeting be held at the home of Mr. O'Connor, who has been an active member and leader in Local No. 53 since 1887.

Further good fortune smiled upon the meeting when it was discovered that Shelley Walden, 5th vice president of the International Molders' Union, would be in Chattanooga on that day, and he also attended the gathering.

There are three local unions of the Molders in Chattanooga—Nos. 53, 8, 155. Local No. 53 is the original molders' union of this vicinity, and was organized March 1, 1884, which has led the fight fearlessly for every advancement that has been made by the molders of Chattanooga. It was because of Mr. O'Connor's faithful leadership and loyal work throughout the past half century that prompted his friends to hold the meeting at his home, and Mr. O'Connor was a happy Irishman indeed. Members of the three unions. the local representative, the international representative and an international officer came to his home.

A picture was made of the youngest member of the Chattanooga local unions, J. E. Johnson, and Mr. O'Connor, who is one of the oldest members of the Chattanooga locals, with Mr. Shelley Walden, fifth vice president of the international union. The picture is significant in that the history of the Molders' union during that period of time between the 76-year-old O'Connor and the 22-year-old Johnson is a history of great achievement in the advancement of wages, shortening of hours, and the improvement of working conditions for the men who work at this trade.

Further significance in the photograph is that of the presence of an international officer, which clearly indicates that great internation's constant support of local unions throughout the North American continent.

Still further significance of the picture is the permanency of the Molders' union, which protected the 76-year-old O'Connor when he was a lad, and protects the 22-year-old Johnson, who has just completed his apprenticeship and become a journeyman.

Charter members of Local No. 53 are the following:

Robert Collins, the local's first president
E. N. Guille, recording secretary
David Loughman, corresponding representative
Wm. Dempsy, vice president
Thomas Gilmore, secretary-treasurer

The above named men assumed office at installation of the charter F. Fitzpatrick was international president, and James Mooney was international secretary. Local No. 53 has made a great record in Chattanooga and vicinity and is one of the strongest organizations of this section. Present officers of this local union are:

T. J. Reed, president
C. F. Alred, vice president
M. T. Brock, recording secretary
T. T. Buchanan, financial secretary
R. L. Mooney, corresponding representative
W. H. Cordell, treasurer

Local Union No. 8 was chartered June 2, 1936. Charter members and the local's first officers were as follows:

N. L. Brock, president
O. P. Reagan, recording secretary
J. A. Brown, corresponding representative and financial secretary.
S. B. Workman, vice president.
Jake Ellis

Present officers of Local No. 8 are as follows:

R. C. Bollin, president
John Connor, vice president
Luther Brown, recording secretary
Sam Willman, financial secretary
W. R. Neely, treasurer

Local No. 155 was chartered July 9, 1937, and the following were the charter members and first officers:

H. Frank Zeigler, president.
Louis Goggins, vice president
B. Wamply, recording secretary
Roy Ogle, recording representative
Ray Grant, financial secretary
Robert Norton, treasurer

Some of the charter members and first officers of Local No. 155 continue to serve in official capacity in their local union, the present officers being:

Louis Goggins, president
Haskel Mitchum, vice-president.
B. Wamply, recording secretary
A. D. Holland, treasurer
Robert Norton, financial secretary

The three locals in Chattanooga, with five locals in surrounding towns, have formed a Conference Board for Chattanooga and vicinity. The nearby locals represented in the conference are as follows:

Local No. 117—Bridgeport, Ala.
Local No. 47—Gadsden, Ala.
Local No. 194—Cleveland, Tenn.
Local No. 165—South Pittsburg, Tenn.
Local No. 234—Rome, Ga.

Establishment of the Conference Board for Chattanooga and Vicinity was made necessary because of the rapid growth in membership of the local unions during the past few years. J. D. Doyle is president of the Chattanooga and Vicinity Conference Board, and Taylor Buchanan is secretary-treasurer of the board. W. H. Cordell has been elected by the Conference Board as representative of the Molders' unions in Chattanooga. All questions of interest to the molders in Chattanooga and the above named nearby towns are handled by this Conference Board.

All of the above facts in connection with the molders in Chattanooga and vicinity were brought out at the meeting at the home of Mr. O'Connor. One of the officials at the meeting remarked upon the happiness and contentment of Mr. O'Connor, and Mr. O'Connor aptly

Keeping Ahead of the City

THE water supply of a growing city such as Chattanooga must be kept several years ahead of current needs. The latest step of the City Water Company in pursuit of this policy was the installation of a new turbo-generator pumping unit which has capacity of 20 million gallons per day.

To give some idea of how this problem of water supply increases, the water consumers of the city in 1907 numbered 8,638. In 1939 the number was 29,369. How many will there be at the end of 1940? Well, however large the demand, we are prepared to meet it.

During its entire period of growth, the city of Chattanooga has never had its water supply restricted, and the quality of water has been maintained at the highest standard.

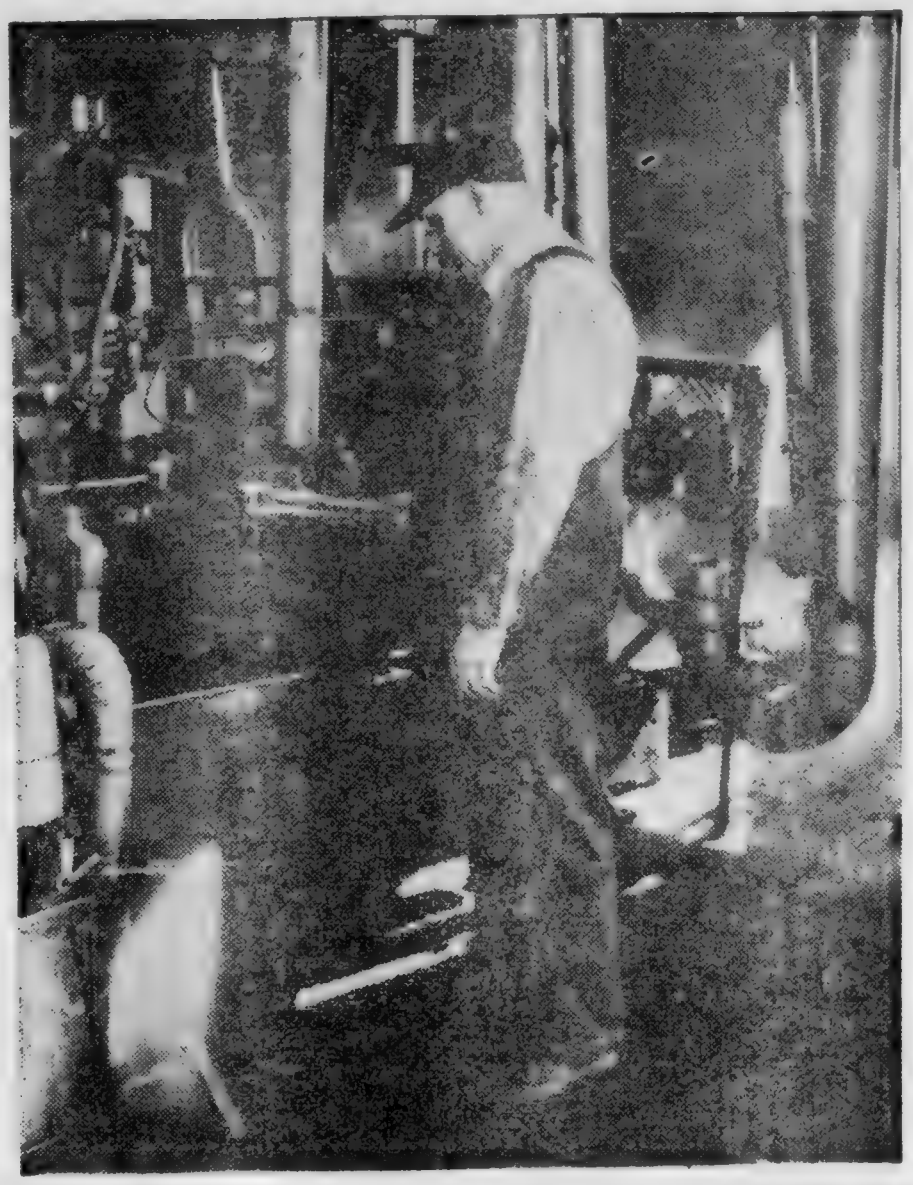
Congratulating THE LABOR WORLD on its Silver Anniversary



William Bland, secretary of Glassblowers' Local 92, is one of the oldest members, serving at the trade for more than fifty years. He started when glass was blown by mouth. Today, the machines do everything but talk.

THE CHATTANOOGA GLASS COMPANY had already been a union stronghold for fourteen years when the first issue of The Labor World appeared. We are nearing forty years old, and became unionized when old Local 72 was organized. The process of blowing bottles was then manual.

When we began business there were only a few hundred bottling plants in the United States. Today there are over eight thousand plants bottling carbonated beverages.

The quality of our Circle C bottles is responsible for the remarkable growth we have experienced.

We have seen The Labor World and the labor movement in Chattanooga grow, and feel a particular pleasure in extending our congratulations to The Labor World, and to the Central Labor Union for the high type of men it has kept at the head of this publication. This has been a great factor in making it the influential newspaper it has become.

Again, congratulations, gentlemen!

CIRCLE C BOTTLES

BOTTLED DRINKS ARE SANITARY

Nothing excels glass bottles for purity, for preserving flavor and for cooling convenience. There is no need for one to drink a beverage that is weakened by melting ice. Drinks in glass bottles can be served ice-cold without the liquid touching the ice. The glass bottle is the greatest convenience for keeping drinks at the home. And be sure to see what you buy—BUY IN GLASS.

abor Will Never "Get-Together"

hen Present Fight Is Over Another Struggle Will Start

"When will Labor get together?' is a question often ed by men and women in all walks of life. One can hear t question almost any hour of any day in any crowd of or more people, provided the labor question is mentioned one of the number. Of course, the recent division in the ks of Labor is uppermost in the minds of those who ask often-asked question.

e might well as ask "when all the people who profess in the Christian religion get ther." As long as men and nen who do the work of the d remain mere men and hen, there will be division of ght, different philosophies pre- ed, and different methods of ration. When men and women work become super-men and r-women, then, perhaps, all la- ng men and women will be of thought and one mind.

everal thousand years ago the dren of Israel, in bondage, ght freedom and surcease from suffering. A great leader provided for them, a man by name of Moses. Even in that when this great leader called n the workers to follow him the Promised Land of freedom plenty, there was division ng the people. Some laid aside rything at hand and started a toward their goal. Others, oming afraid to follow the er and preferring a continua- of their death-like condition that of joining the moving ks, held back, and raised ques- s as to the faithfulness of their er. There was much division ng those people.

o it has been in every age and very decade. Our Labor Move- t in America has never been from that division in the ks. In our early days, when anized Labor was in its swad- g clothes, we had the Knights Labor and many other forms of nization. The Socialist Party e a strong drive over a period twenty-five years to take over Labor Movement in America. r on the One Big Union idea sprung upon the workers, and came the Industrial Workers he World.

t no time in the history of the de Union Movement in America Labor been without its division hought, division of purpose, di- on of procedure. Yet just as ly as these facts are true, the ter fact and condition will re- n. That is, there will always a dominant group in Organized or to which the workers and world will look for guidance, leadership, for stability. For the past 60 years this dominant force and influence has been found in the American Federation of Labor. Judging from its continued growth and ever-expanding influence and increasing recognition, it will long remain the dominant force and influence in Labor in America.

Much of the division in the ranks of Labor experienced in this country has been the result of the schemes and well devised plans of employers. Manufacturers associations have employed such means as the Pinkerton Detective Agency and other lawless groups operating under protection of the law to get into Labor Organizations and create chaotic conditions and bring about divisions in the ranks of Labor for the sole purpose of weakening the strength and influence of Labor Unions. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent by employers as individuals and through associations to bring about these divisions in the ranks of the organized workers.

Foreign countries have been engaged in efforts to gain control of the American Labor Movement. Representatives of those foreign powers know full well that the best way to weaken American resistance is first to weaken the American Labor Movement. A "boring-from-within" process has been the established custom of foreign powers whose object was to weaken this government by weakening its strongest single force and influence—the American Labor Movement.

So, when all of these elements are considered, and when comparison is made between the growth of the Labor Movement and other American groups, why is it that so many people ask: "When will Labor get together?"

Why not ask something about other groups? Here are a few suggested questions that could be asked: When will Mr. Crump and other Democratic leaders of Tennessee get together? When will the Governor of Georgia and his highway department get together? When will the old Democratic Party and the New Deal get together? When will the Methodists and Baptists get together? When will the Methodists and the Methodists get together? When will the Protestants and the Catholics get together? When will wars cease?

All people long for peace and harmony and co-operation, yet those who most desire these conditions are, in many instances, the most uncompromising of all people. Just so long as time lasts and men rule the earth, there will be differences of opinion and strong men to defend each one his own philosophy. Labor will "get together" when all people get together, for the men and women of labor are just like all other human beings, and until human nature is changed in its entirety, the human beings in the world of Labor will continue to act as other human beings act. When the present split in Labor is no more, another will take its place. The American Federation of Labor has done right well with its affairs during the past three score years, and continues to grow in numbers and in influence, in effective service to its members and employers, and in its contributions to its country and the advancement of civilization. Insofar as the five million members of the American Federation of Labor are concerned, Labor is standing together, progressing together, working together, and in spite of the splits from within and the attacks from without, wages continue to increase, hours of labor reduced, and working conditions improved.

"Unfair to Organized Labor"

MANY UNION MEMBERS SHOULD BE PICKETED WITH BANNERS

Banners bearing these statements have been seen on many corners in Chattanooga. It is the only way that aggrieved labor has of telling friends and the buying public that the business man in front of whose door the banner is being borne is unfair to the Labor Movement. That banner has brought many proud, haughty, autocratic men to their senses and to a sense of fairness.

Such banners would have a telling effect upon many members of Labor Unions who wear scab-made clothing.

A Union man who buys non-Union made goods is just as unfair to Organized Labor as is the man in the place of business whose store is being picketed. What's the difference? The man in the place of business has employed some non-Union workmen, and refused to employ Union workmen, hence his place of business is picketed, which is proper and right. But the Union man who is wearing non-Union made clothes is also employing non-Union workers to make his clothing, and refusing to use the product of Union Labor.

The sign painters in Chattanooga would be compelled to work 24 hours a day if they were called upon to paint "Unfair to Organized Labor" signs enough to carry about all of the Union members who walk the streets of Chattanooga wearing non-union and scab-made clothing.

What about the Local Unions themselves that are "Unfair to the Labor Movement?" Take the Local Union that refuses to affiliate with the Central Labor Union and the State Federation of Labor, for example. There are Local Unions in Chattanooga whose officers and members call upon the Central Labor Union to help them out of difficulties, or to aid them in getting some law passed that is deemed essential to the well-being of that Local Union's membership, yet it refuses year after year to affiliate with the Central Labor Union and aid in carrying on the general battle for all Labor. Couldn't some signs be used to telling effect about such Local Unions? Wouldn't it be in order to place pickets about such Local Unions in their meeting, and have the pickets bear a banner reading: "This Local Union is unfair to Organized Labor?" There are several such Local Unions in Chattanooga.

Business men ought not to be unfair to Organized Labor. Certain it is that a member of a Labor Union should not be unfair to Organized Labor, and above all, a Labor Union itself should not be unfair to the Organized Labor Movement by failing and refusing to go along with the general Movement.

Seventeen Building Crafts In Local Counc

Officers and Business Agents Doing Constructive Work Here

Among Chattanooga's powerful organizations the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council stands second to none. The Council is made up of 17 building and construction trades, each trade standing squarely to all others in obtaining conditions, wages and hours for the members of all building and construction trades members. The following local unions constitute the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council:

Sheet Metal Workers, Bricklayers, Carpenters and Joiners, Hod Carriers, Teamsters, Plumbers and Steamfitters, Operating Engineers, Laborers' Foremen, Electrical Workers, Painters and Decorators, Glaziers, Elevator Constructors, Lathers, Plasterers and Cement Finishers (Structural Iron Workers, Structural Iron (shopmen) Workers, Brick and Clay Workers.

G. C. Tittle, of the Sheet Metal Workers, is president of the Council; David Parks, of the Bricklayers' Union, is vice president; W. W. Orr, of the Carpenters and Joiners' local union, is secretary-treasurer; J. R. Moss, of the Hod Carriers, is recording secretary. On the board of trustees are: H. F. Blansitt, of the Teamsters; O. E. Cook, of the Plumbers and Steamfitters, and A. Crawford, of the Operating Engineers. Mrs. Nellie Green Stephenson is office secretary.

The office of the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council is maintained at No. 120½ West Eighth Street, and the telephone number is 6-1437. From early morning until late in the afternoon this office is open. Contractors, builders and property owners can get the very best building and construction mechanics for the work of any of the trades at any time. Nearly all of the local unions constituting the Council have full-time business representatives who make headquarters in the office of the Council, and who are ready at a moment's notice to assist any builder or contractor in obtaining needed labor that is capable and efficient.

The Building Trades are among the oldest and most powerful labor unions known in history. The American Labor Movement owes much to the building trades. Society owes its every building to the skill and workmanship of the building trades. All structures, from the humblest cottage to the most magnificent mansion, were erected by the Building Trades. The artisans of the Building Trades are the only people known to actually complete the work upon which they are engaged. All other activities are continuous, except the Building and Construction work. When a building is completed, the job is done, and the mechanics who built the job must wait until another starts before they obtain employment. Or it may be a bridge, or a highway, but whatever the nature of the building on construction job, when it is finished, the job is ended. There is no "continuous employment" for the men engaged in the building and construction work.

The Building and Construction Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor charters the local councils, like the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council. No local union can become a member of the Building and Construction Trades Council except those local unions whose international unions are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. No man can become a member of any of the local unions in a Building and Construction Trades Council until he has served an apprenticeship at his trade and become an efficient workman. Hence, the employer who calls upon the Building and Construction Trades Council for workmen is assured of efficient, experienced, capable mechanics to do his work.

The officers of the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council and the business representatives of the member local unions hold meetings daily, and give instant attention to any and all problems that may arise in the building and construction field. Theirs is an important work, and both labor and employers in Chattanooga are finding the Building and Construction Trades Council to be one of the most important influences in the city of Chattanooga.

Greetings to The Labor World

From DR. CHARLES STELZLE

To have had the courage to start a labor paper five years ago and to continue publishing it in spite stress and strain of the years that followed, is cause gratulation. And so, I take off my hat in honor of ver Anniversary of The Labor World.

But if ever a labor paper was needed to speak for the workers, this is the time. In the midst of world conflict, whose ramifications reach down to the humblest home; in the presence of national issues which test the ability of our wisest statesmen; in the face of industrial controversy which affects every worker; and because of the discouragements which trouble every loyal citizen of our country, Labor needs the guidance and counsel of men who take a broad and yet sympathetic view of the problems which perplex our country.

This is the task which confronts The Labor World. Its very name designates its field and its mission. And so—forgetting those things which are behind—its successes as well as its failures—here's hoping that it will reach forth unto those things which are before, pressing toward the mark for the prize of its high calling!

A negro applied for a job and set forth his attributes without too much modesty.

"All right," said the boss, "you can have a job, and as to salary—well, I'll pay you just whatever you're worth."

"Dat's no use to me, suh," returned the applicant. "I'se worth mo' dan dat where I is."

Labor Is City's Greatest Asset

Labor World Loves to Tell Story Of Men Who Built Chattanooga

For Quarter of Century Now The Labor World Has Been Waging Battle for Those Whose Work Is Seen in City's Every Aspect — Noblest Man of Earth Is He Who Labors—Pity Proud Fool Who Never Earned Morsel of Food.

It is to tell the story of Labor that The Chattanooga abor World was established. For twenty-five years—a uarter of a century—The Labor World has gone out weekly o carry the message of Labor. It is in celebration of this, he Silver Anniversary of The Labor World, that this special sue is being printed. It has been a glorious quarter of a entury for those who have been charged with the task of ublishing The Labor World each week. Even the difficul- ies encountered, the obstacles thrown in its way, have added nterest to the task and made its accomplishments more ighly valued.

To tell the story of Labor is a rivilege. It cannot be told too ften. It is the greatest story an ever heard, next to that of he creation of man and the death f the Son of Man for man's re- emption. The general public is oming to realize the importance f Labor, for it is important, and sential. Suspend Labor, and here are the glory and pomp of hattanooga? Labor, honest labor, mighty and beautiful, the noblest ing in the world. Labor is a siness and an ordinance of mighty God, and the noblest man f earth is he who puts his hand heerfully and proudly to honest abor. The world once held in igh esteem the mighty leaders of ar—the generals who fought and on battles. Now the same world cognizes that labor achieves rander victories, weaves more rable trophies, holds wider sway, an the conqueror. His name be- omes tinted and his monuments umble; but Labor converts his d battlefields into gardens and ects monuments significant of tter things.

All citizens are proud of Chat- nooga, and well may they be. bor has every right to be proud this city because Labor built is city, in its every detail, from e graveling and paving of the reets and sidewalks to the com- etion of its every building, in- uding the highest pinnacle on its pering spires and stately domes. the great factories of this city d section Labor takes the gos- mer web that has been gathered om the caterpillar, the cotton om the field and the fleece from e flock, and weaves it into rai- ent, soft and warm and beauti- l. Native and visitor alike travel se stately streets and attrac- ve avenues in comfort and ease cause Labor, laughing at diffi- lties, has carried viaducts over arshy swamps, suspended bridges er deep ravines, and pierced the lid mountain with dark tunnels, asting rocks and filling hollows, rifying in a literal sense that cient prophesy: "Every valley all be exalted and every moun- in and hill shall be brought low." ten thousand ways Labor has ilt this city and section and sup- rts the entire population in every spect. Hence the most important set of this city and section is bor—Labor of field and factory, street and store, of mine and ll. All Labor that tends to sup- y man's wants, to increase man's ppiness, to elevate man's nature, any city's most important asset. The Chattanooga Labor World s the story of Labor—its prog- s, its problems, its achievements, its tragedies, its romance, its dramatic appeal. There is tragedy in Labor, as evidenced by the great army of those whose lives have been lost and whose limbs have been mangled while carrying on the work of this city. There is romance in Labor as evidenced by the innumerable cottage homes of this city in which the working men and their wives live and love and labor for the sole purpose of properly rearing their little children and training them for usefulness in the city of their birth. There is drama in Labor as evidenced by the dramatic battles that have been waged through the Unions of Chattanooga for the advancement and elevation of this city's working population.

Labor pities the proud fool who never earned a morsel of food, yet who looks with scorn upon the working man. Such man has never learned the true values of life, and forgets that everything on him and about him are the products of Labor, even to the raiment which makes his scrawny form assume the appearance of a real man.

Labor in Chattanooga is faithful to its friends and unafraid of its enemies. It does not hesitate to relegate to obscurity those men in public life who would enslave Labor, and it is equally alert to advance its friends to the highest positions of trust and honor, an example of this latter statement being found in the fact that one of Labor's own, a former editor of The Chattanooga Labor World, is an honored and efficient public official of the city of Chattanooga.

Is it any wonder that those who have the privilege of publishing the Chattanooga Labor World are happy in their work? This paper during the past twenty-five years has left its indelible imprint upon the city of Chattanooga, and its untarnished record shows that it has supported and sponsored every good movement launched in this city, and has opposed in fearless manner every effort of those who would use the city and its assets in wrongful purpose.

Relationship Between Church And Labor Marks Progress

The Chattanooga Labor World has watched with glowing pride and deep satisfaction the steady, gradual and constant growth of a finer relationship between Labor and the church. Much of the prejudice of the long-ago past between these two institutions has been wiped away, and its stead has grown a splendid relationship, a program of co-operation, a spirit of mutual helpfulness. What is true of the situation in Chattanooga is true of the country as a whole.

Hundreds of members of Organized Labor in Chattanooga are also active members of the church in this city. Many of the officers of Local Unions in this city are also officers in the church to which each belongs. This is as it should be, for both Labor and the church are institutions of God, and there is much in common between the organized church and Organized Labor. The organized church is the machinery for carrying on the work of Christianity, and the Labor Union is the machinery for carrying on the work of the material advancement of humanity. The church membership is a minority working for the spiritual salvation of all people, while the Labor Union membership is a minority working for the material welfare of all wage-earners.

The statement has been made that Organized Labor has done more for the church in America than the organized church has done for Labor. Yet that is no new condition. Whether it was in the age of the prophet, priest or preacher, the working people have always flocked to the church, and in countless instances both prophet, priest and preacher failed the working people in the hour of dire distress. Yet at all times and in all ages some of the prophets, priests and preachers had the courage to stand four-square for the rights of the common man.

Many centuries before the Christian era was ushered in some of the prophets of old who spoke of the coming of Christ coupled this startling announcement with warnings to the rich and powerful rulers to change their methods of treatment and cease their oppression of the poor. Other prophets and priests, however, curried favor with the rich rulers by assuring them that they were safe in their wicked ways, and that an offering to the Lord, either in burnt sacrifices or gold, would wipe away all of their sins.

In American life, especially in the early struggles of the Labor Movement, preachers were no different from the priests and prophets of old. Some spoke out boldly against the oppression of the poor, and many of them paid severe penalties for so doing. Others curried favor with the men of wealth, and used the pulpit, their position and their power to make "their own positions secure" at the expense of the workers. Such preachers were in unenviable positions. For many years it was the practice of employers in "one-man towns" and industrial centers to supplement the salary of the preacher by adding a sum equal to that paid by the church itself as salary. In many many instances where a church paid $1,000 annual salary, the mill owner would pay another $1,000, thus placing the preacher under such direct and heavy obligation to the employer that he could not speak out against conditions under which labor had to live. Preachers thus handicapped became more of a celestial policeman than a minister of a flock, and the employer expected and demanded that preachers placed thus in his power must sing the praises of the Carpenter of Nazareth.

But such conditions have changed. Even the employers have changed. Today, right here in Chattanooga, the outstanding leaders in Organized Labor are also outstanding leaders in the several churches of the city. A big majority of the members of Labor Unions in Chattanooga are also members of the churches of this city. It is no unusual sight to see sitting on the official board of a church the owner of a plant and one or more of his employes. It is significant of the progress being made in industry, in labor, in religion. A passion for genuine service has supplanted in large manner the prejudices of the past. Nothing speaks more eloquently of the progress being made than that found in the finer and closer relationship between the church and labor.

Roofers Enjoy Very Good Place In Movement

Roofers' Local Union No. 122, organized February 1, 1937, is among the new organizations that has meant so much in strengthening the labor movement in Chattanooga. This organization is affiliated with Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council and with the Chattanooga Central Labor Union. The jurisdiction of the local union covers a wide area, and it has a large membership with experienced in roofing work.

Following are the officers of Local No. 122:

Fred Hildebrand, president
W. R. Wooten, vice-president.
J. H. Johnston, financial secretary-treasurer.
Fred Helton, recording secretary
G. C. Tittle, business representative.

Hodcarriers One of Rapidly Growing Southern Unions . . .

Struggling, as labor of all trades and crafts have struggled down through the ages, until solid ground was found, Local Union No. 846, Hod Carriers, Common and Building Laborers, is gradually, yet surely, reaching that solid ground which all established A. F. of L. local unions have eventually found. Chartered five years ago, Local 846 has had tremendous growth, and at times it suffered from growing pains.

Many difficulties had to be met and overcome, a thousand obstacles had to be removed, before the Hod Carriers and Common Laborers in the South could make any very great headway. During the past five years, however, this great group of workers has made tremendous advancement, and the Chattanooga local union is second to none in the South for aggressiveness, for loyalty, for willingness to serve the labor movement.

Local 846 was chartered on December 17, 1935. Charter members and first officers were as follows:

John B. Huff, president; Frank Lynch, vice president; John Corbin, recording secretary; Stanley Campbell, financial secretary; T. L. Wellman, corresponding secretary; Edwin R. Williams, treasurer; Frank Anderson, sergeant-at-arms; York Maddox, guard.

Present officers of the local are:

J. Spencer Stone, president; Joe Shipley, vice president; Richard P. Nave, recording secretary; Sidney L. Robinson, financial secretary; ——— Clifford, member-at-large; Kirby Sledge, member-at-large; Raymond Floyd, business representative.

Many leaders in the American labor movement have spent many years in advocating organization for the hod carriers, common and construction labor. His low pay, his long hours, his unprotected conditions while unorganized, was a challenge to the labor movement, and that the challenge has been met is evidenced by the fact that the Hod Carriers, Common and Building Laborers' organization has become one of the most effective organizations in the building trades set-up.

Bakery Local Born in Strif

MANY SUCCESSFUL BATTLES MAKE LOCAL 25 GREAT POWER

Local Union No. 25, Bakery and Confectionery Workers of International Union of America was chartered in Chattanooga in June of 1933. Powerful resistance was made to the organization of this local union by some of the employers, among which were the American Bakery company.

A lock-out that lasted nine weeks was one of the first contests of the newly formed Bakery Workers' local union in 1933. Again in 1934 the local union "locked horns" with the Chattanooga Bakery company, during which a seven months' battle ensued, with picket lines constantly on the job. That case has recently been decided by the labor board in favor of the bakery workers, full details of which have been printed in the Chattanooga Labor World.

The two contests in 1933 and 1934 served to weld the bakery workers in Chattanooga into one of the best organizations in the South.

Curtis Sims was one of the first leaders in the affairs of Local Union No. 25, and as a result of his leadership in these local contests Mr. Sims was selected by the international union as its Southern representative, and he has been doing great service for the bakery workers all over the South.

Closed shop agreements are in effect between Local No. 25 and the Cameron-Barr Bakery Co., Colonial Bakery Co., Erskine Bakery Co., Mercer Pie Co., Hooper Pie Shops, McMillan's Bakery Co., Bennett-Hubbard Candy Co., Carter Candy Co. and many firms in this vicinity.

Since organization of Local No. 25 and its thorough establishment during its first two years of trials and tribulations, this organization has made a permanent place for itself in the affairs of this vicinity.

Following are the officers of Local No. 25:

Willard Downey, president: C. M. Wilkey, vice president; Charles Mabee, secretary-treasurer and recording secretary; C. B. Norwood, corresponding secretary and financial secretary - business agent; Thomas Weathers, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Geneva Wilson, address secretary.

Shop Iron Workers Have Fine Agreements Locally

Local Union No. 526, International Iron Workers, shopmen's dial Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was organized in Chattanooga in 1918. After a few years the local became dormant, but was reorganized in May, 1937, and since that time has obtained many splendid advancements for its membership.

B. H. Newell is president, Sidney C. Stevens recording secretary and W. W. Gray financial secretary and business representative.

These officers proudly proclaim that Local No. 526 has the best contract with its employers that exists in the South. They work under closed shop agreements with the Converse Bridge & Steel Company, Price-Evans Ornamental Iron Workers and many smaller shops, all of which are 100% union.

Local No. 526 is an affiliate of the Chattanooga Central Labor Union and of the Chattanooga Building & Construction Trades Council. The organization has made many gains for advancement without ever having to resort to strikes or being subjected to a lockout. Officers and members of the local are extremely proud of the harmonious relationship that exists between their local union and the employers. They work under automatic renewal agreements with their employers and report that no friction whatever is experienced.

CONTRACTS RENEWED WITHOUT STRIKE ACTION TESTIFIES GOOD LEADERSHIP

Always the first man on the job, the Iron Workers have likewise become first among the organized building crafts. Local Union No. 384, International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, is an important cog in the machinery of Organized Labor in this vicinity. A large number of the members of this local union have been employed on the TVA since the beginning of that great project.

The Iron Workers are as nearly 100% organized in this vicinity as it is possible for a craft to become. Members of Local 384 have done the iron construction work on nearly every building and structure where iron is used in this city and section.

N. H. CATRETTE

N. H. Catrette is business representative of 384, and maintains his office in the headquarters of the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council. Officers of the local union are:

George Wolfe, president

W. M. Harrelson, vice president

W. M. Fisher, recording secretary

C. G. Hungate, financial secretary and treasurer.

The Iron Workers have international agreements with the McClintic & Marshall Company, the American Bridge Company, the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the Converse Bridge Company and many smaller companies and contractors.

This union enjoys splendid wage that its members are secure under rates and working conditions, and provisions of existing agreements that have been renewed from year to year over a longperiod of time is evidenced by the fact that there has been no strikes or lock-outs affecting the Iron Workers here for more than a score of years.

Labor Head Proposes Gradual Cut in Work Hours to 33 Weekly

Rochester, N. Y. (ILNS).—Declaring that "an empty stomach is a breeding place for crime," Henry D. O'Connell, president of the Rochester Central Trades and Labor Council, proposed gradual reduction of working hours to a maximum of 33 per week in order to give employment to "the 700,000 youths between 16 and 24 who are out of work."

At the same time, O'Connell told Kiwanis Club members, the hourly wage must go up in line with production to enable the workers to buy what they produce.

He suggested a nationwide lowering of working hours at the rate of an hour every two months until a maximum of 33 hours had been reached.

DEMOCRACY IN ACTION

The American Federation of Labor not only preaches democracy, but practices it. The underlying principle in its organizational structure is voluntarism. In other words, the American Federation of Labor is a voluntary association of free and independent unions. The federation has no power of compulsion. Its laws and policies are adopted by majority vote of delegates from all affiliated unions at annual conventions. They become effective solely through the consent of the governed, whose representatives make the laws. That is democracy in action.—George Meany, secretary-treasurer American Federation of Labor.

One of Chattanooga's Best Sends Message Back Home

Reminiscing back as far as 1917, I can recall to mind the names of many Chattanooga labor leaders whom I came to know intimately during my fifteen years as secretary of the Tennessee State Federation of Labor—an era which was fraught with thrills and spectacular events in the Labor Movement.

These leaders included such men as Jake Cohen, Mat Robinson, Neil J. Crowley, J. L. Carpenter, W. L. Bork, Paul Aymon, R. M. Cooke, George Forbes, John I. Cotter, Walter Gardner, E. L. Blair, Matt Gerlach, A. C. Kamin, W. E. Eckenrod, George Perry, A. C. Hester, Thomas J. Smith, of nearby Graysville, and Thomas M. Gann, the latter from nearby Soddry, and many others who took an active part in the labor movement in Chattanooga at that time.

Of those named, the two most closely associated with me during those years were Paul Aymon and R. M. Cooke, each of whom served several terms as president of the Tennessee State Federation of Labor in times which were trying, both in the industrial and political field.

Like their Chattanooga associates referred to, they were always found not wanting in any problem which confronted the workers of the city or state. They were always willing to contribute manpower as well as financial aid to the labor cause.

Brother Cooke has continued his labor activities to the present time and is now serving his second term as City Commissioner. Brother Aymon also has continued in the field of labor and is now assistant organization director of the American Federation of Labor in the Southeastern States.

In looking back at my association with these leaders in the Chattanooga labor movement, I must also pay tribute to one who served the movement faithfully and was associated with the movement in Chattanooga during the days before a legal right to organize was established by Congress and when armed guards, soldiers and injunctions were always the answer to the efforts of the workers to unionize. I refer to Thomas J. Smith, of Graysville, who, in my opinion, was just as much a part of the labor movement in Chattanooga as any one of its own citiezens.

The Chattanooga labor movement was founded by such pioneers as these and has been handed on to their successors with a well-defined policy on organization.

As I knew them, they all were active in the civic affairs of their city, and always were found at the front in any move for civic improvements, as well as in the field.

Textile, street car and other industrial conflicts in those days sometimes called for the very life blood of those enlisted in the labor cause, as armed thugs, police, soldiers and even the fire department were used to break up organization efforts, and labor leaders were "framed" and thrown in jail without recourse. It took "stout" fellows" to stand the gaff.

The advance of organized labor during the past 25 years has been an impressive one and, as we grow more conscious of its mission and the wisdom of its leadership, we become more aware that the activity of those leaders of the "torrid days" caused the membership to develop and hand down a spirit of cooperation in Hamilton County which has wrought inestimable good in the lives of the people they represented. In the language of the greatest labor leader of that time—Sam Gompers—"they have kept the faith."

MORE ABOUT UNION MOLDERS HAPPY

replied by saying that "the only happy molders are the union molders." The genial Irishman's philosophy is sound as evidenced by the general atmosphere in meetings of the Molders' unions anywhere. They are happy men because they know that they have done something for themselves, their families and the workers all about them. The non-union molder as a rule cannot experience that joy, because he has done nothing to help himself, his family, or those about him. On the other hand, the non-union molders must ever be conscious of the fact that they contribute to the misery and unhappiness of their own people and their neighbors. Greater effort than ever before is to be made once to get the non-union molders into this organization, which has meant so much to the men since its inception in 1859. The International Molders' Union has been one of the strongest factors in the American Federation of Labor for the advancement of the men in its own industry and the workers in all fields of endeavor.

The 22-year-old Johnson, Chattanooga's youngest molder, has every right to believe that he will be as happy at the end of the road as the 76-year-old smiling, happy, Irish union molder—O'Connor—was on the day the boys gathered at his home to honor him for his loyalty and leadership.

Distinction

A young candidate for the navy was being put through a general knowledge test by a board of admirals.

"What kind of animals eat grass?" one of them asked.

The candidate fidgeted and stared out of the window, but said nothing. The question was repeated, but he still remained dumb.

"Surely," said one of the examiners kindly, "you can answer a simple question like that? I will repeat it. What kind of animals eat grass?"

"Animals!" gasped the boy. "I tohught you said 'admirals.'"

Plasterers Here Since Early In 1900's

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Local Union No. 157 was chartered July 17, 1901. George Woodley was the first president, and Wilson Barnes was first secretary. The local union has been steadfast in its support of the general labor movement in Chattanooga, never shirking its responsibility to its membership or members of sister unions.

Present officers of Local 157 are as follows:

George DeBoard, president
Larkin Frederick, vice president
Roy Beck, financial secretary
Edward Woodley, treasurer
Granville Chauncey, recording secretary
W. E. Thornburg, tyler
J. L. Morgan, business representative.

I hold that the government belongs to the people, and that they have a right to that intimate access to it which will determine every turn of its policy.—Woodrow Wilson.

Sheet Metal Workers Strong Support In Labor Movement

Sheet Metal Local Union No. 51 is the largest local of its kind in the South with the exception of the one in New Orleans. First organized in 1900, the charter was surrendered in the early thirties during that period when building was at a standstill for several years.

The local was reorganized November 23, 1936, with many members of the former local taking the lead in the reorganization. Local No. 51 has jurisdiction over forty-three counties in Tennessee, and is recognized as one of the strongest organizations in the building trades of the South. It probably has the highest wage rate of any sheet metal local in the South, the wage being $1.25 per hour, and the local union was able to obtain this rate on all of the TVA work in addition to the private constructions.

During the few years of inactivity of the local union the members did not surrender their cards, but had them deposited in other local unions or with the international. Many of the leaders in Local No. 51 are the same men who have been fighting the sheet metal workers' battles throughout the past decade. A study of the group photograph printed elsewhere in the Labor World of the members of the Sheet Metal Workers' local on Labor Day, 1918, will show that they were leaders in the movement then and are still active in labor circles in Chattanooga. For instance, G. C. Tittle, whose picture appears in the group photograph in 1918, is now business representative of Local 51, as well as being president of the Chattanooga Building and Construction Trades Council.

Following are the officers of Local No. 51:

Frank Lowe, president
W. R. Duncan, vice president
J. T. Hammond, financial secretary
J. M. Quarles, recording secretary.
Paul Tipps, treasurer
G. C. Tittle, business representative

Bricklayers Never Had Strik

Long History of Local 6 One of Successful Negotiation With Contractors

Citizens of Chattanooga who look about them at the brick buildings of all kinds—business blocks, office buildings, educational institutions, public buildings, church edifices, residences—may gain some idea of the importance of the Local Union of Bricklayers and Masons by realizing the fact that members of this Union laid at least 95 per cent of all the brick in all buildings in the city of Chattanooga. The one hundred and sixty members of Local Union No. 6 derive much satisfaction in viewing the city which has been built by them and their predecessors in the organization.

Early records of the Bricklayers' first local union in Chattanooga cannot be found. There are records, however, of the activities of the first organization, which was Local Union No. 2, as far back as 1883. William Henry Brown, well-known and highly respected citizen of this city, joined old Local Union No. 2 in 1883, the records show. S. A. Martin, financial secretary of No. 6, has the records of old No. 2, beginning with the year 1883. T. G. Fisher, now living, joined Local Union No. 1 in Ohio during the year 1881, and transferred to old No. 2 in Chattanooga a short while later. He earned a life membership long ago. P. S. Hannah, who died last February at the age of 78 years, also was a member of old No. 2 in the early eighties.

R. M. Ward, an active member ofg No. 6, served his apprenticeship under his father, who first joined No. 1 in Ohio, later transferring to old No. 2 in Chattanooga and was active in the first local here over a long period of time.

Because of a difference of opinion between the International Union and the local union in Chattanooga back in 1903 charter of old No. 2 was revoked. Local No. 6 was chartered on April 12, 1904, with practically the same membership that had been embraced in old No. 2. The charter members of No. 6 and the first officers were as follows:

W. Q. Hosac, president
G. W. McDonald, vice president
C. E. Leming, recording secretary
C. P. Legge, financial secretary
R. J. Thompson, corresponding secretary
A. R. Rawlings, treasurer
E. C. Nickey, doorkeeper

Of interest to the craft and to the public in general is the fact that A. R. Rawlings, charter member of No. 6 and its first treasurer, is now president of the organization. Many other charter members of No. 6 are still living and active in the affairs of the local.

Present officers of No. 6 are as follows:

A. R. Rawlings, president
George Parks, vice president
L. C. Larson, recording secretary

There has never been a strike in the long history of old No. 2 and its successor, Local No. 6. For a period of almost 60 years not a strike has occurred by the union bricklayers of Chattanooga. Only one lock-out was ever attempted by the contractors. This occurred in 1914, when the contractors ganged the union and imported a group of non-union bricklayers in an effort to beat down the wage scale. It took the contractors about nine months to realize just what a mistake they were making. The lock-out was declared off, the union men returned to the work in Chattanooga, and that is the only instance of any trouble or misunderstanding between the union and the contractors in threescore years of the local union's life.

Financial Secretary Martin has held this post for the past ten years. He has been in Local No. 6 since 1903. He was an apprentice member in old Local No. 2, told of in this story.

One of the oldest trades known to man is that of bricklayers and masons. History records the activities of this craft many thousands of years ago, and while little is said of the bricklayer in the days of the Pharoahs, much is said of makers of brick, which is evident that there were skilled artisans in this trade then, else there would have been no brick made. Excavations in all lands have brought to light old ruins and buildings of ancient days, and ofter the perfect state of masonry work found in such instances is remarked upon.

Great skill is demanded of this trade, as the bricklayers' work must be perfect if the building is to stand. The apprenticeship period is long and exacting, and when the trade is mastered, the journeyman can work but a few months in the year, at best. The bricklayer's work is seasonal even in good times, and ceases when times are bad. Yet society and the progress of civilization demand the services of the bricklayer. It is almost impossible for a bricklayer to work at any other task during the long weeks and months of idleness between jobs. He knows no other trade, and activity in any line other than his own trade destroys his efficiency as a bricklayer.

Hence the necessity of a high hourly rate of pay when the bricklayer is workin. He works such a limited number of hours in the year that even the high hourly rate is not suffcient to bring his annual income up to that of many trades whose hourly rate of pay is much lower, yet because of the regularity of the work the annual income is fairly high.

It is inspiring to hear business men of the city express such high regard for men of labor as is often expressed by Chattanooga leaders for the men in the Bricklayers' Union. They are among the city's most highly regarded and substantial citizens.

Teachers' Union Central Body Asset

Organized in 1932, Local 246 Has Done Splendid Service nl Bettering Conditions of Its Members

From the standpoint of achievements through organization, Local No. 246 of the American Federation of Teachers is an outstanding example of the benefits to be derived through organization of a group of workers and affiliation with other organized groups in a community. Public school teachers have been the pawns of petty political rings since the institution of the public school system, and it was not until the teachers began organizing into the American Federation of Teachers that they enjoyed any feeling of security in their positions or any independence of thought and action in their class room work.

Hamilton county and the City of Chattanooga were like all other counties and cities, insofar as the utter helplessness of the teachers was concerned, until that November day, 1932, when a small group of teachers of the city and county county schools organized Local Union No. 246. Fierce opposition developed, of course, and many obstacles were thrown in the way of those who were leading the organization efforts. Politicians do not gamely submit to a surrender of their most valuable assets, and control of teacher jobs had long been a most valuable and highly treasured and political asset.

Perfection of the organization of the local union did not remedy all existing evils, nor did the installation of the charter on Nov. 19, 1932, change conditions overnight. That was only the beginning, an essential beginning, of the eight-year battle which has been waged without ceasing for improvement in the conditions under which the teacher taught labor. Yet much has been accomplished in that eight-year period, and the local union is just now attaining a position where it can really, and in fact and effect, serve the interests of the teachers.

Recounting and reviewing the gains made for the teachers since organization of the local union nearly eight years ago disclosed a record rich in achievement. Before organization, teachers were employed on annual bases, and no teacher ever knew whether he or she had a job for the next year until the powers-that-be held a meeting and decided upon the teacher's fate. Sometimes the teacher did not know until the day before school opened whether or not he or she had a job at all for that year. That feeling of insecurity, the constant dread caused by that uncertainty, had serious ill effect upon the teachers involved.

All of that insecurity and uncertainty has been removed. In 1935, with the aid of the Chattanooga Central Labor Union, the Tennessee State Federation of Labor, and aided by the parent-teacher associations, the local unions of the American Federation of Teachers were able to obtain legislative action creating a teachers' tenure law for Hamilton county and the city of Chattanooga. This law provided that all teachers and principals who had taught two years or more in the city or county schools, giving satisfactory service, should be employed on a permanent tenure of office basis and could not be demoted or dismissed except for cause, and that all teachers not having had the required two years' service should, upon completion of the required two years, me employed on a permanent tenure of office basis.

This one accomplishment, this act cutting the bonds of political slavery under which the teachers had worked throughout the past years, is suffcient cause to immortalize the local teachers' union, and endear the organization to every teacher in the city and county and to all friends of the teachers and all supporters of the public school system.

Soon after Local 246 had been organized, Local 428, for the colored school teachers, was organized, and the two locals have worked together through a joint council. Miss Allie Mann, of Atlanta, Ga., assisted the teachers here in the organization of Local No. 246. Miss Mann was at that time national vice president of the American Federation of Teachers and active in organized labor circles in Atlanta and the state of Georgia.

Stanton E. Smith, national vice president of the American Federation of Teachers at this time, was the first president of No. 246, and served in that capacity until last year. He speaks highly of the splendid support given the organization officials by a majority of the teachers of the city and county, and discouragingly of the failure of some of the teachers to see the benefits already obtained through organization and the greater benefits that could be derived for all if all of the teachers would come into the organization and present a solid front in their efforts. Mr. Smith also praises some of the public officials who have cooperated with the teachers, a cooperation that has meant much to the advancement of the teaching groups and to the schools.

In addition to the permanent tenure of office and its valuable provisions to the teachers, the same bill created a minimum standard for new teachers entering the profession. Patrons and pupils of the public schools of this city and county cannot overestimate the value of this provision. Requirements for teachers under the state law are low, and the new standard set up in the enactment of this law has meant much to the efficiency of the teaching forces. It also protected the prepared teacher against the competition of political pets and favorites. The local union is now engaged in further attempt to improve the school system by urging adoption of a merit system for the selection of the most competent new teachers, and in the promotion of teachers and principals to advanced positions.

Enactment of other laws sponsored by the American Federation of Teachers and enacted in the 1935 legislature were identical Salary Schedule laws for Hamilton county and for the city of Chattanooga. These laws were attacked in the court. These laws provided for minimum salaries for first-year teachers as follows: Class I, $1,100; Class II, $900; Class III, $850; Class IV, $800.

Advancements in salary are provided in these laws, annually, that would bring the salary schedules at the end of fifteen years' service up to: Class I, $2,500; Class II, $2,300; Class III, $1,550; Class IV, $1,150. This does not mean, of course, that a teacher would have to teach 15 years from the time the law becomes effective in order to reach the higher brackets of pay, but is based upon the years of service actually to the credit of the teacher.

The salary schedule bills are still in the courts, but friends express hope that court decisions will be favorable to the teachers.

Great as these laws are, yet they do not represent all that has been accomplished by the local union in the past eight years. The fraternal spirit that has been engendered in the teaching ranks through the union is sufficient justification for all the work that has been done and all the money that has been expended by the organization. The publicity obtained for the teachers, the information about the schools and school work and the conditions under which the teachers have had to carry on, has resulted in an public opinion that is most valuable in promotion of the best interests of the public schools. The publicity department of the union, under direction of Paul Long, has changed a once hostile press to an able ally.

Of course, the problem of arousing some of the teachers to the necessity of joining the union remains unsolved. The teachers well remember the day back in 1932 when a wave of economy swept over the nation, striking with terrific force in Chattanooga, salary reductions were the order of the day. In this city all city employes were given 10 per cent reductions in pay, except the teachers, and they got a 20 per cent reduction. The union resisted this flagrant effort to crucify the teachers, and succeeded in part. While they had to take a reduction in pay, yet it was not the 20 per cent reduction that had been planned.

The teachers recall the time when all manual training teachers were discarded, and a threat was made to discard all music teachers.

The teachers well remember another cloudy day, in 1933, when 35 teachers were dropped from the lists and thrown into the great army of the unemployed without the batting of eyelash by the officials who wielded the axe. Surely all teachers know that such insecurity no longer exists here because

Local 1212 Fits Into Movement Easily

Local No. 1212 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes and Bus Drivers of America, while only one year old, has already become an important link in the organized labor movement of Chattanooga and vicinity.

Establishment of Local No. 1212 and the fine spirit of cooperation between the Union and the Tennessee Electric Power Company has been most pleasing to the labor forces in Chattanooga. The company recognizes Local No. 1212 as bargaining agency for its employes, and a good agreement is now in effect between the union and the company. There are 241 active members in the local union, with [illegible] members on retirement. Officers of No. 1212 are as follows:

O. F. Olinger, president
F. C. Stewart, vice president
C. W. Brown, financial secretary-treasurer
L. B. Merrimon, recording secretary

Subcommittee:

W. L. Gray, E. S. Smith, C. S. Esea, C. W. Searcy, G. D. Hunlay, Willard Payne.

The union meets in Wheland Hall, Memorial Auditorium.

Officers of the union in speaking of the progress being made by their new locals, spoke in highest terms of Norman F. Williams, general manager of the company, and Alfred Long, assistant manager. This happy situation is pleasing to the older men in the labor movement who remember the bitter struggle in 1917 between the Power Company and Organized Labor, and is a remarkable instance of the progress that has been made in the past two decades by Labor in the South.

Most of the members of Local 1212 are natives of Chattanooga and vicinity and of North Georgia. They are a fine group of good men, and the labor movement in Chattanooga gave Local No. 1212 a rousing reception when it was chartered on the 27th day of June, 1939.

The delegation from the local union to the Central Labor Union are among the most regular and active members of the Central Body.

Taxi Drivers Are Building Up Good Live-Wire Union

In June, 1934, the Chattanooga Taxi Drivers', Local Union No. 594, was chartered. Names of the charter members are C. R. Harris, T. J. Knox and T. E. Watts.

Local No. 594 has had a stormy career. They have had to face many obstacles and much competition. However, they are weathering the storm and coming out victoriously.

Despite the fact that they have tripled their initiation fee, they are growing in membership. They have also built up a friendly relationship with employers and organized employes, and both are enjoying profitable returns as a result of this relationship.

Present officers in Local No. 594 are: B. E. Eslinger, president and business agent; Leopold Legg, secretary-treasurer; Floyd Nelson, recording secretary. The trustees are Ira Helm, L. Randolph and C. Williams.

Retail Clerks Have Made Start As a New Union

Retail Clerks, Local Union No. 625, was chartered in February, 1938, and has made an enviable record in the two years since its organization. Its charter members are as follows: J. M. Stephenson, president; L. E. Ireland, treasurer; H. K. Hall, sergeant at arms; Margaret Mabee, secretary; William Gilstrap, Leroy Duncan, Charles Austin.

For six months after date of charter, officers of Local No. 625 negotiated with employers and worked out a contract that was beneficial to both employer and employes. The first contract was with James Supply Company and soon thereafter contracts were made with Mills-Lupton Co., A. & P. Tea Co., King-Dobbs & Co., largest wholesale store in Chattanooga and organized 100 per cent, and others.

Members of Local No. 625, both white and colored, are receiving a wage increase of about $5.20 per week, and being a comparatively new local this is a step toward progress.

At a recent meeting members of Local No. 625 voted to affiliate with Service Trades Council, and also elected new officers for the coming year. Names of the newly elected officers are: A. H. Elliott, president; H. K. Hall, vice-president; W. A. Hilley, financial secretary; L. E. Ireland, treasurer; George Henry, business agent. Delegates to Central Labor Union are as follows: Thomas J. Morgan, H. K. Hall, D. B. Thornburg.

Year Old Local Has Made Gains at Amer. Mfg. Co.

The American Manufacturing Company Federation of Labor Union of Chattanooga Local No. 21,983 was chartered April 4, 1939.

This local has met with much opposition and has had many battles to fight, and it is so important for the members to realize that the officers cannot win their battles alone. They have got to have the co-operation of their members to win the confidence and support of the employer.

However, with the seemingly slow progres of Local No. 21983, they are 70 per cent organized, have received a small increase in pay and somewhat better working conditions, and are still working under their first contract.

The officers of Local 21983, to whom much credit should go, are the following: J. L. Smith, president; W. K. Sneed, vice-president; A. W. Vaughn, secretary-treasurer; Louise Braswell, recording secretary. The shop committee: A. W. Vaughn, J. L. Smith and E. H. McGill.

History of Cement Local 1

By V. O. CUNNINGHAM

The history of Local No. 1 goes back to the depression years of 1932-33, when our employers, the Signal Mountain Portland Cement Co. (as did many other employers) found it necessary to cut wages again and again, and then along came the N. R. A. When it went into effect, a group of us workers (some of whom had heretofore belonged to labor unions) were quick to realize that the N. R. A. was just what we were looking for, as it gave us the chance to organize ourselves and maybe at least stave off any more cuts in our wages at that time. So a group of us talked it over, and, not knowing just union we belonged in, we decided to call an organizer from the A. F. L. to come out and advise us on this matter. Brothers Paul Aymon and T. R. Cuthbert came out to a meeting we had called on evening in a store building near our plant, and they told us that as there was (so far as they knew) no union or unions among the cement plant workers in the country, we would have to apply for a directly affiliated federal charter. So under the date of July 10, 1933, thirty-two names of our workers who had signed the application and paid their initiation fees were forwarded by Organizer T. R. Cuthbert to A. F. L. headquarters in Washington for a charter, and on July 12, 1933, Federal Labor Union No. 18269 of Cement Workers (the first charter to be issued for a union in the cement industry by the A. F. L. was issued to us, and Brother T. R. Cuthbert formally installed this charter and put this union into operation at a meeting held on July 21, 1933. Then an intensive campaign was started to get all the workers to join the union.

When the management of our company was contacted by the union committee early in the year of 1934 we found that they (just as other employers are) were very reluctant to accept the union and the new order of things. This finally culminated in the union petitioning the N. L. R. Administration for an election at our plant, which election was held July 3, 1934, under the direction of Mr. Thomas M. Finn of the Department of Labor, the union winning the election without a dissenting vote. As a result of this the union committee and the company superintendent met in conference, and on August 30, 1934, a notice (which was our first agreement) was posted by the company on all of its bulletin boards and copies furnished to the union. The company officials and the union committee both adopted a spirit of cooperation that has endured through the years, as evidenced by the fact that we have just recently met with the company officials and negotiated our sixth consecutive agreement, under the friendliest of circumstances, and a spirit of cooperation exists between our union and the company which I am sure neither party would want to be interrupted, and which might well be copied by other unions, as well as by other employers, which proves that a union and an employer can work together for the benefit of both sides if each party is willing to cooperate to some extent with the other party at all times.

It is needless to say that since we have been organized we have improved our working conditions and raised our wages a fairly good amount, and that not one of our members would consider for one minute giving up his membership in the union.

Of course with the granting of a charter to our union the idea spread across the United States like wildfire and in a very short time cement workers' unions were springing up in all parts of the nation, resulting in the A. F. L. assigning one of their ace organizers to take charge of the organization work in the cement industry in the United States. He did his job so well that early in September, 1936, at Hotel Statler, St. Louis, Mo., the National Council of United Cement Workers was chartered. Of course, none other than A. F. L. Organizer William Schoenberg of Chicago, Ill., was elected president of the national council, and Federal Labor Union No. 18269 of Cement Workers was a charter member of this national council. Again in Birmingham, Ala. (Hotel Bankhead), when the Southeastern Council of Cement, Lime Gypsum and Allied Industry Workers was formed, Local No. 18269 was again a charter member of this organization. Again at Hotel Statler, St. Louis, Mo., on September 12, 1939, when the great United Cement Lime and Gypsum Workers' International Union was formally chartered by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, Local Union No. 18269 became United Cement Lime and Gypsum Workers' Local Union No. 1 of the new international union (as a charter member), and again A. F. L. Organizer William Schoenberg was given the honor that was due him and elected as general president of the international union, which now has more than 110 chartered unions and six district councils in operation, covering the entire United States with intensive organization campcampaign going on among the cement, lime and gypsum industries throughout the country.

The original officers of Local Union No. 18269 of Cement Workers were as follows: F. L. Ogden, president; W. G. Gray, vice president; F. L. Defur, recording secretary; Fred Sullivan, financial secretary; J. W. Ashley, treasurer; O. L. Barnes, sergeant-at-arms and doorkeeper.

The seven names appearing on the charter for Federal Union No. 18269 of Cement Workers are as follows in the order as they appear on the charter:

No. 1—W. E. Hall
No. 2—Luther Parson
No. 3—Will G. Gray
No. 4—F. L. Ogden
No. 5—V. O. Cunningham
No. 6—Earl Hale
No. 7—E. H. Rector.

Federal Union No. 18269 was chartered July 12, 1933.

The names of the 32 original applicants for a charter are as follows:

W. E. Hall, Luther Parson, Will G. Gray, F. L. Ogden, V. O. Cunningham, Earl Hale, E. H. Rector, W. L. Cox, W. M. Burton, H. A. Griffith, O. L. Barnes, Roy Rutherford, Dewey Hale, W. H. Gann, Henry Marshall, Reece Murrey, R. C. Moore, Horace Adams, W. E. Lee, Frank Nickens, George Cannon, Paul Campbell, Carl Cross, Hill Thompson, C. H. Major, J. H. Cooley, H. P. Westbrook, J. P. Merriman, W. E. Tribble, B. M. Johnson, J. C. Wynn, J. M. Lewis.

The 15 names appearing on the charter for United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' Local Union No. 1 are as follows:

W. E. Hall, Luther Parson, Will G. Gray, V. O. Cunningham, Earl Hale, E. H. Rector, W. L. Cox, W. M. Burton, Roy Rutherford, W. H. Gann, Henry Marshall, Reece Adams, W. E. Lee, George Cannon.

United Cement Lime and Gypsum Workers' Local No. 1 was chartered October 1, 1939.

The present officers of our union are as follows:

Fred L. Sullivan, president
W. M. Perry, W. G. Gray and Orvin Howard, vice presidents
Glenn Parson, recording secretary
V. O. Cunningham, financial secretary
J. W. Ashley, treasurer
Henry Hughes, Sergeant-at-arms and doorkeeper
T. J. Adams and Roy Rutherford, past presidents
Arthur Moon, hall janitor
John Fenton, W. Milo Thompson and Fred Standifer, trustees

Local Union No. 1 meets on the seventh and twenty-second of each month at 4 p.m. at our hall on Suck Creek Road (across the highway from the cement plant), North Chattanooga, Tenn.

Local Union No. 1 is affiliated with the Fifth District Council of United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers; the Tennessee Federation of Labor and the Chattanooga Central Labor Union, and is chartered by the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' international union, A. F. L.

Local Union No. 1 has a total membership of 122, of which six are honorary members. International President William Schoenberg is an active member of Local Union No. 1.

The home officers of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' International Union at, 549 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill., and the international officers are as follows:

William Schoenberg, general president, 549 West Randolph Street.

Toney Gallo, general secretary-treasurer, same address.

Arthur J. Strunk, first vice president, 549 West Randolph Street, Chicago.

W. A. Pritchett, second vice president, 125, Maple Street, Tarrant, Ala.

Reuben Roe, third vice president, box 191, Buffalo, Iowa.

E. G. Hammer, fourth vice president, 7615 Virginia Avenue St. Louis, Mo.

George Hassett, seventh vice president, 6095 Brockton Avenue, Riverside, Cal.

The home office of the Fifth District Council of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' International Union, at 1256 Maple Street, Tarrant, Ala., and the officers of the Fifth District Council are as follows:

V. O. Cunningham, president, 746 Vine Street, Chattanooga, Tenn.

H. L. Chambers, first vice president, R. F. D., Pell City, Ala.

J. D. Bradford, second vice president, Sherwood, Tenn.

W. R. Morgan, secretary-treasurer, 1660 Lee Avenue, Birmingham, Ala.

Floyd N. Burks, recording secretary, 933 Jackson Boulevard, Tarrant, Ala.

Felix C. Jones, business representative and organizer, Maple St., Tarrant, Ala.

Note: Southeastern Council was rechartered by the international union as District Council No. 5.

And in conclusion may I state that the Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers are here to stay and we are rapidly taking our place as an important part of the lives of thousands of American citizens.

I might further state that we believe that one of the main reasons why Local Union No. 1 has functioned for a period of years without any strikes, lockouts or other trouble between the union and the company is the arbitration clause in our agreement which we consider to be one of the best in the country today. Further to prove that both sides do cooperate is that only a few months ago the union and the company worked together to put into effect at our plant (with both the workers and the company paying on the cost) a plan of health and accident insurance from an old line insurance company in a group form at a reduced premium to us and practically all of our members now have this health and accident insurance to protect them when they get sick or injured.

So it just goes to prove that a union and an employer can work together satisfactorily only if both parties are sincere in their desire to cooperate with each other, and if both parties are willing to give and take and honestly try to seek a middle ground and a satisfactory settlement of each and every question that will inevitably come up in the course of time, and it is our earnest hope that others will honestly try to as Local Union No. 1 has done and help to keep down (as much as possible) trouble between the unions and the employers.

Central Labor Union a Power Here

Clearing House for Labor of All Kinds in Chattanooga's Vicinity

On July 24, 1897, the Chattanooga Central Labor Union was organized, with seven Local Unions applying to the American Federation of Labor for the charter. It was granted in the names of John Buckley, W. S. Griscom, George Jones, T. J. Davie, James Carruth, Herman Fritz and Hosea Camp, as charter members. The Central Labor Union is made up through affiliation of Local Unions, and is the central clearing house for all labor. A Central Labor Union is to the city in which it is chartered what the State Federation of Labor is to the state, and the American Federation of Labor is to the nation. In fact, the Central Labor Union is the American Federation of Labor in Chattanooga.

Each affiliated Local Union elects delegates to represent it in the meetings of the Central Labor Union. These are usually elected for a period of one year, and re-elected, or succeeded by others, at the end of the year's service. The delegates from all of the affiliated Local Unions constitute the Central Labor Union, elect their officers, adopt their own by-laws, change them at will in regularly prescribed manner, yet at all times all laws and all business of the Central Labor Union must be adopted and conducted in accordance with the general laws, rules and regulations of the parent body, the American Federation of Labor.

The Chattanooga Central Labor Union owns and publishes and manages The Chattanooga Labor World. It is the only place in the South where the Central Labor Union owns and operates the Labor paper. All other Labor papers in the South are individually owned and operated, carrying, however, the indorsement of the Central Labor Union in its city as the official labor paper.

Because of the tremendous influence and power represented in the Central Labor Union through the federation of so many crafts, it is one of the really strong influences of the city. Its indorsement is never given to any proposition until the merits of the case have been most thoroughly investigated, but once given, the indorsement of the Central Labor Union is a mighty factor for any man or any measure.

The following crafts and organizations are affiliated with the eCntral Labor Union in Chattanooga:

Mailers; Pressmen No. 165; Barbers No. 428; Electricians No. 175; Workers No. 79; Culinary Workers; Movie Operators No. 259; Bricklayers No. 6; Musicians No. 80; Chemical Cotton Federal Labor Union; Plumbers No. 43; Plumbers' Auxiliary No. 43; Sheet Metal Workers; Molders No. 53; Machinists No. 56; Electricians No. 662 (Radio Workers); Teamsters No. 515; Plasterers; Woodworkers No. 1950; Cement Workers No. 1; Stage Employees No. 140; Glass Blowers No. 156; Operating Engineers No. 917; Electric Linemen No. 846; Bridge and Iron WorkersNo. 526; Hodcarriers No. 1126; Street R. R. No. 1120 (School Bus Drivers); American Mfg. Co.—Federal Labor Union; Machinists No. 1450; Teachers No. 246; Street Railway No. 1212; Paper Makers No. 219; Tennessee Paper Makers No. 262; Bakers No. 25; Dairy Workers No. 428; Roofers; Retail Clerks; Taxi Drivers No. 594; Carpenters No. 1592; Glass Blowers No. 92; Elevator Constructors No. 77; Painters No. 226; Carpenters No. 74; Brewery Meatcutters No. 600; Teamsters No. 166; (Bakery Salesmen); Teachers (colored); Lathers; Hodcarriers No. 846; Woodworkers No. 1882; Oil Refiners No. 323; Electricians No. 450; Label League; Pressmen's Auxiliary.

The aims and purposes for the organization of the Central Labor Union are contained in the following preamble, which was adopted at the initial organization meeting: "Whereas, the history of the working people throughout the world has been a record of constant struggle against oppression. And, the greatest obstacles in the advancement of the workers have been and are: First, lack of union; second, want of confidence in each other, and third, failure to comprehend the source of evils from which they suffer. Unity, guided by intelligence and integrity, is the only hope of Labor—the only means by which we can hope to secure justice for all the workers, both organized and unorganized. Without organization we cannot acquire the discipline which will enable us to direct our united efforts toward the accomplishment of desirable ends and continue the struggle until our efforts are crowned with success. Therefore, for the purpose of promoting such unity of sentiment and action among the people of Chattanooga, we have organized the Chattanooga Central Labor Union."

Our New Treasurer

ED BORK, JR.

The post of treasurer was created this year, and Ed Bork, Jr., was elected at the April annual election. Formerly the office of secretary-treasurer was one office, but duties in that post became so pressing it was decided by delegates to split the two jobs, either of which will keep one man busy.

Congratulating THE LABOR WORLD

On Twenty-five Fruitful Years

✣ ✣ ✣ ✣

SINCERELY do we admire a newspaper that can hold steadfastly to its cause, and yet be fair to those whose interests it may seem to oppose for the time; a newspaper that is run for a cause and not for profit. Such a newspaper has been The Labor World throughout its entire history. Its aggressiveness has been a great sword in the hands of labor; its sound conservatism a protection against hot-headedness in times of stress. The entire labor movement of Chattanooga is to be congratulated on the occasion of the silver anniversary of The Labor World.

Chattanooga Residential Consumers Pay Only Half as Much as the National Average for Electricity

THE CHATTANOOGA TIMES of January 4 published an editorial which quoted statistics of the electrical and gas industries showing that the national average price of electricity for residential and domestic use was 4.07 cents per KWH in 1938—the latest average available.

During the first four and one-half months of Power Board operation at TVA rates, the average cost to Chattanooga householders for residential and domestic electricity was 2 cents per KWH—slightly less than half the average rate for the whole nation.

ADEQUATE WIRING IS MODERN DEMAND

TODAY every family is accumulating more and more electrical appliances. If these are to be fully enjoyed the house must be adequately wired. Wires must be large enough to carry sufficient current so lights will not go dim when appliances are plugged in, and duplex outlets should be installed at convenient locations throughout the house. If you are going to build or remodel, the Home Planning Department of the Electric Power Board will help you plan adequate wiring. No charge, no obligation.

WAGE ADJUSTMENTS GIVE 165 WORKERS INCREASES IN PAY

IT IS of special interest that when the Electric Power Board took over, 165 of the 300 employes engaged in the operation of the distribution system, outside of office workers, received adjustments in pay which brought their wages up to the scale prevailing for the work they do. These increases reached a total of $25,000 a year.

Purely VEGETABLE Laxative

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's a purely vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

The International Labor Organization

By James A. Wilson

The International Labor Organization is not a trade union. It is a tripartite organization maintained by the governments of the world to establish social justice through the medium of international agreements drawn up with the help of the two groups most interested in miking this world a better place in which to live—the employers and the workers.

From its very beginning the I. L. O. recognized that one of the essential contributions to social justice was the guarantee of the right of association not only to the workers of the world but likewise to employers. Therefore the "right of association for all lawful purposes by the employed as well as by the employer" was one of the nine general principles laid down in the preamble to the Constitution of the I. L. O.

On June 19, 1934, the United States Congress authorized the President in a joint resolution to accept membership in this world parliament of labor. This fact is worthy of more than passing note from American labor when it is remembered that it marked the realization of a lifelong dream of Samuel Gompers for the participation of the workers of the world in an international forum devoted to the promotion of social justice. It was our own beloved Sam Gompers who headed the international commission that was established at the close of the World War to decide on labor's part in the fulfillment of world peace. What came out of the deliberations of that commission resulted in Part XIII of the Treaty of Versailles; labor's own international forum for airing its grievances, expressing its hopes and desires in an atmosphere at once sympathetic and congenial.

The International Labor Organization is composed of three parts: The International Labor Conference, the governing body and the international labor office.

The conference is the "legislative" branch of the organization. To it at least once a year go representatives of workers, employers and governments. Each member government sends one delegate representing workers, one representing employers and two representing the government. The worker and employer delegates are selected by the most representative organization in each country. The conference is charged primarily with discussing and adopting international treaties on labor problems. These treaties are submitted to the different member states for approval, and when ratified by the competent authority in any country become treaties between that nation and all other nations likewise ratifying them.

Duties of the Governing Body.

The governing body of the organization acts in the same capacity as the executive council of the A. F. of L. Its main duties are to arrange the program of the conference and to vote the budget and guide the policies of the international labor office, as well as electing its director. The governing body is composed of 32 members: Sixteen represent governments, eight represent workers and eight represent employers. The two groups last mentioned are elected by their respective groups in the conference. Eight of the sixteen government members come from the "eight states of chief industrial importance," while the remaining eight are chosen from countries selected by a vote of all member nations at the conference, exclusive of the eight of cihef industrial importance. The United States is fully represented on the governing body.

The international labor office is the "secretariat" of the organization. It employs a staff of about 400, who come from forty different countries, including the United States. Under the leadership of its director, John G. Winant, former Governor of New Hampshire and first chairman of the Social Security Board, the office is constantly engaged in collecting, analyzing and preparing for publication all available data on labor and industrial subjects from every country in the world, and in carrying on the secretarial and clerical work connected with the conference. The results of its researches are made avallable to the general public through a formidable array of regular and irregular publications — a monthly review, a weekly magazine, special studies and reports, an official bulletin, a monthly document containing a translation of all important national labor legislation, a yearbook of social and industrial developments and a yearbook of statistics of labor—to mention only a few. The office, therefore, has become the most important labor research agency in the world.

Organization? As has already been

What has been American labor's share in the International Labor pointed out, Samuel Gompers was intimately connected with its creation. As far back as 1914 the Federation foresaw the need of just such an international organization when it adopted a resolution:

"That the convention of the A. F. of L. in view of the general peace congress which will no doubt be held at the close of the war for the purpose of adjusting claims and differences, hold itself in readiness and authorize the executive council to call a meeting of representatives of organized labor of the different nationsto meet at the same time and place to the end that suggestions may be made and such action taken as shall be helpful in restoring fraternal relations protecting the interests of the toilers, and thereby assisting in laying the foundation for a more lasting peace."

At the close of the war Samuel Gompers went to Paris to attend the meetings of the peace conference, and subsequently became chairman of the commission which drafted the charter of the International Labor Organization. From then on to the time when the United States affiliated itself with the organization, the Federation expressed in convention resolutions its appreciation of the value of the organization and recommended affiliation on the part of the United States.

America's Participation

When the United States became a member in 1934, the Federation immediately took steps to participate actively in the work of the organization. At the convention of the A. F. of L. that year the Committee on International Labor Relations reported as follows:

"We believe that the American Federation of Labor will benefit by closer contacts with the International Labor Organization and its international clearing center for labor information. In pursuance of this object it becomes imperative that the American Federation of Labor shall be most adequately represented by a full and complete delegation such as is provided in the practices and customs of the International Labor Organization."

To every session of the international labor conference since 1935 the United States has sent full and complete delegations—two government delegates and one representative each of employers and workers.

Needless to say, a conference at which some 400 persons gather from fifty or more nations could not be expected to accomplish very much if it were left to pass on the subjects on its program in whole session. Thus the conference divides itself up into a series of committees, enough to take care of the business on the agenda, and meets in plenary session only as one or more committees complete their work and submit their reports to it for discussion and adoption or rejection as the case may be. It is, then, the work of the committees which is the very backbone of the conference. It is this work which will decide the success or failure of any one item on the agenda, or even of the conference itself, and it is here that the three groups in the conference are given the opportunity to make their presence felt.

Wide Range of I. L. O. Activity

The American workers' delegates and their advisers have taken an active part in the work of the various conference committees which consider the various subjects on the agenda of the conference.

It will be seen from this necessarily brief commentary that the International Labor Organization is a great open forum in which representatives of the Government, of labor and of employers have an equal voice. The International Labor Organization is the one great forces in the world today that is striving for social justice with the realization that with social justice will come an assured world peace.

William Green Congratulates

The American Federation of Labor extends congratulations and fraternal greetings to the Labor World of Chattanooga on the occasion of its Silver Anniversary. You should indeed be proud of a record of service to the workers of your locality directly and indirectly to the whole labor movement.

In this quarter of a century you have seen and recorded great changes in the South. Among the more important have been TVA, which brought electric power into your homes and factories, and the introduction of new industries based on new uses of vegetable matter, new crops for your farm lands, and substitutes for old materials discovered through the test tubes of your laboratories. As the South is finding new sources, it is finding new jobs for its employable population and the possibilities for larger incomes and more and more people.

The coming of new industries into Southern states makes doubly necessary expansion of the organized labor movement to parallel industrial progress. The wage-earners of the South need the protection of unionism whether they work on farms or in factories. Unionism will bring to them the opportunity to define and exercise their rights as free workers, and will also give them opportunity to bargain with their employers on an equal footing, so that all service may be protected by written contracts specifying terms and conditions of work.

It is especially fitting that in the South union-management relations should be based upon mutual agreement and co-operation — not upon strife and conflict with their attendant waste and subsequent train of turmoil.

The establishment of co-operative relations between management and labor will help to overcome regional differentials which now handicap the South.

The minimum wage in the South today for the majority of men working in industry is 30 cents an hour or less. In the North and West the minimum for the majority is 52.5 cents or higher. This is shown by a United States Labor Department study of entrance wage rates for male common labor in 20 industries.

At 30 cents an hour a man can earn a maximum of $655 a year if he works every working day. This is just half the minimum necessary for a bare subsistence living standard for a family of four in the South, by the WP budget, which was $1301 for nine Southern cities.

Labor does not intend to wait for the fair labor standards act to raise the minimum to 40 cents in 1945. We set as our goal the following:

By 1942 a minimum of 40 cents an hour in all industries.

By 1945 a minimum of 50 cents an hour in all industries.

The South refuses to remain perpetually a region of low living standards. The myth of lower living costs in the South has long since been exploded. The Labor Department study of July, 1939, showed that living costs in the South are only 3 per cent below the North. Low wages here mean nothing but low living standards.

The Census of Manufactures in 1937 show an average yearly income of only $762 per year for all factory workers in the southern states represented in this conference. The WPA bare subsistence budget for the South, as above, is $1,301, and an adequate budget for health and efficiency for a family of five is $1,931.

In many union industries the minimum of 40 cents is already established in the South. In cement, 69 per cent of the workers in southern states have a minimum of 40 cents or higher for men; in paper and pulp, 62 per cent, and in building, 67 per cent have this minimum. In electric power, a minimum of 37 1-2 cents is in effect for the majority; in machine shops and foundries, 35 cents.

Very low minimum wages still remain in fertilizers, brickmaking, lumber, paint making, cotton textiles and cotton garments.

It is our goal to bring these industries up to the best union standards. We will work to raise the minimum wage in all industries and to give craftsmen the wage to which their skill entitles them.

All new plants established in the South should maintain the same standards held by their industries in the North. The minimum for the majority of workers in northern chemical plants is 57 1-2 cents; new chemical plants in the South should not go below this minimum. For paper and pulp, the minimum for the majority in the North is 47 1-2 cents; new southern paper mills should not fall below this. For lumber, the minimum in the North and West is 57 1-2 cents for the majority; it should be 57 1-2 cents for all new mills in the South. Similarly for all industries, new mills coming South should maintain the standards of the rest of the country. The policy of forcing southern workers to accept a lower wage than their fellows in the North is contrary to American principles.

The Southern Labor Conference recently held in Atlanta inaugurated a new organizing campaign in the South. International presidents as well as field men participated in the conference and plans were developed for further co-operation. Organization is the key to progress and I feel confident that southern workers will unite to advance their own interests and lend their support to the constructive program of the American Federation of Labor.

At a games party a prize was offered for the one who could pull the ugliest face. The guests all managed to make horrible faces and at last the judge went up to a lady in the corner of the room.

"Madam," he said, "the prize is yours."

Looking up indignantly, the lady replied, "Excuse me, sir, I'm only a spectator."

TEAMSTERS NO. 515 WILL SOON BE LARGEST OF ALL UNIONS IN CHATTANOOGA

The formation of an organization later to be known as Teamsters Local Union No. 515 was begun early in 1935 by a group of dump truck drivers. For two years every attempt at organizing was a failure until April 7, 1937, when Teamsters Local Union No. 515 was chartered. The following are charter members: W. H. Howard, W. Phillips, C. McNabb, Walter Belk, Dewey O'Neil, Ralph Coleman, George Lawson, Farley H. Bales, Walter Gass, Frank Pack and Randell C. Holmes.

Local No. 515 has had to weather several strikes and many obstacles. However, they have secured many good closed-shop agreements, with an average wage increase of 30 per cent and much better working conditions.

During 1938 different types of drivers were applying for membership in Local 515. Furniture, lumber, wholesale grocerymen, building supply, general construction, and maintenance drivers were taken in. They also triumphed with the jurisdictional award of ready-mixed concrete trucks to this local.

Early in 1939 an intensive organizing drive was begun on the freight lines operating in and around Chattanooga. Many favorable contracts have been signed, and now in 1940, with the recent transfer of Dairy Workers' Local No. 428 entire membership coming into Local No. 515, the sun has at last begun to shine for the truck drivers.

Good will and safety committees have been formed by this local to work with the Parent-Teacher association, the Safety Council and the Chattanooga police department in an effort to throw a better light on the truck drivers as a whole, and to attempt to prevent the death of a single child under the wheels of a truck in 1940.

The present officers of Teamsters Local Union No. 515 are as follows: H. L. Brown, president; F. V. Gingerman, vice-president; F. H. Bales, financial secretary; W. E. Eckenrod, recording secretary; H. F. Blansit, business agent. The trustees are S. C. Stubblefield, C. A. Eaker and L. M. Wilson.

Tenn. Paper Mills Now Operating With Union Shop

Through the efforts of C. R. Schnee and George Durham, now members of the Paper Makers Local Union No. 362, and with the assistance of W. M. Barney of Machinists' Local No. 56, a movement was started to organize the workers of the Tennessee Paper Mill. Their efforts were successful and the Paper Makers Local Union No. 362 was chartered on July 21, 1937.

In August of 1937, an agreement was signed with the Tennessee Paper Mill, with the understanding that if after six months from date of signing agreement the employes of this plant were organized 80 per cent, that the management would sign a new agreement giving them a 100 per cent union shop. This was done and Local No. 362 is now working under a 100 per cent union shop agreement with this company. Since this agreement was signed there has been a better understanding between the management and the employes of this plant. Grievances that used to smolder underneath are now brought out and discussed between representatives of the local and representatives of the company. These discussions in most every case are settled to the satisfaction of both sides, and this in itself is a step toward progress and happiness for all concerned. The members have also received two increases in wages since the signing of the first contract.

As an example of this pleasant relationship, Local No. 362 have formed a baseball team, known as Paper Makers 362. This team is supported jointly by the local and the company. This local also has an annual picnic for its employes and their families. Last year this picnic was held at the home of the company's superintendent on Signal Mountain and was attended by around 300 of this group. This picnic is one of the highlights of the year and looked forward to by these men.

Local No. 362 boasts of a good safety record, they have not had a major accident since the local was organized. They are affiliated with the Central Labor Union and take an active part in general labor activities.

Present officers of this local are: Harry Bedoit, president; Dick Godsey, vice-president; J. D. LeMay, financial secretary; Homer Doyle, recording secretary; John M. Christian, treasurer.

One of the oldest and most powerful Labor Unions in this country is that of the International Typographical Union. No other organization of whatever nature has reached further down, lifted with stronger arm, and raised to a higher position the oppressed people about them than has the Typographical Union. In all cities of the United States the Typographical Union has furnished leadership for all labor, and pioneered in all battles for the advancement of working men.

Chattanooga is no exception to the rule. The oldest charter in Chattanooga is that of Typographical Local Union No. 89, chartered on Dec. 25, 1882—58 years ago. At that time George Clark was International president and Mark L. Crawford was International secretary-treasurer. Their signatures are on the charter of Local 89.

Charter members of Local 89 were E. C. Wright, J. J. Hobby, J. J. Hennessee, W. B. Christopher, C. F. Rawlston, W. J. Shanahan and W. W. Pickett. These seven men who applied for the Typographical Union charter, and in whose names the charter was granted and issued, started an activity and a series of events in Chattanooga that have had direct bearing upon the lives of hundreds of thousands of people. Being the first Local Union to be chartered in this city, these seven men and other members of No. 89 aided in the institution of all succeeding charters issued to the several crafts of Chattanooga. As the Typographical Union grew in Chattanooga, so the Labor Movement grew. In each succeeding generation, and in each decade, the Typographical Union gave of its means and the time and devoted services of its members to building the Labor Movement in this city.

Heads Typos

M. M. BEAVERS

In the halls of the Local Typographical Union men have been trained for service in all constructive fields of endeavor in this city. Its members have been drafted for positions of public trust; its members have entered the professions, business and finance; its members have contributed largely to the advancement of public schools and popular education; its members have become leaders in the church, in civic organizations, in fraternal circles.

Present officers of No. 89, who are carrying on in splendid manner the work started here 58 years ago, are:

President M. M. Beavers, Vice-President Hugh White, Financial Secretary F. T. Carter, Recording Secretary W. A. Baker.

BARBERS' LOCAL 415 SECURED ONLY CITY ORDINANCE IN STATE THAT WILL GUARANTEE SANITATION IN SHOPS

Barbers' Local Union No. 415, chartered at Chattanooga in 1902, has made wonderful contribution to Chattanooga and vicinity. Not only raising the standard of living for barbers but in the fine service rendered the public in cleaning up unhealthful conditions that once prevailed in practically all barber shops. Constant fight has been made by Local No. 415 to bring the barber shops up to a sanitary condition for safety of the workmen and patrons. The local union has encountered the usual opposition to all progressive movements but because of the willingness of the officers and members to stay on the line and continue the battle, splendid conditions have been brought about for barber shops.

It was Local No. 415 that obtained the city ordinance controlling the operation of barber shops, making it imperative that all tools be thoroughly sterilized, and a towel be used on only one patron and must be laundered before it can be used again. It brought about the examination of all barbers at least once a year, and prohibits men who are found to be suffering from communicable diseases from working at the trade. The enforcement of this city ordinance is in the hands of a barber board created in the ordinance, consisting of H. D. Beaver, J. S. Harper and Tom Turner of the barbers, and W. C. Adams, the health officer for the City of Chattanooga.

Officers of the local union are: H. A. Horton, president; L. R. Adams, vice president; Tom Turner, secretary; H. D. Beaver, recording secretary, and T. N. Briggs, guide. These officers constitute the executive board of the local union.

The Rev. J. A. Henderson, pastor at Jasper and Lenoir, is one of the oldest members of Local No. 415, and although he has not worked at his trade since entering the ministry a number of years ago, he keeps his union card paid up in advance and attends the meetings as often as it is possible for him to do so.

Local No. 415 in telling of the work it has done for the members of its trade and the labor movement in general, points to the fact that Chattanooga is the only city in the state having the barbers' ordinance.

But One Better.

Anthony Ashley Cooper, the first earl of Shaftesbury, was lord chancellor of England. He was a notorious sot, a great lover of female companionship and a gambler with hardly a peer.

One day King Charles II, who had no mean accomplishments in any of those fields, said to him:

"Shaftesbury, you are the most profligate man in my whole dominions."

The earl looked at him a moment and coolly replied:

"Of your subjects, sire, I believe I am."

MORE ABOUT

of the protection of the teacher tenure law, obtained through the good offices of the local unions of the American Federation of Teachers. A minority began this program for the advancement of the teachers, and although that minority has grown into a majority, yet there are some teachers who still refuse to come into the union and assist in carrying on the work for their own protection and advancement. Notwithstanding this fact, the remarkable growth of the teachers' locals here has been marvelous, and their achievements challenge the admiration of every good citizen of the city and county.

As additional service to the teachers, the unions have started a recreational program that promises much to all who are entitled to participate in its activites. The program ranges from sports to serious study, and is designed for the purpose of providing amusement for the members, sports for health-building purposes and study courses embracing research that will add to the enjoyment and increase the knowledge of the real teacher who always remains a diligent student.

Chattanooga's general labor movement is greatly enriched by the addition of the American Federation of teachers local unions to its roster. Already, within these short eight years of its life Local No. 246 has become one of the most highly valued and important units in the general labor movement in Chattanooga.

When Mr. Smith, because of press of work as national vice president, had to refuse to serve another year as president of the local union, No. 246 was fortunate in having in its ranks Mr. Willard Milsaps, who was elected local president, and who has carried on the work in a splendid manner. Miss Margaret O'Grady is vice president; Miss Margaret Locker is secretary; Miss Archie Ruth Brown is financial secretary; Arlie Hoodenpyl is treasurer; Tom Bell is sergeant-at-arms, and Paul Long is chairman of the publicity committee. Stegar Hunt is chairman of the membership committee; W. P. Bales is chairman of the grievance committee, and Miss Josephine Hamilton is chairman of the legislative committee.

Local 246 has done much for the teachers of the city and county, and the fact that the only security ever enjoyed by the teachers here, the only protection they have ever had, all came about since the organization of the local union is evidence that only through organization can any group of workers obtain those things and conditions to which they are rightfully entitled.

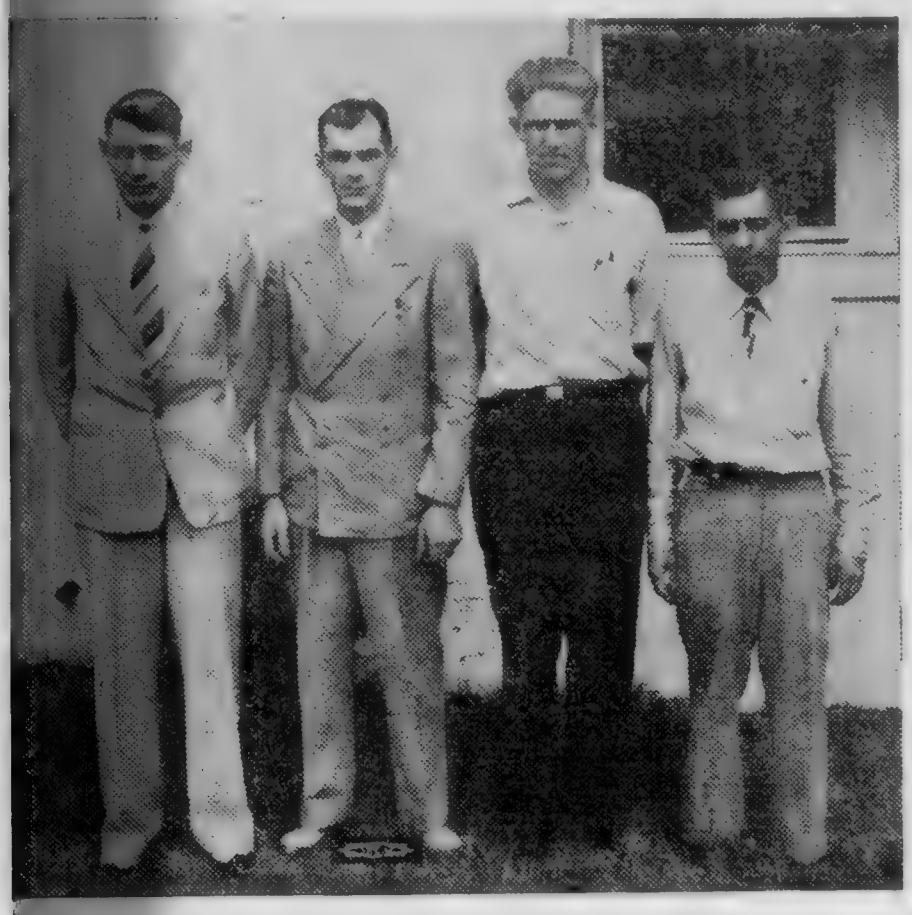
Electrical Workers Have Helped Make Chattanooga Homes Things of Beauty and Comfort

Local Union No. 175 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers was chartered in Chattanooga on June 25, 1912, and has played an important part in the labor movement of this city and section and in the development of the community. It is one of the strongest local unions in this vicinity and exerts a far-flung influence.



Reading from left to right: Wm. L. Williams, president; W. C. Harris, business manager and financial secretary; Bill London, treasurer; E. E. Crosby, recording secretary.

It is interesting to note that President William L. Williams was a charter member of Local No. 175 and one of its first officers. President Williams is now city electrical inspector for the City of Chattanooga and is one of the best known citizens of this community.

Charter members of Local No. 175, in addition to the present president, weer as follows:

Ernest E. McDaniels, international representative; John Stancil, Arthur E. Butler, Thomas J. Tucker, Wm. P. Howard, Mm. L. Cooper, member of the executive board; Robert H. Duncan. (The above named are still members of Local No. 175), Edward Carroll and C. A. Frost (now members of Local No. 450).

Present officers of Local No. 175 are as follows:

Wm. L. Williams, president; E. E. Crosby, recording secretary; W. C. Harris, financial secretary and business manager.

Executive board members: W. M. Pennington, Chairman; Bill Lindsey, F. H. Pool, Jack Carnes, W. Harris and W. L. Cooper.

Building committee: W. C. Harris, Wm. L. Williams, W. J. Copeland.

Local No. 175 owns its own office building at 723 McCallie Avenue, which was purchased ten months ago. The business office of the union is maintained at this place, and the meetings are held in the auditorium of the building. The members of this local are consistent in that they heat their buidling with electricity.

In addition to Local No. 175 owning and occupying this building, two other I. B. E. W. locals maintain offices and hold meetings in this building. These are Locals No. 430 and No. 721.

Union electricians have made great contribution to Chattanooga through their services. No other trade is more artistic, and there is no other work more intricate than that performed by the electrical worker. He deals with the force unseen, yet sufficiently powerful to dispel the blackness of the darkest night and to drive the wheels of the heaviest machinery. No home in Chattanooga would be complete without any of its appointments without the contributing effort of the skilled and trained electrical worker.

If Drinks Hinder Work It's Misconduct, Is Ruling In Illinois Case

Chicago (ILNS).—Frequent overindulgence in liquor outside working hours, which results in greatly reduced efficiency at work, constitutes misconduct connected with employment, the Illinois Division of Unemployment and Unemployment Compensation has ruled.

Under the state job insurance law, a worker discharged for misconduct in connection with his work may be penalized by having his benefits delayed for as long as six weeks.

The decision was made by the adjustment unit of the division.

"One who is discharged for continued indulgence in liquor outside working hours after warnings, which conduct shows a disregard for his employer's interest and which, in fact, results in greatly diminished efficiency, is discharged for misconduct connected with employment," the adjustment unit held.

The decision was given in the case of a young foundry worker who because of repeated nights of overindulgence in liquor could produce only about one-third of the normal amount of work. When the worker was discharged he filed a claim for benefits which was challenged by his former employer.

Chemical Workers Enjoy Harmony In Federal Labor Unit

Local Union No. 21061, Southern Chemical Cotton Workers was chartered in Chattanooga July 30, 1937. The local union is working under a closed shop agreement and has obtained a wage increase, the forty-hour week and a vacation with pay for its members. All workers in the plant who have been in the employ of the company one year get a week's vacation with full pay, while many others with longer periods of service get two weeks' vacation with pay.

This local union was the first organization in Chattanooga to win a labor board election and become certified as the bargaining agency for the organization. C. M. Fox, now international president of the United Textile Workers of America, was at that time a representative of the American Federation of Labor, and assisted the local members in establishment of their union in 1937 and in obtaining their first agreement.

Harmonious relationship exists in the plant where members of Local No. 21061 are employed, and the organization has already accomplished much for its membership and in the stabilization of the industry.

The following are are officers of this local union:

I. D. Stevens, president; Frank Hixon, first vice president; J. P. Salmons, second vice president; F. G. Glenn, third vice president; W. E. Joyner, secretary, and B. D. Lowry, treasurer.

Can You Picture Condition of City Today If There Had Never Been Any Organized Labor Here?

Remarkable in many outstanding aspects, the Chattanooga labor movement is especially rich in its history of the continuous union activity of men in the same family, even to the third and fourth generations. Articles appearing in this issue of the Chattanooga Labor World give many instances where sons served their apprenticeship at trades under their fathers and in later years taught their own sons the trade of the family. This condition speaks volumes for the stability of the labor movement in Chattanooga and the integrity and high standing of its membership.

The names of many men who helped to lay the foundation of the labor movement in Chattanooga back in the 80's remain well-known names among the leaders in the movement today. A study of the history of the labor movement in Chattanooga for the past sixty years, the hard battles that have been fought and won by labor, the old long hours going down in the face of the constant onslaught of the labor movement, is the eloquent answer to a question that was injected into Labor a few years ago as to "what the American Federation of Labor had ever done for the South."

At all times during this sixty-year period, Labor in Chattanooga has had for its leaders staunch members of sterling character and matchless manhood. The labor movement in Chattanooga has been no "fly-by-night" proposition, nor has it been built upon glowing promises of a Utopia, nor under the threat of revolution. It has been built by serious-minded men, men of intelligence, good citizens who had a reason for their every request, and the essential courage and determination to insist upon their request being granted.

Historians of the future will give to organized Labor its just recognition for its contributions in the building of cities like Chattanooga. It would be difficult to picture this city as it would be today had there been no organized Labor in this vicinity. It is certain that the public school system would not be in the splendid condition that it is now if there had been no organized Labor movement in Chattanooga. Thousands of attractive homes with their well-kept lawns and luxuriant flower beds that add to the beauty of this city would not be standing as they are today had there been no organized Labor in Chattanooga.

Reference, of course, is made to the homes owned and occupied by the members of organized Labor of this city. Had they not been organized they could not have earned and owned homes such as the workers have today.

Blind as unorganized workers are, they can see the benefits which they themselves have derived from organ Labor. The union members waged the battle for shortening the hours of Labor, and the nonunion workers reaped therefrom, because their hours, too, were shortened. Union Labor has brought about increased wages, and, to a certain, extent, the non-union workers obtained increases in their wages. Yet, if all labor remained non-union and no organized effort had been made for increased wages, shortening of the work-week or improved working conditions, even a half-wit can readily see that conditions among the workers would be most deplorable.

That is why the assertion is made that some day historians will give to organized Labor just recognition for its contribution to the advancement of society in general and to the city in which it operates.

One of Chattanooga's most important assets is the labor movement that has been so active and effective here during the past sixty years. History will so record the fact some day.

Great Progress Made by Elevator Constructor 77

Greatly Increased Wages With Excellent Working Conditions Obtained With No Strike In History of Local Union—Business Agent a Vice President of State Federation.

Chartered 14 years ago, Elevator Constructors' Local Union No. 77 has paid tremendous dividends to its membership in the way of increased wages and improved conditions. The union has contracts and signed worfking agreements with the Otis Elevator Company, the Smith Elevator Company and the Currin Company. The local union was chartered April 15, 1926, and has raised the wage rate from 65 cents an hour in 1926 to $1.45 an hour now. The five-day week, with time and one-half for overtime, and two weeks' vacation with pay each year, are some of the splendid conditions obtained by the local union since its organization.

All of these wage increases and improved conditions have been obtained by the local union without a strike of any kind.

R. R. French, W. C. Miller, C. R. Combs, J. G. Kelly, L. P. Collie, C. Jones, V. W. Hallmark, H. B. Dunlap, H. E. Blitch.

Charter members of Local 77 were as follows:

W. C. Graham, vice president
D. L. Ward, president
L.C. Gulley, recording secretary
H. B. Dunlap, financial secretary
V. W. Hallmark, business agent
Hugh McCullough, warden
M. C. Lawson, trustee

It will be noted that two of the charter members are officers in the local union, these being V. W. Hallmark, business agent, and H. B. Dunlap, financial secretary. Many other charter members are still active in the local union's affairs.

Local 77 is one of the strongest links in the Building Construction Trades Council here, D. L. Ward and G. McCullough being representatives to the council from the local union.

"Brother" Hallmark

Local 77 is also very active in the affairs of the Central Labor Union, V. W. Hallmark and T. R. Cuthbert being delegates to the Central Body from the local union. Mr. Hallmark is also vice president of the Tennessee State Federation of Labor. The local union is said by its financial officers to be in splendid financial condition, with all members of the local working and future prospects as promising.

WHAT a difference it makes whether the wrinkles etched by worry have to remain there while you are laid up --- or can be smoothed out by the arrival of checks to help pay those bills ! And you know --- if you've ever been disabled by accident or sickness --- how quickly those EXTRA BILLS can mount up !

More and more far-seeing industrial plants and business institutions are adopting a plan that enables their workers to have dependable protection against emergencies. They and their Employees have found it one of the greatest forward steps the plant has ever taken.

More than 1,000 leading plants of our nation now have Provident Welfare Protection plans, guarding their workers against income losses caused by accidents and illness or from a death in the family. This means that more than a quarter of a million workers and their dependents have this protection.

A Provident Welfare Protection Plan, developed to meet the needs of Employees of the particular plant where such a plan is installed, can help solve financial burdens of Employees by meeting the extra expenses caused by

- Death in Family
- Loss of time due to accident or sickness
- Hospitalization or operation when necessary
- Aiding dependents upon death of employee.

Serving the Nation

IF YOU ARE ABLE TO FILL THIS BILL THEN YOU ARE A PERFECT UNION BUSINESS REPRESENTATIVE

In order to qualify as a perfect union business representative a man must know all the questions and all the answers.

He must be able to supervise the conduct of his union's meetings in a manner that leaves no doubt in the minds of all concerned that everyone is right and no one is wrong in their arguments. He must be able to get jobs where there are no jobs. He must be at the head of the picket line at all times while making arrangements to feed the families of his members involved in the strike. He must be able to negotiate a contract that gives the union everything but a first and second mortgage on the boss's business. He must be competent to adjust all differences between men on the job, straw bosses, plant superintendents and general managers. He must be able to get political favors from friends and foes alike. He must be conversant with all the grievances, wrongs and injustices reactionary bosses impose on their employees.

Furthermore, he should be able to write letters to congressmen, senators, WPA officials, the governor, representatives in the legislature, the postmaster-general and all others —letters which will stand those individuals on their ears and force them to action.

A business agent must be a diplomat, a genius and what not. He should know all about old-age pensions, unemployment compensation, employers' liability, the wage and hour law, the national labor relations act and the state labor relations act. He must be able to campaign for one candidate for governor and in the event that candidate fails to win election—he must be able to go to the lucky candidate he opposed and get the self-same favors he expected to get from the one who was defeated. He must take an active part in city elections, campaign for the labor-indorsed candidates and then try to do business with the fellows who were not indorsed by labor but who had the most votes at the finish.

A perfect business agent spends all his time trying to get shorter hours and high pay for the members of his union. It is his job to agitate for more holidays, time and a half and double time for his members, sick leaves and paid vacations. To achieve these he is supposed to work from 8 a.m. until midnight, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. His time is never supposed to be his own. He's supposed to be at his office where he can aswer all telephone calls. While he is doing this he is supposed to be checking jobs, adjusting disputes, signing new members, negotiating new contracts, picketing unfair jobs, attending mass meetings, taking part in assembly affairs, serving on standing committees and organizing a ladies' auxiliary. He is not supposed to have a wife, family, home life or a hobby. He should never join a fraternal order because there may be members of that lodge who are antagonistic toward his union. He shouldn't spend any time in church for the same reason. He can't drive a big car because his salary won't allow it, nor can he buy a secondhand car in the above average class because folks will think he's putting on the dog—or taking money that doesn't come from the union. If he dresses too well, he's stuck up; if he doesn't dress as well as he might —he's tight-fisted.

To be a perfect business representative a man would have to be a superman. There are no supermen.

The buyword of a Nation

"SEARS" used to be just the name of a small-town railroad station agent up in Minnesota.

Today it's the buy word of the nation.
Such is the power of an idea.

Richard W. Sears had a sixth sense. Instinctively he sensed the possibilities of mass manufacture and mass distribution—much as Franklin must have sensed the possibilities of electricity when he drew the lightning down from the sky with a kite string—or Watt must have foreseen the future of steam when his tea-kettle lid whistled.

He knew that mass operation meant tearing down the fence between the "haves" and the "have-nots," and throwing the good things of life open to all.

Mixed with his vision was faith. He knew that, if he gave the people better goods for less money, they wouldn't let him down.

Nor was the unspoken covenant of faith one-sided — to make the thing work, the public had to believe in Sears, just as devoutly as Sears believed in the public.

Fifty-four years have rolled by since Dick Sears sold that first watch.

It was a good watch. It kept good time. And it cost far less than any equally good watch had ever cost.

Since then America has been setting its watch by Sears promise to give more and charge less.

And because that promise has never been violated, "Sears" has come to be —the buy word of a nation.

Carpenters Are Strong Factor in Local Labor

On August 28, 1901, the first carpenters' local union in Chattanooga was chartered, when sixty men applied for and obtained a charter and organized Local Union No. 759. The officers of that first local union were:

Warren Griffith, president
A. H. Hays, vice-president
Henry Horton, recording secretary.
Warner Hathaway, financial secretary
A. A. Boles, treasurer.

In February of 1902, Local Union No. 968 was organized at Sherman Heights, now East Chattanooga, with a charter membership of thirty-five and its first officers were:

J. K. McCum, president
M. L. Clark, vice president
W. B. Nickols, recording secretary
Joe Horn, financial secretary and treasurer.

All of the above named, according to the best information available, have passed on to well earned rewards, but they started a movement in Chattanooga that has grown in numbers, power and influence and has had beneficial effect upon the lives of tens of thousands of people.

The two locals grew and prospered until 1906, when they had obtained a combined membership of more than 300. The eight hour day movement was inaugurated throughout the country about this time and the Chattanooga carpenters entered into the fight with calm but determined spirit to win the eight hour day. After five months' struggle the battle was won, and the Chattanooga carpenters have enjoyed the eight hour day since that time—1906.

In July, 1910, Local No. 1577 was organized, but immediately thereafter a movement was started to consolidate the three locals, and three years later this was accomplished. On June 30, 1913, Local Union No. 74 was organized through the consolidation of the three Locals and has been the dominant influence in the carpenters' movement in Chattanooga since that time. It may be said that with the consolidation of these three locals and the organization of Local No. 74, the real advancement of the Carpenters' union in Chattanooga was begun.

A well-known and highly regarded figure in labor circles, J. L. Carpenter, present president of Local No. 74, joined the union September 23, 1903, and has been active in the affairs of the Carpenters' union throughout that long period of time, and a leader in the general Labor Movement here.

In May, 1917, Local No. 1882 for furniture workers and mill men was organized under the direction of E. J. Whitson, business agent at that time of Local No. 74. The carpenters and joiners had long sought an organization among the mill men and the organization of Local No. 1882, and tis phenomenal growth made it necessary to organize two additional locals in 1918. These were the box makers' Local No. 2113 and the planing mill men's Local No. 2229. These local unions prospered for several years, reaching almost 100% in membership. The workers obtained many gains and advancements during the years of their organization. But, in time, they permitted their interest in the organization to lag and local unions to die.

Local No. 1882 lost its charter in 1924 and soon thereafter Locals 2113 and 2239 likewise lapsed. This left Local Union No. 74 bearing the brunt of the battle alone.

In June, 1933, former members of Local 1882 sought reinstatement of their charter, which was granted, and the local union is guarding most carefully its organization to this time. It is safe to say, so long as novelty woodworkers are employed in the Chattanooga area, Local Union No. 1882 will be doing business at the same old stand.

Mill men formerly belonging to Local 2229 and new recruits in the planing mills of the city applied for and obtained charter for Local Union No. 1592 on March 31, 1937. This organization is standing four-square to the other carpenters' local unions and the trade union movement of the city of Chattanooga.

Local Union No. 1051—furniture workers, chartered June 9, 1938, is another strong link in the organized chain of the carpenters' unions in Chattanooga.

Linemen's Local Is Strong

By W. A. HARRISON, Corresponding Secretary

It is a real pleasure to have the opportunity of setting forth the growth and accomplishments of our local in this "The 25th Anniversary" of the Labor World.

Just a little more than five years ago, March 14, 1935, to be exact —fourteen stout-hearted men were granted a charter by the I. B. E. W., thus beginning a local union that was destined to become known as one of the largest and best in the entire South.

We of the young local soon found out that there was much to learn and continuous hard work ahead if we were to successfully find our place in the ever-growing labor movement, and today, we are still striving to better our local and its membership for there is an ever-increasing need for organization and co-operation in the world of today.

Our local enjoyed a fine growth in membership for about three years, thanks to the international officers' help and fine co-operation then in 1938 we were involved in a strike that taught us the true side of men, these included the organized, the unorganized and from the employers' viewpoint.

Certainly we lost the strike, but whatever the reason, be that as it may, we gained knowledge valuable enough to outweigh any hardships that befell us. We learned what co-operation really means, what organization is worth and above all, the membership of the local has learned to call a spade a spade and mean just that.

Our local is very fortunate in having good officers, especially our business manager, Lee Spriggs. He is wide awake, knows his business, and has been instrumental in making the local a business organization.

Today our local is composed of nearly 350 members. These men being employed by the Chattanooga Electric Power Board, TVA, and other private and public projects.

We of Local B-846 of Electrical Workers believe we have a good future ahead and would like for the public to know that to date we have received very good co-operation from both the TVA and Chattanooga Electric Power Board management.

We take this means of wishing the Labor World many happy years of success in the organized labor field.

USHA Loan Contracts Reach 400--

Public Housing Projects Benefit Over Half Million Slum Dwellers

Washington, D. C.—The number of public housing projects for which President Roosevelt has approved loan contracts reached 400 when, upon recommendation of Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority, the President sanctioned further loans totaling $13,004,000 to eleven local housing authorities.

These loans, to defray 90 per cent of the estimated $14,459,000 cost of eighteen low-rent and slum clearance projects, brought the total of approved USHA loans to $634,953,162 for 165 local housing authorities in 32 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. The 400 projects which make up their programs in 179 different communities will provide a total of 144,700 decent homes in which to rehouse more than 573,000 dwellers from city slums and more than 5,000 from hamshackle and insanitary farm houses.

With presidential approval of the twenty-fourth list of loan contracts, earmarkings outstanding for further loans dwindled to $44,-144,838, which with the $634,953,-162 in approved loan contracts, makes a total of $679,098,000 in USHA commitments to 182 local housing authorities throughout the nation.

To date, 189 USHA-aided projects totaling 73,091 dwelling units have gone under construction or have been completed. Tenants are occupying 22 projects in Allentown, Pa.; Augusta, Ga.; Austin, Tex.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Charleston, S. C.; Dayton, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Jacksonville, Miami and St. Petersburg, Fla.; New York City and Syracuse, N. Y.; Newark, N. J.; Toledo and Youngstown, Ohio, and Vincennes, Ind.

Costs of USHA Projects 10 Per Cent Below Costs in Private Industry

Washington, D. C. (ILNS).—The average overall cost of a complete family dwelling unit in the first 166 low-rent public housing projects financed with loans from the United States Housing Authority is $4,491, or about 10 per cent less than the $5,024 average cost of similar units in the first 165 large-scale rental developments which had been erected by private industry, the USHA reports.

USHA Administrator Nathan Straus pointed out that the new lows being reached in the national slum-clearance uprogram are particularly significant in that the overall cost figures cited include net costs of construction, dwelling equipment, administrative expenses, carrying charges, architect's fees, nondwelling facilities and land.

Most recent USHA loan contracts provide for a large number of projects with overall costs as low as $3,200 for a complete dwelling.

"It is obvious that public housing under the USHA program has lived up to the requirement in the United States Housing Act that the net construction cost be no greater than the average construction costs of dwelling units currently produced by private enterprise in the locality or metropolitan area concerned," Administrator Straus said.

Hatch Act, If Administered Sensibly, Held No Menace to Civil Liberties

Chicago.—The civil liberties of public employes will not suffer by enforcement of political neutrality through the Hatch act or any state and local law like it, if such laws are administered "with realism and practical sense."

H. Eliot Kaplan, secretary of the National Civil Service Reform League, expressed this opinion in an article appearing in the "Publis Personnel Review," a new quarterly journal published by the Civil Service Assembly of the United States and Canad. here. The journal is the first of its kind to be devoted completely to American personnel problems in government.

With the many new public agencies created during the last ten years, government service today calls more than ever for impartial administration, and it is now imperative that undue political activity on the part of public employes be eliminated, Kaplan contended.

"If restrictive laws are to be properly applied, however," he said, "there should be clear distinction made of the right of employes to participate in political activities which are patently non-partisan in character, and which do not directly affect or influence the election of any particular party candidate." Issues referred to the voters, such as proportional representation, the city-manager plan, merit system laws, bond issues, and constitutional amendments generally, were cited as non-partisan types of questions.

"It is difficult to see how legitimate activities of public employes will suffer under laws such as the Hatch act," Kaplan said. "Such laws will hardly be construed or applied as prohibiting organized employes from protecting their rights or interests in matters directly affecting their own working conditions, grievances and general welfare," he added.

Logical Conclusion

Schoolmaster: "Now, Willie, if the earth's axis is an imaginary line, can you hang clothes on it?"

Willie: "Yes, sir.

Schoolmaster: "Ha, ha! That's good. And what sort of clothes, Willie?"

Willie: "Imaginary clothes, sir."

One for the Dunce

The following story comes from France:

Teacher, somewhat irritable, to the dunce of the class: "Tomorrow I will ask you just one question. If you happen to answer that correctly, I will not ask you another."

"Thank you, sir," said
"How many hairs ha of the rest of the boys.

"319,847, sir."

Federal Old-Age Survivors Insurance

Under the Social Security Act as Amended in 1939

Part III of a series of 8 articles based on a forthcoming pamphlet to be published by the Social Security Board.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR INSURANCE PAYMENTS

A worker is qualified for old-age insurance payments when he is 65 years old or over, provided he has been on jobs that are covered by the law, a minimum amount of pay during certain periods of time. That is—

(a) He must have worked on a job or jobs in a factory, shop, mine, mill, store, office, or other place of business or industry, including banks, building-and-loan associations, and American ships. Those are jobs covered by the law. (Not covered by the law are, in general, jobs in agriculture, domestic service, federal, state, or local government service, and religious, charitable, or certain other nonprofit organizations.)

(b) He must be 65 years old or over and no longer working. After payments begin he is not considered to be "working" if he earns less than $15 a month on a job covered by the law, or if he has a job that does not come under the law at all.

(c) He must have been paid, on jobs covered by the law, at least $50 in each of a certain number of calendar quarters—that is, in three months beginning the first of January, or April, or July, or October of any year. Quarters in which he is paid $50 or more are called "quarters of coverage." They count when earned after age 65 as well as before.

To qualify for monthly old-age insurance payments, or in other words, to be "fully insured," a worker must have had not less than one quarter of coverage for each two quarters during the time after 1936 and before the quarter in which he is 65 or dies, if death occurs earlier. If he reached age 21 after the first of January, 1937, he starts counting with the quarter after his 21st birthday. In any case, he must have had at least six quarters of coverage. Once he has forty quarters of coverage, he is qualified as long as he lives.

Even though a worker may not be fully insured, insurance payments may nevertheless be made at his death to his children and to his widow, no matter what her age, if she is caring for the children. This is possible when the worker has had six quarters of coverage, provided these quarters came in the three years before his death. In such case, the worker is considered to be "currently insured."

Frontiers are not settled by wars. They are only changed by them, often for the worse.—George Bernard Shaw.

Law School Dean Assails Oregon Anti-Union Act

North Bend, Ore. — Oregon's union control law, which stringently limits picketing, is "vicious legislation . . . that quashed the rights and functions of a legitimate group," Wayne Morse, University of Oregon law school dean and Pacific coast waterfront arbitrator, declared here.

Morse asserted that labor's final retaliation may outweigh any benefits and advised other states not to adopt similar laws.

Morse advised unionists to remember that an employer is not responsible for jurisdictional disputes and said he considered illegitimate a picket line formed primarily as a political or social demonstration.

Employers and workers were advised to work together to obtain a long-time Pacific coast waterfront peace.

PAINTERS' LOCAL IS PERMANENT AS CHATTANOOGA INSTITUTION

Gave to International Union Its Genial Secretary-Treasurer —Local Has Had Unusual Record In Labor Movement Here—Permanency Shown In History of the Local.

Many men high in the official life of national and international unions had their early training in the local unions and in the Central Labor Union of Chattanooga. An outstanding instance of this nature is found in the advancement of C. E. Swick, a charter member of Local Union No. 226, Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America, who is now general secretary-treasurer of his international union. Local No. 226 was organized in Chattanooga on Nov. 3, 1900.

Other charter members were George R. Witt and two sons, George S. Witt and T. H. Witt. Of interest in showing the constancy of Local 226, two other sons of George R. Witt later became members of the local, one of whom is now financial secretary business representative of Local 226, W. A. (Zeke) Witt. The other son was E. K. Witt.

Will T. Camp was another charter member of 226, and later three of his brothers, Ed Camp, Clarence Camp and Ulysses Camp, joined 226. These four brothers lived and labored for their local union, and died as members in good standing, highly honored citizens.

Other charter members were: Arthur Graves, H. E. Hill, Henry Campbell, I. Q. Wilhout, W. E. Smith, E. C. Savory, D. M. Hope, Paul Wern, Jim Coursey, E. L. Davis, the local's first president; Milo Cooper, first financial secretary, and Mr. Swick, first recording secretary and now general secretary-treasurer of the international union.

At the close of the World War Local 226 instituted what has become known as "The Painters' Annual Barbecue." Every year this event brings all members of Local 226 together, and with them visiting friends and labor officials from many points.

The following are the present officers of Local 226:

A. C. Carson, president

S. A. Goforth, vice-president.

C. H. Thurston, recording secretary

W. A. Witt, financial secretary and business representative

J. Paul Sanders, treasurer

Homer Tarwater, conductor

Burt Randolph, warden

C. F. Weidner, J. G. Burke and A. L. Surrette, trustees

All of the above officers are active not only in their own local union affairs, but in all activities for the general advancement of the labor movement. Business Represtative Witt has had valuable experience in the labor movement, for some time serving as representative of the American Federation of Labor.

QUOTES

Protective Measure

The union shop is not a device to compel workers to join a union. It is a protective measure adopted by workers to prevent employers from destroying advantages gained by union organization. Union workers have established by their combined efforts high American standards of living and work. They refuse to work side by side with non-union men because they are determined to maintain and improve their working and living standards. —William Green.

Keeping Heads

The World war took the glory out of war. With no bands and no fanfare, even in belligerent countries, the people are keeping their heads; their critical faculties are awake. The power of propaganda is not what it once was. Current wars are being studied and judged less from the point of view of the results of possible victory and more from the point of view of actual imemdiate effects.—Florence Brewer Boeckel, National Council for Prevention of War.

TVA Electricians Have Local 450

At the beginning of the work on the Chickamauga dam about 80% of the electrical workers employed on this job were carrying cards with various locals. After much thought and discussion on this situation, these men realized that it would be to their interest fo. all in this particular branch of work to belong to one local. Of course, they met with much opposition and had some difficulty in forming a new local, but on August 21, 1937, I. B. E. W. Local Union No. 450 was chartered. The charter members of this local are: Henry J. Morris, Wilbur W. Steed, James L. Buchannon, Robert G. Breedlove, Stuart R. Stamps, James E. Lowry, Frank Coulter, Frank Miller and Raulston D. Carpenter.

Local No. 450 now has jurisdiction over the Chickamauga dam and Watts-Bar group of workers and is 100% organized. They have also maintained very friendly relations with the various locals on these two projects and often meet with the other locals to discuss matters of mutual interest. Each year a representative from each local meets with the TVA board of directors to discuss their problems, if any, and to adjust the wage scale and working conditions for their respective locals.

Officers of this local report that they have ironed out most of their problems and are working under very favorable conditions.

The present officers of Local No. 450 are as follows: R. O. Shellabarger, president; Eddie Bates, vice president; H. H. Hopson, financial secretary; John Enlow, recording secretary, and Sam Holder, treasurer.

TVA Substations Manned By Men In Local B-721

As soon as it was learned that TVA was going to acquire the properties of T. E. P. Company, 22 men, consisting of power plant and sub-station operators in the vicinity of Chattanooga, met with the thought of forming a new local. Most of these men's employers would not recognize organized labor and they were working under unfair conditions.

In May, 1939, with the combined efforts of these 22 men a charter was granted for I. B. E. W. Local No. B-721. After receiving the charter the membership gradually grew and now has a membership of 109 men.

Members of this local report that relations between labor and management are very satisfactory.

Present officers of Local B-721 are as follows: F. P. Elam, president; M. J. Gruner, vice president; R. W. Black, recording secretary, and C. C. Rymer, treasurer.

Carpenters Official Says Reds Deceived Union Members

Kelso, Wash.—Longview, Wash., union members were deceived by Communists, whose only interest was to create dissension and trouble, during the 1935 lumber strike, A. W. Muir, vice president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, declared in superior court here as a defense witness in a $239,994 damage suit brought by members of Local Union No. 2504, Lumber and Sawmill Workers, A. F. of L., against the brotherhood and Muir.

Members of the union seek damages for alleged loss of work resulting from the revocation of their charter—later ordered returned by the courts—during the 1935 strike.

"Local 2504 violated the regulations of the brotherhood," Muir declared in explanation of the revocation. "The union was destroyed by an invasion of Communists."

On cross examination, Muir declared the Longview Labor Temple, during the 1935 strike, was filled with Communist literature.

Washington Carpenters Initiate 500 New Members in Big Union Drive

Washington.—New members are flocking into the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, as a result of an intensive organization drive in the Washington area.

At a recent meeting in Carpenters' Hall here, more than 500 newly unionized carpenters held up their right hands and repeated the obligation, after which they received working cards in the brotherhood, bringing the total in this area to about 4,000.

The Carpenters' District Council, under the supervision of Walter J. Dunn of Milwaukee, and William J. Kelly of Pittsburgh, international representatives, has for a number of weeks been canvassing the non-union field here, and the meeting was the first to be held for the purpose of inducting the new members.

The oath was administered en masse by Mr. Kelly, and the new members are eligible to membership with any of the six locals in the brotherhood here. All are employed in the residential construction.

Kelly states that the council expects in May to hold another special meeting to absorb another 500 new members, also employed in residential work in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

Buying Power Now Big Need

In the past our country has depended on the savings of its citizens to create capital goods. Factories and machinery, railroads, ships and mines have been built out of savings invested in our expanding industrial equipment. Today our banks and investment markets are flooded with idle funds, and much of our plant capacity is standing idle. We need, not investment money, but buying power to put our plants to work, and only when buying power reaches a large enough volume to justify further plant expansion hall we find investment for these idle funds.—A. Under Adverse Conditions Local Has Made Great Advances Th Will Continue With the Year

It is difficult to refrain from resorting to the s style of writing when one is telling the story of Local No. 574. Restaurant Employes, especially th resses, have had to work such long hours at such ridic low wages that any effort to improve the condition which they work is disheartening because of the big the job.

Local Union No. 574 was chartered in Chatta March 15, 1937. Members of this organization at were working 14 hours per day for $3.00 and $4.00 pe and it is said that in some of the unorganized restaurants of Chattanooga today those conditions still prevail.

Charter members of Local No. 574 are as follows:

The local now has a membership of 140 in good standing. There are about 36 restaurants signed up and displaying the union house cards. Decided improvements have been made in both pay and conditions of the workers in restaurants since they are organized. There are evidences that the labor movement in Chattanooga is determined to throw more support than ever before to Local No. 574 and increase the membership and improve the conditions in the restaurants and cafes.

Much credit for the progress made by this local union during the past few months is given to Miss Beulah Ogle, financial secretary and business agent. She and the leaders of the organization are working in a field wherein they meet so many obstacles, an aroused public opinion is essential to the success of their union movement.

The following officers are faithfully serving Local No. 574:

W. F. Newton, president

Union Gray, vice-president.

Antoin Awad, treasurer.

Beulah Ogle, financial secretary and business agent

Alice Costello, recording secretary.

Louise Petty, inspector

Gotham's Longest Hotel Strike Ends in Victory for Union

New York City.—The longest strike of workers against a hotel in the history of New York City was ended April 9, when a settlement of the thirteen months' old walk-out was affected between the management of the Hotel Governor Clinton and the New York Hotel Trades Council, A. F. of L.

Under the terms of the settlement the hotel has extended recognition to the union and is re-employing strikers on terms satisfactory to the union.

Starting March 20, 1939, over refusal of the management to enter into collective bargaining, the strike was brought to an end through the intervention of Father John P. Boland, chairman of the State Labor Relations Board.

It was expected that negotiations toward the signing of a complete union agreement would take place shortly between the union and the hotel owners.

A 20-hour militant picket line had been maintained in front of the hotel by the strikers ever since 350 of the hotel workers walked out last year. Shortly afterward the musicians belonging to Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, struck in sympathy with the hotel workers.

The New York Hotel Trades Council, composed of five A. F. of L. unions in the hotel field, already has signed contracts with nearly 100 New York hotels.

Vegetable Laxative With Proved Feature

The punctual, satisfying relief from constipation and its headaches, biliousness, bad breath, so often experienced by users of this laxative, is mainly due to its combination of purely vegetable ingredients.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient has high medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative"; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

A little of this spicy, aromatic product by simple directions at bedtime, generally allows time for a good night's rest; acts gently and thoroughly next morning.

Next time, take time-tested, economical BLACK-DRAUGHT.

Seven Years of Progress Established 1933

Not in 25 Years Could More Rapid Strides Be Made Than We Have Made in 7 Years.

There is no line of business, no profession extant, in which more change, improvement and progress has been made during the last twenty-five years than in the work of the funeral director or mortician.

Compare a funeral service of a few generations ago, conducted by the old-time "Undertaker", with one of today, in charge of the modern mortician.

THEN... the whole occasion was hopeless! A fearful, awesome and terrible ordeal, with the crude, almost cruel surroundings; its depressing music, if any, its lack of flowers, of color, or any touch that might mitigate or relieve the despondency and gloom.

NOW... everything possible is done to comfort and console the bereaved. The emphasis is placed on the future life rather than on death, which is as it should be, for do we not believe as Christians that death is merely the door to a larger and better life?

The funeral service of today is full of color, of beauty, of promise. It is devoid of hopeless gloom and wholly lacking in fear and superstition. It is a comforting and helpful service, a final tribute to the departed, and becomes, as time goes on, a treasured memory to the bereaved.

Such a service the National Burial Insurance Company through the National Funeral Home offers this community. Thoroughly abreast of the times, alert to everything new and helpful in the profession, nothing is too good for those whom we are called upon to serve. We look upon our work as a profession, and upon ourselves as indispensable public servants with scientific training and a new conception of what is required of us.

Indeed, the changes that have taken place in our work during the past quarter-century have been so sweeping and complete as to be almost revolutionary.

LABOR MOVEMENT FORTUNATE IN RECEIVING LEGAL GUIDANCE FROM COMPETENT ATTY. KING

Has Never Lost a Case for Central Body or Local Unions That Entrust Themselves to His Legal Opinions.

Unfortunately members of organized labor and their local unions are impeded in making progress by court actions instituted by hostile employers who are able to retain expensive legal counsel for the purpose of sitting up nights thinking of ways of keeping us busy defending ourselves in court. Because of lack of adequate finance it is many times difficult, to receive protection from persecution.

One of the favorite tricks is to ask for injunctions against local unions on the flimsiest excuses. Although those reasons are inadequate, such cases must be defended in court in order to have them thrown out.

And all this takes money for fees that go to attorneys who are in that business. Then there are court costs, and if a good lawyer is not retained, many times a local union is whipped down by the main force of delay, particularly during strikes and lockouts.

The Chattanooga labor movement is most fortunate in being able to secure expert legal guidance on a basis that makes it possible for such help to be secured. Attorney H. G. King has built up for himself a reputation of being the most noted attorney on labor law in this community, and we of Chattanooga think that he is the best in the entire southland. This opinion is well substantiated by the record which shows that out of the multitudinous suits in court, not one local union has been penalized, nor has one unionist been unfairly treated by following the advice given by Attorney King.

One local union did place a case in the hands of Attorney King, but did not like his advice and thereupon took the matter out of his hands, and gave it to an attorney in another city, paying him a very handsome fee. The result of the trial came out exactly as Mr. King predicted, and the local union lost heavily.

WINS HIS CASES

H. G. B. KING

Entrance of Mr. King into the labor law field in Chattanooga came under peculiar circumstances, but most fortunate for organized labor. Years ago when the National Recovery Act was put into effect there were many chiselers who were not paying the wages required. Of course, the usual procedure of appealing to the NLRA board followed, and by the time a hearing, much less a decision, had been secured, the victim was exhausted and unable to avail himself of any benefits that he might have been able to secure.

The Labor World at that time received a visitor who introduced himself as Attorney H. G. B. King This man said that he had been observing what had been going on and was quite incensed at the injustice of such treatment. He said that he would be glad to lend his assistance without charge to Central Body.

Officers of Central Body naturally wondered at first at his interest, since he himself was not a member of organized labor and had not at that time established in this community a wide reputation, due to a comparative recent arrival here from another part of the country.

After much thought and study, it was decided to allow Mr. King to give it a try. Things began to hum. Instead of going into the NLRA he simply filed suit in courts of equity and won his cases. Many thousands of dollars were secured as back pay, and employers began to sit up and take notice.

Then in the wave of lockouts and forced strikes that occurred at that time injunction suits followed thick and fast. Mr. King defended them, and not one time was an employer able to accomplish his purpose by using the unfair injunction method.

And what does Mr. King get out of it? First of all, the undying friendship of members of organized labor and the personal satisfaction of helping a just cause. He charges fees on occasions when local unions are able to pay a reasonable fee. And they are most reasonable. At no time have we known him to refuse a case because there would be no fee forthcoming. On other cases we have known him to dig down in his own pockets to pay the expenses incidental to a trial without charging a fee, and never to be remunerated.

This is something that might be said impossible. It has been a rare instance to see an attorney, having no personal connection with working men's organizations, offering his valuable services in order to help humanity.

Today Mr. King is on a regular retainer to represent many national and local unions, employers retain their legal

In Knoxville not so long King defended over three individual cases resulting general and sweeping against strikers who were for the right to live decent like Americans.

In the past three years tried over 2,000 cases in Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, and now has a suit in Court of Appeals on behalf tral Body, testing the right state to charge a poll tax requisite for voting.

And not the least of the ices is that of Miss Virginia Roberts, his obliging Never is the office too crowded her to greet everyone with a salutation and an anxious to do any favor asked.

It is generally conceded King, affectionately known phabet" because of his tials, has taken most of the sting from injunction suits his assistance and wise has been possible for the movement to make great and rarely ever does a labor union receive such co-op

Court Asked to Make Western Union Obey Labor Board's Order Ending Old Established Company Union

New York City.—Action to force the Western Union Telegraph company to obey an order of the National Labor Relations board for the abolition of the Association of Western Union Employes, one of the oldest and most notorious company unions in the country, was begun here before the federal circuit court of appeals.

Ernest A. Gross, attorney for the NLRB, charged that the association had been established, sponsored and promoted by the company to "thwart the will of the employes" who are its members. He asked the court to instruct the company to obey the board's order. Attorneys for the company and the association opposed his request.

Ruling unanimously that the Western Union had indulged in unfair labor practices, the NLRB, on November 1, last, directed that the association be disestablished and all recognition be withdrawn by the company. The company was also ordered to reimburse its employes for all dues collected for the association since the Wagner labor act went into effect.

Gross told the court that the association had been formed in 1918 by delegates selected by the company management. These delegates, he charged, adopted a constitution suggested by the company. Since that time, he added, the company has maintained a benevolent attitude toward the association, while remaining bitterly hostile to bona fide labor organizations.

The NLRB attorney traced the history of the company union and declared it had faithfully served the company in matters of wage reduction, working consideration and other matters.

The court reserved decision on the question of upholding or overruling the labor board's order.

Long Fight With Packing Firm Ends In Gain for Union Meat Cutters

Seattle, Wash.—A nine months' struggle of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America to obtain an agreement with Swift & Co., meat packers, has ended in a settlement to the mutual satisfaction of both parties, the Washington Federation of Butchers has announced.

Signing of the agreement—said to be the first signed by an Amalgamated local with Swift & Co.—brought to a close a boycott instituted last summer. It provides for imroved working conditions in the company's Portland and Seattle plants.

The $100,000 damage suit which Swift & Co. had filed against the Washington Butchers because of loss of business was was dropped as a part of the settlement.

Charles Mentrin, business representative for Local 186 and a member of the negotiating committee, said: "This fight has resulted in one of the most liberal agreements that any branch of organized labor has secured with Swift & Co, signed or unsigned. We are confident that as time goes on, similar agreements will be reached with Swift in other parts of the country."

Backed by Ideals

A Tire Company or an institution is in its character and methods only a reflection of the character of those who guide it through the years.

Behind every institution, formulating the ideals of its business and shaping its policies, is some personality or group to whose inspiration the structure owes its existence.

The founders of this business, when they laid down the fundamentals of this Tire Company, had their inspiration—the ideals of QUALITY and SERVICE. How well they carry out this spirit through the years of service is attested by the steady business growth.

Attack on One Group of Society P All in Jeopardy, Ickes Declares

New York City.—Oppression of one element of society endangers all other elements, Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, pointed out in a speech accepting the Louis D. Brandeis medal, presented to him by the magazine, the Jewish Forum.

"Neither the peace-loving Jew nor the humanitarian Gentile can be safe in his life or secure in his liberties," said Secretary Ickes, "so long as stronger and ruthless groups of men are able to preach hatred and practice violence."

Max Manischewitz, chairman of the award committee, said Ickes had been selected because he "had done much, not only in words but also in deeds, on behalf of helpless people by actually seeking a haven for the refugees."

"In the last analysis," said Ickes, "the fate of both Jews and Christians is so closely linked that one cannot be injured without serious damage to the other. It is a fatal illusion to think, as some to be doing in countries lik many, that you can throw into the arena and therewi isfy the beast.

"The experience of man shown that the more you to the beast the more blo he becomes, until in the en vours the very one who him.

TEACHER TALK

ACTIVITIES NEWS

The parliamentary law group met at the union office on Tuesday evening, April 30, at 7 o'clock. Mr. John T. Mahoney led a stimulating discussion on motions and general parliamentary procedure. It was decided to meet each Tuesday at the office for probably six weeks. Those who are interested in this group should be present next time.

The bridge group will meet at Hotel Patten at 7:30 Saturday evening.

Organized Labor and Teachers

We know two instances of splendid support by organized labor of teachers recently. In Milwaukee, Wis., the power of organized labor almost saved the Wisconsin tenture law from defeat in a statewide referendum. Those sections in which organized labor was strong turned in a heavy vote for tenure; defeat was due to the unfavorable vote piled up in rural areas. Inference: Labor realizes the value of teachers' security to work unhampered by fear of political skullduggery.

The other is the victory of the teachers and organized labor over the vested interests in Cleveland, Ohio, where the school board voted 5 to 2 to submit a two-year levy for approval of voters which would enable restoration of school salaries to 100 per cent levels. All labor groups joined in the protest against the proposal to cut salaries of school employes. A major factor in causing the school board to submit the levy were recommendations by the Cleveland Teachers' union and the Cleveland Federation of Labor.

No More Fees in California

Compulsory fees imposed on California high school and junior college students, including registration, student association, and laboratory fees, were declared illegal in a sweeping opinion by Atty.-Gen. Earl Warren. As one basis for his opinion he ruled: "Inability to pay required fees might prevent a pupil's pursuit of a desired academic course. In our opinion, the law prohibits such discrimination." California, then, will have free public education—a kind of education that does not obtain in Chattanooga or Hamilton county. Here the system is to work teachers to death putting on operettas and other means of raising money, to charge students for a great variety of services which should be paid for by the governmental agency concerned, and to enlist the parent-teacher groups' aid to the same end.

The past decade has seen a tremendous increase in the sorts of school activities that require expensive equipment and additional time of teachers, but no proper increase has been made in the teaching personnel here, nor has any sound scheme for financing the equipment been followed. Questionable methods of buying movie equipment have been part of the policy of departments of education. Teachers have enough sensibility to see the mortification of students who lack the pocket money to contribute to drives and to pay for the numerous worthy entertainment features of a modern school, but teachers are powerless—and so are principals. There is a crying need for decent support of our schools.

Unemployment Still Biggest Problem, Ladies' Garment Workers' Union Says

New York City.—Unemployment is still the No. 1 problem of the United States, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union declares in its official publication, Justice.

Justice assails the attempt of certain statisticians to show that unemployment is much smaller than commonly believed and reaches the conclusion that unemployment, "in a large, distressing way, is still with us." It says:

"How big is the army of unemployed in the United States?

'Only a few months ago its number was estimated at 10,000,000, both by the C. I. O. and A. F. of L. Recently, C. I. O. sources boosted this figure up to near 12,000,000. The federal department of labor, on the other hand, places the number of idle by this time at 9,000,000.

Unbelievable Claims Made

"In the face of these figures it may sound unbelievable that some statisticians, who take themselves quite seriously, advance a theory that there are actually no unemployed in America today. Here, in a few words, is what they offer in support of their claim.

"At the height of the Hoover 'prosperity' in 1929, we are told, when many industries felt a dearth of skilled workers, there were still nearly a million unemployables in this country without jobs. At the end of 1939, these statisticians assert, there were only 78,000 persons less employed in private industry than in 1929. Of course, the population of the United States has increased since 1929 by at least 6,000,000 of whom no less than 2,000,000 are employable workers.

"To offset this accretion, we are informed, the number of government employes in various new forms and branches has since been greatly augmented; about 3,000,000 are employed on work projects of a federal, state or municipal character, and legislation has cut down the number of minors who used to work in 1929 to a minimum.

Unemployment Not Ended

"Quite plausible, isn't it? But, if these facts are so accessible to 'private' statistical wizards, how does it happen that they have remained a close secret to government fact-gatherers? One would think that the new deal administration would seize upon this precious information to tell the world that unemployment has practically been abolished.

"The answer is, of course, that unemployment, in a large, distressing way, is still with us. Neither private industry nor government relief and public works has succeeded in doing away with it yet. The millions who go around without jobs know this ebst. Political statisticians, on either side of the fence, may inflate or deflate tabulated totals of the jobless to accelerate wishful thinking or bolster partisan argument on the eve of an election campaign. Twelve or nine millions—the stark fact remains that unemployment is still our Public Problem No. 1."

Postoffice Clerks Local No. 192 is one of the affiliates whose membership is made up of government employes.

Pressmens Local Union No. 165, one of the printing trades group, has had much to do in making labor history in Chattanooga and the state of Tennessee.

Railway Carmen Local Union No. 211, Local No. 600, and Local No. 730 represent a large membership in the labor movement, and are in the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor.

Retail Grocery Clerks Local Union No. 625 is most active in the Chattanooga Central Labor Union.

Roofers Local Union No. 122 is making splendid headway in its organizational activities and its influence is being felt in the labor circles of this vicinity.

Sheet Metal Workers Local Union No. 51 and Local Union No. 267, are in the building trades family, and these locals have been a powerful aid to the labor movement.

Sleeping Car Conductors Local Union No. 29 is a splendid organization the support of which is felt by all labor in this vicinity because of the peculiar service this organization renders to the general movement.

Special Delivery Messengers Local Union No. 57 is one of the new organizations, yet this local has brought many fine young men into the labor movement who will develop into strong leaders and active workers.

Stage Employes Local Union No. 140 is one of the old standbys of the labor movement here.

Stereotypers Local Union No. 77, of the printing trades group, is a recognized force in the labor movement of Chattanooga.

Stove Mounters Local Union No. 99 won its place in the labor movement and earned the high standing and standards now enjoyed by that militant group.

Street Electric and Motor Bus Employes Local Union No. 1180 and Local Union No. 1212, are affiliated with the Chattanooga Central Labor Union, and their members won their present position by their loyalty and willingness to sacrifice and battle for their rights. These locals are a powerful influence in the labor movement.

Teachers Local Union No. 246 and Local Union No. 428 have, since their organization and affiliation with the Central Labor Union, made great contribution to the advancement of the labor movement in Chattanooga.

Teamsters Local Union No. 515, Local Union No. 428 and Local Union No. 594, membership in which includes truck drivers, dairy workers and taxi drivers, constitute a strong influence in the Central Labor Union. These local unions are in the strongest international union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Typographical Local Union No. 89 has made a great contribution to the Chattanooga Central Labor Union throughout the whole life of the central body, many officers of the central body having come from the Typographical local union.

Southeastern Express Workers Local Union No. 20197 boasts a large membership.

Railway Clerks have four local unions, these being No. 24, No. 450, No. 2165 and No. 2170, embracing a large aggregate membership that constitutes a great power in labor circles.

Marble Polishers Local Union No. 130, located at Crossville, is an integral part of the Chattanooga labor movement.

Local Union No. 21164, Copperhill, Tenn., is making history for the organized labor movement, and is affiliated with the Chattanooga Central Labor Union.

Maintenance of Way Local Union No. 725, Columbia, is part and parcel of the Chattanooga labor movement, and an important part, too.

Brick and Clay Workers Local Union No. 629, and Local No. 634, located at Daisy, work with and through the Chattanooga Central Labor Union.

There may be other local unions not mentioned herein, yet effort has been made to make a complete report of the local unions in Chattanooga and in the jurisdiction of the Chattanooga Central Labor Union, and if any have been omitted it is because The Labor World has been unable to get proper information bout such, if any there be.

The foregoing impressive list of local unions constituting the labor movement in Chattanooga should be sufficient to explain to many people why it is that labor in Chattanooga wins its contests, elects its friends to office and defeats its enemies. It should also be sufficient reason for any worker not now a member of organized labor to make immediate application for membership and become one of the tens of thousands of organized workers in this city who are doing things for themselves and their fellow workers.

Deportation Bill Vetoed

Washington, D. C.—Concerted opposition by organizations concerned with aliens' rights was a factor in the veto by President Roosevelt of the Starnes bill providing for mandatory deportation of aliens who "admitted" sabotage or espionage or were guilty of violating minor narcotic regulations. The President held that the bill was "unnecessary and superfluous." The American Civil Liberties union joined the Foreign Language Information Service and eleven other organizations in a plea for a veto on the ground that the bill would work unjustified hardship and constitute an invitation to third-degree methods.

Labor Fights Poll Tax

Austin, Texas.—Abolishing of the poll tax and provision for a secret ballot head the legislative program of Texas labor this year. Labor will strive to put all candidates for the Legislature on record in record for or against the two measures and will support those who pledge "yes" votes for both.

The settlement of the strike was brought about by the intervention of Gov. James H. Price of Virginia who called both sides to a conference, at which a tentative understanding was reached on the most important issues. Later the conferences were continued under the chairmanship of the commissioner of labor of Virginia, Thomas B. Morton, and an agreement was fully worked out.

Wide Interest Aroused

The strikers were represented by Samuel Laderman, general secretary-treasurer of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers union who was the spokesman for the union's conference committee, Isidor Laderman, general organizer of the international and the committee of the strikers.

The strike aroused wide interest not only in the South but in the labor movement generally. The strikers received moral and financial substantial assistance from the luggage locals of New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Racine and from many pocketbook locals as well as from the labor movement generally. President Green of the American Federation of Labor issued a special appeal for financial assistance which brought in several thousand dollars. The Virginia State Federation of Labor and its affiliated unions was especially interested in the strike and rendered great assistance.

...Washington, D. C.—Labor exec...ves joined spokesmen of con...mer and other organizations in ...ouncing the Patman bill to tax ...in stores before a House Ways ... Means subcommittee holding ...rings on the measure.

...John B. Haggerty, president of ... chairman of the board of gov...ors, International Allied Print... ...Patrick E. Gorman, president of ... Amalgamated Meat Cutters ...d Butcher Workmen of North ...erica, said the principle of the ...tman bill might be used eventu...y to tax labor organizations out ... existence.

Union Labor Also "Chain"

..."Whether we in the labor move...nt admit it or not," he said, ...e largest operator of the chain ...e system in the world is or...nized labor itself."

...Gorman said the proposed tax on ... stores would mean most of the ...ployes would lose their jobs and ...t consumer prices would be in...creased for those "least able to pay them." He said organized labor's relations with the chains had been highly satisfactory generally.

Clerks' Head Hits Bill

Matthew R. Speedie, Lafayette, Ind., first vice president of the Retail Clerks International Protective Association, said the enactment of the legislation would bring chaos to the whole retail system with the result that many clerks employed by chains would have to seek other jobs "in ends of the distributive system which pay lower wages and demand longer hours."

Other labor representatives who opposed the bill included C. M. Baker, president of the International Typographical union, and James M. Duffy, president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

Baker declared that the bill in effect would levy a tax on initiative and efficiency and put a premium upon mediocrity.

"You do not need to tax to destroy," he said. "Whenever one of the concerns affected by this bill ceases to serve the public and to continuously 'tell' the public what it has to offer and where it is offered and at what prices, it will pass from the picture."

Baker said that fifty-one daily newspapers had suspended publication last year and that the Patman bill, forcing chain stores to close because of prohibitive taxation, probably would accelerate such newspaper suspensions by removing an important source of advertising revenue.

Duffy expressed the opinion that enactment of the Patman measure would not be in the interest of the workers generally. The bill, he added, "is a destructive piece of legislation."

Inside electricians have signed with the contractors again, with increase in pay and few other improvements.

The Labor Temple committee has a good start again and have rounded second base.

I wonder if any of the wives of the electricians have been talking of the Ladies' Auxiliary lately?

Several of the jobs have caught up for a few days so Brother Harris has had plenty of company around the hall.

Pardon Is Asked For 12 Convicted In WPA Strike

Washington.—President Roosevelt has been urged by the American Civil Liberties Union to extend executive clemency to twelve persons convicted in the recent Minneapolis WPA strike and now serving sentences of ninety days to eight months.

In a letter to the President the union said that the Department of Justice had requested the dismissal of indictments against other defendants in the strike "conspiracy." No distinction should be made between those tried and those against whom indictments were dismissed, the union declared, maintaining that the subsequent imprisoning of the twelve was unjustified on grounds of public policy.

According to the A. C. L. U., "these twelve persons were among 165 indicted by the federal grand jury. They have been in prison since February 3 last. A few days prior, on January 31, the head of the criminal division of the Department of Justice, O. John Rogge, appeared in court to request the dismissal of the indictments against all the other defendants. This was done. There is no distinction to be made between those who were tried and those against whom indictments were dismissed.

"In view of that undisputed fact, it seems to us clear that the imprisoning of these people a few days after the dismissal of the indictments is unjustified on grounds of public policy, even though valid in law. The only possible correction of these obvious injustices is by executive clemency."

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA CENTRAL LABOR UNION

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE EARNERS

Vol. XXV. CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, MAY 10, 1940 Number 2

Dynamite Blast Gets Blast From Central Body

Special Session of Executive Board Hopes for Conviction

The executive board of the Chattanooga Central Labor union Monday night "strongly condemned" and hoped that "the guilty person or persons will be speedily brought to justice," after it considered the recent dynamiting of a nearly finished filling station located at Twelfth and Market streets.

Since the blast a person named Lupe, said to be a member of organized labor, has been arrested and questioned, but so far no new developments have occurred. The filling station has been constructed with nonunion and cheap labor, and a few days prior a nonunion foreman was arrested for shooting three times at a group of union pickets.

The statement, issued by Secretary Erskine Mabee, under orders of the executive board, says specifically:

"Organized labor in Chattanooga is unequivocally opposed to the use of violence and sabotage in labor disputes either by the employer or by the union. We do know that sometimes in the heat of conflict a reckless individual will bring discredit on the labor movement by unauthorized acts. We also know that sometimes employers have used spies and agents to do similar acts to discredit the unions in order to turn public sentiment against them. We condemn all such acts as contrary to the orderly processes which must prevail if co-operation of employers and labor is to bring industrial peace.

"We do not know why this particular act on Market street was done nor by whom, but we strongly condemn it and hope that the person or persons will be speedily brought to justice."

Typo Auxiliary Will Meet

Typographical Auxiliary 219 will meet next Tuesday night, May 14, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Wylie Underwood, 22. Barton avenue.

Mrs. Marion Seagle, entertainment chairman, has some plans for the social part of the meeting after the business is completed, so everybody is sure to have a good time. Don't miss it!

Oil Refiners to Meet Each Monday

Members of Local 323 in both Armour and Wilson company plants will meet every Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Alton Park City hall, until further notice.

All members please take note of this change and attend all meetings.

The Oil Refiners were glad to have George Henry, of the Central Labor union, attend the meeting last Monday, and enjoyed his talk.

From Hodcarriers

To the Editor, Labor World:

Local 846 of the Hodcarriers union wishes at this time to make its position clear in the recent blast at the Fleet Oil company's filling station on Market street.

We are as anxious as the police department of Chattanooga, or the public at large, to apprehend, and bring to trial the person or persons guilty of the act of dynamiting the above mentioned place

In our years of struggle for existence we have never been guilty of the destruction of property. This is strictly against our constitution, and we want the public to know we will not tolerate any such acts by any of our members.

We also want to take this opportunity to reply to the statement the contractor in charge of the construction of the Fleet Oil company's station made when he said, "He thought this was America." We agree, it is America, very much so. We also want to inform him that we will not allow the standards of American living to be disturbed by people like him as long as we can legally stop it.

We have been striving to establish the highest possible wage scale in the Chattanooga district. As long as we can do it legally we want to here and now inform the public and the would be nonunion contractors that we will meet all opposition with all that is at our disposal.

Information and testimony is available that Mr. N. C. Lowe made the statement that before he would use union labor he would blow the whole lot up.

Respectfully submitted,

JOE SHIPLEY,
Corr. Secretary.

LLOYD CAMPBELL,
Member, Trustee Board,
Local Union No. 846.

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

Pressmen's Auxiliary to Meet

Pressmen's Auxiliary 17 will meet on Tuesday afternoon, May 14, at 2 o'clock, in the I. L. G. hall in the Berger building. All members are asked to be present.

Minimum Wage Order Made Mandatory in New Jersey

Trenton, N. J.—The minimum fair wage order for women and minors employed in the cleaning and dyeing industry will be made mandatory on May 6, State Labor Commissioner John J. Toohey, Jr., announces. The order, which fixes minimum wage levels for approximately 6,000 women and minor employes of the industry, was first promulgated nine months ago. Up to this time violators have been subjected merely to having their names published by the labor department. Under the new regulation those found guilty of violation will be liable to fine or imprisonment.

Vice-President of Street Car Auxiliary International Will Visit Here Tuesday

Miss Ethel Wilson, second vice-president of the International Auxiliary to the Amalgamated Association of Street and Motor Coach Employes of America, will arrive in Chattanooga from Memphis Tuesday morning to attend the meeting of the wives of Local 1212 on Tuesday night, May 14.

This meeting will be held at the Hotel Patten at 8 o'clock on Tuesday night, and all the wives of members of Local 1212 are invited to attend.

The purpose of the meeting is to form an auxiliary to this active local of union men. A preliminary meeting was held two weeks ago at the home of Mrs. J. E. Mayfield. At this meeting Mrs. Harwood Wells was elected temporary chairman, and the ladies are anxious to have as large an attendance as possible to hear Mrs. Wilson explain more about the aims and purpose of the auxiliary.

WENCK HAS GOOD IDEA FOR BUILDING TRADESMEN TO SECURE OWN HOMES

HOME OWNERSHIP FOR THE BUILDING TRADESMEN

Why do so many of the building tradesmen have to live in rented houses? It is another case of the producers of wealth being unable to enjoy any part of the comforts they produce—the carpenter, bricklayer, plasterer, plumber, electrician, painter and decorator, sheet metal worker, lather, cement finisher, roofer, etc., are the men who, with the sweat or their brow, create all the fine luxurious comforts of home we see in all parts of our city and any other part of our land. But are the creators of all this finery and home comforts able to enjoy even a comfortable home which is modest and a home they can call their own? The answer is No. They labor on slum clearance projects, but yet they more or less are compelled to raise a family in places that do not show a very high standard of living.

The cause for this condition is not a lack of aggressiveness, nor desire to improve conditions, but with few exceptions men engaged in the building trades are not able to borrow FHA money to build a home of their own, because they do not have regular employment, and while some authorities class labor as a commodity, it can hardly be called a commodity, for the laborer has only his day's services to sell. If he fails for one day, he cannot work two days the next day to make up for it, or if he is unable for a week or month to work, that is lost and cannot be regained.

Of course, everybody will agree that the above are facts, but why is nothing done to relieve the situation? Can something be done? My answer to the latter is, Yes. Money is a medium of exchange! The medium of exchange will pay for whatever we desire to purchase.

If men employed in the building trades were secure in their employment through days, months and years, their income would be sufficient to own a comfortable home, because they would have that medium of exchange to pay for that home.

This is a rough sketch of the plan that will make every worthy building tradesman owner of a comfortable home that will cost him about one-half that rent costs, by turning the lost time into the medium of exchange, and paying for that home with the time lost from regular employment.

Members of the various local unions, who are interested in home ownership on this plan, have their secretaries hand in their names to the Trades and Labor council. This of course requires the participation of all crafts, and I have talked to enough men in all the crafts, who stated they would want to participate in the plan; business men with whom this was discussed agreed on the workability of the plan.

To begin with, one or more projects can be started, for whoever is selected to begin with, if he does not own a lot, he selects his lot, private loans can be secured to pay for the lot and all materials, equipment and supplies. Then the members participating in the plan who are unemployed, according to their craft, go to work. Every man man working on the job receives book credit according to his wage scale charged against that owner. The owner pays out no money for labor, but when he does not have employment he will in turn work on some other member's home and be credited at his regular rate on his account. In that way, the union labor on his home is paid for in three or four years time. The plan is a non-profit plan, no salaries, administered by trustees in the Trades and Labor council.

So with this plan the building tradesman who participates pays in money only on the loan for the material. There is no better place in the world than Chattanooga to start this plan. Let us work united to provide every building tradesman with his own comfortable home.

Have your representatives to the Trades and Labor council report on your interest in the plan. There will be more written later, and a meeting can be arranged to discuss all details, and put the plan in operation.

Over 140,000 to Live in USHA Housing by June, Is Estimate

Washington, D. C.—More than 140,000 persons will have been removed from slums into USHA-aided low-rent housing projects by next June, it was estimated by Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority. And all of them will be paying monthly rentals for new, safe and sanitary homes that will be approximately the same they were compelled to pay for substandard dwellings, or even lower, he asserted.

Approximately 20,000 dwelling units in projects constructed in the present USHA slum-clearance program will have been completed by June, Administrator Straus said. He estimated that an average of 2,300 families, or 9,200 persons, will be moved each month into projects reaching completion in first six months of 1940.

The approximately 69,000 persons who will have new and decent homes by next June in projects constructed in the present USHA program will augment about 71,000 men, women and children of low-income families now living in 49 public housing projects built by the PWA housing division and turned over to the USHA.

Dynamiting Outrage Condemned By Labor

(AN EDITORIAL)

The statement issued by the executive board of the Chattanooga Central Labor union last Monday which condemned the dynamiting outrage at Twelfth and Market several days previous should clear up a bit some of the disturbed minds of our citizens as to responsibility.

As to that small group of people who want to see the labor movement injured in prestige, we have nothing to say. We are not interested in what they purport to think and their eager innuendoes..

People who know the leadership in the labor movement, and the history of constructive activities of the Central Labor union need no re-assurance that we have not gone nihilistic. Certainly if evidence should prove guilt on the part of any person who might happen to possess a union card, the public will also recognize that the labor movement cannot be held responsible for individual aberrations. Such foolish and misguided actions,

USHA Housing Program to Give Jo To Over 90,000 Building Tradesmen By June, Administrator Says

Washington, D. C.—More than [illegible] building trades mechanics and laborers on a weekly average will be working at prevailing rates of wages on the jobs of apartment-type and [illegible] slum clearance and low-rent public housing projects [illegible] by next June, Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority, announced. This weekly pay roll will total about $[illegible]

During April, Straus said, an average of about [illegible] men a week whose weekly wages amount to almost $[illegible] were being employed on the sites of [illegible] projects now under construction in 197 communities. This is an increase of about 30 per cent over the winter months—December, January and February—when the weekly average was around 2[illegible]

Up to April 1, more than [illegible] men in the building trades workers on the sites of [illegible] projects now under construction or completed had been provided by the USHA program. Approximately $[illegible] in wages were paid to them.

Peak Period Begins in June

The current program of the United States Housing Authority will enter its peak building period in June, Straus said. Then about [illegible] low-rent homes for low-income families will be under construction out of a projected total of [illegible] units is the estimated number that can be financed from the original $[illegible] USHA war fund voted by Congress two years ago.

The USHA program has the hearty support of organized labor, which has co-operated not only for the economical construction of the safe and sanitary homes that are replacing slum shacks and hovels, but also has given earnest and effective support to the slum-clearance movement from its inception, Straus declared.

Straus said there has not been a single serious labor dispute to hamper construction in connection with any of the 240 projects now under way or completed in 110 localities. This has been due to "no-strike-no-lock" agreements negotiated by the USHA with building trades unions.

Agreements in 151 Cities

A checkup, Straus said, revealed that these agreements have been [illegible] with building trades unions in 151 cities and with [illegible] towns.

The United States Bureau of [illegible] which [illegible] functions [illegible] the [illegible] "prevailing wages" [illegible] local [illegible] and [illegible] ing projects [illegible] are built by the [illegible] [illegible] their [illegible] and it is the [illegible] of the [illegible] agreements with [illegible] trades unions will [illegible] be [illegible] and [illegible] part of the [illegible] by [illegible] of [illegible] cers.

Power Farming Held Strike Cause

New York City.—A warning lest the conditions depicted in the book and the film, "The Grapes of Wrath," become much more widespread than at present is contained in a pamphlet, "Adrift on the Land," latest publication of the public affairs committee.

"Adrift on the Land" was written by Paul S. Taylor, professor of economics at the University of California, a leading authority on agricultural labor problems.

"The march of power farming in cotton," Dr. Taylor says, ". . . is feeding the steady westward-flowing stream of refugees who will join the mass of roving labor from Arizona to Washington. . . .

"The invasion of southern cotton culture by power farming is well under way in important areas. Its progress is 'spotty,' but the pattern of social and economic effects which it produces is already clear—fewer family farms, larger farms operated by wage labor, dependence on mobile labor reserves to meet seasonal peak demands for cotton choppers and pickers. These reserves are being recruited largely from families who, until recently, were tenants, croppers, or laborers on the plantations, but who are having the ground cut from under them.

Second Shock Coming

"The harvest will remain a hand operation requiring large numbers of seasonal laborers until mechanical pickers become available on a commercial basis," Dr. Taylor adds, "but when this occurs, the mobile labor reserves required by semi-mechanization will sustain a second shock. Their present displacement from the land will be followed by the loss of even the seasonal jobs which now remain."

Along with mechanization has come a rapid development of large farming which has destroyed the traditional basis of American agriculture.

"The great strikes which periodically wrack the agricultural industry of California and Arizona," Dr. Taylor declares, "are not strikes between the ordinary 'American farmer' and his 'hired man.' They are rather struggles between individuals or corporations, who are more properly called 'agricultural employers,' and the workers they employ for particular specialized operations."

Big Employers Predominate

The industrialized pattern of agriculture, especially in the fruit, vegetable, cotton, and specialty crops, is among the factors which distinguish these agricultural labor conflicts from ordinary farm labor disputes. "Large employing units, heavily dependent on gangs of seasonal laborers to harvest their highly commercialized crops, predominate" in these fields.

"Adrift on the Land" is the forty-second in a series of factual, popular, 10-cent pamphlets published by the Public Affairs Committee, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City. The American News Company has taken 85,000 copies for sale on newsstands.

Bright Spark

"That new man Charlie is certainly a live wire," said the manager of the Canadian gas station.

"Really?"

"Yes, a motorist drove up just now and shouted, 'Dionne quintuplets!"

"That was a puzzler, wasn't it?"

"Not to Charlie. He simply said, 'Yes, sir,' and gave him five galls!"

Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Sign First Union Label Pact; Pay Double in Many Plants

Chicago.—A union label agreement, the first in the history of the international union, has been signed by Local No. 92, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International union, A. F. of L., and the American Lime and Stone company, Bellefonte, Pa.

There is, in addition to the union label contract, a signed working agreement in effect, according to Toney Gallo, secretary-treasurer of the international union. This, he said, is in accordance with the union's requirements.

Company Always Fair.

"The company," said Gallo, "is one of the most important lime producing companies in the United States and has always been eminently friendly and fair to our international union and the A. F. of L. It deserves the full co-operation and patronage of the general public and particularly deserves the full co-operation of the building trades crafts that use lime in their work."

Gallo also announced that Local No. 105, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, CIO, Mason City, Ia., the members of which are employed by the Lehigh Portland Cement company, had voted unanimously to affiliate with the AFL union and had been granted a charter, No. 106. About 250 workers are employed by the company.

Gains in South.

Employes of the National Gypsum company, Savannah, Ga., have been issued a charter, No. 111. The company employs some 120 workers at its Savannah plant.

Of the 111 local unions chartered by the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International union, about six—and these are new—are not under contract with the employers. Contracts provide for the union shop and the 40-hour week with time and one-half for overtime, and wages have been doubled and then some since the A. F. of L.'s drive to organize the cement, lime and gypsum workers, headed by William Schoenberg, president of the international union, was begun.

Approximately 70 per cent of the cement industry is organized and amazing progress is being made in the recently launched drive to organize lime and gypsum plants, a substantial number of which are in accord with the union.

COTTON MILL BOSSES REJECT STRIKE CONCILIATION OFFER

Milltown, N. B.—After three weeks, a strike at the Milltown (N. B.) cotton mill, with 700 union workers affected, is still deadlocked. Fred Talbot, president of the mill local of the United Textile Workers Federal Union, A. F. of L., has revealed that the local notified the head offices of the Canadian Cottons, Ltd., owners of the mill of the local's willingness to agree to a conciliation board, and to return to work before the board started functioning. oHwever, the offer had been rejected at the company's head offices in Montreal.

The mill is completely inactive, and, thus far no attempt has been made to introduce strike breakers.

AFL Asks Rejection of Air Agencies Change

Washington, D. C.—The American Federation of Labor is appealing to Congress to reject President Roosevelt's proposed abolition of the air safety board and the Civil Aeronautics Authority through his reorganization plan No. 4, President William Green of the A. F. of L., said.

Green pointed to the airlines' record of more than a year of flying without loss of life and asked, "Why not leave well enough alone?" He pointed out that the pilots are organized in an A. F. of L. union, the Air Line Pilots Association.

40-Cent Wage Favored For Paper Industry

Washington, D. C.—A majority of the pulp and primary paper industry committee has reported in favor of a 40 cents an hour minimum wage for the industry and a public hearing will be held in Washington on May 20 on the recommendation. Should the recommended minimum wage be approved by the administrator of the wage and hour division, it would increase the hourly wage rate of 8,425 workers in the industry, which employs approximately 129,000 wage earners. A minority report held that the majority recommendation would result in the losing of a number of small units.

DYNAMITING CONDEMNED

no matter what the motive might have been, will have to be punished at the source of guilt, and in that course the labor movement will have as much interest in seeing justice prevail as any.

A Methodist Sunday school teacher would certainly not want to be punished if one of his pupils did the dynamiting.

In connection with this distressing occurrence we wish to express appreciation of the Saturday afternoon editorial of the Tribune, which said that "the public would be wise to withhold judgment. Dynamitings are more frequently the work of enemies of labor than the work of labor itself."

Saying It Plainly

(From Editor and Publisher)

Effects of the past few years' thinking on the public relations of important corporations has become increasingly evident in their annual reports to stockholders. We have about a dozen or so on our desk, and at least ten of them represent a marked departrue from hallowed practice—they are in plain English and they make clear the implications of the accountants' figures. If lawyers have had any part in their composition, it must have been in collaboration with people who know the language that is used in daily conversation and in popular print.

That is all to the good. We can think of nothing more conducive to careful management than a custom which requires an annual accounting in words that are designed to tell truth and not to conceal monkey business. And we can think of no better way of dispersing the clouds of public distrust than by telling in plain words the truth about a job well done.

Depression Disaster

Part played by the American Federation of Labor in mitigating unemployment and other consequences of the depression has not been fully realized by the public or even by organized labor itself. The record shows that the Federation's emphasis on reduction of work hours, resulted in marked progress in this direction, helping to re-employ the idle and increase national purchasing power.

William Green pointed out these facts in his recent statement on "Labor and Technology" before the Temporary National Economic Committee. His summary of labor's part in lessening the depression disaster has not been given the attention it deserves. Here it is:

"When labor raised its voice for the shorter workweek seven years ago, it spoke for the employed and the unemployed workers alike insisting that sound recovery must be accompanied by a full measure of re-employment.

"Through the application of principles of our proposal embodied for two years in the NRA codes, through the ceiling placed on hours by the Fair Labor Standards Act, and above all, through the principles of collective bargaining, labor has succeeded in averting a greater economic blight and a worse disaster than we have seen.

"If positive progress is to be made in resolving the persisting and deepening unemployment problem, further shortening of hours must be achieved in our industry and trade."

Vote on Bill Wanted

Labor is on record as favoring Federal anti-lynching legislation and will have no sympathy with attempts to prevent passage of the Gavagan anti-lynching bill in the Senate by filibustering. Labor believes in full and free debate of controversial questions but it does not approve filibustering or mere time-killing tactics. Such tactics are reported to be under consideration by enemies of the anti-lynching measure, who undoubtedly will resort to filibustering if they think it necessary to defeat the measure.

The Gavagan bill was passed in the House in January of this year. Under the name of the Wagner-Capper-VanNuys bill it is now on the Senate calendar. The House has three times passed an anti-lynching bill only to have it filibustered to death in the Senate. There seems no reason why anti-lynching legislation should not be voted on by the Senate now and labor has shown unmistakably that it favors a vote without unnecessary delay.

CHATTANOOGA HOUSING AUTHORITY

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Heard Denounces Kefauver

(The following is the opinion of the author and does not necessarily represent the viewpoint of this paper.)

On guard, labor!

The Logan-Walter bill, which Senator Barclay says the president will veto if passed by the senate, was conceived in iniquity and brought forth by its sponsors in a deliberate attempt to hamstring and discredit the president and destroy the new deal, including the National Labor Relations Board, the Social Security Board, the Securities Exchange Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

And the able editor of The Labor World told me that Congressman Kefauver says he voted for this bill because it was indorsed by the A. F. of L. Possibly so, but, when William Green and Congressman Kefauver deliberately repudiate the leadership of Roosevelt and support Congressman Cox, of Georgia, and black reaction in an attempt to discredit the president and destroy the new deal, there is rottenness or stupidity involved—and labor, whether organized or unorganized, will not tolerate it long. Certainly no longer than the democratic primary unless Congressman Kefauver repents in sack-cloth and ashes and convinces the voters that he will not longer serve black reaction while professing to serve the people.

Mr. Kefauver has abundant proof of my friendship and support. I urged him nine years ago, before he had ever thought of running for office, to prepare for a public career, promising to aid him to the extent of my ability and limited sphere of influence. I have done so.

And, in asking The Labor World to publish the following letter, which has been sent to Mr. Kefauver, I am keeping both the letter and spirit of that promise, because, whether he realizes the fact or not, in voting to hamstring and discredit the president and destroy the new deal, including T. V. A., Mr. Kefauver—potentially a good congressman—is committing political suicide.

And, his real friends should tell him so.

The letter to Mr. Kefauver follows:

May 8, 1940.

Honorable Estes Kefauver,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. M.

In re: The Logan-Walter Bill.

Dear Estes:

Speaking as an old friend, and as your enthusiastic supporter in your race for congress, I note with sorrow akin to pain that you have repudiated the leadership of Roosevelt for that of Congressman Cox, of Georgia, the union-baiting, labor-hating reactionary, who received 5,137 votes for congress in a district where more than 40,000 other people of voting age are disfranchised by the "Pole-Cat tax" as a prerequisite to voting.

As you know, the Logan-Walter bill is the most reactionary legislation enacted by the house in twenty years, and its passage was an under-handed, back-handed, deliberate attempt by its sponsors to hamstring and discredit the president and destroy the new deal and 130 federal agencies created by it, including the National Relations Board, the Social Security Board, the Securities Exchange Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

And, assuming that you knew what you were doing when you voted against recommitting and later for passage of this bill, you evidently decided to renounce your professed faith in liberalism, democracy and the democratic party and deliberately voted to repudiate the leadership of the president, Senator Norris, Congressman Rankin and L. J. Wilhoite. Most certainly you succeeded in wrenching loose forever from Roosevelt's political coat tails, alienated thousands of votes, including democrats, independents and friends of the Tennessee Valley Authority and public power board in the Third district; and must stand or fall on your own record when you ... the democratic nomination fo... election to congress in Aug...

Bakers' Scraps

We had one of the best attendances at our special meeting last Saturday that we have ever had at one of our meetings. Could it have been that yours truly signed the notices for the meeting? I wonder! The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the resignation of Bro. C. B. Norwood as our business agent. Brother Norwood was replaced by Bro. Fred Elkins of Cameron and Barr Bakery. Brother Elkins is a charter member of our local and has been very influential in the success and progress of Local No. 25. I hereby pledge my support to Brother Elkins in his new job. By the way, did you know that yours truly has had the B. A.'s job this past week? Well, I have and will be very glad to turn it over to Brother Elkins next week. Fred is out of town this week on his vacation.

C. R. Sims has been in town this past week on business for our local.

Sorry to hear that Bro. Harry Hunt has been sick for a week or so. I am just finding it out, Harry, or I would have written it up sooner. Hope to hear of your returning to work soon.

Had a call this week from one of our cake bakeries that we have under contract asking me to go and talk with some of the stores and restaurants that are handling some of these nonunion cakes and pies. I did so and was promised that they would stop handling them. Appoint yourself as a committee of one to see your merchants and talk with them about these nonunion bakery products that they are selling. Union-made cakes, pies and crackers are: Dolly Madison, Mercers, Hoopers, Stones, Erskines, Grennans, Dutch Maid and National Biscuit Company cakes and crackers. Nonunion pies, cakes and crackers are: Chattanooga Bakery products, Virginia Dare, Hostess, Dortch, Franks, Jacks, Effie's pies, Malbra, Alton Park, Ambrosure and Travis pies.

Buster Parker was telling me the other night about having a birthday the seventh of this month and I am going to take this opportunity although it is a little late, to wish him many happy returns of the day.

I'll sign off this week with a little greeting to all the mothers on the anniversary of their day, May 12. I feel that I have about the grandest mother of all but I guess every one feels more or less that way.

To the dearest mother ever,
On the nicest day of all,
Happy thoughts and happy wishes
Come to pay a cheery call;
May they find bright skies above them
And the best of pleasures near
As they smile upon a mother
Who grows dearer every year.

I saw Ernest Crawbill the other day and he said that Bessie was better.

The Bennett Hubbard candy was successful this past week in signing a contract with Quality Service Stores to handle that good union-made peanut butter. Next time you are in one of these stores be sure and get a jar of it.

See you soon. Be sure that that cake, pie or bread that you buy is union made.

DIES SEEKING EMPLOYMENT

New Orleans.—After a walk of approximately five miles from one section of the city to another Lee W. King, 27, died in the employment division of the WPA while seeking a job. King had been ill for some time and was unable to work. Physicians said starvation caused heart failure and weakened his physical condition.

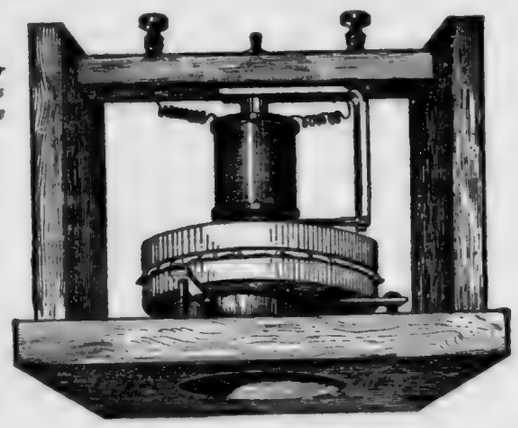
Alexander Graham Bell's First Telephone



From this crude

BEGINNING

. . . the telephone has been made a world-wide medium of voice communication . . . a dependable servant, available at low cost, to people in all walks of life. This remarkable achievement is the result of American initiative, organization and ingenuity.

The 21,500 Southern Bell workers have had an important part in this achievement. It is a source of satisfaction to them to know that they, together with thousands of other Bell System workers, have made it possible for anyone today using a Bell or Bell connected telephone to talk to almost any point in America, many foreign countries, and to ships at sea.

Americans enjoy the best, most dependable and cheapest telephone service in the world. They are assured of its continuance because it is the Company's policy to keep telephone facilities and quality of service ahead of public expectation.

Resolutions

ALMAND CRAWFORD

WHEREAS, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our esteemed and worthy brother, Alman Crawford, and it is with the sincerest sorrow and regret we find it our duty to record the passing of an excellent father, husband, friend and fellow worker in the labor movement; indeed, this is no small meed to give any man, and if we knew any higher compliment, gladly we would pay it. In his membership of Local Union No. 917, International Union of Operating Engineers and in the office of its business representative, his death has left a place that may be filled, but never forgotten; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that we as a body stand in silence for one minute as a tribute to his memory; and be it further

RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of the Knoxville Building Trades Council, a copy be sent to the family of our late brother, and a copy be sent to the official organs of the Chattanooga and Knoxville Central Labor unions for publication.

Central Problem —

Unemployment is the central problem in America today. The ildeness of men, machines and capital has been slowly eating into the very marrow of our economic organism. We cannot accept it or even any part of it as a chronic condition without admitting defeat. But in devising any means, no matter how effective, to bring about re-employment we must fully recognize the impact of technological developments on production—William Green.

U. S. Living Standards in Decline

Taking into Account Population Gain, Income Per Person Is Lower Than In 1929, William Green Finds

Washington. — Standards of living in the United States are declining—a new thing in the nation's history — President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, asserts in the April issue of the American Federationist.

A national income in goods and services about equal to that of 1929 is now being produced, but since the country's population is some 10,000,000 greater, its standard of living has been lowered about 7½ per cent, Green says.

Standards Down.

"Commerce department figures show that in 1939 we produced in this country an income in goods and services about equal to that of 1929." Green declares. "In other words, our 1929 production equaled the previous all-time peak, if we count only in terms of goods and services produced.

"We must remember, however, that our population has increased from 121,526,000 in 1929 to 131,180,000 in 1939. In other words, our 1939 income had to feed, clothe, house and serve nearly 10,000,000 more people.

"Because of this population increase the income we produced in 1939 provided 7.5 per cent less for each person than the same income had provided ten years ago in 1929. That means that our national living standard is lower by just this amount.

Millions Still Seek Jobs.

"Another important point: This decrease in our national living standard is a new departure in the United States. In the past we have increased our living standards by leaps and bounds. In the ten years from 1919 to 1929, we increased our per capita 'real' income—that is our living standard—by 32 per cent.

"Confusion also exists on the question of employment. Our population has changed greatly in the last ten years, because of changing birth rates. We have in 1940 fewer children under 15 than in 1930, but we have 12,000,000 more people who are over 15 years old. Out of this 12,000,000, after making a generous allowance for increased school attendance and earlier retirement, we estimate that 5,300,000 want work.

"We cannot escape the fact that there are 5,300,000 more people in the United States today who want to earn an independent living than there were in 1930, and this figure does not include any mothers, sons or daughters who are seeking work only because heads of families are unemployed.

Vast Number in Poverty.

"We have not increased production above the 1929 level and consequently wee have no jobs for these new workers. The American Federation of Labor was among the first to acclaim the production gains of last fell. We cannot, however, permit recent newspaper statements to cloud the real issue, namely, that, with 23,000,000 families — nearly four-fifths of all American families—living at income levels below $2,000 a year, which is minimum for health and efficiency, we cannot accept a production level too low to lift these millions out of their poverty."

Four-Star Essay Contest in Full Swing

Washington. — Announcing that the 4-Star Essay Contest of the Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, is in full swing, I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the department, emphasized the necessity of becoming familiar with the rules of the contest before entering it.

Hundreds of essays are still pouring into his office in the American Federation of Labor in Washington, Ornburn reported.

When asked how to enter the contest, Ornburn said: "It is necessary for every contestant to read carefully the twelve rules for the 4-Star Essay Contest. No one should start to write an essay before obtaining these regulations, which will be mailed upon request.

"Upon casual glance at many essays we have found that many contestants are disqualified because they do not abide by the rules. It would not be fair to award a prize to one who did not follow the rules while another sent in an equally good essay and complied with all of them."

The subjects of the first two essays are: "Why I Buy Union Label Goods," and "Why I Use Union Services." These contests are free for everyone. Any person, man or woman, boy or girl of any age, is eligible to enter essays in these contests regardless of whether he or she is a member of a labor union or a women's auxiliary.

Essay No. 3 is "Why I Am a Labor Unionist." The writers of this essay are confined to members of labor unions. Essay No. 4 is entitled "Why I Joined a Women's Auxiliary." This subject is confined to members of women's auxiliaries. It is absolutely necessary, however, that everyone who desires to write an essay should first read the rules and regulations for the contest.

Nine out of every ten traffic accidents for which the driver is to blame result from undue haste—haste to pass another car when it means taking a chance on being on the wrong side of the road in a tight squeeze; haste in going through the intersection when the other motorist was there first; haste to get through the next intersection before the light flashes red; haste on curves and hills; haste while traveling on the highway and not being able to cope with emergencies; haste on gravel roads, wet roads and ice roads which result in going off the highway.—"Smash Hits of the Year," Travelers Insurance company.

Union Makes Fine Record In Short Life

Broadcast Technicians Win Pay Boosts by Pacts With 150 Radio Stations

Chicago.—Progress that is nothing more nor less than amazing is reported by the Associated Broadcast Technicians, an affiliate of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, A. F. of L.

The union, organized only recently, is in agreement with about 150 radio stations, has obtained wage boosts of 15 to 300 per cent and established the 40-hour week, with double time for overtime, vacations with pay and compensation for travel on remote control assignments. The contracts are for the union shop and many clauses deal with unemployment and discharge.

Only four strikes, all on the west coast, have been called in the last eighteen months and resulted from disagreements on the terms of first contracts. Two of the four were settled in less than a day, the third in a few days, and the fourth, which started last October, is still in progress.

The Chicago local of the ABT is headed by Franklin George, an employe of WCFL, the "Voice of Labor," and was the first to be established. The local is the largest in the ABT and is in accord with most of Chicago's radio stations.

ABT's membership was once confined to the Columbia Broadcasting system, with which it has a long term contract covering technicians employed by CBS stations. D. J. Dunlop, of Chicago, is business manager and chief full time executive of ABT.

Lynchers —

I am in favor of the anti-lynching law because I am firmly convinced there is no way of punishing lynchers under our present court system. A federal statute on lynching is as necessary as the federal law prohibiting peonage. By the very nature of two crimes, the local courts are not going to punish offenders.—Dr. Arthur F. Raper, research director, commission on interracial co-operation.

WISDOM

Taxing is an easy business—any projector can contrive new impositions; any bungler can add to the old; but it is altogether wise to have no other bounds to your impositions than the patience of those who are to bear them?—Edmund Burke.

Remember that there is nothing stable in human affairs; therefore, avoid undue elation in prosperity and undue depression in adversity. —Isocrates.

Badly Wronged

The family quarrel had its height. "I wish to goo taken my mother's advice er married you," cried the her spouse.

Hubby swung round. mean to tell me," he de "that your mother tried you marrying me?"

Wifey nodded.

"Good heavens!" cried voice filled with remorse I've wronged that woman!"

LOCAL 1180 by O. O. GARRETT, Rec.- Sec.

Local 1180 had a good meeting on last Saturday, and took in four new members—Fred Leamon, Willard Graham, James Smith and John Fox. We are glad to have these brothers with us.

Ed Bork, Jr., and V. O. Cunningham came to our meeting as representatives from the Central Labor Union. They both made good talks and we appreciated having them with us.

O. O. Garrett has been elected to represent Chattanooga at the Tennessee Federation of Labor convention.

A motion was unanimously passed for each member of Local 1180 to donate one day's pay to the Labor Temple fund . . . this money is to be paid on the second or third month of the next fall school term, since our work is practically over until that time.

Next meeting will be the first Saturday in June. Everybody remember about it and be there.

Grandma Denten is all up in the air—don't say daylight savings time to him. Said it was nothing but confusion when they had it here before. And it didn't benefit but a few and that they didn't get it until noon anyway. Said if they wanted to do anything, cut down on the hours; give us six hours to the work day, then we all could do some vacationing.

You should see those pretty awnings at Si Perkins' house. They say all Si does now is sit in the front window and call out to his neighbors and tell them Sears & Roebuck has some more like these.

Paul Tex said he would give Old Man McKisick a box of cigars if he would tell the truth about the days when he was a lumber king.

Ed Vandergriff said Old Man Ike sure did some saw milling, or did he?

As Saturday night is meeting night would like to see a large attendance.

After reading most of the big issue of the Labor World of May 3, I don't see that much more could be said or written. That was a big job and it was well done. I think all organized labor should write Bro. T. R. Cuthbert. All those that were instrumental in getting all of that data together and printing it should be given a vote of thanks.

Charley McRoy said I had him wrong last week. Said it was Roy Welles who had the jenny, said he expected a big crop of acorns this fall. I have been told that Roy had a tree in his back yard that would yield 70 or 80 bushels of acorns. Now Roy, I don't think you will go far feeding that jenny acorns.

Some fish story Shorty Johnson was telling about Jack Floyd and Tex Welles. Said Jack and Tex fished all day without a single bite. "Tex this is all of the bait (had one little minnow left)," said Jack. "What shall we do, quit or shall we use this one?" Tex said, "Wait, let's give him a drink of that Signal Mountain lightning and see what it will do." They did. No sooner than that little minnow hit the water till he had a ten-pound buffalo by the neck. Shorty says they have had all the fish they want now.

Heard over the radio last week that there is a field open for supplying men with vanities, and I suppose lipstick and rouge. Imagine Shorty Lamon or Buck Lawson stopping work and pulling out a powder puff and rouge. Would our face be red?

Didn't know Lord Plushbottom was an old ballplayer. He sure knows some tricks that Lewis Williams should know. I'll bet we could win some games then.

A young Englishman on a visit to the west decided to go riding. The man who was to attend to him asked: "Do you prefer an English saddle or a western saddle?"

The Englishman looked puzzled. "What's the difference?" he asked.

"The western saddle has a horn," said the attendant.

"I don't think I'll need the horn," said the Englishman. "I don't intend to ride in heavy traffic."

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

M. J. COLLERAN

M. J. Colleran, General President of the Operative Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' International Association of the United States and Canada, has been a member of his Union for 35 years. In 1916 he was elected President and Business Agent of Local No. 60 of New York City. Eleven years later he was appointed to the office of First Vice President of his International Union and held that position until 1929, when he was elected General President. Mr. Colleran was President of the Building Trades Council in the city of New York. He later served as a member of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Colleran has been very active in Labor Union activities during his entire career. Under his able leadership the Plasterers' Union has grown to be one of the strongest in America.

He served as one of the three representatives on the housing committee of the American Federation of Labor. In 1933 he was elected by the convention of the American Federation of Labor as a representative to the British Trades Congress held in Weymouth, England, in 1934.

His address is: Mr. M. J. Colleran, President, Operative Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' International Association of the United States and Canada, 401 W. 263rd Street, Riverdale, Bronx, New York.

UNION LABEL

PLASTERERS' UNION LABEL

The Union Label of the Operative Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' International Association of the United States and Canada was adopted almost half a century ago. While this emblem is not conspicuously displayed on ornamental and cast plaster, it always appears on the back of all Union-made products. It is a symbol of the highest skill in the plaster and cement industries.

Members of Labor Unions and their families are urged to demand Union plasterers on all construction work and repair jobs.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Federal Old-Age Survivors Insurance

Under the Social Security Act as Amended in 1939

Part IV of a series of 8 articles based on a forthcoming pamphlet to be published by the Social Security Board.

MONTHLY INSURANCE PAYMENTS

What the worker himself re...ives is called his primary insur...ce payment. It is paid monthly ...d the amount of the payment de...nds upon the amount of the ...orker's average monthly wage. ...muneration in excess of $250 a ...onth is not considered wages. ...ot his accumulated total pay as ...der the old law.)

If he is single and has no de...ndents, that is all he receives. ...he has a wife over 65 or chil...en under 16, or 18 if attending ...hool, they will receive monthly ...yments in addition to his. Each ... these additional payments is ...ual to half as much as the work...'s primary insurance payment, ...bject to certain limitations on ...e total amount.

Widow's Payments.

In case the husband dies "fully ...sured"—that is, having the nec...sary quarters of coverage—his ...idow if over age 65 would re...ive a widow's insurance pay...ent equal to three-fourths of her ...sband's insurance payment. If ...e is not age 65 at the time of ... death, she will become eligible ...hen she reaches age 65.

Thus, if the worker's primary ...surance payment is $30 a month, ...s wife, at age 65, receives $15 ...d there would be $45 a month ...r the two. At the husband's ...ath, his widow would receive ...2.50 per month.

If a wife or a widow has worked ... a job covered by the law, and ...n qualify at age 65 for insurance ...yments of her own which are ...eater than what she would re...ive on account of her husband's ...rnings, she will get the larger ...nount.

Allowances for Children.

If the worker dies fully or cur...ntly insured, leaving a widow un...r 65 years of age with one or ...re young children in her care, ...e widow would receive her three-...urths of the husband's primary ...surance payment until the young...t child is 16, or 18 if still in school, and each child up to that age would receive half the father's primary insurance payment. In case of the death of a worker with a primary insurance payment of $30, leaving a widow with two young children, the widow would get $22.50 and each child $15, making a total for the widow and orphans of $52.50 a month until the children reach the age limit.

If there were three or more children, the family could receive $60 a month; not more than that, however, because the law fixes a maximum family payment of twice the amount of the wage earner's insurance payment, or 80 per cent of his average monthly wage, or $85, whichever is the least.

Duration of Benefits

If the worker dies "fully insured," leaving no widow or unmarried child under 18, an aged wholly dependent parent of the worker may receive an insurance payment of half the worker's primary insurance payment. In the case of a worker whose primary insurance payment was $30, each dependent parent, if over 65, would receive $15.

Insurance benefits are payable monthly for life after age 65 or any later date at which a worker retires. If paid to his wife or widow at 65, or to his dependent parents, the payments continue as long as those beneficiaries fulfill certain conditions. If paid to a younger widow with young children, the children's insurance payments continue until they reach age 16, or 18 if still in school or until they marry. The widow continues to receive her insurance payment as long as any of the children are still eligible.

However, insurance benefits are not payable for any month in which the person earns $15 or more on jobs covered by the law. Also wife's or child's insurance payments are not payable if the husband or father is working at a regular covered job which pays him $15 or more a month.

...abor and Other Groups Press Drive ...or Passage of Wool Labeling Bill ...t Present Session of Congress

Washington, D. C.—Labor, in...stry, farmer and women's or...nizations this week began a cam...ign to insure passage by Con...ss at this session of an honest ...ol labeling bill.

For more than twenty years la...r has joined with other groups ...urging that Congress stop shod... manufacturers from "pulling the ...ol over the public's eyes."

Bill Now in House

Success is close this year. The ... sponsored by wool labeling pro...nents, S. 162, has passed the ...nate. A similar bill, H. R. 944, ...now on the union calendar of ...e House. Proponents are confi...nt of a rule which may bring the ... up for a vote in the next few ...eks.

Yet there is strong opposition. A ...ge group of woolen manufac...rers is fighting enacting because ...ey find profit in adulterating vir... wool with reworked wool, with ...tton and rayon.

Substitute for Wool.

For every pound of virgin wool used by woolen manufacturers, 1.2 pounds of "shoddy" cotton and rayon are used in fabrics sold to the American consumer as wool.

Labor organizations have supported the bill largely because of the insistence of workers in the woolen mills who want to do an honest job and who feel that the consumer should be able to tell from the label how much new wool a garment contains.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 7th day of March, 1929, Chester Hawkins (single), of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration March 11, 1929, and recorded in Book X, Vol. 23, page 77, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Chester Hawkins has failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and has failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and has remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, as Trustee, will, on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, curtesy, and all other exemptions of every kind, the following described real estate in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot 11, Block 126, East End Land Company's Addition No. 1, as per plat of record in Plat Book 2, page 22, of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

LABOR'S BATTLE TODAY

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

The characteristics which stand out in a democracy are freedom of religion, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, and the right to choose whatever form of government may be decided upon by vote of the people. These principles guarantee the freedom of association, which includes the right of labor to organize. The characteristics which stand out in the despotisms of the world are the negations or opposites of these principles, all of which result in tyranny. And dissent is given no voice in a despotism.

The conflict of the century between democracy and despotism is now on. At present it is confined to countries across the sea. There is no guarantee that this conflict may not reach the Western Hemisphere. No man can tell what a day may bring forth. This is no time to take a chance with any party or group which may drive us into such a conflict, either through propaganda methods or through the secret betrayal of our country.

While we, as a people, may choose whatever form of government we want, we will not tolerate the highly organized movements now in operation which seek to disrupt our government through unlawful methods, embarrass our law enforcing agencies in the performance of their legitimate duties, stir up the people to commit acts of sabotage, and create anarchy and disorder among all classes through subversive practices.

For the accomplishment of their purpose they have honey-combed our industrial plants with agitators, systematicaly trained thousands of speakers and leaders through whom they seek to capture the labor movement, developed a widely distributed press and general literature, organized radical youth movements, and set up a concrete program for the promotion of general disorder.

They have perfected powerful organizations which owe supreme allegiance to foreign countries and to alien influences whose major purpose it is to create a revolutionary movement which will affect every nation in the world—including our own—and this is to be accomplished through treachery, malicicusness, sabotage and universal lawlessness.

Concerning such there can be but one attitude. Their motives and their methods, their camouflage and hypocrisy should be revealed, so that we may know them for what they are—not for what they pretend to be. This should be done through every legitimate method at our command. Organized labor should lead in this campaign—labor which represents every race, creed, and color in America—for, in the last analysis, labor has most at stake in this conflict. It stands to lose all that it has gained in a hundred years. If it should develop that America is drawn into this conflict—which we pray may not happen—the workers of our country will stand by; but even now let us deal with the "enemy" already within our gates.

Superior Unionists Resent Pegler Attacks on Labor

Duluth, Minn.—The Labor World of Duluth reports that there is considerable complaint in Superior, Wis., concerning the Westbrook Pegler column appearing daily in the Superior Telegram.

In accordance with this growing opposition to Pegler's attacks on the American Federation of Labor, the delegates at a recent meeting of the Superior Federation of Labor voted that a committee of four be appointed to see the Telegram editor.

They were instructed to inform the newspaper managers that if the Pegler articles continue the attacks on unions, the central body will use every means at its disposal to have members discontinue their subscriptions, the Labor World says.

FRENCHMAN ACTS LIKE SCOT

General Georges Mouton was a great friend of Napoleon Bonaparte. One day he visited his chief at the Tuileries, and Napoleon, glancing out the window, noticed his shabby carriage in the courtyard.

"Is that your carriage, Mouton?" asked Napoleon.

"Yes, sire," the general said.

"It is not fitting that one of my bravest generals should go about in a hackney coach."

"Sire, I am not a rich man and cannot afford a better."

The next day the general received a check for 300,000 francs. A week later he again visited Napoleon, and drove up in the same old carriage.

"Did you not receive an order for 300,00 francs?" aasked Napoleon.

"Yes, sire," said Napoleon, "and I am really grateful for the gift, but if your majesty insists upon my spending it, I would rather return the money."

We were happy to have with us t meeting night the employes of Home Plate restaurant and feel they will not be sorry for their action in joining the union. Boys, we want to welcome you!

We have on our sick list Charlie Gordon, who is suffering from tonsilitis, and will be glad when Charlie can get out again as we would like to see him working in one of our union restaurants. Sorry it had to get so cold while Charlie was on the picket line at the National Lunch, for it took us some time to replace him.

We have all been wishing for some summer weather and now that we have it am afraid we are all wishing it would cool off a little. I know that is what our poor girls on the picket line are saying and I can't blame them, for old Sol does burn down on them.

Open Letter to All Members and Prospective Members of the Cooks and Waiters Local No. 574.

(By a Member)

Dear Members:

In April of 1937 a small group of people met and drew up a charter for a local here in Chattanooga. These few people worked together in order to better the working conditions of the restaurant employes. They worked long and hard and gave their time in order to reach the high goal they had set for themselves. They knew it would take time and hard work but in helping others it would eventually benefit them.

At that time, as you all know, most of us were working twelve to fifteen hours a day, seven days a week for the small weekly wage of from $4 to $6. As we grew, naturally we placed house cards in quite a number of our restaurants. Some of you later went to work in these places under the union house card. You benefited from the wage scale set by the members. Then when the business agent asked you to join and told you the amount of the monthly dues, most of you protested and are still protesting. Every day or so someone tells me that the money they are paying for dues is not helping them any. Have you stopped to realize the increase over your former salary prior to April, 1937? No, I'm sure you haven't, because if you have you would be only too glad to pay the small amount of dues and assessments.

Too many of you who have gained the most from the Cooks and Waiters' local in Chattanooga are the ones who have put the least into it. You are also expecting more and more out of it. You must remember that by rights you only get out of anything what you put into it.

If you would take a glimpse into the history of other trade unions you would find that it has taken some of them thirty to forty years to achieve what they have. Our local is still young, in fact it is only three years old, and a lot of progress has been made and more will be made in the future if the members will back it with their hearts instead of worrying about the union not backing them.

So please, fellow members, the next time your business agent asks you for your dues or assessments, please don't start complaining so much about what you are going to get. Tell her what you are willing to do to help our organization go over big in Chattanooga and MEAN IT.

We dedicate our space this week in memory of our Mothers.

MOTHER

"Search the long annals of proud Rome and Greece,
The tombs of war, the chronicles of peace.
Ransack the old and modern rolls of fame,
To fit the brightest splendor on a name,
The name above all names is MOTHER."

The greatest word is "God.' The deepest word is "soul." The longest word is "eternity." The swiftest word is "time." The nearest word is "now." The darkest word is "sin." The meanest word is "hipocrisy." The broadest word is "truth." The strongest word is "right." The tenderest word is "love." The sweetest word is "home." The dearest word is "mother." "Everybody's mother is a remarkable woman." In that sentence you may find a kind criticism and a great compliment. There is no human name so enshrined in humanity's affection like the name of "mother." Everything for most of us, which is sweet, beautiful, lovely, and holy, clusters about that name. Think of mother and you think of home. Think of home ar I you think of the Bible. Think of the Bible and you think of Christ. Think of Christ and you think of God. To many a person a thousand miles away from home, the name of "mother" has the value of religion, pure and undefiled, and enshrined in a living personality. Mother and the home are the tenderest notes on the keyboard of the human heart. Woe to the man who does not respond to the music of those two words. The two brightest names in modern history are Lincoln and Cromwell. Lincoln affirmed, "All that I am or hope to be I owe to my angel mother." Cromwell says: "No other member of his family, neither his wife or father, influenced him as did his mother." He followed her advise when young, he established her in the royal palace of Whitehall when he came to greatness, and when she died he buried her in Westminster Abbey. The first university is the university of the home. Here the hours of recitation are the morning, the noon and the night. Here we find the round table of infancy and childhood. Here are discussed the problems of the present hour and the possibilities of the coming years. Here sit the scholars of youth and maidenhood. Here are enthroned two great chairs, endowed by destiny and sustained by human affection, Fatherhood and Motherhood. The greatest university in the world is the home. One good mother is worth 100 school masters. The mightiest prayers ever uttered have ascended from a good old-fashioned mother's lips. The swiftest thing in the universe is a mother's prayer. The greatest sacrifices for the church have been made by Christian mothers. There is no influence in the world today like the influence of a Christian mother. There is only one absolutely unselfish and God-like love. It is a mother's love. A mother's love is the best illustration of God's love. A mother's love is the best guarantee of God's love. The God who can create a mother's heart. God is love, and love is the mother-heart of God. And when you chance to meet some poor, besotted, sincursed, prodigal shunned by man and forsaken by God—no, not forsaken by God, for God has never forsaken a soul created by the breath of his power, that son poor wandering child of time should stagger across your path, just remember that:

"No matter how wayward his footsteps have been,
No matter how deeply he's sunken in sin,
No matter how low is his standard of joy,
Though drunken and loathsome—he's some mother's boy."

Well, we are in God's hands, surely God is good. Surely we ought to trust Him. O dear mothers, let this be a comfort to you, however weak you are, that you did your part honorably and well while you had the strength, and were a noble mother to me and to us all. "May God reward you, dearest mothers, for all you have done for us. We never can but will think of it with gratitude and love so long as we have the power of thinking and will pray God's blessing on you all now and always."

"If I were hanged on the highest hill,
I know whose love would follow me still;
If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
I know whose tears would come down to me;
If I were damned in body and soul,
I know whose prayers would make me whole.
Mother o' mine! Mother o' mine!

If your mother is out of town send her some flowers or a telegram expressing your love for her. If she is here in the city visit her or have her to visit you and take her to church with you, because you know that we are here today and gone tomorrow.

Way "Build-up" Helps Will Interest Women

The cause of a woman's periodic suffering from headache, irritability, cramp-like pain, may be functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, a condition that is often helped by CARDUI.

Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; so increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.

It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is invited by its 50 years of popularity.

Effective Utilization of Human Labor Pressing Problem Before Nation

Washington.—More effective use of the public employment service system was urged by Byron Mitchell, of Austin, Tex., on taking office as director of the social security board's employment service division, bureau of employment security. Appointment of Mitchell was made by Federal Security Administrator McNutt, upon recommendation of the security board.

In announcing the appointment, Administrator McNutt said that Mitchell is considered one of the country's outstanding authorities on placement and employment service problems.

"Public employment service," Mitchell said as he assumed his new duties, "provides the organization and techniques through which we can develop, in this country, a flexible well-organized labor market, based on accurate knowledge of industries' needs and workers' abilities.

"We Americans have built gigantic machinery for the purpose of effectively utilizing and distributing almost everything else with which industry is concerned; it is time now that we turn to the problem of effectively utilizing the most precious of all our resources—human labor. Progress has already been made in this direction through the public employment offices; fulfillment of the objective will be a very real contribution to the solution of our unemployment problem and to the well-being of the nation's economic life."

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Hatch Act

Controversy raged this week on Capitol Hill over the tabling of the bill extending the Hatch law by the House judiciary committee. Proponents of the bill say its aim is to "purify politics." Opponents label its aim as "purely political."

The philosophy of the bill is to extend federal control over officers and employees of states, counties and cities, where any part of their salary is paid directly or indirectly from federal funds, or where they do any work in connection with any project or agency financed in whole, or in part, by federal loans or grants.

It is recognized that if federal power can be used to prohibit activities on the part of state and local employees, it can by the same token be used to promote activities. The majority of the committee felt that if this power should later come into the hands of a person with arbitrary inclinations, it could literally be used to produce a political dictatorship over the entire nation from Washington. The committee was unwilling to take a chance on subjecting a very large group of local employees to a mandate of Washington, however, laudable the purposes of the legislation may or may not have been.

Wage and Hour Legislation

Proposed amendments to the wage and hour law were debated all week in the House. Representative McCormick of Massachusetts, a veteran of twelve years, said he had "never witnessed a more confused and disgraceful proceeding." Disgusted over the whole affair the House sent the bill back to the labor committee for further consideration. The majority of the members feel that some improvements in the law could and should be made, such as clarifying the definition of agriculture and "the area of production," and also it is generally felt that the act should not extend high salaried office employes.

The trouble was in the rule prescribed by the rules committee which allowed consideration of three bills at the same time. The teeth were taken out of the Barden bill by amendments until finally Representative Barden disclaimed and voted against his own bill. The Norton bill was loaded down with so many amendments until finally it was disclaimed by its author. The whole proceeding developed into an effort to ruin the basis of the wage and hour law which the majority would not stand for.

Colonel Fleming, the new wage and hour administrator, is a capable and reasonable man and is trying to do a good job. After he has had a chance to make adjustments no doubt a clearer picture can be had of the changes that should be enacted to make the bill more workable.

Third District Represented At Institute of Government

Some 5,000 democratic women attending the Institute of Government in Washington this week were entertained at the White House and saluted by President Roosevelt as "fellow workers in the vinyard of knowledge." The third district had the largest and best delegation of any district in the state. Your representative was exceedingly proud of the charming women representing the district.

The prize goes to Bledsoe county, which not only had more representatives than any county in the state, but had one of the largest of any county in the whole nation.

Attending the institute from Bledsoe county were: Mesdames O. T. Ault, Grover Ault, Thomas J. Swafford, Joe N. Deakins, R. S. Clemmer, J. L. Hutcheson, N. J. Ferguson, Jr., W. L. Tollett and Miss Miriam R. Stephens. From Hamilton county came Mrs. Sarah Bess Sherrill, Mesdames W. D. Gardenshire, W. E. Martin, J. P. Rowe and Miss Ellen Gardenshire, and from Bradley county came Mrs. G. C. Martin.

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Has Splendid Meeting

The United States Chamber of Commerce had a most worthwhile meeting this week in Washington. The theme of "Building America" was forcefully presented. Co-operation and understanding was the motto of the convention.

Chattanooga, and one of our most distinguished citizens, came in for recognition and honor. Sitting at the speaker's table as a guest of honor, with fifty other nationall eaders, was the Honorable Thomas R. Preston who for ten years has been a director of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Mr. and Mrs. Preston have many friends among the national leaders and he is everywhere known as one of America's great bankers.

Other distinguished guests were Mrs. Preston, Messrs. Arthur V. Snell, Harry Carbaugh and R. E. Biggers.

Ragland-Potter Declared 'Unfair' By Union Labor

Wholesale Grocers Refuse to Deal With Teamsters and Clerks and Close Up.

Ragland-Potter, wholesale grocers, have put a sign on its door that they have closed up after pickets have protested refusal to deal with Local 515, Teamsters.

As a result, Central Body has granted the request of the Teamsters to declare them "Unfair to Organized Labor."

It has been rumored that Ragland-Potter might in the near future attempt to reopen its nonunion plan of business.

TFL DELEGATES-ELECT PLAN TO GET TOGETHER

Will Assemble at Patten Hotel Sunday, May 26, at 2:30 p.m.

Erskine Mabee, secretary of Central Body, announces for the executive board of Central Body that all elected delegates to the Tennessee Federation of Labor convention to be held in Memphis will meet here in Chattanooga on Sunday, May 26. They will assemble at the Patten hotel at 2:30 p.m.

All elected delegates and alternates who plan to go to the convention on June 3, 4 and 5 have been urged to attend this meeting.

Bradley & Bandy Is Not "Union" Any More

House Card Removed When Employes Refuse to Pay Obligations as Union Members.

Bradley & Bandy drug store on Sixth at Market streets is operating as a nonunion establishment now, according to report made to Central Body last Monday evening by representatives of the Culinary Workers.

This store, formerly a union concern regarding its soda and lunch stand, had a signed agreement to employ none but union members in good standing. Employes of the store, most of them, refused to pay up their dues and assessments and became delinquent.

When notified, management informed the union that they would do nothing about it, and the house card was removed.

Members and friends of organized labor are asked to remember this when about to patronize Bradley & Bandy.

Labor's Choice in 1936 Tosses His Hat in Ring For State Senate Race

John Mahoney Is Member of Musicians' Union and Had Perfect Record While in Legislature.

John T. Mahoney, member of Musicians Local 80, a delegate to the Central Labor union, and labor's successful candidate for the lower house in the state legislature in 1936, tossed his hat in the ring last Sunday morning when he made a tentative announcement for the state senate race to take place this fall.

In 1936 Mr. Mahoney was placed officially on labor's ticket along with D. M. Coleman for the lower house. After the votes were counted Mahoney and Coleman ran away ahead of the field, with Coleman ahead of Mahoney by 300 votes.

Mahoney was placed on the labor committee in the legislature, and the legislative representative for the Tennessee Federation spoke very highly in praise of Mahoney's support and co-operation.

At present Mahoney is secretary to Commissioner R. M. Cooke, himself a direct representative of organized labor, serving his second term.

Ninth Street Paving To Be Entirely Union

Three Thousand Peaceful Pickets Monday Demonstrate That Labor Movement Wants Wage Structure Maintained.

The paving job on Ninth street will be done union, with an upping of wage scales, according to an agreement reached between the Chattanooga Building Trades council and the George White Construction company last Wednesday night.

Thus ended an exciting period of several days, being climaxed Monday morning by a picket line of 8,000 trades unionists, mostly building tradesmen, who had declared a holiday on all jobs in the city. Taking a day off from jobs being constructed under closed shop contracts was not a breaking of an agreement, building trades officials declared, because in all contracts the incorporated working rules sets forth that such may be done under such occasions.

Reviewing the situation in retrospect, it appears that the dispute was caused by a desire on the part of the contractor to know definitely whether the unions really wanted the job done union. As soon as it became apparent that the movement was united in that desire, he sat down for negotiations.

Much credit and praise should be given Commissioner Clarence Williams, of the United States conciliation department, for his prompt, energetic and unceasing efforts to bring both parties into the conferences that resulted in such satisfactory conclusion. V. W. Hallmark, president of Central Body and a vice-president of the Tennessee Federation, was most valuable in the services he rendered.

Although certain mongering elements of the city attempted to picture the city's streets running red with blood, the whole affair was most orderly, with one exception, and that itself flared up and out almost simultaneously.

2 Firms Removed From Unfair List Monday Night

Home Plate and Richard City Cement Plant Taken from "Do Not Patronize" List.

Central Body last Monday voted to remove from its "Unfair" list the Home Plate lunch room and the Richard City plant of the Penn-Dixie Cement company.

The Home Plate lunch and the Culinary Workers have had a misunderstanding for several years, but all that seems to be a thing of the past and practically all of the employes in the Home Plate have of their own accord joined up with Local 549, Culinary Workers.

The Richard City plant of the Penn-Dixie has in recent months become organized under the banner of the United Lime, Gypsum and Cement Workers' union, and now deserve the patronage of all union crafts.

Ed Bork, Sr., Tells Unionists Voting Power Important

"March to Polls and Command Political Respect," He Exhorts from Long Experience.

Central Body delegates last Monday evening were thrilled by an old-time revival spirit when they listened to Ed Bork, Sr., in a stirring appeal. Brother Bork, a member of Plumbers 43, and active in the labor movement for 46 years, and the father of Ed Bork, Jr., newly-elected treasurer of Central Body, came back to Central Body as a delegate after a short period of absence.

In response to an invitation from the chairman, Brother Bork impressed on the delegates the need for unified action in every endeavor. He stressed the latent strength of labor in voting, and pleaded with them to fuse that strength to pay poll taxes as long as poll taxes are required.

"When organized labor registers itself and pays its poll tax and goes to the polls to vote, then the political powers will sit up and take notice of our needs. With our numerical strength we can do the talking instead of having to listen all the time. Let's get wise to ourselves and use our power," he flamed in a manner that belied the white hairs of his head.

Men like Ed Bork, Sr., built up the labor movement before the present generation appeared on the scene, and his words of advice should be heeded.

Atty. King Gets Big Hand on Visit To Central Body

H. G. B. King, attorney, successful in many a court battle in defense of the working people of this city, visited Central Body last Monday evening and was asked to make a short talk, which was received with tumultuous applause.

Mr. King expressed his pleasure in the privilege of handling labor union cases as well as individual cases, and said that his motive had not been in view of what fee he might be able to receive, but he took such cases because he recognized the need for such constructive assistance toward all working people whose rights in court needed defense.

Mr. King is fast being recognized all over the country as an able lawyer with a heart attuned toward his clients' welfare.

Beaumont, Kirby, Delegates From Typo Union

Ted Kirby and L. O. Beaumont, member of the Times chapel, were named Wednesday by Chattanooga Typographical union to go to New Orleans as delegates to the annual convention of the International Typographical union.

In the national election, the Chattanooga local carried for Barrett over Baker for president, and by the same vote carried Randolph over Conley for secretary-treasurer.

TEACHER TALK

It begins to look as if the city department of education were going to be investigated, if not by the people one would expect to be most interested in an inquiry into the conditions affecting the welfare of the children, then by a group that has always been concerned about public education. The sooner the better.

Meanwhile the county salaries committee is most active in its efforts to explain the point of view of the union on that vital matter to the authorities.

Activity News.

We had a most enjoyable evening at Mrs. Almeda Jones' on Tuesday at the meeting of the modern literature group. Mrs. Ruth McCafferty reviewed Susan Glaspell's "The Morning Is Near," and Miss Edmund Hooser discussed "The Young Melbourne" by Lord David Cecil. Talking about books is one of the many things that teachers do better than anybody else. We enjoyed the food, too.

The bridge group will meet in room 908, Hotel Patten, Saturday at 8 o'clock.

Parliamentary law and badminton groups are going full tilt. The parliamentarians are becoming so learned that the rest of us are going to be afraid to make a simple motion until we find out some matters by proxy.

The tax group will meet in the office Monday evening at 7:30, and we are to work out our plans with the assistance of Dr. F. W. Prescott, professor of political science at the university, who has agreed to meet with us at that time. We are anxious to learn all we can about taxes, so this is one group that is worth a special effort to keep in operation during the summer months.

Fate maketh his circuit, and if, for a time, he forgets some things, at last he revisiteth them.—Seneca.

Floor Show and Barbecue Await T. F. of L. Delegates

Plans for entertaining the 43rd annual convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor include a floor show, picnic barbecue, tour of the city, dance, special luncheon, banquet and buffet supper, it was reported this week by Ray F. Brown, chairman of the committee for arrangements.

Special plans for entertaining the ladies attending the convention will be made by a committee from the Plumbers' union auxiliary, headed by Mrs. John E. Bartz. She will be assisted by Mrs. P. J. Hackett and Mrs. Tom Ray.

Invitations will be sent international officials and political and business dignitaries, including Mayor Walter Chandler, who will extend the welcome address.

Governor Prentice Cooper, Phil Pidgeon, president of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce; W. H. Jasspon, past president of the chamber of commerce, and W. C. Birthright, international president of the Barbers' union, are included in the list of eminent men scheduled to give talks to the delegates.

The banquet and dance will be held in the Skyway of Hotel Peabody, headquarters for the convention. There will be a buffet dinner Sunday, June 2, for the delegates who arrive early. The tour of the city will be Monday afternoon, with the banquet and floor show Tuesday night.

The convention formally opens Monday morning, June 3.

Federal Old-Age Survivors Insurance

Under the Social Security Act as Amended in 1939

Part V of a Series of 8 Articles Based on a Forthcoming pamphlet to be published by the Social Security Board.

CALCULATING MONTHLY PAYMENTS

The monthly payment which a worker may receive and which is called a "primary insurance benefit," is based on his or her own wages. It is computed by adding (1) 40 per cent of the first $50 of the worker's average monthly wage; and (2) 10 per cent of the amount by which his average monthly wage exceeds $50 but does not exceed $250. The total of these two amounts is increased by 1 per cent for each year in which the worker was paid wages of $200 or more for covered employment.

How Plan Works Out

As an example, take the case of a man who has earned $150 a month regularly for five years and who will be 65 and retire in March, 1942.

He will get $31.50 a month—40 per cent of the first $50 of his average monthly wage, or $20; plus $10, or 10 per cent of the remaining $100; plus $1.50, or 5 per cent of the $30 for five years' employment.

If his wife is 65 years old, she will receive one-half of this amount of $15.75, making a total of $47.25. The wife would not be entitled to a benefit because she was not yet 65. But the child would receive a benefit equal to one-half of the father's primary benefit until age 16, or 18, if still in school. The wife could receive her benefit of $15.75 when she gets to be 65. By that time the child's benefit would have ceased because it would have become older than 18.

Survivor's Benefits

The amount of survivors' benefits is based on the primary benefit of the deceased worker. The child's insurance payment is equal to one-half of the deceased worker's primary benefit. The widow's benefit is three-fourths of that benefit and a parent's insurance benefit is equal to one-half of the worker's primary benefit.

As an example, take the case of a man of 30, who has been earning $175 each month at work covered by the old-age and survivors insurance system since it started in 1937, but who dies in January, 1941, leaving a wife and young child.

Calculation of Payments

The primary benefit based on his wages will be $33.80. His wife will receive three-fourths of this, or $25.35, and the child will receive one-half, or $16.90, making a total monthly payment of $42.25. These payments would continue until the child reaches 16, or 18 if in school. At the age of 65, if the widow has not remarried she will again receive a monthly benefit of $25.35.

If an unmarried worker whose primary benefit amounts to $50 a month dies, leaving no children but does leave a 65-year-old father, the father could receive benefits of $25 a month, providing he was wholly dependent upon his support by his son at the time of the son's death.

YOUR UNION AND YOU

Any member of a union who thinks his union is a slot machine where you stick in your dues and hope for a payoff in better working conditions is all wet.

Neither is a union a shop where a member buys shorter hours and higher wages.

Nor is it a business, for it does not sell anything to anybody.

A union is a co-operative enterprise—a democratic body of workers, in which each member does his share of work and takes his share of responsibility. Its measure of success is the measure of co-operation of its members.

A member's responsibilities for the welfare of his union—and himself—only start with the payment of his dues. That is but a small item. He must go further. He must help build his union's strength by getting new members. He must talk union wherever and whenever he has opportunity—correct false impressions, state facts.

He must always be aware of what officers and representatives are doing and must feel free to make constructive suggestions and helpful criticism.

He most attend meetings, read his official journal and keep posted and up-to-the-minute on union affairs.

He must be intelligently informed on why his union was formed—the necessity that inspired it, what are its aims and how it is working to attain those aims.

He must know how and why it is fighting for closed shops, collective bargaining, decent and livable working conditions and economic security for its members.

He must know what is going on in the labor movement, in general, the part his union is playing in that movement and the reasons for it.

In short, he must feel that his union is his own organization; that he is a vital unit in a co-operative effort to improve his industry and all who are connected with it. —The American Flint.

The motion picture operators held their meeting at Hotel Patten Tuesday, May 7. Officers were elected for the coming year. Those elected were Burson Lowery, president; L. N. Vick, vice-president; Charles Curlee, treasurer; Wayne Williams, business agent; Joe McDowell, sergeant-at-arms.

President Vic Hallmark and Secretary Erskine Mabee of Central Body were present at our meeting. They gave talks on the possibility of buying the Vine Street orphanage as a labor shrine. They said it would be possible to buy the orphanage if each union working man would give a day's pay.

It seems that A. W. (Bud) Kamin has been holding out on us. His marriage to Miss Mildred Teague was announced recently.

Court Ruling Held Big Labor Victory

Washington Judge's Direct Verdict Of Acquital in Anti-Trust Case Seen Setback to Thurman Arnold

Washington.—In a decision hailed by the American Federation of Labor leaders as an important victory, Associate Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the Federal District Court, directed a verdict of acquittal in the government's case against the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and five officials of its local union under the Sherman anti-trust act.

The Sherman act was invoked against the teamsters as a result of a jurisdictional controversy between the teamsters and the International Union of Operating Engineers over whose members should operate concrete-mixer trucks.

The American Federation of Labor has awarded jurisdiction to the teamsters.

In directing the jury to render a verdict of not guilty, Justice Letts declined to rule on a contention by Joseph A. Padway, general counsel for the A. F. of L., that the Sherman act could not be invoked against labor unions.

Teamsters "Wholly Justified."

Stating that the government had failed to establish criminal intent, he found that the teamsters were "wholly justified in the belief that no jurisdictional dispute existed" after the A. F. of L. Award.

President William A. Green, of the A. F. of L., praised the decision as demonstrating to the entire country that Assistant Attorney-General Thurman Arnold "has gone far afield in seeking to proscribe the lawful activities of labor unions by the filing of wholesale indictments under the anti-trust laws."

Green called the decision a "distinct victory for the A. F. of L.," and added:

"It was Mr. Arnold's theory that the federal government could regulate and control the activities of labor unions by invoking the anti-trust laws against them. Now this theory has had its second test in the federal courts. Both times it has fallen to pieces in the face of the facts, the law and common sense. Federal Judge Davis in St. Louis recently dismissed indictments against officials of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters. Judge Letts, in the District of Columbia federal district court, did the same thing in the teamsters' case. After presentation of prosecution testimony for two weeks and and without finding it necessary to hear the defense, Judge Letts threw Mr. Arnold's case out the window."

Arnold's Theories "Upset."

Joseph A. Padway, counsel for the American Federation of Labor, commented:

"The victory for the American Federation of Labor is two-fold. The court held that workers may strike in support of their claims to jurisdiction and not be held guilty of violation of the Sherman act. This disposes of one of the counts under which Assistant Attorney-General Thurman Arnold announced he would prosecute labor unions.

"Secondly, the court upset another theory of Mr. Arnold's, that a strike against an established bargaining agency is in violation of the Sherman act. In this case, the members of the teamsters union struck despite the fact and because of the fact that employers were dealing with members of the Operating Engineers' union.

"The broad question of whether labor unions are exempted from prosecution under the Sherman act by the Clayton act was not involved in this case and was not passed upon by the court."

WITH THE AUXILIARIES

On Tuesday night, May 14, the wives of members of Local 1212, Street Railway and Motor Bus union, met and organized into an auxiliary to that union. The following officers were elected:

Mrs. Harwood Wells, president; Mrs. Raymond Gibson, first vice-president; Mrs. G. D. Hale, second vice-president; Mrs. Raulston Underwood, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Tate, financial secretary; Mrs. E. J. Self, conductress; Mrs. George Fine, warden, and Mesdames C. E. Wallace, Ted Stewart and F. W. Autry, trustees.

Mrs. Ethel Wilson, of Memphis, who is second vice-president of the national auxiliary, attended the meeting and helped the ladies start their organization.

There will be another meeting of this group on Monday night, May 20, at 8 o'clock in room A at the Hotel Patten, and further plans will be worked out. All wives of members of 1212 are especially urged to be present at this meeting, since the charter will be open at that time and members' names who join at this time will be on the charter, and there is no initiation fee for charter members.

Typographical Auxiliary 219 met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Wiley Underwood. The meeting was well attended, and Mrs. J. D. Frawley was initiated as a new member.

After the business meeting, the ladies enjoyed a social hour, with Mrs. Marion Seagle leading some interesting games and contests. Ice cream and cookies were served.

Mrs. Turner Bell has invited the ladies to have the June meeting in her home, and the members are planning to make it a covered dish luncheon.

Dairy Workers Balk Attempt at Wage Slashing

Chicago.—Milk Wagon Drivers' union, Local No. 753, and Dairy Employes' union, Local No. 754, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, A. F. of L., have forced Chicago's milk distributing companies to back down in their attempt to enforce, by a lockout, their demand for a 35 per cent reduction in wages.

The men will continue to work under the scale of wages provided for in the contract which has expired while arrangements for arbitration are being made. The stoppage of work brought about by the companies lasted only two days.

"The companies offered the drivers' union a contract in which the wage scale would be based on the price structure," David A. Riskind, attorney for the union, said. He added:

"They said: 'If milk is sold at 8½ cents a quart at the stores, then your basic wage will be $30 a week, plus commission. If the price at the stores rises a penny, then your basic wage will increase by $2.50; if it goes down a penny, then your wages will go down $2.50 aa week.'

"We contend that they wanted us to enter into a price-fixing conspiracy that would violate the Sherman act. We've all along maintained that the union has no influence over the price of milk. We should have basiv wage independent of price."

Rate of pay under the old contract was $48 a week, plus commissions, and was not based on the price structure.

Separate negotiations with the companies had been conducted by the inside workers' union, Local No. 754, and had reached the same impasse.

Woo "Common People," Republicans Advised

Seattle, Wash.—The republican party must get closer to the "common people" if it hopes to have the support of organized labor, Dave Beck, western organizer of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, told members of the Washington Republican club here.

Beck added that he did not belong to either major party, declaring "Labor defeats its own purpose when it attempts to function as a political party. Labor should keep an open mind and decide which party offers the best chance to promote the general welfare.

Box Makers' Union Wins Union Shop Contracts

Seattle, Wash.—A union shop contract, first obtained by the union in the Puget Sound area, has been signed by the Box Makers' union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and four box plants in Seattle. The contract, which covers about 150 workers, also provides for blanket wage increases of two and one-half cents an hour and a week's vacation with pay.

Independence—

American labor has reached the definite conclusion that America must become self-sustaining in order that we shall not be drawn into the old world conflict. If every consumer will purchase only American-made and union-made products, America can establish economic independence in the same degree that we have gained political independence.—I. M. Ornburn.

Consultation—

We see that the Republican party of Michigan has announced its intent to seek the advice of organized labor on its labor plank for the coming election. That is how it should be. Recognized and competent labor leaders should be consulted, for, who else knows about the aims, needs and plans of labor but the duly and properly elected officials? — The Labor News, Saginaw, Mich.

TEAMSTERS GOSSIP

By W. E. ECKENROD, JR.

Congratulations to Editor Cuthbert and his able associates on their splendid Silver Anniversary issue of The Labor World. It contained plenty of interesting and educational reading and Local 515 has several copies on file for reference when we want to know who's who and what is what in organized labor in Chattanooga.

According to the poets and current billboards "In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love," Packard cars, etc. But that doesn't apply to teamsters business agents Blansit and Burgess. Their fancy has turned to organizing. These firms have been signed up since we last appeared in The Labor World: Wilson Truck Lines, Service Line company, Malone Freight company in the over the road freight business, and these are the recently signed dairies who handle union milk and whose drivers are members of the Teamsters' local: United Dairies, Morning Star, Grant-Patten, Meadow Brook, Associated Dairies, Sterchi & Son, Cream Top and Navelon dairy.

With the kind of interest shown at the last regular meeting no job would be too big or no goal too high for this local. To those few of you who were absent it might interest you to know the attendance was so large many members were forced to stand in the rear of the hall and around the halls. Arrangements are being made for a larger hall for future meetings so let's all attend and see what it is that makes this local click so successfully.

Beulah Ogle and her Culinary Workers of Local 574 deserve the support of every truck driver in this vicinity. The have been faced with every obstacle that could confront an organization struggling for existence. In the not too distant future they look like a sure winner to this corner, so let's hop on the bandwagon and help push the cooks and waiters to the front. Any assistance or favor will be appreciated and it's a sure bet it will be returned some day when we need it most.

Mr. A. C. Kamin, prominent labor leader and manager of Warner park swimming pool, says this summer when you get too warm from a hard day's work or just plain "hot under the collar" from some labor difficulty that is confronting your local, drive out to Warner park for a cool swim in water that has tested as pure as the water on your table at home.

For solid comfort while working you can observe Herman Holder, driver for D. L. Brown, and get a real tip on how to enjoy life. We passed him on the boulevard Monday and here's the picture he presented: A dump truck heavily loaded with red dirt, wheels out of line and steaming radiator, windshield rolled straight out and both doors missing. Borther Holder was perched on what looked like a pillow minus the slip, one foot on the gas and the other dangling out over the running board with his trousers leg rolled up to let the air circulate. One hand on the steering wheel and the other clutching half an apple—it couldn't have been more than half an apple, for he had at least that much in his mouth. No hat, no money and plenty of whiskers. If there is a Utopia somewhere for truck drivers we'll lay even money Holder will be first to find it.

Congress Can Put Them to Work

Jobs at regular prevailing wages for about a million workers in building trades and allied industries are represented by unfilled requests for government loans to finance public low-rent housing projects now on file with the United States Housing Authority, the agency says.

The estimated pay roll for these workers would put approximately $500,000,000 into general circulation, it is estimated.

These requests, totaling $1,006,900,000, upon which the USHA cannot act until Congress authorizes additional loan funds, have been filed with the USHA by 181 local housing authorities in thirty-two states.

The loans sought would be used to provide safe and sanitary homes at rentals within their means for about 226,000 low-income American families now living in substandard structures in city, suburban and rural sections.

Legislation is before Congress to increase by $800,000,000 the amount which the USHA is authorized to lend for slum clearance and low-rent housing projects. This would go a long way toward taking care of the unfilled requests for loans. The legislation is supported by organized labor. It should pass and at this session.

Dumbness Brought New Laws

Alf M. Landon (he ran for president once) told a meeting of railroad officials at Topeka that the "real authors of the Securities and Exchange Commission were not the New Dealers, but the crooked banking houses which looted railroads, public utilities and other industrial enterprises; they made the commission necessary."

Of course Mr. Landon is right, Wall Street spokesmen to the contrary. He might have gone even farther and said that much of the legislation passed in recent years was not the work of the New Dealers but of dishonest, avaricious and shortsighted business interests of many kinds. If the attitude of business had been different, such laws as the National Labor Relations Act and the Fair Wage Standards Act would not have been necessary. There would have been no occasion for passing these last two laws if there had been universal recognition of labor's right to organize and bargain collectively and of the benefits of paying good wages.

USHA, 'Flat Broke,' Money to Communitie

Washington, D. C.—Unfilled requests for government loans with which to remove about 225,000 low-income American families from slum dwellings to new fit homes are ow on file with the United States Housing Authority, Administrator Nathan Straus announced.

In making public the details of the huge volume of demands for USHA loans, Administrator Straus stressed the fact that funds heretomore available for loans to public housing agencies have been committed. He said:

"The USHA is absolutely flat broke. Every single dollar available for loans to local housing authorities has been committed. The till is empty. We are unable to make any further commitments un-

Reactionary Forces S Labor Legislation, W

New York City. — Legislation benefitting labor is endangered by the attacks of "reactionary forces," Senator Robert F. Wagner, author of the national labor relations act and other new deal laws, warned Italian Dressmakers' Local 89 of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

Wagner urged unity in labor ranks and selection of able leaders to enable it to resist the attacks of its enemies.

Gains Seen in Danger

The senator's views were given in a message read by his son, Assemblyman Robert F. Wagner, Jr., at the installation of officers of Local 89, which has 40,000 members.

"Today many of your most precious gains are in serious danger at the hands of labor's traditional foes," Senator Wagner told the dressmakers. "Encouraged by the breach in labor's ranks, these reactionary forces would scuttle the liberal program for which labor and labor's friends have fought and bled.

Union Secures Increa For Pulp, Paper, Ye

Liverpool, N. S.—Thanks to the work of the new Trades and Labor Council for this district, the only combination, pulp, paper and yeast factory in America, is paying increased wages to employes.

Workers in the pulp and paper mills of the Mersey Paper company, which ships the bulk of its newsprint to the United States, have been given a general increase of 2 cents per hour, advancing the basic wage rate to 45 cents an hour. In addition, there have been made special wage revisions, ranging from 1 to 5 cents an hour for forty men, employed as papermakers. In the yeast factory, operated in connection with the pulp mill, the yeast cakes being manufactured from ground pulpwood, as a by-product, a small increase was given. Feminine employes have been placed on a straight salary basis, under the new contract.

The negotiations with the company executive were completed at the mill offices by James Broderick, Montreal, organizer for the Electrical Workers' union; J. A.

Mr. Advertiser

Being not unlike several million other Americans you probably have a hobby.

If you have, you know how interested you always are in anything pertaining to that hobby.

There are approximately twenty thousand men and women in your trade territory whose hobby happens to be organized labor.

It is even more than their hobby . . . it is their very life.

These members of organized labor will be interested in your advertisement if it is presented to them through a medium dealing exclusively with that above mentioned hobby of theirs.

Or . . . putting it in another way . . . why not tell them your story when they're in a very receptive mood.

BY HARRY BEDOIT

The time has rolled around again ... some more hometown philosophy.

It is nearly a week now since we ...served Mother's day and it won't be long until we give dear dad a chance to be honored.

When we think of mom and pop our thoughts go back to home. The good times and the bad that we had when we were kids. Now that we have grown older we can see some of the problems that confronted our parents.

Life doesn't seem to be less complicated as we go along. With all the conveniences of the modern time, the experience of those who came before us, and with our superior knowledge, we seem to be getting nowhere fast.

We look into the home life of those around us, and being good neighbors, we share their happiness and their sorrows. We watch the antics and listen to the prattle of their children, and wonder if the little things they do and say will counterbalance the hate and evil that is in the world today.

We read about the horrors of war that threaten to destroy Europe, and we shudder at the misery and suffering of humanity. We think of the life of whole families being destroyed, children being forced into the army and taught to kill. Children who should be playing with toys and going to school, taught to fight and hate. Where will all this destruction of life and property end? What good is this butchering of humanity anyway?

As the angels pour their vials of wrath upon the earth, will our country escape? Or will it be like a negro spiritual song that I once heard? that the Lord will set fire to this world one of these days.

If all humanity must suffer this curse, I only hope it will be speedy, and that we will emerge a better and more enlightened people.

I heard some interesting news today. Shorty Lamon has opened a pawn shop in an old garage in his back yard. If you can, tell Shorty where he can find someone who has a pawn broker's sign. He will appreciate it. Buck Logston said he wants to put his overcoat in hock just as soon as the cold weather is over. Shorty says to come and see him. He will cheat you right.

If Jake Smith will see Roy Welles, he can buy a jenney cheap. All he needs, Jake, is some hay, and maybe you could plow that okra farm of yours.

I have been told that Roy is going into the goat business. He said there is nothing like goat milk and cheese. Charlie McRay said that Roy will keep on until he finds something that will eat acorns.

Sawmilling must be fascinating work. After hearing Old Man Ike and Lord Pushbuttom tell about their sawmilling days, we know why there is a lumber shortage now. Pushbuttom told Ike that he had a whistle on his boiler that blew down forty acres of timber every time he blew it. I guess that will hold Ike for a while.

Grandma Denton is the raspberry king. Said his raspberries are the berries. Grandma was seen bringing in a large tow sack this morning. Think he brought in a seck of kittens.. What's the matter, Grandma; won't they eat berries?

The daylight savers are still trying to get Chattanooga to adopt the plan. I would like to know how interested organized labor is. I haven't seen discussions for or against it in The Labor World. If we are for leaving the time as it is, let it be known. Don't let a few dictate to us what they want. That is how Hitler got his start.

"Build-Up" Important Protector of Women

A weak, undernourished condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get a foothold; thus leads to much of woman's suffering from headaches, nervousness, and other periodic discomfort.

CARDUI'S principal help for such distress comes from the way it usually stimulates appetite; increases flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion; helps build energy, strength, physical resistance to periodic pain for many.

Another way, many women find help for periodic distress: Take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time." Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

D. J. TOBIN

D. J. TOBIN

Daniel J. Tobin, President of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, has been a member of his Union since 1900. He was elected to his present position in 1907. He has been a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor since 1917.

Mr. Tobin is one of the most aggressive leaders in the American Labor movement. He has been successful in increasing the membership of his Union until it is one of the largest Unions in America.

Mr. Tobin was a delegate from the American Federation of Labor to the British Trades Union Congress in 1911 and in 1938. He was also a delegate to the International Federation of Trade Union Congress in Amsterdam in 1918.

In 1919 President Wilson appointed him as a member of the Industrial Conference, in which position he aided in various Labor adjustments during the war. He also served as representative of the American Federation of Labor to the Third Pan-American Labor Convention in Mexico City in 1921.

His address is: Mr. D. J. Tobin, President, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, 222 E. Michigan Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

TEAMSTERS' AND CHAUFFEURS' EMBLEM

The Union Label of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America was adopted in 1899, immediately after its Charter was granted. The emblem was changed in 1912 when the automobile came into use but the horses' heads were retained on the Union Label, which is almost a duplicate of the emblem of the Teamsters' Union. This Emblem or the Monthly Working Button indicates that the Chauffeur or Teamster you employ is a member in good standing of this International Union.

COCKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

-- Beulah Ogle, Correspondent --

Next Tuesday is meeting night again and we hope every one will be there. We know that everybody is anxious for the new contract to be into effect. Well, it will be ready this week and I hope by the 1st of June that there will be several signed. Not only the ones we have already signed but new houses that have not been in before.

Know everybody had a good time at the frolic and that we should have had more people there, but of course with all the other places to go on Thursday night we couldn't expect everybody there.

* * *

Bob Green on Carter street has been closed for remodeling. I'm sure you will enjoy a good meal at this union house.

Miss Alene Woods is enjoying wedded bliss again and hear the lucky boy is none other than one of our union printers of the Evening Tribune, Bill Kinley. We wish you lots of luck, and may your troubles all be little ones. Hope Bill won't take Alene away from Mr. Lowe as she is one of the main attractions there.

Miss Agnes Rippeto of Millard's cafe has been home a few days on account of a sick sister. We hope for a speedy recovery as we want to see Agnes back at work again.

Am reading a good book this week, "Citizens." Wish every union member could read it. I

A MESSAGE TO ORGANIZED LABOR

What YOU BUY and WHERE You Buy It

MAKES . . .

The LABOR WORLD

. . . GREATER

BUSINESS MEN who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD are responsible for the recent enlargement of the paper. A larger paper gives new strength and prestige to the labor movement in Chattanooga.

BEING BUSINESS MEN, if their advertising does not bring results which they can trace to THE LABOR WORLD, these advertisers will not continue to use the paper.

THE LABOR WORLD is the only voice of organized labor in Chattanooga. It is YOUR voice—you who read the paper. In helping THE LABOR WORLD to grow YOU are creating an agency of great value to YOU—personally.

PERSONAL PRIDE, personal interest and organization expediency demand that union people buy from business men who advertise regularly in THE LABOR WORLD.

WHEN YOU NEED SOMETHING, first try to buy it from some of the regular advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD. If each of our readers will adopt this policy, and stick to it, we will build one of the nation's greatest labor organs here in Chattanooga—and very quickly . . . and it will help the unions of Chattanooga to secure improvement in conditions affecting our working people.

THE LABOR WORLD is already something to be very proud of, and if readers stick to the cause it will surprise all of you.

LET'S GO! Buy from advertisers in THE LABOR WORLD—and tell them WHY you are buying from them. Tell business men who are not advertising that they must get in THE LABOR WORLD if they want a share of Chattanooga's great union trade.

AND FINALLY, if you hear any news about any of our people, yourself included, call us up and tell us about it. Call us when you have talked to some advertiser, and think we can get him to advertise in THE LABOR WORLD.

THE LABOR WORLD, Telephone 6-7562

We still have a few of our members off on the sick list. They are Brothers J. R. Thomas, J. O. Wilson, Frank Bailey, Frank Jones and R. E. Lawing. Hope these brothers a speedy recovery and the best of health. We also have some members with sickness in their homes. Some of them that have been reported are as follows: Mrs. J. L. Gray, appendix operation; Mrs. D. C. Bandy, appendix operation; Mrs. G. M. Dean and Robert Sherrill, an accident, so let's visit the homes and hospitals and render what service we can to the members and their families. They are all reported improving rapidly and are expected to be out real soon.

Brothers T. C. Davis and Carl Smith are back on duty after being off sick. Sure glad to see them back in their places.

Let's all patronize union houses only. Remember all union houses that have a card placed in their business with the word UNION printed in large letters. Don't let anyone tell you that they are union if they cannot produce a union card. A union man will not have to be told not to patronize nonunion places but will always look for the union card when they enter the place. Just because you have your name on the union books and your dues paid in full is no sign that you are a union man. A man can join a church and still not be a Christian. It is the same way with the union, we can be hypocrites in the union just the same as in the church. When a person joins a church he is put on the spot before the public and every move he makes is known to someone. The same applies to the union. If a person hasn't got union in his or her heart, they are not real union people. When we draw union wages and pay union dues we should see that our money is spent in union places so that some other union man can benefit from it, because after all the idea of a union is to help and promote better working conditions for mankind. So let's all be a little more careful where we spend our money because if we don't we are going to be seen and criticized, which would be a just criticism. Let's all resolve to help promote the cause of organized labor for in the future our safety depends entirely upon the working class of people sticking together and holding up for their rights. UNITED WE STAND and DIVIDED WE FALL.

The Home Plate lunch room is now O. K. to patronize as they have been taken off the unfair list.

Anyone living around White Oak can patronize the White Ook shoe shop and it will be appreciated by the owner. He patronizes the union printers by having all his circulars and stationary printed by union printers only.

A hundred per cent union man should wear at least seven union labels.

Every union man and woman should boost and do everything they can to help organized labor to purchase a labor temple. We need one so that every local can meet at the same place and be one big family working for their fellow-man.

Confucius say: Better for fellow to first get something in eye and wink, than to wing and get something in eye.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL

Will Power—Success.

The average young man at the beginning of his career is honest, sincere and truehearted. He means well. He intends well. If his achievements only equaled his resolutions he would end well. But somewhere along the road he makes a slip, or a miscalculation, and finds himself in a little whole off the track. "Well meaning but side-tracked," is the verdict, while parents weep and friends mourn. This is the best hour in the history of the world. God has given to us the best hour and the best place. A young man in a young country, all things being equal, spells success. When a man, crawling along with head hanging, shoulders stooped and physical form drooping, informs me that "everything is wrong," I venture to assert that if anything is "wrong" the wrongness of the wrong is drapped up in his own anatomy." If you can't succeed here, you would succeed nowhere. If you can't succeed now, there has never been a moment since Adam courted Eve when you would have achieved a splendid success. Character is more than heridity or environment. Success is succession. Rising! Climbing! Scaling the mountain top! The youth born in the valley, who rises to the mountain top, is a success, according to the dictionary, but there is always room at the top.

Success is a goal we have to labor to reach. It never comes to us. It is up to us to go to it. The fellow who wants to get on easy street, seldom, if ever, does, but many who forget themselves in favor of their work, get there without knowing it.

The things that help to make up the character are courage, dependability, discretion, enthusiasm, honesty, justice, kindness, loyalty, prudence, sincerity, steadfastness, and truthfulness. Success is not always final; failure is not fatal, but it is courage that counts.

General 10 Per Cent Pay Raise Would Restore Prosperity, I. M. Ornburn Declares

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Urging wage increases to offset reductions in government spending, I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the union label trades department, American Federation of Labor, said here that the business recession this spring was caused by the government's curtailment of over one-half billion dollars in its spending program.

Ornburn spoke over the Columbia Broadcasting System from Station WJAS.

"If business desires to curb government spending," Ornburn said, "it must substitute consumer buying power for the deficit caused through government economies. Employers must increase the income of wage earners all along the line to maintain an economic balance. An increase in wages of ten per cent all along the line would restore normal prosperity. In addition, by balancing the human budget, it would not be necessary to increase taxes. In all probability the present tax rates could be reduced because of this increased amount of income.

"This balancing of the human budget would increase purchasing power to such a degree that business and industry would be far more prosperious than it is now. The only other solution is for business to reduce prices without reducing wages. This would give the consumer's dollar greater purchasing power and also be equivalent to an increase in wages.

"There would be no difficulty in obtaining full recovery for America if workers actually received an amount in adequate wages to buy all the necessities of life. It would create sufficient new jobs to put the ten million unemployed to work.

"No expert, whether he be statesman or economist, has yet come forth with any plan for national recovery which is as feasible a program as that of the American Federation of Labor. The formula is a simple one. It is to increase wages and to reduce working hours.

"One thing is certain. If private industry does not devise a means of raising mass-purchasing power and employing the millions of idle workers, government spending will continue. Taxes, and interest on debts, will increase. It is a serious situation because the failure of our economic system spells the end of representative government itself. When that fails our nation may go the way of European nations which have adopted various freak 'isms.'"

Ornburn strongly urged purchase of union label products and services to increase national buying power and raise standards of living.

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

Glory of the Conquered

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

The little nations of the world are facing their hour of agony. They will be glorified by the historian while the conqueror will be reviled and anathematized. The names of the conquered will be carved upon granite blocks or placed upon bronze tablets, but more important, their deeds will be recorded in the hearts of the people for whose sakes these heroes made the supreme sacrifice.

The glory of the conquered lies in the fact that their spirit was never defeated. Their swords may have been broken, but they were broken in conflict. And in a coming day they will be resurrected and shine forth as the heroes of a future generation. Their souls will will go marching on. But this story may be told of every man who bravely faces the problems of life, because every morning he is challenged to engage in a fight to achieve his high purpose.

It may be a battle for one's friends, one's fellow-workers, one's fellow-citizens. It may be a fight for underpaid and overworked men and women; for sick and tired people of the tenemants; for underfed and underclad children; for disheartened and hopeless unemployed adults; for beaten and discouraged young people who could not get a start in life. These are conflicts which cannot be won with battleships and bombers, nor through military tragedy. They are won only by destroying hatred through military strategy. They through sacrifice, injustice through equity, indifference through understanding.

Those who engage in such conflicts must not run with the mob. The mob nexer moves forward. It usually remains at a low level. Victory comes only through organization. Sometimes even organization fails, and its leaders seem to have lost in the conflict. But when the issues are wide-reaching, the failures must be discounted. Only the long view will determine when victory has been achieved.

This is particularly true of labor's struggles. As one looks back over the years every sign indicates steady progress has been made, and points toward ultimate victory. They who seem to have been conquered in labor's conflict will be glorified in the victories of the future. And we must ever be mindful of the fact that each generation has been raised to a higher level because of the struggles made by those in the past, even though the latter may seem to have failed in reaching the goal.

Parnell's Amazing Talent.

Charles Stewart Parnell, the noted Irish statesman, always professed the greatest ignorance of "book learning," and admittedly did not even know a great deal about Irish history.

On one occasion he was engaged to lecture on Irish history at Cork. He said to a friend: "I really do not know anything about Irish history. Do you have some good books I might borrow?"

The day of the lecture came, and the hour was set for 8 o'clock. At a quarter of 8, Parnell arose from the dinner table, saying: "Now I must read up the history."

He arrived at the hall at a quarter after 9, and delivered one of the greatest lectures in his long and brilliant career.

Brewery Worker Is Injured

B. Benson, member of Local 79, Brewery Workers, was injured while at work last week, and is now in Erlanger hospital.

Mr. Benson will not be able to work for some time, according to reports, but is doing nicely and was not permanently injured.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Capital's Reaction to Nazi Invasion

President Roosevelt expressed the sentiment of members of congress when he said on Friday night that the Americas were "shocked and angered" when Hitler's forces invaded the peace-loving lowland countries.

Congressional leaders began to more carefully look over our national defenses. Military experts say they are inadequate. The chances are that congress will further increase army and navy appropriations even if by doing so the debt limit of forty-five billion dollars is exceeded.

The president pointed out that science had placed the Americas close to the forces of aggression, and that we cannot longer depend upon the Atlantic as a protection from invasion.

Farm Benefits

The farmers fared well in the the house this week as it voted to approve senate amendments adding $297,000,000 to the agriculture appropriation bill.

The chief increase was for parity payments. The $212,000,000 appropriated for this purpose will be distributed by giving the cotton growers $78,600,000; wheat farmers will get $54,000,000; corn farmers $61,000,000, and tobacco growers $6,400,000.

Letters from the district indicate that some farmers are not securing the benefits of the parity program. Farmers who have not done so should contact their county agricultural agent to make sure they are receiving the payments to which they are entitled.

Transportation Bill

The house, on Thursday, voted to recommit the transportation bill to the conference committee, with instructions that it be brought back to the house with three amendments.

The three amendments had been approved by the house and senate, but were left out of the conference report. The amendments are: (1) to require the interstate commerce commission to obtain assurances that unemployment would not result before approving consolidations. This amendment was sponsored by the five transportation brotherhoods. (2) To guarantee that farm products. This amendwent was sponceive the same low transportation rate as is given to industrial products. This amendment was sponsored by the agricultural bloc. (3) To permit water lines to reduce their rates to meet rail transportation as long as the charges were compensatory.

The congress realizes the unsatisfactory condition of the railroads, and a majority express a desire to help solve it. The conference committee is being urged to report the bill back to the house with these amendments. If it is reported, with any one of the amendments, the bill will likely pass.

Civil Aeronautics Authority

The president's fourth reorganization bill provided for the transfer of the civil aeronautics authority to the commerce committee.

The house this week sustained the resolution vetoing the president's plan.

Those against the plan point out that the C. A. A. has done a good job and that there is no reason for the transfer. The president's friends argue that the board will be carried on in the same manner with the benefit of information that will come from the commerce, and other executive depart-

TEACHER TALK

The badminton group had its last meeting Thursday evening, closing a very successful season. Bridge, parliamentary law groups are still meeting. The tax problems group has postponed sessions until after school is out, but it expects to continue its study during the summer, as does the modern literature group. The handicrafts group will be meeting shortly after school is closed. All in all, the activities program may be said to be getting off to a fine start.

Congressman Martin Dies has announced that his committee is planning to conduct an investigation of fascist and communist propaganda in textbooks. The committee has hired an extra investigator to collect data on the political and social affiliations of textbook authors. It is too bad that nobody has the time to point out that the worst textbooks are written, not by communists or fascists, but by professors of pedagogy when they presume to write about history or science or the humanities.

Atlanta teachers are enrolled almost 100 per cent in the American Federation of Teachers, it was announced by Ira Jarrell, president of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' association. "Our membership is almost 100 per cent, we have our basic salaries, we have tenure and pension rights and many other things," he state. "All these rights and privileges have come to us as the result of organization, co-operation, and hard work. We also have certain responsibilities as well as rights and we must not forget them. It is our duty and responsibility to give Atlanta the best school system possible. We are judged by our every act. School is preparation for democracy, and public taxation for the support of schools can be justified in training in democracy."

LABEL LEAGUE TO MEET

Chattanooga Label league will meet Friday night, May 24, at 7:30 o'clock at the Hotel Patten, room 908. All members and delegates are urged to attend.

T. F. L. Convention Plans Indicate Very Busy But Enjoyable Time

In true Memphis style, the delegates and visitors to the 43rd convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, which opens June 3 in Memphis, will be entertained royally. Tentative plans for the fun have been given to officials of the federation by Ray Brown, chairman of entertainment, and Lev Loring, president of the Memphis Trades and Labor council.

But do not be misled into thinking that everything will be fun and frolic and no work done. At the start of every session each delegate will deposit an attendance card so the folk back home will know that they really were on the job all the time.

Believing in an early welcome, there will be a buffet supper Sunday from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Cadet room of the Peabody hotel. The Peabody, one of the south's finest hotels, will also serve as headquarters for the convention.

Monday afternoon the visitors will be taken through the beautiful city of Memphis, ending up at a barbecue, southern style, at Edgewood park.

Beginning at 6:30 Tuesday night will be a banquet at the Skyway, Peabody hotel, followed by a dance in the open air. All entertainment will be presented by members of Actors' Equity. Gov. Prentice Cooper is expected to accept an invitation to be the principal speaker. Invitations have also been mailed to Senators McKellar and Stewart, and Congressman Davis.

Mrs. John Bartz will see to it that the ladies attending the convention are welcomed.

Building Contractors Oppose 30-Hour Week

Milwaukee, Wis.—The governing board of Associated General Contractors of America announced here its opposition to a 30-hour week in the building industry and urged members to resist any further efforts to cut working hours.

The board approved a report submitted by J. D. Marshall, Washington, D. C., chairman of the association's labor relations committee.

Reinstate Unionist With $200 Award For Back Pay

Washington, D. C.—The Jacobs Manufacturing Company, Bridgeport, Ala., was ordered by the National Labor Relations Board to cease discouraging membership in Stove Mounters' International union, Local No. 48, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The board also ordered the company to reinstate Marvin W. Hogwood as foreman in its stove mounting department and to award him $200 for any loss of pay he may have suffered. The board alleged the company discriminatorily discharged Hogwood and thereafter refused to employ him because of his membership in the union.

UNEMPLOYMENT HELD MENACE TO PEACE

High Point, N. C.—The Rev. James Myers, industrial secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, speaking at the Carolinas-Virginia Workers' Education Conference here declared that "unemployment constitutes a constant danger toward war since governments which are unable to solve the serious domestic problems are always tempted to direct attention to possible foreign foes."

"We must solve this problem of unemployment," he continued. "That is our No. 1 public problem. We must not be diverted by war hysteria. We must stay out of war. That is the only way we can preserve our democracy and labor's hard-won freedom."

Mr. Myers declared that organized labor is one of the strongest bulwarks for peace "if it does not allow itself to be frightened or stampeded by war propaganda from any source."

TFL DELEGATES-ELECT PLAN TO GET TOGETHER

Will Assemble at Patten Hotel Sunday, May 26, at 2:30 p.m.

Erskine Mabee, secretary of Central Body, announces for the executive board of Central Body that all elected delegates to the Tennessee Federation of Labor convention to be held in Memphis will meet here in Chattanooga on Sunday, May 26. They will assemble at the Patten hotel at 2:30 p.m.

All elected delegates and alternates who plan to go to the convention on June 3, 4 and 5 have been urged to attend this meeting.

School Custodians Making Progress

In announcing that the next meeting of the School Custodian union will be held on Saturday, June 1, Secretary W. H. Martin said that the membership roll is increasing steadily and it is believed that before long they will be boasting a 100 per cent organization.

At its last meeting Brothers Ed Bork, Jr., and V. O. Cunningham, representing Central Body, appeared to present the plan for a new labor temple. The custodians unanimously decided to go into the temple and subscribed one day's pay from each member for stock in the building.

Secretary Martin was also named to represent the local in Memphis at the convention to be held June 3, 4 and 5.

Shorter Waiting Period on Job Insurance Asked

Washington, D. C.—Charles M. Ray, counsel for the Railway Labor Executives' Association, urged a Senate interstate commerce subcommittee to approve the bill sponsored by the railway brotherhoods revising the railroad unemployment insurance act so as to cut from 38 to22 the number of days a railroad emplyoe would have to wait for unemployment compensation after losing his job.

Bakers' Scraps

I report this week the death of one of our members, Brother C. H. Howard, who was drowned last Sunday in the Tennessee river. Brother Howard was foreman at the Erskine bakery, of whom we have under contract. Local 25 wishes to extend to the family of Brother Howard their sincere sympathy.

Peggy Mason has returned to work after a recent illness. Sorry I didn't get to drop around while you were sick, Peg, but having to be in the office most of the time I don't get to visit around very much. Sure glad you are back at work.

I would like to take this opportunity to let you know that I was successful in getting my grocer to discontinue handling those non-union products that we have a fight on. If you would go into your favorite grocer and have a heart-to-heart talk with him I'm sure he would discontinue handling any of the non-union bakery products. Why not give it a try? Non-union cakes and pies are: Hostess, Dortch, Ward's, Holsum, Virginia Dare, Ambrosure, Jack's, Alton Park, Effies, Travis, Malbra and Gordon's.

Union made are Dolly Madison, Erskine's, Mercer's, Hooper's, Grennan, Stone's.

Brother Harry Mabee left last Wednesday for New York to attend the National AAU weight-lifting tournament, which will be held at Madison Square Garden Saturday. A former member, Ed Seagle, was also with the boys that left for this trip. Lots of luck, boys, and be sure to bring back all the trophies.

I attended the Workers' Education conference which was held here over the week-end. There was some very interesting speakers and I met some very interesting people that I had heard quite a deal about. Why is it that our own bakers' local can't get a group started in some kind of workers' educational classes that we need very much. Parliamentary law would sure be a fine thing for us to study for we sure need it.

Strawberry shortcake season is here again and be sure that you get Erskine's fruit cups when you plan to have that delicious desert.

Typical —

I understand that ladies entirely sympathetic with the Finns, matrons who headed many anti-Russian drives, are now preparing to make the semi-supreme sacrifice by paying Finnish housemaids as much as $3 a week for a 10-hour day. Such unselfish attitudes are typical of our national big-heartedness. — Edward M. Ruttenber, in Daily News Record, New York.

Fourteen Cities Report Satisfaction With Five-Day Week for Employes

Chicago. — Satisfactory working out of a five-day, 40-hour week for municipal employes, adopted by at least fourteen cities during the past seven years, is reported in a survey by the International City Managers' association.

Six of the cities adopted the shorter work week in 1932 and 1933. They were Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee and Seattle, which applied the five-day week to all employes except policemen and firemen; and Sacramento and Schenestady, which applied it only to laborers working for the cityu.

In the following five years, all employes of Minneapolis, San Francisco, Escanaba, Mich., Reading, Pa.; Rockford, Ill., and the Los Angeles board of education went on such a schedule, while Everett, Wash., and Cincinnati introduced the five-day week for laborers and certain other employes.

The earlier adoptions for the short week occurred when cities tried to offset necessary wage and salary reductions with reduced working hours. In nearly all of the cities reporting, pay-cuts were later restored, but the shorter work week was retained.

The five-day week has im... employe morale, according ... cities reporting. All say t... is working satisfactorily. ... put per employe in Schene... for example, is reported a... as that for the five and ... day week because employes ... to make a greater effort ... their work done.

We still have a few members on our sick list. They are Brothers J. R. Thomas, J. O. Wilson, B. F. Bailey, T. C. Davis, Frank Jones and R. E. Lawing. Hope to see these brothers back on duty real soon.

Mrs. G. M. Dean, Mrs. D. C. Bandy and Mrs. A. L. Gray are at their homes improving very rapidly and are expected to be out real soon.

We are sorry that we are losing Brother C. W. Brown as our financial secretary due to the fact that he has been promoted to inspector and dispatcher on our system. We appreciate the interest that Brother Brown took in his job in helping to organize our local and the way he conducted his office was extra fine and we feel that it will be quite a task to fill his place with the same material. He was kind, considerate, congenial, friendly and was always ready to help his fellow-man. We congratulate Brother Brown in his new work and wish him much success and we wish to state that we are 100 per cent for him because we know that he is a 100 per cent union man and that his promotion will not change his attitude in any way toward the union.

We now have a ball team and I will have the line-up pretty soon, but I understand that Brother H. H. Parker will be their chauffeur and water boy, and Brother H. T. Padgett is to be the pigtail.

Don't forget our next meeting will be held at the Wheland hall Thursday, June 6, at 6:30 p.m., and Friday, June 7, at 10 a.m. Be sure to be present at one of these meetings as we have some very important things to come before the local.

We are proud to announce that we now have an auxiliary to our local. The ladies met Tuesday night with twenty-seven present and it was voted 100 per cent to organize. Mrs. Ethel Wilson, of Memphis, who is second vice-president of the national auxiliary, attended the meeting and assisted the ladies with their organizing. We want the ladies to know that we are glad that they have taken this step to help us in organized labor and that we will co-operate with them and help to boost them in every way we can. All we want in return is for the ladies to be sure to have some ice cream and cake once in a while or a barbecued pig or just anything eatable because you know that a bus driver will eat anything that will not bite them first. So come on, fellows, and let's help the ladies with their organization because we all know that they are always helping us with anything hat we undertake to do. They do our washing, cooking, ironing, sewing, attending the babies and what have you, so I think that they should have a little pleasure the same as we do, because we must remember they are human just the same as we are. At the same time they will learn unionism and where to spend our money, because after all that is the important thing about drawing union wages—let your money help some other union worker.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL
Consecration to Duty.

God has a man for every emergency and an emergency for every man. There are no small things in the divine economy. There is "an empty niche in the file of royal statues" which only the proportions of your personality will fit and fill. In the car of humanity there is always "room for one more." The size of the room depends on the man. Man is the biggest circumstance in the realm of the circumstantial. A man makes a place in the world and then fills it. The surging waves of humanity will give every man just as much room as he really demands. When you plunge into the ocean of human achievement, you will make and fill your own island where the waters will touch your individuality on every side.

Consistent.

Be plain spoken, honest, sincere. Speak your mind. Let no man credit you with false motives. When Franklin offered Whitefield a lodging the evangelist replied, "If you have done this for Christ's sake, you shall not lose your reward." Franklin replied, "I have not done this for Christ's sake but for your sake."

First know that you are right and then stand your ground.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

SAL B. HOFFMANN

Sal B. Hoffmann, International President of the Upholsterers' International Union of North America, was elected to his present position in 1937. He is the youngest International President ever to head his organization and is today the youngest man to hold such a responsible position in the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Hoffmann joined the Wholesale Upholsterers' Local Union No. 77 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, as an apprentice in November, 1920, when he was 18 years of age. Within a few months after becoming a member of the Local Union it became involved in a general strike and he was made chairman of the picket committee. The strike was won and Sal B. Hoffmann became the financial secretary of his Local Union. In rapid succession he served as Executive Board Member, Business Representative and President of his Local Union.

In 1929 he became general organizer for the International Union. Two years later he returned to Philadelphia to resume the office of Business Agent of Local No. 77, and held this office until his election as International President.

Mr. Hoffmann has established special research, educational and Union Label departments in his International Union. His campaign for the use of the Union Label on all products has met with unusual success and has attracted the attention of the entire Labor movement.

His address is: Mr. Sal B. Hoffmann, International President, Upholsterers' International Union of North America, 19 West 44th Street, Suite 701, New York, N. Y.

More Cooperation National Need

John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department, American Federation of Labor, recently made an arresting plea for more democracy and cooperation in our economic system. Addressing the Middletown (Ohio) Trades and Labor Council, he pointed out that we must make democracy work, if we are to escape the charge that democracy is a failure. Making democracy work more effectively is a matter of self-preservation, he inferred, in words that deserve wide circulation.

Mr. Frey pointed out the obvious advantages of legislation agreed to by representatives of management and labor in joint conference and went on to say:

"The time has come when there must be more meetings around the conference table between management and labor. It is the American way. It is the application in our country of democracy functioning within our industrial structure, paralleling and going hand in hand with the democratic structure of political self-government.

"Industrial democracy and political democracy must rely more and more upon each other if our country is to escape the criticism that democracy is a failure, and that the only satisfactory form of government is a dictatorship with its planned national economy.

"If we are to safeguard and further develop our American institutions of human liberty and democracy, we must give these institutions every application to the adjustment and regulation of all local and national problems, including that of the relationship of management and labor."

Paying Taxes By Instalments

Three thousand delinquent taxpayers in Richmond, Va., are paying up overdue accounts on an installment basis, the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of the United States and Canada says. Current taxes can also be paid in installments, by permission given within the last year.

The citizens' payments on back taxes are accepted as deposits and are applied to his tax deft only after enough has been deposited to cover the delinquent tax bill for an entire yar. The plan is being used for both delinquent real estate and personal property taxes.

More than three-fourths of the cities in the United States over 30,000 population now collect property taxes in installments, according to the finance officers' association. Approximately 150 of these cities allow payment in two installments, and 53 in four installments. Of the remainder, 11 cities permit payment in three installments, and 18 permit from five to twelve installments.

Payments of taxes by installments has proved workable and beneficial in many localities. Why should it not be used everywhere?

Drivers and Accidents

Many automobile drivers, after an accident, will insist that the steering wheel locked, or that the gas pedal stuck, or that the brakes failed, or that something else went wrong. Police officials are quite likely to be skeptical of these excuses because they have found that more than 90 per cent of all vehicles involved in fatal and non-fatal smashups are in apparently good condition with none of these defects noted.

Drivers, if they will be honest, can usually trace the cause of an accident to some failure of their mental or temperamental equipment rather than in their mechanical equipment.—Travelers Insurance Company.

Picture Not All Black

Business has been falling since the end of last year, and the industrial picture is far from what it should be. But pessimism has seemingly been overdone. For some time, there have been indications that the downward curve of business activity has been flattening out and latest reports show the curve turning upward again, with gains in various industries.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company reports income up sharply in the first quarter of this year and a backlog of unfilled orders on March 31 of $82,637,841, one of the largest in the company's history. The comparable figures for March 31, 1939, was $46,924,240. This hardly looks as if business was headed for the rocks, as Westinghouse sells to many industries, its products ranging from giant motors, dynamos, turbines and other heavy goods to a wide variety of household electrical appliances. All Westinghouse plants are reported busy and most working full time.

The Westinghouse report is only one straw. However, it indicates that all is not gloom in the industrial field and it may well be an augury of substantial business improvement in the near future.

A Public Service

Anything that focuses national attention on the problem of unemployment in the United States, with a view to taking remedial action, is a public service. The problem is so great, so serious, so far-reaching in its consequences that it can only be solved by united effort.

Such effort is the aim of the conference called in Washington for June 4 and 6 by organizations of three great religious groups Protestant, Catholic and Jews. The paramount aim, as stated in the call, is: "Form a 'united will' to abolish unemployment."

Leaders of the conference ask the churches to send one thousand church people widely representative of various geographical areas and faiths.

A frank facing of the facts of unemployment is sought, with the idea of emphasizing consequences of the problem, the responsibility of every American for solving it and the study of various specific proposed remedies.

Aims of the conference are in harmony with the declarations of organized labor, which has long insisted that continuing unemployment is a problem that demands the best efforts of all elements in the population if it is to be solved.

Slums Don't Pay

The Norfolk (Va.) Federated Civic and Improvement League quotes a former city manager of Norfolk as saying that the cost of necessary municipal services (policing, prosecuting, jailing, and maintaining offenders) in Norfolk's slum areas is $750,000 a year. This amount, which comes out of the pockets of taxpayers, the League says, is considerably in excess of what the city collects from the slum areas in taxes.

Internal warfare weakens organized labor and tends to arouse public hostility.

It makes for a state of the public mind that will approve of repressive legislation and other anti-union action.

In plain words, internal warfare, is playing with fire. Great numbers of organized workers are realizing this more and more keenly.

Radio is a government-licensed medium. It is subject to full control in war or great emergency. Europe has shown its propaganda possibilities as a war weapon in the hands of a despot, and remote as that danger may seem to us, it cannot be wholly ignored. This country is still fortunate that the press has not been displaced as the primary news medium, and that radio's inroads upon its advertising have been merely painful and not fatal. If radio had destroyed the news primacy of the press, or if it ever could, the American people would have something serious to think about.—From Editor and Publisher.

In the first quarter of this year, 7,200 persons were killed in automobile accidents, the National Safety Council reports. This, the council says, was 450 more than for the same period last year and represented a 7 per cent increase.

March was the sixth consecutive month with a higher traffic toll than the corresponding month of the previous year. Almost 900 additional lives were lost during this period. Furthermore, the last two of those six months—February and March—brought increases far greater than any of the preceding months.

"The fact that 450 more people were killed in the winter months of this year than last is particularly alarming," said Col. John Stilwell, president of the National Safety Council, "because vacation months, with their heavy travel, are just ahead. It is up to America to apply the brakes."

Guard Against War Psychology A. F. of L. Council Urges, Warning U. S. Must Stay Out

Washington, D. C.—The American Federation of Labor executive council, in spring session here, urged the people of the United States to guard against development of war psychology by clear thinking and reiterated declarations against American involvement in the European conflict.

The council emphatically condemned Nazi German's attack on Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, declaring that it has become obvious that "the purpose of the dictators of Germany and Russia is to seize every democratic nation and subjugate every free people in Europe."

A statement made public by council said:

"These latest explosions in Europe were not unexpected. We predicted last February that if Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland were successful the next victims of the Nazi-Soviet alliance would be Belgium, The Netherlands and the Scandinavian countries.

"U. S. Should Stay Out"

"We in America are a peace-loving people. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor does not see how the entry of the United States into the European war would serve the cause of peace.

"On the contrary, we feel that if we steadfastly maintain our neutrality we will be in a better position to aid in the reconstruction of Europe when the war is over.

"On behalf of the workers of this country, we make the flat declaration that the United States should remain out of the war."

Three-Point Program

The council recommended a three-point program, as follo...

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

United for Defense

Twice during the past eight months the war raging furiously abroad has brought President Roosevelt to joint session of congress for important messages. Both messages had the same objectives —to keep America out of war.

Last September the President asked for and secured enactment of neutrality legislation, placing the United States on a cash and carry basis and giving him the right to define belligerent zones. On Thursday the President came again to congress, this time to ask for an additional authorization of $1,182,000,000 to equip and modernize the army and navy. Need for additional planes keynoted the message as the President asked for 50,000 additional military and naval aircraft for the coming year. "Great additional production capacity is our principal air requisite," he said as he asked congress not to hamper continued delivery of foreign plane orders.

The holocaust abroad has for some time indicated the necessity for enlarging and modernizing our defenses. Senators and congressmen eagerly awaited the President's message.

Americans may have heated arguments and glaring political differences, but when it comes to our security, all groups and classes join together and present a united front. Partisanship has been put aside in this emergency. Today comes the announcement that Republican leaders have formed a coalition behind the President. Organized labor has tendered full cooperation.

The District Backs Defense Plans

Hundreds of letters and telegrams have been received from citizens in the district. Many do not ordinarily agree with the President, but all unite for national defense and security. A letter from an astute and influential business man expresses in exceptionally clear terms the general attitude of the district and of your representative. Part of the letter is as follows:

"For some years, I have felt that this country has been inadequately protected in case of invasion. Since the Germans have gone into Holland and Belgium as they have—burning cities, killing civilians and using their usual ruthless methods—I feel that we should take steps immediately to protect ourselves. If we had the largest air force in the world and an army of at least a million men, with modern equipment, I do not believe that we would be in danger. As we stand today, our position is vulnerable.

"During the last week, I have made it my business to talk to the people of this community. People of means; people in moderate circumstances, and poor people—all share the view which I have expressed. None of us, of course, likes to pay taxes; but I, for one, and I think everyone else here with hom I have talked would be willing to do his proportionate part of payment toward a proper defense program."

Defense Program May Bring Industries to District

Officials of the war department are extremely interested in our section for sites for airplane and munition factories. With its natural defense, closeness to strategic minerals, availability of cheap hydro-electric power, and splendid railroad facilities, the Third District would be a logical location for these industries. Your representative, in conjunction with citizens in the district, has been busy presenting our claim to army officials. They are intensely interested. Nothing definite has been determined, but it would not be surprising if a site for an airplane or munition factory in the district is selected. Likewise the desirability of locating an air base in the vicinity of Chattanooga is being pressed. Several weeks ago a bill was filed for the purpose of having a location in the Third District selected. This may be "in the cards" as it has become apparent that interior air bases are necessary.

TVA Tax Legislation

Congressmen from the TVA region are continuing to exert every possible influence on the members of the military affairs committee of the House to get them to report a tax replacement measure.

The urgency of the situation is being stressed. The committee is still deadlocked, with half of the members against any bill. The other half are in favor of giving relief, but have varying ideas as to the type or extent of replacement. The picture is dark, but not hopeless. The fight is not over—there are still several things that can be done. Citizens of the district may be assured that everything possible will be done to secure relief.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

WHAT NEXT?

Production of a folding bicycle that is easily assembled or taken apart in a moment without tools is announced. It is small enough when folded to be stowed in automobile trunk compartments since it takes up little more than the space of one wheel, it is said.

BOOST YOUR UNION AND OUR UNION WILL BOOST OU.

DO YOU JUST BELONG?

ow, are you an active member,
The kind that would be missed,
Or are you just contented that
Your name is on the list?
Do you attend the meetings and affairs
And do you mingle with the members,
Or do you stay at home and criticize and fret?
Do you take an active part to help the members along,
Or are you satisfied to be the kind that "just belong?"
Do you ever go to visit a member that is sick,
Or do you leave all the work for
Just a few and talk about the clique?
This year there's quite a program
Scheduled that means success if done,
And it can be well-accomplished with the help of evryone.
So try and come to the meeting regularly,
And help with hand and heart,
Don't be just a member, but take a part.
Now, as a member, think this over—
Are we right or wrong?
Are you an active member or do you just belong?

TEAMSTERS GOSSIP

In a special call meeting Monday night, May 16, approximately 250 truck drivers voted unanimously to build their own meeting hall. A building committee was appointed, plans were discussed and the ball is now rolling for a place of our own. We want to take this occasion to explain to Mr. Mabee, Mr. Hallmark and others of the Central Labor union the reason for our hands-off attitude toward their very laudable drive for a new labor temple.

Long before this move for a temple was begun the Teamsters' local, through sheer necessity, purchased property and a building on Rossville boulevard. We now have a comfortable office and a conference room and plenty of space in the rear that can be added to for an assembly hall.

We need a place away from the congested traffic in town to park our trucks. Our place on the boulevard answers the purpose and we hope this will explain why Local 515 will take no part in the purchase of the labor temple.

Just to let the membership know, the by-laws committee is getting results and progressing rapidly. Here is a list of local unions who have answered our requests for copies of their by-laws and working rules for reference:

Local 249, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Local 200, Milwaukee, Wis.; Local 207, Kansas City, Mo.; Local 174, Seattle, Wash.; Local 41, Kansas City, Mo.; Local 280, San Francisco, Cal.; Local 521, Christopher, Ill.; Local 229, Scranton, Pa.; Local 807, New York, N. Y.; Local 690, Spokane, Wash.; Local 70, Alameda County, Cal.

These copies received represent a good cross-section of the country and are proving valuable to the committee. When our by-laws are completed they should stack up well with those governing any other local in the country.

If any of you wonder why the air is so foul, your eyes burn so, and breathing is no pleasure at all at any Teamster meeting we hereby put the finger on the following men who are never without a cigar in their mouth (the kind you buy in pairs). These fellows are responsible for the fog: Fred Blansit, Carl Eakers, Robert Tipton, Huie Carmichael, Hoss Brown and C. L. Saunders. Next meeting night will someone please ask them all to sit together in the rear of the hall or recommend to them the name of a sweeter smelling cigar.

The civilian conservation corps wishes Lester Quarles would change his hobby. They say he whistles so much the country is faced with a serious timber shortage.

PORTLAND LABOR DEMANDS OREGON OFFICE SEEKERS "DECLARE THEMSELVES"

Portland, Ore.—The Portland Central Labor council, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has demanded that Oregon office seekers "specifically declare themselves" as opposed to the communist party and affiliates, the Oregon Commonwealth Federation, Labor's Non-Partisan league, the German-American bund or "any organization pledging allegiance to a foreign power."

We wonder what a few of our street car boys are thinking when they cross our picket line in front of Charley Franklin's cafe?

Well, I guess that is just about all the news for this week. Maybe I'll have more for you next time. 'Bye now.

UNION CONTRACT UPHELD BY JUDGE IN SAN DIEGO

San Diego, Calif.—Upholding a collective bargaining contract between the San Diego Electrical Workers' union and E. P. Kilcoyne, electrical contractor, as the legal basis for determining the amount of wages due William D. Beyers, an employe, Judge Philip Smith of the San Diego municipal court this week found Kilcoyne guilty on two counts of failing to pay Beyers' wages called for in the union agreement.

This is said to be the first criminal case in the local courts in which an employer has been found guilty of failing to pay union wage rates.

Judge Smith sentenced the contractor to serve fifteen days in the county jail on each of two counts, suspending the thirty days on condition of no further violations of the labor laws, and upon condition that Kilcoyne pay the complaining worker, Beyers, through the labor commissioner's office, the sum of $70 wages.

The contractor admitted signing a union wage agreement to pay his electricians $10 per day, but contended that he had made a private agreement with Beyers to work for $8 per day on part of the work. The court held the $10 rate was binding on the meployer. Beyers denied any agreement to work for less than the union agreement.

Absurd —

Everybody knows that any German who objects to the Nazi regime is putting his neck in a noose. If the democratic process had been functioning in Germany in the last seven years, if the German people today were supporting the government deliberately and without duress, then it might be truly said that all Germany is guilty of making this war. But the will of the people is a thing of no account to Hitler; he despises it. Under such circumstances it is unfair and absurd to accuse all Germans of complicity in Hitler's crimes.—Washington Daily News.

A PROGRAM FOR DEMOCRACY

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

To call to active, personal service the citizens in this country who believe in the principles of democracy so that they may unitedly, whole-heartedly, and vocally excel the organized subversive minorities in their campaigns to destroy democracy.

To abolish anti-Democratic isms, not by name-calling, mud slinging, or personalities, but by stating the facts regarding the advantages of democracy.

To dignify the humblest citizen so that he may realize that he is a worthy member of a democracy in which he is regarded as the equal of any other citizen.

To discourage displays of any character, or the organization of any society, or the public demonstration by any group, which has a tendency to create social, racial, or religious hatred.

To make the nation understand that if it conscientiously devotes itself to its problems, giving them the intelligent and fair-minded consideration which they deserve, it need have no fear of objectionable political systems which now confront it, or which may arise in the future.

To indicate that a democracy can be permanently maintained, only as it is willing to adapt itself to changing conditions in social and economic affairs, and as it is ready to amend its laws in order to meet the requirements of the changing times.

To urge upon all our citizens their personal responsibility in securing justice in all social, economic, and political relationships, realizing that it is only as others prosper that they themselves may continue to enjoy the benefits of democracy.

To develop the idea that whatever may be the occupation of any citizen, he has a personal responsibility to the commonwealth of which he is a part, because in a democracy the welfare of his family, the success of his business, his profession or his trade, and his own personal well-being, depend upon the cohesive and co-ordinate community of human beings who constitute the commonwealth.

To impress upon employers their opportunity to help perpetuate democracy by giving jobs of some kind to the unemployed, even though the employers themselves may receive comparatively small financial returns, thus minimizing the temptation of the workers to try to find relief through the subversive measures being offered by the opponents of democracy, which will end in economic disaster for both employers and workers.

To give emphasis to the declaration of President Lincoln that "this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom * * * and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth," that this freedom is our birthright, secured through the struggles of our forefathers, and for whose perpetuity we today are responsible.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

That in spite of the inroads of substitutes such as rayon, vinyon and nylon on the silk hose industry, women still prefer hose made of silk. Last year America imported about 50,000,000 pounds of raw silk, which appears to indicate that various boycotts of silk and stockingless fads of the last few years had little effect on women's desire for the feel of silk and its sparkling smartness in dress.

Home-canned fruits, vegetables and preserves keep best in a cool dry storeroom. Those put up in glass containers should be kept in a dark place to prevent loss of color. A hot, steamy storage place will cause growth of mold on any container that may not be sealed airtight.

You can avoid fatigue while you're doing ironing or doing any work where you stand for a long time in one spot by standing on a heavy rug or rubber mat.

GLAMOR

Take fifteen minutes out once a week for a facial mask. You will find the results most gratifying in ridding the skin of those pesky little bumps which appear below the surface. Cheap, simple masks may be made at home and accomplish the same purpose as the more expensive ready prepared ones. A cake of yeast with a little egg white and a few drops of cologne make a splendid mask. Cleanse the skin first with cream, spread on mask and lie down for fifteen minutes. A small pad soaked in witch hazel may be placed over each eye. Put your feet up on the foot of the bed, place a pillow under your hips and let the circulation and the mask do their work for your face. Then just wash mask off with warm water and feel like a new woman.

Another inexpensive mask is made of cereal powder mixed with a teaspoon of cold cream.

If you would thin yourself down to sylph-like proportions the experts now agree that it can be done without going on a starvation diet—just eat what you like, but reduce your portions. Plenty of salads are recommended with a non-fattening dressing, of course. From the Rose Dor health farm comes this French dressing recipe low in caloric value: 2 tablespoons vinegar, pinch each salt and paprika, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, finely chopped chives or parsley and 1 teaspoon catsup. For richer consistency a chopped hard cooked egg may be added. Rub the inside of a wooden bowl with garlic, pour in vinegar, add other ingredients, stirring constantly. Pour over salad greens just before serving.

Labor Temple Is Assured

Delegates Go to Memphis

Arrangements For TFL Meet Are Finished

Chairman Brown Reports All Is Ready.

"BIGGEST AND BEST"

Entertainment of Delegates Is Set by Committee.

Possibilities of the "biggest and best" convention in the history of the Tennessee Federation of Labor became more real this week with the announcement that plans and arrangements for entertainment of the 300 expected delegates and guests were nearly completed.

Convention Committee Chairman Ray F. Brown reported Thursday night to Memphis Trades and Labor council, host to the convention which opens in Memphis June 3, that committee members were following up their duties diligently and arrangements already had been completed by most of them.

Forty-third Gathering.

The convention, which will be the forty-third in the history of the T. F. of L., will open formally Monday morning, June 3, in Hotel Peabody. Delegates will register on Sunday and Monday at a desk arranged for their convenience on the mezzanine floor.

Monday morning's session will be opened by local Trades Council President Lev G. Loring, who will introduce local welcoming speak-

Important Notice To Hodcarriers

Next Tuesday, June 4, will be election day for Local 846, Hodcarriers. The election will be by ballot at the hall, 114½ West Seventh street. Polls will open at 12 noon, and will close 7:30 in the evening.

Candidates are: For president, Oscar Lingerfelt, Ralph Cuzzort and Kirby Sledge; for vice-president, John Gill and John Walton.

For financial secretary: Joe Shipley, J. L. Powers, L. J. Mattox, Sid Clark, J. S. Stone and J. Plasters.

For sergeant-at-arms, two to be elected: Frank England, Roy Chappell, Howard Render and Amos Futch.

For guard: Martin Blackburn, Russell Miller.

For business agent: Raymond Floyd, Lloyd Campbell and W. W. Brooks.

Trustee will be nominated June 4 and elected June 18.

For members at large on executive board, two to be elected, are O. H. Couch and John Simons.

Hillman Hits Lewis For Blocking Peace

Amalgamated Clothing Leader Declares Nation Demands a United Labor Movement.

New York.—A tumultuous demonstration, lasting for 20 minutes, was touched off here this week at the convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union when its president, Sidney Hillman, demanded the C. I. O. resume peace negotiations with the A. F. of L.

Hillman, who is vice-president of the C. I. O., criticized John L. Lewis for breaking off peace parleys.

"Labor and the nation stand to gain so much from a united labor movement that no effort should be spared to achieve it," Hillman declared.

Not only did the 900 delegates at the convention wildly cheer that statement, but they followed up by unanimously adopting a resolution calling for resumption of peace conferences.

Custodians to Have Visitors With Them At Saturday Meet

School Custodians, Local 272, have invited as special guests President Hallmark, Secretary Mabee and Sergeant-at-Arms Crosby of Central Body, to attend a meeting for Saturday, June 1. President of the local, W. R. Milligan, makes the announcement that the meeting will be in the basement of the First Christian church.

Time of meeting will be 1 o'clock, and all members are urged to be present to take part in some important business matters affecting them.

Keep Cool—

We call upon the ministers and people of our churches to keep cool in a feverish time in the firm belief that an America which keeps out of war can in the long run best rid the world of war and prod a just and lasting peace.—New York East Conference Methodist Church.

Victory for Labor In Supreme Court

Justices Rule That Apex Strikers Did Not Violate Sherman Anti-Trust Law — Decision Protects Right to Strike.

The United States supreme court this week, by a six to three decision, held that the Apex sit-down strikers had not violated the Sherman anti-trust law, and thereby refused lower court awards of $700,000 damages against the C. I. O. Hosiery Workers' union.

This decision is being rejoiced over by C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unions because if the court had ruled otherwise, it would have been almost impossible for labor to have conducted strikes in the future for fear of vicious damage suits.

Restraint of trade arising from a labor union's sit-down strike "of the most brutal and wanton character" was held by the supreme court not to violate the Sherman act.

The restraint did not "have an effect upon prices in the market or deprive purchasers or consumers of the advantages which they derive from free competition," the court said in its decision. Therefore, the tribunal added, it was not "the kind of restraint at which the act is aimed."

Chief Justice Hughes demurred at this construction as too narrow and pointed out that "leaders of industry have been taught in striking fashion" that if they "impose a direct restraint" upon trade, even for "benevolent purposes," they become subject to criminal prosecution. Justices McReynolds and Roberts joined the dissent.

The company won a verdict of $700,000, but a circuit court of appeals, which also held the Sherman act inapplicable, said the union "should be compelled to answer in damages" in a state court.

The supreme court majority, in an opinion by Justice Stone, likewise declared that the union, "by substituting the primitive method of trial by combat for the ordinary processes of justice and more civilized means of deciding an industrial dispute, ciolated the civil and penal laws of Pennsylvania." But it added that violence, "however reprehensible, does not give the federal courts jurisdiction."

Commenting upon the decision, Isadore Katz, attorney for the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, said at Philadelphia, it meant "that the threat of the Sherman act against labor unions in strike cases has been removed."

The court found "abundant" evidence that the effects of the strike, tying up not only manufacture, but the movement of 130,000 dozen pairs of stockings ready for shipment, constituted a restraint of interstate trade within the power of the federal government to prohibit "if congress has seen fit to exercise it."

"But," said the court, "the Sherman act admittedly does not con-

CENTRAL BODY HITS AT "FIFTH COLUMN" RAIDS

But Condemns "Super-Patriots" Who Might Use Hysteria for Persecution.

Central Labor union last Monday night announced that it intended to lend all aid toward preventing any "fifth column" activity in Chattanooga, but at the same time it is against any private committees set up ostensibly to do such work.

Delegates pointed out that groups of selfish "super patriots" might take the opportunity afforded by a war hysteria to brand those who do not agree with them as enemies of the nation, and in this manner attempt to destroy them.

This is borne out already in a speech made by one of the super patriots who told radio listeners this week to spy on their neighbors and every one around. This method has already been practiced in Russia, where children have been whipped into a frenzy of suspicion that caused their own parents' persecution.

The resolutions follow:

First resolution: "Whereas, there are at present much passion and propaganda against the moral and economic welfare of our people and our government; and

"Whereas, it is apparent that all lovers of liberty and freedom should realize the terrible situation now existing in many countries of the world, owing to these causes; now therefore be it resolved:

"That the Chattanooga Central Labor union in regular session hereby pledge our full and individual support to our government in its efforts to stop the so-called

Consumers Held Largely Responsible For High Distribution Costs

Washington, D. C.—Consumers themselves are largely responsible for the fact that it costs considerably more to distribute goods than to make them, says a pamphlet, 59c of Your $1, released by the Public Affairs Committee, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York. The pamphlet was prepared by T. R. Carskadon, summarizing the Twentieth Century Fund's study of the costs of distribution.

Advertising, and duplication of sales effort, though factors, account only in small part for the vast increase in the relative costs of distribution in recent years. Nor is the "middleman" found to be at fault. The toll taken by the "middleman" is shown to be less than one-fifth of the total cost of distributing goods from producer to consumer.

Modern Habits Blamed

Modern living habits account for many of the increased costs of distribution in modern economic society, the pamphlet indicates. Today's housewife is not content to buy in bulk as her grandmother did. She "wants small packages for her kitchen shelf. She wants fresh goods; she wants branded goods; she wants them in sanitary packages; and, above all, she wants them easily available."

Costs are also increased by special demands of consumers, many of which are unreasonable. The privilege of returning unwanted goods, for example, is held to be abused at the expense of consumers as a whole. This practice is revealed to have grown to such an extent that returns and allowances, on the average, amount to one day's sale out of eight in department stores.

Style Craze Big Factor

"Aside from abuse of the return privilege," the pamphet adds, "many more legitimate practices of consumers cause the costs of distribution to mount up. Our desire always to be in style is, of course, a great factor. We want seasonal goods, and we want a large array of them from which to choose.

"Beyond the simple buying of goods, consumers always want more and more services. Delivery often is just the beginning. Consumers want recipes, instructions, repair and upkeep service, advice, credit, periodic testing—and a wide variety of other things."

On the other hand, it is pointed out that it was "some enterprising producer or dealer, seeing a possibility for increased sales, who first offered each one of these new services to the public. The increasing cost of distribution that results from them cannot be set down as wholly the fault of consumers or distributors."

Plans for Cutting Costs

In conclusion the pamphlet summarizes the proposals of the Twentieth Century Fund Committee for reducing distribution costs. The fund committee suggests "study of a system which would clearly show the separate prices for a single article, depending upon the amount of service involved in its sale.

"The fund committee also believes that there should be an increase in and a better co-ordination of government agencies to provide information about qualities, standards, and grades of goods which would enable consumers to get better value for their money."

Bakers' Scraps

We had a good attendance at our regular meeting which was held last Saturday. One of the highlights of the meeting was the discussion of the purchase of the new labor temple by the Central Labor Union. Bro. Erskine Mabee and two representatives, one a former bakery employe, from the Central Body came before our local and made a very interesting talk on the temple and the local went on record to contribute a tenth of a week's work toward the purchase of it.

Dixie Dream Bread Is Union-Made

Charles Mabee was elected as the delegate to represent our bakers' local at the Tennessee Fedration of Labor convention which convenes in Memphis, June 3. Brother Mabee was our delegate at the last convention which was held in Nashville. It seems that Charlie is better known as the convention man.

No Shortage of Skilled Men, Secretary of Labor Says

Washington.—Backing up the contention of the American Federation of Labor that there is no shortage of skilled labor, Secretary of Labor Perkins said here that skilled workers are available for most production under the national defense program.

The secretary said there may be a shortage in some spots, such as tool and die making, pattern making and design drafting. "But these are small groups," she added.

Miss Perkins reported that the federal employment service has 6,000,000 names on its "active file" and these include many skilled mechanics.

When these skilled workers are required for the armament program, the secretary said, arrangements can be made to transport those who wish to take jobs to places where they are needed.

"I cannot think of any process in the whole defense program for which there are no men available," she said.

Miss Perkins expressed the belief there is no need of changing the Walsh-Healey act or the fair labor standards act at this time.

She said the laws were flexible requiring that time and half be paid for overtime and could only affect the cost of the defense program, not the speed of completion.

Lasting Value—

The successful resistance of the American Federation of Labor to the introduction of communist purposes and methods in the labor movement was an outstanding patriotic accomplishment. Its lasting value will be recognized more and more as time passes.—John Frey.

Brothers L. B. Merriman, R. L. Blessing, Frank Lewis, Harwood Wells and G. D. Hale didn't see enough automobiles racing around here in Chattanooga, so they decided to leave here and go to Indianapolis, Ind., where they could see plenty of it. We wish them lots of luck on their round trip and hope that they enjoy the races, but don't come back here and try some of it on the city streets, or I am afraid that they will be saying Good morning, Judge.

NOTICE NOTICE

STAY OUT OF POWELL'S BARBER SHOP ON MARKET STREET. TWO-BIT SHOP. Mr. J. C. Powell, who was formerly with Mr. J. R. Anderson's barber shop, has pulled out to himself and put up a shop of his own. He told our committee that he was doing it to put in a union card. He asked for a little time to get straightened out before putting in the card. We were very patient with him, but after about two months in business he has refused to put in the card. He has also cut his price to 25 cents, which makes another so-called two-bits shop. This is absolutely contrary to organized labor, because we are supposed to hold up the wages of all labor and not cut them. He has refused to carry out many of his promises to us in this matter, so I wish to call this to the attention of all unions, as well as our own local, so that they will not patronize this shop. Remember, this shop is between Fourth and Fifth on the east side of Market street, so stay out of this shop, first, because it is not a union shop; second, because it is a two-bit shop. This price was cut so as to compete with some other two-bit shops in that section, after he had been told that we would patronize and help him to stay in business and at the same time make a decent living for his help as well as himself. STAY OUT—STAY OUT.

SAFETY FIRST

We wish to call the attention of the motorists of this city to the fact that the schools are now out for the summer and the weather is getting pretty, which will bring out the kiddies to play. They will play ball, marbles, hopscotch, ride their bicycles, scooters, wagons, roller skates, and etc., so please for their sake be careful and don't hurt any of these youngsters. Just consider that they are all yours and I am sure that you will be more careful. We hope that all parents will caution their children daily when they go out to play not to play in the street and to look before they cross so as to keep it fresh on their minds. It will save lots of grief and sorrow for the motorist and the parents as well. Let's all resolve to make this vacation a safer one than ever before.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

For once I want to break a lance with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The colonel flew the Atlantic, made a lot of money, married Anne Morrow, became thick friends with many bigwigs, invented an artificial heart and did many other things.

Once he craved to be let alone. He went through terrific suffering. He became surly to newspapermen, craving aloneness; and he went to England in search of quiet.

But when the colonel steps up to the microphone and lets go a blast on a great public policy he forfeits solitude. He sticks his chin out.

It is now fair to talk back to him. I want to do just that.

The colonel talks out at a time when national defense is a paramount issue. He chatters about our safety as if there could be no danger.

He seems to make it appear that there is a lot of talk favoring American entry into the war. But mainly the burden of his talk is our safety, because of the oceans.

Presumably the colonel knows flying. But a crack flying expert isn't necessarily a final judge of our foreign policy. And he isn't necessarily an authority on all matters affecting national safety or the intentions and abilities of foreign powers.

So we're fully safeguarded from attack are we? Let's see.

Holland and Germany are at war. Holland has an empire, part of which is formed by the Dutch East Indiees. Secretary Hull has told Japan not to monkey with those islands.

SUPPOSE JAPAN DECIDES IT'S A GOOD TIME TO MONKEY WITH THEM!

Keeping out of war may not be entirely a matter of our own choosing.

As these lines are written Germany is giving the allies a terrific pounding around the end of the Little Maginot line.

Suppose the nazis, with air bases 100 miles from England, decide to rest up a couple of weeks and then let go at England with devastating air bombardment.

Good authorities say the nazis could just about ruin England from the air.

Of course the allies may turn the tables and push back that driving nazi horde.

But suppose not!

The Dutch royal family took refuge in England. Suppose the British royal family takes refuge in Canada. Play with that idea for a while.

And suppose the nazis so rake England as to force the British fleet to back up.

They probably would back up on Canadian bases.

We have declared this hemisphere to be American, with no fighting allowed in these waters.

So, suppose the nazis decide to follow the British fleet!

It is easy to say the seas protect us from invasion. Maybe so. MAYBE!

But "maybe" is the best you can make out of it.

However, invasion isn't the only thing that can happen.

We can be forced into war by things other than invasion—UNLESS WE DO A COMPLETE BACKDOWN ON OUR DECLARED FOREIGN POLICY.

It happens that both major political parties are about equally forceful on that foreign policy, which includes an enlarged Monroe Doctrine.

Both France and England have possessions in this hemisphere.

And the United States possesses the Hawaiian islands and the Philippines.

Aside from these things, Col. Lindbergh completely overlooked the nazi, communist and Japanese fifth columns.

That's how the nazis got into Norway so easily. It helped them through Holland.

The United States is lousy with fifth column operations of nazis and communists. Mexico is peppered with them. They have sneaked, bribed and browbeaten their way.

So Lindbergh thinks the United States is isolated and guarded by the oceans!

Alaska is about 12 miles from Soviet Russia. Our outermost Pacific islands are almost on Japan's doorstep. In two hours by air from Miami you can step ashore on British territory. You can walk to it over our whole northern border.

Look at your maps, read the war news, think twice and see whether YOU think we are so goldarned safe from the world's ravishing burglars!

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

Strange Action By C. of C.

We note with shock a story in the daily press that the local chamber of commerce has gone on record against the LaFollette bill pending in congress which, if passed, would outlaw use in industry of tear gas, machine guns and detective agencies.

The reason given by the chamber is that the present disturbed condition of the world would make it unwise to take from employers' hands the deadly weapons they are now using against employes.

We would rather believe that the chamber of commerce does not understand the bill proposed. It would be just as logical for labor to insist on employing machine guns, detectives and tear gas to protect our country against chambers of commerce. It is not the duty nor place for individual employers to create a gang of machine-gun artists and stool pigeons to protect our country from unpatriotic employes. That duty, we believe, is being well cared for by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local law-enforcing agencies.

Labor resents being called "unpatriotic" by self-appointed superpatriotic employers who gather unto themselves the distinction of being the only people in this nation who love our country.

While many employers were growing richer in the last war labor was shedding its blood in France. We hope that a natural anxiety on the part of all patriots will not be used to perpetuate the practices of bosses who have used tear gas, detectives and machine guns to break up labor unions.

While a patriotic employer is "patriotically" breaking up labor union activities, it might be well borne in mind that he keeps his pay roll down and his bank deposits up.

We hope the chamber of commerce will give further study to this bill and will reconsider its ill-advised action.

"THE FIFTH COLUMN"

By DR. CHARLES STELZ

Of all the inventions of modern warfare, the thing that strikes the greatest terror into the minds and hearts of a whole population today is not the bombs that fall in the night upon the city or quiet countryside, nor even the swift torpedo or lurking mine that sinks the unarmed merchant ship. Such methods of attack have been anticipated and measures of defense have been prepared to meet them through the use of air-raid shelters, gas masks or lifeboats.

The new horrir is an old invention come back—one that is as old as history—but which was outlawed by civilization and renounced forever by all the belligerent countries at The Hague conference.

It is the "Fifth Column"—or Trojan Horse—the relentless boring from within, like termites gnawing at the foundation until the whole structure is rotten and the slightest breeze sends it crashing into ruins. This "Fifth Column" consists of traitors who have come not like a thief in the night, but as a "friend" at noonday, in some cases living in the homes of their innocent victims, winning their confidence, their friendship, and even their affection, until the time has come to strike. And when they do strike, they prefer stabbing in the back.

These foreign enemies have sometimes come clothed in the uniform of those whom they have later betrayed, at the critical moment throwing off their disguises and revealing their weapons of destruction. The democracies of the world have been battered to their knees by such forces. Without the "Fifth Column," Denmark and Norway would still be masters of their own fate. And now Holland and Belgium are face to face w... it.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Congress went into action this week with amazing speed, and passed necessary legislation to carry out the president's defense program. Committees met, hearings were had, and bills were reported and acted upon with dispatch that is only found in a democracy when an emergency has arisen.

The house on Friday passed an emergency national defense bill authorizing an unlimited expansion of army war plane strength, and unlimited funds for speeding production of munitions and supplies.

As the house was acting, the senate naval affairs committee approved legislation to give the navy an air force of 10,000 planes and 16,000 pilots.

Early next week the house will consider the $1,800,000,000 army appropriation bill which passed the senate on Wednesday. This bill would remove any top limit to the number of army planes next year, and provides that congress may hereafter appropriate "such sums as may be necessary" to carry forward the arms program without any total cost limitation.

President Roosevelt announced plans for expanding the civilian aeronautics authority training program so as to teach 50,000 pilots a year. Officials are interested in a pilot school being located at Sky Harbor, the abandoned airport near Murfreesboro. This location already has good facilities and will probably be selected.

Renewed demands for action to prevent any "fifth column" activities in the United States were raised in congress. Appropriate legislation will no doubt be passed.

The Valley Is Considered

Army officials are continuing to give serious consideration to the Tennessee valley as a logical location for air bases and munition factories. A letter from Major-General C. M. Wesson, chief of ordnance, to your representative, gives considerable encouragement. Part of the letter says:

"The ordnance department is making location studies in its industrial planning, and your survey will be of considerable aid in this most important work. The department is especially interested in such sections which afford a natural protection and are close to necessary resources and hydro-electric power. This report shows the possibilities that lie in Chattanooga and vicinity, and you can be assured that this area will be given careful consideration."

A Rule for Democracy

Members of congress are determined to show the world that a free government can be as effective as a totalitarian state, and at the same time maintain the freedom of its people and institutions. It is enheartening that defense legislation is being approached in a non-partisan manner. We hope that this attitude will be continued by all parties.

Chief Justice Hughes in a speech Friday stated a rule for democracy which is worth remembering. The distinguished jurist said:

"You cannot maintain the institutions of democracy by forms of words or occasional vows of patriotism. You can maintain them by making the institutions of this republic work as they were intended to work, with the full confidence of the people."

Mountain District Court

The senate last week passed the McKellar bill to create a mountain judicial district. The bill's passage in the senate was a high tribute to the effectiveness of Senators McKellar and Stewart, as the bill had been vigorously opposed by many members of that body.

Immediately after its passage, a hearing was had before a subcommittee of the house judiciary committee. This committee indicated that it would recommend the bill for passage if the department of justice and the bureau of the budget would revise and lower their estiate of expense. With this encouragement, the Tennessee senators, and your representative, are renewing their efforts to secure a more favorable report from the executive departments. tI is hoped that the bill may be presented to the committee for further consideration next week with a new budget estimate which will give it a good chance of passage.

TVA Tax Legislation

The house military affairs committee has agreed to take up this matter again on Wednesday. A supreme effort will be made to secure a favorable vote by the committee on this occasion. If this fails, plans are being made to add the bill as a rider to the relief bill when it reaches the senate. This is a difficult task, but if it is humanly possible to accomplish, it will be done by Senator McKellar, our senior senator, and his able colleague, Senator Stewart.

MR. GREEN DEMANDS HONEST ADMINISTRATION OF UNIONS

Atlantic City, N. J.—Clean and honest administration of all unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor was urged by William Green, A. F. of L. president, in a telegram extending congratulations to the convention of the Building Service Employes International union, in session here. Mr. Green said:

"May I also take the liberty of urging those in attendance at your convention to re-establish your union upon a solid American Federation of Labor basis, to elect responsible men to office, whose honesty and integrity are above reproach. Wrongdoing and exploitation of any kind cannot be tolerated or approved by the American Federal of Labor.

"We urge and demand that the affairs of all national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, including your own, be administered in a clean, honest and upright way, so that the cause of organized labor may be supported by a healthy and sound public opinion. I offer the help and assistance of the American Federation of Labor in the realization of this noble purpose.

Be Cool This Summer
Install an Attic Fan

EVERY ONE knows the exilarating coolness of the outdoor summer night. Occasionally a brisk breeze brings this cool comfort into the house, but too often, after a blistering hot day there is no breeze, and rooms stay sultry, stifling and uncomfortable for most of the night. The modern attic fan expels this stagnant hot air and draws in the invigorating coolness of the night—quickly cooling the house and making every room pleasant.

This luxury of summer comfort is available to the average Chattanooga family. Fans may be bought on E. H. F. A. easy terms. See the demonstration fan on our display floor.

Some things that we heard, and wonder about: Who is it that has a new car and rides some widow's son around? Whose car was it that someone fired a load of buckshot into? Who is it that refuses to have a telephone installed in his home? Who is it that is campaigning for president in the onward and upward league? Who is it that lacks the qualifications to join the league? Take a guess. Yours is as good as mine.

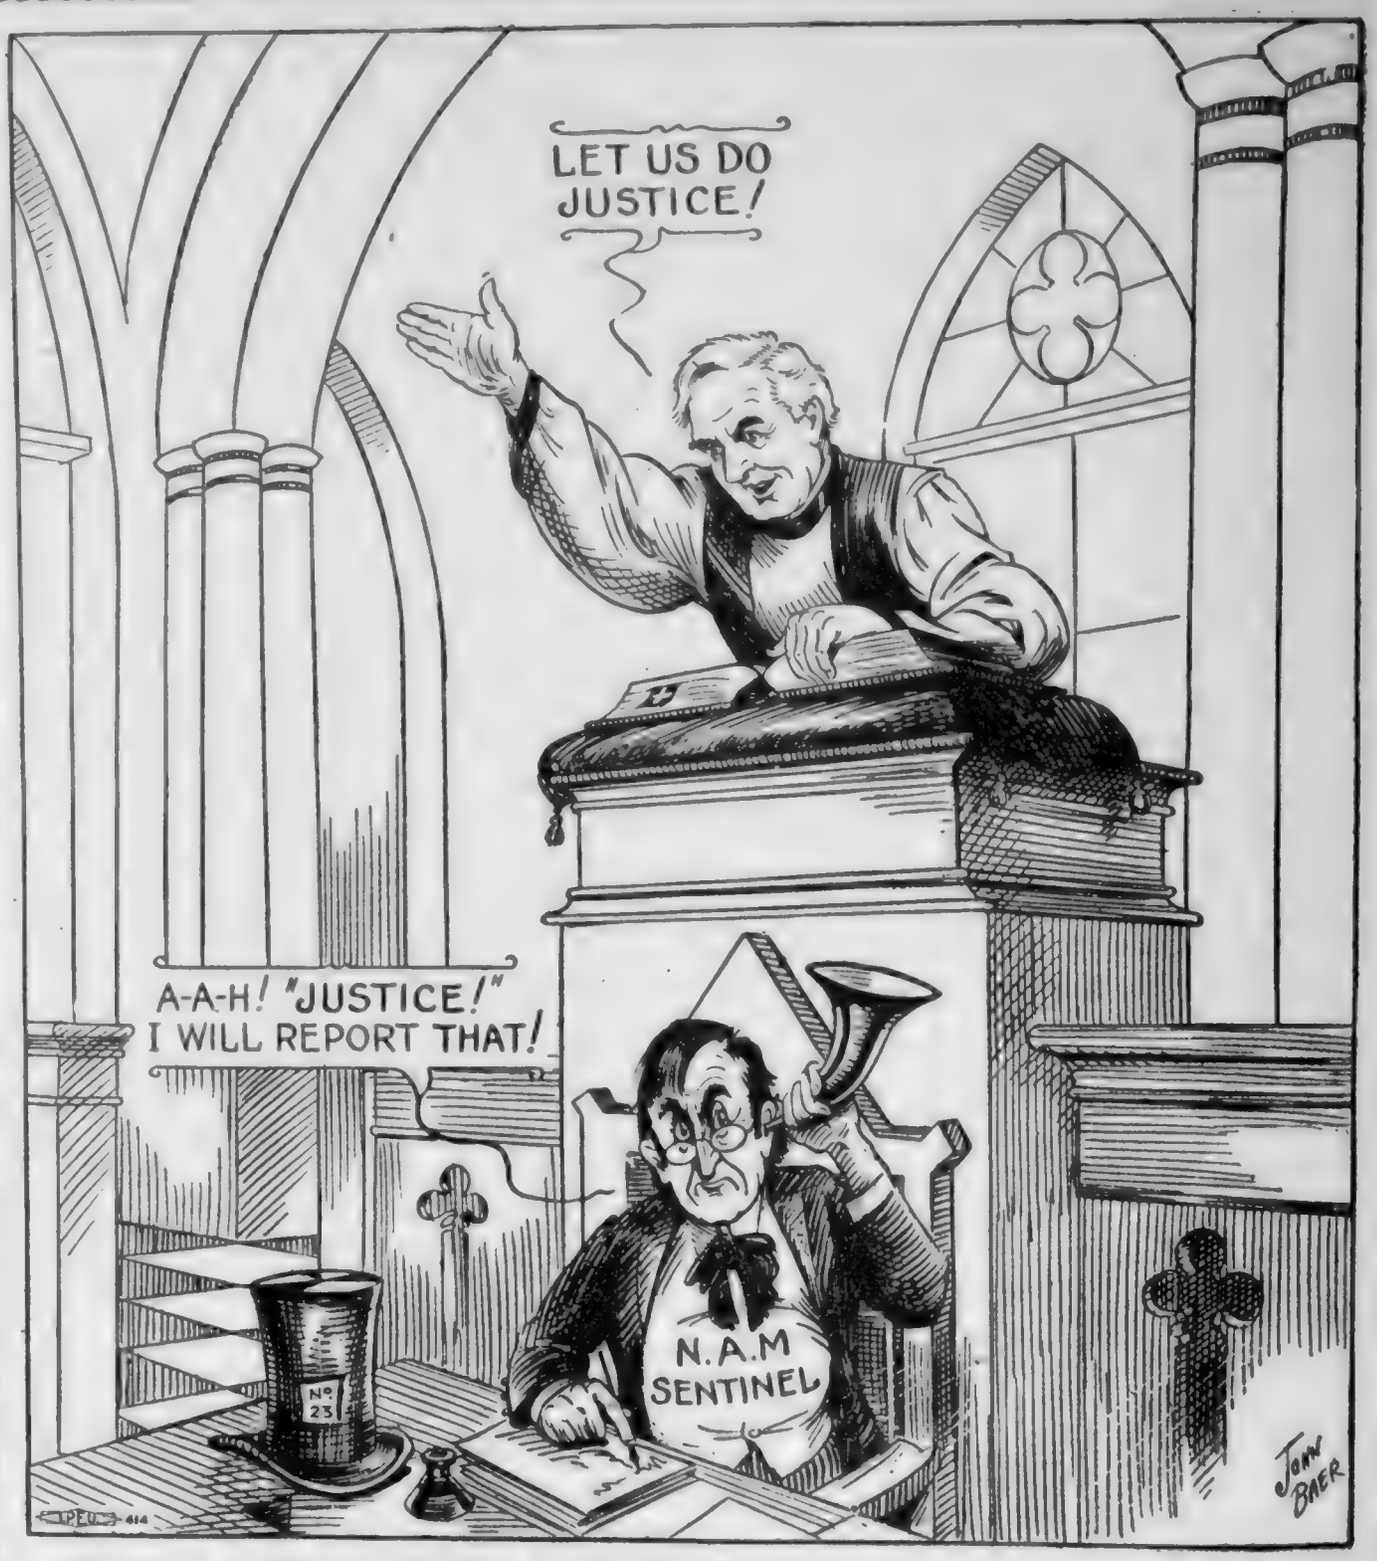
Now here is one that happened last winter, and we are still trying to get complete details. Whose wife was it that left for a short visit to her folks in Indiana, and of course left the home and furnace in complete charge of her husband. On her return she found the shaker handle off the furnace broken, one of the grates burned out, ashes and soot not cleaned up, fruit and flower bulbs frozen in the basement. We wonder if she had not phoned and hurried back, just what sort of condition she would have found things in.

Now the Church Censor!

By Baer



Henning W. Prentis, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, is organizing a National Association of "Sentinels" who are to be "constantly on the alert" to detect and resent "attacks on industry." They are specially charged to keep an eye on the pastors of their churches and to "labor" with the ministers to the end that the latter may not say anything regarded as harmful to industry. THIS IS THE FIRST TIME IN AMERICAN HISTORY THAT ANY ASSOCIATION OF EMPLOYERS HAS UNDERTAKEN OPENLY AND ON A NATIONAL SCALE TO ESTABLISH A CENSORSHIP ON THE PULPIT.

demn all combinations and conspiracies which interrupt interstate transportation. It is not seriously contended here that a conspiracy to derail and rob an interstate train, even though it were laden with 100,000 dozen pairs of stockings, necessarily would involve a violation of the Sherman act."

The court declared that the act was "not aimed at policing interstate transportation" and that "the restraint here * * * has not been shown to have any actual or intended effect on price or price competition."

"If, without such effects on the market," the opinion said, "we were to hold that a local factory strike, stopping production and shipment of its product interstate, violates the Sherman law, practically every strike in modern industry would be brought within the jurisdiction of the federal courts, under the Sherman act, to remedy local law violations.

"The maintenance in our federal system of a proper distribution between state and national governments of police authority and of remedies private and public for public wrongs is of far-reaching importance. An intention to disturb the balance is not lightly to be imputed to congress."

Hughes asserted, however, that "this court has never heretofore decided that a direct and intentional obstruction or prevention of the shipment of goods in interstate commerce was not a violation of the Sherman act" and that he found no "compulsion of judicial decision requiring the court so to limit those terms."

"Restraints may be of various sorts," he observed. "Some are found to be unreasonable and directly imposed upon interstate commerce, both employers and employes are subject to the sanctions of the act."

Federal Old-Age Survivors Insurance

Under the Social Security Act as Amended in 1939

Part VIII of a series of 8 articles based on a forthcoming pamphlet to be published by the Social Security Board.

WHAT THE WORKER HAS TO DO

The old-age and survivors insurance program is operated by the government, but the workers and all other beneficiaries of it have certain responsibilities on their part:

(1) The worker must apply for a social security account and receive a social security account number; and he must furnish his account number to every employer he works for;

(2) A prospective beneficiary must file a claim for insurance payments, in addition to meeting the other qualifying requirements, in order to become entitled to these payments.

To assist workers in filing applications for account numbers and claims for insurance payments, the Social Security Board has established field offices throughout the United States. In towns and communities where there is no such office, the postoffice will furnish the address of the nearest one.

Asking for Account Numbers.

To apply for a social security account, the worker should get an application blank from the nearest Social Security Board office—or perhaps he can get one from his employer. He should fill in the application blank and return it to the Social Security Board office, or to his employer, if he prefers.

In return, he will receive a card showing his name and social security account number. He should keep the card and make a record of the number where he can always find it—but he should tell the number to his present employer, and to every other employer for whom he may work. The employer must have the number to use with the worker's name in his reports to the Bureau of Internal Revenue showing the worker's wage and social security tax.

Filing Claim.

To file a claim, the worker or any other beneficiary should go or write to the nearest Social Security Board office. There he will receive all the help he needs to make out the necessary claim papers. After the application forms and essential proofs are completed, the claim will be forwarded to Washington for adjudication. When the claim has been adjudicated and the amount of the insurance payment determined, the applicant will be advised when he may expect the first payment. It is not necessary to pay an attorney or any legal adviser to help in obtaining insurance payments.

Information about the old-age and survivors insurance program may be had at any office of the social security board.

Second resolution: "Whereas, citizens of this county are very much alarmed over activities of the 'fifth column' in European countries wherein traitors and enemies have caused considerable havoc from within; and

"Whereas, there is a growing determination to be on the lookout for spies and boring from within tactics aimed at the overthrow of our American government, many communities already having formed committees composed of American patriots who are determined that our nation shall not be destroyed; and

"Whereas, it has been demonstrated that such laudable patriotic determination, if not carefully supervised, might be used by reactionary groups to wreak vengeance upon labor unions, by fanning a hysteria that can be directed against good American citizens for the purpose of destroying them to the selfish benefit of 'super-patriots'; therefore, be it

"Resolved by Chattanooga Central Labor union, in regular session held May 27, 1940, that the city commission of Chattanooga shall be requested to appoint a group of American citizens whose duty shall be to assist any law-enforcement agency in protecting our nation, such group to be composed of representatives from every class of people in this country, including members of organized labor; and be it further

"Resolved, that any such other group, originated, sponsored and directed by self-appointed 'super patriots' shall be declared harmful to the peace, security and welfare of this community and nation."

Permits Necessary For Minors to Work, Says State Office

Realizing that employers will hire a number of youths during the vacation period, the division of workshop and factory inspection of the Tennessee department of labor wishes to call the attention of employers to provisions of the state labor laws as applying to minors, says C. J. Lynch, chief inspector.

All minors between the ages of 14 and 16 must have an employment certificate before beginning work. This certificate may be obtained from the city or county superintendent of schools.

The division also wishes to remind employers that they must not work minors after 7:00 p.m., nor more than eight hours per day, six days per week. They are also prohibited from working at any hazardous occupation.

Any further information may be obtained by writing to the Division of Workshop and Factory Inspection, at 123 East Ninth street.

for a general welfare charter for Chattanooga Labor Temple, Incorporated.

He also stated that enough money for the down payment has been collected, and it is hoped that by the end of this week the fine building on Vine street, formerly the Vine Street Orphanage, will actually be in the name of the labor movement.

Many local unions have pledged one day's pay per member. It is hoped that by the time the new home is remodeled there will be enough money raised in cash to put the home clear of debt. Now that tangible results are being seen, some of the hopeful membership, but unconvinced of the possibility, will join in the united effort to secure a fitting central meeting place for our movement.

The "temple" will be operated under a general welfare charter issued by the state of Tennessee, and will be governed by a board of directors. Each subscribing union will be entitled to one seat on the board.

Plans call for modern and adequate lighting, cooling and heating, and there will be a main auditorium that should seat over a thousand people.

The various ladies' auxiliaries will be provided with a nice kitchen, wherein entertainments will be cooked up. The ladies have also promised their skill in "dressing up" the new home.

A "house warming" for Labor day was discussed by Central Body last Monday night.

Fallacy—

The American Federation of Labor stands for peace. It will resist any effort, no matter how noble and inspiring the appeals may sound, to involve this country in Europe's wars. . . . We insist that the best way for us to make the world safe for democracy is to preserve it in our own country and to remain at peace unless we are attacked in our own home land. The last world war taught us the fallacy of intervening in Europe's endless strife.—William Green.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

DO YOU KNOW? . . .

That real estate operators have found that fully 85 per cent of home buying is controlled by women.

That a new book, "Look at the Law"—a book explaining law to the layman—written by Percival Jackson, a hardheaded, successful, New York lawyer, emphasizes the fact that it's up to the women to save this country. "It won't be the men to take hold and pull it out of the mess it's in." Mr. Jackson says, "To begin with, women today have more time than men. Earning a living keeps men's noses so close to the grindstone they become astigmatic. But women have more time to think. The average woman today is far superior to the average man. She is more intelligent, has a more cultural background, reads more and is more subtle. But, she must put this advantage to some practical use, such as broadening their conception of home-making, instead of confining it to making a decent home for one family—they must take it on their shoulders to see that everyone has a decent home. The whole housing problem is logically woman's problem. They should pitch in and fight for the good of everybody. Then, when they have proved that they can 'take over' and have demonstrated their superiority, they can write their own ticket."

It's up to us, girls, to show 'em who can do it!

When Lilly Dache went to Florida this winter she was inspired to design a new hat fabric she calls "Plaisanta Palm" made from the fiber of the cocoanut shell. This very modern fabric was used in the design of hats that brought to life again the swooping picture hats of Lillian Russell's day and the enchanting little "capot" that was the pet of Sarah Bernhardt. You'll recognize it as the modern version of the little bonnet your grandma used to tie under her chin.

Other designers are using the burlap-like fiber of the palm tree to Fashion bags and shoes and belts. In its natural shade of rich tobacco brown it makes beautiful accessories.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

The states of Maine, South Carolina, Texas, Utah and Virginia have recently made studies of industrial hygiene by their health departments with the co-operation of the U. S. Public Health service. Their findings emphasize the fact that organic dusts constitute a serious health hazard to which women are likely to be exposed in clothing and textile factories and to a lesser extent in certain other lines of manufacture and in laundries.

Studies such as these are the first step toward pointing out methods of prevention. The constant breathing of dust-laden air gives rise to respiratory diseases. Practically two-thirds or more of the workers in cigar and tobacco factories in Virginia, in wood-turning plants in Maine, and in laundries in Texas were exposed to organic dusts.

Methods of control of dust include ventilation of various types, use of water or other liquid to lay the dust, and respirators.

The most common type of occupational disease reported as affecting women workers is dermatitis (inflammation of the skin), which is known to follow contact with dyes, oils, fats and waxes. Exposure to dyes is common in textile factories.

Another hazard to be controlled by ventilation is exposure to extreme heat and humidity, often found in textile mills and laundries.

Memphis Mayor Says Union Labor Is Democracy

Stirring Address to Delegates Points to Fight Against Oppression.

Mayor Walter Chandler, addressing the Tennessee Federation of Labor, asserted that "the cardinal principles of democracy and of organized labor are the same thing."

"Labor, above all, stands for democracy and fights for democracy", he declared.

Beginning his address with the explanation that "I am personally interested in organized labor because I have been intimately connected with it several years," Mayor Chandler referred to Gladstone's remark that "unionism is the bulwark of democracy," and then set about to prove it.

"You have sought spiritual privilege, you have fought against exploitation of minorities, you have fought for education of the masses," he said, "and these are the things for which democracy stands."

"You were the first to warn against the 'ism' threats which might arise, and which are giving us trouble today," he continued. "You fought for freedom of expression, you fought against corruption and for clean government. All governments are improving, and they have had no stronger protector than labor."

"Here in Memphis we have the interest of labor at heart because you are deserving of public assistance. I believe that business management has a duty to the people to cooperate with labor for freedom of the country. You are fighting for the best for people today and people tomorrow.

"Your work is of a high character."

Tyranny and terrorizing of all kinds have been fought by organized labor, the Mayor pointed out, and "you are still against all kinds of dictatorships, which are the antithesis of democracy."

All Officers Are Re-Elected To Posts by TFL

In the last order of business on June 5 in Memphis, the Tennessee Federation of Labor elected without any opposition all former officers with the exception of the Knoxville board member. R. O. Ross, of Knoxville Machinists Union, succeeds Clarence Smith, who refused to accept the nomination due to additional duties recently accepted by him in Knoxville.

Gerald Foley, of Nashville, is starting in on his fourth term as president, and T. R. Cuthbert, of Chattanooga, is beginning his fifth as secretary-treasurer.

T. O. Denham, of Nashville, was named to succeed himself as legislative representative.

Members of the executive board are:

From Chattanooga—V. W. Hallmark.
From Nashville—Carl Vester.
From Johnson City—D. C. Long.
From Memphis—C. E. Miller.
From Jackson—J. W. Rush.

Lev. Loring, of Memphis, was elected as delegate to the A. F. of L. convention to be held in New Orleans.

34 Resolutions Passed by TFL

The forty-third annual convention of the Tennessee State Federation of Labor took the following action on 34 resolutions which were submitted:

No. 1—Denounced foreign "isms" and "fifth column" movements and pledged support of national defense plans.

No. 2—Congratulated O'Brien Manufacturing Company on the recent contract it signed with organized labor.

No. 3—Resolved introduction of a bill at the next session of legislature to provide that prevailing wage scales be paid on all projects maintained by state funds.

No. 4—Resolved introduction of a bill at the next session of legislature to provide that the state labor commissioner be commissioned to assist in collection of unpaid wage claims.

No. 5—Approved that Workmen's Compensation laws of Tennessee be amended so as to equal the average compensation laws of other states.

No. 6—Urged repeal of tax on oleomargarine.

No. 7—To urge city civic groups to consider savings bank life insurance legislation, and try to obtain such legislation for Tennessee.

No. 8—Reaffirmed opposition to poll tax and pledged support to Federal bill abolishing poll tax as prerequisite to voting in Federal elections.

No. 9—Pledged support of campaign to dispense milk in union-made milk bottles rather than non-union paper containers.

No. 10—Endorsed Senate Bill 2256 to provide money for better protection of men exposed to occupational disease.

No. 11—Endorsed move for municipal claims for repayment of part of privilege taxes to maintain municipalities.

"We Must Awake Before Too Late," Says C. of C. Prexy

"To Preserve Peace, Be Fully Prepared for War," Jasspon Declares.

Democracy can and will survive the threat of totalitarian "isms" threatening the world if labor, industry and politics will work together dispassionately, William C. Jasspon, former president of Memphis Chamber of Commerce, said in one of the feature addresses to the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

The three parties must co-operate for their mutual interests, Mr. Jasspon said, or America will be "forced to adopt the totalitarian philosophy and practice of government" as recently was done in England.

"Here is a nation," the speaker pointed out, "in which trades unions had reached their highest degree of attainment, where men and women had more rights and freedom than in any other nation save perhaps the United States. By a single act of parliament, that country conscripted all its wealth, its labor, its earnings; doing away with the right of unionization, shorter hours, restricting the freedom of speech and assembly; in short, eliminating with one swift stroke all the social, material and spiritual advantages and gains for which Englishmen have lavored over these many years.

"Here in the United States we must awake before it is too late. Each day there are fewer real Americans who still contend that 'it cannot happen here.' . . . In fact, our preparedness needs are many times greater than have been indicated by recent congressional appropriations. We have not as yet been fully advised as to estimates of ultimate costs.

"It is a sound theory that the most certain way to preserve peace is to be fully prepared for war. To accomplish this task quickly and effectively within the framework of our free democracy, calls for the repression of certain traditional rights and privileges. You and I will have to cushion temporarily at least the range and degree of individual or group action. We will have to observe self-discipline, supress subversive influences and

TFL Prepares To Defend Right of Peaceful Pickets

Because of the unfair injunction imposed on the Memphis Motion Picture Operators Union, halting their pickets in front of Royal Theatre there, 1320 S. Lauderdale, the Tennessee State Federation of Labor unanimously adopted a resolution in convention here this week to give whatever moral and financial assistance "deemed necessary" to help the local union carry its appeal outside reactionary courts of this state.

The injunction, granted to Owner W. C. Parham in a Chancery Court opinion, was based on a precedent established a year ago by the Tennessee State Supreme Court which ruled that picketing was illegal when "no labor dispute" was involved, or when no employes of the picketed firm were on the picket line.

Tennessee stands almost alone in this court opinion, for hundreds of other and higher courts have ruled that picketing is a right guaranteed under the constitution of the United States. Even the U. S. Supreme Court has held that picketing must not be enjoined.

Thus, organized labor in Tennessee is forced to go outside this state to receive the rights guaranteed under the U.S. Constitution, and the Tennessee Federation of Labor is determined to do its share.

George Googe, representative of the American Federation of Labor in the South, pledged unlimited support of the A. F. of L., even to the extent of lending its chief counsel in preparing a brief to submit to courts outside this state.

The state federation's resolution described the Memphis situation as an "ideal opportunity" for establishing definitely that labor has a right to picket in this state.

The Executive Council was instructed to give whatever moral and financial assistance "deemed necessary" to help the union prosecute its case.

Pickets were placed in front of Royal Theater when Owner Parham, after two years of empty promises, flatly refused to bargain. Union men and women are not patronizing his firm.

Street Railway Auxiliary To Meet Monday Night

The newly organized auxiliary to Street Railway 1212 will meet next Monday night, June 10, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. E. Wallace, 1618 Dodds avenue (near Ridgedale Methodist church).

All the ladies who have already signified their intention of joining the auxiliary are urged to be present, and all those ladies who are interested and wish to become charter members of the new auxiliary are urged to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Harwood Wells, president, says that efforts are being made to get Mrs. Ethel Wilson, vice-president from Memphis, to attend this meeting. The ladies who met her at the last meeting will want to be sure to see her again.

Hillman's 1st Duty Is To Settle AFL-CIO Differences

Googe Warns Nation's Defense Not to Be Means of Wage Reductions.

Tennessee is the ideal location for industries incidental to the United States' gigantic defense plans, A. F. of L. Representative George Googe told the Tennessee Federation of Labor convention here this week, but here, as elsewhere, organized labor must be on guard against encroachments of would-be "war millionaires."

"We cannot leave to President Roosevelt, the senators and representatives the job of preserving the economic and social gains we have made in past years," Mr. Googe declared. "We must be on guard."

He said he was "deeply concerned with the appointment by President Roosevelt of CIO Vice-President Sydney Hillman as labor representative of the National Defense Council because "Mr. Hillman cannot have the confidence of wage-earners unless he makes as his first official act an attempt to settle the differences between the American Federation of Labor and the CIO."

The CIO, Mr. Googe pointed out, and its leader, John L. Lewis, has proven to be the reason for the "rebel-rival movement," and A. F. of L. overtures for a peaceful adjustment of differences have met with no success "because of the deliberate efforts of Mr. Lewis."

Speaking further of labor's part in the defense and armament plans, Mr. Googe asserted that "organized labor will not hold back in the defense program if we are given the right of collective bargaining and arbitration."

"We must insist on the right of arbitration," he declared, "to protect our wage-earners from exploitation by war-mongering, capitalistic employers.

"If we don't protect ourselves, the republics of the west will sooner or later be forced to suffer the butchery that is now widespread in Europe and other countries."

"I'd rather give up life itself," he shouted, "than the rights of trade."

Mr. Googe's address, which was given during the opening session, began with a recitation of the achievements of the Tennessee Federation in recent years, pointing out that progress has been great and the problems acute.

As personal representative of A. F. of L. President William Freen, Mr. Googe thanked the T. F. of L. for the "splendid co-operation" it has shown during all its existence. As evidence of this spirit and co-operation, he noted that Tennessee had the largest delegation of any southern state to be represented at the Southern Labor conference held in Atlanta March 2 of this year.

"The American Federation of Labor is progressing, too," he told the delegates. "Today we have more dues-paying members than ever before in history."

A new kind of paint developed by a Memphis company has vanilla in it and smells like something that came out of a bakery shop. The process was perfected by grinding a small amount of vanilla crystals and mixing with the paint oils. Now it's not necessary to stay out of the house until the paint smell is out when using this new mixture.

American friends of France composed of volunteer American women nurses, welfare workers and chauffeurs have been standing by the tragic victims of the present war since last September. They have carried in their own cars, ambulances and motor trucks thousands of women, children, the sick and disabled and the aged over mined bridges and cross country byways to areas of safety. These women have offered their services and actually their lives to the cause of the allies.

GLAMOR

A deodorant is a preparation which destroys odors while an anti-perspirant does not remove odors already present, but checks perspiration and consequently prevents .further formation of odors which arise from perspiration. A simple solution of aluminum chloride, which can be purchased in any drug store, has been found to be the most effective, and for most people the safest anti-perspirant generally available. Aluminum chloride is the base of nearly all anti-perspirants, but there are many risks run even by using any commercial preparation to check perspiration. To avoid trouble in using any anti-perspirant the skin must be absolutely free from soap, well rinsed and thoroughly dried. It must not be used where there appears any raw or broken skin or any types of skin eruption. Aluminum chloride is also particularly hard on cotton or linen clothing because it tends to rot the fibers. Therefore the skin should be thoroughly washed and dried both before and after using any of the preparations. No commercial anti-perspirants have been found absolutely safe for all persons, therefore some experimentation by the individual is necessary to find which may be used with the greatest degree of effectiveness and safety.

Frequent bathing is most often found the best guard against unpleasant body odors followed by the use of a sweet scented talc, boric acid, or a baking soda solution. Soms girls prefer a mild toilet water sprayed from an atomizer after their bath.

FOR BETTER HOME-MAKING

For a new summery note for your porch or living room center a mirror, preferably one without a frame, on a wall and surround with wrought iron brackets holding small colorful pots filled with vines and flowering plants.

New summer wastebaskets can be achieved by covering the cheap tin basket with a gay remnant of material. All you need is your scissors and a bottle of blue.

If you're making up fresh gay curtains for summer and are tired of the old heavy curtain rods that held the winter draperies ask some male member of the family to make you some plain wood cornices. Cover these with the same material you are using for your curtains and you'll have a most pleasant change.

If your dining room worries you by looking dark and dismal this bright spring weather why not change its face? If your furniture is mahogany or walnut, try a white and mulberry wallpaper. A deep turquoise rug will do wonders with this. For draperies find a chintz or linen crash with a turquoise background highlighted with a floral design with some mulberry touches.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Women in industry are being more and more governed in much of their work by administrative rules made by women. To cover the list of women in administrative jobs covering the world of industry would require many pages. Women play a big part in running the wage and hour administration, both in Washington and in the field. Frances Foley Gannon runs the Consumer Service division of the New York department of markets and women are in high administrative jobs in the consumer services of the U. S. department of agriculture. A grandmother is administrator of the Florida milk control commission. By and large they are doing great work, far ahead of that being done by women of wealth who own so large a portion of the industrial stocks of American mines, mills and factories. Another field where women are intensely active is in the legislative drafting services of states.

BABY TALK

Children should be treated as individuals no matter how young. They should not be corrected in public for such correction tends to make them self-conscious. Although the child must become adjusted to social codes of behavior parents should not keep up a constant nagging about good manners.

A child's fears deal with things imaginary, but as the child becomes better acquainted with surroundings the mystery is pelled from such terrifying knowns as the dark and noises. Instead, his fears on the attitude of the social of which he is a part.

With the changing of the lescent to the adult the fear cial opinion should largely be off. No progressive work can done if the adolescent is afraid of the criticism of oth

House Decisively Beats Barden Bill To Amend Wages and Hours Act

Washington, D. C.—Organized labor's vigoro s fight against the Barden bill to amend the wages and hours act ended in victory when the House of Representatives rejected the measure by a standing vote of 156 to 66.

A coalition of Republicans and new deal Democrats cast the decisive vote against the bill after it had been so loaded with drastic amendments that even its author, Representative Graham A. Barden of North Carolina, refused to vote for it. He declared the House had made a hodge-podge of his measure.

The Barden bill, as orig drawn, provided that a score erations connected with the essing of farm products (in the canning of vegetables) be exempt from the 30-cen hour minimum wage and the hour maximum work week.

Barden offered his plan as to the farmer, saying that if essors' costs increased, the er got less for his products. and other opponents replied pointing out that the plan be a blow to 1,000,000 o low-pay workers, without ing the farmer.

PWA Relations Man Says Agency Ready To Build Plants

Organized Labor Ready to Co-operate in National Defense Projects.

Free democratic people have nothing to fear and much to gain from organized effort for defense, Ray C. Kirkpatrick, assistant on PWA labor relations, told the 43rd Tennessee Federation of Labor convention here this week.

Because of worldwide chaos resulting from wars and threats of war, the United States is faced with a situation which promises a "severe disturbance" of the economic structure.

"Total warfare has arisen," Mr. Kirkpatrick said, "a terrible warfare which engulfs civilians as well as combatants, a warfare which absorbs nations in defeating them. The proximity of this conflagration is demanding the strengthening of our national defense, which, to be effective, must be complete. We are presented the task, under our democratic system, of achieving those efficiencies attained under totalitarian governments by the sacrifice of political free agency.

"We can accomplish this task only by securing on the part of our citizenry the highest in understanding, co-operation and morale. These virtues can be achieved only by full employment of idle hands."

The Federal Works Agency, in which PWA is included, is ready, organized and equipped to accomplish any kind of construction, Mr. Kirkpatrick pointed out. It also is ready "to assemble, process and store all types of supplies and equipment."

"It has an administrative force of some 50,000 men and women and its project personnel of 3,000,000 are in constant working relationship in all parts of the nation," the speaker continued. "It has plans for over 100,000 projects which have been approved by federal, state and local officials, from which can readily be selected those that contribute to preparedness.

"By reason of its far-flung organization and contacts with state and local governments, the Federal Works Agency and its units can quickly tap and utilize in cooperation with state and local governments resources of men, materials and money for enterprises of prime importance to military preparation and useful to national and local governments.

"This can be done with the least disturbance to the existing tax structure and with a minimum in the shifting of personnel and reorganization."

Retreat Unjustified

There is nothing in our present emergency to justify a retreat—any retreat, from any of our social objectives — conservation of resources, assistance to agriculture, housing and help to the underprivileged.—President Roosevelt.

JASSPON SAYS

stick together, and cast all petty bickerings aside.

"It is for us to prove that our democracy can survive and operate effectively through a fusion of all interests—labor, industry, politics—into one instrumentality of unity and national accomplishment.

"This crisis is one of sacrifice, not one of profit. . . . There will be no war millionaires this time. Neither employed labor nor business will be permitted to make unreasonable demands or unwarranted gains. . . . We all will have to work harder, longer and pay and pay for the privilege of maintaining the institutions we have accepted as integral parts of our American way of living.

"Strife and class antagonisms cannot and, in my judgment, will not be permitted to play any part in our supreme effort to save our democratic system. . . .

"The so-called American standard of living depends, not on what we say about its desirability, but what we do to provide more work and more goods for more people at less cost. In other words, our own living standard is not something that we can arbitrarily nominate and put into effect. It will be dependent on the part we will play in the economic readjustment of the world when war and defense preparations have ended. . .

"In this solemn hour our plea is for tolerance and true understanding, for good will, that each of us may do our part for our country and the principles and ideals in which we all believe. Our future peace and security, and a continuance of the spirit of America, not only for ourselves, but for those whocome after us, are still within our reach."

"Build-Up" Good News For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary!

Many who suffer from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus it often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance to periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "the time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI more than 50 years.

Relief and National Safety

Facts on relief cited in a report to the American Association of Social Workers show a far from satisfactory handling of the relief problem. They indicate relief standards are too low and make it plain that the relief situation can not be helping national morale.

The relief crisis in Cleveland last fall when relief to single persons and childless couples was discontinued for three weeks, and family groups were placed upon two-thirds of minimum subsistence allowances, was cited in the report as a common and chronic situation in many states and communities. Even with the so-called crisis ended in Cleveland, the report points out, the average food allowance for a six-person family today is 18 cents per day per person.

In Dayton, Ohio, the general relief grant for a family of twelve is $1.75 per day to cover all needs. The able bodied wage earner of such a family assigned to local work projects gets $1.85 per day. In Lincoln, Nebraska, after a reorganization recently resulting from citizens' protests because of general and extreme suffering among relief clients, it is estimated that only 50 per cent of needs can be met. In December, families were receiving an average of 22 cents per day for all necessities.

In Louisville, Kentucky, the mayor's legislative committee reported in January that 10,000 persons in that city are "in dire need." These include the aged, employable and unemployable people. In California, employables are now receiving allowances which are estimated to be but 44 per cent of minimum subsistence needs.

The situation revealed by the foregoing facts justifies the assertion of Walter West, executive secretary of the social workers' organization that "the present relief situation is dangerous and the further development of effective public works, social security and general relief should be a first step in national defense."

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN
Estes Kefauver

Arming of America

It is a grim, determined, and lemn group of men and women ting in congress these days. Fun joking in the cloak rooms are more. These days are very y ones in both branches of con- ss. The allies, with their backs inst the wall, are fighting a series of desperate battles to stop the overwhelming motorized forces of the man who is not only set upon emulating Caesar and Napoleon, but to succeed where they failed. The tragic events taking place abroad have awakened the American people and the congress to a profound sense of their own responsibility.

The job of arming America is one which we all agree cannot be delayed. Armaments are costly and will make us a lot poorer, but we cannot cry about that. Americans are a sturdy race and will meet the test. The arming of America will be carried on as a great act of national unity.

It is therefore no wonder that the senate, by a vote of 74-0, approved the $1,828,000,000 army appropriation bill, as well as the $1,458,000,000 naval appropriation bill, and that the house by a vote of 391-1 passed the emergency national defense bill, which authorizes an unlimited expansion of army war plane strength, and unlimited funds for expanding production of munitions and supplies. In the light of further developments abroad, the president on Friday sent a special message to congress calling for more than $1,000,000,000 additional for defense purposes.

But it must be remembered that appropriations are not armaments. Hitler is not afraid of big dollar signs in the newspapers; he will only take notice of actual airplanes, tanks, guns, and actual pilots and gunners. Hitler knows just how many airplanes, tanks and gunners we have, and he will keep on knowing every step that we take. During some possible lull in the scene abroad, some people may lose interest in the arming of America, but Hitler won't. The price of a real armament program is the same as the price of liberty, which is eternal vigilance.

The president this week appointed and had the first meeting of his national defense board. The personnel of this group is generally acclaimed. Their job will be to see that industry, labor and the consumers are brought together in national co-operation for America's defense.

This is no time for disloyalty to American institutions. While there is no reason for hysteria over "Trojan Horse" activities in this country, at the same time the alien enemies, spies and stooges of dictatorial powers should not be allowed to build up a "Fifth Column" movement in America. Some laws aimed at detecting spies and undesirables have been passed. Other legislation for this purpose, such as requiring the fingerprinting of all aliens which government officials believe is necessary to keep the proper check on them, will probably be presented to and approved by congress.

TVA Tax Replacement

The military affairs committee of the house on Wednesday voted to table all tax replacement measures. This action, while most distressing, was not unexpected. In the final showdown the chairman and the majority of that hostile committee showed they never had any idea of giving relief to the distressed countries.

There is no question about the justice of the proposed legislation. Dozens of witnesses testified for it, but no voice was raised in opposition. Delegations came to Washington from almost every county in the district. Personal appeals to members of the committee were made; every sort of compromise proposal was presented and turned down. The majority of the committee, bitterly hostile to the TVA, apparently wants us to "stew in our own juice," as one member expressed it.

A strenuous effort is being made to attach the legislation as a rider to the relief bill in the senate. Representative Byrns, and your representative, appeared before the senate appropriations committee on Thursday to ask that this be done. There is a chance of success. The bill, if reported by the house military affairs committee, would have passed the house in our opinion. It will be more difficult if it comes over as a rider to a senate bill, because some members of the house do not approve of bringing legislation up for consideration in this manner, but it is the only chance and every possible vote will be secured for the bill if it comes to the house for action.

Justice and right are on our side in this matter. The Tennessee delegation will never relinquish their efforts until the lost taxes are replaced.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

After several attempts to get started, this old pen-pusher thought he had better get busy if he is to hold the job as chief hot air distributor. Sorry I had such a small issue last week, so I will try and not disappoint you this time.

Heard a good joke over the radio last week about a darkey that wanted to check up on his standing with his employer. So when said darky got into town he asked a store man if he could use his telephone. The store man said he could.

As the man wasn't busy at that time of the day, the man couldn't help hearing the following conversation:

Darky: "Is this Mr. Jones' house?"

Mrs. Jones: "Yes."

Darky: "Does you want to hire a good all-around house nigger?"

Mrs. Jones: "We have one."

Darky: "Does he give satisfaction?"

Mrs. Jones: "Yes."

Darky: "Thank you, Mrs. Jones."

After the darky finished his conversation, the store man sa,di "Boy, do you want a job?" The darky said, "No, Sah, I works for Mrs. Jones, and I was just checking up on myself."

So I thought I would skip last week's write-up and see if anyone would notice it. Seems like they didn't, and probably the rest did us all good.

As the schools have closed for the year, maybe we can get back to normal again. I attended the closing exercises of the Chattanooga High school, and was very much impressed by the talks made by students and teachers.

Looking at the large number of students that graduated, and thinking what a task it was to prepare a boy or girl to reach that goal, I wondered why it was that someone hadn't thought of putting up a monument to the teachers. If there is such a monument I have never heard of it or seen it. So I say let's take off our hats to our teachers, and God bless them for the good work they do.

When the exercises were over and the students were marching out, I could not help thinking, would there be another Lincoln, Washington, Lee, Grant, or a Joan of Ark, Edith Cavelle, Madam Curie, or would there be someone even greater than these among them, for time marches on, and the job of getting this old world on a good reliable foundation again will be up to the coming generation.

Bakers' Scraps

Memphis, Tenn.—Arrived here Sunday night for the 43rd convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor which is being held at the Peabody hotel, one of the largest hotels in the entire south. Chattanooga has the second largest delegation at the convention.

Learned just as I hit the Peabody that the Continental Baking company had signed a closed shop contract with the bakers local of this city, giving Memphis the first union-made bread. We have had an extensive fight on the Hostess cakes that are made by the Continental Baking company of Memphis for some time now and are proud to remove the Hostess cakes from our nonunion list of cakes. We urge you to give your full support to this 100 per cent union bakery.

Had a nice talk with the business representative of Bakers' Local No. 149 of Memphis. I intend to get all the dope I can possibly get on the organization and perhaps it will be of help to our own Bakers' Local No. 25 of Chattanooga.

Just because I'm not in town don't let me down and buy any of the nonunion bakery products that our local has on their nonunion list. Nonunion products include: Dortch cakes, Alton Park cakes and pies, Holsum cakes, Jack's cakes, Effie's pies, Royal cakes, Grandma's cakes, Travis pies and Ward's cakes.

All Chattanooga Bakery products, Orient flour and Crystal pearl meal, are unfair to Bakers' Local Union No. 25.

Mrs. Lillian Cobb is visiting her son, Bill, in Cincinnati. Sure have missed Mrs. Cobb for the past few days.

All members of the Lookout Preserving company are members of our local. They deserve your full support and the next time you are buying some preserves be sure they are Lookout brand for they carry the Bakers' union label on the jar.

Several friends and myself were over to see Bessie and Ernest Newbille last week-end. Bessie has improved so much that I look for her to be returning to work again real soon. So glad that Bessie Lee is well again.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

EDW. FLORE

Edward Flore, President of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America, joined Local Union No. 175 of Buffalo, New York, in 1900. In 1905 he was elected International Vice President and in 1911 he became General President of his International, which position he now holds. In 1936 he was elected Vice President of the American Federation of Labor.

President Roosevelt appointed him as Labor Adviser of the Hotel and Restaurant Codes of the National Industrial Recovery Administration. He was a representative of the American Federation of Labor to the British Trades Congress in Weymouth, England, in 1934. He was also designated as a delegate to the Geneva Conference at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1936.

Mr. Flore is one of the most active leaders in the American Labor movement. His Union has grown in membership to 210,000 and is the third largest affiliated organization in the American Federation of Labor.

His address is: Mr. Edward Flore, President, Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America, 426 Woodbridge Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

BASIS OF INDUSTRIAL PEACE

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

When an industrial conflict becomes bitter and the opponents resort to extreme measur , one may put it down as a fact that both side are right in some im tant particulars. This must of necessity be the case, for no set of men, whether they are employers or employes, would be foolish enough to risk position and reputation and sometimes life itself, in a cause that is altogether wrong and unprincipled. The hardest kind of a battle to settle is not between right and wrong, but between "right" and "right."

In an industrial conflict we most frequently leave out of consideration altogether our own weaknesses or failings. We are most likely to think only of the things in which our opponent has failed. It is altogether likely that he has failed, but this doesn't win the case for us, for, you may be sure, he is equally sure that we are at fault.

It has long since been proved that violence by either side is never be condoned in an industrial controversy no matter what the provocation, and a strike should be engaged in only after every possible means has been employed to settle the ase under consideration. John Mitchell, one of America's greatest labor leaders, said repeatedly: "It is better to talk a year than to strike a week."

But this fact must be recognized —men must alw..ys have the right to strike when the occasion demands it—when every other method to get a square deal has failed. This applies to the bosses, as well as the workers, for this matter of protesting against unjust conditions should become th prerogative of both groups. Sometimes the b sses have pretty good grounds for protesting against the way they are being treated by some of their employes. The marvel of it is, sometimes, that the bosses stand as much as they do without "going out on strike."

Let's be perfectly honest about this business—the workingman is often wrong and unfair in his attitude toward things which relate the boss. He doesn't always give the boss the same consideration that he expects or himself. Some workmen see t perfectly, but it isn't a popular thing to admit, so they are often silent when the question is up for discussion, for fear that they will be regarded as mollycoddles or "suckers," or something else equally inelegant.

It may be old-fashioned or commonplace to say that "the golden rule" is a safe guide in industrial affairs, but here's to "the golden rule" as the basis of our faith and practice in industrial controversies —we haven't outlived its usefulness or its effectiveness. There has never been a conflict that could not have been settled by this rule if both sides had wholeheartedly accepted it.

TEACHER TALK

Under the heading "A Banner Year in AFT Achievement," Secretary-Treasurer Irvin R. Kuenzli has addressed the following gratifying letter to officers of all AFT locals:

The ending of the 1939-40 school year brings to a close the most important year of achievement in the history of the American Federation of Teachers—in that more significant victories have been won than at any time in the history of the union.

Coincidentally, the mail today brought two of the most important official messages ever received at the national offce of the A. F. of T. You will recall that in Jacksonville, Fla., some forty teachers were ruthlessly dismissed without statement of charges, and that our local Union No. 516 supported by our locals throughout the nation and backed by the labor movement put up a valiant fight to elect a new school board and a new superintendent of schools. Confirming previous unofficial reports the local wires today:

"Our can..idates have won. Thanks for your whole-hearted cooperation."

This is one of the outstanding victories in the struggle of the classroom teachers of America for democracy in education.

An official message also came today from Missoula, Mont., stating that the cases involving the dismissal of five university professors have been successfully negotiated through the efforts of the Montana Federation of Labor.

From Milwaukee word has come within the last two days that the union has negotiated a satisfactory settlement in the case of a union principal (who teaches near Milwaukee) who was threatened with a large reduction in salary for political reasons.

From Newark, Ohio, word has been received within the last week that a continuing contract has been adopted providing for dismissal only according to established procedure. This achievement is emphasized by the fact that Newark teachers were threatened with dismissal in 1934 if they joined A. F. T. Emerson Fishbaugh, president of Local 411 (Newark, Ohio) is also president of the Central Labor Council.

Springfield, Ohio (which is more than 90 per cent organized) has reported within the last few days that two weeks' vacation with pay has been granted after continued negotiation with the Board of Education. This is in addition to full restoration of the 1929 salary schedule. The teachers had received a 37 per cent cut when the local was formed in 1934.

From Peru, Ind., the report has come within the past week that the positions of married women teachers have been saved and that some progress has been made in eliminating an atrocious "Class E" schedule which was designed to circumvent the tenure law. It seems probable that this classification will not be applied again in Peru or in the state of Indiana.

From Akron, Ohio (where 28 teachers were notified of dismissal and 82 married women teachers were to be placed on part time), word has come within the past week that the number of teachers to be dismissed and the number of married women teachers to be placed on part time have been greatly reduced. However, the fight is still on in that city.

Never in the history of A. F. T., or doubtless in any other teachers' organization, have so many outstanding and significant victories been reported in one week. It is, therefore, with the joy of victory that we pass this information along to our locals. However, the events above mentioned, because of their recency, are only a few of the accomplishments which have contributed to make the school year 1940-41 the banner year of achievement in the A. F. T.

Almost as recent is the victory in Toledo where the labor movement was successful in preventing proposed salary cuts—for the teachers and other school employees—amounting to more than a quarter of a million dollars or approximately three times the total budget of the A. F. T. Almost as recent, also, is the extraordinary victory in the state of New York where A. F. T. locals backed by the labor movement were largely responsible for preventing a heavy slash in state aid for public schools. Mr. Thomas J. Lyons, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, writes as follows:

"The magnificent demonstration of loyalty and support which the federation received from the trade union movement was in my opinion the driving force which prevented the drastic cuts in wages and elimination of teachers. We must be on our guard in order that the education of our children is protected and this can only be done if the teachers receive decent wages."

Not quite so recent, but of equal significance, is the victory in the Marshall-Wheeler cases in Maywood, suburban to Chicago, where two leaders in the union were reinstated and there was set up a collective bargaining contract which is probably the first real collective bargaining contract in the history of American education.

In Indiana the labor movement had a large part in setting up a free employment service for teachers which placed some fifty teachers in the first two months of its existence and saved for the teachers of Indiana some $3,000 in placement fees. In addition, private teachers' agencies in the state have begun to reduce their fees.

Recent mails have also brought the information that Miss Allie Mann, former vice president of A. F. T. and former president of Atlanta Local 89, was recently elected secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Federation of Labor, one of the outstanding labor bodies in the south.

In Chicago the school term has been restored to forty weeks, salaries have been restored to 92½ per cent of the 1929 level and a vigorous battle has been carried out against spoils politics in the public schools. The present salary situation in Chicago is a wholesome contrast to the "payless paydays" of 1933-34.

In numerous other cities our locals have prevented shortening of the school terms, cuts in salaries, and curtailment in the school programs—in spite of vigorous attacks from taxpayers' leagues, real estate groups, and other groups.

There is evidence, too, in communications in the national office that A. F. T. has had stronger labor backing during the past school year than in any previous year. The American Federation of Labor, through its permanent committee on education has sent to all State Federations of Labor and Central Labor Bodies throughout the nation the strongest statement in labor history in favor of public education and proper working conditions for teachers including adequate salaries, tenure of office, sound retirement laws and democratic working conditions. This statement was reprinted widely throughout the labor press and was carried as a front page story in "Labor," official publication of fifteen standard railway organizations. All regional conferences of the A. F. of L. during the past year and practically all State Federations of Labor have devoted some part of their program to education.

Vegetable Laxative Makes Happy Friends

Here's a laxative that usually acts thoroughly as harsher ones but is a gentle persuader for intestines when used this way: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight; a drink of water. There's usually time for a good night's rest, with a gentle, thorough action next morning relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT is a splendid combination of vegetable ingredients, chief of which is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" that helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. It's economical. 25 to 40 doses: 25c.

Ladies' Garment Workers Union Returns to AFofL; Delegates Cheer Wildly As Green Restores Charter; 'Back Again Where We Belong,' Dubinsky Declares

New York, N. Y.—The International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, one of the greatest labor organizations in the country, with a membership of 250,000, returned officially to the American Federation of Labor on June 6. William Green, president of the A. F. of L., appeared before the fortieth anniversary convention of the I. L. G. W. U. in Carnegie hall here and, as the delegates cheered wildly, reinvested the international union's charter.

Twenty-four hours previously, by an overwhelming vote of 640 to 12, the union voted to reaffiliate immediately with the federation. This action came after David Dubinsky, president of the ILGWU, in reporting to the delegates earlier in the convention, had pinned fullest responsibility for the continuance of the division in labor's ranks solely upon John L. Lewis, head of the CIO.

President Green received a tumultuous ovation upon his arrival at Carnegie hall just before noon. There were 2,650 persons in the auditorium at the time, 2,000 of them visitors and the rest delegates.

For the next twenty minutes nobody sat down. There was pandemonium. Cheers rang out, songs were sung, horns tooted, bells clanged and shredded pages of telephone books rained down from the galleries.

Arrived on the speaker's platform, President Green was hugged by President Dubinsky. When quiet was at last established, President Dubinsky, in introducing the head of the A. F. of L., declared:

"Today we are again a part of the American Federation of Labor."

He described the experiences of the ILGWU in the last few years, winding up with the return to the A. F. of L.

"This is an unqualified, unconditional and immediate affiliation."

As President Green rose to speak, another wild demonstration began and it was five minutes before he could begin his address.

Remarks by President Green.

In his address to the conclave, President Green said:

"I predict that this movement which you have started will reach out into other fields, bringing all the rank-and-file of labor back into the American Federation of Labor."

He declared a more constructive step in the interests of trade unionism than that taken by the ILGWU could not be imagined. It would have a highly beneficial effect upon the morale of the wage-earners of the nation, he said.

President Green promised further efforts on his part to bring peace back in the ranks of labor.

"I pledge you now," he said, "that I will do everything in my power to heal the breach and create solidarity and unity in the labor movement."

Lauds Union.

Lauding the decision of the ILGWU's convention, President Green remarked:

"The delegates to this convention believe that the way to reestablish peace and unity is to bring peace and unity to the labor movement."

commenting upon the reaffiliation of the Ladies' Garment Workers union with the federation, were in general accord that the step taken by that organization greatly increases the likelihood of a prompt restoration of the I. T. U. to good standing in the A. F. of L.

Return of I. T. U. Is Seen Speeded

New York, N. Y.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told newspapermen June 6, in an interview following the restoration of the charter of the International Ladies Garment Workers union, that he believed the action taken by the ILGWU greatly enhanced prospects of the return of the International Typographical union to the American Federation of Labor.

Asked whether he felt that the recent decision of the Executive Council to recommend changes to the next A. F. of L. convention as regards the one cent assessment for organizational purposes would speed the I. T. U.'s return, Mr. Green said:

"I think it meets their objection."

Some Birds Foul Own Nests

AN EDITORIAL

Thanks, Judge Martin Fleming, for your comment on organized labor in your talk before the Middle Tennessee club last Monday. Your statement that the working people compose 95 per cent of our American citizenship, and that they are not "red" but are loyal citizens, comes at an opportune time.

For instance, an infinitesimal part of the remain five per cent saw fit to cast a slur at his city and our city last Friday in the Times, when Mr. Paul Shacklett took an uncalled-for and unwise fling at Chattanooga labor. He said that Memphis probably got the huge powder plant because of promises that there would be "no labor trouble" there.

He further said that "Chattanooga has many advantages to offer manufacturers, but that many manufacturers feel that labor conditions here are far from ideal." Foolishly raving, he continues, "It may be on account of labor conditions here that we have not been selected already as the site for some large airplane or munitions plant."

Mr. Tom Duff, president of the Chamber of Commerce, must feel embarrassed over the unwarranted statement of Mr. Shacklett, who is "industrial director" of the Chamber of Commerce. It seems that Mr. Shacklett is determined to "direct" industries away from Chattanooga instead of attracting them. Mr. Duff has been earnestly trying to create a better spirit of harmony among all Chattanoogans, and along comes one of his minor employes who kicks the bucket over, spills the beans and generally plays havoc in an effort to besmirch Chattanooga labor.

In order to beat Mr. Shacklett to another opportunity, may we call attention to another story in Tuesday's Times that says the Mountain City Knitting Mills is going out of business. Let the readers particularly note that the management of that mill said specifically that failure to operate was not due to labor conditions. We shall probably hear Mr. Shacklett proclaim that labor has run another business away from Chattanooga.

If someone can hold down the Paul Shacklett type of labor haters we could have a real Chattanooga, banded together for the good of the city instead of broadcasting libelous statements that tend to scare industries away rather than to attract.

Personal opinions, or even public expressions, of Mr. Shacklett are of no consequence, but official statements from the Industrial Director of the Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce will unquestionably carry some weight in certain quarters.

Leaders of both industry and labor in Chattanooga have worked tirelessly for many years to bring about proper understanding between these two most important groups of our citizenship. We sincerely believe that today there exists a more cordial friendship than has ever been the case. That in these circumstances a new employe of the Chamber of Commerce, whose industrial philosophy was gained in an atmosphere of labor baiting, should now resurrect the ghost of a long-dead past is, we believe, unfortunate particularly

Wayne Williams Moves Smokehouse

"The Smokehouse," operated by Wayne Williams, member of Local 259, Movie Operators, is now located at 609 Cherry street, instead of Sixth and Cherry. The change was necessary because of the building project of the Electric Power Board, which will be the office building of the power system.

Tony Turner, union barber, will take his chair and tools to the new location also.

Labor Temple, Inc. Plan to Dedicate On Labor Day

Chattanooga Labor Temple, Inc., is the name of the officially chartered corporation to buy, manage and operate the new labor temple just purchased by a co-operative effort of most of the local unions in the city.

W. W. Orr, of the Carpenters union, is president of the corporation. Other officers are: Vice-president, V. W. Hallmark, of the Elevator Constructors; secretary, Erskine Mabee, of the Painters, and treasurer, W. A. Witt, of the Painters. Every union holding stock in the company will have one member on the board of directors.

Remodeling plans are being drawn up and bids will be let in the near future.

It is hoped to hold dedication ceremonies on Labor day.

Brown and Peterson Elected In Machinists' Union Referendum

Washington.—By sweeping majorities, Harvey W. Brown has been elected president and Eric Peterson, vice-president, of the International Association of Machinists.

Results of a membership referendum were announced by a board of tellers which counted the returns at headquarters. Brown won over I. A. Sandvigen, of Seattle, and Peterson defeated Thomas Martin, of Portsmouth, Va.

Brown held the acting presidency for a year, beginning in November, 1938, after President A. O. Wharton was given a leave of absence because of ill health. When Wharton resigned last November, Brown was elected by the executivecouncil to perform the president's duties, pending the referendum.

Brown's election is to fill Wharton's unexpired term, which runs until June 30, 1941. Wharton is now at his brother's ranch in Arizona, seeking to build up his health. Reports at headquarters indicate he has improved considerably.

Took Over "Bob" Fechner's Job.

Peterson was chosen an acting vice-president to do the work of the late Robert Fechner when the latter was drafted by President Roosevelt to take over the helm of the civilian conservation corps. After "Bob" Fechner's death on New Year's eve, Peterson was named by the council to fill the vacancy until the referendum had been concluded. He also will serve until June 30, 1941.

The council met in Washington this week to go over a heavy budget of union matters and complete arrangements for the Machinists' international convention to be held in Cleveland beginning Sept. 16.

Local Briefs

Street Railway Auxiliary will close its charter after Monday, June 17. All wives of members of 1212 who wish to be charter members of the auxiliary are asked to telephone either Mrs. Wells (7-2800) or Mrs. Steinman (2-2275) before that time.

M. W. Wood, president of Oil Refiners 323, left Wednesday for Chicago on business for employes of the Wilson company of this district.

Harry Gordon, son of J. G. Orrell, underwent a tonsillectomy last week, and is getting along nicely.

Both sons of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Williams are sick. Walter, the 3-year-old boy, broke his leck on Wednesday, June 5, while at play, and Donald, the older boy, was operated on last Sunday for appendicites. Both boys are doing nicely now, according to last reports.

Typographical Auxiliary 219 met Tuesday with Mrs. J. Turner Bell on Duncan avenue and enjoyed a covered dish luncheon.

Members were glad to have Mrs. J. O. Sehorn present.

The auxiliary voted to donate $5.00 to the Red Cross.

In a short business session, plans were made for a picnic next month, definite arrangements to be announced later.

O. O. Garrett went to Arkansas after the close of the federation convention in Memphis last week. He planned to visit old friends and relatives whom he had not seen in many years.

The Burning of the Books.

Latest hysterical outburst of self-appointed super-patriots and reactionary interests is a textbook purge. Prof. Harold Rugg's books are an especial target. At Bradner, O., books were actually burned, and the Virginia state legislature considered the same action at the request of one of its members. We quote the "American Business Survey" of January, 1940, on its significance:

"It is a strange spectacle when the physician is denounced for diagnosing the disease, when it is seriously argued that ignorance is bliss and that the proper solution of our national problems is to ignore them. . . True Americanism means the courage to face realities, not the criminal negligence of ignoring them." Similarly, the St. Louis Post Dispatch: "If Americanism could not stand on the truth, on the unbiased viewpoint, it would be a rather fragile thing to hold to. If we have reached the time when we can't afford to let our children make up their minds then Americanism already has disappeared and what is left is not worth preserving."

"Read Strike Stories With a Grain of Salt."

This is the heading over a pertinent article from the Federation News, official organ of the Chicago Federation of Labor, as quoted in a weekly news bulletin of the Chicago Teachers' union. Part of the article follows:

"The true picture of labor controversies is hard to get. Neither side can afford to present its entire case publicly because some factors must be withheld for future bargaining. Therefore, even if the daily press were entirely impartial in labor disputes, which is not the case, it would be difficult ever to present in print a fair picture of the situation.

"These facts play into the hands of an unscrupulous press and give them the opportunity to play up half truths in such a way as to lead the casual reader to believe the union side of the picture is always 100 per cent wrong and that the poor employer is being imposed upon. At the same time the labor press like the Federation News is often handicapped in presenting the facts. Quite often it is impolite to print the full facts as to do so might hamper a successful conclusion to the diffculty.

"Therefore, the thinking reader will always reserve judgment and not be misled by the efforts of the daily press to make every labor dispute a new excuse for the tar brush."

The council elected Earl Melton, of Detroit, former grand lodge representative, as a vice-president to succeed Brown. Melton's term will run until a referendum for the position can be completed.

Prompt Passage of Housing Bill Demanded by Executive Council

Washington, D. C.—Prompt passage by congress of S. 591, the bill providing new funds for the continuation and expansion of the federal slum clearance and low-cost housing program, was demanded by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

This measure already has passed the senate by an overwhelming vote but it is being held up in committee ni the House of Representatives.

In a strong statement, the executive council declared that the bill should be approved immediately because it would relieve housing shortages, provide jobs for the unemployed and help strengthen national defense. It said:

"Labor's concern in the future of this program is intensified by current developments. In the present world-wide crisis the permanent security of America lies in action directed toward domestic betterment. The USHA program goes straight to the heart of our most urgent economic problem. The splendid beginning made by the United States housing authority toward meeting the workers' need for decent homes has proved this program to be one of the most effective defense weapons of our national welfare. To discard this tested weapon now is to surrender a strategic line of defense of economic security of our people.

"In view of conditions in the building industry, it is essential that congress act at this session to prevent a sharp decline in employment in the construction and related industries.

"The USHA is a double-barreled employment program.

"The present program is providing 512,000 building trades jobs on project sites in 200 communities. These jobs account for $225,000,000 in wages which go into the pay envelopes of building workers. In addition, employment of 760,000 workers in related building materials industries is provided by the USHA program. Stoppage of the program will wipe out these jobs and cut off the source of buying power derived from these wages. Unless S. 591 is approved by congress this loss of employment and buying power to labor will come at the crucial time when the crushing burden of unemployment has become unbearable to millions of American workers who are entitled to the opportunity of earning a decent living through their own efforts.

"The cost of this program modest. The USHA from its ception has had a consistent ord of progress in the re of the costs and of the annual tributions needed to rehouse dwellers. Labor has co-op in achieving these low costs tering into agreements wh sure that, after construction started on a project, work be interrupted by jurisdictional wage disputes."

Ladies' Garment Workers' Union Asks Establishment of 30-Hour Week, Denounces CIO Labor League

New York City.—A "program of action" to restore national prosperity by increasing employment and by raising the incomes of the lower paid wage earners was presented to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union at the union's fortieth anniversary convention.

The convention opened at Madison Square Garden with a great meeting addressed by President David Dubinsky of the union, Governor Lehman of New York and others. A pageant based on Walt Whitman's "I hear America Singing" was presented with 800 unionists taking part. The 650 official delegates from twenty-six states and four Canadian provinces paraded to Madison Square Garden, watched by many thousands of members of the union, released from toil by a half day's holiday. Regular sessions of the convention were held at Carnegie Hall.

New Deal Backed

Establishment of the thirty-hour week, expansion of the WPA and liberalization of unemployment insurance and old age pension laws were urged by the ILGWU general executive board as part of the "program of action."

The report asked extension of the new deal and as one step in this direction, urged congress to amend the fair labor standards act to make a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour mandatory at once in all industries and to permit industry committees to fix minimum scales above the 40-cent level. Under the present law the 40-cent minimum does not become generally effective until 1945.

Communists Denounced

Denunciation of Communists was a feature of the report, which attacked "Communist duplicity and treachery" in the American Labor party and said that the union will fight any attempt by the left wing forces to block endorsement of President oRosevelt in the fall election campaign.

The report vigorously condemned the CIO-controlled Labor's Non-Partisan League as having become "more and more a part of the Communist 'transmission belt.'"

"Organized labor in New York is determined to put up a powerful campaign this fall in defense of the new deal and its candidates," the report declared.

in this time of national tension. It is distressing to those who have labored for years to dissipate an unwise and unnecessary bitterness and lack of confidence between these two great groups.

We cannot believe that the Chamber of Commerce will approve such silly and unworthy efforts on the part of a new employe to revive an outmoded and thoroughly discredited philosophy.

Let's leave the saber-rattling to the Hitlers and the Mussolinis, Brother Shacklett. Get on the 1940 bandwagon. Scrape the cobwebs off your brain and let's join hands for a hundred per cent America and a happier and most prosperous Chattanooga.

No Backward Steps

Organized labor, President Roosevelt and other organizations and individuals have given a smashing setback to the movement for breaking down of labor standards on the excuse that the defense program emergency calls for such action.

President William Green and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor led off with the outright declaration that there is no conclusive reason for cutting wages, lengthening hours or otherwise breaking down standards. President Roosevelt rocked labor in his "fireside chat" with words that lent advocates of repeal of labor laws without a leg to stand on. He said:

"There is nothing in our present emergency to justify making the workers of our nation toil for more hours than those now limited by statute. As more orders come in and more work has to be done, millions of thousands of people who are now unemployed will, I believe, receive employment.

"There is nothing in our present emergency to justify a lowering of the standards of employment. Minimum wages should not be reduced. It is my hope, indeed, that the new speed-up of production will cause many businesses which now pay below the minimum standards to bring their wages up."

As a result of the plain speaking of labor and the President, the movement for the smashing of labor and wage standards has lost whatever force it ever had and now seems doomed to an early end.

Labor Under Fire

It is an axiom in the whole struggle of the labor movement that when the going is toughest and the restrictions are most rigid all of organized labor as one man straightens its collective back and forges ahead to new gains and new liberties. Labor in the past has always beat back fierce attacks to its hard earned social and economic gains with fiercer counterattacks.

All of these victories, however, have in the most part been based upon unity within the ranks of labor itself—unity in the rank and file and unity in the leadership. Without this unity victory for organized labor will be questionable.

In these days and hours of lightning and devastating developments labor will do well to establish as its watchword: Beware. In the name of national emergency and national defense the enemies of labor will undoubtedly try to defeat labor indirectly where they have not been successful with frontal attacks. For these enemies of labor patriotism will merely serve as the fleece to cover up their own wolfish designs.

Gaps In Compensation Laws

A recent United States Department of Labor bulletin reveals occupational diseases in the viscose rayon industry and says that thousands of workers in the industry are today better protected because of an inquiry undertaken by the department two years ago.

The inquiry found that viscose workers need not be exposed to carbon disulphide poisoning, a major danger in viscose rayon plants. Protective measures are possible all along the line of manufacture, it was proved. Not long after the study was begun, a number of plants installed improved ventilating systems, enclosed some of the more dangerous operations and took other precautions.

Carbon disulphide poisoning and hydrogen sulphide poisoning, another hazard to viscose rayon workers, both of which menace workers in some other industries, illustrate the growing importance of chemicals in the industrial processes of today. Study of the industrial poisons to which workers are exposed, and improvement of industrial hygiene and safety, are plainly major needs in the protection of millions of workers, the Labor Department points out.

Another need is the extension of workmen's compensation laws to give a measure of protection to occupational disease victims and their families. All except two states have some sort of workmen's compensation laws. Of these, however, only 23 states provide any coverage at all for occupational diseases. This is a serious gap in the protection given by compensation laws.

Constructive Union Service

A fine example of constructive union service is that of the union owned and operated traction system of Wheeling, West Virginia.

In 1931 the Wheeling street railway system faced receivership and sale as junk. The operating company had spent $10,000,000 in a vain attempt to save it. Today, thanks to the enterprise and ability of its union employes, the system operates 72 electric cars over 50 miles of track and owns 31 busses to serve a population of 200,000 in Wheeling and surrounding West Virginia and Ohio communities.

The employes, members of Division 168, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, put 10 per cent or more of their pay into a "job saving" fund and bid successfully for the traction property when it was sold two years later. Within two years they paid off the balance and became full fledged owners, forming their own Co-operative Transit Company to hold and operate the system.

The company is not paying dividends but it is providing jobs for its employes and furnishing Wheeling with good transportation — a two-fold service of which the employes have a right to be proud.

How the Wheeling workers rescued the traction system and are running it is told in the June issue of the Motorman, Conductor and Motor Coach Operator, official organ of the Amalgamated Association. The story shows what organized workers can do in the face of adverse circumstances. It reflects credit on union workers and should be widely known.

They're in Agreement Now

The American Federation of Labor and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins have not always seen eye to eye. In fact, labor and the secretary have frequently disagreed and pretty sharply, at that. But both labor and Miss Perkins seem in agreement now that there is no shortage of skilled workers and that there is no necessity for suspending or drastically modifying present labor legislation to facilitate the national defense program.

Labor and Miss Perkins cite facts and figures to show talk of a shortage of skilled workers is bunk. Many skilled workers are not working at their trades, it is true. Once there is need for their services, however, they will be on the job. They do not enjoy working part time or at occupations for which they have not been trained or existing on relief. They are ready and eager to go to work.

On the question of suspending labor legislation, such as the Walsh-Healey government standards act and the wage-hour act, no proof that such a move is justified has been offered. Talk of suspending these laws smacks of hysteria, against which America needs to guard at this time.

When the defense program gets under way, if it is found that temporary changes in labor laws are necessary, labor will be willing to co-operate, as it always has been willing to co-operate in any national emergency. In the meantime, the source of talk of labor shortages and "need" of suspending labor laws might be looked into. The talk may be found coming from those anxious to break down wage and labor standards.

A Great Store... in a Great City

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

The Awakening

Remarkable is the sudden change in the sentiment on the war situation. Dozens of citizens from the District who last fall wrote protesting change in the embargo law, and who sixty days ago asked that congress not permit our country to furnish credit to the allies, are now strongly urging that we immediately give the allies everything except man power. This is not to criticize the change of attitude, but to demonstrate the fuller realization the people have of the effect a Hitler victory would have on American life and security.

Unquestionably our sentiment and interest are with the allies. A few weeks ago when a stalemate in Europe was likely, interest was more passive. Now when the allies have their backs to the wall, and obliteration of democracies appears to be the aim of Hitler, the American people have fully awakened.

No one wants war, or to send our men abroad, but the overwhelming sentiment appears to favor sending the allies all the planes, guns and equipment we can spare.

President Roosevelt heeded the desperate plea for aid, and this week invoked an old law which permits the disposal of surplus war supplies. Planes and armaments are being traded back to manufacturers for new ones. The manufacturers sell their old equipment to the allies. Hundreds of planes will reach the allies through this procedure. The chief executive will probably call on congress for approval of this action. Congress, in spite of the cold shoulder given by the senate to Senator Pepper's various resolutions, will, it is believed, sustain the president.

Large Appropriations for Armaments

Our growing national defense needs require an increasing national effort. Directly or indirectly it will affect the lives and fortunes of every inhabitant of the United States. Sacrifices will be demanded by all.

About the time congress adjourns, which is now expected by July 1, appropriations of six and one-half billion dollars will have been made for national defense. The appropriations are being hurriedly passed through both houses of congress, with little opposition.

Increased corporate, personal and income taxes, which will boost the yield of the national defense revenue bill to more than a billion dollars, have been approved by the house ways and means subcommittee, of which Representative Jere Cooper, of Tennessee, is chairman. The present plan is to bring the tax bill up in the house on Tuesday where congressional leaders expect it to pass after one day's debate.

"Fifth Column" Activities

Reports continue to pour into Washington to the effect that Hitler has an effective "Fifth Column" movement sufficiently large in many South and Central American countries to seize control of their governments when the time is opportune. Our people are determined to deal with and stamp out any such activity in America in its infancy.

Tax Bill Has Chance

The Tennessee delegation was highly elated this week when news came from the senate that the tax replacement bill had been attached as a rider to the relief bill in the appropriations committee. Senator McKellar, who is largely responsible for this being done, was jubilant. This will probably give the house an opportunity to vote on the measure. Congressmen, supporting tax replacement, are busy organizing to secure every vote possible.

TEAMSTERS GOSSIP

In a recent column in The Labor World Mr. Underwood, of the Bus Drivers' local, settled down to a real piece of writing in his appeal to motorists to drive carefully and watch for children playing in the streets now that school is out. We thoroughly enjoyed your article, Mr. Underwood, and would be heartily in favor of a joint safety committee composed of Bus Drivers' Local 1212 and members of Teamsters' Local 515.

Although many people realize that when children are run down on busy streets it is not always the fault of the automobile, bus or truck driver; there are others who demand our scalp and would immediately burn us at the stake when an accident of this type occurs.

Let's leave the automobile driver to someone else. All we are concerned with at the present are men who drive busses and trucks every day for a living.

If through some active standing committee we can indelibly impress on the minds of our members the importance of safe and courteous driving and make them all realize that the next child to be injured could very easily be their own we will have accomplished something for which we can all be proud.

Fiery Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters international president and a strong Roosevelt supporter, has been appointed, along with Sidney Hillman, on the national defense committee. If things get too hot for Madam Perkins don't be surprised to see Mr. Tobin appointed to a permanent cabinet post as secretary of labor.

From Look Magazine: You've heard about the fellow who found this note in his pay envelope: "The amount of your salary is confidential. Please do not reveal it to anyone." He replied to the boss: "Don't worry, I'm as ashamed of it as you are."

Whatever happened to our plans for a gigantic Labor day truck parade? Some of the members were discussing this as far back as last December with the idea that every man participate in some sort of vehicle whether a pick-up dump truck, stake body, straight job or tractor-trailer.

If some of you live wires who can put things over would get behind this move maybe it isn't too late yet to form a committee and start working out details. Just think how long the string of trucks would be if every member drove one and think of the advertising value for the local and for the employers that could be gained with proper placards prominently displayed on the trucks.

Maybe we're on the wrong track, but it looks like just what the dairy drivers need to let the public know just who sells union milk and what their delivery trucks look like.

Looking at the different events of these perplexing days, one wonders what it is all about. The one thing that we really know is that the situation is very grave.

This old ink slinger is in a very puzzled state of mind, wondering if this is the beginning of the end. Can France and England hold out? It has been said that the old Roman Empire would be re-established. If so, I cannot imagine what our status will be. Can you imagine this old U. S. A. as a puppet state of Rome? Perish the thought. The old ship Democracy was good enough for Pa and Ma and I have lived in it for awhile myself. It will take a sure-enough high pressure salesman to convince me that they can give me something better.

Notes From Candy Workers

Hello, everyone! We are still making that good candy.

Our shop is backing up the new Labor Temple . . . why shouldn't we? Our labor people need a meeting place of their own.

I read an item in our last week's paper about the chamber of commerce opposing the LaFollette measure in the labor law. All I can say is, what else could you expect? We even run up on a few fellows in the labor unions who do not support labor laws. Every 100 per cent union man or woman will try to help support all measures which will help organized labor.

There is a certain young lady who is working in a non-union drug store. She doesn't seem to mind and says that no union is going to get any money for dues from her. Well, let's hope that her employer does not take those "dues" in more hours and less pay.

(Editor's note . . . We mislaid Brother Hughes' notes last week, so we are using them this week, since they are still timely.)

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI'S principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 15th day of November, 1937, Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale to Title Guaranty and Trust Company, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for record December 7, 1937, and recorded in Book 755, Page 325, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, the said deed of trust provides that, if the party of the Third Part, (Hamilton National Bank), for any reason, desires to replace the Trustee, it may do so and appoint a successor by a written instrument duly registered, and the Successor Trustee shall then have title to the property described vested in him, and shall have all the powers of the original trustee; and

Whereas, the said bank, the holder and owner of the indebtedness secured by the said deed of trust, by virtue of the authority given it in the said deed of trust, has heretofore removed the trustee therein named and appointed C. H. JERDEN as Successor Trustee, and he is now vested with all the powers and authority the original Trustee had, said instrument appointing the Trustee being registered in Book 800, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust;

Now, therefore; by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, C. H. Jerden, as Trustee, will on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Courthouse in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, curtesy, and all other exemptions of every kind, the following described real estate, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The South forty-five (45) feet of the North Ninety-two (92) feet of Lots One (1) and Two (2), Block Thirty-eight (38), Highland Park Addition Number Two (2), as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said parts of lots make one tract of ground fronting forty-five (45) feet on the East line of Kelly street and extending back eastwardly, between parallel lines, a distance of one hundred (100) feet to the West line of Lot Three (3) in said block.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This June 10, 1940.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

Before the International Ladies' rment Workers' union convenn in New York voted to rejoin American Federation of Lar, Mr. Dubinsky laid down three nditions for reaffiliation.

The able ILGWU head asked olition of the special A. F. of L. sessment of 1 cent a month, end the power of the executive ncil to suspend unions and, st important of all, expulsion racketeers.

Mr. Dubinsky got what he asked , except in the matter of chas- out the racketeers, a vague d amorphous demand, which ens some interesting chains of ought.

Mr. Dubinsky and his splendid GWU didn't leave the A. F. of on account of the presence of cketeers. He left to follow Mr. hn L. Lewis' banners into the ld of secession, or whatever you nt to call the creation of a dual ovement.

Mr. Dubinsky has said, and undoubtedly with the utmost sincerity, that when he joined Mr. Lewis in creating the committee for industrial organization he didn't contemplate going as far as secession, but the secession came anyway, although some point out that it came via expulsion. Be that as it may, dualism came and today we have two armies, arrayed in battle.

Mr. Dubinsky remained with the CIO after dualism had set in. He was given a grand kicking around by Mr. Lewis, who took the ILGWU checks, but didn't let Mr. Dubinsky have any "say" in what was done with the money. Ultimately Mr. Dubinsky got tired of that and withdrew from the CIO.

Mr. Dubinsky is one of the best executives in the whole labor movement—one of the best leaders. He has a host of personal friends and his flair for publicity has worked to the great advantage of the ILGWU.

But the A. F. of L. today is just about as it was when Mr. Dubinsky left it. If there are racketeers today, there were the same racketeers when Mr. Dubinsky left it, in company with the host of banner carriers who then rallied around Mr. Lewis.

Maybe Mr. Dubinsky didn't know it at that time and that he has since learned the facts of life from Westbrook Pegler and young Mr. Dewey.

Nobody today can deny that racketeers are allowed to function in a severly limited group of unions.

But anyone who takes the trouble can read the A. F. of L. constitution and discover the very limited powers of the A. F. of L. The basis of its existence is voluntarism — which Mr. Dubinsky knows, just as Mr. Hillman knows and just as Mr. Lewis knows.

Samuel Gompers used to say, over and over again, that it was better to suffer temporarily from the weaknesses and evils of humanity rather than give up the freedom which they transgressed.

He used to hold that voluntarism was more important than a system of compulsion under which punishment of evil might be swifter, but under which liberty of action would disappear.

It may be that the A. F. of L. will have to prepare for sterner discipline, which means an amended constitution creating more central authority. But that will not come easily, for nowhere is voluntarism more jealously guarded.

It may be that a greater freedom in discussing weaknesses would be enough. There are courts enough and laws enough for every last offense, if they could be used. It seems that they are being used, too, which may cure all the evils of which anyone knows.

But the best guarantee of clean unions is an alert membership, ready to go to bat in behalf of cleanliness and decency.

Let membership assert itself sufficiently and there will not be much trouble. The preponderance of cleanliness would seem to have some bearing on the truth of that assumption.

BEING "ON THE JOB

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

The man who is on the job only when he is wearing his overalls, or when he is working at his desk, or standing behind the counter, will probably stay there as long as he lives, although he will be among the first to be let out when business slows up. Industrial processes are moving along so fast that no man who wants to get ahead can afford merely to plug along, doing routine things, allowing the job to get ahead of him, instead of trying to keep ahead of the job.

The sound of the whistle isn't a sign that he is to stop thinking about the job. It's a fact that the man who is on the job longest and hardest when he's away from the shop will ultimately spend the least time in the shop. We're thinking now of the man who will some day land inside the superintendent's rail, while others wait outside the gate. It's so easy to stop when the job gets hard and to find a really legitimate excuse for chucking it—one that will be accepted by our friends and be a comfort to ourselves.

Those who succeed get there principally because they hang on when others let go, not because they possess more original power. Actually it's in the little things that most men fall down. Sometimes it's just a word spoken at a critical moment which either makes or unmakes a man's future. An opinion expressed, a criticism made, a judgment given—and the keen judge sizes up a man and generally puts him where he belongs, because it is usually a character and a life which is back of the remark, and your alert man of the world knows it.

Sometimes it's a matter of dress. And I'm not thinking of "swell" clothes. A frayed linen collar, worth, at the time, less than a nickel, has cost many a man the chance of a lifetime. There are geniuses who can afford to be slouches, but you've got to prove that you're a genius before you can afford to be a slouch.

But, principally, it's the man who is on the job seven days in the week who will win out. Not in the same way every day, of course, but always, whether he works or plays, whether he reads or writes, whether he talks or thinks, or thinks before he talks—that's the man who will make his way to the front, while others step aside.

There's no rule in any trade union which prohibits a worker from getting a head in this fashion, so long as he's on the level with his fellow workers. And if he is made of the right kind of stuff, he will be an asset to his union instead of a hindrance.

Bakers' Scraps

Had a swell time in Memphis last week, but sure glad to be back home again. Memphis is a nice place, but I didn't know Chattanooga did look so good. Local 25 wishes to extend its congratulations to Local 149 in their success in signing the Continental Baking company under a union agreement, and to Brother O. M. Morton, their capable business representative, and also to our international representative, Brother Beisel.

One of the most interesting reports at the convention was the report of the label committee. It was stressed that all members of organized labor should buy only products bearing the union label. It was also stressed that label leagues helped the sale of union label goods. We are very proud of our label league here in Chattanooga and for the grand work it is doing.

The text of President William Green's letter to David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, describing the recent decision of the Executive Council [illegible] to the next convention replacement of the one per cent per member per month organizational assessment by an increased straight per capita tax, is as follows:

[illegible] writing you this letter because I learned through press reports of the address you delivered at the opening session of the International [illegible] New York City.

In your address you referred in a speculative way at least to the [illegible] tion to the one cent per month per member per capital tax. You also [illegible] pelled international unions from affiliation with the American Federation of Labor for certain offenses regarded as violations of the laws, rules and procedure of the American Federation of Labor.

This would mean, if the recommendation of the Council be followed, that the Labor body's authority to suspend national and international unions would be vested exclusively in conventions of the American Federation of Labor.

These decisions were not intended by the Executive Council for premature publication, inasmuch as they embody recommendations

SHOP CARDS GO INTO 2 CAFES TO SWELL LIST

Charley Franklin's restaurant, on upper Market street, this week signed an agreement with the Culinary Workers' union that placed a shop card in the place. This was done after negotiations extending through many weeks, which included picketing and an attempted injunction suit.

It has also been announced that the Home Plate, Seventh at Cherry, now has a union card, which is being received with great satisfaction by the trade union movement.

Employer, not Pickets, Arrested in Milwaukee Cigar Plant Strike

Milwaukee.—When arrests are made as a result of strike activities, union pickets are usually the victims. But in a Milwaukee strike the usual didn't happen. An employer was arrested instead of pickets.

The employer was Israel Magidson, president of the Magidson Cigar Company, who was arrested and arraigned in district court on a disorderly conduct charge. He was accused of addressing vile language to pickets in front of his factory.

Witnesses against Magidson were members of Cigar Makers' Union No. 25, Cigar Makers' International Union of America, which has been conducting a strike against the company for better wages and union shop conditions.

Needless to say, members of the union did not furnish bail.

Notes From Candy Workers

Hello, hope everybody is enjoying this nice summer weather.

We have nobody on the sick list, as far as I know.

We have had two weddings among our girls—Mrs. Gertie Radford and Miss Blanche Lamb. We extend our best wishes to them.

I do hope that we workers will be good and will not help a certain member of the Chamber of Commerce run any business away from our city. All such spiels as some we saw in the papers last week sound like an old raven croaking. If some fellows could ever learn how little such talk amounts to, they would just keep their labor-hating thoughts to themselves.

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

KEEP AN EYE ON THAT BIRD! By Baer

That the profiteer is already digging into Uncle Sam's purse is proven by the following statement of Senator Homer T. Bone, of Washington:

"The last battleship of our present fleet cost approximately $26,800,000. A ship of the same size now costs the taxpayers in the neighborhood of $75,000,000 to $80,000,000. When I came to the senate in 1933, bids on destroyers ran around $3,000,000. Today, ships of this same type cost as much as $9,000,000.

"The senate munitions committee probed into the increase of the cost of war-craft, but was never able to uncover anything which would justify such a tremendous spread in costs. Steel does not cost three times as much as it did a few years ago; labor is not getting three times as much.

"The navy department offers no explanation except the so-called 'modernization in design.'"

$60,000,000 Voted by Senate to Build Hospitals in Rural Low-Income Areas

Washington.—The senate passed and sent to the house of representatives the bill introduced jointly by Senator Wagner, of New York, and Senator George, of Georgia, to provide a six-year $60,000,000 program of federal-state-local hospital construction.

The main purpose of the measure is to increase hospital facilities primarily in rural and "economically depressed areas." The bill contemplates federal construction of hospitals to be leased to states or communities and also grants for state and local construction.

Senator James E. Murray, of Montana, in charge of the bill on the senate floor, said it "is not an effort to deal with the total problem of national health," but "an experiment on a limited scale to meet in a limited way a recognized widespread need for hospitalization facilities in the country, and is designed to assist states and counties by a system of grants-in-aid in securing such facilities where the need is most acute. This entire program of hospital construction, covering a period of six years and authorizing a total expenditure of $60,000,000, together with the funds which the states and localities may reasonably be expected to raise, could hardly provide more than from 25,000 to 30,000 beds. This is a very small start, nideed, in comparison to the total need of the country. It is, of course, in the rural low-income areas of the country that these hospitals are mostly needed."

PHILADELPHIA BAKERS GAIN WAGE INCREASES

Philadelphia. — An agreement providing wage increases for most of the 200 employes of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea company bakery, 29th street and Ridge avenue, has been negotiated, Joseph Mahon, business agent of Local492, Bakery and Confectionery Workers union, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced.

An average increase of about 7 per cent will be given to most of the employes, eliminating previous inequalities among similar workers. The contract also provides a closed shop, vacations with pay and two 20-minute rest periods.

CIO Pickets Shipyard Following Signing Of A. F. L. Pact

San Francisco. — The Labor Clarion, San Francisco, reports that in protest against the signing of a union shop contract with the American Federation of Labor unions by the Long Beach shipyard of the Consolidated Steel corporation, the Maritime Federation Council of the CIO placed some 200 pickets about the plant.

The Maritime Federation designated steel destined for the plant as "hot cargo" and said all ships bearing it would be picketed. Such tactics, leaders declared, were permissible under the longshoremen's agreement.

Philip M. Connelly, state president of the CIO, declared its strategy is calculated to insure that some $7,500,000 worth of maritime commission freighters are built by CIO workers.

"We have 1,500 residents in the community who have been engaged in this work for years," Connelly said. "The A. F. of L. has none."

Two Unions Indicted In Anti-Trust Drive

Seattle, Wash.—Two labor unions and several contractors have been named in indictments returned here by a federal district grand jury investigating the construction industry.

The true bills were voted after nine months of investigation.

The indictments were returned against the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters; Local No. 99 of the Sheet Metal Workers union, heating contractors and hardwood flooring wholesalers. They alleged conspiracy and violation of the anti-trust laws in the heating, hardwood flooring and sheet metal building construction industries.

W[illegible] A. McN[illegible] ... workers received unemployment benefits during April as compared with [illegible] in March. The total amount of benefits paid in April was $43,300,000, representing a 10 per cent drop from the previous month.

Since the first of the year Mr. McNutt said 62,364 names have been added to the social security board's contributory old age pension list. In making these figures public he noted that the number of claims from retired workers ... exceeding advanced estimates by nearly 20 per cent. The average payment to retired workers was slightly more than $20 a month, and to wives it is less than $12, he revealed.

Taking up government activities in locating jobs for the jobless Mr. McNutt announced that public employment offices in forty-six states increased job placements of more than 20 per cent in April as compared with March. A total of almost 300,000 jobs were found for workers, of which about 250,000 were in private industry.

Military Training Is Demanded for CCC

Washington.—Legislation converting the civilian conservation corps into military camps was introduced in the senate this week by Senator Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.).

The proposal, it is expected, will be vigorously opposed by James J. McEntee, director of the CCC and a member of the International Association of Machinists.

Recently, when before the house appropriations committee, McEntee was asked whether he favored military training in CCC camps, either voluntary or otherwise, and answered:

"No, sir; unless congress says we must. Before it does that, I would like very much to appear before the committee considering it. It is impractical and too costly."

Lyons Hits Schemes to Scrap Labor Laws

New York, N. Y.—Thomas J. Lyons, president of the State Federation of Labor, called upon Senators Robert F. Wagner and Jas. M. Mead to resist "the attempts of selfish, un-American, anti-labor business interests to tear to tatters the labor standards estaablished by the labor movement, congress and the state legislatures." Asserting that the patriotism of organized labor could not be questioned, Mr. Lyons said he saw no reason why new laws to protect labor should not be enacted by congress.

Labor Executives Oppose View Cut In Working Hours Must Bring Some Reduction in Wages

New York City—A declaration that organized labor must campaign for the 30-hour week to make employment even if it means reducing the income of some wage earners stirred lively debate among labor executives at a conference on the shorter week here.

Thomas J. Lyons, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, started the fireworks by declaring:

"Sooner or later we have got to meet squarely the issue of putting people back to work by shortening working hours, regardless of whether it means a reduction of income. There is no use kidding around any longer. If organized labor can't do something about unemployment, we may see government taking over the unions and running them for us."

Viewpoint Challenged

William Cross of the Photo-Engravers' union was the first to challenge President Lyons' viewpoint. He said he represented an organization that had reduced hours and raised wages and asked why a labor leader should recommend reduction of hours at the expense [illegible] and not recommend that the employer take the major burden.

His question was referred by Spencer Miller, Jr., director of the [illegible] Education Bureau of America and leader of the discussion, to Professor Walter Peabody of Rutgers University, who said he had assumed that wages would [illegible] the same under shorter [illegible]

[illegible] eastern representative of the American Federation [illegible] and emphatically it was a question that should be answered and declared the A. F. of L. position "very clearly" was that [illegible] reduced hours standards of living should not be reduced. "We want eight hours pay and six hours work," he said.

Meany Tells A. F. of L. Stand

George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the [illegible] A. F. of L., said the federation held the shorter work-week program to be most important as "an effective method to reduce unemployment," and also that it would give workers increased leisure and be beneficial to [illegible] health. No substantial gain in employment can be made without shorter work-week, he said.

Later he said all surveys of effect of shortening working [illegible] showed that at first there was a let down in production but when adjustment had been made production returned to its former level under the same number of workmen. Workers would agitate for a shorter week, he asserted, if it would mean increased pay.

The position taken by [illegible] supported by some members, the majority insisted the objective of labor is the six-hour day at the same rate of wages as at present longer day.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING HELD VITAL NEED

Serious Froblems Confronting Nation Call for Industrial Peace Through Labor Organization, Green Says

Hartford, Conn.—Redoubled efforts to organize the unorganized under the banner of the American Federation of Labor were urged by President William Green, of the federation, in addressing the New England Labor Conference here.

President Green emphasized the necessity of collective bargaining at this critical time in the nation's history and warned strongly against "Trojan Horse" or "Fifth Column" activities. He also reiterated declarations that labor will oppose breaking down of present labor legislation.

Pointing out that the workers' right to organize and bargain collectively has been "firmly established as part of the nation's economic and social policies," Green said that the "virtue of collective bargaining is reflected in the fact that orderly processes—the facts, realities and intelligent procedure—are substituted for force in the determination of wages and conditions of employment."

Collective Bargaining Seen Stabilizer

"Certainly at this time," he continued, "when the nation is confronted with most serious economic, political, as well as national problems, the owners of property, the management, and the workers ought to extol the virtues of collective bargaining as never before. We should use this instrumentality as a means through which industril strife can be eliminated. Collective bargaining, with its stabilizing influence, should be extended and practiced as never before.

"This can be done through the organization of the workers into trades unions so that proper collective bargaining agencies can be established, through which employer and employe problems can be dealt with in their originating stages. This high and lofty purpose can be accomplished through frequent meetings of workers and management at which itme free, open and frank discussions of minor, as well as highly important industrial problems, can be considered and acted upon.

Now Declared No Time For Industrial War

"We cannot at this moment engage in industrial warfare when the preservation of our national life ond our national institutions transcends all other considerations. It would be contradictory for employers and employes to engage in bitter conflict. Let employers withdraw all opposition to the organization of their workers into trade unions and let employes, when exercising the right to organize, demonstrate, not by word, but by action, that all the claims the workers ever made for collective bargaining as a peace providing bargeucy have been clearly established.

Discussing the danger from "Trojan Horse" or "Fifth Column" organizations, Green cited the recent warning of the A. F. of L. Executive Council against activities of these elements and added:

"The American Federation of Labor has refused at all times to compromise or traffic with the enemies of democracy. There is no room in the American Federation of Labor for communists or nazis. We never have wanted any part of them. We don't want any part of them now and we never will. Their policies and their teachings are hateful to us. We have fought them at every turn and we have defeated every effort they have made to bore from within the American Federation of Labor.

CIO Course Different, Green Charges

"Unfortunately, the rebel movement which broke away from the American Federation of Labor in 1935 has followed a different course. The CIO has admitted and welcomed and encouraged communists. Public investigations have established beyond all doubt the fact that communists control many of its unions. Some of these unions operate in fields vital to our national defense. Let us not underestimate the dangers of this situation.

"In the opinion of many people, the CIO sit-down strikes in 1937, accompanied by the illegal occupation of private property, the seizure of entire cities and mutiny on the high seas, were a rehearsal for a communist revolution.

"The leader of the CIO has done nothing to dispel this opinion. He has never lifted his voice against either of those infamous enemies of humanity, Hitler or Stalin, nor has he ever denounced their unholy alliance. Instead we find him denouncing the president of our own country and every other responsible leader in American life."

Says A. F. of L. Will Fight Labor Laws' Repeal

Gheen declared that "selfish business interests" are calling for the repeal of the Walsh-Healey act and scrapping of the wafe-hour act and asserted:

"The American Federation of Labor will oppose such moves. There is no sound economic reason for the breaking down of labor standards in this country. There is no call for cutting wages and lengthening hours. We do not have a shortage of labor in this country. We have a heavy surplus. Now that industrial production is to be speeded up to strengthen our national defense we can put our army of unemployed to work. Let us extend them an opportunity to work rather than require those who are employed to work longer hours. That is the only just and sensible thing to do."

Ending his address, President Green sounded a call for renewed organization efforts, saying:

"In conclusion, I want to urge upon the representatives of American Federation of Labor unions here in New England and throughout the country not to relax, but to redouble efforts to organize the unorganized. The American Federation of Labor's membership is more numerous and more powerful than ever before in its history. But we must not be content to stop there. Remember that the strength of our country depends on the strength of the individual worker and the strength of the individual dorker depends upon organization."

We Dare Not Shut Them Out

It is quite true that the unemployed need from us, and have a right to ask from us, human mercy and democratic justice. But that is not the end of the matter. We need to have the products of our farms and factories consumed, and that cannot be done without providing work and wages to the unemployed.

Quite aside from all considerations of humanity and justice, we cannot afford to let the unemployed go hungry, houseless and in rags. We need to bring them back into our economic system—we dare not shut them out.—Mrs. Florence Kerr, Assistant Commissioner, Work Projects Administration.

Now Is the Time

From everywhere the word comes: "This is the time to organize!" To which the logical answer is: "Well, then, go ahead and organize!"

If anything is needed today, it is more unions, with more and more workers educated in the aims, principles and tactics of organized labor.

Make It Work

Government officials, labor executives, influential persons in many walks of life have emphasized in recent months that making democracy work is one way to offset the influence of the dictatorships.

Undoubtedly, we must make democracy efficient to refute the arguments of Messrs. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin that democracy is not fitted to fast changing modern life.

Recent events in this country have not indicated any too efficient working of democracy.

Of course in any democracy, there is some lost motion, some lack of co-operation.

But there has been too much of this in the United States since the rise of the dictatorships. Lost motion, lack of co-operation has been apparent in Congress, in industry and even in the ranks of labor. If the split in labor is not evidence of this, what is it?

The situation can be summed up by saying there has been too much of the kind of stuff that gave the dictators one of their best talking points when they first began their climb to arbitrary power.

Hours' Increase

Argument that longer work hours are necessary to forward the national defense program is given a knockout blow by the American Federation of Labor in its latest monthly business survey.

The federation points out that as long as the nation has a large surplus labor supply, production can be increased without lengthening the work week. It says the idle work force in April was 10,255,000, "partly because our working population has increased by more than 5,000,000 in the last ten years and also because there has not been enough new jobs to create work for all those laid off by machines."

"With our present unemployment, and with productivity increasing at the normal rate," the federation adds, "we have work force and plant capacity enough to raise the national income from the 1939 level of $70,000,000,000 to $90,000,000,000 without increasing prices.

"No increase in work hours is necessary. To lengthen hours with 10,000,000 unemployed would be to lose our gains and preserve our unemployment."

This would seem to effectually dispose of the contention that we must increase hours of work to boost production of munitions of war.

Words of Wisdom.

Moliere was once asked why it was that in some countries a king was judged to be fit to govern when he was 14, but was not allowed to marry until he was 18.

"Because," replied Moliere, "it is more difficult to look after a wife than a kingdom."

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

AN EXCITING AND SAD WEEK

This has been one of the most hectic and grim weeks in the recent history of the world. The French and British, after a series of disastrous blows which resulted in the loss of the beautiful French capital, call it the "darkest week" in their history. In America it has been marked with disappointment and grim determination.

The week began with Mussolini throwing his war machine upon his prostrate former allies. A few hours after this occurred, the president made a most important speech at Charlottesville, Va.

Stating that the future of the nation was once again at stake, President Roosevelt pledged all possible aid to the allies. He likewise stated that all possible speed would be effected so that the United States "might have equipment and training equal to the task of every emergency and every defense." Said the president: "All roads leading to the accomplishment of these objectives must be kept clear of obstructions. We will not slow down or detour. Signs and signs call for speed—full speed ahead." He added, "We need not and we will not, in any way, abandon our continuing effort to make democracy work within our borders. We still insist on the need for vast improvements in our own social and economic life." All Americans nations, he said, are convinced that military and naval victory for Germany "would endanger the institutions of democracy in the western world."

Later in the week when Fuehrer Hitler declared he had no intentions of attacking the Americas, the president in a press conference called attention to other promises that had been made by the leader of the German hordes. The people of the Americas are not willing to place confidence in Hitler's promises. Belgium was promised that Germany would not attack her, but the promise, as everyone knows, was not kept. The same was true as to other countries that had non-aggression pacts with Germany.

Regardless of the outcome of the struggle in Europe, the armament of America will continue at a rapid pace. The people of this country are determined to be prepared for any contingency, and to show the world that the democratic process does not break down in an emergency.

TAX BILL PASSES HOUSE

A large tax bill has been discussed in congress for many months. Congressional leaders decided against one in view of the fall elections. Sentiment changed immediately when it became apparent that a large defense program was necessary. Business men and large taxpayers, as well as small wage-earners, almost unanimously proclaimed that they were willing to bear a heavier load of taxation for the defense of America. The tax legislation, which will raise an additional billion dollars per year, was presented in the house on Tuesday and passed the same day. The bill was drawn and handled on the floor of the house of Jere Cooper, representative from the Eighth district of Tennessee. Representative Cooper is chairman of the finance committee of the ways and means committee of the house. The bill will be taken up Monday in the senate, where it is expected to pass with little or no opposition.

RFC LAW LIBERALIZED

The house of representatives on yesterday passed a bill to enable the RFC to make more liberal loans to war industries. This bill is another of the many measures to speed up the manufacture of munitions and other war materials.

MONROE DOCTRINE

Ever since the enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine, there has been a great deal of argument as to the territory included under its terms for protection by the United States. Some administrations and statesmen have considered it to include North America. Others felt it should apply to the Western hemisphere. This administration has apparently decided to end all dispute as to the region in which the United States will maintain the status quo. This week the bill was introduced in the foreign affairs committee of the house, and of the senate, to enact into law this nation's opposition to any transfer of sovereignty over territory in the entire Western hemisphere. Upon passage of this bill, it will be the duty of this country to oppose, by arms if necessary, any attempted acquisition of allied possessions by totalitarian governments in North or South America.

ADJOURNMENT

Some weeks ago the president and administration leaders expressed a desire that congress adjourn on June 22. It now appears that congress expects to remain close to Capitol Hill during this emergency. Most members of congress feel that congress should stay on the job during the present crisis even though that may result in congress being in session during all the summer.

It is doubtful if there will be an adjournment of congress for some time, but recesses will probably be arranged to extend over the republican convention June 24 and probably over the democratic convention July 15. Letters from citizens and organizations in the District are almost unanimous in insisting that congress remain in session.

HOUSE TAKES UP CHANGES IN LABOR RELATIONS ACT

Washington.—The house of representatives by a roll call vote of 292 to 106 voted to consider amendments to the national labor relations act, but deferred immediate consideration of the proposed changes until the pending naval appripriation bill was adopted.

AMERICAN LABOR CAN DO IT!

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

The hour has struck! The time has come to stop arguing about what American labor will do regarding the war. We have been comfortably scanning maps of Europe showing how the armies have zigzagged back and forth as each side won or lost a battle, as though we were watching a game of chess. But the events of the hour show that now the stake is the future of democracy—not only the democracy of France and England, but the democracy of the world—and this means the democracy of America!

It isn't a question as to whether we will send our boys overseas. This was never seriously considered. It's too late anyway. What is needed—and needed right away—is a fleet of planes and bombers of various kinds which will more than match those of the enemy. No country in the world can build them as fast and as fine as America. And this goes for other material needed by the allies.

Whatever may be the contribution made by scientists and engineers, no group can render a greater service in this zero hour of democracy's battle for its life than can the workers of our country. Organized labor has a record of patriotic achievement in the history of America of which it may be proud—a record which every fair-minded student of history will quickly recognize and honor. But there was never a greater chance to demonstrate the loyalty, the statesmanship, and the downright ability of American trade unionists than at this moment.

Organized labor has already declared itself. It stands without reservation for pure democracy and all that this implies. What the half-starved, brow-beaten, cringing nazi worker can be forced to do for his country, the free American worker will voluntarily—aye, wholeheartedly more than match. In this hour of democracy's peril he will prove that he has the brains, the skill, and the guts which will spell victory for the democracies—certainly, the democracy in which he lives. He has never yet failed. He will not fail now, when the future of America itself may be at stake.

Pessimists and gloom chanters will still say that nothing can be done. That all there's left for America to do is to isolate itself—its heart and its soul—and let the rest of the world, including the democracies, stew in their own juice Such action would belie our entire history. To do so would make us traitors to our best traditions.

American labor now stands at attention, ready to do its share in the redemption of a world which may otherwise go down into a century of darkness.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 15th day of November, 1937, Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale to Title Guaranty and Trust Company, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for record December 7, 1937, and recorded in Book 755, Page 325, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, the said deed of trust provides that, if the party of the Third Part, (Hamilton National Bank), for any reason, desires to replace the Trustee, it may do so and appoint a successor by a written instrument duly registered, and the Successor Trustee shall then have title to the property described vested in him, and shall have all the powers of the original trustee; and

Whereas, the said bank, the holder and owner of the indebtedness secured by the said deed of trust, by virtue of the authority given it in the said deed of trust, has heretofore removed the trustee therein named and appointed C. H. JERDEN as Successor Trustee, and he is now vested with all the powers and authority the original Trustee had, said instrument appointing the Trustee being registered in Book 800, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Courthouse in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcery, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, curtesy, and all other exemptions of every kind, the following described real estate, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The South forty-five (45) feet of the North Ninety-two (92) feet of Lots One (1) and Two (2), Block Thirty-eight (38), Highland Park Addition Number Two (2), as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said parts of lots make one tract of ground fronting forty-five (45) feet on the East line of Kelly street and extending back eastwardly, between parallel lines, a distance of one hundred (100) feet to the West line of Lot Three (3) in said block.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Substitute Trustee, as contained in Substitution of Trustee instrument filed for record on June 12, 1940, and as contained in Deed of Trust from W. F. Strickland and wife, Goldie Strickland, to J. Mitt Payne, Trustee, Book N, Volume 27, Page 302, Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, notice is hereby given that the property described below will be sold by me at the west door of the Courthouse of Hamilton County in Chattanooga, Tennessee, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash subject to all unpaid taxes on the

at 11 A.M. o'clock, to satisfy the balance due on promissory note from W. F. Strickland and wife, Goldie Strickland, to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, said note being dated Nov. 24, 1934, and secured by the Deed of Trust to J. Mitt Payne above mentioned. Said property is described as follows:

Lying and being in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, beginning at a point on the South side of Oak Street, four hundred, sixty-five and twenty-two hundredths (465.22) feet eastwardly from the Southeast corner of Oak and Baldwin Streets; thence southwardly parallel to Baldwin Street one hundred and fifty (150) feet, more or less, to a point on line midway between Oak Street and McCallie Avenue; thence eastwardly, along this line half way between Oak Street and McCallie Avenue, thirty-four (34) feet, more or less, to the right-of-way of the Southern Railway; thence northwardly, along said right-of-way, one hundred fifty (150) feet, more or less, to the South line of Oak Street; and thence westwardly, along the South line of Oak Street, forty-three (43) feet more or less, to the beginning.

This June 13th, 1940.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the first day of September, 1938, L. G. Boydston and wife, Bertha Boydston, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to J. E. Harris, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration September 7, 1938, and recorded in Book 767, page 245, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said L. G. Boydston and wife, Bertha Boydston, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, J. E. Harris, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Courthouse, in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcery, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Twenty (20), Ogden, Bushnell, Giles and Hulse's Re-Subdivision of Block Four (4), Normal Park Addition, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 6, page 41, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said lot fronts fifty (50) feet on the west line of Crewdson street and runs back westwardly, between parallel lines to the east line of west Crewdson street, on which it has a frontage of fifty-three 24-100 (53.24) feet; its north line being one hundred eleven and 33-100 (111.33) feet and its south line one hundred thirty (130) feet in length.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only and subject to any unpaid taxes.

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

Determination of British labor to back up the armed forces of the nation to the utmost by intensive war production was reflected at a special conference of trade union executive councils called by the general council of the Trades Union Congress. More than 1,000 delegates attended.

Reports just received in this country show that the conference faced the facts, unpleasant as they must have been, and courageously resolved to "carry on" no matter what the cost. William Holmes, who presided as chairman of the Trades Union Congress, minced no words, telling the delegates the country was in a "position of deadly danger."

War had never drawn so close to the British Isles, the narrow sea, the living bodies of the fighting men and the might of the British navy only separating the people at home from the conflict, Holmes declared. Leaders of British labor owed to the fighting forces more than a tribute of words; they owed a solemn pledge to them, to be redeemed by instant action, that the workers at home would support their sacrificial effort by a commensurate effort and sacrifice, he added.

Holmes went on to say that in the workshops and factories, in the fields and mines, the workers had towork as they had never worked before. He was followed by Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress, who emphasized the gravity of the situation and explained that it had determined the general council in supporting the far-reaching powers given the new British government.

They were powers, he said, which under normal conditions they would have been extremely reluctant to assent to, but the general council had shouldered its responsibility as he was confident the special conference also would in the hour of national danger.

The conference bore out the expectation of Sir Walter by adopting with practical unanimity a resolution which expressed its confidence in the general council and said:

"The conference indorses the action of the general council in giving its full support to the necessary measures that must be taken to protect our people against these dangers by organizing the entire resources of the country and striving to the utmost to defeat the forces of aggression."

The resolution took note of the determination of organized labor "to preserve the powers and functions of the trade unions and insure the maintenance of the hard-won liberties of the workers."

Delegates undoubtedly realized, however, that in the very nature of events, labor standards and liberties would be surrendered, temporarily at least. But they knew there was nothing else to do, as defeat by the totalitarian powers would mean the complete destruction of everything gained by more than a hundred years of labor effort. So they backed the drastic and sweeping power given the government to control every resource of the nation.

Labor's determination to place everything it has at the disposal of the nation was pictured at the close of the conference by Ernest Bevin, trade union leader and new minister of labor and national service. Speaking on a worldwide broadcast, he emphasized that the entire British people have put everything aside to defeat Hitlerism.

Communists, Bund Members, Barred From Civil Service Employment

Washington.—The United States civil service commission barred communists and members of the German-American Bund from future employment in federal jobs covered by civil service.

The order came as congress speeded legislation to check fifth column activities in the United States.

A commission spokesman refused to elaborate on the commission's terse announcement:

"The United States civil service commission has decided officially that, as a matter of policy, it will not certify to any department or agency the name of any person when it has been established he is a member of the communist party, the German Bund, or any other communist or nazi organization."

The order apparently would not affect those persons already in the government service who are found to be members of such organizations.

Bakers' Scraps

Brother H. E. Schaerer was in the office the other day to see us and reports that everything is coming along nicely in Tracy City. Brother Schaerer is spending his vacation this week in Chattanooga with relatives.

Glad to hear that Brother R. B. Pattie has returned to work after being off with dental trouble for the past two weeks.

Glad to report we received a telegram from Bakers' Local union in St. Louis informing us that the Lantz Baking company of that city is 100 per cent union. We have had the Grandma's cakes made by this company on our nonunion list of cakes for the past two weeks. Our national representative informed us when he was in town a few weeks ago that this cake was nonunion and we are more than glad to hear otherwise. We stress that if all union agreements has compulsive union label clauses that there would not be any trouble identifying union-made products. Unionists: Grandma's cakes made by the Lantz Baking company of St. Louis are worthy of your support.

Brother Carl Cain, of Cameron & Barr, is on vacation this week and I know one fellow that will be glad when Carl returns to work next week. Carl said that he was going to stick around town and rest for a few days.

Our list of nonunion cakes and pies include for this week the following: Holsum, Dortch, Gordon's, Alton Park, Jack's, Effie's, Royal, Travis, Ward's, Virginia Dare, Malbra, Frank's and Ambrosure. 100% union-made cakes and pies include: Hostess, Grennan, Erskine, Grandma's, Dolly Madison, Stone's, Dutch Maid, Mercer's and Hooper's. Help your union bakery worker and in turn help yourself.

McMillan bakery on Dodds avenue is a union bakery and the next time you are in that neighborhood why not drop in and get some of those delicious cakes that are made there. Brother Williard Lawrence is employed there and would like to see you drop by.

There will be a regular meeting this Saturday, June 22, at the labor hall on West Seventh street called to order at 2 o'clock. It is your duty to attend your local union meetings and support your local union in every way. Will be looking for you and don't disappoint me by not being there. Several important matters are to come before the meeting.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Marie Jones, Correspondent

Folks, we really have some swell news for you this week.

The Home Plate and Charlie's place are now 100% union houses.

When you are down near Main and Market street drop in at the 5-and-10 Sandwich Shop or Barfoot's for a good meal served by good union people.

Millard's No. 2 at Tenth and Georgia has opened and believe me it really is a honey! It is of modernistic design and everything is lovely, even to the waitresses. (You can see for yourself, don't take my word for it.)

We will have a meeting next Tuesday night, June 25, at 12:00 o'clock midnight at 108½ East Eighth street. All members attending are eligible for the cash prize to be given. If the name is called and the member is not there it will increase at our next meeting. So come one, come all. We assure you a good time.

* * *

You know, it makes me feel pretty bad when I pass some of our unfair restaurants and see some of the members of other locals walking past one of our union houses and eating in a nonunion place.

So long until 12 o'clock midnight next Tuesday—and I'll try to have more news for you.

RAILWAY CARMEN SETTLE BIG STRIKE

Mt. Vernon, Ill.—Over 1,200 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen were back at work for the Mount Vernon Car Manufacturing company, following settlement of a three-months' strike.

The management agreed to enter into immediate conferences with the union for adjustment of grievances that provoked the walkout. These included violations by the management of a contract with the union, incontestable distribution of work and other injustices.

Involved in the dispute is a clash between the Brotherhood, which is an A. F. of L. affiliate, and a CIO union. This is to be adjusted by a national labor relations board election to be held within 60 days.

President Felix H. Knight, of the Carmen, predicted the employes would vote overwhelmingly for the Brotherhood, which under its contract had won many benefits for the workers.

EDWARD J. WINTER

Edward J. Winter, President of the Stove Mounters' International Union, has been a member of his Union since 1911. He was elected Vice President in 1929 and became President of the Stove Mounters' International Union in 1938.

Mr. Winter has been one of the most progressive leaders in the Labor Union movement. He has constantly kept in step with the technological progress of the industry.

In addition to stove mounters the membership of the International Union includes enamelers, assemblers and fabricators of stoves and parts.

His address is: Mr. Edward J. Winter, President, Stove Mounters' International Union, 503 North Third Street, Belleville, Illinois.

FACSIMILE

STOVE MOUNTERS' LABEL

The Union Label of the Stove Mounters' International Union was adopted in 1898. This Label is granted only to manufacturers who operate strictly Union shops. Label is attached to the oven bottom of cook stoves, ranges, and to ash pit of base burners, furnaces, and to heaters. The Label is printed in blue and indicates that this product is made by Union labor.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Federal Old-Age Survivors Insur

Beginning January 1, 1940, if the worker dies leaving no dependents, who at the time of his death are entitled to monthly insurance payments, a lump-sum payment will be made to other persons specified in the law, as follows:

To the widow who is not entitled t monthly insurance payments or to the widower;

If there is o widow or widower, then to any child or children regardless of age;

If there is no widow or widower the primary insurance payment or child, then to the parents;

If there is no such relative, then to the person or persons who pay burial expenses.

The total amount of the lump-sum payment to surviving relatives mentioned above is six times earned by the worker date of his death. For if the monthly insurance would have been $30, sum death payment to the ing relative would be $

If there is no such ing relative, the persons who paid the burial may be repaid for the u to six time the prim ance payment.

In other words, if the insurance payment was the burial costs $150, sum payment would be

If the burial expenses the lump-sum payment $180, or six times the surance payment.

Coke Workers Strike For Union Shop

TFL Exec. Board Will Meet July 6 At Nashville

President Gerald Foley, of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, has called a meeting of the executive board for July 6 at Nashville. Purpose of the session is to consider records of candidates for governor, congress and other posts.

The Chattanooga member of the board is V. W. Hallmark.

This is the first meeting since the convention just held recently in Memphis.

NEW HOME FOR LABOR RECEIVES ADDED SUPPORT

Plans to move into the new labor temple are rapidly progressing, according to reports received from Chairman W. W. Orr and Secretary Erskine Mabee. Preliminary remodeling amounting to $1,500 will be done in order for the building to be ready by Labor Day, they said.

Approximately $6,000 in cash has been turned in by local unions as follows: Painters, $1,500; Carpenters, $1,500; Brewery Workers, $1,000; Street Car union, $800; Pressmen, $300; Plumbers, $500; Elevator Constructors, $102.80; Cement Workers, $50, and Molders No. 58, $150.

Actual piedges are listed as follows:

Bakers, $1,000.

Culinary Workers, $1,000.

Hodcarriers, $1,000.

Woodworkers, one day's pay per member.

Carpenters No. 1950, one day's pay per member.

School Custodians, one day's pay per member.

Cement Workers, one day's pay per member.

All these are in addition to those already presented. It is hoped that since the building has actually been purchased, other local unions will hasten action in coming into the project.

Owners of the present meeting hall have been notified that the place will be given up.

Central Body Concurs With Plumbers' Desire for Publicly-Owned Waterworks System

Cites Successes Shown by Electric Utility System and Names Committee to Study Ways and Means for Securing Purchase of Water System.

Central Labor union last Monday evening formally approved of action taken several months ago by Local 43, Plumbers and Steamfitters, who presented a resolution asking that plans be laid to secure a publicly-owned waterworks system for Chattanooga. The present system is owned by the City Water company, itself owned by a New York corporation.

Central Body studied the resolution for quite a while, and last Monday evening the request made by the plumbers was passed without a dissenting vote.

Adoption of the resolution created a committee from Central Body to take necessary steps for accomplishing the purchase and operation of the water system.

Attention was called to the successful operation of the electric utility system here, which has already shown a very nice profit as well as a reduction in the bills of the consumers. It was also shown that the city had not lost any tax revenue in the purchase and operation of the electric utility.

The resolution sent from the plumbers' union says in full:

Whereas, taxpayers of the city of Chattanooga have been reading with feelings of joy the statement from our publicly-owned electric power system that already some half-million dollars have been deducted from their light bills; and,

Whereas, not only have the taxpayers' power bills been reduced under public ownership, but there has been no loss in taxes and a nice profit has been made by the public power system in addition to all these other benefits; and,

Whereas, these savings, taxes and profits have been kept in this community with no loss in efficiency, courtesy and service; and,

Resolved, by Local Lo. 43, United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters, That the public's attention be drawn to the successful operation of publicly-owned electric utilities and that a comparison be made concerning the operation of a private-owned New York water utility; be it further

Resolved, That a committee be formed whose duties it shall be to attempt to secure nelessary legislation that will enable the city of Chattanooga to purchase, own and operate its municipal water system.

Not Our Worry.

In fifty years' time, predicts a writer of health notes, kissing will have died out. In fifty years' time we shan't care.

Street Car Aux. Will Meet Again Monday, July 8

The auxiliary to the Street Car and Bus Union No. 1212 will hold another session on the second Monday in July, which will be July 8. They will meet at the home of Mrs. M. R. Morris at 2001 East Twenty-seventh street at 8 p.m.

Last Monday, June 24, the auxiliary had a fine picnic at Warner park, which was attended by thirty-eight members.

Teamster Officials In Bristol

H. P. Blankett and J. T. Burgess spent several days in Bristol last week, negotiating with the Rutherford Freight Lines. The results have been very satisfactory so far, and will affect about 175 men.

Mr. Burgess will be stationed there until everything is settled and the contract signed.

Label League To Meet Friday

Chattanooga Label League will hold a session Friday evening, June 28, at the Patten Hotel in Room 908. Time of meeting has been set at 8 o'clock by Mrs. Ruby Williams, president.

TEACHER TALK

Congratulations to President and Mrs. Millsaps on the arrival of a baby girl to this all-union family! Both mother and daughter are doing well.

Miss Bonnie Willbanks entertained the Modern Literature group last week, when Miss Lassie Munsey and Paul Long reviewed Pierre van Paassen's "Days of Our Years" and William Lyon Phelps' "Autobiography with Letters."

The bridge group will play on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Percy Hixson on McCahill road in Red Bank. If you have not notified and wish further information, call Miss Virginia Munsey at 6-2385.

Hodcarrier Secretary Is Improving

Joe Shipley, financial secretary of Local 846, who was seriously injured last week, is reported to be resting very well at a local infirmary.

His friends hope that he will soon be able to be out again.

NOTICE

The executive board of Local 846, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, will meet on FRIDAY, JULY 5, at its regular meeting place.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

DO YOU KNOW? . . .

Old Victoria records make wonderful heat-resisting table pads for hot dishes. They are splendid under individual service mats on a polished table, as they are just a size larger than the plate, and flat enough not to show.

Panama hats are not made in Panama, but in Ecuador, S. A.

The human race can very well get along without meat provided it drinks plenty of milk and eats plenty of cheese. It has been proven that wonderful feats of endurance have been accomplished by milk drinking vegetarians.

Charcoal is used to whiten sugar. It removes the discoloration of raw sugar.

From the common sunflower are made soap, candles, hair oil, cooking oil, medicine, varnish, dye and foods.

Silkworms eat any kind of mulberry leaves, but the white leaves result in the finest silk.

Blankets of glass wool (fine threads of spun glass) are used to protect garden plants in winter.

SHOP HOUND

If you're garden-minded you can now buy a ready-built portable greenhouse of red cedar and double strength glass. Can be assembled or moved in a few minutes. Doubles gour gardening season and your garden pleasures. Can even be heated if desired.

GLAMOR

If you wish to preserve the color of your hair and retain its natural oils be sure to wear a large hat when out in the hot sun. Long hours on the beach are particularly hard on the hair, making it dry and brittle. If you are being exposed to the sun very frequently it is advisable to take hot oil treatments. These are very good to combat dry and falling hair.

For the older woman whose hair is white careful weekly washing with pure liquid soap is essential. A thorough rinsing to rid the hair of all the soap is best achieved by using a shower and when the hair is almost dry a vegetable bluing may be combed into the hair to keep it soft and white. Combing the bluing into the hair instead of rinsing is preferable as it distributes the bluing evenly and prevents streaking when hair is set.

If your last year's leghorn hat needs bleaching, lay it on a flat surface and go over with peroxide applied with a cloth. Keep flat until perfectly dry.

Your old white felt or pastel felt hats for that matter, may be rubbed up with a piece of french chalk and brushed. They will then look like new.

New bathing suits are made of shining yellow sateen processed to permit the sun's rays to penetrate. No longer will an evening gown disclose the exact spot where the tan leaves off and the bathing suit starts.

A smart new suit is made of polka dot satin with an oversized beach bag to match. An encircling zipper can turn the bag into a skirt or hood, reversible, if desired.

Then there is the bathing suit with the sarong draped skirt. These are best in printed jersey.

The new triple tiered skirts are smart on organdy party dresses with the old-fashioned triangle shawl worn over the hair or shoulders. At the moment shawls are being introduced into every type of costume, being just as effective for sport wear and the beach as they are with evening clothes.

FOR BETTER HOME-MAKING

When deciding where to place your piano in your living room, if possible choose an inside wall because this insures a more even temperature. Heat and cold affect the tension of the strings, the keys and even the finish. Steam heat tends to dry and crack the fine woods and finishes, and dampness will rust the strings. It's possible to place a half-pound of slaked lime in the bottom of the piano to absorb the excess dampness in the air. Too warm a room may encourage the breeding of moths in the felts. It is advisable to hang little bags of camphor inside the case where they will not interfere with the action.

Bric-a-brac on top of the case is likely to cause unpleasant vibrations.

The keys are best cleaned with cold water and a soft cloth. They should be wiped dry quickly to avoid yellowing. Tuning the piano once or twice a year is essential.

Any piano will sound sharp if there are no rugs on the floor or no hangings in the room, whereas a deep pile rug under the piano will add richness and depth of tone. Proper care of your piano will reward you with years of lasting enjoyment.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Car hopping, a comparatively new occupation, may be in for a "new dispensation." The California industrial commission has ruled that tips cannot be counted as wages. If the ruling is sustained by the state supreme court, the car-hopping girls must be paid $16 week.

The practice of rewarding girl hops with tips only is general throughout the country, but may now be on its way out.

On June 3, 50,000 women employed in New York restaurants went under an order fixing a basic rate of 20 cents for service employes, 30 cents for others, exclusive of tips. Curb or car hoppers are simply restaurant employes who work outside. Often they must buy uniforms much more costly than any used by inside waitresses. Some California employers required uniforms costing up to $25 and $40 with two per season called for.

PANTRY PALAVER

CHEF'S HINTS: Make a spice bag by mixing three sprigs of parsley, six whole cloves, one bay leaf and a little thyme and tie them loosely in a small square of white cheese cloth. These will give a professional air to your soups and stews.

Mix a tablespoon of prepared mustard with a half cup of mayonnaise, and teaspoon of lemon juice. This does wonders for hot spinach, broccoli or cauliflower.

Either bakery or homemade cup cakes will be a grand surprise to the family if the tops are cut off and some of the inside scooped out and the cavity filled with either a teaspoon of jelly, marshmallow, stuffed dates, mixed nuts, or any delicacy on hand. Replace tops and frost all over to cover up where cakes were cut.

Baked apples or stuffed peppers will keep their shape if they are baked in muffin tins.

Here is a quick inexpensive desert for which the "makings" are nearly always on the kitchen shelf. Pour a cup and a half of milk over 4 graham crackers crumbled. Stir in 2 beaten eggs, dash of salt, 2 tblspns. sugar, ½ tspn. vanilla. Fold in 8 quartered marshmallows. Place over a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes or until firm. Chill and serve.

BABY TALK

Remember when grandmother forced you into a corner every spring and made you take "sulphur and molasses" to clear your blood? Scientists are finding out that there was some basis for this agony. Molasses is well up in foods containing iron, but there is a more pleasant way to get your needed supply of iron and calcium. Make a drink of 4 cups of whole milk, 2 or 3 tblspns. molasses, and a dash of nutmeg. Have the milk cold and stir in the molasses. It's both good and beneficial.

Bakers' Scraps

Brothers Lansing Manning and Ed Wilkey are on vacation this week. Both of the brothers are employed at Cameron & Barkery. We received a card from them saying they are having the time of their life. Sure we missed them this week.

Virginia Dare Cakes Are Nonunion

Brother Harry Foster has been off from work for the past few days with a cut finger. Hope he will be able to return to work in a short while.

Ward's Cakes Are Nonunion

Mrs. Sallie Mankin, of Memphis, Tenn., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. O. C. Mabee, on Lee avenue.

Holsum Cakes Are Nonunion

Dorothy Camp and Bessie Lee Sanders, of the Erskine bakery, are on vacation. Dot is visiting in Washington, D. C., and Bessie is visiting her husband and children. I didn't find out where Bessie was going.

Dortch Cakes Are Nonunion

We had a good attendance at our regular meeting last Saturday and obligated the following new members: Lillian Cobb, Carrie Dowell and Johnnie Grant. It sure does the old heart good to see such an interest taken in the local by the members. John Mahoney was indorsed by our local union for state senator.

Frank's Cookies and Jack's Cakes and Cookies Are Nonunion

Sorry to report that Bessie Lee Newbille is back on our sick list. Hope she will be well again soon. By the way, Bessie celebrated her birthday last Sunday. These greetings are a bit late, but we wish you happiness all through the years.

Malbra Cakes and Effie's Pies Are Nonunion

We wish to appeal to the members of organized labor to help us in the fight we have waged on the nonunion bakery products that are made in and out of our city. A complete list of these products include: Virginia Dare cakes, Ward cakes, Holsum cakes, Dortch cakes, Frank's cookies, Malbra cakes, Effie's pies, Alton Park cakes and pies, Gordon's cakes and pies and Ambrosure cakes. Remember when you buy union-made products you are furthering the cause of unionism and thereby helping yourself.

All Chattanooga bakery products, Orient flour and Crystal pearl meal is unfair to organized labor. Please do not patronize these products and ask your friends to not purchase them.

One hundred per cent cakes and pies are: Hostess, Grennan, Erskine's, Grandma's, Dolly Madison, Stone's, Dutch Maid, Hooper's, Mercer's and McMillian. You can't go wrong by purchasing any of the above mentioned products.

CIO MEMBERS IN N. Y. GIVE LEWIS THE "BIRD"

(The following is taken from the N. Y. Times account of John L. Lewis' appearance at the convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers:)

Mr. Lewis, who has predicted that President Roosevelt would go down to "ignominous defeat" if he sought a third term, made no reference to the president in his address. The members of the Amalgamated are strongly pro-Roosevelt and the delegates lost no time in apprising Mr. Lewis of their feelings.

As he walked into the convention hall to the accompaniment of warm applause from most sections of the gathering, a New York tailor shouted: "Three cheers for Roosevelt." The response was overwhelming. Mr. Lewis listened impassively and Mr. Hillman, who has publicly deslared his support of the president, grinned.

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

Electricians Local B-846

The election of officers was held Thursday night, June 20. Much interest was shown by all members in this election. The following were selected to hold office for the coming two years:

O. H. Cherry, president; Frank Vandergriff, vice-president; W. D. Smith, recording secretary; T. N. Brown, financial secretary; L. H. Beckum, treasurer; Lee Spriggs, business manager.

Business Manager Spriggs was selected to represent this local at an electrical workers convention at Paducah, Ky., this week-end.

Practically all of our members are working and Local B-846 is progressing nicely; we think we have one of the best locals in the south and I am sure we will have if the members will continue to take the interest in the welfare of the local as they have in the past month.

We were indeed glad that the Tennessee Federation of Labor passed "the bill" the electrical workers have prepared to present to the state legislature in regard to proper spacing of conductors, wiring of houses and several other things in regard to the electrical industry which need to be corrected. We hope that all good union men will support this bill and we expect our state legislators to help us pass this bill.

Business Manager Spriggs reports that a grievance with the power board in regard to vacations for some of our members has been settled satisfactorily.

There will be no meeting Thursday, July 4, but all members are urged to attend the next regular meeting on Thursday, July 18, at which time all new officers will be sworn in.

Now That You Mention It.

A cute little lass approached the floorwalker and asked, "Do you have notions on this floor?"

The floorwalker looked her over, and then remarked: "Yes, madam, but we suppress them during business hours."

TRAINING 50,000 AIR PILOTS ANNUALLY SEEN

Washington.—If the necessity arises, America can train 50,000 air pilots for the armed forces during the year, according to Robert H. Hinckley, chief of the civil aeronautics authority.

This enormous backlog of potential military flyers can be created without "any loss of efficiency or safety," Hinckley contended.

"Our far-flung organization for training," he said, "is something to be proud of. It is neither a dream nor a regret, but a hard, comforting fact."

Apprehensive.

Dot—Now, Joe, dear, if I do all the cooking for a month, what do I get?

Joe—You'll get my life insurance and your freedom.

Training With a Purpose

Labor is interested in the compulsory youth service plan outlined by the President at one of his semi-weekly press conferences. Generally speaking, the President said the plan envisaged some form of compulsory military service for the youth of the land.

Age limits of 19 to 21, for both men and women are spoken of as the desirable minimum and maximum, although much of the rest of the plan is still vague except that the one-year compulsory government service would not be strictly military, in the sense that drilling, military tactics, and the use of firearms would not be stressed.

In modern war, technicians and skilled workers behind the lines are as important as the tank drivers and airplane pilots and generals. If the draftees are to be taught trades, labor has a more than direct interest in the proposed conscription because heretofore in many skills, teaching new men and women certain kinds of trades, simply added to the unemployed in seasonable and idle industries, or tended to depress the wage levels in others by the simple law of supply and demand.

If the government will make sure that what these boys and girls learn in their one-year service will stand them in hand in peace time and not add to the ranks of the unemployed, all will be well. Or if it teaches them skills useful only to the military branches of the government, everything will still be all right. However, if the training given usurps regulated apprenticeship programs, then organized labor is more than interested.

Proportionate Representation

Labor is saying a lot about national defense and with a right and a vengeance. On labor falls the greatest burden of national defense. Labor gets the loudest call for manpower, taxation and sacrifice.

It is well and good for congress to seriously consider the building and financing of 50,000 planes, to talk of tanks in multiples of thousands and of guns in multiples of millions. But when the last "aye" is recorded labor will have to build the planes, rivet the tanks and mold the guns and then, to boot, from the workers will come the hands and eyes and brains to man the implements of war toward their final destination.

Nor should the voice and counsel of labor be consigned to the anteroom. Labor must have its place at the council table. The representation of labor must be proportionate representation. The rights must be commensurate with the duties.

STREET CAR AND BUS NOTES
LOCAL 1212
T. R. UNDERWOOD, JR.

Safety -- Courtesy -- Service

Well, here we are back on the air again. Hope every one is well and happy now. A thousand pardons for failing to report last week.

Bro. Frank Bailey is still off on account of sickness and is not expected to be able to get back on duty for several weeks yet, so let's all visit this brother and render what service we can to him.

Bro. C. W. Searcy reports that his mother from Atlanta, Ga., is at his home in Red Bank very ill. Brother Searcy lost his father a few months ago and it is believed that his mother is still grieving and is near a nervous breakdown. We send our sympathy to Mrs. Searcy and hope that she is soon well and out again.

Bro. Ted Stewart is strutting around the car barn like a peacock now. Why? Oh, haven't you heard? His wife is visiting her daughter in Peoria, Ill. Oh, well, you know we can't tell too much. So if Brother Stewart will give me a quarter I won't tell anything I hear or see.

Bros. C. S. Dover and L. E. Hall have been sent to Nashville, Tenn., to help train some of the street car men there, due to the fact that all street cars in Nashville are to be replaced with modern, up-to-date buses. These brothers have quite a hard task before them, so we wish them all the luck possible and hope they will help to make the change very successful.

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our patrons for the splendid way they are cooperating with us in getting the transfer when paying their fare and also leaving the bus by the rear door. This system is saving us a lot of time and avoiding a lot of confusion in loading and loading at the same time. It also avoids traffic congestions, thereby making it easier for every one concerned.

The ball team of Local 1212 defeated the Simmons Coal Co., Tuesday night, 9 to 1, which was the first defeat for the Simmons team.

Anderson & Cunningham Barber Shop, located at 337 Market street, is 100% union. They have some of the very finest barbers that can be found and their work is guaranteed to be satisfactory. Anderson asks to give them a chance and they will prove it all to you.

Big Anti-Trust Group Fought by AFL Unions

Aurora, Ill.—The strike waged here by the machinists, blacksmiths, firemen and oilers, pattern-makers and teamsters, all A. F. of L. affiliates, against the Western-Austin Company, a large manufacturer of dump cars, road building equipment and other machinery, has developed into national importance due to the fact that the company is supported by the Fox River Valley Manufacturers Association, a notorious anti-labor "open shop" organization.

Last January the A. F. of L. unions won a National Labor Relations Board election at the company's plant by a majority of 386 to 45. Later the company merged its Harvey (Ill.) plant with the Aurora factory and nearly all of the 650 workers joined the union, which began negotiations with the management for wage increases and a signed agreement. The wage increases would restore pay scales which prevailed prior to a reduction two years ago when a speed-up system was introduced in the place of a bonus plan. Reasonable as these terms were the management refused to grant them, thus forcing the unions to call a strike which was voted by nearly 100 per cent of the members and tied up the plant.

Charging that the anti-union stand of the company reflects the policies dictated by the Fox River Valley Manufacturers Association, which is headed by a Western-Austin official, Grand Lodge Representative J. W. Ramsey of the machinists' association, said:

"The association has been known for its blacklist system. It tries to force employes who want to be fair not to sign agreements with unions. It has been responsible for injunction and damage suits against unions; for importation of 'guards'; for distorted advertisements in the newspapers aimed at inciting mob violence against union men, and for other notorious anti-union practices."

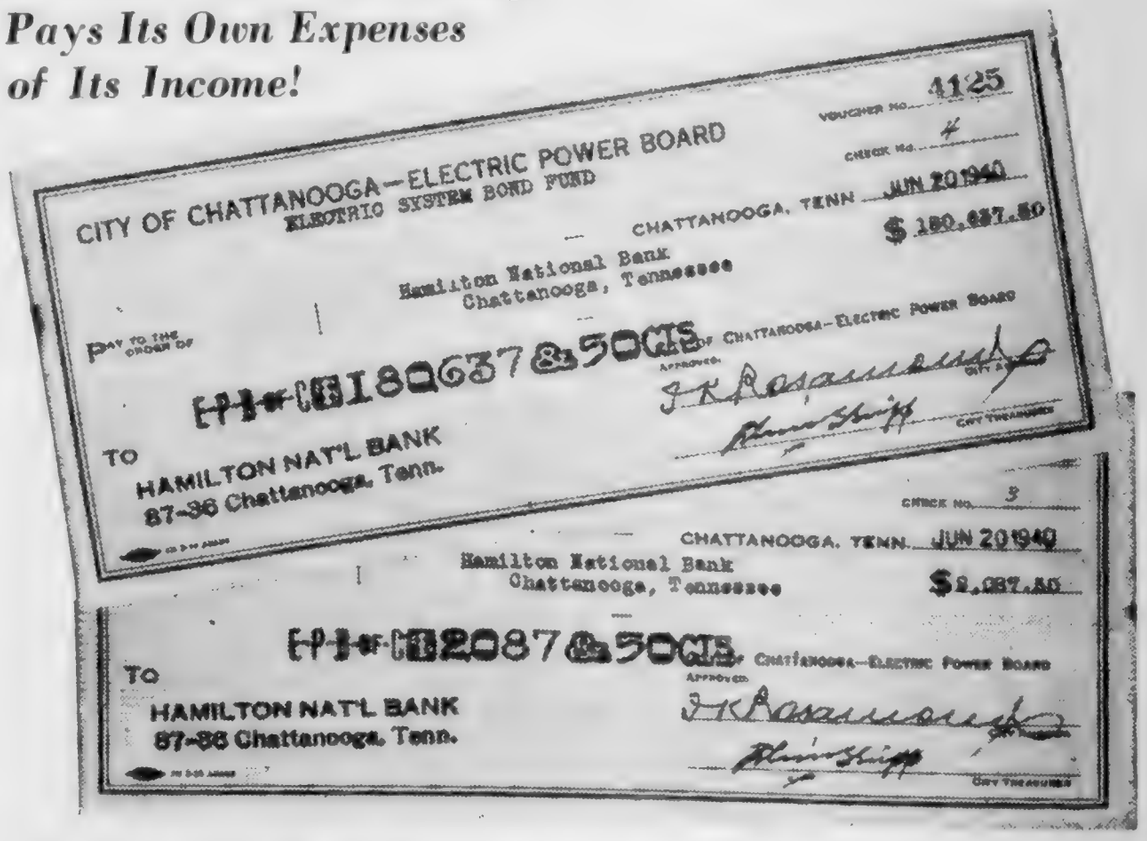
Public Power Service Is Cheap and Pays Its Own Expenses Out of Its Income!



INCOME OF ELECTRIC POWER BOARD PAYS ITS BOND INTEREST

ONE of the necessary uses for its income from customers' electric service bills is the payment of interest on the outstanding bond issues of the Electric Power Board.

On July 1st, interest in an amount of $182,725.00 becomes due and Power Board checks for this amount have been paid to the Hamilton National Bank as paying agent for the bonds.

This issue of $13,300,000 in bonds is widely held by investors, insurance companies, banks, and others, and each month the Electric Power Board sets aside from its income $30,460.00 to pay such interest when due.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

st News of Week — TVA ax Replacement Bill Passes

Yesterday was the happiest day the congressional experience of ar representative. The TVA tax placement bill passed.

This is the story of what can be e by united and persistent work the part of an interested group Congress, with the splendid sup- t of the people and taxpayers k home who would have been disastrously and unfairly af- ted.

Hearings began in early January fore the military affairs com- ttee of the house on tax re- cement. Every possible effort s made to secure favorable ac- n by that committee. Dozens of nesses came from the district present the situation in their pective counties. Hundreds of ent letters and telegrams were eived by members of the com- tee. Various compromise pro- als were made—all was of no il. The committee finally voted table all proposals. The picture exceedingly dark and despair-

The only remaining chance, and appeared to be a slight one, was have the legislation placed on e bill in the senate as a rider. relief bill was selected. Sen- r McKellar worked untiringly to this done, and with the as- ance of Senator Stewart and er senators in the valley states, y finally succeeded. Then it was essary to get the conferees to sent the amendment to the se for a vote. This was accom- hed, and on yesterday the bill presented. Only thirty min- was allowed for debate in fa- of the bill. Many old timers in gress said he would fail on the r of the house. It was not only essary to combat the substantial position to TVA, but also to ask members of the house to over- the important military affairs mittee. Furthermore, many resentatives outside of the val- argued that this was placing additional burden on their con- uents. The leadership of the itary affairs committee fought erly against the bill.

he entire Tennessee delegation, other congressmen in the TVA , were untiring in their ef- s to secure every possible vote. our rescue came congressmen m other sections. Finally, after ectic fight on the floor, the vote 205 for, and 178 against the slation.

What the Bill Does

Counties in the district would have lost almost $400,000 annually in taxes had this bill not passed. It provides that 10% of the gross revenue from the sale of electricity be allocated between the states in the Tennessee valley as a tax replacment fund. As between the states one-half of the amount is disbursed according to the proportion of ownership of power property by the TVA, and the other half is disbursed in proportion to the electric sales in the various states. One provision of the bill provides that in any event the ad valorem taxes lost by the counties, state, and taxing districts, must be replaced. The percentage taken out of gross receipts reduces until it reaches 5%, but the minimum provision for al valorem replacement is not affected.

Counties therefore will receive full replacement for property purchased from the Tennessee Electric Power company. As to land inundated by the building of dams by the TVA, only 40% of the value of such land is allocated to power. Therefore, the counties as to this land will only receive 40% replacement. Your representative has always favored full replacement to the counties, and offered an amendment to the military affairs committee which would have given full replacement on reservoir lands. Under parliamentary procedure this amendment could not be offered to the senate rider, so that the counties having reservoirs from TVA dams will still suffer some tax loss. On a whole the district is exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure a measure as favorable as the one enacted on yesterday.

The surplus, after making payments to the counties, goes to the various states. Alabama will lose a substantial amount by this amendment, but feeling that it was fair and equitable the entire Alabama delegation supported it—that is indeed real statesmanship. Payments will be made monthly to the counties, beginning July 1. Thus a major obstacle to the further progress and development of our section has been removed.

Thanks for Help

The district owes its gratitude to many members of congress for yesterday's victory. In the first place the house would never have had a chance to vote on the bill had not Senator McKellar been able to attach it as a rider to the relief legislation. Every member of the Tennessee delegation worked untiringly and did his best. This includes the able Republican representatives, Carroll Reece and John J. Jennings. Jere Cooper, the dean of the delegation, deserves much credit.

Statesmen from other sections came to our rescue. Space only permits reference to a few of them. Among those who spoke and worked for the legislation were House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas (he was born in Roane County); Ewing Thomason of Texas (he was born and raised at Shelbyville, Tenn.); John Sparkman of Alabama (his people came from White county, Tennessee); John McCormack of Massachusetts; John Murdock of Arizona, and Carl Hinshaw of California, made speeches for the bill.

100% union. We would like to call your attention to the fact that there is another Millard's Cafe, located at the corner of Tenth and Georgia avenue, which is also 100% union. It is at the rear of Hendedson & Coleman's new store, so if you happen to be around in that part of town just drop in and get acquainted and don't forget, he has some mighty fine lunches and sandwiches there. You know, they just naturally taste better in a union cafe.

Hodge's Drug Store, at the corner of Fourth and Market streets, is also 100% union. They handle drugs, lunches, candies, stationery, shaving material, postal cards, and just most anything that you might want.

Charlie Franklin's Cafe, on Market street between Fourth and Fifth streets, is also 100 union.

The Home Plate Lunch Room, at the corner of Seventh and Cherry is now 100% union.

Rex's Lunch Room at the corner of Eighth and Cherry streets, is 100% union.

Clyde Barfoot's Restaurant, at Main and Market, is 100% union.

I have listed these separately so that they will all be noticed and so that all of our members will know where to spend their money. There are just losts and lots more, but I have just mentioned the new ones. Some of these places are just beginning to operate under a union card. I am not advertising for any of them, but just letting the union people know that it is all O. K. to patronize them.

Our next meeting will be held in the Wheland Hall at the Memorial Auditorium, Thursday, July 4, at 6:30 p.m., and Friday, July 5th, at 10 a.m. Let's all be at one of these meetings and help to transact the business, so that we will all know what is taking place. We will have some ver. interesting subjects to bring before you, so please don't fail to be there.

Well, so long, I will see you at the meetings.

HOUSE ADOPTS HIGHER BENEFITS FOR JOBLESS

Washington.—The house of representatives passed and sent to the senate the revised McGehee bill amending the District of Columbia unemployment compensation act so as to provide larger benefits for the jobless coming underits jurisdiction. The minimum benefit to the unemployed remains at $6 per week but the maximum is raised from $15 to $18. The waiting period is shortened from three weeks to not more than two weeks and a claimant is not penalized for obtaining special work during the waiting period. The bill allows $1 a week for dependents up to $3 provided the total for a family does not exceed $18 per week until a total of $300 is paid. The eligibility provision is changed from 13 weeks to 25 times an individual's weekly benefit amount, or $250, whichever is the lesser.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 15th day of November, 1937, Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale to Title Guaranty and Trust Company, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for record December 7, 1937, and recorded in Book 755, Page 325, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, the said deed of trust provides that, if the party of the Third Part, (Hamilton National Bank), for any reason, desires to replace the Trustee, it may do so and appoint a successor by a written instrument duly registered, and the Successor Trustee shall then have title to the property described vested in him, and shall have all the powers of the original trustee; and

Whereas, the said bank, the holder and owner of the indebtedness secured by the said deed of trust, by virtue of the authority given it in the said deed of trust, has heretofore removed the trustee therein named and appointed C. H. JERDEN as Successor Trustee, and he is now vested with all the powers and authority the original Trustee had, said instrument appointing the Trustee being registered in Book 800, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, C. H. Jerden, as Trustee, will on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Courthouse in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcery, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, curtesy, and all other exemptions of every kind, the following described real estate, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The South forty-five (45) feet of the North Ninety-two (92) feet of Lots One (1) and Two (2), Block Thirty-eight (38), Highland Park Addition Number Two (2), as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said parts of lots make one tract of ground fronting forty-five (45) feet on the East line of Kelly street and extending back eastwardly, between parallel lines, a distance of one hundred (100) feet to the West line of Lot Three (3) in said block.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the first day of September, 1938, L. G. Boydston and wife, Bertha Boydston, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to J. E. Harris, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration September 7, 1938, and recorded in Book 767, page 245, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said L. G. Boydston and wife, Bertha Boydston, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, J. E. Harris, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Courthouse, in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Twenty (20), Ogden, Bushnell, Giles and Hulse's Re-Subdivision of Block Four (4), Normal Park Addition, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 6, page 41, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said lot fronts fifty (50) feet on the west line of Crewdson street and runs back westwardly, between parallel lines to the east line of west Crewdson street, on which it has a frontage of fifty-three 24-100 (53.24) feet; its north line being one hundred eleven and 33-100 (111.33) feet and its south line one hundred thirty (130) feet in length.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This June 11, 1940.
J. E. HARRIS, Trustee.

A SHOP "SERMON"

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

It's a mistake to scorn a mechanic simply because he has learned his trade in what is commonly known as a "one horse shop." Some day he may out-class you. You may have had high-school experience in a first-class shop where everything needed was provided for you, but when the time comes that you've got to shift for yourself, you may be at a loss to know what to do. The man from the "one horse shop" has had all-round experience. He has learned, for example, how to use his brains to make a tool of his hands when that is necessary to do a special job.

In most cases he's the fellow who is pushed ahead, not because he has worked in a "one horse shop," but because experience in this kind of a shop has made him more versatile and resourceful than the man who has a swelled head because he got his training in an aristocratic shop where everything was provided for him. Even in these days of "mass production," we still need men who have been all the way "down the line," instead of simply knowing how to twist a nut as the machine passes their station.

An experienced workman knows better than to look at the head of the chisel when he is doing a chipping job. It is more important to keep his eyes on the job than it is to look at the tool with which he is working. The carpenter doesn't look at the hammer when he is driving a nail. He looks at the nail that he's driving home. Some men spend so much time looking for "tools of production" that they never turn out any kind of a job. They are so concerned about platforms and programs that they fail to transmute them into action.

When a mechanic has carelessly made a piece of work too small, it is poor practice to bend the gauge to fit the job. It not only badly affects the man who bent the gauge, but it hurts the mechanic who later uses the same gauge. Some of us are doing this sort of thing in our daily living. We are trying to lower standards in order to accommodate them to our own crooked deeds. Instead of trying to measure up to what we know is fair and square, we attempt to pull down the level for everybody in order to suit our mental and moral convenience.

Every mechanic knows that there's always a scaly surface on a piece of rough cast iron. Before he can give it a polish it is necessary to cut away the scale. Nor is it possible to tell what a man may become unless you get at something beneath his vest. Somebody once said that men are wrong when they "look out" for oportunities. They should look "in," for that's where they come from. The same principle applies in judging men. Sometimes it appears like a hopeless job when you look at the outward appearance of some men, but, given the right kind of treatment, some of the worst of them have become top-notchers.

BY HARRY BEDOIT

Listening to the roll call of members and wondering why so many absent themselves from the meeting last Wednesday night the suggestion was made to amend the by-laws. It was proposed to raise the fine to a larger amount and by that increase attendance. Being in a fault-finding mood, I would like to see something done about those that leave after roll call. Why should just a few faithful members have to do all of the work? The union belongs to all of us and why can't we all do our part by attending the meetings. Of course, I know what you will say—oh, there is too much argument, and another will say just a few run it anwhow—no need of me going. Of course we have arguments—we need sensible arguments—have to have them to make us grow. And as far as a few run it anyhow—no need of just a flimsy excuse and shows weakness on your part. Think this over, members. If a chain has to be strong all the links have to take their share of the load.

A committee was appointed to see about a picnic to be held in the very near future and a report is expected by next meeting.

A committee on initiation was appointed to see if we couldn't make the initiation more impressive.

Two applicants were initiated last meeting.

Our sick and accident list is nearing the zero mark. Dick Godsey is the only one out at present. Charley McRoy is back at work. Charley says getting hit with a ball bat didn't hurt much. Goober Johnson says what hurt Charley was getting in some poison oak. Goober says if you want to protect your henhouse plant poison oak around it.

Buck Layson is going in for chariots. Anyone having a pair of cart wheels see Buck. He is going to make a chariot for Little Caesar (Shorty Lamon). Little Boy Blue says he will bring in some mountain laurel to make a crown and Roy Wells says he will loan his jenny to pull the chariot. Lewis Williams says they can use his ball park for the exhibition.

Long-Toot Lamay says Arch Alley would make a good lawyer and you should see him in action.

Grandma Denton is promoted to engineer, and he sure can blow that whistle.

For a good ghost story let Lord Plushbottom tell about Old Man Ike's experience in the woods of Georgia. It will make your hair curl.

Herman Taylor was telling how big that fish was that Charley Reed lost when he went fishing. We always knew that Herman was truthful.

See the next issue of this paper about Jake Smith and what he saw in the Crystal. Jake can tell you, he knows all, tells everything from the cradle to the grave.

Next week: Skunk Travis, Wimpy and Baby Dumpling in a hot dog eating contest.

P. S. Si Perkins has material on ground and will start that skyscraper soon.

Wanted: One Alibi.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Marie Jones, Correspondent

Hello, everybody. Not much has happened this week. I guess this is just one of those weeks that just happen after a good one.

It seems that every once in a while I get absent-minded and forget to mention what some of our gang has been doing.

Ellen Hodges has gone back to the State Cafe after a short vacation. Mr. Chris Angelo, at the State, has been ill. We are glad to hear that he is feeling better.

Our international secretary-treasurer, Mr. Hugo Ernst, was here over the week-end. We took him to dinner at the Home Plate and then over to the Rathskeller. He seemed to enjoy it very much. I just wish that some of our members could have been with us. Perhaps we could have entertained him much better.

Gladys Cox Williams is at Milliard No. 2. They opened last week, and take my word for it, they have got the "biz!"

Harry Goodson at Dick's Place, and Freeman Champion, at the State Cafe, were initiated at our midnight meeting Tuesday night. We are glad to have you both, and we are sure you will make us two good union members.

Lassie Mae Stoner has gone back to George's Place.

What certain union waitress stays up until 4 o'clock in the morning to take a boat ride?

We will have our regular meeting Tuesday night, July 2, at 8:30 p.m., at 114½ West Seventh street. Be sure to be there and stand a chance for the cash prize to be awarded.

So long folks, until next week.

Stunted Growth.

Grocer—What is the matter with those eggs I sent you?

Housewife—Too small for their age.

Notes From Candy Workers

Another week has gone by, and we are still at the same old stand. We are getting along very well for the summer season.

Nobody is sick from the shop, but my own boy is in the hospital, where he underwent an operation last Friday . . . he seems to be getting along all right.

I was glad to see the card in Charlie's Place on Market street. Let us all strive to prove to the world that we union workers stand for true Americanism, for peace and good-will to each other and to our employers, instead of being hoodlums as we have been called by some people.

There is one thing I cannot understand—why it is that some of our newspapers will publish all that labor knockers will write, and will not publish any answer that any of us wish to send in. Still they claim to be willing to bring out both sides of a question. It's beyond me!

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

PATRICK E. GORMAN

Patrick E. Gorman, President of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America entered the packing industry as an employe of the Cudahey Company in Louisville in 1910. He served as secretary of his Local Union from 1914 to 1920 when he was elected General Vice President of the International Union. In 1923 he was elevated to the presidency, which position he now holds.

Mr. Gorman was a graduate of St. Xavier College and in 1917 he received a law degree from the University of Louisville. His experience in the Labor Union movement together with his education have well fitted him for the responsible position of leadership that he now holds in his International Union.

Through Mr. Gorman's leadership, his International Union has succeeded in negotiating a nation-wide agreement with the National Retail Meat Dealers' Association, which virtually gives butcher workmen a closed shop agreement in 30,000 stores operated by this association. He has been able to negotiate agreements for the members of his International Union in other meat markets and the workmen operate their own strike and retirement benefits as well as death funds.

His address is: Mr. Patrick E. Gorman, President, Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, 160 North LaSalle Street, Room 706, Chicago, Illinois.

MEAT CUTTERS AND BUTCHERS' STORE CARD

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America adopted a Union Shop Card in 1897. It is displayed in the windows or on the walls of all butcher shops and retail stores where meats are sold.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

UNION LABEL TRADES DEPARTMENT

Union Labor Always Does Its Share!

By I. M. ORNBURN,

Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor

The officers and members of the affiliated unions of the Union Label Trades department of the American Federation of Labor pledge their unqualified support to the President of the United States in his program to protect America from foreign invasion.

We have consistently advocated that our government buy products that are made in America by American workers under standard union labor conditions. This would develop our own industries. It would increase America's economic stability. In no better way can any organization create greater loyalty and patriotism for a nation than to urge better working conditions for the men who make the tanks, airplanes and other munitions of war.

After all, it will be the hands of American workers who will actually turn out the weapons of defense and it will be the hands of the workers who will direct the mechanized forces in defense of the United States and Canada.

We believe that the best preparation for war is based on contented, self-supporting and self-respecting citizens who are always ready and willing to fight to preserve our democratic institutions.

For every soldier at the front modern warfare requires twelve men behind the line to manufacture the necessary munitions and transport them to the battle front. We represent the skilled mechanics and workers who, with government money and not private capital, will actually manufacture these weapons of warfare.

America is filled with patriotic citizens who will give their last drop of blood in trench and in factory for the preservation of America. We are happy to say that with the aroused public opinion against unregistered aliens and fifth columnists, America will soon become a land where only American workers will be employed and where American-made goods will be purchased not only by government but by all American consumers as well.

Again, without any qualifications, we pledge our loyal support to make America safe for Americans!

CONVICT LABOR REGULATED

Washington, D. C.—Thirty-eight states have now availed themselves of the Hawes-Cooper Act, voting enabling legislation to regulate the sale of prison-made goods. Main purpose of the law is to keep prison goods off the open market in competition with goods made in private industry. Bills introduced in the present Congress would prevent even the state-use system.

3 AUXILIARIES PICNIC JOINTLY AT 'PESAUKAH

Street Car, Printers and Pressmen Ladies to Bring Lunches July 9.

Three union auxiliaries will go in together next Tuesday, July 9, and have a big time at Lake Winnepesaukah. The Typographical, Street Car and Bus, and Pressmen ladies are busy making arrangements for the occasion. Each lady will bring a lunch.

They will assemble on the courthouse lawn at Georgia and Seventh at 10 o'clock in the morning and from there be taken to the lake.

Anyone desiring additional information can secure same by calling Mrs. A. M. Underwood at 2-3810.

Two More Firms Sign With Union Of Truck Drivers

H. F. Blansit, business representative for Local 515, Teamsters, announced the signing of two more trucking companies this week to a closed shop contract.

Crabtree Transfer company, operating in Chattanooga, has gone the route with organized labor, and the Chandler Freight Lines, operating here and in Birmingham, have become union.

Negotiations are still pending with the Rutherford Freight Lines. At present Rutherford is completely closed in Chattanooga, with no exchanges or interchange freight going on with union or nonunion lines.

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

Printing Crafts Have Signed Up Splendid Shop

The Typographical and Pressmen local unions are announcing the unionization of The Purse Company, one of the largest and most complete printing establishments in the city. Negotiations between the unions and Mr. Bob Purse, extending over a short period of time, resulted in the placing of the Allied Printing Trades Council label in that shop.

The Purse Company is recommended to all friends and members of the labor movement.

"Old Golds" Sign Union Contract

7,000 Workers of Lorillard Co. Gain Wide Benefits.

Washington, D. C.—A tremendous forward stride in the organization under the A. F. of L. banner of all workers in the cigarette industry was achieved with the signing of union contracts with the P. Lorillard Company, makers of "Old Golds" and other tobacco products.

More than 7,000 workers are covered in the contracts, the first union agreement ever negotiated with this company. Its plants in Jersey City, Richmond and Louisville are all included.

Wide benefits were gained by the workers under the new contracts. Outsanding are provisions for a 40-hour week, a flat 5 per cent wage increase, a week's annual vacation with pay, the granting of seniority rights, union recognition and adjustment of shop disputes.

The unions which already have signed contracts with the P. Lorillard Company are the Tobacco Workers' International Union and the International Association of Machinists. Federal Labor Union 19897 is expected to sign a contract in a few days for its members, the warehousemen.

All unions are covered in a single master agreement covering general conditions of employment, while wage rates are fixed in separate contracts with each union.

Francis P. Fenton, National Director of Organization for the American Federation of Labor, who played an active role in the contract negotiations, was jubilant at the successful outcome. He said:

"Nothing can stop us now from organizing the entire American cigarette and tobacco industry. We already have organized some of the largest plants in the country. The addition of the P. Lorillard Company is a great achievement for the A. F. of L. unions and will spur the drive for complete unionization of the industry."

Southern Advisory Council Formation Being Planned

Furniture and kindred products workers in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, South and North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia, are urged to consider the advantages of a council covering that district.

Local 1882 through its secretary, Floyd E. Smith, 2205 Duncan Ave., Chattanooga, Tennessee, is sponsoring the calling of a conference of the above district to that end.

Local unions are urged to write Brother Smith regarding the holding of the conference and to pledge their support to such a program that will mean improvement of conditions in the industry throughout that entire district.

As formation of a local union strengthens the bargaining power of individuals, so formation of a powerful council will strengthen the bargaining power of the local union.

Only through the initiative of our own people, the furniture and kindred products workers will we succeed. Let's get busy, build and fight for real wages and conditions.

AMERICAN MFG. WILL BE TAKEN TO NAT. BOARD

Management Has Used Every Effort to Evade Union Issue —Strike Vote Also Asked.

Becoming "fed up" with the "union-busting" tactics used by Mr. Harry Robinson, of the American Manufacturing company, Local Union 21983 has filed charges with the National Labor Relations Board that will prove attempts to destroy the union in that plant.

Although serious and repeated efforts have been made since April 15 to secure a new agreement the union has met with a cold stare and deliberate evasion, according to officers of Central Body and of the local union.

It will be charged that deliberate threats and attempts to bribe have caused some of the members to drop their membership in order to continue at work. New employes have been hired to replace union members, it is said, and the union felt that it had to fight or quit.

The policy of the company is in direct conflict with sentiment expressed by many responsible manufacturers locally that industrial peace should be maintained.

Permission to strike has also been asked of the American Federation of Labor.

Brewery Workers Postpone Meeting Because of Fourth

Erskine Fischer, secretary for Local 79, Brewery Workers, announced this week that the regular meeting that was to be held on Thursday, July 4, has been postponed one week.

All members are urged to attend on July 11th to take part in the annual election of officers.

McIsaac's Corner Signs Up With Culinary Union

Mark up one more in the union eating place list. McIsaac's Corner, Eighth at Broad, signed a union contract Wednesday, with Central Body's president, Vic Hallmark, officiating with "Doc" McIsaac, the popular and smiling proprietor.

McIsaac's is one of the busiest soda and sandwich shops in town, not to mention all kinds of tobaccos and fine candies.

Local Attorney Is Recognized by Stove Mounters

The International Union of Stove Mounters, having jurisdiction all over the United States, has named H. G. B. King, Chattanooga attorney, as its chief counsel. This signal recognition places Mr. King in complete charge of all legal affairs of the international union.

Mr. King has made quite a name for himself in the past five years as an authority on labor law, and during his practice has handled thousands of cases for local unions. It is becoming said that when opposing attorneys see H. G. B. King facing them in a courtroom half the battle is won.

Snooping around the plant for some news for this week's write-up, I ran in to the picnic committee. They tell me that this is going to be one picnic that you all will remember. The committee is working hard and they have accomplished much. They would like for the women folk to be sure to make some potato, bean or macaroni salad, and be sure to bring sakes, pies and pickles. As nearly as they can tell, the picnic will be held around July 21st.

Mr. Murphy, our superintendent, has invited us to make use of his place on Signal mountain. Mr. Murphy says there is plenty of room, a cabin in case it rains, a swimming hole and to top it off, he will furnish the meat for the barbecue, and all he asks is for us to have a good time. I say three cheers for Mr. Murphy, and I believe every one will agree with me and go to the mountain.

I guess they will have games and prizes for the lucky ones.

Buck Logson tellsme thechariot for Little Caesar will be finished by that time. Some one donated an old model T and Buck says by turning it around it will make an ideal chariot. Ed Vandergrief says he will paint it white and gold. I bet that would make a pretty picture with Little Caesar in his white robe and with his crown of laurel leaves. But how about his sword? Any one having a two-edged sword, please bring it in.

Monk Johnson says Roy Welles will have to feed that jenny something else besides acorns, not even a jenny can run on that, says Monk.

Arch Douglas settled that question about Columbus Brown and Little Boy Blue were discussing about Charlie McRoy being an Indian. Arch says for one thing who ever heard of an Indian with an Irishman's name? Freddie Campbell says who ever heard of an Indian catching proison oak.

We wonder why that pleased and happy look on Bud Finley's face?

Where are those boats those Maynard boys were going to build?

Someone page the fish to keep in deep water for Jack and Shorty Floyd are planning to go fishing the Fourth of July.

As correspondent it is my duty to find out what goes on around here, and I would like to know what mischief Lord Plushbottom gets into when he hides the Labor World to keep his better half from reading it?

Old Man Ike is a little man. I mean, in statue, but he carries a mighty big appetite. So Lord Plushbottom says Ike will have to wear a pair of elastic breeches to take care of that expanding waist line at the picnic.

Grandma Denton has been demoted. Gone back to pipe fitting. Grandma says that good things won't last always.

Si Perkins says he is building a storm cellar, not a skyscraper, and it will be bomb-proof.

ake Smith, the old seer and prophet, was asked if we would have nice weather for our picnic. Jake said he would consult his almanac.

George Durham has found another new trinket to put on that new car. And boy, does it shine!

The question is, should Paul Lex have to pay an extra fee? Paul has a big family. You know, maybe we could get Johnny Christian to loosen up and get a substantial donation from the treasury.

By the time these writings have reached you another Fourth of July will be gone, and I hope all members will have a sane and glorious holiday, with no casualty.

Mrs. J. O. Lindsay, the mother of Mrs. M. W. Wood and Mrs. H. W. Bedoit, who was injured near Soddy, is slowly improving. Mrs. Lindsay is nearing her 86th birthday.

Dick Godsey is the only one reported on sick list, but is expected back to work soon.

C. C. COULTER

C. C. Coulter, Secretary-Treasurer of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association, became a member of the Knights of Labor in 1898. He became identified with his present organization in 1901 through its affiliate, Local No. 262 of Washington, D. C. He held every office within the gift of this Local. During the last ten years of his activity in the National Capital he was Business Agent for his organization.

Mr. Coulter was elected to the office of President of his organization in 1925 and served in this capacity for a period of one year. In 1926 he was elected by the General Executive Board of the Association to the office of Secretary-Treasurer, and has been renamed to this position by four successive general elections.

Few men in the Labor movement today have a record of such long standing and active service as C. C. Coulter. Since becoming International Secretary-Treasurer he has seen the membership of his Association increase by more than 1,000 per cent. His organization has risen from an insignificant position to one of the ranking affiliates of the American Federation of Labor.

His address is: Mr. C. C. Coulter, Secretary-Treasurer, Retail Clerks' International Protective Association, Lock Drawer 248, LaFayette, Indiana.

RETAIL CLERKS' STORE CARD

The Store Card of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association was adopted at the Toledo, Ohio, convention on July 15, 1897. It is prominently displayed in stores where only retail clerks who are members of this organization are employed. When making purchases of Union Label goods, insist that the clerk has a membership card in this Association. The Store Card is printed on a white background. It shows the official emblem, centered on the card, printed in rose and blue.

The Retail Clerks' Store Card is granted only to those merchants who employ Union clerks exclusively. The demand for this Card means the employment of Union clerks who always advance the sale of all Union Label products. Insist upon the display of the Store Card of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons, write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Skilled Labor Ample for Defense Work McNutt Proves in Lengthy Report From Security Records

Washington, D. C.—Skilled labor is plentiful for any requirements of the national defense program, according to a detailed report issued by Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, showing no general shortage of skilled labor anywhere, contrary to war department statements otherwise.

An inventory by the Social Security Board of all its state employment officers in April showed 5,100,000 active job seekers registered, Mr. McNutt said. There were 1,538,000 workers available for 4,953 types of occupation, exclusive of professional fields and unskilled labor, the report showed. The group included 23,000 technicians, 657,000 skilled craftsmen and 858,000 semi-skilled workers.

The survey provided preliminary data on the number, location and usual occupation of skilled workers seeking jobs in 33 states, excluding such states as California and New York, for which information is not yet available.

The administrator requested the Security Board to invite all directors of state employment security agencies and state employment services here for a conference on the responsibility they will have in connection with the defense program. He said the meeting should be called as soon as employment plans had crystallized into definite objectives.

Figures by States

The figures supplied by the Social Security Board showed these totals of technicians, skilled and semi-skilled workers, by states:

Delaware, 63 technicians, 3,022 skilled workers and 3,095 semi-skilled workers; Idaho, 55, 3,008 and 3,423; Illinois, 2,469, 32,234 and 43,269; Indiana, 1,061, 26,200 and 38,864; Iowa, 380, 13,202 and 23,608; Kentucky, 266, 14,504 and 22,490; Michigan, 2,020, 50,804 and 259; Minnesota, 1,189, 31,760 and 34,572; Missouri, 1,072, 31,688 and 37,055; Nebraska, 298, 6,826 and 11,734; New Jersey, 2,250, 49,630 and 57,234; New Mexico, 107, 4,574 and 8,764; Ohio, 1,191, 55,839 and 71,760; Oklahoma, 361, 13,041 and 16,707; Oregon, 232, 6,465 and 10,985; Pennsylvania, 1,986, 62,398 and 71,213; Texas, 1,513, 36,287 and 57,371; Utah, 140, 4,466 and 7,530; Washington, 879, 18,106 and 28,027; West Virginia, 135, 8,182 and 12,613; Wisconsin, 849, 23,348 and 25,620; Wyoming, 54, 1,849 and 2,904.

NOW IS THE TIME! From everywhere the word comes: "This is the time to organize!" To which the logical answer is: "Well, then, go ahead and organize!" If anything is needed today, it is more unions, with more and more workers educated in the aims, principles and tactics of organized labor.

Craft Union Wins Board Election In Department Store

New York City.—Workers in the shoe department of Franklin Simon & Co., large metropolitan department store, constitute an appropriate collective bargaining unit despite company contentions that similar segregation of its employes might result in fifty-seven different bargaining units. A ruling to this effect has been handed down by the New York state labor relations board.

In certifying Local 1115-F of the Retail Shoe Salesmen's union of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, A. F. of L., the board said:

"The shoe salesmen employed by this company have a suffcient skill and particular identity of interest to warrant segregating them from the other employes. Indeed, by designating this union, they have signified their intention and desire to bargain as a unit apart from the other persons employed in this store.

"It may be that in the future other unions will seek to represent the employes in other departments maintained by this store or to include the shoe salesmen in a larger unit. When and if such contentions are brought before this board, they will be passed upon. It is sufficient to say at this time that the speculative possibility that such contentions may be made would not justify denying the shoe salesmen and salesladies the right of bargaining through a chosen representative of the present time.

Board's Evidence.

The board pointed out that "no other union is now claiming to represent the shoe salesmen." It disclosed that the union had introduced into evidence, without objection, eighteen cards designating it as representative for collective bargaining and signed by sales people employed by Franklin Simon & Co., Inc.

"The company conceded that all of the cards represented current designations of the union by the employes who signed them," the board reported. "The company did not request an election by secret ballot."

Truth—

Every organized as well as unorganized worker must clearly recognize the fact that organizations of purely local character, or of an independent nature, separated from the general labor movement throughout the country, will no longer suffice.—Bakers' Journal.

Two Injunctions Kicked Out

Word was received today that two injunctions against the Culinary Workers' union have been dissolved. The nonunion Maypole and Steakhouse restaurants secured injunctions some two years ago that allowed them to operate nonunion without opposition from organized labor.

Now that the injunctions have been thrown out, the culinary workers, with organized labor, are saying, "We'll be seeing you."

Notes From Candy Workers

Dear Readers:

Again I am sending in an article in defense of all our people who labor.

I understand that a Chattanooga preacher told his congregation last Sunday that all labor unions are "red". We all know how untrue any such statement is, and the only reason he said such a thing is because he does not know his Bible.

I wonder if that preacher knows he is breaking the Ninth Commandment which says: "Thou shalt not bear false witness against your neighbor." Why do I say that? Because all fair-minded people know that there are thousands of the most earnest Christians to be found in labor unions.

Do they think we are so ignorant that we would uphold principles which would destroy labor organizations at once?

When Jesus came to earth He could have taken His place in the temple with the priests and pharisees, but he did not do it. We do find where He took a whip and drove them out and spoke these words: "It is written my house shall be called a house of prayer, but you have made it a den of thieves."

Jesus took up His trade as a carpenter and was a laborer himself. I believe He approves all we do for better wages and better working conditions for those who toil in the shops.

I say this with ill will to none, but we are tired of being slurred by those who do not know what they are talking about.

Labor unions form the biggest asset a democracy can have.

Buffet Menu to Insure Success of Bride's First Party

The most important occasion in a bride's life after the return from her honeymoon is that first entertainment for her friends in her new home. It is wise to start off conservatively, as the success of any party depends in large measure on the smooth and seemingly effortless way in which it is run. The seated buffet supper for eight is the answer to a young bride's prayer, combining the warm hospitality of a dinner with the informality of an evening get-together. For this type of entertainment the linen, silverware, china and food are set on a large table from which the guests serve themselves and then sit down at small folding tables, each for four.

A famous hostess known for her parties suggests the following buffet supper menu as one which the young newlywed can prepare with enough ease to receive her guests without the flurry which usually accompanies a first party. She adds that she has found it a tried and true success with all types of guests.

Relishes: Carrot slivers, Celery
Buttered sliced White, Rye and Whole Wheat Breads
Dried Beef, Crisp Bacon, Cream Cheese, Peanut Butter for Sandwich Spreads
Spaghetti and Tomato Sauce in Casserole
Pepsi Vegetable Salad
Iced Beverage

Here's the recipe for the novel vegetable mold salad:

3 tablespoons gelatin dissolved in ½ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
2 twelve-ounce bottles cola beverage
2 tablespoons lime juice
1 cup diced celery
1 cup shredded pineapple
1½ cups shredded cabbage
½ cup shredded carrots

Dissolve gelatin in cold water, add boiling water, lime and cola beverage. Mix celery, pineapple, cabbage and carrots. Add to thickened gelatin. Pour into mold. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with sliced olives and radishes.

The Guild Tradition

The news from France that the Bordeaux Bakers Syndicate suddenly found itself faced with the problem of baking sufficient bread for the city's refugees fleeing from the Hitlerian hordes to the north and east of the city, can only be greeted here with grimness and a hope that there will be enough bread to go around.

According to all reports 500,000 refugees from the French provinces crowded into historic Bordeaux seeking temporary sanctuary, at least. This, in addition to the surrounding Department of Gironde which is also sheltering tens of thousands of refugees from the Moselle area and elsewhere, say the dispatches.

The task before the bakers required increasing their production 900 times the normal amount of bread baked in Bordeaux in one normal day. According to the scanty reports available, they had to resort to ancient methods to meet the needs of the troubled hours.

Heroic work like this is typical of labor unions the world over in times of crisis. Back in medieval days, the bakers of Vienna saved the city from the Turks. The traditions stemming from the medieval guilds have never been found wanting in the present structure of organized labor. The problem faced by the Bakers Syndicate of Bordeaux is one of many faced through the centuries by the craftsmen of then and now. Our only hope is that the flour supply lasts while the Bordeaux demand exists. According to all reports there is an ample supply. While that is so, those French bakers will carry on.

Another Appeal

One more appeal for charity has gone out to the nation. It is an emergency call headed "starvation takes no vacation" and is issued by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Advance notice of the appeal was given out in advance to the nation's labor press, no doubt with a view to seeing that the drive's publicity reached members of organized labor.

As always, labor will give and give generously. The cause sponsored by the Federal Council is a worthy one. The money collected will go to the American Friends Service Committee which is already actively at work feeding children in southern France, The Church Committee for China Relief aiding the starving in the Far East, the American Committee for Christian Refugees, the International Missionary Council and other similar organizations.

Appeals for clothing are also made.

There is no doubt that the principal sufferers in war-torn Europe, as always, are the poor, the mothers, sisters, wives and children of conquered Europe's laboring men, stolid members of labor unions in formerly free countries, now being demobolized into poverty or still in uniforms. That is all the more reason why free workingmen and women of America should give all they can.

Labor Guards Defenses

That labor is alive to the menace of the "fifth-column" in the huge production job facing the country's defense preparedness program, is evidenced by the recent statements of some of its foremost spokesmen from A. F. of L. President William Green to various international union heads. Frank Powers, of the Telegraphers' Union, warns of the menace of Communists and Nazis in the communications industry handling messages vital to the nation's very life. Dan Tracy, Electrical Workers' president, sums up the strategic importance and vulnerability of the nation's power plants, hydro-electric and otherwise, to sabotage from within and bombings from above.

Power Plants Safe With IBEW, Tracy Tells Nation

Washington. — America can rejoice that the great majority of electric plants throughout the nation are manned by members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Dan W. Tracy, international president, says in the current issue of the Journal of Electrical Workers and Operators.

Power plants, vulnerable and vital centers of energy, have long been marked upon their maps of enemy territory, by army strategists, Tracy recalled, pointing out that generating plants are considered legitimate plants for bombing. Hydro-electric plants such as Norris dam are particularly vulnerable.

Tracy said that in Switzerland, the Swiss fear the bombing of great dams more than they do any other centers of their country, because dams can be torn out by bombs placed either above or below the impediment. He explained that dams do not need to be destroyed by direct hits.

Union Integrity.

"Sabotage of electric light plants or power centers is of course as serious to the country's welfare as bombing. This is the reason that in making a national inventory it is an occasion for satisfaction that the great majority of power plants, both privately owned and publicly owned, are manned by members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, competent technicians who also have the good of their country at heart," said Mr. Tracy.

"The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has been in the utility field since its establishment in 1891. It has held important contracts in many regions and has held them long before the appearance of the communist movement in the United States.

In the Pacific coast, in the southwest, in the central west, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has held contracts for more than a generation. The brotherhood has more than doubled its membership in the utility field during the last three years, and this against the clandestine competition of the CIO and the adverse rulings of the national labor relations board.

"One great power system made a thorough investigation of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, studying the tory back fifty years, before signed a contract with the That investigation must have vealed that on the whole brotherhood was composed of petent men, loyal citizens and liable workmen."

Noted Educator Declares Teachers Democracy's First Defense Line

New York City.—Education can play a big part in preserving American democracy and the American way of life, Dean William F. Russell, of Teachers college, Columbia university, told the New York Principals association at a luncheon meeting here.

Dean Russell, well known as an educator and for his vogorous opposition to communism, warned that the war will put democracy through its greatest strain, and said that regardless of which side wins in Europe, many dangers will arise in the wage of the conflict.

"Those of us who are teachers constitute the first line of defense," Russell said. "Our teachers can help lead the people to judgment and balance, avoiding mob rule and violence, so that democracy may survive in a world gone mad. There may be an early triumph and one that is glorious."

Through education men and women can be taught how to adjust their minds and personalities in order to fit themselves to the democratic ideals, the dean asserted. Education can save democracy from degenerating into extremes, he noted.

"The most powerful force that can unbalance our democratic system is the war," he continued. "Critical events face us now and in the future. There are dangers to democracy in the present crisis whether the French or English stop the Germans.

War has a very real effect on every aspect of life. It throws us into poverty on the one hand and war profiteering on the other. It may drop us from an area of happiness into one of poverty."

Dr. Stephen F. Bayne, associate superintendent of New York City schools, who presided, declared that it was essential for every person to support and protect the American way of life. Democracy must be perpetuated, he said, adding that "if we do not believe that, we have no place in the American public schools."

Unions Mitigate Machinery Evils

Washington.—Organized labor is the only group in the country that has made a definite and constructive contribution toward mitigating the evils of the displacement of workers by machines.

This is the conclusion drawn by Assistant Works Progress Administrator Corrington Gill in a voluminous report covering a five-year study of the problem.

Gill and his investigators found that the unions, in a "statesmanlike, constructive manner," are trying to make the machine socially useful, rather than an instrument of destruction.

This commendable object, the report points out, has obtained little cooperation from industrialists, who see in the machine only an instrumentality through which to wreck labor unions, reduce wages and increase profits.

In a letter transmitting the report to Col. Francis C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, Gill voices a sympathetic attitude towards unions in their effort to deal with the machine and to "minimize the serious hardships" which it imposes on workers.

The questions which concern union leadership, Gill points out, are: How many workers will the machine displace; and what will happen to them when they are no longer needed at their old jobs?

"In their attempt to meet the problem raised by these questions," Gill adds, "the unions have evolved a variety of measures aimed to control the rate of mechanization, limit hours of work and work loads, retain workers for new jobs, and transfer workers to other jobs. Other union goals are the payment of dismissal wages, age retirement systems, the improvement of health and safety standards and the maintenance of wage levels."

Problem Clearly Recognized.

Union leadership has clearly recognized, the report says, "that technological changes" frequently mean the employment of unskilled in place of skilled workers, women in place of men and younger in place of older workers.

"The opportunity to reduce labor costs through the payment of lower wages," the report adds, "has acted as an incentive for such shifts."

"Jurisdictional quarrels between unions, which have been criticized by labor foes and have recently been made the basis of criminal prosecutions by the department of justice, "are simply a reflection of efforts by unions to safeguard jobs and labor conditions," according to Gill.

"The primary object behind all trade union activities, in respect to technological change, it should be remembered, has been the protection of employment opportunities and wages and working conditions."

Immediate Apprenticeship Training For Half Million Asked by Government Committee

Washington.—Apprentice training has again come to the foreground in the nation's capital as the federal committee on apprentice training adopted a preliminary statement of policy recommending immediate expansion of apprenticeship, particularly in the national defense industries. The apprentice committee is composed of representatives of organized labor, employers and government officials.

Unofficial estimates put the number of indentured apprentices in the skilled trades at fewer than 100,000, although apprentices without papers would swell this total. Government officials, meanwhile, estimate that there is an immediate need for 500,000 apprentices.

The statement adopted said that industry and labor were working with the committee "on an agreed plan for the training of future skilled workers, not by any short-cut methods or by government subsidies but through carefully worked-out standards of training.

"The active co-operation of employers and labor in a unified nationwide program of apprenticeship," the statement said, "will make a significant contribution to the fulfillment of the preparedness program and will materially assist in meeting future 'bottlenecks' in production."

In making its report to Secretary Perkins, the committee set forth its policy as follows:

"Apprenticeship which calls for a relatively long period of training is a vital factor in the situation, but must be considered in relation to the more immediate demand for large numbers of semi-skilled workers. The two major needs in connection with the labor supply for national defense are:

"1. Semi-skilled 'specialists.'

"2. A comparatively smaller number of highly skilled men.

"The mass of workers in modern production plants are semi-skilled. The smooth flow of work depends on an adequate working force of skilled craftsmen who are the 'lead men'—who are the 'set-up' men, and who know all of the operation in a partiiular trade.

"The training of the semi-skilled men can be carried on in a relatively short time within industry and in conjunction with the existing vocational educational facilities and with other available agencies capable of providing assistance. This training for such jobs can be immeasurably speeded up.

World War Experience Cited.

"On the other hand, the time required for training of apprentices to become skilled mechanics cannot be shortened appreciably. This was proved by experience in the World war. Nevertheless, an integral part of the national defense program must be the immediate expansion of apprenticeship, particularly in the nattional defense industries.

"An expansion of the activities of the federal committee on apprenticeship will:

"1. Provide industry with an adequate supply of skilled mechanics and give to our youths an opportunity of becoming competent craftsmen.

"2. Enable those already partially trained through employment in occupations requiring a narrow range of skills to secure an opportunity to complete an apprenticeship in the shortest possible time and become skilled workers.

"3. Facilitate the orderly absorption of apprentices into industry.

"It is recommended that there be expansion of the apprenticeship field staff to meet the emergency by the assignment of qualified apprenticeship technicians to the thirty-three major industrial areas of the country, with emphasis on the training of skilled mechanics for the manufacturing industries.

"This co-operative procedure should be furthered through greater activity on the part of trade associations and unions working in co-operation with state and local apprenticeship committees and through action on the part of individual employers and local labor.

THE TITLE GUARANTY AND TRUST COMPANY of Chattanooga, Trustee
7-12 By C. A. Hon, President.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 15th day of November, 1937, Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale to Title Guaranty and Trust Company, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for record December 7, 1937, and recorded in Book 755, Page 325, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, the said deed of trust provides that, if the party of the Third Part, (Hamilton National Bank), for any reason, desires to replace the Trustee, it may do so and appoint a successor by a written instrument duly registered, and the Successor Trustee shall then have title to the property described vested in him, and shall have all the powers of the original trustee; and

Whereas, the said bank, the holder and owner of the indebtedness secured by the said deed of trust, by virtue of the authority given it in the said deed of trust, has heretofore removed the trustee therein named and appointed C. H. JERDEN as Successor Trustee, and he is now vested with all the powers and authority the original Trustee had, said instrument appointing the Trustee being registered in Book 800, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Nevan R. Hixson and wife, Willa Mae Hixson, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, C. H. Jerden, as Trustee, will on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Courthouse in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, curtesy, and all other exemptions of every kind, the following described real estate, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The South forty-five (45) feet of the North Ninety-two (92) feet of Lots One (1) and Two (2), Block Thirty-eight (38), Highland Park Addition Number Two (2), as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, page 35, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said parts of lots make one tract of ground fronting forty-five (45) feet on the East line of Kelly street and extending back eastwardly, between parallel lines, a distance of one hundred (100) feet to the West line of Lot Three (3) in said block.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the first day of September, 1938, L. G. Boydston and wife, Bertha Boydston, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to J. E. Harris, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration September 7, 1938, and recorded in Book [illegible], page 245, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee; and

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said L. G. Boydston and wife, Bertha Boydston, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust;

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, J. E. Harris, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will on

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Courthouse, in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Twenty (20), Ogden, Bushnell, Giles and Hulse's Re-Subdivision of Block Four (4), Normal Park Addition, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 6, page 41, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said lot fronts fifty (50) feet on the west line of Crewdson street and runs back westwardly, between parallel lines to the east line of west Crewdson street, on which it has a frontage of fifty-three 24-100 (53.24) feet; its north line being one hundred eleven and 33-100 (111.33) feet and its south line one hundred thirty (130) feet in length.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only and subject to any unpaid taxes.

"When In the Course of Human Events . . ."

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Fourth of July speeches ring with the proud declaration that while we are a "young" nation, we are the greatest nation on earth. But in the enthusiasm of the orators to emphasize our youth, they usually overlook the fact that next to England, we are the oldest government on earth.

We have maintained our form of government throughout our history in spite of the fact that we have it within our power to change it any time we may wish to do so. There is no firing squad, no concentration camp, no police force of any kind which may prevent us from doing so if we follow the orderly procedure which our Constitution has laid down. There is absolutely no need for the use of violence. All we need to do is to have the citizens of the United States declare their wishes through the ballot box. But—instead of trying to find some other form of government we are today more firmly resolved than we ever were to maintain its present form.

Meanwhile, the changes in the forms of government in countries overseas have been kaleidoscopic. In nearly every case they have taken place as the result of wars or revolutions. Since the United States was born 150 years ago, practically every nation in the world has gone through one or more changes. The world is today in the midst of a "total war" which will bring other changes, the nature of which no man can prophecy.

Those who are agitating for Communism, Fascism, Nazism, and other forms of government, should borrow instead from our philosophy of government which, in the face of modern problems in a modern world, has stood the test of a century and a half. Then the world would see arising out of the present turmoil in Europe the miracle of a "United States of Europe," comparable to our own country in its form of government.

To achieve this world democracy it would be necessary to adopt the profound and far-reaching principle that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Implied in this revolutionary but natural form of government is the abolition of all distinctions due to race, creed, color, or economic condition. These principles date back to the very beginning of time. No power on earth can abrogate them, anda peace on earth will not prevail until they are universally accepted, for they are plainly the will of the Creator of all mankind.

Jefferson Island Salt Now 100 Per Cent Union

New Iberia, La.—An outstanding event in the forward march of the American Federation of Labor in the South was witnessed here recently when the Jefferson Island Salt Works signed a union agreement with the local union of its employes. The union workers had been on strike for many months, with both sides standing firm, the union for recognition and the company operating on partial production basis with a strike-breaking force.

E. H. Williams, of the A. F. of L. staff and president of the Louisiana State Federation of Labor, with George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, and other organizations who had assisted the strikers throughout the long struggle, were with the local committee throughout the negotiations and signing of the contract.

The agreement calls for the union shop, an increase in pay, reinstatement of all strikers, and the immediate discharge of all strike-breakers. Union officials have expressed keen delight in the way the company officials met the situation when it was decided by them to call off the struggle and sign up with the union.

The bridge group met last Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Percy Hixson. Everyone enjoyed seeing Mrs. Hixson's new home as much as playing bridge. Since Virginia Munsey, the leader of the group, will be out of town the next few weeks there will be no other meeting until further notice.

The modern literature group will not have another meeting until September.

The badminton group is still meeting. Mrs. Almeda Jones announced that it would not meet any more, but the group continued to show up at her house every Thursday and "the badminton goes on."

PICKET BAN APPEALED BY MILWAUKEE UNIONS

Milwaukee, Wis. — Counsel for Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Alliance No. 122, Bartenders Union No. 64, Operating Engineers Union No. 311, and the Building and Construction Trades Council announced that the order of Circuit Judge Gustave G. Gehrz limiting picketing and "advertising" at the Plankinton and Kilbourn hotels would be appealed to the state supreme court. Judge Gehrz's decree restricted union activity at the hotels to one man picket lines at the front entrance during meal times with the stipulation that the picket signs must not refer to the alleged labor dispute or unfairness. The permitted picketing signs will read: "Plankton and Kilbourn hotels have no labor agreements with AFL local unions. Please do not patronize."

The Glorious Fourth will be over by the time this goes to the press, but we hope that none of you celebrated by getting hurt. Accidents are costly things.

If any of you boys are not getting your copy of The Labor World, let us know your address and we will attend to it pronto.

Tenn. Fed. Endorses McKellar, Kefauver, To Go to Congress

Stays Neutral in Race for Governor in Meeting Held in Nashville July 6.

The Tennessee Federation of Labor's executive board, also serving as the non-partisan committee, met in Nashville last Saturday, and as a result the federation officials decided to stay "hands off" in the race for democratic nomination for governor of Tennessee.

Both candidates' platforms were studied, and Gov. Cooper personally appeared before the board to discuss his policies. Mr. George Dempster, opposing Gov. Cooper, was represented by his state manager, Mr. Jay Stephenson.

The decision of the board says, "Since neither of the announced platforms of the two candidates contain particularly obnoxious clauses, and since both candidates personally profess general support of our objectives, we stand neutral officially in the race for governor."

Mr. George Dempster is a member of the Oprating Engineers' union in Knoxville, and for years has been in the road building contracting business.

Senator Kenneth McKellar was unanimously indorsed to succeed himself to the senate, as was Congressman Kefauver from the Third district.

Those attending the board meeting were: President Gerald Foley (Nashville), Legislative Representative T. O. Denham (Nashville), W. W. Ruth (Jackson), V. W. Hallmark (Chattanooga), R. O. Ross (Knoxville), Carl Vester (Nashville), and Secretary T. R. Cuthbert (Chattanooga).

'Uncle Bob' Malone Going Again After Very Bad Injury

R. L. Malone, treasurer for Local 74, Carpenters, is going about his business again after being laid up for about two weeks from a serious injury. "Uncle Bob" was using a circular saw which grabbed a piece of wood from his hand and hit him in the head, fracturing the skull, according to physician's report.

This is the first time "Uncle Bob" has tackled a buzz saw, but he beat it, at that.

Low-Cost Housing for 16,509 N. Y. Families

New York, N. Y.—Gerard Swope, in his first report as chairman of the New York City Housing Authority, announced that when the housing projects in the city under construction or about to be constructed are completed, low-rent apartments will be available to 16,509 families. This includes the 8,914 apartments available in the public housing developments already completed.

"Data on housing conditions in New York," Mr. Swope said, "have shown such large numbers to be living in dwellings containing hazards and lacking several essential facilities that the authority established very stringent housing requirements for the prospective tenants of the projects."

TEACHER TALK

What with so many unionists out of town, no activities groups are meeting at this season.

Those of you who were attending the University of Chattanooga in the late twenties and the early thirties will remember a campus character whose name was Willie White. He was a cut-up, a screwball—"intelligent, but not an intellectual," as one professor said of him. He went to California, attended the Los Angeles branch of the state university, and is now well on his way to becoming a Ph. D., working on his dissertation and teaching in a technical college there. The reason for mentioning all this is that when he was in the office recently for a talk about bygone days we asked him about public school salaries in California. High school teachers replied, start at $180 a month. That's nearly twice our salary and after several years of experience. What a life!

Minimum of 35 Cents Asked for Workers On Leather Goods

Washington.—The Luggage and Leather Goods Industry committee has voted to recommend a minimum wage of 35 cents an hour for the industry.

Informing Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division, U. S. department of labor, of its recommendation, the committee also informed Fleming that it had adopted a resolution requesting the administrator to call this committee or another together six months after the effective date of any wage order for the purpose of reconsidering the minimum wage for the industry.

Should the 35-cent minimum be approved by the administrator after a public hearing, in which interested parties may appear in support or opposition to the proposal, it would increase the hourly wage rates of approximately 4,900 workers in the luggage and leather goods industry. The total number of workers employed in the industry aggregate 18,250.

Employe members of the committee include Samuel Laderman, general secretary-treasurer of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers' union.

Asks Faster Jobless Aid

Albany, N. Y.—Miss Frieda S. Miller, state industrial commissioner, is backing a plan to shorten the three weeks' waiting period for unemployment insurance payments. She said that too great a financial strain was being placed on many unemployed entitled to unemployment insurance checks. She pointed out that under the present regulations recipients of checks generally waited more than the three weeks specified by law before they obtained any unemployment benefits.

President Asks Excess Profits Tax To Finance National Defense Plan

Washington.—President Roosevelt called on congress to enact "a steeply graduated excess profits tax, to be applied to all individuals and corporations without discrimination" to help finance the national defense program.

Just the bare recommendation that the tax be enacted was contained in the message the president sent to the Capitol after he had conferred at the White House with congressional leaders. The president said:

"To the Congress of the United States:

"We are engaged in a great financial effort to build up our national defenses to meet any and every potential attack.

"We are asking even our humblest citizens to contribute their mite.

"It is our duty to see that the burden is equitably distributed according to ability to pay, so that a few do not gain from the sacrifices of the many.

"I therefore, recommend to the congress the enactment of a steeply graduated excess profits tax to be applied to all individuals, and all corporate organizations without discrimination."

In announcing the imminence of the tax message, Mr. Rayburn said the levy would follow that of the World war era which, he commented, "raised a lot of money."

At the Capitol, Speaker Bankhead said the excess profits tax legislation was designed to prevent creation of "war millionaires."

Fatal French Errors Grim Warning

Mistakes Leading to German Victory All at Work in Americas, Opening Way for Similar Triumph Here

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington.—Fatal errors of purpose and judgment in France, leading to French collapse in the face of Nazi Germany, beginning to bulk big in the official mind here, are of equal interest to American labor.

Startling facts are revealed in Fortune, the $10-a-year business magazine, probably more than duplicated in official files here.

Little interests, each playing for safety and thinking more of life after the war, are blamed largely for the pitiful French failure to be ready with the kind of things that were needed to repeal the nazi attack.

Living on what Fortune calls a "capital dissipation basis," both France and Great Britain were allowing their industries to adopt the pace of the slowest, running under-speed, with English steel mills a shining example.

Petty Squabbling Rife in France.

In France it was the same story, probably worse, with little farmers and labor playing little politics for little protection, while blind to the efficiency of the nazi military machine, achieved by turning every effort to that one purpose. Says Fortune, with surprising frankness:

"Everywhere the ingrained commercial competitiveness, the pulls of self-interest, intervened."

Little French wheatgrowers demanded protection against cheap Canadian wheat, little vegetable growers fought English vegetables, textile makers in both countries fought unity of purpose, labor in each country feared the competition of the other—generally there was a splitting apart in little fears, not a getting together for a big united job.

Tragic French Failure Object Lesson for U. S.

Britain never ordered American steel amounting to more than a 10-day run for United States steel.

Britain is changing all this, but it helped down the French.

America has plenty of object lessons, including the fateful object lesson of the French "front populaire"—the popular front of former Premier Laval.

As the danger of war comes closer to the Western hemisphere the tragic failure of the French is more and more an object lesson.

Nazi Fifth Column Is Busy Here.

Added to the other factors, there was the work of the nazi fifth column, which helped destroy France from high places within the French republic.

The nazi fifth column is at its fiendish work in the United States and in all Latin America. And one of the American blind spots today is the failure to understand the extent and the importance of the fifth column job being done by the nazis in Latin America. The main examples of this undermining, sapping work are in Mexico, Cuba, Brazil and Uruguay. Brazil has a million Germans within its border—some of them good Brazilians, but all of them under the nazi eye and hordes of them compelled to obey the nazi commands and to furnish money to the nazi treasury.

Nazi Operations Mexican Scandal.

In Cuba the communist party avows its support of Dictator Batista and he at a recent communist meeting pledged them his support.

In Mexico the nazi operations are scandalous and a menace no further away than the other side of the meandering and muddy Rio Grande which has forever been crossed back and forth with ease by men of evil purpose. And in Mexico the Japanese fifth column looms up as an added evil beside those of the nazis and communists.

Mainly the nazis work along the moneyed side of the street, while the communists work among the wage-earners and poor farmers.

The mistakes of France are all at work in the Americas.

Minimum Pay Ordered For N. Y. Waitresses

New York, N. Y.—Miss Frieda S. Miller, New York state industrial commissioner, issued an order directing restaurant owners in New York City to pay their table waitresses a minimum of 20 cents an hour and their non-service minor employes at least 29 cents, with the provision that after nine months employers would be required to pay non-after nine months and 30 cents after one year and nine months.

Outside New York City employers were directed to pay a minimum of 18 cents to waitresses for nine months, 19 cents for the next year and 20 cents thereafter. Non-service workers outside New York City will get 28 cents minimum now, 29 cents after nine months and 30 cents after one year and nine months.

These rates, Miss Miller said, will affect 50,000 women and male minor employes in the restaurant industry in New York state. The minimums must not include tips or meals. Time and a half must be paid for overtime work beyond 45 hours a week.

The minimums promulgated were recommended unanimously by a special wage board consisting of equal representatives of labor, employers and consumers.

Member of Typos 89 Goes to Washington

"Mr. Bill Baker Goes to Washington" is not a movie, but a sad fact. W. A. Baker, member of Chattanooga Typos, has received an appointment in the government printing office and will move his family there in a few weeks after he has had time to get settled down.

Brother Baker has been serving as recording secretary for the Typographical and will be greatly missed.

Motion Picture Operators

Local 259

For their June meeting, the operators met at the Mosque. We enjoyed a cold supper, which was prepared by Mrs. Bill Belcher and we wish to express our thanks to her. Mr. Belcher is a projectionist at the Tivoli. In our meeting we discussed a donation to the Red Cross and also the labor temple to be established in Chattanooga on Vine street. Final vote was taken on Frank Hamill's admittance into the union and he was unanimously voted in. I express my thanks to every member. President Lowery gave his report of the international convention.

We met at our regular meeting hall in the Patten hotel at 12 o'clock Tuesday night. The regular business was carried on as usual.

A few of our fellow members have taken vacations in the past few days. Lester Williams and family left the 8th for Pensacola, Fla. We're expecting a card from him. Lester is operator at the Grand.

Felix Hamill and family left Friday, the 6th, for Daytona Beach, Fla., and enjoyed a few days there and at Jacksonville. Fla. He is an operator at the Cameo.

Wayne Williams, Sr., our business agent and operator at the state, is in Hollywood and other points of California. I don't know whether he went to see the inside of the movie work or to be the inside.

I'm not mentioning any names, but somebody is looking for a certain person (or persons) who put an operator's marriage in the Box-office magazine.

J. G. Revels and C. B. Lumpkins are to be the operators at the new colored theater, Harlem.

Fifth Column

This country has done more toward protecting this country against enemies from within than any congress during the history of this country. A law has been passed that will require the four or five million aliens who reside here to become fingerprinted immediately, in order that their fingerprints may be available to government authorities. This should not be taken as a reflection in any way upon any particular alien or the group as a whole, the president said, when he approved the bill. More care is being taken in the selection of government employes. More safeguards are being taken, and rightly so, than ever before. We should profit from the mistakes made by European democracies — mistakes which apparently have made Hitler the virtual ruler of Europe today.

And the greatest mistake made by the democratic allies was the mistake of allowing Hitler's "fifth column"—his propaganda agents—to steal into the democracies and secretly and dastardly prepare those nations to be delivered to Hitler.

Years ago, Adolph Hitler described in detail this new and diabolical method of destroying the government and liberties of other countries. Ponder his words:

"When I wage war, troops will suddenly appear. * * * They will march through the streets in broad daylight. * * * No one will stop them. Everything has been thought out to the last detail. They will march to the headquarters of the general staff. * * * The confusion will be beyond belief. But I shall long have had relations with the men who will form a new government—a government to suit me. We will find such men; we shall find them in every country; we shall not need to bribe them. They will come of their own accord. Ambition and delusion, party squabbles, and self-seeking arrogance will drive them. * * * Our strategy is to destroy the enemy from within, to conquer him through himself."

Congress Needs More Speed

Since Hitler began his march to the west congress has acted faster than ever before in our history to prepare America for any eventuality. Billions of dollars have been appropriated for the army and navy; industry is speeding up production; many armament contracts have been let; the National Defense council has been set up; keels for the world's largest navy have been laid, and yet in some matters congress is proceeding slowly—entirely too slow.

Since Harry Woodring and Charles Edison resigned from the cabinet, the army and navy have had no heads. Three weeks ago the president recommended Henry L. Stimson and Col. Frank Knox for secretaries of the war and navy. Their appointments have not at this time been acted upon by the senate, although these three weeks have been very vital ones in our national defense.

So long as congress is alert in its guardianship of the public interest, and particularly during this crisis, the personal attitude of cabinet members on controversial current issues is of secondary importance. Their job is not to determine policy, but to administer that which the legislature approves. The only test that should be considered in passing upon their appointments is their competence to supervise the departments of defense at a time when efficient management is a matter of supreme national importance.

No fair-minded person, after reading their testimony, can doubt that they were motivated by a sincere desire to be of service to the United States. It is likely that the senate will confirm the appointments early next week, but there has been no occasion for the delay.

Refugee Children

American hearts go out to the unfortunate children who may be the victims of the intense bombing which is certain to begin at an early date in Britain. Many people are volunteering to furnish homes for these children.

The United States committee for care of European children, with its principal office at 215 Fourth avenue, New York City, is the official organization designated to find homes and to act as the clearing house in this mission of mercy. Unfortunately the organization has been slow in getting under way, with the result that many Americans who are willing to participate do not know whom to contact or what procedure to follow. Anyone who wishes to furnish homes to refuge children should write this committee, or your representative, who will be glad to assist.

The state department advises that no changes in the immigration laws are at present necessary to take care of the situation. Britain's new quota began July 1, and 60,000 additional refugees can come in under it.

California Fig Growers and Packers, Inc., Fresno, Cal., was ordered to cease discouraging membership in Fresno Packing House Employes Union 19563, or in any other manner interfering with its employes in the exercise of their right to join labor unions of their own choosing.

Tips Hints Helps For Women Keeping Ahead of the Times

Do You Know . . .

That the water we drink on a hot summer day does not quench our thirst any longer than the moisture remains in the mouth, BUT, a carbonated drink has the power of stirring up the movement in the stomach so that the stomach empties itself more rapidly than it would otherwise. As soon as the carbonated water enters the intestines, it becomes absorbed, some of it is excreted by the salivary glands and our thirst is really quenched.

It takes 150 days to make the best grade of leather in a modern tannery.

California grows 99 per cent of the almonds grown in the United States.

The traditional headgear of chimney sweepers, one of the world's dirtiest professions, is a formal silk hat.

Baby Talk . . .

All children have a feeling for music and it only has to be brought out by an understanding person. The developing of this talent is very simple. Most of the church hymns, school and folk songs are written in three chords and when a child masters the scale it is easy to sing any of these songs.

Glamor . . .

Facial creams, lotions, astringents and other cosmetic aids are all helpful at the proper time but it should be the cardinal rule of all women never to forget the importance of soap and water night and morning.

Dust particles must be regularly washed away from the pores if you would keep that young, glowing look. When the skin periodically appears to lose its glow then facial massage is a welcome stimulant. This should always be done with an upward and outward stroke.

Why go on a diet when it's really less effort to exercise. To the woman at home exercising alone seems an awful bore, but try it with a victrola or radio. If you'll keep at it long enough to realize its benefits to your figure you will be so pleased you'll never regard it an effort again.

Colors in sport togs are slightly barbaric this year, brilliant yellows, poison greens, flaming orange and stop-light red. Combine or use with white.

Sailor collars with rows of soutache braid in contrasting color close to the edges are extremely popular at resorts on play frocks. They are also seen on white flannel dresses with pleated skirts.

Lace is extremely popular and always cool for summer evening dresses. A lace suit with wide lapels edged in a three-inch frill has been introduced by one of the designers and has proved an outstanding success.

Transparent bodices on evening dresses are a novelty, or rather bodices that look transparent; lace being mounted on flesh color net. Pale pink is an outstanding success and pastel laces are making definite headway. Much less black lace is being seen than formerly. Long sleeves in dinner dresses are very much favored.

For Better Homemaking

You wash all your other bedding and put it away for the summer but how about your bed pillows? Most persons think them unwashable, something to be used year after year and occasionally sent to a dry cleaner. Pillowcases give some protection, but persipartion, oil and general soil still penetrate the ticking.

Washing at home is no trick at all if you have a washing machine. Choose a clear, breezy day and prepare extra heavy suds of lukewarm water and mild soap. Soften water by using ammonia and borax. Make a small slit in one end of each pillow to keep from flatting, or the feathers may be poured into unbleached muslin bags and tick and feathers washed separately. Five minutes in the washing machine should be sufficient, rinse and hang out to dry. Simple, isn't it?

Women In Industry

Modern cigarette factories under union conditions, come near being the last word in clean and healthful places of employment. Most employes are girls and women.

Machines are marvels of perfection. There is, among those who attend the machines none of the evidence of strain under speed-up that characterizes some of the mass production industries.

Work is of many kinds. The cigarette machine itself is but one of the operations. When one goes haywire the attendants wait until a fixer sets it going again. Then there are conveyor systems, packaging machines and still other machines where tobacco is also put up in tins or plugs.

But everywhere there is supreme cleanliness and a rate of speed that does not have about it any of the appearance of tearing things apart.

What non-union plants do may be another matter, but union conditions mean work that is a far cry indeed from that done in the shut-in lofts of huge cities like New York and Chicago.

A visit to such a plant is an interesting and instructive thing. Try it sometime.

Chef's Hints: Dried herbs can be freshened by immersing in lemon juice for about ten minutes. They may then be used in soups, stews and omlettes.

To improve the flavor of cherry, peach or apricot pie sprinkle the fruit with a few drops of almond extract before baking.

When adding whipped cream to a chocolate desert add two teaspoons of cocoa to the cream before whipping—it's different.

If you're planning a party luncheon and do not have the assistance of a maid to serve here is a menu that requires little extra work by the hostess: Small whole tomatoes stuffed with shrimp salad for the first course; a spinach ring with the center heaped with creamed hard-cooked eggs and mushrooms accompanied by hot rolls, strawberry jam and ripe olives for the main course. With this a chocolate roll with whipped cream or a fruit sherbet with angel food cake and coffee for desert.

Or, if you prefer to serve buffet style, serve your guests chilled fruit juice sprigged with mint in the living room. While they are busy with this you will have time to place a casserole of cheese souffle, a dish of creamed mushrooms and celery, and a salad bowl of crisp green salad on the dining room table with a pile of plates. Your guests will serve themselves and eat at small tables on the porch or living room. You may then pass hot rolls, jams and relishes from one tray. A nice desert is composed of a huge tray of individual tarts, cherry, strawberry and lemon and let your guests take their choice. Coffee mints and salted nuts are passed.

What Telephone Dollars Do For Dixie . . .

First in your mind, perhaps, the telephone industry's principal contribution to the South is quick, dependable communication.

But Southern Bell is also important as a citizen, as an employer of people, as a payer of taxes, as a purchaser of materials. In 1939 alone, operating expenses amounted to approximately fifty-five million dollars, not including additional millions used for new construction.

To build, operate and maintain this system requires more than twenty-one thousand skilled workers whose annual payroll is approximately thirty million dollars.

These telephone men and women contribute to the business and social welfare of their communities, and of the South. They and their families compose a group of perhaps eighty thousand people who are dependent on this business for their livelihood.

As a tax-payer, the Southern Bell does much toward the support of the local, state and national governments. Total taxes last year exceeded nine and three-quarters million dollars, nearly twenty-seven thousand dollars a day.

The Southern Bell Company is a Southern industry in the fullest sense and its activities form a substantial contribution to the growth and prosperity of the South.

It Can Be Done

The proof of an inventor's dream is that it can be assembled in wood and steel, can be motivated and made to perform the functions for which it was designed. Just another way of saying the proof of the pudding is in the tasting of it. As this applies to inventions and puddings so it applies to a

UNITED LABOR MOVEMENT.

Leaders of labor from unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the Railroad Brotherhoods have sat down with Sidney Hillman, labor co-ordinatory of the advisory defense commission, and worked in harmony for the interest of our national welfare. This was not a dream, it was a fact. These representatives of labor met and assumed the grave responsibilities placed upon them by the emergency. And this was done without the mudslinging and charges and countercharges that we have been accustomed to in the last years whenever leaders of the opposing factions of labor put their feet under the same table. SO IT CAN BE DONE.

One of the first measures on the agenda of this table committee must be unity within the ranks of labor. Labor's greatest contribution to the country might well be unity and solidarity within its own ranks. Then all can work as one for the defense and protection of our democracy.

Sound American Principles

Leaders of sixteen national organizations under the auspices of the citizenship educational service have issued a statement calling upon all citizens to unite in defending the essentials of democracy. The statement epitomizes sound Americanism and deserves wide circulation.

Among organizations represented in the appeal are the American Federation of Labor, the Federal Council of Churches, the Workers Education Bureau of America, the Boys' Club of America, the Campfire Girls and the Boy Scouts.

The declaration of principles includes the resolution:

To be vigilant and courageous in maintaining human sympathy and respect for the rights of others;

To beware of the enemies of democracy, whatever their passwords or places of birth, and wherever they may be found;

To stand united with all lovers of freedom, whatever their tongue or origin;

To keep our nation strong in valor, and confident in freedom, so that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth.

As the New York Times remarks:

"These principles are poison to all enemies of democracy. They march side by side with military preparedness. Without military preparedness they cannot be successfully defended, but without them military preparedness would command no enthusiasm and would probably fail."

Labor on the Watch

That the parent organization, the American Federation of Labor is on guard in these troublesome times when labor needs able leadership is evidenced by the twenty-seven recommendations submitted by the executive council to the resolutions committee of the G. O. P. The forthrightness and repetition of labor's aims as embodied in the recommendations is ample testimony to the nation that neither major political party can escape the watchful eye of organized labor.

Brother Frank Bailey, I. C. Rowland and W. T. Manley are still off on the sick list. Hope to see these brothers well and back on duty real soon.

The ball players of our local are in good spirits now because they have won the class B city championship title this year. They defeated the Simmons Coal company list Friday night for the second time which gave them the championship. We wish to congratulate all of the players and also the manager,, Mr. John Hill, for the good work that they have done and for the interest they have shown in making our team a success this year. They are now in the class A league and I that they will do as well i they have in the class B.

Bakers' Scraps

Another week rolls around and here is very little news on the bakery front. Several of the boys are on vacation this week, but most of them got away before I could find out where they were going. C. M. (Ted) Wilkey is spending a few days in Johnson City and as for the rest well, I hope they are having as big a time as I had on mine.

We wish to extend our sincere sympathy to Mrs. Elizabeth O'Dear, of Tracy City, on the recent death of her father of this city.

Ethyl Mayes has left for California to spend a few weeks with relatives. Hope to see you back again soon, Ethyl.

Spent a while in the office Saturday and had several nice talks with some of the boys. Sure glad to see that some of the boys are getting their contribution in for the new labor temple. When we go into the new temple Labor day we can swell with pride and say that we had a hand in making it possible for us to have a temple. I can't hardly wait for Labor day myself.

It has been brought to my attention that some of the union restaurants and some of the nonunion ones are handling nonunion made coffee when that good union made Fleetwood could be had. Let's all try to get Fleetwood into the restaurant where you eat. All makers of Fleetwood coffee are members of Bakers' Local Union No. 25.

Sorry to report that Norman Cooper's aunt, Mrs. Charles O. Satterfield, is being treated at Erlanger hospital for injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred at Athens over the recent holidays. Hope that Mrs. Satterfield will be well again soon.

* * *

Brother O. G. Courter, of Cameron & Barr, is vacationing this week. I didn't even know that the brother was going to take his vacation until Sunday after he left so I didn't find out where he was going.

Nonunion cakes and pies include: Dortch, Holsum, Ambrosure, Jack's, Effie's, Gordon's, Alton Park, Ward's, Virginia Dare, Royal, Travis, Malbra, Frank's and Chattanooga bakery products.

Just started my third week reading "Citizen." Believe me, it is one more book. It is recommended for all good unionists to read.

I would like to compliment Brother J. P. Hughes for his swell little write-up from the Candy Workers for the past week. Incidentally, Brother Hughes is one of our members. The candy workers of this city are members of Bakers Local 25 and we are sure proud of them. We have the Bennett-Hubbard Candy company and the Carter Candy company 100% union, so the next time you buy some candy be sure it is made by one of the above mentioned firms.

* * *

See you next week if my luck holds out.

Notes From Candy Workers

Here we are back again after the Fourth—hope everybody enjoyed the holiday, and came back better Americans than ever.

We are still making good union candy.

I was glad to read about the number of new places which have signed up under our banner. If everyone who bears the title would be 100 per cent what the word union means, what a working organization we would have.

* * *

And if every business man and every working man would work together in union, we would not have to fear any of the foreign "isms" that come to this country.

* * *

Let us work for peace, trusting to the same heavenly Father that guided our forefathers to victory to guide our beloved country in the way of peace.

Lets 300,000 Mosquitoes Bite Him To Find Perfect Insect Repellent

Young Research Worker on University Staff Real "Iron" Man

WHILE other people try to keep away from mosquitoes during the summer months, Philip Granett, young "iron" man at Rutgers University, goes to a great deal of trouble to get them to bite him. He has endured more than 300,000 bites to help make it possible for other folks to escape insect annoyance.

Granett is one of a group of scientists at Rutgers who, under a grant from the National Carbon Company, are studying insect reactions to various chemicals. They have been working on this one problem for five years. As a result, they have already succeeded in making a repellent lotion that not only prevents mosquitoes from biting but keeps them at a distance.

Granett's job in this research has been that of a human guinea pig. He has tried out on himself the hundreds of chemical combinations produced by the laboratory staff to learn which solution would work best.

His method has been to take a sample of the chemical to be tested, stand in a mosquito bog, roll up sleeves and trousers, and apply a measured amount of the repellent to one arm and one leg. The other arm and leg have been left unprotected. Then the number of bites received on the untreated parts of his body were counted.

Bites were counted until Granett got one on the arm or leg having the repellent coating. As soon as that happened, he noted the time that had elapsed since the test began, and the experiment was over. His purpose, of course, was to find a chemical combination that would extend the protection time as long as possible.

Philip Granett

Day after day Granett has gone through this routine, trying out one chemical after another. During the summer he has stood in swamps under a boiling sun. In winter has been bitten by mosquitoes especially raised in the Rutgers laboratories at New Brunswick, N. J. Every one of the thirty-five kinds of mosquitoes found in New Jersey has had a chance to feed on him, Granett says. Along with them are many others of the 350 varieties that exist in different parts of the United States.

Granett's endurance has been finally rewarded. The laboratory staff reports that it has developed a lotion that withstands all tests better than any other. Not only does this substance offer protection against mosquitoes, but it keeps away gnats, sand fleas, black flies, deer flies, chiggers and similar pests. One application may last as long as three hours.

Green Declares I.L.G.W.U. Now Eligible To Join A. F. L. State and City Bodies

Washington. — President William Green officially notified all state federations of labor and city central bodies that the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union has become reaffiliated with the American Federation of Labor and is eligible for membership in its state and city organizations.

In his letter, Mr. Green recalled the fact that this union at its recent convention had voted almost unanimously to return to the A. F. of L. and that he had subsequently reinvested the ILGWU with its former charter. Mr. Green added:

"Now I am writing to officially advise you that the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union has become reaffiliated with the American Federation of Labor. It is now a part of the American Federation of Labor. For that reason, local unions of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union are eligible to affiliation with city central bodies and state federations of labor.

"I therefore authorize and direct the officers and members of state federations of labor and city central bodies to accept local unions of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union in the different cities, towns and states into membership in accordance with the laws, rules and policies of state federations of labor and city central bodies."

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

Freedom Versus Liberty

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

These are times when we speak much about freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, and freedom of assembly. But if this freedom is to be retained there must be a certain restraint of our liberties. Freedom is personal and private, affecting ourselves. Liberty affects our public and social relationships.

In our systems of jurisprudence, aud in our treatises upon statecraft and sociology, the ebmhasis has peen upon the "rights" of mankind, until the doctrine of human rights has become a thing working endless confusion and hatred. In the Sacred Word there is practically no reference to the rights of man—the emphasis is upon the duty of man. When the strong oppress the weak, we immediately cry out that there has been a transgression of rights. The Bible declares that the law of love has been violated. This method of approach gets at the root of the vil. It places responsibility where it belongs and upon the person who is guilty.

Human rights will never suffer if human duties be performed. The doing of man's full duty toward his fellowmen will carry the world farther along than the mere granting of men's rights. The workingman demands justice, and he is right. But God demands more than justice—His imperative is love. For "love is the fulfilling of the law." And "love" in this sense does not mean mere sentimentality. The Bible definition means "a desire for another's good." This emphasis points out that there can be no question about human rights. It is taken for granted. It is God-ordained. This fact was recognized by the framers of the constitution. It was incorporated in the bill of rights—consisting of the first ten amendments to the constitution.

These ten amendments are restrictions upon national power. The people had all their rights and liberties before they made the constitution, and neither the states nor the United States can take these rights from them. The bill of rights was actually created to save the people from the power of the state. This being the case, it is natural that we should rebel against having our freedom taken from us by any foreign state or government.

And yet, having admitted these fundamental facts regarding our natural rights, we can't get away from the human elements involved. What is needed just now is a moral preparedness, to give the country unity of purpose, unity of action. To do this, as free men, we will freely restrict our own liberties. To retain free speech we will guard against unbridled tongues. To retain the right of assembly, we will not use that right to tear down the government which grants it to us. To retain a free press, we will use caution in the publication of false rumors. To retain freedom of religion, we will accord to all other groups the same rights that we claim for ourselves.

Foolish Prosperity—

We have learned that in a time of economic depression we can find money with which to build schools and teach illiterates to read and write. It would be a foolish kind of prosperity that was too poor to continue such work. — Mrs. Florence Kerr, Assistant Commissioner, Work Projects Administration.

So far our list of union restaurants has not increased this week. We are working on some of them and hope to have them signed up by next week. One good thing about it, we have our injunction suits against Harry's Place, Chattanooga Steakhouse and the Maypole dissolved. I think that is extra good news to a lot of you. We owe all the credit for this to our attorney, Herbert G. B. King.

PUBLICATION FOR DEFENDANT

No. 4166

Before J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, Hamilton County, Tennessee.
B. L. Leonard vs. John Doe, alias Earl Stacks.

Whereas, B. L. Leonard, on the 26th day of June, 1940, made affidavit before me, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace that the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, was justly indebted to him, by account in the sum of One Hundred Seventy-five Dollars, and that the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, is a non-resident of the State of Tennessee, so that ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and that said B. L. Leonard gave bond as required by law in attachment cases, and

Whereas, I, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, on that day issued an original attachment against the estate of the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, returnable and set for trial for August 6, 1940, at 10:00 a.m., at my office at 624 Cherry Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, and said attachment has been levied on certain property (one 1931-Ford Van, Georgia License D-9-11[illegible]) of the defendant, and a order for this publication has been duly made.

Now, therefore, said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, is hereby notified to appear at my office at 624 Cherry Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the sixth day of August, 1940, at 10:00 a.m., and then and there to defend this attachment suit or the same will be proceeded with ex parte.

This 11th day of July, 1940.

J. W. JOHNSTON,
Justice of the Peace.

Wrinkle's Interest For Organized Labor Doubted By Central Body Heads

President Hallmark and Secretary Mabee State No Complaint Has Been Made on Congressman Kefauver by Labor

Also Recall Labor's Fight on Postmaster Eldridge--- Defend John Mahoney as Labor's Candidate Four Years Ago in Lower House and Says He Is for Good Government

Congratulatory messages to graduates of local high schools by Congressman Estes Kefauver brought forth the fire last week of school board member John Wrinkle, who is himself a candidate for the office that Mr. Kefauver now holds. The president and secretary of the Central Labor union quickly replied and informed Candidate Wrinkle that the labor movement has facilities for taking care of unfair labor practices such as Congressman Kefauver was accused by Wrinkle of engaging in, and pointing out that Mr. Kefauver has received the indorsement of the Tennessee Federation of Labor on the splendid record he has made in congress. The statement of the CLU officers follows:

Mr. Wrinkle failed to introduce before the board of education last Tuesday the formal condemnation of Kefauver that he threatened.

Our attention has been called to a statement in the daily press of July 14 by Mr. John S. Wrinkle, a member of the county school board and a candidate for congress, in which he states that a resolution will be presented to the county board of education condemning Congressman Estes Kefauver for sending messages of congratulation to the graduates of Central High school.

It is very interesting to note in the proposed resolution that the board of education has always cooperated with union organizations. We are glad to learn of this because the union of school custodians, an affiliate of Central Labor union, is now attempting to secure a contract with the county board of education. If Mr. Wrinkle truly represents the majority sentiment of the school board we presume there will be

Bakery Ordered To Reinstate 42

Labor Board Decision Rules Company Here Must Pay Wages Back to October.

The labor board this week ordered the Chattanooga Bakery, Inc., Chattanooga, to reinstate 42 discharged workers with back pay dating from October, 1939.

The board ruled the company had indulged in unfair labor practices when it refused to hire 27 union members on succeeding the Mountain City Mill company, but retained all non-union workers of the old firm.

Two weeks later, fifteen other union members struck in protect and "they, too, were discriminately refused reinstatement," the board found.

The discharged workers were members of Local 25, Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union, affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Commenting on the decision, H. G. B. King, attorney for the union, said the back pay may amount to $75,000 or $100,000. S. H. Campbell, manager of the bakery, refused to comment on the decision last night.

Building Trades Elect Officers

Chattanooga Building Trades council elected officers last Wednesday evening as follows:

President Grover Tittle of Sheet Metal Workers was re-elected over Joe Dobbs (Plumbers) by a vote of 36 to 11.

H. F. Blansitt of Teamsters 515 was elected by acclimation as vice-president.

W. C. Harris of IBEW 175 received 32 votes for recording secretary over W. W. Williams (Foremen's Local 1126), who received 14.

W. W. Orr of the Carpenters was named by acclimation as financial secretary.

Vote for warden showed Jeff Dunn (Lathers 265) the winner over W. W. Gray (Iron Workers 525) who received 16 votes.

Trustees elected were O. E. Cook (Plumbers), John Hand (Operating Engineers), and W. W. Wil... (Foremen 1126).

Carpenters and Joiners Elect Officers

At its regular meeting last week Local 1592, Carpenters and Joiners of America, elected and installed the following officers to serve for the ensuing term: Hubert Ward, president; J. C. Thompkins, vice-president; W. H. Childes, treasurer; A. T. Hall, financial secretary; M. E. Smith, recording secretary; Thomas R. Perrin, conductor; Walter Scott, warden; W. J. Casey, J. G. Cornelison and M. C. Wheeler, trustees. All of these officers were re-elected to serve for another term except M. C. Wheeler, who replaced W. A. Hall as trustee.

Local 1592 meets regularly every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Labor Union Hall No. 3. All members are urged to attend each week.

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

Tennessee Federation Swings Into Action as Cuthbert Launches Drive.

LABOR WORLD IS IN SAFE HANDS

Secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and editor of The Labor World, T. R. Cuthbert, left last Thursday by car to drive to Nashville, Jackson and points west in the interests of the state federation. Brother Cuthbert reports organizing interest in that area and hopes to see the establishment of several locals there as a result of the work of the Jackson Central Labor Union in conjunction with the state federation. He expects to return to Chattanooga the latter part of this week.

While away, Mr. Cuthbert has entrusted the job of editing The Labor World to the capable hands of Brother Stanton E. Smith, of the Teachers' union. It is reported that Editor Cuthbert is somewhat fearful of the possible results of this arrangement and is planning to make inquiries before returning as to whether he should re-enter Chattanooga by day or night.

The acting editor is reported as desirous of notifying all and sundry that any errors, omissions, or faux pas which may or may not be discovered in this issue of The Labor World should not be credited to the regular editor and on the other hand that any unusual excellence which may or may not be noticed should be credited to the proper source.

It has been learned from unimpeachable sources that the current editorial columns are of particular interest and excellence, and are well worth the few moments necessary for the reader to scan them. It is claimed that in other times and places such literary gems would have commanded much praise and a high fee, not to mention the fame redounding to author.

In short, don't blame Editor Cuthbert for what you may read today.

Eliminate Clashes With Strikers, Green Asks FBI Police Graduates

Washington. — Violent clashes between police and strikers should be eliminated altogether, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, told the graduating class of the National Police academy conducted by the federal bureau of investigation.

Mr. Green was invited to deliver the graduation address by J. Edgar Hoover, famous head of the FBI., who gave high praise to the A. F. of L. president for his long services to labor and for his patriotic devotion to the cause of Americanism.

Recalling that in the past relations between organized labor and local police forces have been in some instances marked with bitterness and tragedy, Mr. Green called for a new understanding.

"Today, when the laws and the courts of our land have fully guaranteed the right of peaceful picketing," he said, "when the abuse of the writ of injunction in labor disputes has been prohibited by federal statute; today when industrial strife is being reduced to a minimum and collective bargaining around the conference table is becoming the rule in industrial-labor relations; today, when the police forces of our cities are winning their fight for independence from political machines—today, we can be friends and we want to be friends."

Mr. Green called on the representative police officials in attendance to stamp out racketeering in labor "just as fearlessly as you would stamp out racketeering in business or in any other walk of life."

He pledged the cooperation of city central labor councils and state federations of labor to the police in this endeavor and promised that he would personally do everything in his power to further the cause of justice.

Turning to world problems, Mr. Geen said he held these truths to be self-evident:

"1. That the various brands of totalitarianism which have engulfed continental Europe—whether their label be nazi, communist or fascist—are hostile to America and to everything which Americans hold dear. They are contradictory to our form of government.

"2. That these enemies of America have conquered free, democratic nations and instituted a reign of terror over almost an entire continent not alone by force of arms but by a carefully planned campaign of organized treachery.

"3. That here in America the totalitarian nations of Europe have established thriving branches and are encouraging their followers to weaken the morale of the United States in every way they can.

"4. That such traitorous activities must be stopped by every legal means in the interests of national safety and national defense.

"Toward this end, I advocate that the communist party and the nazi bund in this country be outlawed by congress."

Mr. Green pointed out that the A. F. of L. had cheerfully assented to the president's request for the transfer of the bureau of immigration and naturalization from the labor department to the department of justice and had backed all other national defense measures. He added:

"We consider it shameful that a labor group, not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, Bitterly opposed these measures and lent itself to underhanded attacks on the federal bureau of investigation."

In a tribute to the FBI, Mr. Green concluded:

"This agency of our government inspired new respect for law enforcement among our people by promptly and thoroughly stamping out kidnapers of children. I predict that with your aid the FBI will win an even more glorious place for itself in history by promptly and thoroughly stamping out the representatives of subversive forces who would kidnap our liberties."

P. R. Olgiati New Prexy Of Bricklayers

P. R. Olgati, popular member of the Bricklayers' union, was elected president of that organization at the last meeting to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Brother Ace Raulings, who has moved to the mountain, which would make it difficult for him to carry on the duties of the office.

Mr. Olgati is a long time member of the Bricklayers' organization and is very active in the Central Labor union as a delegate from his union. He has made an outstanding record as general superintendent of the department of public utilities, grounds and buildings under Commissioner Bob Cooke.

Labor Day Committee To Meet Today

The general Labor day committee of the Central Labor union will meet today (Friday) at 5 o'clock in Commissioner R. M. (Bob) Cooke's office. Mr. R. E. Biggers, general chairman of the Chickamauga dam celebration, and Mr. Joe Engle, chairman of the parades committee, will meet with CLU committee to work out arrangements for labor's part in the big celebration on Labor day. All members of the committee are urged to be present.

School Custodians To Have Special Session Saturday

School Custodians' union will have a special called meeting this Saturday at the regular meeting place, the First Christian church, according to Hobart Martin, secretary.

Brother Martin urges all members to attend. He said that the last meeting was a good one and one new member was received.

BY HARRY BEDOIT

After attending several meetings of the Labor day program committee, I came to the conclusion that a big job had to be done. In my opinion it will take the co-operation of every member of organized labor if a success is made of the program. If the committee gets the co-operation that it needs, I don't see why we can't have a bigger and better Labor day turnout than we ever had.

I suppose every one knows that the Chickamauga dam celebration will be held around Labor day, and will have a tendency to attract our members to other places, which might complicate matters somewhat. So you can see what we are up against and that is why we want your assistance.

I was talking to Carl Travis lately. He tells me about a ball game held at Hixson, which is the home town of Eddy Vandergriff, so when Eddy made his appearance some of his old-t me buddies saw him and shouted, "Look, there's Sweet Potato Eddy." I have been told that Eddie's old man used to plant several extra acres of sweet potatoes just for junior.

The picnic committee informs me that Sunday, July 28, is the date of the picnic and for the womenfolk to be sure to bring some salads, pies and cakes. I have been told that there is a good swimming hole on the grounds and for all that care to swim to bring their bathing suits. I want to see "Lord Plushbottom" in a bathing suit, I bet he will look handsome. Yes, he is married and has a large family, I have been told. All who can should give the picnic committee all the assistance possible. They will need some help in getting tables and benches put up, some swings for the kiddies, etc. Then all we will need is fair weather and a big crowd for a good time.

Government Employes' Age Limit Raised

Washington. — Government age limits on the hiring of skilled workers are being lifted to speed the national defense program, it was announced.

Rules under which 48 years had been set as the maximum age for new employes in the navy yards are to be relaxed by the civil service commission, and at the same time yard commandants are to be given authority to rehire retired mechanics now out on pensions.

Other changes being put into effect include extension of the work-week to 48 hours in many of the yards, but with time and one-half rates above 40 hours. Employes will also be allowed to work during their annual leaves, if the emergency requires, and draw their vacation pay plus regular wages.

Pa. Sets Women Laundry Workers' Minimum Wage

Harrisburg, Ja. — Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines issued an order fixing the minimum wage for women and minors in the laundry industry of Pennnsylvania at 27 cents an hour. The order, effective June 1, established the wage rate recommended by the unanimous vote of the Pennsylvania minimum wage board for laundries, comprised of representatives of the public, the employes and the employers. The survey made by the board disclosed that 13.1 per cent of women and minors employed earned less than 27 cents per hour.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Two Important Conventions

Next week two history making conventions will begin their deliberations. The democratic national convention met in Chicago on Monday to name the democratic standard bearers for the November presidential election. In Havana, Cuba, the Pan-American convention, under the guidance of our own Secretary of State Cordell Hull, will meet to work out a program of political security and economic co-operation between the American nations. Important indeed are these two gatherings—upon their outcome depends the political and economic future not only of the United States, but of the Western hemisphere.

Democrats at Chicago

By the time this letter is published, the results of the Chicago convention will be known. It may, however, be of interest to relate how the picture looks from here at this time. It is a foregone conclusion that the delegates will almost unanimously insist upon Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance of the nomination. The belief is that although he does not desire another term, he will yield to the will of his party. This feeling is strengthened in view of the gravity of the international situation, and the necessity of keeping a man in the White House who has had experience and knows how to deal with delicate international problems.

Surely the democrats will acclaim the nomination of that great and matchless leader, who has brought the nation from the doldrums of the depression; who has fought for the farmers; recognized and sustained the rights of labor; protected investors and depositors; given the nation a social security program; and in general has tried to benefit the average man and woman.

Surely the south will acclaim the nomination of the one president who in recent years has recognized the problems of the south and has diligently tried to bring a measure of justice and prosperity to the southland.

Especially will the people of the Tennessee valley acclaim the selection of the leader who against terrific opposition has steadfastly fought for the Tennessee Valley Authority development which is rapidly making our section "The Ruhr of America," and is bringing to us a measure of prosperity and happiness.

Vice-Presidential Nomination

Democratic leaders have insisted that Mr. Hull accept the vice-presidential post in the event President Roosevelt accepts the nomination. Mr. Hull is reported to have turned down the offer, stating that he prefers to remain in his present important position. If he refuses to be drafted, the field at this time appears to be widespread. Rayburn, of Texas; Wheeler, of Montana; Lucas, of Illinois; Douglas and Jackson, appear to be the best bets.

Pan-American Convention

Evidence of nazi propaganda is already showing its effective force in the Western hemisphere. Mr. Hull reported this week that nazi forces in South American countries were attempting to sabotage the Pan-American convention. Mr. Hull, and his aides, have a difficult task in working out a program of security and defense for the nations of the Western hemisphere. The progress of the convention will be watched with a great deal of interest.

Committee to Investigate Law Against Alien Activities

Congress last week passed a most important law aimed at controlling and eliminating subversive and "fifth column" activities in this country. The law prohibits any effort to interfere with or impair the loyalty of any military or naval forces; it gives the attorney-general additional power to deport undesirable aliens; and it sets up a system for the fingerprinting and registration of aliens now residing in this counrty.

This law was prepared and reported to congress by the judiciary committee of the house. The chairman of that committee, Judge Hatton Sumners, of Texas, early this week appointed your representative as a member of a committee of three to keep in touch with the operation of the law; ascertain what immediate steps are being made to carry out its provisions; to confer with the [illegible] charged with its administration and to report to the congress as soon as possible as to any amendments or supplemental legislation that may be required for the purposes desired.

MINIMUM PAY ORDER GIVEN TEST IN PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa.—The first wage order under the 1937 women's minimum wage and hour law has been put into effect. The order calls for a 27-cent-an-hour level for 11,000 workers in the laundry industry.

Lewis G. Hines, state secretary of labor and industry and former director of organization for the American Federation of Labor, asked compliance with the new wage minimum for a 90-day period under his "directory" order. After that, he said, if there has been substantial compliance the wage will remain in effect.

"If at the end of 90 days we find there has been non-compliance we will call a public hearing and then determine whether we will put the wage into effect on a mandatory basis," Hines added. After a mandatory order the state can prosecute employers who refuse to meet the wage demand.

Tracy, Head of Electrical Workers, Appointed Ass't Secretary of Labor

A. F. L. Executive Chosen By Roosevelt for Important Post.

Washington. — Dan W. Tracy, stalwart president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, was appointed assistant secretary of labor by President Roosevelt. The senate is expected to confirm his appointment promptly.

Mr. Tracy, who will take up his new duties immediately, succeeds Marshall E. Dimock, University of Chicago professor, who was transferred to the department of justice when the bureau of immigration and naturalization was moved there from the department of labor.

The Executive Council of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers will meet soon in Washington to consider Mr. Tracy's resignation from the presidency which he has held since August, 1933.

The appointment of Mr. Tracy brings to the department of labor an aggressive and progressive labor leader with a long background of service in the labor movement. For the first time since the resignation of former Assistant Secretary Edward F. McGrady the labor department will have a high official with practical knowledge, experience and executive ability in the field of labor.

In his new post Mr. Tracy will be in a position to make the department of labor a much more effective instrument for the maintenance of harmonious labor relations in industry than it has been in the past. It is expected that he will take an active part in the national defense program and coordinate the activities of the department of labor with the national defense advisory commission.

Mr. Tracy served with distinction as the American labor delegate to the Pan-American conference held in Lima, Peru, more than a year ago. Secretary of State Hull, who headed the American delegation to the conference, warmly praised Mr. Tracy's services.

Under Mr. Tracy's leadership, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has made great forward strides in membership and in economic gains for workers during the past seven years.

He has been a leading figure in the campaign of the American Federation of Labor to amend the national labor relations act and has frequently criticized the national labor relations board for decisions adversely affecting the electrical workers and organized labor generally.

Impressive in appearance and a notable public speaker, Mr. Tracy has taken an active part in American Federation of Labor conventions for many years as a delegate from the I. B. E. W. and more recently has been instrumental in promoting the success of the regional conferences held by the A. F. of L. in Atlanta, Dallas and Hartford, Conn. He is 54 years old and lives in Houston, Tex.

Private Hospital Loses Its Fight Against Dealing With Labor Union

New York, N. Y.—Supreme Court Justice Algeron I. Nova in Brooklyn ruled in an unprecedented decision that a private hospital operated solely for profit must recognize the right of its employes to bargain collectively and choose their own bargaining agency.

The case involved the Adelphi hospital, owned and operated by Dr. H. F. McChesney, whose fourteen service and maintenance employes had chosen in an election held by the state labor relations board the Building Service Employes union, Local 80, A. F. of L. affiliate, as their bargaining agency. The employer refused to deal through the union on the ground that it was without jurisdiction and also refused to obey an order of the board requiring recognition of the union.

The board's decision was upheld by Justice Nova, who ruled that there was a distinction between voluntary hospitals and profit-seeking hospitals that affected their labor relations.

On the question of jurisdiction the court sustained the board's contention that the language of the statute covered labor relations in any field of employment where the objectives was the earning of a livelihood on one side and the earning of a profit on the other.

The court also declared that the act itself provided that it was to be "liberally construed" for the achievement of its "purpose of fostering collective bargaining as between employe and employer."

Pay Pact Averts Shipyard Tie-Up

Washington. — Peaceful settlement of a wage dispute averted a tie-up of ship construction at the Ingalls company shipyards at Pascagoula, Miss.

Negotiations were successfully concluded at a conference here of A. F. of L. union representatives, company officials and labor department conciliators.

The company agreed to a two cents an hour pay increase and the granting of other concessions which union spokesmen said will promote harmonious relations between management and employes. The pay increase was in addition to a 6 cents-an-hour increase for common labor and 4-cents-an-hour for burners obtained during earlier negotiations.

Attending the conference for the employes was William E. Walter, secretary-treasurer of the Boilermakers; William C. Calvin, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department; Harvey W. Brown, president of the Machinists; Joseph A. McDonagh, Washington legislative representative of the Electrical Workers; M. F. Garrett and Michael Walsh, for Steamfitters; John Howatt, for Carpenters, and Herbert Wood, for Operating Engineers.

"Naturally, we are gratified at the outcome," declared Mr. Walter, in announcing the agreement. "The Ingalls company has a contract for eight maritime commission ships, three of which are on the ways and the keel laid for another. It would have been unfortunate had this work been stopped, but a strike would have been unavoidable had not the negotiations taken a satisfactory turn."

Good Will—

"The world will never be saved by the childish way of force, but by mature ways of good-will and understanding. Our quarrel with totalitarianism is that as a way of life it is childish. It is founded upon tantrums and rage, power and force. Our way of life which is pitted against totaliarianism is the way of love, good-will and living with mankind on a common level."—Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo.

MORE ABOUT WRINKLE-KEFAUVER

no further delay in signing this contract.

We would also call Mr. Wrinkle's attention to the fact that the union of county bus drivers has been attempting to get a contract with the county board of education for more than two years. In view of Mr. Wrinkle's statement and the proposed resolution we are led to believe that the board of which he is a member and for whom he is presumably spokesman, is now ready to sign a contract with the bus drivers also.

If Mr. Wrinkle's statements are true, then upon the signing of these contracts we will heartily congratulate Mr. Wrinkle for his sudden and noble conversion to the cause of organized labor.

It is very unusual when an attorney who is a member of the board of education and who has consistently opposed all measures favorable to organized labor suddenly evinces such touching regard for the welfare of labor. We are confident that Mr. Wrinkle's candidacy for congress has nothing to do with his eleventh hour conversion (?), although to our knowledge this is the first time Mr. Wrinkle has ever expressed himself, either publicly or privately, in behalf of organized labor.

We would call candidate Wrinkle's attention to the fact that organized labor has an executive board set up to deal with practices that are unfair to labor. For Mr. Wrinkle's information no complaint has been registered against Congressman Kefauver by the printing trades of Chattanooga. On the other hand, Congressman Kefauver has rendered a most valuable service to organized labor as a member of congress and was recently indorsed by the non-partisan committee of the Tennessee Federation of Labor for re-election.

CRITICIZE ATTACK ON JOHN MAHONEY

In a statement issued yesterday, President Hallmark and Secretary Mabee, of the Central Labor union, recalled the record of Leroy Eldridge, postmaster at Hixson, who recently charged that Judge Cummings had asked him to engage in political activity regarded by Eldridge as forbidden by the Hatch act. This charge was denied by Cummings.

The CLU officers made reference to the fight waged by labor in Chattanooga to prevent the appointment of Eldridge because of his "declared attempt to form a vigilante committee to destroy the efforts of working people to organize and bargain collectively."

Pinch Hitting for Joe DiMaggio

Trying to edit THE LABOR WORLD in the absence of the regular editor is somewhat akin to the same person trying to pinch hit for Joe Di Maggio in a world series game between the New York Yankees (last year's edition) and the Cincinnati Reds (this year's edition). There is the familiar sinking feeling in the pit of the stomach and other symptoms associated with stage fright. It is to be hoped, however, that all will be well and the end may not be a "finis."

To the right the reader will find an editorial gleaned from a publication of Labor from over the country which we hope and believe will be both informative and timely. We are living in trying times — times which try the souls and courage of men and test the depth of their good-will. It is hoped by this writer that these editorials will contribute to your enjoyment in the reading of this paper, but more than this it is hoped they will contribute to your knowledge and understanding of what is happening about us, for it is on knowledge and understanding that good-will must be based. In the words of Thomas Jefferson (from memory), "We need not fear error or falsehood so long as truth is left free to combat it."

STANTON E. SMITH.

Exposes Fallacy of Longer Hours

(Reprinted from Labor)

Those who imagine that the way to "speed up production" in this country is to lengthen the hours of labor, we commend the following from the pen of a veteran labor leader who for almost half a century has had exceptional opportunities to observe conditions in this country and abroad:

"A most ridiculous outpouring of words comes to us from columnists who, like 'Alkali Ike' of Vinegar Hill, 'never worked and never will.' Their claim is that labor must work longer hours and more days a week. One of these gentlemen is even advocating the 12-hour day and a seven-day week. This is perhaps the most ridiculous of all the wild and woolly ideas which have come from these pundits of the press.

"I am old enough to remember the 12-hour and the 10-hour day, but what these columnists forget is that conditions today are altogether different, not only as to the hours worked, but also as to the monotony and strenuousness of the conditions of labor.

"In those days there was not the fast tempo of today—the constant high tension which compels a worker to remain steadily on a strain during every hour he works. The pace was not as killing as that of today and the worker was not a wreck when the whistle blew.

"Under Hitler the Labor Front in Germany tried the 12-hour day and the 7-day week, but the nazis were compelled to go back to the 8-hour, three-shift, six-day week—for workers 'broke' under the intense strain caused by keeping up with the machine, which in modern days sets the pace.

"In the building of the Siegfried line it was found impossible to maintaain the 12-hour day, 7-day week. For one thing, drunkenness increased among workers, causing them to be off duty and incapable of performing their tasks for days at a time. Neither jailing nor other punishment could stop the evil, because workers simply had to find relief from the mental and physical torture resulting from long hours and no day of rest.

"So great was the delay caused by men failing to report for work that Hitler had to import bricklayers and cement workers from Holland and had to assure them the 8-hour day.

"What the columnists and others advocating the 12-hour day fail to understand is that to succeed they would have to revert to industrial conditions which no longer exist. The 12-hour day and the 7-day week, under modern conditions, would result in such disorder and dislocation that production would be greatly lessened, not increased.

"If the advocates of long hours question this statement they should consult their friends, the nazis, because the latter know from experience that the scheme won't work."

Fortunately, up to date the leaders of the Roosevelt administration have refused to be influenced by the clamor for longer hours. "Before we do anything like that, we should put all our idle to work," the president said at one of his press conferences.

Brothers W. T. Manley, I. C. Rowland and Frank Bailey are still on the sick list. Hope to see these brothers back on duty real soon.

I would like to make a correction on last week's report about the ball team of Local 1212. The boys are doing wonderful work and are sure that they will be very successful throughout the year. Last week I gave the credit of managing the team to Mr. John Hill, who was the manager at the beginning of the season, but I have been told that he has been out to see the boys play two official games during the season. The boys said that the credit should go to Brothers W. L. Brown and Carl Rich. They say that these brothers have been faithful in attending the games and getting the line-up and seeing that the boys are all there in time for the game. From what I can gather from them Brother Carl Rich has been their manager and they say that he is about the best that can be found. They have won the City Class B championship and are going strong now for the Class A title. Well, we wish them all the best of luck and hope that they will come out on top when the season is over.

MONKEY MAN?

MONKEY MAN?

I have heard many things told on lots of people, but this one is the best that has ever been told at the car barn.

Brother Willie Hunt has the title of Monkey Man added to his name, so when I asked why, this is the reason I got:

Brother Hunt and his wife were at the circus and while Brother Hunt was looking at the animals his wife was walking along ahead of him when she heard a terrible notise. She looked back and to her amazement she saw that Brother Willie was having a terrible time with one of the hired men in the circus. She went back to him and the man was telling Brother Willie to get back in there where he belonged and was about to put him in one of the cages when Brother Willie's wife rushed in and said, "Hold on there, that is no monkey, that is my man." So we think that Brother Willie owes his life to his wife.

SAFETY HINTS

Keep your distance from the car in front of you so that you can stop any time in any emergency. Our buses are equipped with air brakes, therefore you should stay back twice as far due to the fact that air brakes are twice as quick as any other kind. Always be sure that if the car or bus in front should stop you can do likewise.

GOSPEL OF SUNSHINE

Faith.

Believe in yourself. Self-faith saving faith. The trinity of faith is faith in God, faith in man, faith in yourself. Believe in yourself, and humanity will believe you. Doubt yourself, and humanity will doubt you. The friend you have is the friend believes in you. The worst enemy you have is the man who persently doubts you. Don't let man tell you what you "can't" The worst kind of "can't" is can't which falls from the lips the man who says: "You can't this" and you "can't do that"

To me the person that has faith in anyone or anything is most miserable, uncontented person that ever lived. I believe anyone in such condition would better off had they never been born. To hear someone around and say that "there is God" or to use God's name in just makes me have cold chills and a sad heavy heart. It looks and sounds very low and common and also very unnecessary. If everyone would sit and read the Bible, which God tended for us to do, they would find that it is very plain and ple for us to understand that there is a God and that salvation is every one that is willing to God have His way in their and not their ways of things. If you will turn to your Bible to Psalm 14:1 you will that it says, "The fool hath said his heart, There is no God. They are corrupt, they have done abominable works, there is none doeth good." Therefore, I understand why so many people wish to believe that man has say rather than what God has ready told us. I believe that there are lots of them that speak never think, therefore never know what they are saying. Some using the European war to argue that there is no God, but if they knew anything about the Bible they would know that it tells us that what we sow that shall we will reap.

The people of today are getting so far away from God and doing what they want to do or what someone else wants them to that they never have time to think about God or to do their own thinking for themselves. We are going to have our testing time, our troubles, hardships and etc., to test our faith. When it comes the test most of us can't take. We fall by the wayside and do not have the spirit and courage to buck up and try harder than ever before. Just remember what God's Word teaches: The FOOL hath said in his heart, "There is no God." We need not look for peace nor prosperity until we make up our minds to turn our backs on this old world and look toward God and put our trust in Him. His word teaches us to "seek ye first the Kingdom of God and all these things will be added unto you." There is a little good in all of us so let's try to cultivate it by going to Sunday school and church every Sunday.

God makes bad men good and good men better.

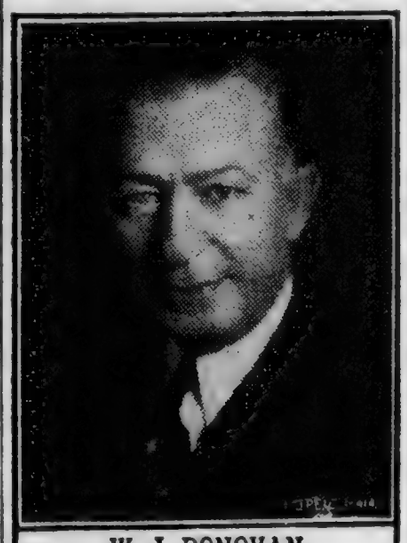
WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS



W. J. DONOVAN

William J. Donovan, General President of the Laundry Workers' International Union, started his Labor career in 1905 by organizing teamsters in the city of Chicago. In September of 1937, Mr. Donovan became President of Local No. 46 of the Laundry Workers' International Union. It had very few members and was in debt over $8,000. There are more than 10,000 dues paying members in that Local. It was principally due to the successful organization of this Local Union that the Laundry Workers' International Union was established.

In September, 1939, Mr. Donovan was reelected by a referendum vote of 10 to 1. Through his long experience in organization work and his aggressive methods in Unionizing laundries the Union has been placed on a sound membership and financial basis.

His address is: Mr. William J. Donovan, President, Laundry Workers' International Union, Room 608, 10 North Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois.

LAUNDRY WORKERS' LABEL

The Union Label of the Laundry Workers' International Union is stamped on the price lists of all Union laundries. It was adopted in 1900.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

It was pointed out that the real purpose behind the Eldridge charges is to defeat John T. Mahoney, member of organized labor, who is candidate for the state senate.

The statement of the officers follows:

"We were rather amused to note an article given to the daily press by 'Squire Wilkes Thrasher promoting a squabble between Judge Cummings and Mr. Leroy Eldridge, postmaster at Hixson, Tenn.

"For what reason is Mr. Thrasher promoting this fight between Eldridge and Cummings, who have been lifelong friends? Thrasher is trying to discredit John T. Mahoney because Mahoney refuses to perpetuate the squire system if elected to the state senate.

"Organized labor was strongly opposed to the appointment of Mr. Eldridge because of his declared attempt to form a vigilante committee to destroy the efforts of working people to organize and bargain collectively.

"We strongly opposed Mr. Eldridge's appointment as postmaster because we felt that no person should be employed by the federal government who was opposed to the laws passed by congress which guaranteed the right of workers to organize and bargain collectively. Despite our opposition, the continuous and strenuous efforts of Wilkes Thrasher and Judge Cummings were able to overthrow the wishes of labor and secure this man's appointment. Now at the eleventh hour he deserts his lifelong bosom companion — it is enough to destroy one's faith in humanity.

"Now let's get down to the facts about John T. Mahoney, a loyal member of organized labor and who is now a candidate for the state senate.

"It was largely through the urgent efforts of organized labor that John T. Mahoney consented to enter the race for state senator from Hamilton county. To our positive knowledge Mahoney has made no private agreements or alignments with any political leader or group.

"While it may be true that many of the officeholders are now for Mahoney, we refuse to let the 'rebel squires,' headed by Wilkes Thrasher, hang the collar of any man around Mahoney's neck.

"Organized labor has not committed Mahoney to any secret agreements either. All we want is a clean, decent man in the state senate, who will give labor and all the citizens of Hamilton county a square deal and equal representation. We feel that a vote for John T. Mahoney will be a vote for good government.

"V. W. HALLMARK, Pres.
"ERSKINE MABEE, Sec."

Two Big News Services Sign Pacts With Telegraphers' Union Cutting Work Hours, Granting Pay Raises

New York City.—The Commercial Telegraphers' union reached agreements with the Associated Press and International News Service on June 28, covering nearly 1,000 telegraph workers.

The Associated Press agreement reduces hours from 40 to 37½ for a five-day week to conform with the United Press. Basic scales were unchanged, but some 100 individual operators will be reclassified and receive from $2.50 to $20.00 per week increases. In bureaus hereafter there will be no operator-attendants. They must be either operators or mechanics. Severance pay up to 24 weeks has been agreed to.

Wage Increases.

The International News Service has agreed to increases of from $2.50 to $7.50 per week, with a 36 2-3 hour, 5-day week.

Both agreements will be for one year. The United Press agreement, which was not open, runs until 1941.

The AP representatives were Harry S. Leimbach, general chairman; Harry A. Ulrickson, Kansas City, and James P. Meagher, New York. Frank B. Powers, international president, was a member of the arbitration board, and assisted during the negotiations.

The INS committee consisted of General Chairman Arthur Markel andd Frank Rotella, of Washington, D. C.

Telegraphers' Help Offered.

Chicago.—In a letter to Atty.-Gen. Robert H. Jackson, President Frank B. Powers, of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union offers the services of the union's officers and members in the department of justice's work of policing the nation from "subversive elements which have crept into the telegraph industry."

Powers reminded the attorney-general of recent testimony before the Dies committee that at least 150 members of the CIO-affiliated American Communications association on board merchant ships are communists, and said that the Commercial Telegraphers' union has a "tradition of full realization and responsibility for the secrecy of telegrams."

Reds Barred by Union.

The telegraphers' head pointed out that the 1935 convention of his union barred any member of the CTU from becoming a member of a communistic organization. He said in his opinion this would include nazi or fascist organizations and went on to tell Jackson:

"Registration of aliens will not catch the even more dangerous American citizens who have become the puppets and camp-followers of the Stalin-Hitler fifth column in the United States. We believe that telegraph workers who are in daily contact with every city in the nation, and with steamships on the coastal and high seas regions in this hemisphere can detect suspicious actions and thus be of great service to your department."

In another letter, to Chairman James Ely, of the federal communications commission, President Powers extended the fullest co-operation of the union in the commission's activities "directed towards protection of communications from foreign-dominated misuse or abuse."

"Build-Up" Good News For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary!

Many who suffer from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus it often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance to periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "the time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI more than 50 years.

PUBLICATION FOR DEFENDANT
No. 4166
Before J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, Hamilton County, Tennessee.
B. L. Leonard vs. John Doe, alias Earl Stacks.

Whereas, B. L. Leonard, on the 20th day of June, 1940, made affidavit before me, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, that the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, was justly indebted to him by account in the sum of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, and that the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and that said B. L. Leonard gave bond as required by law in attachment cases, and

Whereas, I, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, on that day issued an original attachment against the estate of the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, returnable and set for trial for August 6, 1940, at 10:00 a.m., at my office at 624 Cherry Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, and said attachment has been levied on certain property (one 1934-Ford V-8, Georgia License D-9-1170) of the defendant, and an order for this publication has been duly made,

Now, therefore, said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, is hereby notified to appear at my office at 624 Cherry Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the sixth day of August, 1940, at 10:00 a.m., and then and there to defend this attachment suit or the same will be proceeded with ex parte.

This 11th day of July, 1940.

J. W. JOHNSTON,
Justice of the Peace.

"Shrinkage" Rules

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

I was a machinist apprentice chum was an apprentice pattern shop. Sometimes lunch with him, and, as his work-bench and listened to the "secrets" of his trade, I learned some very interesting facts. One thing that strongly impressed me was his set of "shrinkage" rules. I discovered for the first time that the wooden pattern was made larger than the casting was intended to be, because of the shrinkage in the cooling metal.

For cast iron the pattern maker's rule was an eighth of an inch longer than the standard foot; for brass, three-sixteenths, and for steel, one-quarter of an inch, although these increased measurements per foot were equally divided between each fraction of every inch. The effect was that the three rules looked exactly like a standard rule, until they were placed alongside a standard rule. But so our ideals always suffer in the work of embodiment.

Beethoven said that his beautiful symphony is but an empty echo of the heavenly music he heard in his dream. It lost its greatest charm when he transferred it to manuscript. The architect has an important place in the world's work, for every machine and every great enterprise was dreamed out before it was worked out. Sometimes the "dreamer" and the "worker" are personified in the same man. But it often happens that the worker becomes contemptuous of the dreamer who has spent years of nights thinking through the vision that came to him on the first of these nights when his idea or his ideal flashed across his mind.

The intensely practical man—that "hardheaded" fellow—needs to learn that before he can get on the job, he must wait until the dreamers have told their dreams. For without these visions there would be no jobs for anyone.

That pattern maker's rule taught me that if my life was to square itself with the plans laid out for me by the Creator so that it would harmonize and fit in with other worthy lives and plans, my ideals as to what I would be and do, must be higher and better than the average, for these ideals would suffer grievously when transmuted into practical, every-day living. If my ideals were no higher than the life of the average man about me, as I saw it, I would be less than an ordinary man, for his ideals were doubtless higher than the life he was living.

It is probably impossible for most of us to measure up to the best that has come to us in our vision, but if we were even one-half as good as we might be, we would be twice as good as we are. This means that we are functioning only about 25 per cent of our capacity, because the fire of our zeal has slowed down—like a cooling casting—and this is too much "shrinkage."

Suggests State Aid To Mend Accounting Of Counties, Towns

Knoxville.—Tennessee's state government should extend a helping hand to counties and cities by supervising their accounting systems, believes W. Harold Read, University of Tennessee assistant professor of accounting, after surveying accounting practices of local government in the state. The inadequate accounting system of virtually all counties and cities in the state could be improved and made more uniform by this assistance, he said.

Prof. Read, a certified public accountant, has already completed his survey and is writing up his findings and recommendations for publication in a forthcoming bulletin. The survey is a joint project of the U. T. bureau of business research and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

State supervision is a "proved solution" to the problem of inadequate local government accounting, declared Prof. Read. While Tennessee does not serve the counties in this respect, two-thirds of the other states have found such assistance profitable, he said.

"Tennessee now has the framework of such a state organization in the department of local finance, but this organization exists in name only. The proper legal steps that would make this potential department effective have never been taken," he pointed out.

The state government does offer such supervisory servcie to one division of local government, Prof. Read continued. The state department of education requires each local educational unit receiving state aid to operate under a supervised budget, follow a prescribed system of accounts, and make periodic reports. But education is the only function given this administrative assistance, he said.

Prophecy—

"Europe is threatened with an age that will be wild and grim. . . . The gods will veil their faces out of pity for their age-old nurslings, the children of Adam—and perhaps out of concern, also, for their own fate. The future speaks to us of scourges, of blood, of godliness, and of a great deal of cudgeling. I counsel our grandchildren to come into the world with well-padded shoulders and packs.——Heinrich Heine in 1834.

Good Lumber Workers' Contract

Tacoma, Wash.—Members of Local No. 2682, Lumber and Sawmill Workers, A. F. of L., are receiving praise from Pacific Northwest labor union members for negotiating what is declared to be the best agreement in the lumber industry.

The agreement provides for a union shop, complete union hiring hall, seniority and additional pay for overtime work.

TEACHER TALK

A questionnaire is to be sent to all the aspirants to the state legislature so that we can know just what each of them proposes to do about problems concerning the schools. When the answer comes in, the gist of them will be sent to you.

* * *

Things look good for the county teachers. If the county can so operate as to have over a hundred thousand dollars over at the end of the fiscal year, surely they can find a way to give the teachers at least the one-eighth of their scheduled increases. Perhaps another slight decrease in the county tax rate and an increase in the city rate would help to equalize the situation. Certainly Chattanooga has no right to continue paying its teachers their present salaries so long as it can boast the lowest tax rate in any city of comparable size. The city is simply not doing its share.

We teachers can do anything. Ye editor of The Labor World this week is one of our number, for instance. It would be interesting to make a list of the many odd jobs teachers find to carry them through their aestivation.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Marie Jones, Correspondent

Hello, everybody, we missed you at the meeting Tuesday night. Out of our fastly increasing membership it appears to me that more of you could attend at least one meeting a month. We have our meetings the first and third Tuesday nights at 8:30 at 114½ West Seventh street. and the fourth Tuesday night at 12 midnight at 108½ East Eighth street for the benefit of those who have to work late. I'm sure that if you would make an effort you could be there for at least one meeting. It is your business and for your interest that we have these meetings. If you don't attend to your own business, who will? Next Tuesday night is our midnight meeting. So be sure to be there. We will have refreshments.

Definition of a good union member: "Good union members are those who realize that they can hope to benefit themselves only by combining their collective bargaining strength with others earning a living in the same line of work. They realize that this can be done through bona fide, free trade unions responsive to the needs and will of the membership. Because good union members know they share common benefits, they willingly assume their share of the common responsibilities."

Brewery, Soft Drink Workers Elect Officers

At the regular meeting on July 11, the Brewery and Soft Drink Workers, Local 79, re-elected its old officers for another term. Two new trustees were elected and the local refused to accept an attempted resignation of Brother Erskin Fischer as recording secretary. Brother Fischer's past services seem to have been exceedingly satisfactory and he was returned to office by popular demand.

Following is a list of the officers and trustees: O. B. Kelso, president; Ernest Stutz, vice-president; Erskin D. Fischer, recording secretary; Bob Reich, financial secretary; Charles Davis, treasurer; Joe Plummer, Leo Lee, Charles Smith, trustees, and Bob Parker, sergeant-at-arms.

Secretary Fischer reports that the local's business is proceeding in good shape and that the local was particularly pleased with the report of Leo Lee on the new labor temple which has recently been acquired by the A. F. of L. unions of Chattanooga.

The many friends of George Lawson will be glad to learn that he is now back on the job following an automobile accident which laid him up for a time.

Sherman Waldrop, who was also injured in an automobile accident, is still not able to work, but is reported to be doing well and expects to be back at work very soon.

Sidney Hillman Fed Up on John L. Lewis Crowd

By JOHN L. DEAL
President Local Union 21164,
A. F. of L.

Five years ago John L. Lewis took his United Mine Workers union and nine other international unions out of the American Federation of Labor, and formed, with the aid of the communists, what is known as the CIO.

Today, five of the ten international unions that went into the CIO have left the CIO.

Some of these five international unons have come back to the American Federation of Labor, sick and tired of the way the CIO was managed and mismanaged.

The last of these international unions to come back home was the International Ladies' Garment Workers, which left Lewis two years ago, and came back into the

GOOGE CALLS UPON COPPER BASIN LABOR TO VOTE FOR AFL AND INCREASE WAGES

BY GEORGE L. GOOGE,
Southern Representative American Federation of Labor.

The present and future welfare of the citizens in the Copper Basin are at stake in the U. S. Labor Board election of the Tennessee Copper Company's employes on Friday of this week. Due to trickery and subterfuge, the employes are not permitted to vote for "No Union." They MUST vote for the American Federation of Labor, or the CIO. A vote against the American Federation of Labor is a vote to continue the CIO contract, to continue CIO committees, and all employes must handle grievances and differences with the Company through the CIO agents, in accordance with the CIO contract which will remain in force, if the loyal American citizens employed by the Tennessee Copper Company vote against the American Federation of Labor Friday.

Any one needing an automobile to get to the polls Friday for the purpose of voting is urged to phone our A. F. of L. Union office in Copperhill, and a car will call for you immediately.

A vote for the American Federation of Labor means cancelling the CIO contract; means doing away with the CIO grievance committees; means repudiating Communist Fifth Column activities in the Copper Basin; means placing labor relations in the hands of patriotic Americans and forever eliminating those who called and led the CIO strike; it means throwing off the yoke of misrepresentation and abuse of men's rights, and the elimination of strikes, shootings, picket lines, dynamiting and civil war in the Basin.

A vote against the American Federation of Labor is a vote to continue and perpetuate all the trouble and suffering that the CIO has caused to the people in the Basin.

A vote for the American Federation of Labor means an increase in the wage scales of all the employes of the Tennessee Copper Company.

A vote for the American Federation of Labor means progress and betterment for the community.

A vote for the American Federation of Labor means a vote of appreciation for the A. F. of L. in saving your company $70,000 a year in taxes to your county to take the place of taxes formerly paid by the Tennessee Electric Power Company to operate the public schools and local government. The American Federation of Labor recently secured the passage by Congress of a law directing the Tennessee Valley Authority to reimburse the schools and local government for tax money lost to the schools and county agencies, when the government bought the property of the Tennessee Electric Power Company in the Copper Basin.

The CIO congressman, led by Congressman Mays, of Kentucky, fought your schools and the people of the Basin, while the American Federation of Labor demanded of congress and secured the passage of this law protecting the people of the Copper Basin. Ask your public officials if the American Federation of Labor did not do this for you.

The American Federation of Labor did this for you because we

JACKSON C. OF C. SECRETARY "PICKETS" T.F.L SECRETARY

Has So Much Spare Time He Spends Afternoon in Front of Labor Hall as Scared Waitresses Hunt for Cover.

The secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor had the peculiar experience in Jackson, Tenn., last week of being picketed by the secretary of the Jackson Chamber of Commerce.

It happened this way: The secretary was in Jackson and was asked by the trades and labor council there to assist in organizing a culinary workers union. Various employes in the coffee shop of the New Southern hotel in Jackson were talked to and it appeared they were anxious to have an organization because their conditions were not so very good. They solemnly asserted that they would attend a meeting if called.

A meeting was called for 3:30 on a Monday afternoon last week.

In the meantime information came to the labor movement offices that the hotel management sent word to its employes that if they attended the meeting they need not show up for work the next day.

A strange coincidence is that at 3:20 on the day of the meeting the secretary of the chamber of commerce just "happened" to pay a visit to all "the boys" right smack in front of the labor hall, on the sidewalk. He visited for about an hour.

And no employe of the hotel coffee shop showed up at the door of the meeting hall.

Nevertheless, a charter application for a culinary workers' union will be sent from Jackson in a few days; there will be some union house cards in other restaurants in Jackson; and who knows . . .

Maybe the secretary of the Jackson Chamber of Commerce will have the opportunity to give a glad hand to a new union in Jackson.

We are told that some years ago in Jackson, Tenn., many places of business displayed cards in their show windows reading as follows:

"This place is NOT a member of the chamber of commerce."

Jax Brewing Company Renews Union Contract

Jacksonville, Fla.—According to Frank Kodatt, president of the Brewery Workers' Local Union No. 171, it is reported that the Jax Brewing company was the first to sign the agreement calling for an increase in wage scales and other beneficial working conditions.

The negotiations for the new agreement were handled by a special committee of brewery workers composed of Frank Kodatt, Bill Hornstein, Neal Brabham, N. H. Nisseh and all shop delegates with Mr. William Ostner for the company. As usually, Jax Brewing company set the pace for new working conditions in behalf of brewery workers.

realized that if the Tennessee Copper company had to pay this additional $70,000 to Polk county in taxes, it would have been almost impossible for us to get that increase in wages for you which we are confident we can get just as soon as the workers employed by the company vote to make the American Federation of Labor their bargaining agency.

Remember this: When you vote "YES" on the ballot Friday, you are voting for the American Federation of Labor and your own best interests.

If you vote "NO", you are voting for the CIO and all of its strikes, strife and troubles.

Southern Mfg. Company Signs Pact With Unions

Gadsden, Ala.—Agreements have been signed here between the Southern Manufacturing company and local unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Teamsters and Chauffeurs International union. Negotiations were under way for several days, and much work was done by all concerned in bringing about the happy termination of efforts. Representative John Howat, of the Carpenters and Joiners, assisted the committee from his local union. The committee from the local union of truck drivers worked with the committee representing the carpenters.

Commissioner of Conciliation Finch of the U. S. department of labor, and Hugh W. Brown, of the Birmingham office of the American Federation of Labor, co-operated with the union committee and the management in obtaining the agreements. An increase in wages of 2½ cents an hour for all employes was obtained, while adjustments in some brackets called for an increase as high as 13 cents an hour, and other advancements were procured.

Brooks Foundry Signs Union

Agreement with Molders Local

Atlanta, Ga.—John L. Heald, international representative of the Molders' union, announces that a union shop agreement has been signed with the Brooks Foundry and Machine Works in this city. An increase of 5 cents an hour was obtained for the helpers and apprentices.

While in Atlanta Mr. Heald was principal speaker at the 50th anniversary celebration of the organization of Atlanta Local Union No. 272, International Molders' union. E. C. Curtis, commissioner of conciliation, United States department of labor, also addressed the Atlanta meeting.

Closed Shop Pact At Bennettsville Is Reported

Bennettsville, S. C.—The existing labor contract between Marlboro cotton mills at Bennettsville and Local 1912 of the United Textile Workers of America was renewed this week with the addition of a closed shop provision, it was announced here by Gordon Chastain, national vice-president of the UTWA.

Chastain said the new contract would become effective Aug. 4 and run for 12 months. Under the present contract, all employes of the mill except three are members of the union, Chastain stated. When the new contract goes into effect all eligible employes will be required to maintain union membership, he said.

According to Chastain, the new contract was signed by himself for the national UTWA; by Fernie Fowler, president, and Wilson Hammond, secretary for the union local and, by David D. Carroll, president, and E. H. McGregor, secretary for the mill management.

Chastain said the contract was the first closed shop agreement ever negotiated in the textile industry in South Carolina. The UTWA is an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Agreement Signed With Bag Company

Mobile, Ala.—An agreement, which has been in the process of negotiation for some time, has been signed between the Terminal Bag company and its nearly 200 employes, made up of white Local Azalea No. 405, and colored Local Azalea No. 405-A of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. It will be recalled that an election was conducted at this plant, on May 9, by the NLRB, at which time the American Federation of Labor gained an overwhelming victory.

Both the management, as represented by Charles L. Mintz, and the employes, as represented by Homer Humble, president of Azalea No. 405, expressed themselves as being well pleased with the benefits which will accrue to each side under the new agreement.

Another Pact For Hotel Employes

Nashville.—R. A. Farrell, special international representative for Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Alliance, reports that Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Local Union No. 557 has signed a standard union agreement with McDonald's "Round House," now a very popular eating place on Sixth avenue, opposite the bus station.

Local Union No. 557 has been making substantial progress since the Andrew Jackson hotel was recently signed up. The "lock-out strike" is still on at the Notel hotel, Church street and Fourth avenue, at this writing and it is reported that the main dining room of the Noel has closed down. Certainly, no members of organized labor or their friends would cross the "picket line" at the Noel hotel.

AFL Newspaper Union Wins Higher Pay In Chicago Herald-American Contract

Chicago, Ill.—In a renewal of its contract with the management of the Herald-American, the Newspaper Commercial Associates, Union No. 21662, American Federation of Labor, obtained for its members many provisions which make the agreement the best of its kind signed with any newspaper anywhere. The contract covers wages, hours and working conditions in the advertising, circulation and business administration department.

One of the outstanding stipulations of the contract provides for salary increases for about 275 members of the union for a yearly total of approximately $41,600. The salary increases are effective immediately.

It was signed for the union by I. J. Braveman, president; Andre Ferdinand, secretary - treasurer; Julian Coplon, Charles J. Mueller and Ben Oosten, negotiating committee, and for the management by T. J. White, president, and E. D. Fulton, secretary.

Credit was given by the union to John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and Daniel D. Carmell, attorney for the Chicago Federation of Labor and the Illinois State Federation of Labor, for their aid in the negotiations.

Truth Crushed to Earth Will Rise Again

Nothing ever written is truer than the statement that "Truth Crushed to Earth Will Rise Again." Deceit and lies and misrepresentations, so often resorted to by men whose propositions cannot stand upon their own foundation, always come to light, and Truth stands out instead.

Throughout the past three years officers of the international union and their organizers have been misrepresenting facts in connection with the fight being waged in the Copper Basin, often resorting to downright falsehoods. But in no other instance have the international officers and organizers been more deceitful with the workers of the Copper Basin than that contained in a mimeographed letter sent out this week to the workers of the Copper Basin.

The statement that the CIO pulled their name off of the ticket in the interest of the national defense program is one of the biggest whoppers ever told. If the CIO had the slightest hope of winning the election Friday they would no more have taken their name off the ballot than they would jump in the furnace at Copperhill. It is bad enough to falsely state a thing, but it is much worse when such false statement is accompanied by an effort to still further deceive good people.

In the same article that the above misstatement of fact appeared, the CIO officials went on to say that their name being taken from the ballot, the workers could now vote either for the American Federation of Labor, or No Union at all. That is pure deceit, and so intended to be. The CIO knows that the ballot as now arranged means that the workers will either elect the American Federation of Labor as bargaining agency, or, if a majority of them vote "NO," then the CIO will continue to be in power over the lives and conditions of labor in the Copper Basin.

They should not attempt to deceive the people, for they know that "Truth crushed to earth will rise again."

The people know the truth—and the truth is that the CIO is simply trying to deceive the workers of the Copper Basin again, just as the CIO officials have tried to deceive the people ever since that sad day when old John L. Lewis ordered Reid Robinson to take the international out of the American Federation of Labor.

CIO Continues Its Deceitful Course

In pulling its name off of the ballot on the eve of the labor board election, the CIO is trying to fool the workers in the Copper Basin by saying the election is now between the American Federation of Labor and "NO UNION." That is not so, and the workers are not being fooled by this attempt at deception.

As the ballot now stands, if the worker vote "YES," he is voting for the American Federation of Labor.

If the worker votes "NO," he is voting for the CIO, just as much as if the CIO's name was printed on the ballot.

Under the so-called agreement that the CIO has with the company, the CIO is to remain as bargaining agency for a certain period of time, or until ANOTHER UNION IS SELECTED BY THE WORKERS as the bargaining agency.

So you see the slick trick attempted by the CIO?

They are saying that they want you to vote for "NO UNION."

You cannot so vote, for the ballot reads:

"Do you want the American Federtion of Labor to represent you?

You can vote only "YES" or "NO."

If you vote "NO," and a majority of you vote "NO," then the CIO remains as your bargaining agency, according to the scheme and plans of the scheming CIO officials.

Either the American Federation of Labor will be your bargaining agency, or the CIO will be your bargaining agency.

Under the board's orders you CANNOT VOTE FOR "NO UNION." That alternative DOES NOT APPEAR ON THE BALLOT. The ONLY question you can vote on in this election Friday is whether or not you want the American Federation of Labor to represent you. If so, you vote "YES." If you vote "NO," then you are voting for the CIO to remain as your bargaining agency.

The workers would do well to talk this matter over with one another. An attempt is being made to fool the workers in the Copper Basin. That is the way the CIO loves to work—by trickery, slick tricks, fooling the workers. That's their record; that's their history, and that's exactly what they're trying to do to the workers now—slick trick them into voting for the CIO.

So, when a CIO leader tells you to vote for "NO UNION," just tell him that you have no chance to vote "NO UNION," that the ballot being as it is, if you vote "NO," you're simply voting for the CIO.

Remember, there is nothing on the ballot to say you can vote for "NO UNION." You can simply vote "YES," or "NO," and the only thing you're voting for is "Do you want the American Federation of Labor to represent you?"

If you vote "YES," then it will be the American Federation of Labor.

If you vote "NO," then you will be voting for the CIO to continue its power over you and remain as your bargaining agency.

You CANNOT VOTE FOR "NO UNION" IN FRIDAY'S ELECTION!

The CIO is trying to fool you into such belief. Ask the Labor Board officials, if you doubt this statement that a "NO" vote means a vote for the CIO!

MORE ABOUT Paul J. Aymon

tract will remain in effect and force.

That is why the CIO pulled off of the ballot. Evidently they knew that the workers would not vote for the CIO, so they concocted the scheme to pull off of the ballot, and urge their followers to vote for "No" in the hope that the CIO would thus be able to retain its contract with the company. That's the scheme, the rather slick way the CIO has of keeping its hold fastened upon the workers here.

The matter is entirely in the hands of the workers. No one can vote except those who actually work for the company and that group now on the "preferential list." If the workers do not want the CIO, then the only way to get rid of them once and for all time is to go to the polls Friday of this week, and vote in the box marked "YES." The worker who fails to vote will have no one to blame but himself for the way the election goes, and for what follows after the election.

I understand that the CIO is putting out a circular, stating that they pulled off of the ballot in order to co-operate with the Defense Program. That is an insult to the intelligence of the men who work in the Copper Basin. Everyone knows that it is not so. The CIO pulled off of the ballot simply because they knew that they could not get a majority vote, and they hope by voting "No" and by getting some of the other workers to vote "No" that they will be able to keep their contract and continue to manage and mismanage your affairs. The officers and leaders of the CIO should not try to deceive the workers by giving out false statements as to why they pulled off of the ballot. They know the truth, and the workers know the truth. They pulled off because they knew they could not get anything like a majority of the votes, and are simply trying to scheme their way in to continue their minority rule.

But as I said a moment ago, the worker who fails to vote, and the worker who votes "No" in Friday's election, are simply falling for the scheme of the CIO leaders.

If a majority of the workers vote "YES" in Friday's election, and select the American Federation of Labor as the bargaining agency, we will do everything in our power for you. The records show that the only advancements that ever came to the workers in the Copper Basin were obtained when the workers were in the American Federation of Labor. The CIO has done absolutely nothing for the workers, except to harm them. It seems to me that common judgment and every-day old mountain thinking would be sufficient to prove to any employe of the Tennessee Copper company that his only chance of advancement, therefore, is to be found in the affiliation of the workers in the Copper Basin with the American Federation of Labor.

But the matter is entirely in the hands of those who are entitled to vote. The voters and the voters alone can determine the question. We cannot vote, nor can we help the workers employed by the Tennessee Copper company until they themselves vote us that power and authority. If a majority of the workers vote "Yes" in Friday's election, then the American Federation of Labor, the Tennessee Federation of Labor, the Chattanooga Central Labor Union, the Knoxville Central Labor Union, the Atlanta office of the American Federation of Labor, and the full force and power of this vast A. F. of L. organization, all will be at the call of the workers in the Copper Basin. If the workers want this help, then all they have to do is to vote "Yes" in Friday's election.

If they want a continuation of the upheavals, the troubles, the mismanagement and maltreatment furnished by the CIO for the past three years, then all they have to do is to vote "No" in Friday's election.

I am convinced that a great majority of the workers in the Copper

MORE ABOUT John Deal

American Federation of Labor a few weeks ago.

Of the five international unions still in the CIO, many of the officers and members do not even speak to John L. Lewis any more.

Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Garment Workers was an active officer in the CIO for some time, and it is reported he gave much money to the CIO organizing campaign in the early days.

But not any more, say those who ought to know, does Mr. Hillman donate to the CIO.

In fact, the communists and the reds in the CIO do not like Mr. Hillman any more, for they claim that he does not even attend the board meetings of the CIO any more.

Mr. Lewis and Mr. Hillman are at cross roads—one going one way and the other going another way.

John L. Lewis has been severely criticizing President Roosevelt, and is trying to defeat Roosevelt for re-election.

Sidney Hillman is working hand in hand with President Roosevelt and his followers are working for President Roosevelt's re-election.

John L. Lewis is bemeaning President Roosevelt.

John L. Lewis' own United Mine Workers right here in Alabama and Tennessee, and throughout the country, are working for Roosevelt's re-election.

What does that mean? It simply means that John L. Lewis is on the way out. It means that the other five international unions that went out with John L. Lewis, INCLUDING HIS UNITED MINE WORKERS, will soon join the other internationals, and leave Mr. Lewis and his half-baked CIO.

The revolt against such a dictator as John L. Lewis is already in full blast.

The ONLY people who are now giving full support to John L. Lewis are the communists of America, egged on by their communist superiors of Russia.

The New York Daily Worker, official communist organ in the United States, supports John L. Lewis and his CIO day in and day out. The New York Daily Worker wants to change our form of government and let Soviet Russia rule America. The CIO couldn't live long without the communist help and support.

Citizens of the copper basin are real Americans. They want nothing to do with John L. Lewis and his communist-supported CIO. The local officers and leaders of the CIO know this, and that's why they pulled off of the ballot. Because they KNEW that the workers here would not vote for the communist-controlled CIO any more.

The ONLY way to put the CIO bunch out of the basin is for you to vote "Yes" on the ballot Friday, and return your organization to the American Federation of Labor, the ONLY organization that has ever gotten anything for the workers here. YOU know that nothing has been obtained for you since the international followed John L. Lewis into the communist-supported CIO. The only things ever obtained for you by the international union was while the international was in the American Federation of Labor.

Vote "Yes" Friday and end for all time this upheaval, this uncertainty, this destructive method employed by the CIO.

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA CENTRAL LABOR UNION

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE EARNERS

VOL. XXV CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1940 Number 13

Records Made By Kefauver, John Mahoney and Coleman Praised By Central Labor Union

Also Condemn Fee System in County Government and Indorse County Management and General Sessions Court.

Declaring that its policy of "regarding its friends" makes necessary a public recognition of the records of Congressman Kefauver, J. M. Coleman and John T. Mahoney, Central Body last Monday night voted to issue a public statement of the records of these three men.

Congressman Estes Kefauver is completing his first term to which he was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Sam McReynolds. Mr. Kefauver has already been indorsed by the Tennessee Federa-

T. B. Walker Hires NonUnion Painters On Election Eve

Candidate for Senate Told Representative That Manufacturers Would Approve.

Members of the Painters' union, as well as organized labor, are quite surprised to hear a report from Business Representative W. A. Witt that Mr. T. B. Walker, candidate for the state senate, was caught using non-union painters on one of his buildings.

Mr. Witt said that when he approached Mr. Walker concerning the non-union gentry, Mr. Walker shrugged his shoulders and said, "If you try to do anything about it, all the manufacturers will vote for me, so I don't see how I will lose anything."

Mr. Walker told The Labor World that nonunion painters buy 50% of the paint he sells and that he felt obliged to give some of his business to his customers. He also stated that 80% of his work was done by union men. Mr. Walker added that 50% of the union men do not use union workers on their own painting, etc.

Lady Garment Affiliates With Central Body

Delegates from the Ladies' Garment Workers' union received a big hand at Central Body last Monday night when they presented their credentials of affiliation. This fine union recently came back into the American Federation of Labor, and their addition to Central Body will be a great help to the local movement.

Representing Local 346 will be Mrs. Grace Hood, Mrs. Laura Carter and Mrs. Etta Davidson. Alternates are Mrs. Agnes Rivers, Mrs. Lillie Merritt and Mrs. Clara Brown.

Lev Loring Here For Brief Visit

Lev G. Loring, president of Memphis Central Body, visited Chattanooga this past Sunday and Monday to assist in the general meeting called to initiate a campaign to organize all chemical workers under AFL banners.

Miss Golda Wolfe, representing the cosmetic workers in Memphis, also attended the sessions.

New Barber Shop By Chas. Terry

Charlie Terry and John Boyd, both old-time members of Local 415, Barbers, have opened a first-class shop at 1435 Market street, opposite the Terminal station. They would like their friends to come around and see them sometime.

Brother Terry used to be in the Walden hotel.

MANY GUESTS FOR CENTRAL BODY

Central Body's session last Monday evening was honored by the presence of a large group of distinguished visitors from the American Federation of Labor, headed by George L. Googe, southern director for the AFL.

Brother Googe, after making a short talk, introduced the visitors as follows: R. R. Moore, of Birmingham, general AFL organizer, a former president of the Alabama Federation of Labor, former commissioner of labor for Alabama and a member of the bricklayers union.

AFL Organizer Walter Shafer from Mobile, Ala.

Editor of Jacksonville Labor Journal, Lou Rh odes.

Sam Roper, president Alabama Federation of Labor.

AFL Organizer Hugh Brown.

AFL Or ganizer A. E. Brown of Durham, N. C., who is in charge of activities in the state of North Carolina.

John Deal, president Copperhill union in the Tennessee Copper company.

Alec McDonald, representative of Operating Engineers' international.

Paul Aymon, from the southern office of the AFL.

Bill Williams, southwestern director of the AFL.

And H. A. Bradley, in charge of the AFL campaign to organize all chemical workers. He told the delegates of the plan of campaign.

Label League Meets

Chattanooga Label League will meet Friday night, July 26, in room 908, Hotel Patten, at 7:30. All members and delegates are urged to be present.

MRS. RUBY WILLIAMS,
President.

Mahoney Rally Is Set for Tuesday At Courthouse

Motorcade Will Be Saturday to Go Through County on Good Will Tour.

There will be an immense rally for supporters of John T. Mahoney on the courthouse lawn next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. There will be a thirty-piece band.

Saturday, July 27, a motorcade for Mahoney will start at 10:30 in the morning at Second and Broad streets. All unionists are invited to bring their cars and take part.

Labor Peace Near, Is Meany Forecast

Anton, Ill.—"I say to you, take heart! The day is close at hand when we shall again have a single and united labor movement in America."

George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L., made that prediction last week in an address before the convention of Flint Glass workers. He added that the rift would have been healed before this had it not been for the "obdurate refusal" of John L. Lewis "to compose the differences on equitable and reasonable grounds."

Meany pledged the A. F. of L.'s "whole-hearted and unequivocal support of every effort on the part of the government to achieve adequate defense." All it asked in return, he said, was that its standards should not be sacrificed.

Lasser Plans New Group To Represent Jobless

Washington—Charging that the Workers Alliance has become "only a mouthpiece for the Communist element," David Lasser has begun a move for organization of a new group to represent unemployed workers. Lasser recently resigned as president of the alliance.

Lasser announced submission to numerous groups which have broken with the Workers Alliance "on the issue of Communist domination" of a call for a national conference to meet either in Washington or Chicago in August to form a new organization.

The new movement, Lasser declared, "must be composed of those who will unite against all subversive forces."

Teamsters' Leader Opposes Third Term

Seattle, Wash.—In addressing a large crowd gathered at a Teamsters' union dinner at Port Angeles, Dave Deck, west coast Teamsters' leader, reiterated his declared opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt. About a year ago Beck made his first analysis of the national political situation and declared that the third-term idea was bad, and that organized labor should stick to the well-beaten path of partisan independence.

Beck said that labor had "passed the point where strikes are the primary weapon to be used. We have arrived at a point where we can set up machinery to serve our interests with a minimum use of the strike."

Candidates Answer Questions On Platform Stands Submitted by Central Labor Union

Labor Voters Should Read Answers Carefully and Vote Accordingly for Those Best Qualified to Serve.

The Labor World publishes today the answers of all the candidates for the state legislature to the questionnaire which was drafted by the executive board under authority of the Central Labor union. No candidate failed to answer, but some qualified one or more answers. We have quoted directly in these cases and where the candidate added other comments by letter or additional pages we have quoted these in full at the end of the summary of the answers.

The executive board urges that all members of organized labor study these answers carefully and vote accordingly. The questions and the summary of the answers follow:

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION No. 1—What is your position on the question of a constitutional convention to permit modernization of Tennessee's constitution?

Senatorial candidates favoring: Mahoney, Walker, Harris.

House candidates favoring: Coleman, Brown, Grubb, Ragon, Heard, Kemmer, Plummer, Richardson, Crabtree.
House candidates opposed: Keef.

QUESTION No. 2—What is your position on an amendment to the state constitution to legalize graduated income and inheritance taxes?

Senatorial candidates favoring: Mahoney, Walker, Harris.

House candidates favoring: Coleman, Brown, Grubb, Ragon, Heard, Kemmer, Plummer, Richardson, Crabtree.
House candidates opposed: Keef.

Harris says, "I am not familiar with the New York state law, but I am in favor of any legislation beneficial to labor."

House candidates favoring: Coleman, Brown, Grubb, Ragon, Heard, Richardson.

Qualified answers: Kemmer says, "I am not familiar with the law of New York governing state labor disputes in intrastate commerce. I would like to study and go into this matter with your organization; and also, see a copy of the New York law."

Plummer says, "I haven't studied this, but will give it consideration."

Keef says, "Anything to keep peace and harmony for labor and capital."

Crabtree says, "I am not familiar with the New York state law—before expressing myself on such a law I would have to see the bill and be satisfied as to the fairness both to labor or employe and to employer."

QUESTION No. 7—What is your position on enactment of a state wage and hour law patterned after the national law?

Senatorial candidates favoring: Mahoney.

Qualified answers: Walker says, "In favor of same if reasonable."

Harris says, "Same as No. 6."

LET THE CHILDREN IN

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Every night, as we turn the dials of the radio, and every morning as we pick up the paper, we learn of the latest frightfulness which threatens the remaining victims of Hitler's "blitzkrieg"—screaming bombs which produce insanity for adults and machine-gun fire which seems always to attack the helpless non-combatants. Meanwhile, thousands of little children have been sent to what are presumed to be "places of safety," only to find that no matter where they may flee, they are pursued by their relentless enemy, to whom, apparently, neither age nor sex makes the slightest difference in his hunt for victims of his hate.

Within a few months, many thousands of little children from the continent, who have been sent to England as a place of last resort, as well as other hundreds of thousands who are native to the soil, may become victims of the attacks which Hitler promises to make—and all that will remain will be the dead bodies of children who could not save themselves, or living bodies of little children with dead minds, who escaped the mercy of death.

Boatloads of little children are coming to America as rapidly as as they can be convoyed to safety. Generous souled men and women in this country are opening their homes to these children. Thousands more are offered shelter. There is no lack of welcome for them. But under existing laws only a few may come in each month.

There is scarcely a member of organized labor in this country, no matter how straitened his circumstance, who would not open his home to one of these children and share with it all that he has. Organized labor has fought for the children of America as no other institution has, and it is not now refusing to help the children of other lands.

But there are those in this country, who for reasons of their own, do not want to let the children in. They remind us that the immigration laws of the country were made to protect American labor. They were—but what has labor to fear from little children? They have no nationality prejudice, nor can they take anyone's job. Those who are opposed to their coming whisper in the ears of politicians with a weather eye cocked for votes, that labor won't like it if red tape is cut, and the quotas are filled several months in advance.

Let labor protest against this charge. Let it denounce those who use labor as a cloak for cruelty. Let each member of organized labor look at his own children and imagine them in a similar situation. And then as a father let him bring the weight of his organization to bear on those in power, asking in the name of organized labor to "let the children in." Thousands of fathers and mothers in distant lands will be everlastingly grateful for what Americans may do for their children, and He Who once said that "inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me," will look down in approval.

A Fisherman's Thrill

One cold, dreary afternoon I stopped at the club (Elks). A number of brothers were sitting in the lobby discussing the third term of the president; and one brother, sitting apart from the crowd, gazing at some object on the magazine stand, had a far-away look in his eye and a happy smile on his face, apparently indifferent to what was going on around him. I glanced over his shoulder to determine what he was gazing at, and I found it was the cover design of a magazine, and on it was the picture of two men in a boat fly fishing. The man in front was standing, and was attempting to land a bass that he had hooked. I took out my pencil and attempted to put in writing what I thought he had in mind, and the following is what I have dedicated to this cold, blustery winter day:

FLY FISHING ELK

With my pal in a boat, on a lake or a stream
Beneath the summer skies,
We wouldn't swap jobs with the president
When bass are striking at flies.

Make your cast, and your line draws taut,
And you set your hook for the try,
We wouldn't swap jobs with the president
If bass will strike at the fly.

Then cast again, there's a lightning splash
And a thrill comes down from the skies,
We wouldn't swap jobs with the president
When bass are striking at flies.

My pal sits tight, and watches the fight
With a twinkle in his eyes,
We wouldn't swap jobs with the president
When bass are striking at flies.

The war in Europe does not enter your mind,
Your troubles and worries pass by,
We wouldn't swap jobs with the president
If a bass will strike at a fly.

Then we come to the end of a perfect day,
Should we lay on our beds to die
It would be easy to cross the Dark River
If bass would strike at the fly.

In the Great Beyond there's a heaven we know
In the city beyond the skies,
And heaven 'twill be for my pal and for me
If bass are striking at flies.

Wisdom—

In view of the serious problems created by the war in Europe, it would be a far greater service to our country if the money that is usually spent by individuals on firecrackers, skyrockets, Roman candles and other fireworks were used for more practical purposes. Reports of serious fireworks accidents last year totaled 5,560.—National Society for the Prevention

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI'S principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

Under the law there are four offenses for which the driving rights of an individual may be revoked by the registrar of motor vehicles:

1. Manslaughter.
2. Operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.
3. Failing to stop fter an accident.
4. Committing a felony in which a motor vehicle was used, and unsatisfied judgments in courts of record.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL

Prayer for Divine Help.

Job walked in righteousness from day to day,
Yet Satan tempted him in every way;
But he was true to god in eevery test,
God honored him and he was richly blest.

Though sickness, sorrow, suffering come to us,
Increase our faith, Lord, may we ever trust,
Though Satan tempt us, may we never fall,
For we know Thou, God, art over all.

We need Thy help each moment of our life,
And may we not dishonor Thee, O Christ;
Help us to be a witness to Thy power
To keep us, guard us, guide us, every hour.

We thank Thee, Lord, that Thou art ever near;
That Thou dost give us blessings, comfort, cheer;
That Thou art ever by the Christian's side,
And Thou wilt not forsake whate'er betide.

Elimination of Frills Reduces USHA Costs

Washington, D. C.—Elimination of frills and gadgets on dwellings for low-income families from the nation's slums is producing simple, economical and comfortable homes at unprecedented low costs, according to an analysis made public by the United States housing authority.

This "de-gadgeting" process is keeping low-rent public housing definitely out of the "de luxe" class, USHA Administrator Nathan Straus said in citing more than a dozen material economies achieved in the field of public housing.

At our meeting this week, I was surprised to see two men walking around with their chests stuck out so far that you could not recognize them. DEFENSE BILLS SEEN THREAT TO FEDERAL WORKERS

Washington. — The emergency national defense program is being used as an excuse for legislation "to destroy the right of government employes to organize and to take from them many other privileges won by long years of effort," James B. Burns, president of the American Federation of Government Employes, charged here.

Burns' attack was leveled at a section of the naval and military preparedness bill designed to speed dismissal of "fifth columnists" from service, but which, he said, may be used to nullify the Lloyd-La Follette act of 1912 giving government workers the right to organize.

Written charges and the opportunity for reply by the accused employe would not be required in dismissal cases when deemed unnecessary by the head of the department, under the section in question.

Expressing the belief that labor generally would combat the proposed legislation, Burns said that "there is no occasion for breaking down standards won by labor in the government service."

House candidates opposed: Brown, Kemmer.

Qualified answers: Plummer says, "I believe that a referendum should be taken on this."

Keef says, "What the people wish I will be for, for vote of the people."

STION No. 9—What is your ion on the proposed General ions court to replace the J. P. s of Hamilton county?

Senatorial candidates favoring: Mahoney, Harris.

Qualified answers: Walker says, "Favor referendum . . ."

House candidates favoring: Coleman, Grubb, Ragon, Heard, Richardson, Crabtree.

House candidates opposed: Brown, Kemmer.

Qualified answers: Plummer says, "Favor referendum."

Keef says, "Vote of peóple."

QUESTION No. 10—What is your position on ratification of child labor amendment to the U. S. Constitution?

Senatorial candidates favoring: Mahoney, Walker, Harris.

House candidates favoring: All.

QUESTION No. 11—What is your position on enactment of a general sales tax for Tennessee?

Senatorial candidates favoring: None.

House candidates favoring: None outright (see qualified answers below.)

House candidates opposed: Coleman, Grubb, Heard, Ragon, Richardson.

Qualified answers: Brown says, If the money is rightfully used for right purposes—would be for it. A 'right' use would be to eliminate tax on small homes."

Kemmer says, "I would favor a small sales tax on certain non-essential articles if the tax could be used to replace other taxes and the surplus be used for old age pensions."

Plummer says, "I don't believe one should be enacted unless it was absolutely necessary."

Keef says, "If it proves necessary we should have it."

Crabtree says, "Under present conditions I am not in favor of a sales tax for Tennessee."

QUESTION No. 12—What is your position on enactment of the state teacher tenure law proposed by the Tennessee Education Association? (This law is identical in general principles with the Hamilton county and Chattanooga laws.)

Senatorial candidates favoring: All.

House candidates favoring: All.

QUESTION No. 13—What is your position on the question of teachers' tenure (both city and county), which by law now provides for (1) a probationary period, (2) continuous employment during good behavior following probation (as opposed to annual contracts), (3) dismissal for cause only (not political or personal), and (4) the right of hearing for teachers whose dismissal is being considered?

Senatorial candidates favoring retention of the laws as they are: Mahoney, Harris.

Qualified answers: Walker says, "Yes" to retention of laws as they are, but adds, "Do not favor amendments unless beneficial to teachers."

House candidates favoring retention of laws as they are: Coleman, Grubb, Ragon, Plummer.

Qualified answers: Brown says, "Yes" to retention of laws as they are subject to such amendment "as may be for the betterment of education. None without full consultation with teachers and with their approval."

Kemmer says, "Yes" to retention as they are, but adds that he does not favor amendment "unless teachers wish an amendment," and "Some of the officials and teachers have expressed a desire to amend the present law so that a disinterested board could decide the question of whether or not a teacher should be dismissed from service for cause instead of an appeal to the courts."

Heard says, "I favor such amendments as organized labor, including teachers' organizations, may advocate."

Richardson says, "Yes" to retention and adds that he favors amendment "if progressive improvement."

Keef says, "Yes" to retention and adds regarding amendment, "If the good people wish any change I would be ready to hear their argument."

Crabtree says, "I am in fafor of a teachers tenure law (both city and county) and wouldn't be for repeal of present law or amendment thereto without consulting those interested and affected by the law."

QUESTION No. 14—What is your position on the question of the teachers' pension laws (both city and county) as now in operation?

Senatorial candidates favoring retention as they are: Mahoney, Walker.

Qualified answer: Harris says, "I am in favor of whatever the teachers want."

House candidates favoring retention of laws as they are: Coleman, Grubb, Brown, Ragon, Kemmer, Plummer, Richardson.

Qualified answers: Heard says "I favor such amendments as the Tennessee Federation of Labor, including teachers organizations, may advocate."

Keef says, "Yes" to retention "unless can be improved on."

Crabtree says, "I am not familiar with these laws. Before considering any changes in present laws would advise with those concerned and affected."

QUESTION No. 15—What is your position on the question of consolidation of the city and county schools into one system?

Senatorial candidates favoring: Harris (he says), "This is not an issue in the present campaign. I would be guided by the teachers' federation."

Senatorial candidates opposed: Mahoney.

Qualified answers: Walker says, "Do not favor consolidation unless I am convinced it is for the betterment of the county and city schools."

House candidates favoring: Richardson, Plummer.

House candidates opposed: Grubb, Ragon, Keef.

Qualified answers: Coleman says, "No" and adds, "I do not think that this sould be attempted now. A matter of this magnitude should be very carefully studied."

Heard says, "Opposed" and adds, "If elected, I shall block any bill giving the machine control of the schools, but if Commissioner McMillan and Supt. Clark, the teachers and the CLU agree on a bill to combine city and county schools, I will introduce and fight for its enactment."

Brown says, "Yes, conditionally," and adds, "Bring city schools up to county standards in all particulars — non-partisan county board—take care of McMillan (see letter)."

Note—Letters quoted at end of summary.

Kemmer saps, "Opposed at the present time." He adds, "A disinterested committee be appointed to study this question."

Crabtree says, "This subject would require considerable study and investigation. I would not be in favor of consolidation unless after a thorough investigation I was satisfied it would be to the interest of education and more economical."

QUESTION No. 16—What is your position on a bill to decrease the maximum hours of work for women from 57 to 48 hours per week?

Senatorial candidates favoring: All. Harris adds, "I think the hours should be reduced to 40 per week."

House candidates favoring: All. Heard adds, "I favor a maximum week of 40 hours, and a minimum of 40c an hour for women. If elected, I shall introduce and fight for enactment of such a bill."

Qualified answer: Plummer says, "The maximum hours should be decreased."

Crabtree says, "I haven't given this consideration and would require more than two days for me to come to a decision."

QUESTION No. 17—What is your position on the statewide electrical inspection bill sponsored by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and indorsed by the Tennessee Federation of Labor?

Senatorial candidates favoring: All.

House candidates favoring: All except Kemmer and Crabtree. Kemmer says, "I am not familiar with the state wide electrical inspection bill, and will be glad to study this bill."

Crabtree says, "Haven't seen this bill nor discussed it with those interested, so unable to answer."

QUESTION No. 18—What is your position on enactment of a statewide elevator safety code as indorsed by the Tennessee Federation of Labor?

Senatorial candidates favoring: All.

House candidates favoring: All except Kemmer and Crabtree. Kemmer says, "I am not familiar with this code. I would like to see a copy of this code." Crabtree says, "Not familiar with this subject."

Flexible Act

President Roosevelt's firm stand against proposals to lengthen the work week in defense industries should put a quietus to the clamor for abrogating provisions of the wage-hour act. Advocates of such action are either ignorant of the facts or are deliberately seeking to mislead the public.

The wage-hour act is not a rigid piece of legislation like the 40-hour week law in France, which is alleged by some to have been partly responsible for the slowness of the French in rearming from 1936 to 1938. Workers can be employed longer than the maximum hours set under the act by payment of time and a half and there is no prohibition of more than one shift of workers. With millions of workers still idle, two or more shifts could be employed whenever necessary.

Indeed, industrialists are already beginning to urge that the addition of one or more shifts would be the easiest and quickest means of speeding up national defense production. No increase of work hours is required. As the American Federation of Labor points out, "To lengthen hours with 10,000,000 unemployed would be to lose our gains and preserve our unemployment."

Radical Talk

(Reprinted from the Augusta Labor Review)

Every once in a while a radical gets something off his chest that is a real contribution to the advancement of reason and common sense. But the fact that it came from a radical always tends to discredit it. That is always an unfortunate thing.

However, truth survives regardless of its common source, and the so-called radical of today may be regarded as a conservative tomorrow. Times change the manner of men's judgment.

Here's something that will be immediately identified as the work of a radical by those who refuse to adjust their thinking to the ever-changing social order.

"In the last 50 years we have seen in America the development of a hereditary aristocracy of wealth. Exploitation of both natural and human resources by a small privileged class has hardened the social strata and threatens to provide explosive material beneath.

"Let us not shut our eyes to the realities. The vanishing of the frontier and free lands, the spread of large-scale manufacturing units, the growth of cities and their slums, the multiplication of tenant farmers, despairing migratory laborers and the unemployed are signs of the passage from one type of social order to another.

"Have we, indeed, reached the point where the ideal of a peculiar American society, classless and free, must be regarded as of only historical significance?"

That's radical, and no doubt Business Week or the Journal of Wall Street would refuse to print it. Nevertheless, it was not written by a radical or a member of the New Deal brain trust. It was written—and published in the very conservative Atlantic Monthly—by James Bryant Conana, president of Harvard university, the school which has graduated more snobs than any five other universities in the U. S. A.

Mr. Conant is not a crepe-hanger, nor is he perplexed as to a sensible solution of present-day problems. He believes, as all sane liberals believe, that the situation is not hopeless, that America can be restored and made to conform to the ideals of the founders of this government, and that the solution lies in education.

"Our secondary school system," he says, "is a vast machine which we are only beginning to learn how to operate for the public good, and I have hope it will aid us in recapturing that great gift to each succeeding generation — opportunity — a gift that once was the promise of the frontier!"

America needs a few more radicals like Dr. Conant.

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources
CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

The Third Republic of France is no more. For seventy years the third republic bore aloft the torch of democracy first lighted in the early and hectic days of the first French republic. France with her workers and peasants has marched forward to the battle cry of "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," only to have her surge upward and onward hurled back by the black legions of Nazi Germany.

With scarcely a dissenting vote the French parliament declared the third republic dead and placed in the hands of Marshal Petain the authority to write for France a new constitution for the formation of a government along fascist lines. The new government will be dictatorially run by a triumvirate headed by Pierre Laval, who for years has urged closer relations with Germany and Italy. So the last act of the French parliament ends in national hari-kari with international repercussions.

The preamble to the declaration calling for a fascist government for conquered France states that the new regime would be aimed at "sovereignty of the state, independence of governmental power, authority but also liberty, defense of the family, reorganization of government and also institution of the corporative system." With these words the freedom of France is sealed so long as the power of the totalitarian states is in the ascendency.

Whether the abandonment of French democracy is one of the the conditions placed upon France by the German and Italian powers or whether it is the ultimate climax of the reactionary forces that have been bleeding France from within cannot be stated at this time. In all probability the fall of the third French republic can be traced to these and other causes.

France as a conquered nation is in no position to dictate the terms of government that shall rule the people. The heel of the conquering dictator allows little if any freedom of action.

This is true in spite of the present attacks of Italy and Germany and the announcement of the new order in France. Germany and Italy remind France that her "impotence" has come too late and that in the event of an ultimate German and Italian victory the "very existence of France will be in jeopardy."

French democracy cannot be dead. The tradition of liberty cannot be snuffed out in so short an interval. The history and spirit of France must live on in its workers and peasants.

France is chained by a superior force, trapped by her own mistakes, but not forever. The people of France will yet live to take their place among the world's defenders of the rights and liberties of democratic government.

Liberty, Equality and Fraternity will once more rise in France to sweep back the enslaving tide of the dictatorships. All the hopes of France now rest in the ultimate and crushing defeat of the totalitarian forces.

Censorship in U. S. Less, Liberties Union Finds

New York City.—Censorship of motion pictures, plays, books, and radio declined sharply in 1939, the American Civil Liberties union reported in its annual survey of civil liberties in the United States, "In the Shadow of War."

"Since most of the censorship is based upon so-called moral grounds," the report said, "it indicates an increasing tolerance of themes which a few years ago aroused hostility and official interference."

Outstanding objects of censorship among books during the year, according to the report, were John Steinbeck's two novels, "The Grapes of Wrath" and "Of Mice and Men," which were withdrawn from shelves in half a dozen libraries throughout the country.

Molders Help Red Cross

Cincinnati — The International Molders Union of North America has contributed $500 to the war relief fund of the American Red Cross. The contribution was voted at a recent meeting of the union's executive board and other national officers.

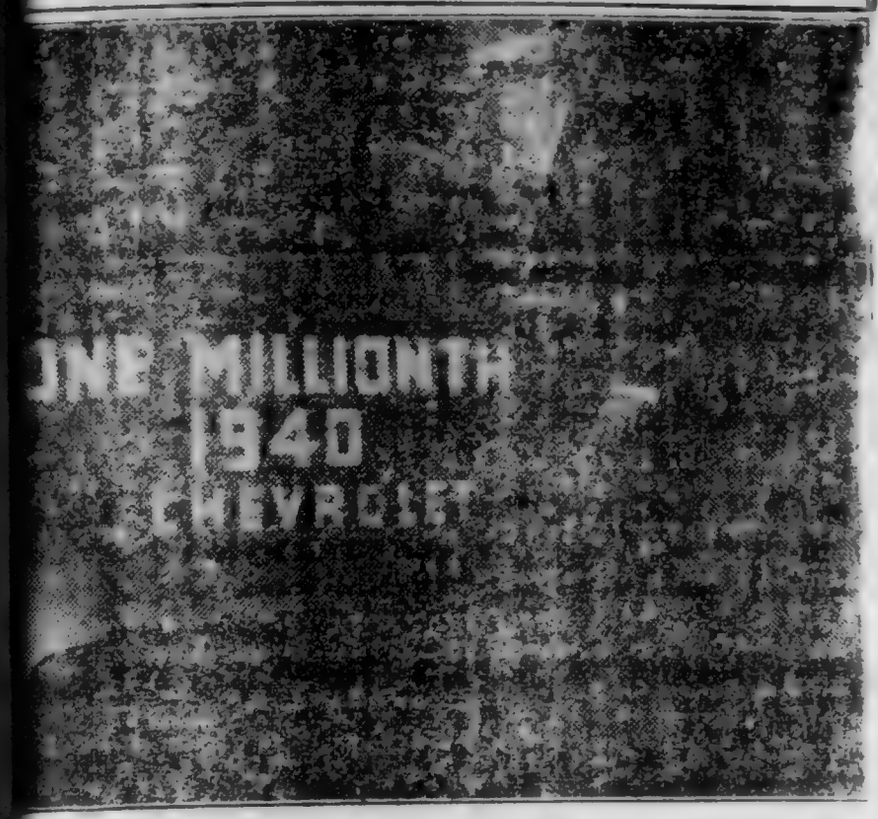
Millionth 1940 Chevrolet to be Contest Award



Some conception of the demand for the 1940 Chevrolet may be gained from the fact that the one-millionth model of this year's production left the assembly line at Flint, Mich., on July 12. In celebration of the public appreciation reflected by this tremendous production record, M. E. Coyle, general manager of Chevrolet, shown (left) above with W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced that the one-millionth 1940 car, together with a trip to the New York World's Fair, would be awarded in a contest which is open now and will close Aug. 31. Details are obtainable at any of the company's dealers.

Southern Mfg. Company Signs Pact With Unions

Gadsden, Ala.—Agreements have been signed here between the Southern Manufacturing company and local unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Teamsters and Chauffeurs International union. Negotiations were under way for several days, and much work was done by all concerned in bringing about the happy termination of efforts. Representative John Howat, of the Carpenters and Joiners, assisted the committee from his local union. The committee from the local union of truck drivers worked with the committee representing the carpenters.

Commissioner of Conciliation Finch, of the U. S. department of labor, and Hugh W. Brown, of the Birmingham office of the American Federation of Labor, co-operated with the union committee and the management in obtaining the agreements. An increase in wages of 2½ cents an hour for all employes was obtained, while adjustments in some brackets called for an increase as high as 13 cents an hour, and other advancements were procured.

Brooks Foundry Signs Union

Agreement with Molders Local

Atlanta, Ga.—John L. Heald, international representative of the Molders' union, announces that a union shop agreement has been signed with the Brooks Foundry and Machine Works in this city. An increase of 5 cents an hour was obtained for the helpers and apprentices.

While in Atlanta Mr. Heald was principal speaker at the 50th anniversary celebration of the organization of Atlanta Local Union No. 272, International Molders' union. E. C. Curtis, commissioner of conciliation, United States department of labor, also addressed the Atlanta meeting.

80,000 Apply, 800 Hired; Where's Labor Shortage?

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The New York navy yard, in Brooklyn, where 80,000 men have applied for work since May 1, has hired 800 skilled workers to increase the yard force to 12,700 and is planning to put on its third eight-hour shift to speed construction of the battleship Iowa and reconditioning work on eighteen other craft, mostly destroyers.

Recent hirings have averaged sixty a day, according to Capt. Charles A. Dunn, industrial manager of the yard, and will continue at that rate until the force is up to about 15,000 men.

Closed Shop Pact At Bennettsville is Reported

Bennettsville, S. C.—The existing labor contract between Marlboro cotton mills at Bennettsville and Local 1912 of the United Textile Workers of America was renewed this week with the addition of a closed shop provision, it was announced here by Gordon Chastain, national vice-president of the UTWA.

Chastain said the new contract would become effective Aug. 4 and run for 12 months. Under the present contract, all employes of the mill except three are members of the union, Chastain stated. When the new contract goes into effect all eligible employes will be required to maintain union membership, he said.

According to Chastain, the new contract was signed by himself for the national UTWA; by Fernie Fowler, president, and Wilson Hammond, secretary for the union local and, by David D. Carroll, president, and E. H. McGregor, secretary for the mill management.

Chastain said the contract was the first closed shop agreement ever negotiated in the textile industry in South Carolina. The UTWA is an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Agreement Signed With Bag Company

Mobile, Ala.—An agreement, which has been in the process of negotiation for some time, has been signed between the Terminal Bag company and its nearly 200 employes, made up of white Local Azalea No. 405, and colored Local Azalea No. 405-A of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. It will be recalled that an election was conducted at this plant, on May 9, by the NLRB, at which time the American Federation of Labor gained an overwhelming victory.

Both the management, as represented by Charles L. Mintz, and the employes, as represented by Homer Humble, president of Azalea No. 405, expressed themselves as being well pleased with the benefits which will accrue to each side under the new agreement.

Another Pact For Hotel Employes

Nashville.—R. A. Farrell, special international representative for Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Alliance, reports that Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Local Union No. 557 has signed a standard union agreement with McDonald's "Round House," now a very popular eating place on Sixth avenue, opposite the bus station.

Local Union No. 557 has been making substantial progress since the Andrew Jackson hotel was recently signed up. The "lock-out strike" is still on at the Notel hotel, Church street and Fourth avenue, at this writing and it is reported that the main dining room of the Noel has closed down. Certainly, no members of organized labor or their friends would cross the "picket line" at the Noel hotel.

AFL Newspaper Union Wins Higher Pay In Chicago Herald-American Contract

Chicago, Ill.—In a renewal of its contract with the management of the Herald-American, the Newspaper Commercial Associates, Union No. 21662, American Federation of Labor, obtained for its members many provisions which make the agreement the best of its kind signed with any newspaper anywhere. The contract covers wages, hours and working conditions in the advertising, circulation and business administration department.

One of the outstanding stipulations of the contract provides for salary increases for about 275 members of the union for a yearly total of approximately $41,600. The salary increases are effective immediately.

It was signed for the union by I. J. Braveman, president; Andre Ferdinand, secretary - treasurer; Julian Coplon, Charles J. Mueller and Ben Oosten, negotiating committee, and for the management by T. J. White, president, and E. D. Fulton, secretary.

Credit was given by the union to John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and Daniel D. Carmell, attorney for the Chicago Federation of Labor and the Illinois State Federation of Labor, for their aid in the negotiations.

We know accurately only when we know little; with knowledge doubt increases.—Goethe.

Bakers' Scraps

Brother Jack Hamby came into the office last Saturday to secure a sick benefit blank. It seems that Brother Hamby has been off from work a week or so with an infected throat. Hope by the time this appears that Brother Hamby is able to return to work.

I guess you noticed that the labor board handed down the decision of the Chattanooga Bakery this past week in our favor. I hear that this labor-hating company is going to appeal this case to a higher court. We feel that no matter how high they take this case that we cannot lose it. We would like to express our appreciation to lawyer H. G. B. King for his fine work on this case. The next time you are buying crackers, cakes and moon pies be sure they are not nonunion made Chattanooga bakery products. If your grocer handles any of these products be sure you speak to him about discontinuing them. Buy only union-made bakery products and remember when you buy union-made products you are furthering the cause of unionism and thereby helping yourself.

The newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hammontree, are living on Read avenue. We wish to extend our congratulations to the happy couple if we are a little late in doing so. Lester is employed at the Erskine bakery.

Received a letter this week from Brother H. E. Schaerer saying that we are going ot have a couple of new members in our local branch in Tracy City. Sure glad to hear this bit of news and hope that the new members are as good unionists as the others are. We certainly are proud of our Tracy City local branch of our bakers' local.

Congratulations to Ruth Asquith on the celebration of her birthday the 25th of this month. Ruth is a former member of our local. and at present is not working.

The fight rages on the nonunion cakes and pies that are made in and out of our city. The list includes: Gordon's, Travis, Ambrosure, Dortch, Effie's, Alton Park, Virginia Dare, Ward's, Wade's, Royal, Jack's, Malbra, Frank's, Solsum, and Chattanooga Bakery products. We need every union man's support in this fight we have waged on these nonunion products.

The Federal bake shop is nonunion and one of the bakeries that are on our "We Don't Patronize List."

Brother Leonard Callis, whose favorite song happens to be "Sweet Fern," with the emphasis on the latter word and which is vocalized almost every night at one of our bakeries by the good and well meaning brother, wants me to remind you that we have a regular meeting of the local union this Saturday, July 27, at 2 o'clock at the labor hall on West Seventh street. He urges every member to be present for we are going to have a roll call of the membership and you may happen to be the one to receive the free month's dues. Don't forget that the 10 per cent for the labor temple fund will be due Saturday. See you at the meeting and I do mean you, but definitely.

I am told that Marie Jones, business agent for the cooks and waiters, is resigning the first of the month. Sorry to hear this for Marie is sure a grand little worker and has done wonders for the cooks and waiters' local union here. We hope that Marie will be replaced with someone that is as capable as she has been with the culinary workers organization.

As Aunt Hattie says, I'll be seeing you. By the way, have you tried that good loaf of Aunt Hattie's bread yet? Boy, it sure is good.

Tried Many Times and Never Found Lacking

I have always supported the legislative program of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and the Chattanooga Central Labor Union because they have at all times been fair and just.

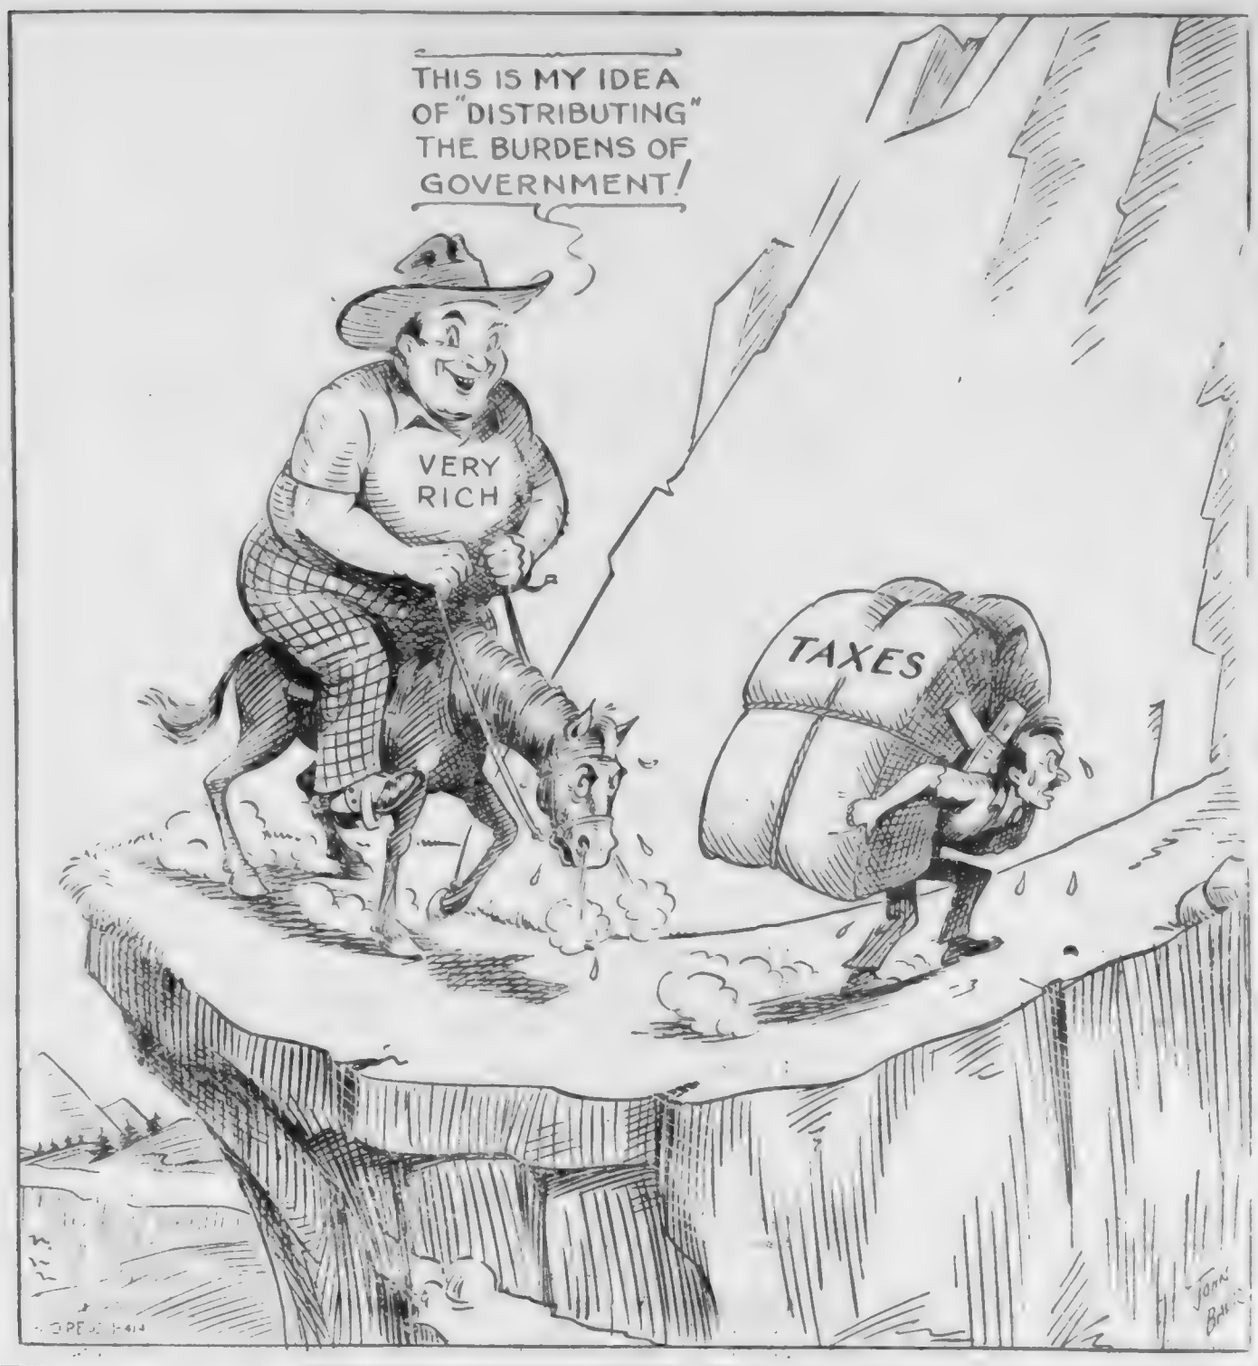
HARD ON THE LITTLE FELLOW! By Baer



JACKSON C. OF C. SECRETARY "PICKETS" T.F.L SECRETARY

Has So Much Spare Time He Spends Afternoon in Front of Labor Hall as Scared Waitresses Hunt for Cover.

The secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor had the peculiar experience in Jackson, Tenn., last week of being picketed by the secretary of the Jackson Chamber of Commerce.

It happened this way: The secretary was in Jackson and was asked by the trades and labor council there to assist in organizing a culinary workers union. Various employes in the coffee shop of the New Southern hotel in Jackson were talked to and it appeared they were anxious to have an organization because their conditions were not so very good. They solemnly asserted that they would attend a meeting if called.

A meeting was called for 3:30 on a Monday afternoon last week.

In the meantime information came to the labor movement offices that the hotel management sent word to its employes that if they attended the meeting they need not show up for work the next day.

A strange coincidence is that at 3:20 on the day of the meeting the secretary of the chamber of commerce just "happened" to pay a visit to all "the boys" right smack in front of the labor hall, on the sidewalk. He visited for about an hour.

And no employe of the hotel coffee shop showed up at the door of the meeting hall.

Nevertheless, a charter application for a culinary workers' union will be sent from Jackson in a few days; there will be some union house cards in other restaurants in Jackson; and who knows . . .

Maybe the secretary of the Jackson Chamber of Commerce will have the opportunity to give a glad hand to a new union in Jackson.

We are told that some years ago in Jackson, Tenn., many places of business displayed cards in their show windows reading as follows:

"This place is NOT a member of the chamber of commerce."

Bad Company

A Scotsman was charged with being drunk and disorderly.

"Any excuse?" asked the judge.

"Aye, yer honor, I got intae bad company."

"What sort of bad company?"

"Weel, I got a present of a bottle of whisky and I met two teetotallers."

Jax Brewing Company Renews Union Contract

Jacksonville, Fla.—According to Frank Kodatt, president of the Brewery Workers' Local Union No. 171, it is reported that the Jax Brewing company was the first to sign the agreement calling for an increase in wage scales and other beneficial working conditions.

The negotiations for the new agreement were handled by a special committee of brewery workers composed of Frank Kodatt, Bill Hornstein, Neal Brabham, N. H. Nisseh and all shop delegates with Mr. William Ostner for the company. As usually, Jax Brewing company set the pace for new working conditions in behalf of brewery workers.

Warns Trades-Unionists Against Buying National Sportsman and Hunting and Fishing Magazines

Chicago, Ill.—The organization committee of Chicago Printing Trades Unions has notified all state federations of labor and city central labor bodies that the two sports' magazines known as National Sportsman and Hunting and Fishing have been placed on the "We Don't Patronize List" by that organization.

The announcement states that National Sportsman, Inc., publishers of National Sportsman and Hunting and Fishing magazines, has refused to remove its two publications from the notoriously nonunion printing firm of R. R. Donnelley & Sons company.

The fight against these two magazines is a part of the nationwide anti-Donnelley campaign which has been indorsed by all state federations of labor, hundreds of city central labor bodies and local unions and by the American Federation of Labor itself.

Trades unionists everywhere will recall the union-busting activities of T. E. Donnelley (head of R. R. Donnelley & Sons company) when he was chairman of the self-appointed "citizens committee to enforce the Landis award," a combination of the most reactionary industrialists of Chicago, which set out to destroy legitimate unionism in the building industry of the mid-west and, with the aid of the lowest denizens of the underworld, came perilously close to doing so not so many years ago.

The anti-union Donnelley concern is a menace to the entire labor movement. T. E. Donnelley never hesitates to lend his support to any movement that has for its purpose the destruction of trade-unionism.

The Donnelley concern also prints two news magazines known as Time and Life.

Machinists' Ladies Auxiliary Sets Splendid Example of Union Label Activity, I. M. Ornburn Reports

Washington.—A peak record for union label activity was set by the union label department of the ladies' auxiliary of the International Association of Machinists, reports I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L. Union Label Trades Department. In a review of the auxiliary's union label activities, he says:

"The activities of this international department to a ladies' auxiliary is an outstanding example for women members of labor unionists' families throughout America. Mrs. Anna Preusser, of St. Louis, is chairman of the I. A. M. Union Label Department for the United States. She reports that over one hundred thousand union label-conscious consumers purchased only union label goods and patronized only union services during the past two months.

"Local Auxiliary No. 71 in Cincinnati and Local Auxiliary No. 84 in St. Louis had the highest averages. Bread and cigarettes drew the highest number of union label purchases. However, union-made products of every variety were bought by these loyal labor union-minded women.

Every Phase of Activity.

'In a series of eleven separate drives, the I. A. M. Ladies' Auxiliary included every phase of union activity. There was the positive campaign to patronize only firms that display a union label, shop card or button. There was the educational campaign by which the brand names and trademarks were publicized. There was a drive to patronize local firms that use only union services.

"These 'livewire' members of local auxiliaries enthusiastically entered into all the activities suggested by the Union Label Trades Department in Washington, such as union label Christmas gift buying, the Four-Star Essay contest, distribution of A. F. of L. union label catalogue-directories, union label weeks, union label exhibits and local union label contests. They carried on the negative campaigns against unfair products, nonunion services and especially against the buying of nazi and Japanese goods. They demanded union collective bargaining agreements with various firms and manufacturers that were nonunion before they took them off the 'we do not patronize' list.

No Bets Missed.

"In short, these wide-awake union label boosters missed no bet. They delivered the entire union label-conscious consumer army to union manufacturers and union merchandisers. Their union label batting average was 1000 per cent.

"In many cities throughout the country, union label committees are receiving the full cooperation of all the women's auxiliaries of the American Federation of Labor, the A. F. of L. organizers, central labor unions and union label leagues. In citing the splendid work of these two local women's auxiliaries, Mrs. Preusser has given us a good idea of what can be accomplished if their activities were multiplied by the thousands of women's auxiliaries which are now organized and will be formed throughout the United States and Canada."

Standard Knitting Mills Must Reinstate Discharged Workers

Knoxville.—There is much rejoicing in the camp of Local Textile Union No. 21751, made up of employes of the Standard Knitting mills, since the labor board has ordered the company to reinstate discharged union members and pay them in full for all time lost during the discharge period. Eight men are involved, and some of them have been idle for many months, thus their pay checks will be of appreciable size.

This local union was organized in midsummer of 1938, and some of the most active men in the newly formed union were discharged by the company. Charges were filed against the company, based upon the allegations that the men were fired because of their union membership and activity. Evidence furnished the trial examiner was sufficient to sustain the charges, hence the verdict.

Sheridan A. Pique, James F. Owens, John R. Watson, Earl E. Robinson, Joe White, Willie Cox, Otal Watson and Guy Owens are the men involved. The company is directed by the board to make whole any and all losses suffered by these men on account of their discharge. The company is further restrained from interfering in any way with the local union.

Vegetable Laxative
With Proved Feature

The punctual, satisfying relief from constipation and its headaches, biliousness, bad breath, so often experienced by users of this laxative, is mainly due to its combination of purely vegetable ingredients.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient has high medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative"; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

A little of this spicy, aromatic product by simple directions at bedtime, generally allows time for a good night's rest; acts gently and thoroughly next morning.

Next time, take time-tested, economical BLACK-DRAUGHT.

Western Grain Co. Employes Form Local

Birmingham, Ala.—Charter for Local Union No. 22374 has been installed, officers named, and negotiations for an agreement with pay increase have been started. The company expressed doubt as to whether or not the union represented a majority of the workers, and a consent election was held. The local union won by a vote of 77 to 52. S. E. Roper, president of the Alabama State Federation of Labor and in charge of the Birmingham office of the A. F. of L., with Hugh W. Brown, of the A. F. of L. staff, assisted the workers in forming the local union and in the negotiations for an agreement.

Facts—

It is apparent that if all the attendant problems are met in this country, they must be met by clear information and clear thinking. The labor press has continuously and continually played an important part in the battles of public opinion during the last ten years. The labor press is the last stronghold of a free press left in America.—Journal of Electrical Workers and Operators.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

Summertime seems to be here at last. Vacation, picnics and outings seems to be the order of the day. I will be as brief as possible with this writing.

Our local is looking forward to a good time Sunday, July 28. The committee tells me everything is ready.

At our meeting Saturday night the transportation problem will be discussed so that those not having cars better be there if you want to get to the grounds.

Our sick and accident list at time of writing is down to zero and I wish that we could keep it there.

Little Caesar and his side-kick, Nero (Buck Logston), while communing with nature on Walden's ridge Sunday were nearly eaten up by chiggers.

Indian Charlie and his medicine man (Arch Douglas) can be seen scouting in the woods for herbs. They say they know that Roy Welles, Bud Finley and Little Boy Blue will founder themselves at the picnic so they want to be prepared and be able to administer first aid.

Caution: Don't bring peanuts. You know Goober Johnson's weakness. We don't want Goober swinging the trees and low hanging boughs. Keep Goober out of the doghouse this time.

Yes, Herman Norris will get a haircut.

Old Man Ike and Ford Plushbottom, our shop cut-ups, have their act down pat. They will perform at the noon hour Sunday.

Si Perkins and Red Goforth, the mechanized wizards, have completed the butter churn they were experimenting with. Red says they will try it out with muddy water and if it works alright he will buy George Durham's old red cow.

Any one having matrimonial intentions, and if married at the picnic, license and preacher will be furnished free. See Paul Tex for particulars.

I promised to be brief with th' write-up so I better wind it up this time.

Don't forget Saturday night is meeting night. I'll be seeing you.

P. S. I nearly forgot, Carl Travis says for someone to bring a sweet potato pie for Eddy or you will spoil his day.

Welcome!

It was at a party. Gladys, aged 30, suddenly left the whist table, accompanied by an admiring suitor. Rushing up to her mother, she cried: "Oh, mother, I've won the booby!"

"Well, dear," exclaimed her mother, beaming, "come and let me kiss you both."

JUDGE

DRY BONE

We have had years of wastefulness, indifference and petty politics from the Justices of Peace and Judge Cummings, and what do we have left? A dry bone.

HIGH TAXES DRIVE AWAY NEW INDUSTRIES

While these politicians are fighting over the county bone, the poor home owner, working man and business man are paying higher and higher taxes. When high taxes drive industry away, the working man is left without a job.

IT WON'T WORK

Neither the Justice of Peace System nor Judge Cummings' commission of three, with himself as chairman, will work. Both systems play into the hands of politicians. Wastefulness will continue. The dry bone will get drier.

THE COUNCIL-MANAGER PLAN WILL WORK

It will put business methods in county government. It will take politics out of it. It will put county employes on civil service. It will take the big stick out of the bosses' hand who try to dictate how county employes and other citizens should vote.

WHAT IT DID IN DURHAM COUNTY, N. C.

Within four years the tax rate was reduced from 1.10 to 50c, besides paying off a floating indebtedness of $500,000 and a bonded indebtedness of $1,000,000. In 500 other cities and counties the council-manager plan is working successfully.

Shall we continue to let the politicians pat our shoulders, and at the same time pull more and more tax money out of our pockets and waste it? Shall we vote as the politicians tell us to, or shall we vote for John F. Crabtree, a business man, for the legislature, who is fighting for the Council-manager plan for Hamilton County and LOWER TAXES?

QUESTION No. 19—What is your position on enactment of a bill sponsored by the Chattanooga Building Trades Council requiring that the building inspector for Chattanooga be a qualified building tradesman?

Senatorial candidates favoring: All.

House candidates favoring: All except Kemmer and Crabtree. Kemmer says, "This sounds all right; however, I would like to see a copy of this bill sponsored by the Chttanooga Building Trades council, and I know the inspector should be a qualified building tradesman.

Crabtree says, "I think a building inspector should be thoroughly familiar with construction, understand blue prints, and qualified to act intelligently. I haven't seen the bill above referred to."

In addition to the foregoing answers the following special comments were appended in the form of letters or additional pages:

John F. Crabtree says, "With the limited time given to answer this questionnaire I cannot see how anyone could answer in the manner it should have been answered. I am perfectly willing to answer yes or no to any proposed legislation if given reasonable time to investigate and consult those interested in the subject."

Charles Wesley Heard says:

"Answer to Question 8: The way to reform is to reform—and the C. L. U. knows very well that any county manager bill that does not eliminate professional politicians from holding office under its set-up is a fraud, a deception on its face and a snare to secure votes and give Bill Cummings ironclad control of the county. 'County Council' means control by Judge Cummings and two stooges in the five-man set-up. 'Council Manager' also means control by Judge Cummings and two stooges in a five-man set-up. 'County Manager' means that if Mahoney, Ragon, Coleman and Grubb are elected that Judge Cummings will be 'Manager.'

"If elected, I shall introduce and fight for enactment of a bill eliminating professional politicians from holding office under the new set-up and providing for employment of a County Manager of proven executive ability and experience as a County Manager or City Manager where this experiment in government reform has been successfully tried out; a man of the type of Mr. Dykstra, formerly City Manager of Cincinnati, now president of the University of Wisconsin.

"Answer to Question 9: Of course, I favor a General Sessions court—but not the bill drawn up by T. Pope Shepherd for Judge Cummings and sponsored by little Joe Williams and a few stooge lawyers. A spite bill characterized by evasion and brought forth as a revenge measure against the rebel squires who fired T. Pope Shepherd and have taken partial control of the county government from Judge Cummings. A bill that provides for three judges at $4,000 each; qualifications of judges being willingness to obey orders from the machine, which will select and try to elect men of the type of Bruce Freeman and Hays Clark to serve the politicians.

"The people, including the rank and file of organized labor, are not concerned with the personal political fortunes of any candidate, but they are vitally concerned with the type of men they elect to the legislature; and the leaders of organized labor are morally obligated to the rank and file to tell them the truth about candidates who, while serving in the legislature, have occasionally given labor a lettuce sandwich while shipping turkey and ham by the carload to machine politicians back home; and about the bills sponsored by these politicians. Incidentally, they ought to tell them about the back tax and insurance rackets. The county trustee and the clerk and master have refused to make public the back tax records. But I have authentic information that J. B. Ragon receives in excess of $12,250 per year in insurance commissions. These two candidates hypocritically profess to serve the people for $4.00 per day, actually they serve the machine and receive many thousands a year each for their loyalty to the machine.

"A personal word. I have fought labor's battles for forty years. More than thirty years ago I was writing for the Labor Press. I have seen union men shot down and slugged by thugs in the uniform of the Colorado state militia—thugs imported from St. Louis and Chicago. I have seen union men beaten and slugged in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. I have seen the wives and children of union men ridden down by mounted state constabulary in Pennsylvania, a state ruled absolutely by the notorious "coal and iron police" from 1865 until July 1, 1935, when a democratic governor and legislature repealed the law under which they operated. I know from personal experience what Hitlerism means and what labor must face if we ever have it here. And I have nothing but contempt for a man who goes to the legislature with labor's support—and then serves these dictatorial machines.

"And, whether or not labor supports me for the legislature, if elected, I shall work for the good of labor 100 per cent plus, as I have done for forty years; and for the defeat of machine legislation as I have done for forty years.

(Signed)
"CHARLES WESLEY HEARD."

Mr. J. P. Brown says:

"I am very glad to sign and return your questionnaire, but wish to comment briefly on questions 8, 9 and 15.

"Question 8: I am flatly against this. Democracy has had a long and hard fight through many centuries to obtain and hold the right to choose their own governing officials. I am for no backward step in this direction. The proposed law (the bill has not been published) would rob rural sections of representation, for the reason that the majority of the votes are in the city of Chattanooga; and would rob all sections of the right to choose the chief governing official of the county. There is too much chance here for political chicanery and machine government. Win or lose, I am against this plan.

"Question 9: The General Sessions court. This would add numerous salaries the money for which might much better be used to raise the salaries of teachers who are underpaid. I am against this plan. (If the garnishment limit were raised a reasonable amount, much criticism of the squires' courts would be eliminated. The present limit, $40.00, is too low. Chain clothing and other stores will sell anyone working, knowing at present that they can depend on the garnishment limit to produce their money. If the limit were raised, they would be more careful whom they sell, and there would be fewer suits in J. P. courts. It is not the J. P.'s who are the fee-grabbers, but the people who bring the suits. I know one lawyer who makes his living digging up judgments of a deceased J. P., Pete Lawrence, who was never a fee-grabber. This lawyer buys the judgments for a song, and wrings the last ounce of flesh from them, with lawyer fees added.) Again, plainly, I am AGAINST the General Sessions court.

"Question 15: Under certain circumstances, consolidation of the city and county schools would be of advantage to education. After all, it is the cause of education that is important, not any individual or group. However, I would take no action on this unless approved by the teachers' federation, Commissioner McMillan, the parent-teachers, and others who are interested in education for its own sake and not for selfish reasons. Education is my main interest in this race. If sent to the legislature, I will work in season and out for the betterment of our educational system and ist advancement. I believe that the future of high school education will turn in the direction of vocational training more and more. Heretofore, we have educated boys and girls for college. However, only 6 per cent go to college. The other 94 per cent must be trained. I believe and will work for an extension of the high school course for one or more years, such time to be devoted to apprenticeship in the various trades, students to be paid apprentice wages during the time they are learning. I would use union men as instructors or as instructors' helpers. This may seem far-fetched, but it is coming and coming sooner than we expect.

"I will be glad to talk to your group, or any group, on the matters in question in this legislative race, and will state my position plainly on all questions.

"With very best personal regards, I am,

"Sincerely yours,
"J. P. BROWN."

Chemical Workers To Be Organized In AFL Unions

Campaign Gets Srart Here As Organizers Assemble

Further plans were made in Chattanooga Monday and Tuesday, July 23-23, for the organization of a new international union, when H. A. Bradley, president of the International Council of Chemical Workers Local Unions, met with labor officials of the southeast at the Patten hotel for a conference. The international council will meet in national conference in Akron, on Sept. 7, for the purpose of completing organization of an international union, Mr. Bradley said.

There are local unions of chemical workers in Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama. Labor officials attending the Chattanooga conference were George L. Googe, Atlanta, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor; W. Roper, president of the Alabama State Federation of Labor in charge of the Birmingham office of the A. F. of L., with R. R. Moore, Hugh M. Brown and Walter Schaffer, organizers working out of the Birmingham office; Glenn McClung, of Tampa, representing the president of the Florida State Federation of Labor; and J. L. Rhodes, A. F .of L. organizer at Jacksonville, Fla., and editor of the labor paper at that city; Lev G. Loring, president of the Memphis Trades and Labor council; T. R. Cuthbert, secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor; Paul J. Ayres, Chattanooga, associate director of the American Federation of Labor in the southeast; A. C. Cronin, Chattanooga; Miss Golda Wolf, recording secretary Cosmopolitan Manufacturing Employes' union, Memphis; E. E. McDaniel, international representative of the I. B. E. W. in Tennessee; A. E. Brown, A. F. of L. organizer, Durham, N. C.

Representing the Operative Engineers at the conference were Max F. McDonald, southern representative, Savannah; J. L. Hand, business agent, of Chattanooga, and J. H. Reeves and George W. Reel, of the Hales Bar local union of Operative Engineers.

W. R. Williams, southwestern representative of the American Federation of Labor, attended the meeting and left Tuesday for Shreveport, La., to arrange for a similar conference to be held in that city Thursday and Friday for the southwest.

Mr. Bradley stated that there are now more than 18,000 members of chemical workers local unions, and the conference planned for the launching of an intensive organizing campaign with the purpose of trebling this number of members by the time the national conference is held at Akron on Sept. 7.

The Tennessee valley, West Virginia and Texas will become the three centers for chemical plant operations in the defense program, Mr. Bradley said, basing his statement upon the preparations being made by the government. Many of these chemical plants will become key industries in the defense program, and Mr. Bradley further stated that the principal reason for haste in organizinf these plants is to make sure that none but good Amerioan citizens obtain employment in these key plants so the government will be free from the devastating work of those who would sabotage the nation's key industries in the defense program.

Mr. Googe conferred Tuesday with the organizers in his territory, making plans for the organization campaign which will receive the full support of the A. F. of L. organizing staff during the coming weeks. Central Labor union organizing committees and international representatives for all other affiliated crafts working the south will be urged to lend full co-operation to the organization of chemical workers. Full information concerning those eligible for membership in chemical workers' unions will be sent to all central labor unions at an early date. In Chattanooga one local union of chemical workers operates under a closed shop agreement with the company.

Don't Boo or Hiss!

When the movies show flashes of Wendell Willkie and Franklin Roosevelt we have noticed a tendency of portions of the audience to boo and hiss, according to their political leanings.

We think this is wrong and un-American. We think that applause is proper, but after all, both men are Americans, aspiring to the presidency of this nation. We have definite convictions which of the two men should be the president. Both of them have certain philosophies concerning the way this government should be operated.

One of them will be elected, and then he will be OUR president and should be supported to the fullest.

We think Wendell Willkie is a good American whose philosophy on government is much different with that of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The people who support those separate philosophies have an inalienable right to those beliefs. Those beliefs should not be hissed. They should be debated and at the proper time be voted on to decide which way shall prevail.

Let's cheer our favorite candidate as much as we like, but let's not boo. Remember, the man that you boo today might be our president in a few months, and then what are you going to do?

Copper Basin Men Vote AFL In Election

Labor Relations Board Will Certify Federation as Bargaoining Agent; CIO Unions Withdraw.

The American Federation of Labor, in a national labor relations board election held last Friday, won an overwhelming victory to represent the employes of the Tennessee Copper company as collective bargaining agency.

The election, supervised by the labor board and held at the copper company's mines in the Ducktown-Isabella section and the smelter at Copperhill, resulted in a vote of 954 votes favorable to the AFL as against 174 cast for "no union representation."

The CIO made no outward campaign to capture the election, as had been done a year ago when it was chosen by a bare majority of seven votes. On the other hand, it was claimed that remaining members of this organization, who have been on strike from copper company workings since last summer, passed among the employes and urged voting for "no union representation."

With a view of ending disorders in the copper basin strong representations were made to the labor relations board early in the year for a third election to be held there and subsequently such an order came down and July 26 was fixed as the date thereof. Shortly after that date the CIO requested the board to withdraw its name as prospective bargaining agent, which was done.

The CIO under the election of last May executed a contract with the company, valid until May 7 this year. In the interim a strike was called by the CIO with the members of the AFL unions refusing to heed same.

Following the election last week it was reported that when the board certified the AFL unions a new contract will be sought with the company.

Two Ice Companies Negotiating With Union Teamsters

After a ten-day strike, affecting some eighty-five employes of the Chattanooga Ice company and the Pure Ice company, negotiations are now in progress between the union and the companies for a union agreement.

Commissioner of Conciliation C. H. Williams is sitting in the conferences and was instrumental in securing the truce which made possible the negotiations.

When the companies refused to deal with the union, the strike was called, and for about a week there was an acute ice shortage.

It is generally believed that a satisfactory settlement will be effected.

Temple Board Busily Working on Its By-Laws

Last July 27, the board of directors of Chattanooga Labor Temple, Inc., approved of the by-laws for the new corporation with exception of one clause, which is to be soon whipped into shape by the special committee appointed to draw up suggestions.

Brother V. O. Cunningham, from the Cement Workers, was seated as a director.

The board established a policy of membership on the basis of a local union subscribing either one thousand dollars or one day's pay per member. Chairman Park named A. C. Kamin, C. R. Cunningham and V. W. Hallmark as a committee to draw up pledges and certificates.

Architect Selmon T. Franklin is drawing up remodeling plans.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 5, at 7 p.m. at the present labor hall.

Curtis Sims Has Fine Daughter

Curtis R. Sims, representative for the bakers' international union, and formerly president of Central Body, has a fine new daughter. She arrived at Erlanger hospital on July 27, and weighed in at 8 pounds 5½ ounces.

It has been suggested that if he passes around cigars that he change to a brand different from the one he is now using. (Editor's note: A very good suggestion!)

U. S. EMPLOYMENT STATUS

Washington.—Legislation to insure that government employes would retain their job standing if they enter the military service "in emergency" has been asked by Local 476 of the American Federation of Government Employes, A. F. of L. union of federal workers. A resolution adopted by the local urges that congress guarantee that any civilian employe who entered military service in an emergency would be given at the time of his discharge a civil service status in the same grade and salary they had when they left the job. Preferred status for re-employment also was asked.

Power Board Men In Repair Dept. Are Not Union

A warning might be in order to trades unionists and friends when they have an electric range to be repaired. This is borne out by the following incident:

A good union teacher has an electric range that went down on her and she called the power board to see if they could send out a union man. A man came out and when asked if he was a union man he said he was. She then asked to see his card and he did not have one.

He was sent back to the other eighteen nonunion repair department employes in the public power system.

And Terrell Electric company sent a man out at once who had a card and who did a good job.

The line department of the power board is almost entirely union, but there are no union men in the repair department.

Through the union these nonunion men are enjoying better wage rates and conditions. It is hoped that in the near future the causes for these men staying out of the union will be eliminated.

Oil Refiners 323 To Meet Monday

Oil Refiners 323 will hold its next regular meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. over the Alton Park fire hall, according to Brother E. A. Gossett. He said that an enjoyable picnic for the Wilson company employes was held at Warner park last Wednesday, and that Brother Bill Wood is taking a good vacation at home.

Blansit Goes To Washington

H. F. Blansit, business representative for Local 515, Teamsters, is in Washington on business for the local union concerning the Rutherford Freight lines, which has been on strike for some weeks. He will also enter into discussion going on concerning national defense.

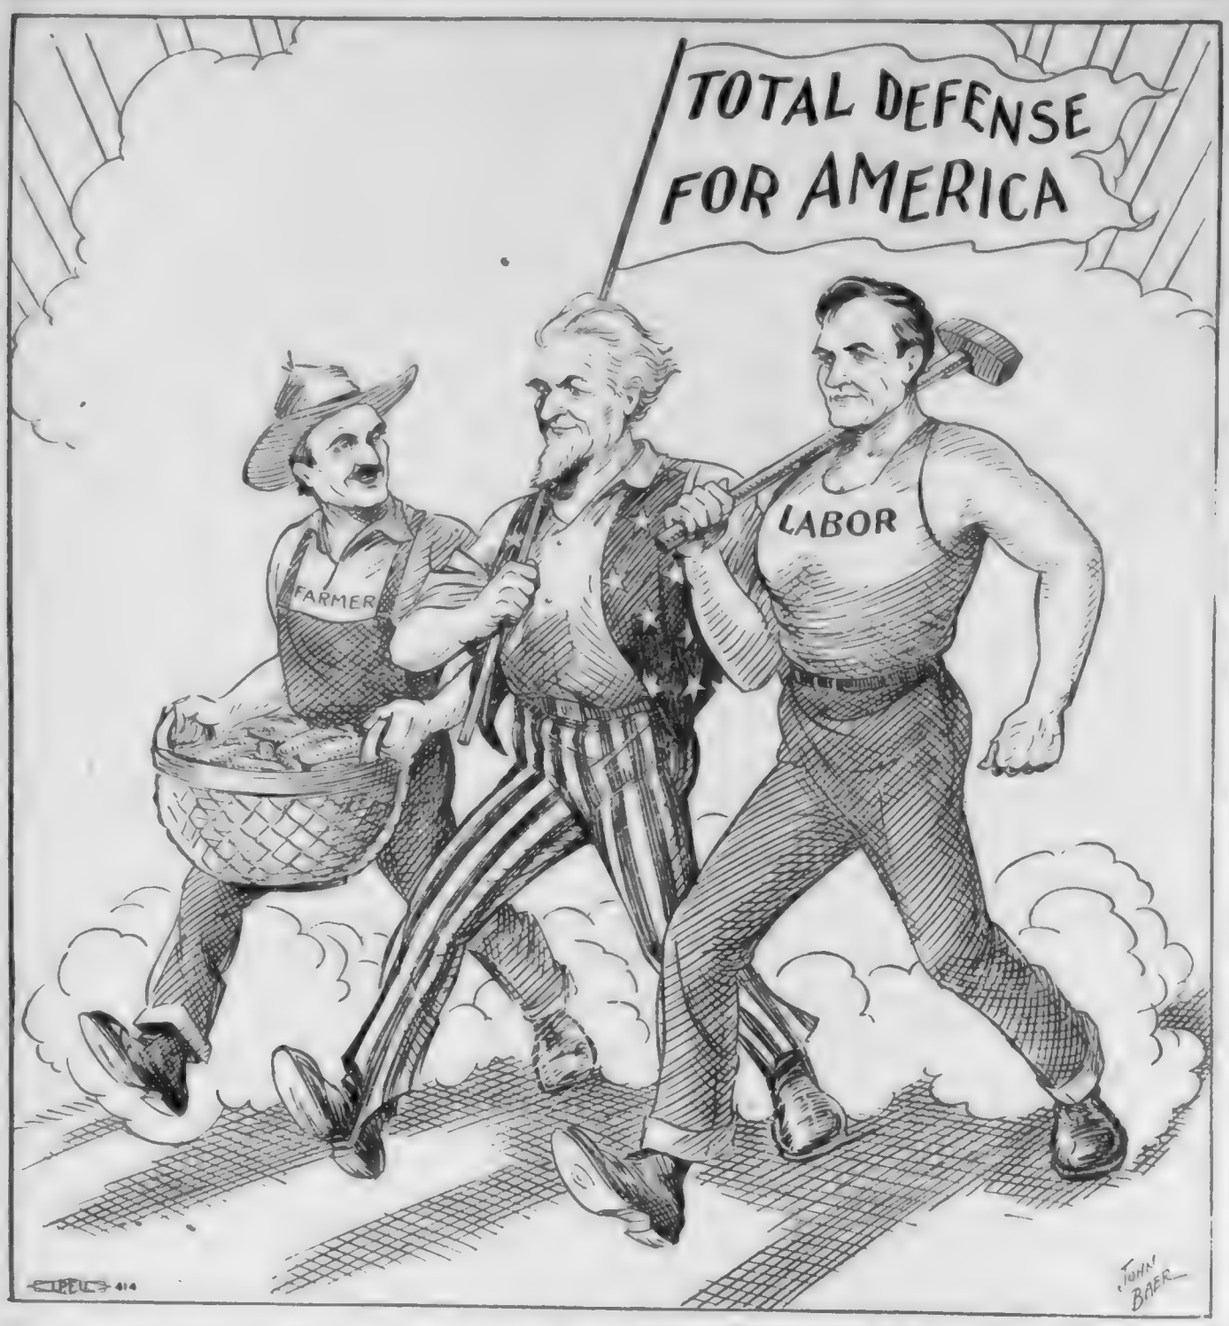
THE SPIRIT OF 1949! By Baer



8,000 TENNESSEE GARMENT WORKERS RECEIVE WAGE INCREASES

Nashville.—About 8,000 Tennessee garment workers will receive hourly wage rate increases as the result of the apparel wage order under the federal wage and hour law, according to estimates of William M. Eaves, regional director of the wage and hour division, United States department of labor, 119 Seventh Avenue North, Nashville, Tenn. The apparel wage order, which went into effect this morning, was signed in Washington May 15, 1940, by Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division. It established minimum rates of 32½, 35, 37½ and 40 cents an hour for twenty-five divisions of the garment industry. It was estimated that these rates will increase the wages of some 200,000 garment workers throughout the nation.

"I do not think it is any exaggeration to say that this wage order is welcomed by most manufacturers in lines which in the past have experienced cycles of wage cutting and price cutting," said Mr. Eaves. "From now on these manufacturers will be able to operate with confidence that future underselling will be made possible only by factors other than cut-wage competition. To this extent this wage order should bring stabilization in the garment industry. To have enough inspectors now to do a job—and we are going to see to it that this order is enforced in Tennessee and in the garment establishments of Kentucky, the other state comprising Region IX in the organization of the wage and hour division."

The largest number of Tennessee workers receiving the wage rate increases today is engaged in the manufacture of work clothing, work shirts, dress shirts, single pants, wash suits, washable service apparel, dresses and nightwear. They will receive increases of from 30 cents to 32½ cents an hour—about $1.00 a week—the new minimum established for this branch of the industry.

About 5,000 workers are engaged in the thirty-five establishments in Kentucky, the other state of Region IX. These establishments employ 5,000 workers, and about 3,000 of these will receive wage rate increases as the result of the day's order.

The wage order directs that every establishment making garments by the cut-and-sew method display a poster. The division has mailed the posters from Washington to some 15,000 garment shops in the nation. The Nashville office has a number of these posters on hand, and will be able to supply them to any manufacturers who need them. The poster, which outlines the wage rates, must be displayed or there is a violation of the law.

Workers Warned Against Rumors Of Defense Jobs in Washington

Warning was issued by the social security board against rumors and misinformation which are causing workers to flock to Washington in search of defense jobs. Director Byron Mitchell, of the employment service division of the social security board, urges all such applicants to inquire at their own local public employment offices. No jobs or training are being provided at the national capital, he says, except for local needs at this time. The workers who come to Washington on the basis of rumors will not only be disappointed, but will have lost time and possible opportunities in their own localities.

Mr. Mitchell said:

"To counteract the impression that appears to have been gained throughout the country that the government at this time is launching a huge placement and retaining plan at Washington under defense program, all seekers work under the defense pro should be told that this is not case. Instead of coming to ington, where there are no facilities for placing or tra workers in defense jobs, cants should apply to their employment offices or mak quiries there as to work and ing facilities. There are app mately 1,500 of these throughout the country with than 3,000 additional points part-time service is provided the employment offices. It these local centers that appli should go to register their qu cations and availability for or training. These offices w kept informed of opportunities jobs and training as rapidly general plans develop."

Miss Perkins Urges Health Program For Young Workers to Aid Defense

Washington—Adoption of a program to provide medical supervision and care, with health education and proper nutrition with selected diets for industrial workers, for young persons in training for industry and for children who are future workers on national defense is advocated by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

"An extended program of national defense is bound to depend greatly upon the health and vigor of industrial workers and the health of children and young people in their families is also of importance to an extended effort," she said.

"State and local agencies should be stimulated to provide health supervision and medical care and broad public education should be directed toward these groups to correct dietary deficiencies. Other methods to carry out such a program could include:

"Community sanitation to control spread of communicable disease.

"Increased distribution of the surplus commodities in order to provide necessary protective foods for industrial workers and their families.

"Distribution of low-cost milk to the same families.

"Expansion of school-lunch programs and their extension vacation periods is urgent.

"Factory and workshop eons at low cost to provide nutrition and energy-produ foods for industrial workers."

Bakers' Scraps

This being our local's anniversary week we are going to give you a little of the history of our baker's organization.

On Aug 1, 1933, a new organization of Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Local Union No. 25 was organized by a handful of men who been employed in the baking industry for a good many years and had seen the need for an organization of the workers in this field. Brother Seb Ollinger, of the bakers' international, came into the city and met with the workers and explained the advantages of an organization. We had our share of trouble but have somehow struggled through it. The success of the organization is due to the hard work and undying interest that has been shown by the officers and business representatives, as well as the majority of the members themselves. We have had some very good representatives, namely: Curtis R. Sims, C. B. Norwood, H. H. Clemons and Fred Elkins, who is our business agent at the present time. The officers of our organization at the present time are: W. R. Downey, president; C. M. Wilkey, vice-president; Fred Elkins, business representative and financial secretary; Chas. Mabee, secretary and treasurer; Geneva Wilson, address secretary; Fred Carr and Thomas Weathers, sergeants-at-arms; Carl Compton, George Stiles and Hal Reddick, executive board; Jack Peck, Amos Miller and Fred Brewer, trustees. We appreciate the co-operation organized labor has given us in the short time we have been in existence.

We had a very interesting meeting last Saturday and had a good attendance. J. N. Gilreath was the lucky brother to win the free dues. Alan Shook, of Tracy City, and William Simpson are two new members who were taken into the local.

* * *

Leonard Callis has relatives visiting him from White House, Tenn., Nashville and Detroit. What's this I hear about the brother having a new theme song!

Eloise and Maxine Rose, vivacious daughters of Mrs. Grace Rose, have returned home after spending a few weeks with relatives out of the city. The kids certainly were not underfed while they were away for they both seem to me to have put on a few extra pounds. Hope they don't read this for if they do I'm in for it.

Dorothy and Nell Soloff are vacationing in New York. We missed the Soloff girls at the meeting last Saturday. The sisters are employed at the Carter Candy company.

BREAD AND WAR

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

"Give us this day our daily bread" has been the universal cry of mankind since the beginning of time. It was the first petition in the prayer taught by Jesus to His disciples 2000 years ago. The fight for bread has been the animating force back of the greatest struggles in history. The tramping of armies, the booming of cannon, the pilgrimage of pioneers, the struggles of the workers, synchronize in a mighty staccato marching chorus of "Bread! Bread!—Bread! BREAD! BREAD!"

Riots to obtain food, rebellion against starvation wages, the overthrow of political parties, have persisted when the people were hungry. At such a time every other consideration—moral, ethical and religious—has been swept aside. International warfare has been stimulated because the nations were made to believe that only through war could their physical hunger be satisfied, even though war has broken the backs of the common people because of endless debt, and the payment of other penalties.

To secure bread for the people systematic villification and misrepresentation have been engaged in to breed hatred among neighbor nations. To the same end barriers have been erected between nations through the enactment of selfish legislation and the practice of inhuman customs, which have created deep-seated prejudices resulting in isolation and irreparable separation.

The imperative demand for that which gives life, has been made the occasion for engaging in struggles that resulted in death. Instead of working together to produce the bread of life for all humanity, the nations have been engaged in cruel warfare which has resulted in destruction to the whole people. And so, the world is today organized upon a war basis.

There can be no peace on earth until the prayer of all the nations, and all people everywhere, "Give us this day our daily bread," is answered. There may be bread enough, and to spare, for all the people. But to this end, men need to learn the wisdom taught by the prophet Hosea nearly 3000 years ago, to "beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks." Then, we are assured, "nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." For when the normal desires of men have been satisfied, they will consider their mutual problems in a natural fashion. The common enemies of mankind are those who deprive the nations of bread.

Nine are planning to go: President Willard Millsaps, National Vice-President and Mrs. Stanton Smith, Josephine Hamilton, Jessie Barger, Mrs. Ruth McCafferty, Lassie and Virginia Munsey and Paul Long. The convention will be held at the Hotel Statler in Buffalo the week of Aug. 19.

Fate—

The fate of England is not only our most important present problem, but it is probably the most important problem we have ever faced nationally, except, perhaps, during the Revolutionary and Civil Wars. Those conflicts were fundamentally important to us as a nation, but now we are witnessing the remaking of the world.—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist, Cleveland Trust company.

'Back to the Rails'

That is what the people all over the country are saying because they are convinced that the railroads are safer than the highways and they enjoy the comfort of the air-conditioned coaches. The cost is only 1½ cents per mile for each mile traveled and there is a 10% reduction when round trip tickets are purchased.

Ask your ticket agent for total fares or write James Freeman, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Chattanooga, Tennessee, for further information.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABOR COUNCIL CHATTANOOGA

FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1940

Labor Representation

Labor representation on all boards and agencies dealing with wage-earners and their interests is a cardinal principle of the American labor movement. There can be no valid argument against the principle, labor believes, pointing out that it is in line with democratic practices and policies.

Conscription is certainly a matter that directly affects the wage-earners and their vital interests. Drafting of working for military training and possible service, calls for a labor voice in the process. Any conscription act would be woefully lacking if had no provision for labor representation on national and local boards that select trainees and fix policies.

Labor representation in government activities, to safeguard democracy, was never more needed than at present. Labor hopes that congress fully realizes this and will be guided accordingly.

Shut Out

Back in the Middle Ages they had an ecclesiastical punishment of frightful severity which was sometimes inflicted upon wicked kings. The guilty one was expelled from the social order, and everybody was forbidden to give him food or fire. It brought the proudest monarch to his knees in short order. But today, unemployment constitutes a kind of gradual expulsion from the social order. The man who is out of a job for a while is shut out of the whole normal give-and-take of our society. He is no longer doing whatever it was that he used to do for others—make shoes, dig coal, or raise foodcrops. And nobody is doing for him what everybody used to do—supply his needs and his family's needs. The time comes when he is not welcome in the grocery store, or in the coal yard. He has been interdicted from food and fire. His children haven't any shoes to go to school in, so they drop out of school. The family has been excommunicated from the regular world.—Florence Kerr, Assistant Commissioner, Work Projects Administration.

Poll Tax Condemned

The poll tax and its evils are analyzed by six Southern leaders in a pamphlet published by the American Council on Public Affairs. They discuss the origin of the poll tax, how it has disfranchised white voters even more than Negroes, how it has been used to corrupt elections and frustrate the people's needs in legislatures.

Governor Johnson of Mississippi is quoted as summing up the injustice of the poll tax in the single question, "Why should we refuse a man the right to vote just because he is poor?"

The effect on labor legislation is brought out by Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal:

"It is easy to understand why the states with poll tax suffrage have lagged behind all others in social legislation. The people who want laws to protect labor, the tenant farmer, and the bottom income group from exploitation are seldom the people who can pay a poll tax."

Supreme Test

(From the Magazine of Wall Street)

American public opinion within the past few weeks has become fully alive to the dreadful significance that this war holds for the United States and for western civilization. Suddenly we find the people leading their elected officials, not following them.

This aroused and united public opinion does not demand that we declare war. It does demand that we cut the corners and the red tape; come to deadly earnest grip with the essentials: provide the allies with the greatest possible equipment and supplies in the shortest possible time; put our national defense needs immediately above every other consideration. It does not give a damn about the cost—provided we get adequate results—and it is more calmly resigned to heroic taxation than are our politicians.

ocracy Facing Crisis, ational Educator Warns ipline of Democracy Better Than Autocratic line of Dictatorships, Says Dr. C. R. Mann, erican Council on Education.

By OLIVER HOYEM

Washington—In these days when of small faith are spreading e idea that democracy has failed government, in labor organizaon, in industry—and that dictaship must be fought with dictaorship, it is refreshing to find hat the leaders in the United tates who have acquired a reputaon for straight thinking still see emocracy as a greater vitalizing rce than Hitlerism.

International Labor News Servce asked one such leader, Dr. C. Mann, to give us a thoughtful swer to the attack on democracy. r. Mann was chairman of the ilian advisory board attached to e general staff of the War Deartment during the last World War. He thus helped to keep our part of that war functioning on democratic principles. He is now president emeritus of the American Council of Education, the voluntary organization that was formed in the crucible of the last war to co-ordinate the activities of our educational institutions and help keep alive the flame of liberty and democracy.

Big Responsibility on Individual

"Granted that the democratic way of life is now facing a crisis as important for the future as any in the past history of civilization," Dr. Mann told ILNS, "that crisis cannot be successfully mastered by 'passing the buck' to other sources —persons, groups, alien philosophies, industrial greed, current political management, and so forth. It is high time that each individual citizen takes stock of himself. He must appraise his own attitudes and dispositions toward the whole, and assume his own responsibility for continuing and improving the health of the whole national body.

"Self-discipline is now, as it has been from the beginning and will be as long as we, the people, wish to 'secure the blessings of liberty for ourselves and our posterity' the life-giving force needed to make one competent to play his part in the further evolution of the democratic way of life.

Self-Discipline Essential

"Though the American Constitution establishes an external form of government which recognizes both the religious and the moral rights of the individual, it is, nevertheless, but one of the essential factors needed to achieve the democratic way of life for a nation. The second, co-ordinate factor is such action by the citizen in whom power over this government is vested by the Constitution, that he disciplines himself until he becomes competent to play his part in living a soundly democratic life.

"To the life-giving element of democracy each contributes by his own attitude. The attitude of a democratic nation is the sum total of the attitudes of individual persons who make up that nation. Thus each individual promotes or inhibits the further growth of sound democracy in so far as his personal attitude contributes to or detracts from a sound national democratic attitude."

(Another chapter of Dr. Mann's views on democracy will appear in our next issue.)

WPA WORKERS MOBILIZED FOR DEFENSE PROJECTS

Washington.—Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, announced that the work projects administration expects to have from 500,000 to 600,000 jobless employed on national defense projects by fall. The projects include military barracks, airports, armories, garages, utilities and other facilities intimately connected with the defense program.

Col. Harrington said that during the past five years more than $346,000,000 has been spent by the WPA on direct national defense projects, plus many more millions expended on roads, streets and public buildings, which have increased defense facilities.

PUBLICATION FOR DEFENDANT

No. 4166
Before J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, Hamilton County, Tennessee.
B. L. Leonard vs. John Doe, alias Earl Stacks.

Whereas, B. L. Leonard, on the 20th day of June, 1940, made affidavit before me, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, that the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, was justly indebted to him by account in the sum of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, and that the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and that said B. L. Leonard gave bond as required by law in attachment cases, and

Whereas, I, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, on that day issued an original attachment against the estate of the said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, returnable and set for trial for August 6, 1940, at 10:00 a.m., at my office at 624 Cherry Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, and said attachment has been levied on certain property (one 1934-Ford V-8, Georgia License D-9-1170) of the defendant, and an order for this publication has been duly made,

Now, therefore, said John Doe, alias Earl Stacks, is hereby notified to appear at my office at 624 Cherry Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the sixth day of August, 1940, at 10:00 a.m., and then and there to defend this attachment suit or the same will be proceeded with ex parte.

This 11th day of July, 1940.

War Labor Board Is Unlikely Now, Labor Secretary Perkins Says In Public Statement

Washington, D. C.—No war labor board will be needed for the national defense program, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has announced. Her statements were based on observations and conferences with members of the conciliation service, labor leaders and employers.

Unlike the situation during the world war, it was pointed out that causes for strikes then such as the right to bargain collectively, recognition of unions and adjustment of hours of working, are now guaranteed by federal statutes.

Now the national labor relations act guarantees the recognition of unions and the right to bargain and there is a fairly universal recognition of the eight-hour day and 40-hour week.

Special boards to handle disputes in industries where strikes might be threatened would not be formed unless they were necessary.

As to the conferences between members of the conciliation service and employers and labor leaders, the Secretary of labor added: of both to get the work done well and quickly to settle possible disputes promptly and without stoppage of work. Many local unions and employers are communicating with the secretary of labor to the effect that there will not be disruption of the output of manufactured products vital to the national defense and that all questions and problems between employer and the unions which they are unable to settle by themselves will be submitted to the conciliation service of the department of labor for settlement."

The procedure for the settlement of labor disputes in defense industries would be, first, for the parties to confer, negotiate and reach an agreement between themselves without stoppage of work; second, in case of inability to resolve the dispute by negotiation, call in the conciliation service of the department of labor; and third, in case the conciliation service is unable to bring about a settlement, the parties will agree among themselves on a self-selected arbitrator without stoppage of work.

Way "Build-up" Helps Will Interest Women

The cause of a woman's periodic suffering from headache, irritability, cramp-like pain, may be functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, a condition that is often helped by CARDUI.

Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; so increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.

It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is invited by its 50 years of popularity.

CIO Union Sues Winchell For Million Dollars

New York City—A suit for $1,000,000 damages against Walter Winchell, radio commentator and columnist, has been filed in New York Supreme Court by the Nationa. Maritime union, CIO affiliate.

The union in its bill of complaint declared it had been libeled by Winchell in a broadcast June 9 and in his column, "Walter Winchell on Broadway," next day. The plaintiff said it objected to Winchell's statement that "numerous" members of the union were Communists and "had mercury and emery dust for sabotage purposes."

The complaint also charged that Winchell had exposed the union "to public contempt" and that his words were intended "to induce an evil opinion of them (the members) in the minds of right-thinking persons and business."

Hosiery Firm Fined On Wage Law Charge

Philadelphia, Pa.—For ignoring a United States court order to pay workers in its southern branch plant at Etowah, Tenn., the prescribed minimum under the fair labor standards act of 1938, the Sports Wear Hosiery Mills, Inc., and two of its officers were fined $3,500 by Federal District Judge Harry E. Kalodner on a contempt of court citation. The officers and the company pleaded guilty to the contempt charges when arraigned on a citation issued by Philip B. Fleming, head of the U. S. labor department wage and hour division, who asserted that the company had continued to pay its employes at Etowah below the minimum standard despite an injunction issued by the federal court in April, 1939.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Only minor bills were passed this week in congress, but the stage is set for action upon many important matters in the near future. This week committee hearings were held on bills for compulsory military service, TVA expansion, excess profits tax, making American ships available for evacuation of refugee children, and the $4,000,000,000 preparedness measure.

Compulsory military training during peace time has always been repugnant to democratic America. We have acted upon the theory that our navy was sufficient as a first line of defense to afford time for raising an army when the danger actually arose. We cannot do this today. If the worst should happen in Europe and Asia our navy would be hopelessly insufficient, and it takes time to build ships. So America is forced to conscription.

We have embarked on a vast rearmament program. Obviously, the ships, tanks, guns and airplanes we are building will be useless unless we have men trained to use them. Voluntary recruits are coming in too slowly to do the job. The army needs 400,000 men by October, and another 400,000 by next April.

The Burke-Wadsworth compulsory service bill after being altered so as to relieve as many hardships as possible, will probably be passed during the next few weeks.

The bill to make $25,000,000 available for expansion of the TVA building of Cheroffee dam at Jefferson City, and installing a steam plant, and additional generators, will be acted on Tuesday or Thursday. This expansion, requested by the defense commission, will eventually cost $65,000,000. All representatives in the TVA area are busy helping pave the way for the bill's passage.

The valley section presents a thrilling picture of progress and development. The river—the force of nature—is rapidly being harnessed for the use of the people and of industry.

The insistent and growing demand that American ships, under all precautions, be made available for bringing children from European war zones, was evidenced by the approval of the foreign affiars committee of the house when a bill for such purpose was unanimously recommended by that committee.

It is not possible under the present neutrality law for American ships to enter belligerent ports. This bill allows this to be done for the evacuation of children when agreements have been secured for the safety of the ships. America is anxious to furnish a haven for children of belligerent nations. This bill is slated for early passage.

On Thursday the president, in accordance with the power granted to him by congress, stopped by executive order the export of petroleum products and scrap metal from the United States without a specific license. This means that the enormous quantities of scrap iron heretofore going to Japan will be stopped immediately. There has been a growing demand that this be done. Many letters and telegrams have been received from citizens of the district urging this action.

Japan has no iron or petroleum resurces of any importance. Normally the United States supploes 65% of Japanese petroleum imports, and more than 85% of the iron and steel scrap. Some bitter recriminations may result, but the president's action was wise.

Over 20 Million Dollars Go Mont To Private Industry for Materi Pay on USHA Building Projects

Washington—Increasing benefits are going to workers and employers in private industry as a result of the United States housing authority program.

More than $20,000,000 a month now is flowing to private industry from local housing authorities whose slum clearance and national defense low-rent public housing projects are financed by the USHA.

Expenditures to Rise

These expenditures, which it is estimated will range up to more than $30,000,000 a month as the current national program is further accelerated by the demands for national defense housing, are largely for the purchase of building materials and for the payment of wages to workmen on project sites.

Money is advanced to local housing authorities with which the USHA has entered into loan contracts as it is needed to finance the development of their projects.

Well over half of the 160,000 low- rent homes for low-income families projected in the current USHA program now are under construction or completed, USHA Administrator Nathan Straus said here.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

War, no matter how well it may be confined to Europe and Asio, will soon have its effect upon women in American industry. The huge United States armament program will pile up its demands upon productive capacity. That, of itself, will draw more women into industry, particularly into the hundreds of small plants occupied with producing parts where women are so largely employed.

The "dilution" of labor always brings more women into industrial employment—and "dilution" is just around the corner. Both trade union opposition and law enforcement will be needed to hold the line against the sure-to-come effort to break down sound regulations in the interests of production.

But that doesn't end the effect of war and armament. Women will bear the brunt of increasing prices. Import and export business is completely out of gear, with the results backfiring into the price field.

However, regardless of the currents of war and war demands, plus the stoppage of many imports, women will have to face the problems of price readjustment.

PANTRY PALAVER

Chef's Hints: It is not yet too late to make strawberry or raspberry sunshine preserves. Select large, firm berries, wash carefully and place a layer in a shallow pan. Pour over an equal amount of sugar as berries, cover the pan with a sheet of glass and set in the sunshine for at least six hours. They are delicious.

* * *

To add flavor and appeal to your dishes try new and varied way of using spices. Be subtle in their use for best results.

Hot tea is delicious with a dash of cinnamon.

Mix sugar, cinnamon and butter together and spread on hot toast or french toast. It's good enough for dessert.

For a pleasant different touch add a dash of nutmeg to the mashed potatoes.

Deviled eggs are greatly improved also with a sprinkling of nutmeg.

Sprinkue caraway seed in your apple sauce or add some to baked apples.

For a spread that is different mix caraway seed with cream cheese.

A little curry powder added to the cocktail sauce for seafood will give a pleasant tang.

Curry is delicious mixed with egg, vegetables or seafood.

A half-teaspoonful of chili powder in the gravy of a stew will change the whole flavor.

BABY TALK

Constipation in children is generally the result of bad habits or of too much interference with nature during early childhood and in early infancy in particular. Most young mothers get paniky if baby's daily movement is the least bit delayed and make an attempt to stimulate evacuation with a suppository or enema. Babies get the habit of learning to wait for this artificial stimulus before trying to have a movement and in just a few months this artificial stimulation can seriously disarrange the small internal workings. Good doctors today say that babies and children can go from 30 to 36 hours without being injured and many can go longer, so it is better for the child to give him a chance to voluntarily evacuate before trying laxatives.

New York Unions Aid Charities Fund Drive

New York City—More than 300 labor unions have contributed $33,342 to the 1940 campaign of the Greater New York fund, supporting 393 voluntary health and social welfare agencies, it was announced by John A. Brown, chairman of the organization. The amount represents a 70 per cent increase over similar contributions at the same stage of the 1939 drive.

Labor executives on the board of directors of the fund include David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union; George Meany and Matthew Woll, secretary-treasurer and vice-president, respectively, of the American Federation of Labor.

Labor Movement on Democratic Basis In Only U.S. and Canada, Says Watt

Portland, Ore.—Labor unions are operating on a democratic basis of self-determination in only two countries—the United States and Canada.

That is the statement of Robert J. Watt, American labor delegate to the International Labor Organization, who attended the recent international affairs institute at Reed College here.

Watt declares there were once 11,000,000 or more good trade unionists in Europe, but that few are organized now. The unions of Germany are nothing more than work regiments. Unions in Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and Denmark are virtually dissolved. Norway and Sweden have restricted unions. The unions of France are now under Hitler—which means death for them. Those of Holland and Belgium face the same fate. English unions are on an emergency basis, and the so-called unions of Russia are simply a joke.

Watt foresees a big job ahead for the unions of the United States and Canada if they are to remain strong and unfettered during the current national defense crisis. The job can be accomplished, he believes, with intelligent leadership and the prevention of reckless acts by irresponsible individuals.

Wage Rates Recommended

Washington—The carpet and rug industry committee has voted to recommend a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for the section of the industry which manufactures wool carpet yarns and wool rugs and carpets, and a minimum of 35 cents an hour for workers on carpets and rugs made of other fibers. These minimum rates would increase hourly wages of about 1,100 workers, 1,000 of whom would be raised to 40 cents an hour. The industry committee was set up under provisions of the wage-hour act.

Telegraphers Gain Shorter Work Week

New York, N. Y.—Frank B. Powers, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers union, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced that agreements had been reached with the Associated Press and the International News Service covering nearly 1,000 telegraphers.

"The Associated Press agreement reduces hours from 40 to 37½ for a five-day week to conform with the United Press, whose agreement runs over until 1941," Mr. Powers said.

"Basic scales are unchanged, but about 100 individual operators will be reclassified and receive from $2.50 to $20 increases per week. Hereafter there will be no operator-attendants in bureaus. They must be either operators or mechanics at the full scale, which accounts for the increase of $20 per week in some cases. A 100 per cent closed shop prevails in both agreements. Severance pay up to 24 weeks was agreed to.

"The International News Service has agreed to increases of from $2.50 to $7.50 per week, with a 36 2-3 hour, 5-day week."

Minimum Wages Raised For 5,500 Hat Workers

Washington.—Hourly wage rates of approximately 5,500 workers were increased in the approval of the recommended minimum wages for the hat industry, effective July 1, by Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division, United States department of labor. The hat industry committee recommended esablishment of minimum wages of 40 cents an hour in the manufacture of hats, except 35 cents an hour for straw and harvest hats, and 30 cents an hour for straw and harvest hats manufactured in Puerto Rico.

Notes From Candy Workers

Hello, everybody! We are still making good union-made candy . . . hot weather and all.

With all the news of war and trouble, there is some good news. I want to congratulate the Chattanooga bakery workers on the recent favorable court decision on their case. It takes a lot of people a long time to learn a few things, but it looks like some of them have been going to school long enough to be graduated by now.

It's a funny thing how soon some officeseekers change their ways of talking when they see which may the wind blows, but the labor movement has had long training in the school of experience, and we should make our vote at the ballot boxes count.

Haven't seen any news from the Cement Workers in some time. . . wonder how they are getting along.

Good luck to all!

Strikebreakers Are Used at Crane Company

Approximately 100 New Scabs Are Herded In Over Union Men

Week-Old Strike at Crane Enamel Finds Management Refusing to Recognize Rights Guaranteed by Law—Craftsmen Are All Out.

Starting as a protest against discharge of four members of molders union at the Crane Enamel plant here, an official strike has been going on for one week with some 800 of the approximately 1,000 employes picketing their jobs.

Organizing into Local 53, Molders, one of its members was fired on Tuesday, July 29. A committee of three was sent to the management to investigate the cause of the discharge, and the committee itself was fired, according to Frank Zeigler, molder representative.

Accordingly, on the following Thursday morning the employes, excepting about three hundred, threw a picket line about the place. Since that time more of the men who continued at work

TYPO AUXILIARY MEETS

Typographical Auxiliary 219 will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday night, Aug. 13, in the Times assembly room at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Addie Underwood,
Secretary.

Orr's Father Passes Away

The father of W. W. Orr died this week and was buried in Henegar, Ala., at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. Several officials of the Chattanooga Building Trades council went with Brother Orr to the funeral.

W. W. Orr is secretary of the Building Trades council.

The Labor World joins with the thousands in the labor movement who express sympathy to Brother Orr.

PRESSMEN'S AUX. GIVES DANCE, BINGO PARTY

The auxiliary of the Pressmen's union is giving a combination dance and bingo party next Saturday, Aug. 17, at 7:30 in the ILGWU hall on East Eighth street. All are invited to come and bring their friends.

The regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held at Hotel Patten next Tuesday, Aug. 20, at 2 o'clock.

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

Underwoods Go On Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Underwood and their two children left last week for a vacation in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Toronto, Canada. They expect to visit several relatives of Mrs. Underwood.

Brother Underwood is Labor World correspondent for his local union, Street Car and Bus Drivers No. 1212, and everybody will miss having his column while he is gone. He has promised to try to send us some news about various labor matters while he is away, so we may have some news from him soon.

Mr. Underwood expects to look up various officers of his union and other labor friends while he is gone.

Precedent Established By TVA And Fifteen A.F. of L. Unions

8,000 Workers Affected as Fifteen AFL Crafts Secure First Document of Its Kind—Lilienthal Praises Action.

Members of organized labor today hail as a far-reaching precedent the statement issued by David E. Lillienthal, who announced the first signed labor contract between the Tennessee Valley Authority and its 8,000 employes in the building construction and metal trades, represented by the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor council.

He described the agreement, effective for one year, as "charting the way toward welding together groups which are dependent upon each other in a terrific industrial program," and added it would intensify "labor-management co-operation in the national defense program of TVA."

"I consider this agreement more valuable than any of our dams," Lilienthal said, "and worth millions to the people of this country."

The youthful appearing director asserted that, to his knowledge, it was the first such document to be signed between management and labor in a federal agency and that its importance must be measured in the promise of industrial unity during a period of stress imposed by national defense demands.

The labor council represents fifteen international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Attention, Workers Labor Day Badges

Elmer Crosby, chairman of the badge committee for Central Body's Labor day program, wants all those who are assembling the badges to bring them in when completed to The Labor World office. He will call for them himself.

Anyone wanting to help sell the badges, either on the street, at the dam or at the park, are asked to leave their names at The Labor World office.

William Duncan Loses Wife

William Duncan, member of Sheet Metal Workers union, suffered the loss of his wife this week to the Death Angel. The Labor World expresses the sympathy of the labor movement to Brother Duncan.

Name It for McKellar!

We would like to respectfully submit an idea to the public for consideration which, if received favorably, should be presented to congress through Congressman Kefauver.

The federal government is to build a steam plant at Watts Bar to augment power supply so important to national defense. This plant is to be one of a series of power producing elements of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In the development of our southland there has been no individual in congress more alert to the needs of his home section than Senator Kenneth D. McKellar.

What would be more appropriate than to name this new steam plant after this outstanding southern senator who so overwhelmingly received a new indorsement by the voters of Tennessee on Aug. 1?

The senator is a veritable steam plant in his own right. He has had the steam to push things through that are good for his people and it has been his steam that has helped to make our nation great in the last eight years.

Let's name it after McKellar.

Painters' Picnic Was Fine Success Last Saturday

Painters' Local Union 226 held its 18th annual picnic last Saturday, Aug. 3, at Warner park. The Painters varied their procedure this year, and just invited members of the local, their families and a few friends. They report that about 700 people were present to enjoy the barbecue, which was prepared as only the Painters can fix it.

The picnic committee was made up of "Copper" Jones, W. D. Canada, Van Cummings, Elmer Aubrish and W. A. "Zeke" Witt.

They report that they barbecued 85 hams, besides several beef and sheep, and when this was served with all the "trimmings"—potato salad, slaw, pickles and "hot stuff," it made mighty tasty eating.

Bill Shores had charge of the entertainment and provided races, contests and games for the children while the Signwriters took on the House Painters in a soft ball game, with the Signwriters coming out winners.

Local Unions Pledge Support Of Labor Day Parade Feature

At a special meeting of the executive boards of all local unions and the executive board of the CLU held last Sunday at the labor hall great enthusiasm was shown for the plan to resume the regular Labor day parades which were an annual feature of Labor day celebrations in past years. The meeting was attended by representatives of over fifty unions of the AFL who packed the meeting hall.

President Hallmark outlined the program which the Labor day committee of the CLU is arranging. In the morning the AFL unions will hear an outstanding national leader speaking at the site of the Chickamauga dam celebration. It is expected that several thousands of visitors as well as members of organized labor will attend this feature. In the afternoon the regular program of events, athletic and otherwise, will be held at Warner park. Plans for this include a large number of valuable and beautiful trophies to be given the winners of the various races and contests. The Labor day parade will be held on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, following which there will be an unusually large display of fireworks at Warner park.

An outstanding feature of the parade will be the large float representing labor's conception of patriotism and national unity. The committee is working on the details of the float and expects to start construction at an early date. A large band of union musicians will lead the labor division of the parade, followed by a large United States flag carried by several score of selected unionists. Next in line will be the executive boards of the Central Labor union and the Building Trades council, followed by the labor float and the marching of all the AFL unions in Chattanooga.

It is planned to invite all AFL unions in this area to join Chatt:

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Marie Jones, Correspondent

Hello, everybody, it's certainly nice to be back home again after a few weeks absence in the sunny south, but you can see it agrees with me to be away from home.

A Smile Beats a Frown All the Time

Missed several faces at the meeting Tuesday night, but can overlook that as it rained so hard you would have had to be a good swimmer to have gotten near the hall, however, we had a very interesting meeting and are still reporting progress.

Be Proud to Say: "My Union Is on the Map"

Let us not forget we are planning a big Labor Day program and want each and every member to help us in our share of the program, especially the parade on Monday night, Sept. 2, at 7 o'clock. We must have our local union represented on this, our Labor Day.

Are You in Good Standing With Your Union?

Mrs. Marie Jones has gone back to work at Georges on Eighth st. Marie, we miss you, but hope your health will be better and know you will be able to help us to carry on for we know your heart is with us.

Patronize Only the House With the Union Card

We have a surprise in store for you, but you will have to wait until next week so everybody watch for the next issue and remember this invitation does not include you unless you attend the meeting on Tuesday night, August 20, at 8:30 o'clock. This is to be a party, one we have been looking forward to for a long time, but I'm not going to tell you where until next week.

Make Good and Help Others to Do Likewise

We have changed the date on the Labor Temple dance tickets to November 15, on Friday night. To be held at the new Labor Temple, 540 Vine st. Tickets are on sale at all of the union restaurants and we hope each and every one of you will do your share in selling these tickets, there is a commission, too, so you should do your bit to help us raise our pledge on the new temple. Don't forget to buy one yourself, as this is one affair you don't want to miss.

We wish to thank our union restaurant operators for their co-operation in the past in regards to the non-union cakes and pies that are coming into our city and wish to inform you that all Chattanooga Bakery products are non-union and on the "We do not patronize list." Please do not let us see any of these on your shelves when we come around as it is not the true union spirit.

A Quitter and a Slacker Are Twins

We are certainly proud of the support the Street Carmen and Bus Drivers are giving us and want you to remember that McPherson's on South Market st. is non-union, and so is the Bismark, on Broad st. Our other non-union restaurants are Chattanooga Steak House, Harry's Steak House, Maypole, Busy Bee, S. & W., Dennis, Ellis Restaurant and Glasgow Tavern.

Are You Doing Your Bit?

Charlie Franklyn's place is now a union house and deserves your support, let's not let him down.

I Am a Trade Unionist and Proud of It

Don't forget, we have Labor Day badges on sale—15c each.

Green Removes Ex-Convict Named Union Official

New York City.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor has directed the immediate removal of Joseph (Socks) Lanza, ex-convict, as business agent of the United Sea Food Workers' union, Local 16,975. He telegraphed instructions to William Collins, New York A. F. of L. representative, to revoke the union's charter unless it complies with the order. He said that the union, by re-electing Lanza to the union post, had violated instructions transmitted to it some time ago by Collins.

Local 16,975 is a federal union, under direct control of the A. F. of L. The charters of such unions may be revoked or suspended under powers given to the A. F. of L. president.

Lanza, one of the organizers of the union, became its business agent under an A. F. of L. charter issued in 1919. He served two years in federal prison at Milan, Mich., on charges growing out of a "protection" racket at New York's Fulton Fish Market. He and others were accused of hiring thugs to enforce an interstate fish monopoly through a so-called "Watchman and Patrol Association."

Lanza was tried on an anti-trust charge and received one of the heaviest sentences ever imposed in an anti-trust case when he and fifty-seven other defendants were sentenced on Dec. 3, 1935, by Federal Judge Julian W. Mack.

Judge Lanza sentenced Lanza to serve two years in prison and to pay a fine of $10,000. At the same time he imposed lesser sentences upon two of Lanza's henchmen, Joe Lappi and Louis Palermo. The latter, who disappeared after he had pleaded to the anti-trust indictment, was sentenced to a year in prison, and Lappi to six months.

The remaining defendants, including twenty-five corporations and the Fish Workers' union of Greater New York and vicinity, had fines imposed upon them ranging from $100 for the union to $2,000 for the Fish Credit Association, Inc.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

The last chapter in the construction of the Chickamauga dam is about written. It is all over but the shouting. This part of it, from our point of view, is going to be the hardest.

Our part of the celebration was discussed pro and con at the meeting of the different locals Sunday. It was the opinion of those assembled that we take part in the celebration 100 per cent or not at all. It was said that we must turn out in force or be the laughing stock of the community. We should look at this from several angles. First, from the point of loyalty and pride of our organization and our loyalty to our government. We should feel mighty proud that we can claim citizenship in a country that will develop the natural resources of the land to the betterment of its people. We as laboring people have received from this project benefits that are not visible at present but as time goes on we will continue to reap rewards.

We should support Central Labor union in this celebration 100 per cent, as there will be outside organizations that will be represented and we don't want to see just a few members of different crafts of the American Federation of Labor for the parade Monday night, Sept. 2, 1940. We want every one.

The officers and committees from the CLU are working hard to make this event a success and they deserve your support. Let us all think, for one time at least, along the same line, and that is to make this year's Labor day celebration something to talk about for years to come.

Of course some folks might have planned to enjoy Labor day some other place than here. But then can't we as loyal members of the A. F. of L. sacrifice our pleasures for one day and turn out full strength.

In these troubled times we should feel it our duty to show how many members we have and how we do feel about the old saying that united we stand and divided we fall. There might be a lot of benefits gotten from this turnout if we turn out full strength than we realize. Think this over, brothers, and give to your local and its officers your full-hearted support.

MORE ABOUT Crane Strike

refused to stay in and are now coming into the union.

Strikebreakers Brought In.

On Wednesday morning pickets reported that some 100 strikebreakers, who had never worked in the plant before, went in to work with the other 200 scabs. Officials of the local declare that only five skilled craftsmen are now working, most of the rest being colored labor. Surprise is expressed by many that the colored boys are scabbing, since that class of American workers have been calling for organization more than others.

Arrests Are Made.

Since the strike an adequate force of police have been on the job keeping order. About ten arrests have been made after a scab's car lost its balance and fell over in the street just before the gate, loaded with strikebreakers.

Newspaper reports quote Judge Martin Fleming, before whom the arrested union men appeared, as advising the scabs to fight in order to go to work to "protect your jobs."

A study is now being made as to whether the 100 or more strikebreakers have "jobs to protect" and if they are to be included in the instructions to create a fight. Judge Fleming stated that he could not have any "murder trials" here.

This is the first "trouble" at Crane since some six years ago when the company successfully broke up a union in the plant.

Don't Sell America "Short"

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

The great mass of people in this contry have only the vaguest idea of how or why American industry stands supreme throughout the world. They have been the quiescent beneficiaries of an industrial system which has been built up through infinite patience and courage, and which has attracted to the United States millions of pioneers from other countries who have looked upon America as the "promised land." But many native Americans have taken these things for granted, and in the present crisis they have too easily become panic-stricken because they had always had a feeling that "it can't happen here."

Something will happen to America because of the European situation. But no matter what happens, it is important that American industry be sold to our own people in such a way that they will be more intelligent when emergencies arise. When once they learn the whole story, they will refuse to be led ino the acceptance of half-baked economic theories which may soon be offered to America, and which can only result in disaster.

There is scarcely an industry in this country but what has in it elements which are capable of creating tremendous dramatic interest, resulting in a greater pride in what America has accomplished and what it may do in coming days. The realization of this fact may become a driving force in steadying the people in our country.

This country will continue to prosper economically as we succeed in providing its people the things which they desire and can pay for, and as we create newer and better things which will enrich their lives, and which are made accessible to them. These cover a wide range. Every product or device which increases health, comfort, beauty, strength, safety, speed, convenience, cleanliness, learning, efficiency, accuracy, style or leisure, or which destroys fear, anxiety, worry, uncertainty or unreliability, is beneficial to humanity.

These also have mental and spiritual, as well as physical values. But such values can be produced in the days that are ahead, only as Americans believe in America. Therefore, America must not be "sold short." This means that we must have faith in ourselves and in our country. We have physical resources which have not yet been touched, but more important than these, we must depend upon the development of the fundamental character of the whole people. So long as America maintains the high ideals of democracy for which it has always contended, it will be unconquerable.

MORE ABOUT TVA Signs

The contract sets up machinery for mediation of any disputes through conference, and eliminates the threat of strike while disputes are in process of settlement. This agreement was reached on the premise of "the public interest in an undertaking such as the TVA always being paramount. . . ."

Provides Board of Adjustment

In event representatives of the council and TVA are unable to agree on any issue, the dispute may be referred to a joint board of adjustment composed of two members designated by the council and two members designated by TVA.

Should the board fail to adjust any dispute within sixty days after completion of hearings, it may submit the issue to "an impartial person to be known as a referee," who shall be selected from a panel of five persons designated by the board of adjustment. The referee's decision will be accepted as final.

Determination of prevailing rates of pay, where the matter may become a controversy, will be referred to the secretary of labor for a final decision.

Lilienthal lauded the work of those who drafted the agreement as "statesmanlike" and paid particular tribute to S. E. Roper, of Birmingham, and Gordon Freeman, of Chattanooga, council chairman and secretary, and Gordon Clapp and Arthur Jandry, TVA general manager and personnel director.

Unions participating in the agreement are: Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America; International Brotherhood of Boiler Makers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America; International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers; International Association of Machinists; International Brotherhood of Electric Workers; International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union of America; International Union of Operating Engineers; Sheet Metal Workers' International Association; International Union of Wood, Wire and Metal aLthers; Cperative Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' International Association; United Association of Plumbers and Steam Fitters; United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union of America; International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers; International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers.

The members of the board of adjustment, to be selected, will meet here on or before Sept. 3, 1940, for organization by selection of a chairman and secretary.

Tree Planting

Tree-planting, for beauty and utility, has been too often neglected in America. Many a community has found, too late, that destruction of trees lining highways and streets takes away something that only years can restore.

Michigan is a state that seems to realize the value of trees along its highways. The development of Michigan's roadside tree-planting program to beautify state highways and to prevent heavy drifting of snow over roadways in winter, has just reached the point where it is beginning to serve its purpose, the American Society of Planning Officials says.

Since the program was started several years ago, the state has been engaged in intensive tree-planting activities, and has purchased many acres of timbered rights-of-way along highways. In 1939 the highway department bought 446 acres of this timber land, bringing its total to 4,312 acres.

The landscaping of the highways, besides beautifying them, has a utilitarian basis and a safety factor. The lines of trees serve to warn motorists of curves ahead. Trees frequently have been planted on straight sections to outline the roadway, and plantings are omitted where they might interfere with a motorist's vision.

The value of timbered land acquired along highways in the northern portion of the state is recognized when figures for snow removal costs show the cost is reduced by one-half in the wooded sections. There the snow does not drift so deeply and there is no need of maintaining snow fences.

Peculiar Advice

We were a bit surprised at the advice recently handed down from our Chattanooga police bench which was given to scabs and strikebreakers at the Crane plant,

We were not surprised at the promptness with which said strikebreakers followed the advice given by our police judge to fight. This was indicated when some 300 scabs and strikebreakers advanced on approximately 75 union pickets. The pickets were showered with rocks, bricks and other available means of offense.

That the strikebreakers took the initiative is borne out by newspaper reports, not by union sympathizer accounts. Whenever "defense" is mentioned, it naturally is assumed that an "offense" has occurred prior to the defense. The overwhelming group of strikebreakers collected at a distance from the plant and are said to have marched in a semi-military fashion upon the men peacefully picketing.

The commander-in-chief was not present personally, although his order to "fight" was followed.

Since our police judge advised men to "fight" for "their jobs," we wonder what jobs the outside strikebreakers were fighting for? Certainly not their own. We are inclined to think they were fighting to gain possession of the jobs rightfully belonging to the men who were picketing the plant in order to make their jobs secure and tenable.

A police judge should advocate order at all times. The only group that can legally and deliberately open martial hostilities is the law enforcement agencies. And there has certainly been plenty of police about the plant at all times. At no time have they indicated that the situation has been uncontrollable. If they should find that they are about to be overpowered by a superior force, it is not the duty of the police judge to tell all and sundry to attack the union boys and stone them away. Especially since the union men are within their legal rights to picket.

Violence on the part of either side of a labor dispute does not help either cause. However, how can hot heads in union ranks be kept cool when a police judge from his bench tells strikebreakers to pour it into the union men and brands the union involved as a "murder union" when nothing approaching murder has occurred?

Labor Representation Again

This paper recently commented on the need for labor representation on all boards and agencies dealing with wage earners and their interests. The editorial dealt particularly with the importance of labor representation in activities coming under the national defense program. Labor officials in Washington see this point as calling for increasing emphasis.

It is not enough, the labor men say, to have labor representatives such as Dan W. Tracy and Sidney Hillman in high places. Labor representatives in key Washington positions can do much toward getting an adequate "say" for the workers in defense and other government boards and agencies. But in the very nature of their duties, they can know little of what is going on in the myriad state and local boards and agencies throughout the nation.

Labor men and women know what is going on in their localities, they know their own people, their problems and perplexities and are in a position to adequately safeguard the interests of wage earners. They can do what officials at Washington, no matter how well intentioned, can never do.

A moment's thought will show that labor representation in every agency, from the top to the bottom, is an urgent requirement and one that labor will have to keep pounding away at in order to obtain.

The Fair Sex Votes in Union Election

Most people electricians wear overalls and help rig up the weirdest contraptions in the innards of modern construction jobs. But, believe it or not, the pretty gals pictured above are members in good standing of Local 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of New York. Or should it be the International Brotherhood and Sisterhood of Electrical Workers? The ladies are employed in electrical supply houses and electrical fixture stores.

There are nearly 1,900 of them out of the local's total membership of 17,000. These lassies helped return Harry Van Arsdale, Jr., business manager, and the entire administration slate in a spectacular 5 to 1 landslide.

...AN'T DEFEAT NAZI EVIL ...Y USING NAZI METHODS

Solicitor General Francis Biddle who has the direction of the activities of the Department of Justice respecting spies, saboteurs and so-called "fifth columnists" gave assurance to the country in a radio address that the rights of the people to freedom of speech, worship and assembly would not be infringed. "We shall not defeat the Nazi evil by emulating its methods," he said.

"The individual citizen, of course," said Mr. Biddle, "feels powerless to combat this subversive evil, and the fear of fifth-column activities has naturally made some sections of our population hysterical.

"One fortunate that this hysteria has taken is the wholesale denunciation of aliens living in America—a confession of fear and weakness that sees a spy behind every foreign accent. Where individuals have taken the law into their own hands there have been instances of mob violence.

"There is no cause for mass hysteria, no justification for mob violence. The Department of Justice is well equipped to recognize the real danger spots and to deal with them vigorously. With the co-operation of the American people the Justice Department will root out espionage and sabotage wherever it threatens.

"The people must be alert and watchful, and above all cool and sane. Since mob violence will make the Government's task infinitely more difficult, it will not be tolerated. We shall not defeat the Nazi evil by emulating its methods.

"Our policy must, of course, be worked out to fit the needs of a rapidly changing world, but I want to assure you that we shall not abandon the fundamental principles of American democracy which include a generous and just treatment to innocent sufferers from any country who have sought refuge with us."

Huntsville Textile Boys Form AFL Union

Huntsville, Ala.—Charter for Local Union No. 2583, United Textile Workers of America, has been installed here, Officers named and the local is now functioning for the benefit of the membership. This news is most heartening to all labor throughout Alabama, as the CIO has long made desperate effort to keep the A. F. of L. out of the textile plants in this city, it being one of the few places in the United States where the CIO has any appreciable membership among the textile workers. Prediction is freely made now that installation of this charter will soon lead to the formation of other locals in this vicinity.

Bridgeport, Ala.—Textile workers of this city are reorganizing and have been chartered in the United Textile Workers of America as Local Union No. 2583. Alfred E. Jones, UTW of A. organizer, assisted the workers, and there is an apparent determination to bring this organization back to the 100 per cent membership it enjoyed three years ago.

Youth Commission Advocates Liberty for Young People's Groups

New York City.—Strongly urging that the principles of free speech and assemblage be maintained and protected, the American Youth commission (not to be confused with the American Youth Congress) declared in a statement made public here that youth organizations should not be harried or suppressed simply because they prove irritating to many adults.

Organizations sponsored and directed by young people are here to stay, despite the hostility and suspicion they have stirred in some quarters, the commission said. Owen D. Young of General Electric, is chairman and Henry I. Harriman, utility executive, is vice-chairman of the commission.

"Hysterical Persecution" Hit

"Because of the importance of the educational processes to which youth-led organizations can contribute, the commission believes that they can have major values," the statement declared.

"In any event, the violent and hysterical persecution of young intellectual radicals is in itself a childish procedure.

"No doubt there are organized spy systems in this country, with which the authorities are bound to deal, but they should be distinguished from the normal exploratory activities of young people who seek to find solutions for our admittedly unsolved social problems."

Free Speech Held Not Menace

The statement urged all citizens to recognize that the principles of free speech and assembly were established as "the safeguards of democracy, and warned that they should not be regarded as a menace."

"If events similar to those in the dictatorships were to happen here," the commission declared, "they would not be the result of discussion or propaganda. They would be the end result of economic paralysis, uncontrolled monopoly, unemployment and poverty.

"To distract attention from the real and dangerous diseases that threaten democracy by hysterical rejection of the curative, though irritating, processes of public discussion is un American and might be suicidal."

"Build-Up" Important Protector of Women

A weak, undernourished condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get a foothold; thus leads to much of woman's suffering from headaches, nervousness, and other periodic discomfort.

CARDUI'S principal help for such distress comes from the way it usually stimulates appetite; increases flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion; helps build energy, strength, physical resistance to periodic pain for many.

Another way, many women find help for periodic distress: Take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time." Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Big Tobacco Company Signs With Unions

Richmond, Va.—Agreements between the P. Lorillard company and the International Association of Machinists and the Cigar Makers' International union, were signed recently in ceremonies at John Marshall High school. Several hundred employes of P. Lorillard's Whitlock branch, company officials, union oricers and representatives of federal and state labor agencies attended.

Spokesmen expressed satisfaction with the contracts, which included a master agreement covering P. Lorillard plants in Richmond, Jersey City and Louisville. They joined in the mutual hope that formal signing of the agreements would mark the beginning of prolonged harmony and co-operation between management and employes, and both sides sealed the pact with pledges to live up to the spirit and letter.

Terms of the contracts covering cigar workers, tobacco workers, machinists and warehousemen were settled recently at conferences in Washington between negotiators for the company and the unions, aided by representatives of the conciliation service, United States Department of Labor.

Vindication—

Our nation has grown strong, spiritually and materially, because it has been founded upon the great moral principles of tolerance, justice and fair play to all. Our national existence is a successful vindication of the idea that, in an asylum of freedom, barriers of race, of religion, of language and of other differences, which breed antagonism and conflict elsewhere, disappear in an effort for the common good. If our nation is not to decline and decay, we must not permit these barriers to reappear in our national life.—Cordell Hull, Secretary of State.

Crucial Test—

It is not too much to say that our representative democracy faces its greatest and most crucial test. To make up for the mistakes of years, we are now called upon to do almost the impossible in months or even weeks. Yet we must do it, for our free existence is at stake—The Magazine of Wall Street.

The study recommended remedial measures designed to "spread the benefits" or to "cushion undesirable effects" of the expected developments.

Helpful Steps Outlined

They included a broad rural conservation works program for displaced farm workers and underprivileged rural families; expansion of present farm purchase and rehabilitation loan programs, "strengthened" crop production and marketing control programs, extension of the stamp program for distributing farm surpluses among needy families, further scaling of AAA payments in favor of small producers, reduced interest rates, and settling of nonowner farm families on good lands now owned and operated ni larger than family sized units.

Big Tractor Increase Seen

Some of the technological developments foreseen for the decade of 1940-50 included:

An increase of 30 per cent, or 500,000, farm tractors, displacing an additional 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 head of workstock and releasing 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 acres of crop land for commercial crop production and an additional 6,000,000 acres of hay and pasture land.

Further development of new machines—a possibility that such machines as the cotton picker, sugar beet lifter and topper, sugar-cane harvester, corn harvester-shellers, will come into limited use.

priation of $25,000,000 for the TVA to begin the Cherokee dam at Jefferson City, and a $10,500,000 steam plant. Sixty-five million dollars will be spent on these projects in two years. The senate concurred in the action of the house, and the bill was signed by President Roosevelt on Wednesday.

This was a big day for the Third district. The steam plant will be located at Watts Bar in Rhea county. It has been known for weeks that the location at Watts Bar was being seriously considered. It has many advantages. Your representative was delighted that this location was finally accepted. This will add 120,000 kw. to the available electric power in our immediate section. Tremendous amounts of coal from mines in the Third district will be used at this steam plant. Soon it will be a familiar picture to see thousands of tons of coal, bauxite and other heavy materials being transported on the Tennessee river. In a few years seagoing vessels will be docked at Chattanooga and Knoxville — 750 feet above the sea.

Secretary Hull's Great Triumph

Secretary Hull returned to Washington on Thursday. A large delegation of senators and congressmen met him at the station. Mr. Speaker Bankhead (sometimes referred to as the "Hamlet of the House") did the honors. Said he: "Mr. Secretary, we have come to pay our high respects and to thank you for your work for America—the Tennessee delegation is here en masse." Tears came to the eyes of the great and human Mr. Hull as he said: "I thank you with all the sincerity of my soul."

All accounts agree that Mr. Hull immensely enhanced his reputation at Havana. Already firmly entrenched in the respect of statesmen the world over, the Tennessean won new acclaim for his sincere and genuine desire to meet current hemisphere problems in a spirit of co-operation.

It is generally conceded that the action at Havana could never have been achieved except for the tactful diplomacy of Mr. Hull. He made a specialty of consulting freely and frankly with his brother foreign ministers at every stage of their delicate deliberations. He went to particular care to divest the conference of any suspicion that Uncle Sam was there "to lay down the law" to our good neighbors.

Half Billion for Commodity Defense

In a desperate effort to save agricultural prices and to stimulate our export markets, the house, last week, passed a bill increasing from $900,000,000 to $1,400,000,000 the borrowing power of the Commodity Credit corporation. Its chief purposes will be to facilitate the trade exchange with other countries in the western hemisphere and to carry out the mandatory provisions of the agricultural adjustment act. It was indorsed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace; President O'Neal, of the American Farm bureau, and by President Robbins, of the Commodity Credit corporation.

The reason this column missed fire last week is because we were knocked out by the tall tale Brother John Long told. He said his grandfather had a clock that was so old that the shadow of the pendulum wore a hole in the back of the case.

We want every member to attend the big Labor day celebration here, and help put on the biggest show we've ever had. This day is a national holiday, and is our day. We can co-operate by coming to town and joining the other crafts in a real good time.

Wonder what some of the "also rans" think about since Aug. 1?

Memphis Waging Important Fight For Labor's Rights

Memphis. -- For many months now the local Union of Motion Picture Operators, loyally supported by the Memphis labor movement and the Memphis Labor Review, has been waging a fight for labor that is far-reaching. The Royal theater here, operated and owned by W. C. Parham, has obtained an injunction against the local union which forbids picketing. Its sweeping effect goes further, and forbids the local union to pass out handbills to its friends and the public, notifying them of the unfairness of Parham and his Royal theater.

Such an injunction can be obtained only in a few states, and Tennessee is one of them.

Picketing is a recognized and established right in practically all states, and has been upheld time and again by decisions handed down in the United States supreme court.

Yet in Tennessee such an injunction has been obtained by a little two-by-four theater manager and, if permitted to stand, may result in like injunctions being obtained against any union in the state of Tennessee and in other states.

Herein is where the Memphis labor movement is waging such an important battle to all labor everywhere. President Lev Loring, of the Memphis Labor and Trades and Labor council, and Editor Jake Cohen, of the Memphis Labor Review, and all other officials and affiliated local unions, are determined to have this injunction set aside. The case, doubtless, will be carried to the United States supreme court. George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, has pledged the full machinery of the American Federation of Labor to aid the Memphis Trades and Labor council in its fight against this injunction.

State federation of labor officials and central bodies and local unions throughout the south will carefully watch the Memphis battle, and will, it goes without saying, be ready at all times to aid the Memphis Trades and Labor council and the Moving Picture Operators' union in every way that may be helpful in this most important contest.

AFL SHOPCRAFTS WINNING AGAINST COMPANY UNIONS

Chicago, Ill.—Officials of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor indicated that the zero hour has undoubtedly arisen for a number of company unions. It is predicted that the last remnant of a "dummy" union among Railway and seattle will fold up and fade away in the mediation board poll to be held shortly. A similar fate is predicted for the "dummy" on the Louisville & Nashville in the election soon to be called among 9,000 shopmen on that road and for an old dual organization of carmen and boilermakers in an election planned for the Port Reading and Port Richmond marine terminals of the Reading company.

The Railway Carmen and Blacksmiths have negotiated agreements with the King Street Terminal in Seattle. The Firemen and Oilers signed a contract with Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis following a joint agreement put through by the other crafts.

Job Placements Show Big Gain

Washington.—Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt announced that 1,500,000 job placements in private industry were made by the public employment offices during the first half of 1940, a gain of 28 per cent over the same period last year.

McNutt said tne social security board's report for June showed that 330,000 complete private and public placements were made by the employment offices. In addition, 142,000 supplemental placements, the largest volume this year, were made. For the same month a minimum of 1,436,000 unemployed workers received job insurance benefits totaling $53,600,000, a decline in payments of more than a million dollars from May. More than 6,500,000 weekly claims for job insurance benefits were filed, of which nearly four-fifths were compensable.

The board's report of placement activities, McNutt said, showed 20,000 fewer jobs filled than in May. The drop in private placements was 5.2 per cent. He explained that this was the first decline in four months and was mainly due to the shorter work month. Compared with June of last year, private placements increased 15 per cent and they were 76 per cent higher than in June, 1938.

nooga labor in the celebration as well as representatives of the central bodies of Knoxville, Nashville, Memphis, Johnson City and Jackson. In view of the widespread nature of the general Chickamauga dam celebration it is expected that large delegations from these cities will attend.

The secretaries of all local unions under the chairmanship of CLU Secretary Erskine Mabee were appointed a committee to work out details of the parade. Chairman Mabee announced that he expects all members of the committee to take up the task so that Chattanooga labor will be proud of the showing we will make. The Chattanooga labor movement is widely regarded as the outstanding labor movement in the south and this is an opportunity for a display of strength and solidarity which will show our friends and enemies the real power of the Chattanooga movement.

Ed Bork, Jr., is general chairman of the Labor day celebration committee of the CLU. His committee has been at work for several weeks on the program, and announces that negotiations are under way to secure one of the most prominent AFL leaders as the Labor day speaker. It is expected that an announcement of this may be made at an early date. The southern office of the AFL under Brother George Googe is co-operating in the efforts to secure an outstanding labor spokesman as well as a man of national prominence for the morning and evening programs.

I. L. G. W. U. Members Receive First Issue of Labor World

This issue of The Labor World goes for the first time to members of the local union of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union. We are glad to welcome them to affiliation with the Central Labor union and to the ranks of the readers of The Labor World. The long history of this fine international union gives abundant evidence that they will be a real asset to the labor movement in this city and we hope that we in turn may be of assistance to them in their constant efforts to organize and improve the conditions under which workers in their jurisdiction labor.

6,000 Unionists Plan to Parade on Labor Day

Interest Mounts With the Opportunity to Display Numerical Influence

Organized labor says that there will be at least six thousand members of various American Federation of Labor unions who will turn out on the evening of Labor Day to take part in the monster Labor Day-Chickamauga celebration parade.

Many local unions have already made definite plans. For instance, the Hodcarriers have agreed to supply each parading member a brand-new pair of union-labeled overalls and shirt to use in the line of march. And the Painters say they will all be in full dress, white overalls, to you, sir.

Typographical union seems assured of a good representation from all those members who are not actually on duty at their jobs.

The different auxiliaries will follow their respective local unions.

It is certain that every building trade craft will be out in full force.

The Labor section of the parade will be headed by a gigantic American flag, followed by a beautiful float contributed by Central Labor Union and the Building Trades Council. It is hoped that there will be a forty-piece band in the labor line of march.

If you are a union man, put on your walking shoes that evening and join in. It is much easier to march in this parade than it is to walk a picket line. And the impressiveness of this turnout by labor might save you many hours of grief later on.

Let's show the folks, boys, that Labor is big in Chattanooga!

Teachers' Union Delegates Leave For Convention

Delegates from the Chattanooga-Hamilton County Teachers' union, Local 246, left Thursday for the annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers at Buffalo, N. Y. Among those in the group were: Willard Millsaps, president of the local; Paul Long, member of the executive committee; Miss Jessie Barger, Nancy Lea Smith and Stanton E. Smith, national vice-president. Already on a trip through New England and expected to attend the convention are Mrs. Milton McCafferty, Lance Munsey, and Virginia Munsey, recording secretary of the Central Labor union.

The teachers' union has experienced a remarkable growth in the past eight years and is fast becoming one of the leading factors in educational circles throughout the country. Dr. George S. Counts, professor of sociology in Teachers' college, Columbia university, is national president of the American Federation of Teachers. It will be recalled that Dr. Counts spoke here last winter at a banquet given by the teachers and attended by a large number of trade unionists.

Pressmen's Aux. Party

Auxiliary 17 to Pressmen's Local 165 will entertain with a party Saturday night, Aug. 17, at the I. L. G. W. hall in the Ferger building. All members and friends of organized labor are invited to attend.

Tickets are selling for 25 cents, and there will not be an additional charge for the bingo and dancing. Prizes will be given in the bingo games.

The affair is to begin at 7:30, so bring your friends and come to the Pressmen's Auxiliary entertainment.

Typos Leave For Convention

Lee Beaumont and Ted Kirby, who are the delegates from Typographical Union No. 89, are leaving this week-end for New Orleans to attend the annual convention of the I. T. U. The convention will open Saturday morning.

Several other members of No. 89 are expected to attend the convention as visitors. Among those who are planning to attend are: Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Beavers, J. R. McGhee, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Carter and Harry Maupin.

Injunction Stage Reached As Crane Management Refuses to Obey U.S. Law

Striking Teamsters Blitzkrieged By Fleming

The strike at the Crane company plant continues into its second week as the management, which has been impossible to find in the past, sent its lawyer out of his lair to ask the courts to enjoin the union, its friends, cohorts, all and sundry, from breaking the law. In the petition for an injunction what were described as slanderous statements concerning certain well known and respected individuals were set forth. It is understood that the hearing for the injunction will be some time in September.

In the plea the company repeatedly refers to certain "contracts" between the company and individuals working in the plant.

Picketing continues and the usual number of scabs slink into the plant under the paternal care of the police commissioner.

Carrying on a blitzkrief against union men, several striking truckmen were socked heavy fines for alleged slapping of big, husky and timid scabbing truckers. In addition a five-foot-eight-inch union teamster was put under a $5,000 peace bond so that he would not scare any more scabs.

If the affair was not a labor dispute it is quite likely that a fine of several dollars would have been imposed and that would have been the end of it.

Both unions, Molders and Teamsters, are still holding together, despite the advice given by the police judge to scabs to shoot the strikers down and go on to work.

Molder President Pays Short Visit

Harry Stevenson, president of the International Molders' Union of North America, spoke to an audience of some 300 molders at the auditorium Wednesday evening.

President Stevenson told the audience of the repeated refusal of Mr. Nelson, head man at the Crane plant, to even discuss the situation with him. Mr. Stevenson said that possibly Mr. Nelson could be persuaded by the federal government to obey the law.

He also outlined certain problems and solution being worked out by the foundry industry in the Southland.

A dose of poison can do its work only once, but a bad book can go on poisoning people's minds for any length of time. — John Murray.

Mike Dulion Back From Hospital

The many friends of Mike Dulion, member of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Local Union No. 43, are glad to know that he has returned from the Marine hospital at Memphis, and expects to return to work about the 23rd of this month.

Brother Dulion entered the Marine hospital on June 23, and was confined there for 23 days following an operation. He reports that he is doing fine and that the operation was a complete success.

Opening Gun of Retaliation

The election on August 1 did not end the war, it seems. Recommendation of the "rebel" squires in the county court this week indicate that Pine Breeze is to be further hampered in its great work simply because Mr. John Stagmaier, chairman of the Pine Breeze board, is the uncle of John Mahoney, who just won the renomination for the state senate over the "rebel" squires' candidate.

We are told that if the proposed cut is put into effect, some sixty patients will have to be removed from Pine Breeze.

Already there are some twenty vacant beds in Pine Breeze that cannot be used due to lack of funds. There is a long line of really sick and deserving people who need to use these beds.

We hope that Pine Breeze will not be victimized because the efficient civic-minded John Stagmaier is related to John Mahoney.

We also hope that for some time there will not be any money spent for brass bands, football stadia, flashy uniforms and other glittering luxuries as long as people are dying because of the lack of operating funds for Pine Breeze.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

DID YOU KNOW? . . .

Nearly 17% of the nation's children are in New York and Pennsylvania. Foreign born families have more children than native born families: rural negroes have more children than rural whites. Native whites in cities have a higher proportion than city negroes. Women with grade school education have more children than college women.

SHOP HOUND

Have you seen the new plastic telephone timer, small enough to be carried in the pocket. It works on the hour-glass principle, and keeps you informed when those precious three minutes of your long distance call are up.

GLAMOR

When you go on that long looked-for vacation remember that swimming, bicycling, riding, golf, tennis, badminton, hiking and horse riding are all excellent exercises for your figure, but when you start your outdoor fun remember that modernization is the watchword.

If you've been sitting at a desk as a daily routine, it's a good idea to do a few simple bending and stretching exercises at home before you start the more vigorous muscle straining on your vacation.

Why not give your feet a break as well as your face? We hear much about facial cocktails these days, but how about a cocktail to revive and rejuvenate those hot, swollen tired feet after a day of shopping or a tramp through the woods. Stimulate the foot circulation with a stiff brush and hot soapy water. Then rinse first with extremely hot and then very cold water alternating several times. This is a lovely foot creme on the market with menthol which leaves the feet feeling cool as ice and the skin gloriously satin-like. Now powder with a good talcum, or if your feet are prone to perspire frequently use a deodorant powder, and relax, if this doesn't make a new woman of you then nothing will!

Coal-tar colors, when used in all cosmetics except hair-dyes, must be certified according to legal regulations. But the word "Caution" must be placed on the label of hair-dyes containing coal-tar because this product contains ingredients which may cause skin irritation. Coal-tar hair-dyes must not, under any circumstances, be used for dying eyelashes or eyebrows. To do so may cause blindness.

Make small sized bags, the size of your hand of turkish toweling, fill them with your favorite talcum and pat them on your body after your bath. The powder will sift through evenly on your skin and the powder "aftermath" on the floor will be avoided.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKERS

The bureau of home economics advises that the best way to clean leather upholstering is by just using good suds and water. Make a thick suds of a neutral soap, using as little water as possible. Go over the upholstery with the suds and wipe off soap with damp cloth. Polish off yith a dry cloth. The bureau states that furniture polish or furniture oil may contain solvents which will soften the finish on leather and make it sticky, therefore they should never be used.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

The woman's bureau of the U. S. department of labor is concerning itself at present with measures to maintain standards of labor in plants employing women, going back to the experience during the first World war for a guide as to tendencies to reduce standards in time of crisis.

There are findings in the bureau's files showing increases in production per worker hour and these will be used with good effect. Production in textiles increased 25% from 1929 to 1939, but man-hours decreased by 20%. In rubber plants production increased by 39% in 16 years, but employment fell by 30%.

With six million names on record as unemployed, the U. S. employment service is called upon to show that there is nothing in sight to justify weakening of labor standards.

What the women's bureau knows is that standards of work for women are lost to feel the effects of crises, and without strong support and public understanding, they will be maintained only with the greatest difficulty.

The bureau holds that women's tasks in war work are in any event unusually severe and that this is an added reason for holding to the best standards.

PANTRY PALAVER

Chef's Hints: Waxed paper placed between the ice trays and the electric refrigerator will keep them from sticking.

To prevent milk from sticking to the saucepan when boiling it, rinse pan with hot water before putting milk in.

Spiced rhubarb sauce is a delicious accompaniment for roast lamb, broiled chicken or veal chops.

If you would enjoy a reputation for making good coffee see that the pot is washed wth hot suds after each use and rinsed with boiling water. Once a week fill the pot with cold water to which a tablespoon of soda has been added and bring to a boil.

Add roasted peanuts to cottage cheese, then press the cheese in a bowl which has been rinsed out in cold water. Chill, unmold onto shredded lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise.

An unusual and dainty effect may be achieved on a party cake by frosting the cake first with a delicately tinted icing; place a large lace paper doilie over the top of the cake and sprinkle generously with confectioner's sugar. Then carefully remove the doilie and you'll have a lovely lacy pattern on your cake.

BABY TALK

Watch your child when he reads. If he bends far over his book you may be sure his vision is imperfect. Eyestrain can handicap a child so that he will suffer all his life if this weakness is not adjusted. Children whose eyesight is impaired may be backward in school, may stutter, stumble and develop poor posture. A wise mother will note these signs and have her child examined by a good eye physician. No good physician will prescribe glasses unless the child needs them.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

GEORGE L. BERRY

George L. Berry, President of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America, is one of the most colorful and successful figures in the American Labor movement. He was elected to the position of President of his International Union in 1907 and a biographical sketch of George Berry must include a history of the International Union.

Mr. Berry is the founder of Pressmen's Home, which is the International office of the Union. In connection with the pressmen's home is a sanitarium, home for the aged and technical trade school. The establishment of this home is one of the outstanding achievements of Mr. Berry's career.

Having been a Major in the first World War and also a member of the Senate of the United States, George Berry has distinguished himself both in military and public life as well as in the American Labor movement. He has held various positions on Government commissions, including member of the Advisory Board and Divisional Administrator of the National Recovery Act, member of the first National Labor Board, the Cotton Textile Industry Board, the Bituminous Coal Commission and the Allotment Board. He also served his Government as Coordinator for Industrial Cooperation. He is one of the founders of the American Legion and is a former National Vice Commander of this veterans' organization.

His address is: Major George L. Berry, President, International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America, Pressmen's Home, Tennessee.

UNION LABEL

PRINTING PRESSMEN'S UNION LABEL

The Union Label of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America was adopted October 8, 1889. This Union Label is issued only in cities where there are no printing trades Unions affiliated with the International Typographical Union, the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, International Stereotypers and Electrotypers' Union, and the International Photo-Engravers' Union.

The International Allied Printing Trades Association, composed of the five printing trades Unions, has a joint Union Label which is issued to Local allied printing trades councils in cities where there are two or more local Unions chartered by any of the five international printing trades Unions.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

H. W. BROWN

H. W. Brown, International President of the International Association of Machinists, has served this International in many capacities. Having joined a Union in 1905, he soon became local and district business representative. He was elected as delegate from the Grand Lodge to three successive American Federation of Labor conventions. In every position he showed unusual ability as an organizer and leader in the Labor movement.

In July, 1921, following a referendum election, Mr. Brown became International Vice President, in which position he served until June, 1925. As a result of a change in the laws of the I. A. of M. he became General Vice President and continued in that office until May, 1934. However, in November, 1938, while officially retaining the title of General Vice President, the Council appointed Mr. Brown Acting International President, due to the poor health of the International President, A. O. Wharton, who retired in November, 1939. In April of this year the membership, by referendum election, chose Mr. Brown as the International President and he immediately took over the duties of that office.

Mr. Brown is a member of the Executive Council of the Railway Employes Department and of the Metal Trades Department, A. F. of L.; also a member of the Railway Labor Executives' Association and a member of the Board of Directors of the Union Labor Life Insurance Company. Under Mr. Brown's leadership the International Association of Machinists continues to be one of the most effective and efficient Labor Unions in America.

His address is: Mr. H. W. Brown, President, International Association of Machinists, Machinists' Building, Washington, D. C.

MACHINISTS' LABEL

This Label is produced in four forms, viz.: a die stamped into the manufactured article or sunk into the mold, producing a raised label on the molded product; a paper label, pink in color, to be pasted on box containing article, or on the article itself; a brass label to be screwed on the article with small screws; a decalcamania transfer that is attached to the article.

The Labels at present are used on butcher saws, mechanics' tools, barber and beauty shop equipment, shoemakers' cutlery, and metal novelties, as well as on various types of machinery. The Label is registered in the United States and Canada.

Look for this Shop Card in all automobile garages and repair shops.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons, write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

State Out-of-Work Legislation Receiving More Attention

Chicago.—Of the many state welfare problems receiving attention of the fifteen legislatures meeting in regular or special sessions this year, unemployment compensation had the edge in the number of bills introduced and the number enacted into law, a survey by the American Public Welfare Association showed. On the whole, the 1940 legislation followed the same design as that enacted in 1939.

Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi, Ohio and Virginia now can give larger old age assistance grants as a result of 1940 legislation. Illinois and Ohio availed themselves of 1939 congressional amendments permitting federal assumption of half the cost of individual monthly grants up to $40; Kentucky and Mississippi increased their maximum monthly grants from $15 to $30; and Virginia eliminated a requirement that all income of the recipient be included in the $20-a-month maximum.

Legislative trends in 1940 in residence requirements for public assistance were opposite those of 1939 when, according to the survey, laws for the most part raised the time required to gain legal settlement in a state. This year, Mississippi lowered her requirements for old age assistance from five years within the nine preceding application to one year immediately preceding application. Rhode Island reduced her residence requirements to one year for old age assistance, aid to the blind, and state unemployment compensation.

Much of the legislative activity around unemployment compensation legislation related to adjustment of state provisions to 1939 social security act amendments.

Chemical Workers Organizing Rapidly Throughout the South

Atlanta, Ga.—Because of the rapid expansion in the south of the chemical industry and allied plants during the past few years, the American Federation of Labor has for some time been centering its efforts to the organization of workers employed in these plants. In order to properly service these workers the American Federation of Labor has created a chemical workers division, and placed H. A. Bradley, of Akron, O., in charge of the division.

Mr. Bradley came into the south recently and held meetings in Chattanooga, Tenn., and Shreveport, La., with George L. Googe, southern representative of the A. F. of L., W. R. Williams, southwestern representative, and numerous orfianizers working under the direction of these two men. Plans were outlined at these meetings for concerted organizing efforts in the south and southwest, and officials of state federations of labor, city central labor unions and organizing committees are being urged to assist in every way possible in the organization of workers in the chemical lines. Many international unions have expressed willingness to lend their field representatives to this task, and it is believed that many thousands of members soon will be added to the A. F. of L. rosters.

Organizers, state federation of labor unions and city central labor unions are urged to make surveys in their respective communities and report their findings to the Atlanta office of the A. F. of L., thus aiding in the organization campaign. Production workers employed in the following plants are classified as chemical workers, and it is information as to the location of such plants that A. F. of L. officials desire to obtain. The list follows:

Ammunition and related products; baking powder, yeast, and other leavening compounds; blackings, stains and dressings; bluing; bone black, carbon black and lamp black; candles; chemicals, miscellaneous; cleaning and polishing preparations; compressed and liquefied gases; drug grinding, drugs and medicines.

Explosives; fertilizers; fireworks and allied products; fish reduction; glue and geletine; gas and coke by-products; ink, printing; ink, writing; insecticides and fungicides and industrial and household chemical compounds; muscilage, paste and other adhesives; oil, cake and meal, cottonseed; oils, essential; oils not elsewhere classified; paints, pigments, varnishes; perfumes, cosmetics and toilet preparations; phosphates; salt; soap.

Tanning materials, natural dyestuffs, mordants and assistants and sizes; wood preserving plants (except where wood products are sawed to size); creosote and asphalt production; synthetic rubber production; sulphur; plastic production; magnesium.

Woman Union Head Dead

Lynbrook, Long Island — Miss Mary J. Murphy, president for nearly forty years of the Bindery Women's union, No. 43, of New York City, died at her home here on July 12 at the age of 67. Her union was an unaffiliated organization, having been suspended from the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders several years ago. Miss Murphy was long active in the New York labor movement. Legislation for the protection of women in industry was her primary interest and many of the laws which she advocated are now in effect in various states.

The Exception

The bombastic lawyer was bullying the witnesses in a compensation case. To one he said: "Oh, so the woman fainted? How do you know? Did she go pale?"

"No, she didn't."

"Ha, so she fainted and didn't go pale? Now tell me, have you ever known anyone to faint and not go pale?"

"Yes—a Negress."

Machinists Win Wage Increase

Atlanta, Ga. — Business Agent F. H. King, of Lodge No. 1, International Association of Machinists, reports this week having renewed their agreement with the Davidson-Kennedy company, manufacturers of oil mill machinery, providing for 5 cents per hour increase in pay and reduction of houhs to 40 per week. He also reports that this lodge now has more agreements with their employers in the city and this area, and more members than ever before in the history of this lodge, and the prospects of securing several additional agreements are bright for the next few weeks.

Notes From Candy Workers

All union people should remember that Carter Bros. and Benn-Hubb candies are union made, right here in Chattanooga.

Brock's candy is non-union.

Everybody is working now—nobody off sick.

Glad to read all the good talks from other unionists in our paper, but we are sorry that some of our officials never seem to practice what they preach. It is useless for a man to say, "I am a friend to the working people," and, at the same time, hold out the golden sceptor to every scabby strikebreaker who comes along.

During a recent strike here, a union man walked up to where he had worked until the strike—a strike-breaker pulled a gun on him and threatened to shoot him. We did not hear a word of protest from the city court about that.

But one of the men on strike hit a strike-breaker who was insulting him—and the striker was taken to court, fined and bound over.

We condemn violence, as good Americans should, but we insist that the city court should administer judgment impartially . . . then all of us could work for peace and good will to all.

"Labor Sings," Title Of New Union Songbook

New York City — Thirty-eight songs, ranging from "The Star-Spangled Banner" to "One Big Union for Two," are included in "Labor Sings," a twenty-eight-page songbook presented by the New York locals to the delegates of the fortieth anniversary convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union. In addition to general ILGWU songs, thirteen locals now have their own original songs.

Many popular airs have been supplied with new lyrics. "Mene, Mene, Tekel" by Harold J. Rome, and other "Pins and Needles" songs and some numbers from the St. Louis union musical revue "Let Freedom Swing."

Two Answers

Undoubtedly some behind the times industrial leaders are taking advantage of public feeling over the war and national defense to create distrust and prejudice against labor unions. The plan is to label every move on the part of the unions to better the conditions of the workers as subversive. Suspicions are aroused against union officials and members who take an active part in moving toward better wages, shorter hours and improved working conditions.

There are two answers to this condition—possibly the answers are rolled into one: Organize, organize and organize! Then remind your Senators and Representatives who are running for re-election that they are going to be judged by their voting record where labor questions have been involved.

Write to your Senators and Representatives and to the candidates for such places. Tell them about the subversive actions being taken by employers who try to take advantage of war hysteria to direct suspicion and hatred toward labor unions. Put them on their notice that their attitude now will determine whether they are sent to Washington for the next term.

Statesmanship

There is need at this moment for an exercise of statesmanship, among those qualified to lead American thought, as high and unselfish as that which presided at the birth of our country.—Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior.

Fighting the Smoke Evil

St. Louis is trying an experiment of interest to every city suffering from the coal smoke evil. The St. Louis board of aldermen has set up a $300,000 revolving fund to be used, in an emergency, for the purchase and distribution to consumers of smokeless fuel, the International City Managers' association reports.

The appropriation was made under a provision of the drastic smoke prevention ordinance adopted this year by St. Louis. The provision, unique in municipal legislation, empowers the city to declare an emergency and buy smokeless fuel for distribution to consumers if an adequate supply cannot be secured through commercial coal dealers.

The new St. Louis smoke ordinance requires smokeless fuel defined as containing less than 25 per cent volatile matter for hand-fired and surface fired furnaces. Sale of fuel containing more than 12 per cent or 2 per cent sulphur on a dry basis is prohibited.

In requiring smokeless fuel, St. Louis officials hope that restrictions on the use of unprocessed high volatile coals will create a large market for smokeless fuels and make possible a reduction in their prices. Officials said the city will not enter the coal business unless absolutely necessary.

Time for Cool Heads

Since war began in earnest in Europe, there have been some rather silly and disturbing evidences of hysteria in the United States. Here and there there has been lawless attacks on minority religious groups and individuals. There has been no really serious outbreaks of the kind, but enough to show a danger exists. Mob action whipped up by bitter feeling during the World War caused manifestations dangerous to liberty and democracy. Such manifestations might easily occur again.

President Roosevelt plainly had the danger of mob and vigilante action in mind when he warned against amateur spy-hunting in a message to the recent federal-state conference on law enforcement problems of national defense. He urged that all information pointing to subversive activities should be referred to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and added:

"And the common defense should be through the normal channels of local, state, and national law enforcement. The untrained policeman is as ineffective as the untrained soldier. The amateur detective soon becomes a fussy and malicious busy-body. We must be vigilant, always on guard, and swift to act. But we must also be wise and cool-headed, and must not express our activities in the cruel stupidities of the vigilante."

The President's advise is sound. America will do well to keep it always in mind, no matter what comes.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

JOHN P. BURKE

John P. Burke, President of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, is one of the founders of his International Union and has served as President for the past 23 years.

As a young man he worked in a paper mill in Franklin, New Hampshire, where he joined the first organization of pulp and sulphite workers which became affiliated with the America Federation of Labor.

Under the leadership of John P. Burke the members of his Union have continued to make steady progress. Before the Union was formed the hours of labor were 12 a day for tour workers and 10 for day workers. Wages were as low as 10 to 12 cents an hour. The wages, hours and working conditions in the paper and pulp industry have been transformed in the last 35 years as a result of Union organization. Today the average working hours are forty hours a week in the United States and forty-eight hours a week in Canada, and the average wage in the organized portion of the industry is eighty cents an hour.

The International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers is affiliated with the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor and Mr. Burke is one of the most active enthusiasts in the Union Label campaign.

His address is: Mr. John P. Burke, President-Secretary-Treasurer, International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, P. O. Drawer 30, Fort Edward, New York.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Beulah Ogle, Correspondent

Howdy, everybody, that surprise you have been waiting on has been postponed on account of the legion convention, we decided we could not have a party with every one working and it is not fair to choose a date when there is a convention in town. So-o-o the party will be Sept. 3 instead of Aug. 20. And don't forget, it is still a secret about the plans.

The Coca-Cola salesmen enjoyed a dinner party at Lowe's Cafe on Thursday evening, and every one reports a good time, there were about twenty of them and believe you me they were a hungry bunch. However, we were able to furnish Mr. Lowe with enough union waitresses to take care of them.

Mr. Arthur Love, Jr., is at Mr. Coplan's Place on Cherry street. He rode the goat at the meeting last meeting night and I am sure Mr. Love will make us a good union man. He has the spirit and that is what it takes.

Luck is with us again this week. We signed another house. A new place just opened Thursday, Henderson's Place, on Broad street, between Fifth and Sixth streets.

Miss Louise Petty entertained a party at Pan Gap Thursday evening; now you don't know what you missed by not being in that party, because we really had some fun. I won't tell you who won the swimming contest, but you can guess it wasn't me. What fun? You should have been there.

"LABOR DAY" IS LABOR'S CHIEF HOLIDAY—MAKE IT MEMORABLE.

Remember, we have our part to play in the Labor Day celebration and we must not shirk this duty. We must remember now at this time is our chance to show our strength and in union alone is there strength. We are depending on you to help us make this day a success, and please be there with us in that parade on Monday night, Sept. 2.

Next Tuesday is the regular meeting night. The plans for the Labor Day celebration will be discussed; this is your chance to help, so be there, we need you.

Buy union label products and use union services if you say you are 100 per cent union.

An active union must have regular, prompt, well-attended and business-like meetings, with members who inform themselves about their rights and duties as union members and who participate in the meetings.

Our unfair restaurants in the city are Chattanooga Steak House, Harry's Place, Busy Bee, Maypole, Ellis Restaurant, S. & W. Cafeteria, National Lunch, Dennis Restaurant and Glasgow Tavern.

Next week we will have the legion convention and know there will be some extra work, so keep in touch with us so that we will be able to place you in case there are calls for extra work.

Please don't blame me if I didn't get around to see you this week as I had promised, and I didn't forget it either, I was just plain busy. Seems like my work has kinda doubled up on me since I went away. And I am kinda glad in a way for I know some one must have been at work. But I will see you next week as had planned for this week.

W. F. Newton is now at the Rathskeller, where he seems to be rather happy. Bill don't drink too much beer and get that beer barrel spread; it wouldn't be becoming to you.

H. R. Kaneaster is back with Bob Green on Carter street. He looks natural in those surroundings.

What has become of Beulah Phifer? Wish she would give me her telephone number, just in case she wanted to work.

We wish to express sympathy to Mr. W. W. Orr in the recent death of his father.

Many union members will give anything they have to their union so long as they are asked for neither money or time. They want to trade "excuses" for both when called upon to donate, but are "Johnny on the Spot" when credit is to be taken and delegates to important out-of-town conventions, to be named.

The first consideration of unions must continue to be their membership and the unorganized wage earners who should be organized, federated and educated to carry on the efforts for betterment.

Picket lines are made necessary by unreasonable employers, but very often they are advocated by members who will excuse themselves from any actual participation in picketing.

Those who give most of their time and effort toward making the world better for others derive both enjoyment and advantages from their disinterested services.

Demand the union card and button!

Don't forget, there are Labor Day badges and you must do your part by buying one.

Calling Out the Guard

The senate, this week, by a vote of 71 to 7 empowered President Roosevelt to mobilize the national guardsmen (360,000 men) for training or for hemisphere defense. The house is slated to approve the bill next week. Thus another step for our national defense will have been accomplished.

Many guardsmen will have to make a severe personal sacrifice in leaving their jobs and families for a period of months, but most of them are willing because they realize that we are in an emergency, and emergencies are the guards' business. The selective draft bill seems assured of early passage. Registration and training of men will follow quickly. The guardsmen will be indispensable in the training.

The Conscription Bill

This week the senate started debating the bill for a selective compulsory draft. The enactment of this measure is generally considered not only desirable, but necessary. Many arguments are being made against the measure, but a majority of the members of congress seem to have the opinion that all the arguments are outweighed by the plain necessity for preparedness.

Congress has voted billions of dollars for the machinery of war. These machines will be of little use unless we have the men to operate them.

Some suggested amendments to the draft bill are gaining favor and may be enacted. Among them are (1) a quota system fixing the number to be called for service, (2) a provision fixing a quota for the various states and eliminating the draft in those states filling their quotas by volunteers, and (3) a provision to protect the jobs and property of draftees.

Congress will do everything possible to eliminate the hardships of the draft law.

New League of Nations

The senate at an early date will be called upon to ratify the act of Havana.

To create a league of nations, it is not necessary to draft a formal covenant and to secure ratification as was attempted in 1919. A league of nations may be developed more informally and in more piecemeal fashion. That seems to be the procedure favored for the league which was shaped at Havana under the guidance and leadership of the United States.

The delegates at Havana, under the leadership of Secretary Hull, in effect proposed the creation of the new league of nations, definitely exercising new sovereign powers, in the Western hemisphere. It is a step of great significance in American histoory.

Labor Pledges Defense Co-operation

Washington—"Full and unstinted devotion" to the program of national defense was pledged by sixteen leaders of the American Federation of Labor, Congress of Industrial Organizations and railroad unions in a letter to President Roosevelt which drew from a presidential secretary the comment that it showed national defense might be the means of reuniting labor.

The letter said that "organized labor is united in its determination" to give "effective and expeditious co-operation" in the carrying out of the defense program. Labor officials who make up the recently appointed labor policy advisory committee of the National Defense commission signed the letter.

Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, stated that the letter represented the closest approach to harmony between the two factions of labor since their split.

"It shows that national defense may be the means of bringing labor together," he added. "At least it brings out the hope."

Active Work Vital

The letter read as follows:

"We, as representatives of American organized labor, are completely cognizant of the issues that confront this nation by reason of the crisis in world affairs.

"We are fully aware that the preservation of our democratic institutions can be accomplished only by active, energetic and constant endeavors to that end. Complacently to take these values for granted is to contribute to their destruction.

"We, the undersigned, constituting the entire membership of the labor policy advisory committee, organized to co-operate with the National Defense commission, wish to pledge to you, Mr. President, as head of our great nation, our full and unstinted devotion to our country and to the program of national defense.

"United in Effort"

"We and our membership are united in our effort and determination to give effective and expeditious co-operation in the fulfillment of the defense program, and to contribute to a free and secure democracy.

"We are confident that with the extension of such co-operation among all groups this great nation will become increasingly more worthy of the principles upon which it was founded."

President Retains Short Work Week As Efficiency Aid in Production For National Defense Program

Washington — President Roosevelt is standing firmly against proposals to lengthen the work week in defense industries, basing his stand on experience during the World War when shortening of hours resulted in increasing production. He holds that maximum production and efficiency depend on standards similar to those fixed under the fair labor standards act.

At a press conference, the President cited a letter from Col. Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator, in support of his position. The letter described the experience of the British munitions commission and the United States army chief of ordnance in the World War.

Speaking "as a soldier" and declaring that "the nation's defense is my primary interest," Colonel Fleming told the President:

"Were there any defense need in certain industries for abrogation of the time and one-half rule, nothing could keep me from so reporting. In my contacts with industry no such need has yet been demonstrated to me."

Only Three Complaints

The letter, which was read by the President at his press conference, drew a sharp distinction between "the ceiling for hours" prescribed by the labor standards act for American industry and the forty-hour week which was in effect in France from 1936 to 1938 and has been blamed by some for that country's lack of preparedness for war.

The President especially emphasized the final paragraph of Colonel Fleming's letter as follows:

"Any complaints from the key defense industries that the payment of time and a half for overtime is making difficult their operation will be promptly brought to your attention. To date the wage and hour division has received but three such complaints, all from small establishments."

Hours Cut Aided Output

Colonel Fleming's letter declared:

"Two documents from the last war should be called to public attention:

"One is the wartime report of the British munitions commission. The report stated that from experiments spread over thirteen and a half months a reduction of working hours of munitions workers was associated with an increase of production. For example, in one factory hours of work were changed, first from a 66-hour week to a 55-hour week, and then to a 45½-hour week.

"Considering the weekly output of the 66-hour week as 100, it was found that the 55-hour week yielded a relative output of 111. The 45½-hour week yielded a relative output of 109. Thus the 45½-hour week yielded more in products than the 66-hour week and practically as much as the 55-hour week. The same results were obtained during the thirteen-month period in various other munitions factories.

Army General Order Quoted

"The other document is general order No. 13 issued by the chief of ordnance, United States army, on Nov. 15, 1917, seven months after the declaration of war, when the United States was at the height of its procurement effort. The order stated:

"'In view of the urgent necessity for a prompt increase in the volume of production of practically every article required for the conduct of the war, vigilance is demanded of all those in any way associated with industry lest the safeguards with which the people of this country have sought to protect labor should be unwisely and unnecessarily broken down.

Maximum Production

"'It is a fair assumption that for the most part these safeguards are the mechanisms of efficiency. Industrial history proves that reasonable hours, fair working conditions and a proper wage scale are essential to high production.'

"These documents were drafted almost a generation ago. The production-line technique of industry has been greatly developed since then. Today maximum production calls for maximum efficiency of the machine. Maximum efficiency of the machine is usually obtained by using relays of workers in shifts short enough to make constantly intense effort possible."

I was very much gratified with the action that was taken at our last meeting in regards to the Labor day celebration. Our purchase of one ninety buttons will help some, and I hope nothing will stand in the way to prevent us from turning out full strength for the parade Labor day night.

I want to thank the new delegates to Central Labor union and hope that they will be able to attend as often as possible.

To those that are not familiar with the method of selling the buttons, a committee was appointed some time ago at a meeting of C. L. U. and 5,000 buttons were ordered. These buttons were divided among the committee and they attached a small flag to the button and then they are returned to the chairman of committee for distribution to the various organizations for sale.

The object in selling these buttons is to help defray the expense of prizes and other expenses at Warner park Labor day.

I would appreciate it at our next meeting or before to decide on what we will wear in the parade as to the uniform. We all could wear white pants and white shirt or something to that effect so we could be dressed as near a like as possible without going to much expense. I wish all would think about this and discuss it, so at our next meeting it could be definitely decided upon.

It was reported to me that Brother Clint Worley is home sick. Hope Brother Worley will be back with us soon.

Caesar, Nero and McNabb, the coal dealers, are not new dealers by any means. Their motto is, don't go anywhere else to be robbed. Come to us.

Well, it has come at last. We have within our midst a modern St. Patrick, when it comes to snakes. Si Perkins, I believe, has the saint beat by a snake's length. I saw a picture of that snake—I don't know how big around it was—but in the picture it looked about seven feet long. See Si for more information.

Paul Lex and Lord Plushbottom had something up their sleeve for last Saturday night, but somehow things got in reverse. Some one page 'em, Paul is getting too frisky.

Arch Douglas was seen walking with one foot in the gutter and the other on the sidewalk the other night after drinking some of Indian Charlie's herb juice. When Goober Johnson led him to the center of the street Arch said, thanks, Goober, I thought I was crippled.

Red Goforth wants to know how much electricity it takes to kill a human. See Old Man Ike, Red, he knows all the answers.

As this writer will be away for a week's vacation next week, I think I will let Roy Welles write up next week's issue. I think Roy would like to get even. Wanna bet?

I think I have covered everything of interest for this week. Will be seeing you after I've finished my vacation.

Who ran out of gas last Saturday night, and where?

Brother Fred Haun is about to get straightened out and return to the active list again.

The Labor day celebration is gaining momentum every day, and your badges are waiting for you. See Bill Rogers and he will give you one.

Buy union, sell union and be sure you work union.

Most all the boys must be working. I don't see many of you at the meetings. Come on down and fuss up a storm.

"Big Boy" Martin said he dreamed he died, and on the way to heaven he overtook an ironworker. After comparing dues books and getting acquainted, they came to the Golden Gates. Big Boy said, "Ain't that pretty?"

"Yeah," said the ironworker, "but that sure was a bum riveting job."

Frank Blake wrote in for his building trade card — said he wanted to show the world at large that he was 100 per cent. Good shooting, Frank.

The big parade forms at 7 p.m. Labor day night. Everybody be there. And don't forget the fireworks at the park at 10 p.m.

"Dogged off" for supper.

Labor News Program Achieves Radio Record

Washington, D. C.—The "Labor News Review" radio program, heard over WJSV every Saturday night for seven years, has established a world record for continuous presentation. This feature has achieved the longest consecutive run eevr recorded by any one labor program in the history of radio.

The "Labor News Review" is presented as a public service. It has always featured facts about labor of interest and value, not only to labor but to the general public.

Albert N. Dennis, labor writer and editor, originated the "Labor News Review" and is still the producer and broadcaster. He is a member of Office Workers' Union No. 11773, A. F. of L., the Radio Correspondents' association and the 100-year-old learned society, the American Statistical association.

A special national edition of the "Labor News Review" is being made available to other radio stations for presentation anywhere in the United States. Any independent or network-affiliated station, anywhere, can get it. Local labor groups interested in having their local station get the "Labor News Review" can make the request direct to their local station.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

Sledge, Galgeston, Tex., won second prize; and Mrs. Bernice Sandusky, Chicago, Ill., won third prize, and they received awards of valuable union label articles.

In the contest for the best essays on the subject, "Why I Am a Labor Unionist," Fred Langhenry Carver, Hollywood, Cal., a member of Stenographers, Bookkeepers, Typists and Assistants, Local No. 20798, of Los Angeles, won first prize of $250; John H. McCarthy, Oakland, Cal., a member of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local No. 507, won second prize; and John W. Johnson, Youngstown, O., a member of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, Local No. 443, won third prize, and they received awards of valuable union label articles.

Three Women Win Prizes.

In the contest for the best essays on the subject, "Why I Joined a Women's Auxiliary," Mrs. Marion E. Grimmer, Kenmore, N. Y., a member of Auxiliary No. 200 of Typographical Union No. 9, won first prize of $250; Mrs. Elma M. Barker, Elwood, Kan., a member of the Woman's Union Label Auxiliary No. 614 of St. Joseph, Mo., won second prize; and Mrs. Mary F. Rouse, Jersey City, N. J., a member of the Women's Auxiliary to the New York Typographical union, won third prize and they received awards of valuable union label articles.

The judges stated that 80 per cent of the essays were unusually good and the contestants showed a fundamental knowledge of the American labor movement and the union label cause. In each contest the judges eliminated all the essays except forty or fifty and these were so excellent that they had great difficulty in choosing the winner in each contest. Many contestants were disqualified because they did not accurately follow the rules.

I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department, said: "I am greatly pleased with the publicity received through the Four-Star Essay contest. The response of labor unions and unionized manufacturers was gratifying. While thousands of people wrote essays, general interest in the union label cause was greatly sitmulated through the advertising campaign for the contest."

CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE

Sealed proposals for the manufacture and delivery of Sub-Project—Contract No. 3-N of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, acting for and on behalf of the City of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee,

P.W.A. Project Docket Tenn. 1105-P-DS
Electric Distribution System
Sub-Project—Contract No. 3-N

will be received by the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, at the office of the Secretary of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Room 602, Power Building, Chattanooga, Tennessee, until 1:00 P.M. on the 3rd day of September, 1940, at which time and place they will be immediately publicly opened and read by the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga.

Copies of the Proposal, Contract Documents, and Specifications may be obtained from the office of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Municipal Building, Chattanooga, Tennessee. A deposit (certified check) of Twenty-five dollars ($25.00) will be required for procuring the Proposal, Contract Documents and Specifications. The deposit for these documents will be returned to all except the successful bidder upon the return of the documents in good condition within ten (10) days after the bids are opened.

A copy of the Proposal, Contract Documents and Specifications may be examined free of charge at the Chamber of Commerce and the office of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Each bid must be accompanied by a Certified Check, or Bidder's Bond executed by the bidder and a surety company licensed to do business in Tennessee, in the sum of ten (10%) per cent of the amount of the bid. The bond is required as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be immediately entered into and the performance of it properly secured.

The successful bidder will be required to execute a Performance Bond acceptable to the Electric Power Board in the amount of one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price and said Performance Bond, among other things, shall provide that the Contractor will pay for all labor and materials used by said Contractor or any immediate or remote subcontractor under him on said contract in lawful money of the United States. This Performance Bond shall be made through a company having a duly authorized representative in Chattanooga, Tennessee, upon whom process may be served.

All items in the proposal form and on data sheets must be properly filled out and must not be detached from the Specifications. No qualifying letters or statements will be considered.

Bidders' name must be placed on the envelope containing this document and also upon this envelope shall be designated the name and contract number which the bid covers.

WITHDRAWAL OF BIDS: Bidders may withdraw bids at any time prior to the opening, but thereafter no bidder may withdraw a bid submitted for a period of thirty days after the date set for the opening of such bids.

The estimated cost of the construction of the project covered by this contract is $43,000.00.

The Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any informalities therein.

Any bid received after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids will be returned to the bidder unopened.

Aluminum Company Jobs Are Almost 100 Per Cent Union

Franklin, N. C.—A local union of [illegible] common and construction laborers has been organized here and the charter installed, with Harold Dalrymple as president, Jess Thompson as vice-president and J. L. Barnard, Jr., recording and financial secretary. Eighty workers employed on the Nantahala job of the aluminum company have joined the local almost 100 per cent, and employes on the Nantahala job are said to be coming into the local union in gratifying numbers.

The Cheoah job is being done by the contracting firm of Morrison-Knudsen Construction company. This job includes a large dam at Cheoah and a tunnel.

The Nantahala job, also a dam and tunnel, is being done by the Utah Construction company, and 2,500 men are to be employed on both jobs when either get into full action.

When it was announced that the Aluminum Company of America had let these jobs for construction of power plants, the CIO sent a man by the name of Carney, of Baltimore, into this mountain section with a crew of CIO organizers to sew the job up for the CIO. Local men, under leadership of Mr. Barnard, beat the CIO to bat, however. John S. Turner, of the Hodcarriers' international, came here and assisted Mr. Barnard. Holt Ross, southern representative of the international, also came here and did splendid work.

President John P. Coyne, of the building and construction trades department of the A. F. of L., has been in communication with officers of other building and construction trades unions and these representatives are here for their respective international unions. The Atlanta office of the American Federation of Labor has been on the job since its inception and has lent every aid possible in the organization of the two projects.

Sayles Workers Organize With 245 Charter Members

Asheville, N. C.—Employes of Bilt[illegible] Sayles Bleacheries organized a local union here last week with 245 charter members, and applied for a charter in the United Textile Workers of America. The plant of the Sayles company is located at Biltmore, near this city, and the employes are citizens of this immediate section. President L. D. Warren and Secretary Mark Felmet, of the Asheville Central Labor union, assisted by Vice-President R. W. Ingle, of the State Federation of Labor, and other members of the organizing committee of the Central Labor union, assisted the Sayles employes in the organization of the local union.

Plans are being made to present the charter and institute the local union Friday evening, Aug. 16. Delegations from the big Enka Rayon local, the Central Labor union and affiliated crafts are expected to attend the ceremonies and take part in the program when the charter is installed. President Fox, First Vice-President John Pollard and other officials of the United Textile Workers of America have been invited to attend the meeting.

UTW Wins Vote at Henrietta, N. C.

Henrietta, N. C.—In an election held here last week by the textile workers in selecting a bargaining agency, the United Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, won by a vote of 171 to 152. Gordon L. Chastain, president of the Southern Cotton Textile Federation, assisted the workers in the campaign and election, and will now aid the local committee in negotiating an agreement with employers.

Carpenters Unionize, Raise Pay, Cut Hours, In Veneering Plant

St. John, N. B.—Unionization of the local plant of the Canada Veneers company by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, with the aid of the district Trades and Labor council, has been followed promptly by peaceful and successful negotiations in behalf of the employes of the firm. Instead of the much complained about working hours ranging from ten to fourteen hours a day, inclusive, a conciliation board has arranged for an eight-hour working day, except in two special departments, where a nine-hour day will prevail. There will be overtime at time and one half instead of the straight time that had prevailed and double time for Sundays if called on.

This plant has been functioning the last eight years without being successfully unionized although the All-Canadian Congress of Labor made an attempt. The full affiliation is now with the A. F. of L. The company has been working on British war contracts in manufacturing veneer logs. In the past there have been frequent labor troubles, including strikes at this plant, due to long working hours at straight pay and low wages. The wages have been increased about 40 per cent since the unionization.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

LEO J. BUCKLEY

Leo J. Buckley, President of the International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union of North America, started his Labor career in 1929, when he was elected a member of the Executive Board of New York Stereotypers' Union No. 1. A year later he was elected Second Vice President and held that office for six successive terms. For ten years he represented his Local Union as a delegate to the International Conventions. He served as Chairman of the Laws Committee for six consecutive years.

In 1938, at the age of 39, Mr. Buckley was elected President of the International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union. He was the youngest man ever elected to this office.

The I. S. & E. U. is one of the most highly organized Labor Unions, having 97 per cent of those eligible in its ranks. Each member of the I. S. & E. U. receives a funeral benefit of $300 and is insured under a group policy, in the amount of $500, with the Union Labor Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Buckley is also Vice President of the International Printing Trades Association. Although he is one of the youngest officers of an International Union, it is predicted that he will carve an enviable niche in the American Labor movement.

His address is: Mr. Leo J. Buckley, President, International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union of North America, 2812 Harring... Avenue, Bronx, N. Y.

STEREOTYPERS' AND ELECTROTYPERS' LABEL

The Union Label of the International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union of North America was adopted about 1910. In localities where an Allied Printing Trades Council has been formed, one but this Label should appear upon printed matter. The organizations represented by this Label are: The International Typographical Union, the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union, the International Photo-Engravers' Union, the International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union and the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders. The Allied Printing Trades Label is representative of the work of all members of these various organizations. Aside from this, the Typographical Union, Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union, Photo-Engravers' Union, the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders and the International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union have separate and distinct Labels which appear upon printed matter produced in communities where there is an Allied Printing Trades Council in existence.

For further information regarding Labels, Shop Cards and Buttons write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Allied Printing Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C.

BRITISH UNIONS MAKE INTEREST-FREE LOANS TO NATION FOR WAR PURPOSES

London.—The general council of the Trades Union Congress has placed £50,000 of its own funds at the disposal of the government free of interest and is urging all affiliated unions to adopt a similar course wherever they are able to do so.

National Union of General and Municipal Workers, £50,000.

Transport and General Workers' union, £250,000.

National Amalgamated Society of Operative House and Ship Painters and Decorators, £25,000.

Tailors and Garment Workers' union, £10,000.

National Amalgamated Union of Shop Assistants, Warehousemen and Clerks, £2,500.

Lancashire and Cheshire Miners' Federation, £21,000.

Amalgamated Association of Card, Blowing and Ring Room Operatives, £5,000.

General Federation of Trade unions, £10,000.

National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employes, £2,000.

National Society of Operative Printers and Assistants, £10,000.

Blacksmiths, Forge and Smithy Workers' Society, £3,000.

The T. U. C. General council feels that it would be the desire of the trade union movement to place a maximum of its resources at the disposal of the government in this critical hour of the country's needs. Unions that have not already taken action in the matter are asked to bring the subject before their executive or other authoritative body as soon as possible.

The various Amer- n federation of Labor unions form on Chestnut from Fifth e to the river and along erside drive. The labor contingent will turn into the main line of march at Fifth, headed by an enormous American flag, held by some thirty members of the Teamsters' union.

Following the flag will be a handsome AFL float, just behind a band. Then the executive officers of the American Federation of Labor movement of the city will keep step.

The various local unions, carrying banners will follow, some 6,000 strong.

In next week's Labor World will be a final summary of events at the park and definite line-up of local unions.

Sandy—Ye're aye gromblin' man. Why canna' ye be satisfied with yer lot?

Jock—Because I havna' got a lot.

Float Queen

MISS YVONNE ERVIN

Miss Yvonne Ervin will be the central figure on the Central Labor nion Tennessee Valley Celebration float. She is the daughter of Mr. nd Mrs. S. D. Ervin of 1503 North Orchard Knob avenue. She is 15, nd attends Chattanooga High School.

UNION BOTTLER DIES SUNDAY

P. T. Adkins, member of Local 79, Brewery Workers, employed at the Orange Crush plant, died last Sunday at his home on Spring Creek road.

Brother Adkins is survived by his widow; two daughters, Misses Betty and Polly Adkins; father, John Adkins, of Birmingham, Ala., and two sisters, Mrs. James Womack, of Borden Springs, Ala., and Mrs. Ed Riley, of Birmingham. Funeral services were held from the Spring Creek Baptist church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, the Rev. W. C. Tallent officiating.

Watermelon Cutting by Street Car Auxiliary

Announcement is made that next Wednesday, Aug. 28, there will be a watermelon cutting sponsored by the auxiliary to Local 1212, Street Car and Bus union. The affair will be at the home of Mrs. E. D. Dodds, 214 Baxter street.

All members and families are invited.

Custodians Will Parade Labor Day

B. F. Sively, vice-president of School Custodians' union, one of the youngest in the city, announces that members of that local will march in the Labor day parade. The decision was made at an executive board meeting of the local last Saturday, presided over by Brother Sively.

He also requested members to go to 308 Temple Court building to get their Labor day badges.

LABEL LEAGUE MEETS FRIDAY

Chattanooga Label league will meet Friday evening, Aug. 23, at Hotel Patten, room 908, announces Mrs. Ruby Williams, president. Time of meeting, 8 o'clock.

POWELL'S SANDWICH SHOP PICKETED

Powell's Sandwich shop, on Broad street near Eighth, is being picketed by Culinary Workers as a non-union restaurant. Members and friends of organized labor are requested to act accordingly.

Example—

Businessmen should set an example to labor in personal sacrifice for the country's defense. Businessmen cannot ask labor to work longer hours at moderate wages unless businessmen, too, are willing to forget any expectancy of war profits and play the game as American institutions should. We must have a country united for defense.—Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman, Sears, Roebuck & Co., in Forbes Magazine.

Stanton Smith Is Re-Elected Vice-President of AFT

Dr. George S. Counts Also Goes Back as President — Alleged Communist Influence Defeated.

The American Federation of Teachers, now in convention at Buffalo, N. Y., have re-elected Stanton E. Smith, of Chattanooga, to a third term as international vice-president.

Dr. George S. Counts goes back for his second term as president. In fact, the whole ticket of candidates headed by Dr. Counts were re-elected. Dr. Counts, it is remembered, visited Chattanooga not many months ago and made a fine impression on all those who met him and heard his address.

A significant feature of the election is the fact that those elements said to be slightly "red," if not actually communist, were utterly routed.

PUBLIC AID PAYMENTS DROP

Washington, D. C.—Total payments for public assistance and earnings of persons employed under federal work programs in the continental United States for June, 1940, amounted to $255,590,000, according to figures made public by the social security board. The total for June represented a decrease of about 7 per cent from the $274,806,000 total for May and a decrease of more than 16 per cent from the total for June, 1939, it was reported. Total payments for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1940, it was reported, amounted to $3,262,781,000, a decrease of approximately 13.1 per cent from the amount for 1938-39.

Proof Enough

"What caused you to think the prisoner was drunk?" a London magistrate inquired of the constable who had made the arrest.

"Well, sir," replied the constable, "I found him in Trafalgar Square, throwing his walking stick into the fountains, and urging the lions on Nelson's monument to go in after it."

Compulsory Training?

Last Monday we watched the American Legion boys parade and while observing the parade our temperature mounted rapidly.

We saw quite a few so-called Americans on the side-lines stand like wooden Indians, with their heads covered, while our Flag passed by. We watched several individuals throughout the procession, and not one time did they uncover, which indicates that they were either too dumb to know better or they just do not care.

This nation of ours is in for some serious times. We might have to actually fight for our homes and right to live as we see fit in a free democracy. Proper respect for Old Glory is in itself no small matter. If a citizenship does not feel a thrill as its flag passes by, that same citizenship will not stand the test when someone attempts to substitute another flag for the one we now uphold.

Were someone last Monday to have unfurled a flag with a swastika on it, he might have received bodily injuries. Were someone in Germany so inattentive as not to pay respect to the German emblem, he would be killed.

We suggest that compulsory training be given to those in America who show disrespect at this time. Hats remaining on the head while the flag goes by rightfully belong on the street, sent there by some rude and unfriendly hand.

If our citizens have not been trained in the schools, in the family and in the public the proper regard for the flag, we cannot be too quick in these perilous days to give such training.

Bakers' Scraps

Read an article this past week in the Newsweek that I thought was rather odd. The picture was pickets parading as ghosts with signs saying, "A Union Ghost Demands a Union Dug Grave and a Good Union Man Who Couldn't Rest in Peace in a Non-Union Cemetery." Explanation under the picture read as follows: Ghostly Pickets. . . To publicize their demands for wage increases and a closed shop, pickets of the CIO Cemetery Workers' union last week paraded as spooks before the Woodmere cemetery in Detroit. The strike, which started a fortnight ago, had already stopped burials.

It seems that the marriage license bureau is working overtime lately and I hope they are receiving time and one-half for overtime. Members of our organization that have married recently are: William Hampton, Hazel Smith, Bill Saunders, Bill Hodkins, Thomas Lovell, Bob Wallace, Bob Rhea and Mary Newell. Incidentally, all of the above named are employed at the Colonial bakery. I am told that George Stiles, Thomas Weathers and Evatt "Dynamite" Weathers are on the lookout for someone to take the fatal step with.

I am told that Jamie McCrory is getting up in years and some of his fellowworkers are wondering if he will still be eligible to see Uncle Sam.

* * *

Brother Alvin Neeley leaves for Chicago to attend the Bakers' school in a few days. We will be missing Brother Neeley at our meetings.

"The emancipation of the working class must be accomplished by the working class itself."

* * *

Received application for a new member at Tracy City, Brother Ershel Worley. We are glad to welcome this new member into our local and hope to be with the boys when Brother Worley is obligated into the local.

* * *

Attended the Pressmen's party last Saturday night at the labor hall. Sure had a swell time and won three games of bingo, which is a record for me. Everyone that wasn't there sure missed a good time.

An error was made in my column last week and I would like to take this opportunity to explain that it wasn't my fault and it must have been in the printing of it.

Regular meeting of the local Saturday, Aug. 24, at the labor hall on West Seventh street at 2 o'clock. Support your local union by your attendance. See you at the meeting.

St. John Labor Fights Tax Curb on Voting

St. John, N. B.—Organized labor has taken up the cudgels against a very obnoxious situation prevailing here for the last fifty years.

This involves the blacklisting from the polls in all civic elections of men and women who have not paid in full their taxes for the preceding fiscal year. Even though the taxes have been paid up to a few dollars of the total, a citizen is barred from voting. Exceptionally high taxes are imposed, including a personal income tax on all earning $300 a year and over, and a basic poll tax of $5. These are placed against persons not owning real estate or in business, as well as those holding realty or in business. It is nothing unusual for a tax bill of $50 for a year being received by a man or woman making $1,000 a year. Minor exemptions are given for children.

The exclusion of those without taxes paid in full has cut down the number of those voting to from one-third to one-half of the list and resulting in ridiculously small electoral totals, turning absolute control of the city over to those able to pay the huge taxation in cash promptly. The balance of the taxpayers have to pay in installments. Many are unable to keep on eevn footing with the demands of city hall and have not had the privilege of voting in from ten to thirty-five years.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY

announces that applications will be received for positions in connection with the construction of Watts Bar Steam Plant and other projects in East Tennessee in the fields of Skilled, Semi-Skilled and Unskilled Labor.

The work involved is heavy outdoor labor. Male citizens of all races who were living in Bradley, Hamilton, McMinn, Meigs, Monroe, or Rhea County, Tennessee, during the month of February, 1940, and who have reached their sixteenth birthday are eligible. Men who have had experience in construction work are especially urged to apply.

A copy of the official announcement and a TVA application (Form 5) and application copy (Form 5A) may be secured from any postoffice in the six listed counties except in Chattanooga, where they may be secured from the Personnel Office in the old Postoffice building. Applications to be considered must be placed in the mail so that they will be postmarked not later than Aug. 31, 1940.

If you are eligible for this work, but cannot secure an application and announcement from a postoffice in the area, write to the Tennessee Valley Authority, Workers' Recruitment Section, Knoxville, Tennessee, and ask for one.

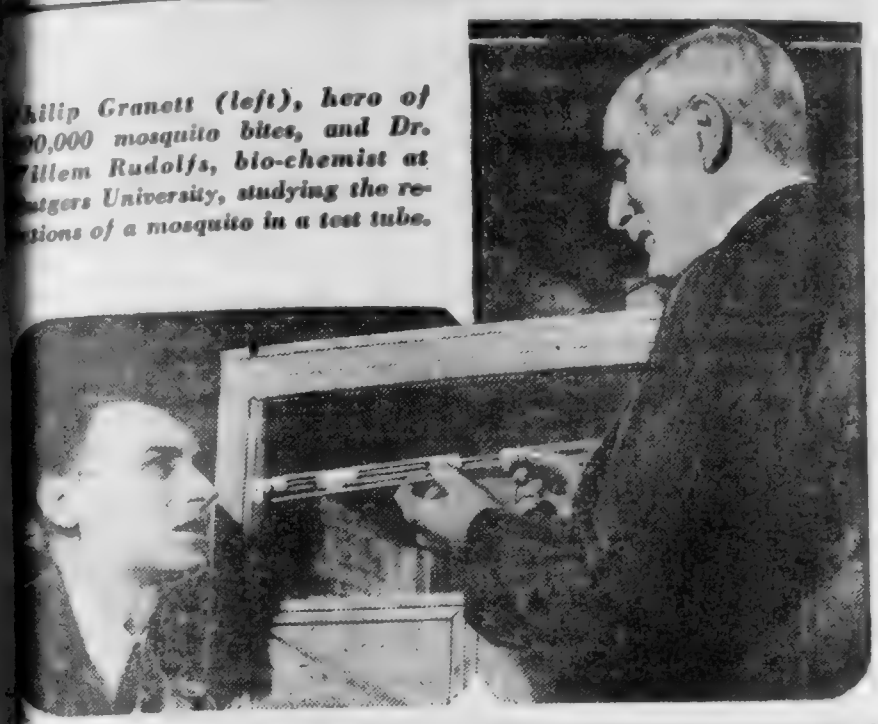
Hungry Mosquito's 'Horsepower' Latest Marvel of Insect World



Philip Granett (left), hero of 20,000 mosquito bites, and Dr. Willem Rudolfs, bio-chemist at Rutgers University, studying the reactions of a mosquito in a test tube.

HUNGRY mosquitoes on the hunt for someone to bite have many thousands of times the proportionate strength of a human being.

That is the conclusion of scientists at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., who have been studying mosquitoes for five years and have developed a lotion that keeps them from biting and enables people to escape insect annoyance.

In the course of their research the university staff discovered that mosquitoes will buck winds up to eight miles an hour in their efforts to reach a source of carbon dioxide that they detect on the air. Considering the difference in size between a man and a mosquito, the scientists point out that if a man had the relative strength of a mosquito he could stand up against a wind going several thousand miles an hour.

With that much proved, and carbon dioxide found to be the substance that enables mosquitoes to find someone to bite, the Rutgers investigators set to work in the opposite direction to discover what chemicals would keep the insects away. They tested hundreds of existing chemicals as well as many new ones that were especially created for them in the laboratories of the National Carbon Company, which cooperated in the work.

They have found a chemical combination that repels mosquitoes longer than any other. It is easy to use, harmless to the skin, and easy to remove. The new lotion has been known to keep mosquitoes away for as long as three hours with one application. It is also effective against gnats, black flies, beach flies, sand flies, deer flies, and chiggers.

Cement Workers Vote to Affiliate With the A. F. L.

Lees, Ala.—Cement workers employed by a subsidiary of the T. C. I. & R. Co. voted here last week to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor, the vote being 16 for A. F. of L. affiliation to 11 against. The election was held under direction of Alex Wilson, of NLRB. S. E. Roper, A. F. of L. representative and president of the Alabama Federation of Labor, assisted the workers in the campaign preceding the election.

Western Grain Company Signs Union Agreement

Birmingham, Ala.—An agreement was signed here on Aug. 15 between the Western Grain company and Local Union No. 22374 of the A. F. of L., which gives to the membership of this local union the highest rate of pay prevailing in any southeastern grain company's operations. The membership of the local union is made up entirely of colored men, and the Alabama State Federation of Labor and the Birmingham office of the A. F. of L. have expressed keen delight in able to render this valuable service to their negro ganizer, and S. E. Roper, in charge membership.

Hugh W. Brown, A. F. of L. organizer, and S. E. Roper, in charge of the Birmingham A. F. of L. office, assisted the local union committee in negotiating the agreement.

CIO Textile Local Votes To Come Into the UTWofA

Caroleen, N. C.—Membership of the CIO local union of Textile Workers here voted last Thursday night to surrender their charter in the CIO and apply for a charter in the United Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the A. F. of L. Gordon L. Chastain, president of the Southern Cotton Textile Federation, was here and advised the workers as to the proper methods to pursue in making this desired change of affiliation from the CIO to the A. F. of L.

Charter Installed for Local Of Utility Trailer Workers

Hunter, Ala.—Charter for Federal Labor Union No. 22413 was installed here last Friday night, giving to the employes of the Utility Trailer company an organization through which they can make advancement. R. R. Moore, of the Birmingham A. F. of L. office, and R. E. Roper, president of the Alabama State Federation of Labor, were here and had charge of the installation program. Officers were elected and 100 per cent attendance was noted. Officers of the Montgomery Central Labor union attended the meeting and pledged support to the new local union.

Lowest average hourly earnings were found in the production of dresses wholesaling by the dozen. In this field union organization has taken place only in recent years, and slightly more than one-third of the firms scheduled had union shops. Figures are cited to show that earnings of union workers in the same area are generally higher than those of the non-union worker. For example, in the women's unit-priced dress field, union workers in New Jersey, New York City, upstate New York and Illinois averaged from 28.3 to 33.5 an hour more than employes in unorganized shops.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

PARASITIC INDUSTRIES

By DR. CHARLES STEL ZLE

" is the name usually a plant or animal that r on some other organ-which it derives nour-
But the name may be applied to certain kinds of organizations which exist only because they attach themselves to other organizations, as a result of which they are given standing or even life itself. Naturally, they themselves not only fail to make a contribution to others, but as a rule they are a distinct detriment—or worse.

Such, for example, is an industry in the community which is not self-supporting. It remains alive only because healthy industries are giving of their life-blood to maintain it. An industry is not self-supporting unless it pays a living wage. Such an industry not only deprives workers of a living while they are employed, but it becomes a charge on the community and on other legitimate industries which, in the last analysis, are compelled to take care of the derelicts — the cast-off workers — of these pirate enterprises. Whenever a new business seeks to establish itself in any city, it should be compelled to make a complete statement as to its standards of working conditions and wages paid, and if it comes up to the requirements, it will be worth something for it to be given a clean bill of health.

Every city owes it to those who are trying to be fair to the workers and to the public to protect them from business pirates and parasites, and every new business enterprise that expects to profit by the city's reputation and accumulated values—social, economic, and commercial — should be compelled to give a guarantee that it will not selfishly lower standards or degrade working conditions.

It is absurd for anybody to insist that he has the right to come into a long and well established community and take off the cream, leaving only skimmed milk for those who paid the cost of getting the cream. And yet there are individuals who claim an inherent right to conduct any kind of an enterprise they please, pay what they please, and run their affairs as they please, regardless of what such action may do to the general prosperity of the community.

In the larger industries commissions should be appointed to standardize working conditions for the entire industry, either locally or nationally. Many of these industries are already well organized, but the purpose of the organization is almost entirely defensive—that is, to protect members from labor union demands and from unfriendly legislation and similar matters, which have to do purely with their own commercial interests. But such action is mostly negative. It doesn't go far enough.

There should be constructive action which would include human and social relationships, and which may help raise such standards in all other industries. This would benefit industry as a whole as well as all workers. If this were done, there would soon be no room in any community for an industry that declines to pay a living wage or maintain fair standards.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Draft Bill

The battle over the conscription bill continued this week to hold the stage in the Senate. The issue is expected to be clarified somewhat by the Willkie acceptance speech, in which he is slated to state his position on this question.

Members of Congress generally recognize that conscription is the surest, fairest, and most effective way to secure the necessary man power for our defense, yet there are many political angles, and so much opposition, that many members are reluctant to face the issue.

Under the voluntary system, a few states are furnishing most of the recruits. As an example, during the past six months Texas, with a population of 6,000,000, contributed 6,500 enlistments, while New York, with her 12,000,000 population, contributed only 5,500 recruits.

Congress, in passing on the conscription bill, will keep in mind that the lives of the people should be disturbed just as little as possible in our defense plans. At the same time it is recognized that our country must be fully protected; that we must have an adequate army, and a navy second to none. In this swift moving time, when new methods of warfare are springing up almost daily, we must remain on the alert and be prepared before the enemy strikes.

A continuation of the horrible and murderous bombing of Britain should and probably will hasten an early decision in favor of a compulsory military training law.

House Has Busy Week

Early this week the House approved the transportation bill. This bill is designed to assist and give fair treatment to the railroads. It places the water carriers under the regulation of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The bill requires the commission, in making regulations and fixing rates, to recognize the natural and inherent advantages of the various types of transportation. Water carriers are not unfairly affected by the bill.

After two days of debate, the House passed the bill authorizing the President to call out the national guard. The biggest fight was on whether their activities should be confined to the continental United States or to the Western Hemisphere. The House decided that the reecnt definition of the Monroe Doctrine, and the act of Havana, gave us an obligation to defend the Western Hemisphere, and very properly rejected the proposal that the activity of the guard be limited to the continental territory of this nation.

Bases in the Caribbean

President Roosevelt has not as yet revealed the details of the negotiations concerning establishment of United States naval and air bases on the British isles in the Caribbean sea, but the fact that such discussions are taking place is of great significance.

It cannot be too often stated that the Panama Canal is the keystone of our defense system. Protection of the canal so as to permit the navy to operate in either the Pacific or the Atlantic oceans is the first essential of our national security. Consequently, the British isles in the Caribbean are of the most vital interest to the United States. Likewise, the conferences taking place between Mr. McKenzie King, minister of Canada, and President Roosevelt concerning a mutual defense policy are of much importance. Any rights that Canada may give this country to build or use naval bases will contribute to her defense as well as ours.

No official announcement has been made relative to the rumor that this country will trade a number of old destroyers for permission to install military bases in Canada, and on the Caribbean islands, but some agreement of that kind may be worked out. Britain is in great need of the destroyers. They might turn the tide of war in her favor. That being true it seems that solely from the viewpoint of our defense, the destroyers should be sold or traded to Britain. There is much sentiment for doing this.

The Cherry Tree Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

Things may pop in Mexico, soon. Civil war there appears better than 50-50 probability, persons familiar with Mexican conditions think.

With civil war in Mexico, United States attention would center on the border states—see on the map the long. Texas - Arizona stretch.

One of the biggest indications of approaching storm: Luis N. Morones, chief of C.R.O.M, Mexican right wing labor movement, was in Washington for conferences with William Green, in Green's capacity as president of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, of which Morones is vice-president.

While in Washington for these discussions, revolving around Pan-American labor problems, Morones was notified by telegraph and telephone from Mexico City that his offices and his home had been thoroughly searched by fifty political police. That is tip off to those who know Mexico that if civil war is averted it will be a miracle.

Morones is the outstanding supporter of Juan Andreau Almazan, anti-Cardenas candidate for presidency. He claims 90 per cent of votes in recent election were for Almazan, but were not counted.

Upon receipt of information about the raids, Morones promptly wired President Cardenas saying he was informed as to happenings and was returning at once to place himself at the disposal of the "proper authorities," in order to prevent "recurrence" of such acts. He flew at once to Mexico.

Coincident with the raids, Almazan broadcast by short wave from Havana to Mexico, saying he would return to Mexico in time for meeting of Congress, pledging "duly elected" Congress would meet. This means rival congresses.

The raid on Morones' headquarters and home is the clearest indication yet of Cardenas' determination to insure seating of his candidate, Avila Camacho and of outlook for definite civil war south of the Rio Grande.

It can be said flatly that there are preparations for it on both sides, but how extensive is another matter. Problematical how long war might last, because attitude of the army is problematical. So is the attitude of some twelve divisions of troops trained by C. T. M., left wing labor movement under Lombardo Toledano, who plays ball with John L. Lewis.

Uncertainty exists also as to the air force and which side it would support in a civil war. Indications are that at least a goodly part of the armed forces would go with Almazan.

It is extremely unlikely that the large German population, much of it well organized for Trojan horse operations, would remain neutral. The best bet is that Nazi-Communist strategists would back Cardenas-Camacho side.

With fire in Mexico, there is no telling what other Latin American developments may follow, nor with what consequences to United States and to United States industry as it speeds up defense production.

"In all its phases, the social security act has been a bulwark of the American family and the American home, a stabilizing influence on our economic system, and a powerful safeguard against subversive forces that would undermine our political institutions. Above all, the law represents for all of us teh proud expression of our faith in the ways of democracy in combating the ever-present enemies of poverty and insecurity in our midst."—Senator Robert F. Wagner, New York.

There are a few things that never go out of style, and a feminine woman is one of them—Jobyna Ralston.

TEACHER TALK

Buffalo, N. Y.—

Some excerpts from the addresses of President William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and Dr. George S. Counts, president of the A. F. of T., at the opening sessions of the teachers' convention now in progress.

William Green:

"The organized labor movement can neither flirt with nor tolerate any other 'ism' in America but Americanism."

"If there is one union that ought to make a declaration for American principles, for loyalty to the public schools, for the Declaration of Independence and for our own country against all others, it is this union."

Dr. George S. Counts:

"The crowning responsibility of our profession is to assist and guide the young in fashioning a great vision of the future of our country—the vision of guarding here in North America the human gains of the centuries during a possible age of darkness; of devoting the resources of science and technology to the creation of a civilization founded on justice and mercy; of building that ancient City of God where no man exploits his brother—a vision that is as universal as the affirmations of the Declaration of Independence, as American as the spirit of Gettysburg, as liberal as the Bill of Rights, as realistic and practical as the Federal Constitution. . . .

"In meeting this challenge of the dictators, the teachers of the country, and chiefly the American Federation of Teachers, have a heavy and special responsibility and we must take our stand on two crucial questions.

"First, we must recognize the necessity of powerful military defenses, defenses capable of protecting our independence and our institutions from any possible attack by foreign arms.

"Second, we must make clear beyond any doubt that we are utterly opposed to every form of totalitarian movement and doctrine, including both those that have been imported from abroad and those that grow out of our own soil and cloak the totalitarian spirit with the garb of Americanism."

ges Safeguards

"If it becomes apparent that providing for compul-
ry service is necessary
such legislation should embody provisions which would adequately protect the economic and industrial status of working men and women. The following stipulations and safeguards should be incorporated therein:

"First of all, working men and women whose services may be given to our country should be assured that they will not be called upon individually or collectively to engage in a foreign war or to be sent abroad to become involved in foreign wars. An absolute guarantee should be accorded them that their services would be used only for home defense, for the protection of the Western Hemisphere, our homes, our homeland and our governmental institutions.

"Secondly, the positions of workers must be protected. They should be guaranteed a return to the positions they occupy after they have served the time required for military training as may be required by law.

"Thirdly, the compensation allowed, while engaged in military training, should be sufficient to provide for the maintenance of a standard of living approximating that already established for those dependent upon them.

"The American Federation of Labor will give support to compulsory military training service legislation when such action becomes necessary in order to defend, protect and preserve America.

For Voluntary Enlistment

"However, in providing an adequate army for defensive purposes the American way should be followed first. A voluntary enlistment program should be launched by the government designed to create an army of 1,500,000 men. This would be putting voluntary action before compulsion. American labor would respond to such a program whole-heartedly and enthusiastically."

New Contract Won By Birmingham Traction Workers

Birmingham, Ala.—Signing of a contract between the Birmingham Electric company and the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America ended a forty-eight-hour strike which tied up street car and bus transportation in this city of 270,000 population.

The contract provided for a 10 per cent wage increase for 106 Negro employes of the company's maintenance department and gave the Amalgamated members seniority rights.

The tie-up began when 600 motormen and conductors refused to pass through picket lines formed by striking Negro maintenance men. They decided to strike when their negotiators failed to agree with the Birmingham Electric company over terms of a new contract.

Massachusetts Federation of Labor Backs Roosevelt and Draft

Boston.—The annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor declared in favor of a third term for President Roosevelt and rejected a resolution opposing conscription. The convention voted 411 to 8 for support of Roosevelt.

Heated debate preceded adoption of the resolution, and at one point, Walter Camerazzo of the Boston seafood handlers' local was shouted down when he inquired whether only one man was qualified for the presidency and announced that he intended to vote for Wendell Willkie.

The resolution opposing conscription was beaten by a vote of 259 to 8. The convention acted after Harry A. Russell, chairman of the resolutions committee, asserted, in opposing the measure, that the attitude on conscription of the Moscow government and that of Communists in the United States were at wide variance.

He told the delegates that it was "the distinct policy of the Moscow government to favor conscription," while "the policy of the Communist party in America is against conscription."

"Think that over," he said. "Let's not kid ourselves. I don't want history to say that the American labor moveemnt stymied and hindered the defense of democracy."

Logical

Pat, a truck driver, stopped suddenly on the highway. The car behind crashed into the truck and its owner sued the Irishman.

"Why didn't you hold out your hand?" the judge asked Pat.

"Well," he said, indignantly, "if he couldn't see the truck, how in hivin's name could he see my hand?"

Labor day is the greatest business asset in the world. Enthusiasm [illegible] race prejudice and opposition, class action, storms [illegible] object and, like an irresistible force, overwhelms and engulfs [illegible].

QUOTES

Support

"There have been few times in the past when the Red Cross could hardly be said to deserve the support of organized labor. This is not one of those times. It is doing a great humanitarian work in wartorn Europe, and those of us who have been spared the horrors of war; those of us who are still able to enjoy the security of our homes and the liberties of a great democracy should do everything within our power to aid in this work.—Railway Clerk, Brotherhood of Railway [illegible]

Three

"At a time when the eyes of the world are focused on tragic events abroad, it is more than ever necessary that American social workers should call attention to problems at home. Difficult as it is to keep attention focused here, we cannot escape the threat to democratic institutions which lies in the existence of widespread unemployment and stark need in our country.—Walter West, executive secretary, American Association of Social Workers.

Plumbers' Picnic At Winnepesaukah Was Huge Success

Culinary Workers Served Barbecue and Fried Fish—Annual Affair for Members and Guests.

Local 43, Plumbers and Steamfitters, had a big time at Lake Winnepesaukah last Saturday, when they held the annual barbecue and picnic for members and their families, with some invited guests.

The barbecue was prepared by Dave Jones, member of Local 226, an old hand at the game. And the food was served by four members of Culinary Workers, with Beulah Oyler presiding at the large pan of sizzling grease to cook crisp portions of fish.

The committee on arrangements was R. V. Payne, H. H. Kelly, Hugh Malone, Ed Bork, Jr., Earl Shaw and Joe Dobbs.

MEAT CUTTERS WIN PAY RAISE

San Mateo, Calif.—A $1 weekly wage increase with a $42 minimum and paid vacations were gained by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen here in a new agreement signed with the Peninsula Retaily Meat Dealers' association.

N. Y. City Witnessed First Labor Day Fete

The first celebration of Labor day was held in New York City on Sept. 5, 1882, under the sponsorship of the Central Labor union. The celebration began with a parade of the affiliated unions, which was reviewed at Union Square by a large number of labor leaders, and ended with a big picnic and festival in Elm Park. P. J. McGuire, founder of Labor day, was among those who reviewed the parade.

National Labor Day Law Sponsored by A. F. of L.

Test of Loyalty to Union Cause Should Attract 6,000 Marchers

Every unionist is expected to parade on the night of Labor day! That night will be a test of the loyalty of our membership. It will be the test before the public to show our strength. If we fail to turn out in our full strength, it will appear to those who do not know that we do not have a good labor movement in this city.

And a good showing on that night might convince certain employers that it will not pay to attempt to destroy us.

On the other hand, a weak showing could encourage people to pick on us, which would mean unnecessary fighting to defend our organization.

Every union member and auxiliary member are to report on Long street (near Main) the night of Monday, Sept. 2, about 6:30 or 7 p.m., to get in line for the parade which is to start at 7:30. Look for a sign on Long street which will [illegible] your union will form to be ready to "fall in" when the parade starts.

There will be 7,000 or more in our part of the parade if YOU come out.

Special Services For Labor Sunday At Hurst's Church

Pilgrim Congregational Church Gives Invitation to Trades Unionists Sept. 1.

Rev. Alfred W. Hurst, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, at Main and Lindsay streets, has issued a special invitation to all union unionists and families to worship with him on Labor Sunday, Sept. 1.

This is a particular invitation to [illegible] labor, he explains, and he is hoping that all will accept his courtesy by attending. Rev. Hurst is most sympathetic with the cause of labor in our community, and his message will be of special value.

Time of service is 10:55 o'clock.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF TEACHERS UNION CONDEMNS TOTALITARIAN TENDENCIES

Resolution Denouncing Communism, Naziism and Fascism Passes by Overwhelming Vote.

Faced with the present national emergency arising out of the international crisis the American Federation of Teachers in convention last week stated in no uncertain terms the stand it takes on the questions provoked by the rise of totalitarian forms of government in Europe and the infiltration of such ideas here in our own country. The following resolution was adopted by an overwhelming vote after some debate that involved only the question of wording:

Whereas, Recent world events have brought into sharper focus than ever before the dangers inherent in the policies and practices of totalitarianism, and the benefits and blessings of democracy, and

Whereas, The constitution of the American Federation of Teachers states that "we believe in democracy," and

Whereas, The American Federation of Teachers wishes to be more definite, both in advocating the democratic way and in equivocally opposing totalitarianism and all totalitarian tendencies and groups at home and abroad.

Be It Resolved, That we reaffirm and support as the objects and foundation of democratic government:

1. The continuation for all people of "certain inalienable rights with which they are endowed—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

2. The principle and practice that governments derive "their just powers from the consent of the governed."

3. Freedom of the press and radio, freedom of speech to all the people, and freedom of public assembly.

4. The civil liberties guaranteed to individuals by our government and the extension of such liberties.

5. Free trade unions.

6. A multiple party system whereby the wishes of the people are expressed and carried into action.

And that we unequivocally condemn and utterly oppose any government abroad or any group in our midst which practices or advocates:

1. The denial of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" to all the people.

2. Dictatorship and a condition of life wherein the individual subject to the will of the state or the dictator thereof without recourse to law.

3. Government controlled and dictated press and radio, and the denial of free speech and free public assembly.

California Lemon Workers, Turning Against Near-Slavery Existence, Organize to Better Conditions

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Revelations of near-slavery among workers in the lemon growing industry of Ventura county have caused a sensation here and led to a demand by social and welfare workers for remedial action.

The exploited workers have at last revolted against their unbearable lot and as a result, a strong union affiliated with the American Federation is now being organized.

Commenting on the situation, the Union Labor News of this city said:

"Two big products of Ventura county are sugar and lemons.

"Sugar is sweet. The industry is organized, conditions are unionized, decent, American, civilized.

"Lemons are sour, and a sorry, sour condition of life and livelihood prevails throughout the lemon industry."

"Ventura county has conditions much worse than those pictured in 'The Grapes of Wrath,'" said one organizer reporting to Ventura Central Labor Council. "These people have been dominated and imposed upon for years because of their inexperience and lack of knowledge concerning better conditions.

"Unbelievable situations have been disclosed by investigation and inquiry. An illustration is the fact that large groups of these people are locked up in stockades at night because their employers do not want them out mingling with others, learning too much, and they do not want outsiders to come in.

"Deductions from their pitifully small wages are preposterous, and this and other conditions are being investigated by the proper authorities. For instance, for water from a faucet in the front yard, none of it piped into the houses or shacks, these people pay $2.75 a month.

Must Pay for Schooling

"They are forced to pay $1 a month for each child for schooling. How they get away with this is hard to understand, since we are supposed to have free schooling in this country.

"What some of these beautiful citrus groves hide, in the way of chicken-coop houses, stockades, and miserable wages and working conditions, is pitiful, damnable, and difficult to believe.

"An organization has been started among these people in the A. F. of L., chartered union, Agricultural and Citrus Workers.

Union Makes Good Start

"The ice has been broken. There are more than 500 applications now out for membership in the new union. The worst is over, and the union now has a good, strong foothold that is not going to be shaken loose by any sort of maneuvering of an employer or employer group. As these maneuverings arise we will expose them for what they are, simply an attempt to stop organization and improvement of wages and conditions in an industry that is rich in profits and able to pay far better than it has in the past."

h St. Elmo Baptist Church Say Ziegler's Unionism Is Manifestation of Christ's Work.

Several weeks ago Lawyer C. A. Noone, representing the Crane Enameling company, then on strike, made a vicious attack on the character of Frank Ziegler, molder representative and also pastor of the South St. Elmo Baptist church. Mr. Noone, in his zeal to smear anyone partaking of union beliefs, let his brush make very wide sweeps, and said that Brother Ziegler preached Christ on Sunday and hatred during the week. (Mr. Noone did not say whether he ever did any preaching himself.).

However, the board of deacons of the South St. Elmo Baptist church say that Rev. Frank Ziegler is not the kind of man Mr. Noone so kindly and benignly described, but that Ziegler is carrying on the works of Christ.

They drew up a formal resolution expressing their confidence in their pastor, which says:

"We, the board of deacons of the South St. Elmo Baptist church in special session, strongly deplore the attack on our pastor, Rev. E. Frank Ziegler, as carried in the daily press.

"Rev. Ziegler has been our pastor for six years. We know him to be a loyal disciple of Christ. We know his heart to be sincerely filled with love for his fellowmen. We know that his activities in behalf of organized labor are genuine manifestations of his attempt to carry on Christ's work here on earth as he believed Christ would have him to do.

"Speaking in behalf of the members of the South St. Elmo Baptist church, we wish it known to the people and to all concerned that we have entire faith and confidence in Rev. Ziegler and that we are solidly with him in his efforts to improve the lot of man while here on earth.

"It is our belief that if the Christian people of this community would take a greater interest in the everyday welfare of their fellowmen as Christ and His disciples did during their lifetime that this would be a better community in which to live. Rev. Ziegler is doing this every waking moment of his life.

"Be it further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon our church minutes and a copy be sent to each daily newspaper with a request to print it.

Labor Day Laws Enacted In Forty-eight States

Between 1887 and 1923 every one of the forty-eight states, as well as the territories, insular possessions and the District of Columbia, enacted laws making Labor day a legal state holiday.

The first state law was enacted by Oregon in 1887; the legislature designated the first Saturday in June as Labor day, but later changed the date to the first Monday in September. Other states enacting similar legislation in 1887 were Colorado, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York. Wyoming completed the roll by enacting a Labor day law in 1923.

VICTORY AT LAST FOR GODCHAUX SUGAR WORKERS

Reserve, Ala.—One of the most hotly contested labor board elections ever held was that held here last week when the employes of the Godchaux Sugar company voted for the American Federation of Labor as bargaining agency for the workers. A company union had long been in existence here, and everything that cunning, scheming minds could plan was done to keep the workers from voting for the A. F. of L.

Ed Long, A. F. of L. organizer in the Birmingham office, has been here for a long time, working among the employes. He has been threatened with every dire calamity, from slow death to burning at the stake, in efforts to run him out of this section. He just smiled and stayed on. It is said of many here that Ed Long does not know the meaning of the word "fear."

The vote resulted: 427 for the A. F. of L., 344 for the "council," No. Union, 43, and 27 challenged votes.

A. F. of L. officials throughout the south consider this victory one of the greatest ever won for labor south of the Mason and Dixon line.

New South Motor Express Lines Signs With the Union

Atlanta, Ga.—J. T. Odum, business agent for Local Union No. 728, Teamsters and Chauffeurs, announces the signing of a union agreement between the local and the New South Motor Express lines. Twenty-five weeks ago members of this union and the management of the New South failed to reach an agreement on vital issues, and aa strike was called. Signing of the union contract last week ended these hostilities, the men have returned to work, and the very best of spirit is said to prevail all over the lines covered by the New South.

Under the agreement a strict union contract is obtained for all workers in the Atlanta terminal and on all lines running into and out of this terminal. The union is recognized as the sole bargaining agency for all such employes, and arbitration, seniority rights and all standard provisions are embraced within the agreement.

Mr. Odom wishes to express to labor everywhere the sincere gratitude of the local union for the support given the men whole on the 25 weeks' strike. The international union paid $5,920 in strike benefits during the period, while the unions throughout the country contributed a large amount. Now that everything is settled and work resumed, it is believed that the local union will make progress and the company will prosper through the mutual good feelings and co-operation that a union agreement always creates.

AFL Unions Win Shop Pact On Dam Project

Fresno, Calif.—Following months of negotiation, American Federation of Labor building trades unions scored a big gain when contractors on the $15,000,000 Friant dam agreed to a union shop contract covering approximately 1,000 men.

Terms of the contract between the unions and the two contractors include wage increases for many classifications of construction workers, the eight-hour day, five-day week, double time for overtime, and the stipulation that all work by subcontractors must be performed under union shop conditions. It runs for the life of the job.

Fourteen American Federation of Labor unions are affected by the agreement, which will continue until the completion of the project, scheduled for early in 1943.

Each craft is recognized as sole bargaining agent for all work coming under its jurisdiction. The unions agreed there will be no interruption of work because of jurisdictional disputes, which are to be settled according to rules of the A. F. of L. building trades department, and no stoppage for other reasons. A complete schedule of wage rates for all classifications constitutes part of the agreement.

Textile Local Switches From CIO to AFL

Caroleen, N. C.—Membership of the C. I. O. local union of Textile Workers here voted to surrender their charter in the C. I. Victory for Labor Day Law Noted by Gompers

The victory of the American Federation of Labor in securing enactment of the Labor day law by congress was noted by President Samuel Gompers in his report to the 1894 A. F. of L. convention. He said:

"National Labor Day.—It affords me pleasure to be able to report that the demand made by the American Federation of Labor for making the first Monday in September of each year a legal holiday passed Congress and was made a law on June 28, 1894."

No matter who you are for, if you are a good citizen you will qualify yourself to VOTE in all elections.

You have until Sept. 6 to pay your poll tax so you can vote in the presidential election in November.

LABOR DAY PROGRAMS BEING GIVEN FINAL ADJUSTMENTS

Atlanta, Ga.—"I am swamped," said George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, when asked about speakers for Labor day.

"I am frantic," said Frank P. Fenton, in Washington, when called upon for more Labor day speakers.

Both of these A. F. of L. officials had reference to the unprecedented programs and requests for Labor day speakers throughout the south and from all cities and centers in the United States, and the promise that Labor day this year will eclipse in activities, attendance and interesting programs all such events in all past history of the labor movement. Both Mr. Googe and Mr. Fenton are working overtime in efforts to provide speakers for all occasions, and have expressed the hope that they will be able to make satisfactory arrangements for all events.

Cement Workers Vote To Join the A. F. of L.

Lees, Ala.—Cement workers employed by a subsidiary of the T. C. I. & R. Co., voted here last week to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor, the vote being 116 for A. F. of L. affiliation to 11 against. The eelction was held under direction of Alex Wilson of NLRB.

NOTICE!

The Chattanooga Vocational High School congratulates the Tennessee Valley Authority on its achievements in the Tennessee Valley and especially as regards Chickamauga Dam, because the school feels it had a small part in this, in training men on this project, as TVA enrollments averaged from 100 to 300 in the school during entire time Dam was under construction.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

The school facilities are now being used twenty-four hours per day in training for National Defense. After September 9 the morning-hour shift will be discontinued, on account of regular day school, but the second and third shifts will continue as at present.

REGULAR DAY SCHOOL

On September 9, our regular day school will open and anyone over fourteen years of age who wishes to prepare for a job may enroll if pupil can profit by training offered.

EVENING SCHOOL

We are now organizing related technical classes and will start a class at any time if fifteen people request, and we will make a special drive for all adult-evening classes, including Related Technical, Distributive Education, Regular Academic, Commercial, and Home Economics during week of September 15 to 20. On September 23 and 24 all evening classes will begin, and meet on Monday and Wednesday, and Tuesday and Thursday nights. There will also be groups of classes organized on Saturday if working people want them.

Labor Day Made Legal Holiday by Congress

The law making the first day in September of each year a legal holiday was enacted by Congress in 1894. Identical bills to this effect were introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative Amos J. Cummings of New York City, and in the Senate by Senator James H. Kyle of South Dakota. The bill passed both houses unanimously and was signed by President Grover Cleveland on June 28, 1894.

Wage Act "Hot Goods" Clause Used

New York.—The wage and hour division invoked the so-called "hot goods" clause of the fair labor standards act prohibiting the shipment or sale in interstate commerce of goods produced in violation of the act in a complaint filed in the federal district court here against a company manufacturing ladies underwear, pajamas and handkerchiefs, with offices in New York and a plant in the island city of Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

The complaint asks a permanent injunction restraining the shipment and sale in interstate commerce of thousands of dozens of these articles alleged to have been manufactured in Puerto Rico in violation of the act, many of the home workers having received wages of less than 5 cents an hour and no overtime for hours worked in excess of forty-four a week or two hours per week.

True Aim—

The true aim of dictators, one might say, is to get citizens to listen to the right people. Demagogues, for example, are the right people. Often they are listened to. But on the whole, in the last analysis the common people have done pretty well. Demagogues do not seem to last long and no man who has made a bid for dictatorial power in the United States has stood up long enough to achieve his aim. In the end Americans may even learn to listen to their prophets.—Textile Workers' Journal.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Women auxiliary members should be on the alert for changing methods of applying the union label and they should be clear in their understanding of the various new stamps applied to some goods, for state, city and other tax purposes, so as to avoid confusion between union labels and others.

The union label is the guide to purchasing in thousands of homes. In five years the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union alone has issued something over fifteen million labels, which indicates that there is a tremendous amount of union label buying.

Every auxiliary member should be able to expound to other women buyers the meaning of the union label in terms of better living conditions and the safeguarding of democracy through the most thoroughly organized democratic expression in the United States—the labor movement.

Women do the great bulk of purchasing for the home, even including the purchasing of men's clothes and a knowledge of the meaning of the union label in all of its phases is the utmost importance.

To those who wish to fit themselves especially for promoting union label buying can always get help from the Union Label Trades Department of the A. F. of L.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKING

Furniture that is worth repainting is worth modernizing also. Remove out-dated handles on dressers, replace with modern ones. Gingerbread scrolls can sometimes be removed leaving a plain smooth surface. Throw away the frame and hang the mirror above the dresser separately.

Modernize old tables and chairs by lowering the legs.

Hepplewhite, probably the greatest chair designer the world has ever known, was a true artist as well as a designer. His famous chair designs are the shield, oval and bearback, carved with the Prince of Wales eather, wheat-ear and honeysuckle motifs. His favorite wood was mahogany.

PANTRY PALAVER

Chef's hints: Beef that turns from dark red to very bright red after it is cut does so because of exposure to the air, and not because of any change of quailty.

Greens: When cooking greens place in an uncovered saucepan. Cook over a very slow fire with just the water that clings to the leaves from washing.

To pan greens melt fat in a skillet, add the chopped greens. Cover to keep in the steam and cook slowly until done. Sprinkle with a small amount of flour, mix well and add milk or cream and seasonings.

Long boiling in much water increases the vitamin destruction and loses much of the minerals.

Adding soda will heighten the color of green vegetables, but will increase the loss of vitamin C and B.

Save the water in which vegetables have been cooked to be used as liquids for soups. If vegetables are sieved while hot there will be less danger of losing vitamins.

Garnishes: Salted whipped cream cream is good on soups that have definite color and flavor. Sprinkle the cream with paprika, chopped celery leaves, chopped parsley, or minced chives.

Popped corn is a pleasant surprise to float on top of cream of corn soup.

Croutons, made by browning cubes of dry bread in deep fat or in the oven are another favorite addition.

BABY TALK

All children fight naturally, no in anger, but as a form of play. It is up to the parents and teachers to show them how to fight fairly, and not to claw and bite as wild animals. Children should be taught the art of fighting. Although it is not proper to teach the child that fighting is the only means of settling problems, but as a means of self-protection so that they will not be knocked down in this rough and tumble world.

Conciliation Service Report

Washington—The United States Conciliation Service disposed of 373 situations involving 327,725 workers in June, Secretary of Labor Perkins reports. Of these situations, 253 were strikes, threatened strikes, lockouts, and controversies, involving 321,575 workers. The facilities of the service were used in twenty-six major industrial fields, such as building trades, and the manufacture of foods, iron and steel, textiles, etc., in thirty-six states, Alaska, and the District of Columbia.

Wages and Farm Surpluses

Rising wages would be a big aid to agriculture, the American Federation of Labor current survey of business points out. The federation gives the following specific example of how a 10 per cent pay raise for lower income workers would help:

"The war has virtually cut off American exports to the continent of Europe. Normally American farmers export $800,000,000 of products, largely to these great markets now closed. Of our cotton and flue-cured tobacco, 50 per cent normally goes to foreign markets, 30 to 40 per cent of our prunes, raisins and winter pears.

"Our low-income workers cannot buy all they need of these products; surpluses are piling up. Judging from the amount of cotton normally bought by low-income families, a 10 per cent wage increase to all families with less than $1,500 would create a market for $76,000,000 of cotton goods. This would use about 9 per cent of the cotton surplus due to closed markets and also create an important market for surplus tobacco and foods."

What the federation says puts the spotlight on the strategic place of rising wages in the farm prosperity picture and is a convincing argument for farmer support of higher wage levels.

State Wage-Hour Laws Needed

Lack of a state wage and hour law is creating a "sweat-shop condition" for workers in industries not covered by the Federal wage-hour law, Thomas B. Morton, Virginia Commissioner of Labor, pointed out.

He said that one side of the street are flour mills, paper mills, furniture factories, cotton and textiles industries and other firms whose products are classed under interstate commerce. Their employes, by Federal law, receive a minimum of 30 cents an hour and time and a half for overtime if they work more than 42 hours a week.

On the other side of the street, he said, are laundries, cleaning and pressing establishments, retail stores and all others of the intrastate classification, definitely untouched by Federal regulation. Their employes have no wage minimum and only the women have an hours maximum, thanks to a Virginia state hours law for women.

Commissioner Morton was speaking of the situation in Virginia but his remarks apply equally as forcibly to every state which lacks state wage and hour legislation. Such state legislation will supplement and make truly effective the Federal wage-hour law.

Preventing Sudden Death

National Safety Council, which knows a lot about the cause of auto accidents, offers four good suggestions for cutting down the holiday and vacation traffic toll. They're worth remembering by everyone, including veteran drivers. If universally followed, they'd prevent a lot of agony, expense and sudden death. Here they are:

1. Check your car before a trip—especially tires, brakes and steering apparatus.
2. Take it easy on the road. Start in plenty of time. Don't speed or take chances in passing.
3. Don't drive if you drink.
4. Don't take anything for granted at railroad crossings, intersections and side roads.

Saving Democracy at Home

The European nations are fighting each other for their survival. We have more complex battles to fight. We must fight against social and economic decline. The American people can avoid the fate of Europe only if a thousand voices in congress rise only as they now rise to add their voices to the protection of a constructive war of fire. Howard Pierce Davis.

The Fight on Defense Housing

Senator Wagner's proposal for appropriation of $100,000,000 for housing of defense workers in cities where new housing is found to be needed has been apparently effectually blocked by action of the senate appropriations committee in changing the proposal to provide only temporary housing or barracks on army posts or reservations. The committee, in effect, took the position that workers in defense industries must do without new housing, if publicly provided, no matter how urgently needed.

Well informed Washington observers suspect that the defeat of the Wagner proposal, which was vigorously championed by army and navy officials, the American Federation of Labor and others, is tied up with the underground fight that has been going on in the House of Representatives the past year against the United States Housing Authority. Representative Albert M. Gore of Tennessee, the leader in this drive, has been touring the country going on in the House of Repreesntatives the past loan leagues, chambers of commerce and the like.

Gore was responsible for the circulation last winter in the house of material designed to smear the slum clearance program of the USHA on the ground that in four USHA projects in northern cities where Negro and white workers normally live in adjoining buildings that this custom has been continued in publicly operated projects. The special point of the Gore attack on the USHA program is the subsidies that the low rents [illegible] which public housing experts say [illegible] by experience all over the world [illegible] means whereby rents can be [illegible] enough to enable really poor people [illegible] and decent homes.

Labor has been pointing out that decent housing is vital to effective defense production. It is revealed that enemies of public housing have blocked provision of decent dwellings for defense workers there is likely to be an explosion of public wrath that will surprise certain people and interests.

MYRON RUBEY CONGRATULATES LAB

Mr. Myron Rubey, manager for Kay Jewelry company, [illegible] President V. W. Hallmark, of Central Body, that Chattanooga [illegible] tunate in having such a splendid set-up in organized labor [illegible] that Chattanooga's labor problems were being wisely handled [illegible] the community owes us thanks for our loyalty and co-operati[illegible]

We Are Ready

Another Labor day is on us, and with it we are faced [illegible] situation that is more fraught with danger than in the [illegible] most living people. That danger is one that concerns the safety of our nation, as well as the safety of our own labor [illegible]

To make matters worse, it is possible that the safety of [illegible] will be twisted around by our enemies to be used to [illegible] their own ends.

First and foremost, we will fight to defend this country. We will make any sacrifice that is necessary to keep Hitler [illegible] from our shores. But we do not intend to let [illegible] countries use this emergency to stampede us into [illegible] which we will never get back if given up.

The paper thinks that a suitable conscription if [illegible] [illegible] at once. There should be no further [illegible] that Hitler with words. The only language he [illegible] is equipment and bullets.

Labor is not unwilling to conscription if all our resources [illegible] We do not intend, however, that our workers [illegible] herded from their homes and jobs for $30 per week [illegible] while capital successfully demands that [illegible] increased and that their profits shall be continued or [illegible]

It is not right for a machine manufacturer to refuse to [illegible] if he only gets 8 per cent profit, and at the same time [illegible] to surrender to that manufacturer all the benefits of [illegible] that we have successfully fought for over several [illegible]

We do not uphold "sit-down" strikes by labor in munitions manufacturing plants. Neither should the manufacturer [illegible] "sit down" on our government because he does not get [illegible] of profit.

American labor has always fought for this country. It [illegible] country, and shed its blood for the flag. This is more than [illegible] of our capitalists can claim.

They stay at home and "administer" our wars. Those [illegible] to evade active service on the battlefield are oftimes [illegible] to be more glorious the safest way.

The war that we are surely approaching must be [illegible] ALL the American people, and must not be operated for the [illegible] of additional millionaires.

In other words, there must be no profit in war.

Nevertheless, this Labor day finds labor ready to face [illegible] with a steady head and a stout heart, firm in the belief [illegible] democratic nation will guide its destiny to a fuller life.

Willkie vs. McNary

"Where irreconcilable conflicts arise between public and [illegible] interests in the development and distribution of power [illegible] holdings should not be confiscated and we now have [illegible] precedent for such fair treatment in the recent acquisition [illegible] purchase of private companies by the Tennessee Valley [illegible] thority."

The above is a quotation from the acceptance speech [illegible] Tuesday by Republican Nominee for Vice-President McNary. [illegible] in his radio address he extolled the action of the new deal [illegible] mon heritage" of the people.

It is indeed a strange situation to find two men running [illegible] ness, one lambasting the new deal and the other praising it.

We suggest that since Mr. Willkie wants to debate some [illegible] he and his running mate tour the country debating each [illegible]

« « Letters to The Editor » » »

The Labor World has been noticing many letters in a local daily paper from children from ten years of age on up to those in their dotage of fourteen, telling why they are for Willkie for president. Since most of them are for Roosevelt we have become alarmed. We had been expecting those from 21 up to do the voting, but since the Willkie children are taking part, there are many Roosevelt children who want to do their part.

We gladly print letters from children of Roosevelt supporters. They can't do that to us! Besides, there are more children of working people and we are glad to get their support.

"Goo-Goo" for F. D. R.

Editor The Labor World:

Though I was born at Erlanger hospital just last month I feel I should not wait too long to show an interest in my country's affairs. My daddy is writing this down as I "goo-goo" it to him. He is a union baker and he knows what Roosevelt has done for him.

When President Roosevelt's program was put into effect, my daddy's co-workers were able to organize into a union and through the union his wages have been more than doubled. It took a long time in the labor board courts, he told me, but the court said that my daddy had a right to organize and backed him up.

I just want the world to know that I am for Roosevelt.

Ruth Sims,
Daughter of Curtis Sims.

Washington Set Precedent

Dear Ed:

Although I am a girl six months old, I feel that all women should take part in politics and offer their assistance at all times. I have been following up the discussions about the un-American policy of electing a man for a third term to the presidency of the United States. Opponents of Franklin D. Roosevelt say that George Washington established a precedent by refusing to run for a third term, although he could have been elected.

I believe that my amiable playmates of Lookout mountain overlook the fact that George Washington established a very important precedent when he was elected president of the United States for the first time. Up until that time there had been no president at all.

Since Georgie established a president, our Franklin will establish a new one by running a third time and be elected.

And Georgie also established a president by running without opposition. We think that this year would be a good time to follow that custom.

Mary Catherine Mabee.

Glad Willkie Indorses New Deal Policies

Dear Labor World Editor:

Last week I was so surprised to hear Mr. Willkie indorse President Roosevelt's policies that I overturned my toy bridge I had just completed. I follow the campaign very closely, as every six-year-old should do, and it appears from Mr. Willkie's acceptance speech in Indiana that he makes it unanimous for Roosevelt.

The only thing Mr. Willkie wanted was to carry out Mr. Roosevelt's plans himself because he could do it cheaper. Maybe he meant he could make it easier on the utility owners.

Jerry Cuthbert.

Likes Sugar-Coating

Dear Editor of The Labor World:

I think it is horrid the way us working people are standing in our own light by not being for Mr. Willkie. We ought to have better sense. Our parents have been forcing us to take plain old nasty medicine when all we have to do is to see Mr. Kolwyck and he will give us some sugar-coated pills. And if we were patriotic we would be for anything that causes parades because that will be good training in case we have to go to war. I see in the paper that my daddy's employer and other employers are going to line up his workers four abreast to march to the polls to vote for Mr. Willkie.

I just adore parades and I think it is a lovely idea.

Besides, I do love to play bridge, being 16 years old, and those old Roosevelt women have not mentioned bridge.

Sarah Jane Giddye.

The boss votes once and his employes vote a thousand—if poll taxes are paid by Sept. 6.

A lot of talk for Roosevelt does no good unless your poll tax is paid, you are registered, and you VOTE for him.

You have until Sept. 6 to pay your poll tax so you can vote in the presidential election in November.

An Institution Built on Ideals

The growth a metropolitan department store such as Miller's must have been based upon a sincere regard for the welfare of everyone concerned in the transaction of its business. It is only through the observance of such business ideals that constant steady growth of an institution is possible.

Miller's sincere friendship for Labor, as well as our genuine appreciation of Labor's loyalty to this store for over half a century cause us to pause upon the occasion of Labor Day, 1940, and extend our greetings and best wishes to all who, through years of admirable effort have contributed to the greatness of this wonderful land of ours—the U.S.A.! California Unions Urge State Law To Regulate Hours and Labor Of Men and Women Workers

Washington, D. C.—To get a first-hand report on union conditions and union aims, the division of labor statistics and law enforcement of California's Industrial Relations Department sent out questionnaires each year to labor unions in the state. Last year replies came in from over 1,200 local unions, the largest number ever to reply, says a summary by the division of labor standards, United States Department of Labor.

A state wage and hour law, to cover men and women, was one of the union requests for state legislation.

More Inspectors Asked

[illegible] of the federal wage and hour law to enforce law except those in agriculture, was also proposed.

For better enforcement of existing labor laws, local unions urged that there be more state inspectors in the field. They stressed the tie-up between adequate appropriations and properly enforced labor laws.

Civil Liberties Union Protests Attacks on Arkansas College

New York City—Attacks upon teachers and students at Commonwealth College, Mena, Ark., were condemned by the American Civil Liberties union.

In a letter to Mayor J. A. Middleton of Mena, the union urged him to publicly denounce these attacks and give assurances of adequate police protection. According to reports received by the union, the assaults were inspired by members of local American Legion posts in a wave of "fifth column" hysteria.

Writing to Deputy Prosecutor Quillen, the union protested his recent questioning of the Commonwealth College director on the policies of the school, particularly in regard to the stand of the faculty and students against the present warfl. The union inquired under what legal authority his investigation was made.

"It is hardly necessary to point out," said the union, "that unless peace officers stand ready to defend and maintain everyone's civil rights in these critical days there is little guarantee for the maintenance of the bill of rights in the face of [illegible] confusion and war hysteria."

East Orange, N. J.—William S. Conklin, secretary of the New Jersey unemployment compensation commission, said here that the commission found it "socially desirable but legally impossible" to pay benefits to unemployed national guardsmen in summer training.

Conklin said the state law required claimants to be available for work and to report weekly to district U. C. C. offices, conditions which guardsmen, who were drawing benefits while at home, could not fulfill while in training.

A. F. of L. Says Defense Can Disrupt Economic Life Unless Balance Is Kept With Rest of Activity

Washington.—If the defense program is "not carefully guided" it can cause trouble of the utmost seriousness, the American Federation of Labor warns in its latest monthly survey of business.

Pointing out that defense production forms but a small part of our whole national output and should use only 7 per cent of our normal peacetime facilities, according to one authority, the federation says labor and living standards can bepreserved with proper guidance of the defense activities.

"Since we have idle man power, idle plant capacity and high productive efficiency we can handle $5,000,000,000 of defense production yearly without destroying our hard-won labor gains or reducing the national living standards," says the federation, going on to assert:

"We can even greatly improve our present national welfare by giving defense jobs to the unemployed, bringing idle plants into activity. But if the defense program is not carefully guided, it can disrupt our economic life, causing booms in some industries and depressions in others, destroy labor standards, leave mills and men stranded after the first years of intense energy are over.

Balanced Planning Vital

"National defense can either vitalize or sap our whole national energy, depending on how well we keep balance between defense production and th other 93 per cent of our activity.

"Since control over defense policies rests in the hands of the President, our future depends to a degree never before known in peacetime on his decisions. To insure balanced planning, representatives of trade unions, farmers' associations, businessmen's groups must sit on all policy-making boards. Only thus can the voice of the people be heard and heeded, democracy be preserved."

Citing charts to show that the United States has a higher income per capita than any other nation in the world, the federation says we "are immensely more able to maintain a military machine without reducing our labor standards."

Must Prevent Disruption

Foreign nations are making enormous sacrifices, reducing the worker's living to the barest essentials, "which warn us of the immense disruption to normal life which accompanies an extreme war effort," the federation says.

"We in America are not at war; our task is to build our national strength, to prevent such disruptions," the federation declares, adding:

"To do this we must get the unemployed back to work, raise living standards, see that increasing industrial income flows to wage earners in wage increases."

More Pay Increases Needed

Yet we are not doing this, the federation contends. It says:

"Corporations have not increased wages as much as their earnings permitted. A larger flow of income to workers is vital. Newly created wealth must lift the living standards of low-income groups. We need the flow of [illegible] buying power into non-defense consumer goods industries, to keep these industries growing in a normal way, prevent top-heavy defense deevlopment, build up national well-being."

The federation emphasizes the problem in speeding production, not one of man power. It condemns lengthening of the week, saying this would wipe out the gains of mass production and reduce efficiency.

Garment Workers Sign 2-Year Contract; Will Stabilize Industry

Governor Praises Union for Bringing About Peaceful Settlement.

New York.—Governor Lehman voiced his gratification at the new two-year collective bargaining agreement in the coat and suit industry signed in his presence at his home by representatives of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and three employers' associations. The new contract covers 31,000 workers.

The Infants' and Children's Coat association declined to sign the agreement on the ground that the settlement did not solve the problems of its 4,000 workers. The groups signing were the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc.; the Merchants Ladies' Garment association and the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers association.

Signing on behalf of the workers were David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, A. F. of L., and Israel Feinberg, general manager of the New York Cloak Joint Board.

Governor Lehman intervened in the situation, which had threatened to develop into a strike following a two-day stoppage by 35,000 workers two weeks ago.

"I believe this contract will help further to stabilize the industry," the governor commented. "I hope the industry will have a fine season and many good seasons to follow."

While the agreement stipulates that it is to be for a term of two years, it contains a provision that the contract may be terminated after one year if issues submitted to a newly established board of control are not adjusted by March 25, 1941.

The new agreement will provide a "safety valve" in the way of a fact-finding board with power to adjudicate controversial matters, it was explained by Samuel L. Deitsch, president of the industrial council. The agreement paves the way for a period that the manufacturers should use to advantage by making New York City the world style center, Mr. Deitsch further suggested. He pointed out that there had been an influx of buyers since the governor had stepped in to avert the strike, and that sales were ahead of those a year ago.

"The establishing of a board of stability and control is the chief new provision of the contract," Mr. Deitsch pointed out. "The board, comprising representatives of the union and the employers' organizations, will consider issues which, if left to the ordinary processes of collective bargaining, would provoke long and bitter disputes.

"The board will institute and direct research into these subjects and, if unable to agree as to findings, will submit them to an impartial chairman whose conclusions will become part of the contract.

"Among the problems that will be taken up by the board will be the devising of means for making certain close observance of the agreeemnt, the establishing of uniform rates of piece work payments, teh use of modern machinery, the advisability of allowing overtime and numerous other matters."

Mr. Dubinsky emphasized that, while the settlement provided for no wage increases, it did offer a substantial basis for stabilization and improvement in the industry.

Thousands Begin Training for Our Nation's Defense

Washington, D. C.—Training for service to national defense industries is off to a good start, with between 30,000 and 40,000 enrollees already taking training in manual occupations, the national defense advisory commission says.

The training program, sponsored by the defense commission through the office of Sidney Hillman, member of the commission in charge of labor supply, is operated through a WPA project with the United States office of education as co-sponsor.

The primary purpose of training is to make available opportunities for those on WPA rolls to take refresher courses and thereby retrieve their earlier skill. It also provides these in industry with opportunities to improve their skill. It is not intended to serve as a substitute for existing apprenticeship training facilities.

Forty States in Line.

Nearly forty states have submitted plans for vocational training and twenty-six have been approved by the office of education. Enrollment is proceeding rapidly throughout the country toward the first goal of 150,000 trainees.

The conduct of this vocational education is primarily the responsibility of state and local school boards. Under the provisions of legislation enacted by the 76th congress, the Commissioner of education is charged with the responsibility of administering funds appropriated for such training. It is necessary, however, that the office of education, the public employment service, the work projects administration and the national youth administration co-operate with the state and local boards for vocational education in the defense program.

Labor Advises Boards.

These boards have the advice and counsel of employers, labor representatives, public employment agencies and advisory committees of trade and industrial education, in determining, subject to the approval of the United States Commissioner of education and in accordance with the needs specified by the defense commission:

(a) Occupational skills for which training shall be given by the local school.

(b) Numbering of persons to be so trained in the local school.

(c) Contents of the training [illegible] to be given.

"Build-Up" Good News For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary!

Many who suffer from headache, nervousness, cramp-like pains, such symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance against periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "that time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI more than 50 years.

American Federation of Labor

Every Labor Day definitely marks an advance in the steady progress of the organized labor movement in America. The rapid improvement in wages, hours and working conditions is just one of the achievements accomplished by collective bargaining of labor unions.

It would be uncharitable even to compare the standards of American workers with those of the enslaved toilers of the Old World. Dictatorships have destroyed trade unionism throughout Europe.

Our task, the task of American union labor, is plain. We must help to lift the workers of the Old World onto the plane of our American standards, instead of allowing their deteriorated standards to drag us down to their levels. Europe's workers will always have our sympathetic and cooperative action in their struggle for better conditions.

America will face a new problem after this second World war. The goods made by Europe's regimented and despot-ridden workers will come into competition with American-made products. We must protect the American market for American workers, farm and industrial.

To maintain American labor standards every member of every labor union and his family should pledge on this Labor Day 1940 to buy only union label goods and employ only union services.

There is no other way to maintain the gains already made by years of heroic effort, no other way to protect the position of the American worker as a self-respecting citizen of a free country.

For American workers the lessons of the present are clear as daylight. We know that the wretchedness of our brothers overseas is the direct result of their surrender or the robbery of their rights as citizens and individuals—their right to organize, their right to say how they shall be governed and by whom, their right to the product of their own toil.

We must keep the faith. We must resist and defeat every move, every effort, to undermine the practice of labor unionism. We must resent and defeat every suggestion, on any pretext, that the times justify the relinquishment, however temporary, of our established union principles and practices.

War and threats of war are ever a convenient cloak for the profiteer and exploiter, chanting patriotism and the common good.

Eternal vigilance indeed is the price of liberty. Patriotism of the true and highest sort demands that union labor in America remain steadfast to its ideals whatever happens here or elsewhere.

"Extend Private Ownership To Save National Economy"

Dr. C. R. Mann Says Capitalist Should Discipline Himself to Serve in Position of Trusteeship for Social Good of All.

By OLIVER HOYEM

Washington.—The threat of total war faces the United States. We know how to prepare for it and are doing so.

But we are not prepared as well for the kind of economic war that seems inevitable.

There is grave warning in what Dr. C. R. Mann, president emeritus of the American Council on Education, said in his second exclusive interview with International Labor News Service. It is not enough to attack Nazi, Communist, Fascist and other ideologies; we must make our own capitalist system work better if we want to retain it. More people must actually own and control and enjoy ownership. This is the same attitude as that taken by the American Federation of Labor.

Abuses Invite Attack

"The form of our national economy is a most important element in our democracy," said Dr. Mann. Probably in no other material area of our national life is the need for self-discipline by the individual citizen more clearly demonstrated.

"The economic system in our American democracy is usually considered capitalistic. Communist and Fascist attacks against this form of national economy rear their heads from time to time. Unquestionable abuses under the capitalistic system appear superficially to furnish the underprivileged and abused ample justification for rejecting the system and accepting the palliatives offered by alien groups. Righteous fear among those who consider themselves solid American capitalists incites them to counter-attack and the demand for extermination of such subversive influences from our country.

Affirmative Action Needed

"This kind of counter-attack doubtless accomplishes much good. But it is only the negative or passive side of the picture—a denial of substitutes that will not work in a democratic nation.

"If we wish to conserve the main structure of our national economy, we need more than mere negation of alien practices. We need rather to take some more affirmative or constructive action in evaluating our present practices.

"The individual citizens who already have widespread influence and who thus control the maintenance of our present economic system must review carefully their attitudes toward the system and the results of their activities under it.

What Is Individual's View?

"Are they satisfied with the mere condemnation of alien economies? Do they regard the ownership of private property as the inalienable right of only a privileged few?

"Or do they take the attitude that a national economy based on private ownership must proportionately rest on the many—that the economy is strengthened in proportion to the numbers who actually own and control and enjoy ownership as the fruit of their labors?

"Is the aim of the capitalist to amass a private fortune, or does he discipline himself to serve in a position of trusteeship for the social good of all who come within his influence?"

Union Members Must Pay Dues, Judge Rules

Tacoma, Wash.—In a decision without precedent in the state of Washington, Superior Judge J. M. Phillips has ruled that members of labor unions must pay dues.

Judge Phillips' ruling came in a test case brought by the Tacoma Smeltermen's union against Frank Alberti. The judge ordered Alberti to pay $21.75 in back dues, declaring:

"The defendant could not continue to receive the benefits obtained for him by the union and escape the payment of dues . . . reasonably necessary for the payment of expenses incurred in the obtaining of such benefits."

Paper Industry Minimum Wage Fixed at 40 cents

Washington, D. C.—A wage order calling for the payment of at least 40 cents an hour to workers employed in the manufacture of pulp and primary paper, effective Sept. 16, 1940, was issued by Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the fair labor standards act of 1938. A committee comprised equally of repreesntatives of the public, employes and employers, under the chairmanship of John A. Lapp, of Chicago, made the recommendation.

Col. Fleming said the "application of the 40-cent minimum wage to the industry as defined will increase the hourly wage rates of more than 8,000 wage earners. The total number of employes in the industry is about 150,000. The industry is carried on in the north and south and on both coasts, and its annual value of product is $1,000,000,000."

2 Oldest Members Of I. T. U. Are 95

Indianapolis—The annual count of the International Typographical union membership disclosed that Benjamin Franklin Waite, a member of Binghamton (N. Y.) Typographical Union No. 232, still holds the honor of being the union's oldest member. He was born on March 19, 1845.

Ozias Spencer Webster, who was born on July 20, 1845, is the second oldest member. He became a member of the I. T. U. in 1865 joining Elmira (N. Y.) Typographical union, and holds a continuous membership of seventy-two years.

Peter F. Emery, the third oldest member of the I. T. U., was born on Nov. 25, 1845. He holds the honor of having the longest continuous membership in the union, having been initiated at Milwaukee, Wis., in 1864, seventy-six

Employers Can Obey Wage-Hour Act By Paying Union Overtime Rates Provided

Washington, D. C.—All employers who pay overtime under union agreements in force may consider such compensation as paid also to meet the requirements of the wage and hour act, Col. Philip B. Fleming, wage - hour administrator, ruled.

New paragraphs clarifying the relationship of employment agreements to provisions of the wage and hour act have been issued to supplement Wage-Hour Interpretative Bulletin No. 4, which describes the minimum wage and maximum hours coverage of Section 7 of the act.

"Some employers," said Col. Fleming, "have felt that when they pay overtime compensation in accordance with a union agreement they may not take credit for doing so, but, they believe, if they are to meet the requirements of the act, they must pay an amount in addition to the amounts paid under the agreement. The additional amount, they understand, must equal time-and-a-half the employe's regular rate of pay for the number of hours worked in excess of forty-two.

"This is definitely not the case. An employer may properly consider as overtime compensation paid by him for the purpose of satisfying the requirements of the act, any extra compensation he may have paid for overtime work under a union agreement or other agreement.

"The act does not require the employer to pay overtime on overtime. Thus, for example, if a union agreement calls for a forty-two-hour week and overtime at tmie and a half the regular rate for all hours over the forty-two, and an employer complies with this agreement, he is automatically obeying the law.

"However, after Oct. 24, this year, on which date maximum hours allowable will be reduced to forty, if an employer then continues to pay in accordance only with the union agreement, he will not be obeying he law, and his compliance with the union agreement even to the letter will not be an acceptable excuse for violation of the statute.

"At present, if a union agreement calls for a forty-hour week and time and a third after that, and an employe earning a dollar an hour works forty-four hours and is paid $45.32, that is considered compliance, since the employer may always credit himself under the act with amounts paid by him as actual overtime compensation. The act's current requirement here would be but $45. Of course, that does not excuse the employer from paying $45.32, which he is required to pay by the union agreement.

"Some misunderstandings," Col. Fleming continued, "have also arisen in interpreting the act as it operates in connection with a union agreement requiring time and a half for all hours worked in excess of eight hours a day, the normal or regular work day. Here again, it is entirely unnecessary for an employer to pay overtime on overtime—time and a half on time and a half, so to speak.

"The official yardstick for calculation of compensation under the fair labor standards act is the single work week. Supposing that in one work week an employe puts in ten hours each on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and on Friday he works eight hours and on Saturday not at all.

"The total thus is forty-eight hours of work, six hours over the present maximum. However, since the union agreement calls for daily overtime compensation at time and a half for all hours over eight, payment for those first four days is $11 each day—$8 for the first eight hours, and $1.50 each for the two overtime hours. The total pay for the week under the agreement totals $52, the payment of which will satisfy the requirements of the act.

"A similar case is presented where a union agreement necessitates the payment of time and a half for all hours worked on a Sunday or holiday, and where in a given work week an employe earning $1 hourly works eight hours every day except Sunday to a total of forty-eight hours. Tuesday, we'll say, is a holiday.

"Under the union agreement the employe is entitled to $12 for Tuesday's work. His pay for the week, then, will total $52 for the forty-eight hours. Some have contended that to be in accord with the act additional payment must be made for the six overtime hours, since Tuesday was a holiday and should be considered separately.

"The wage and hour division, however, considers that any work on a holiday is generally classed as overtime work. And here again, because payment for the eight-hour holiday on Tuesday exceeds payment required for the six hours in excess of forty-two, the standard number fixed in the act, payment in accordance with the union agreement satisfies the requirements of the act."

ILLINOIS PAYS OUT OVER $44,000,000 IN JOBLESS CHECKS

Chicago.— Workers of Illinois have collected more than $44,000,000 in unemployment compensation benefits since the first job insurance check was issued in this state on July 24, 1939, State Director of Labor Martin P. Durkin reports.

Check No. 1 was issued a year ago. Since that time, the state has issued 3,308,241 individual checks to jobless workers. The total value of these payments was $44,224,417.

"This money was paid out to unemployed workers all over the state of Illinois," Director Durkin said. "It enabled them to keep on buying food and paying rent after their jobs had given out.

"From the hands of workers who received it, this money went directly into the hands of Illinois business. Our records show that 92 per cent of the canceled checks returned to the division of placement and unemployment compensation were cashed with grocers, butchers, druggists and other retailers."

Uninformed—

The people who have to pay the full price, possibly even with life itself, are entitled to know what is being planned for them. They are not being sufficiently informed today on national defense progress, principally because many phases of the program are in so fluid a state as to defy concrete statement. That stage will pass, soon we hope, and when it does the country should be kept up-to-the-minute in its information on affairs which so profoundly affect the future.—Editor and Publisher.

c, Canada—The American n of Labor will follow its non-partisan political ming presidential President William Green convention of the Brotht Railway Maintenance of ployes.

Mr. reen said the federation ould vote for its friends and its enemies," a policy s made the organization powerful. The A. F. ef came here from Chiere he attended sessions mocratic national convenleration favors all aid to short of war," and is be- United States prepared- e, he said, adding that e or anization was calling on e government to find work for e unemployed under "present work standards" with no lowerg of standards until all the unemployed are absorbed.

Referring to the international situation, Mr Green said:

"The Dark Ages fade before today's savagery. It is the blackest of black spots upon the policies of those totalitarian governments and we who believe in democracy protest.

"We wonder why all these forces of destruction have been turned loose on mankind, for we have been taught for the last 2,500 years that life is sacred."

If any dictator attacks the North American continent, be it Canada or the United States, "we declare it part of our philosophy that we will stand together to fight," he continued.

"We have established democracy here. We are living in peace. In fact, nobody can find the line which divides Canada and the United States and we are determined to preserve liberty and fraternity on this continent even if it means the giving of our lives."

Mr. Green said the A. F. of L. wanted to see the democracies of the world give to Great Britain aid "any where, any time, in the effort that that country now is making to preserve democracy."

Turning to the labor picture in the United States, Mr. Green declared that John L. Lewis of the Congress of Industrial Organizations was "standing in the way" of an agreement between the two labor organizations.

The formation of the C. I. O., "rebel in character and rival in purpose," he said, once cost the federation 1,000,000 members, but now the A. F. of L. has 4,500,000 members, the greatest number in its history.

The rank and file of "the rebel movement" were "crying and begging for settlement" of differences, he said. As far as the A. F. of L. was concerned, "the door is open, but Lewis is standing in the way."

Schools Must Accept New Responsibilities

Knoxville.—Under the stresses of terrific forces working both within and without, America is looking to her schools to accept new and vital responsibilities. These forces—the European war's threat on democracy from without and the rapidly changing economic and social order within—offer the nation's educational system its biggest task.

That was the theme of speeches and discussions heard at the University of Tennessee summer conference on education, held at Knoxville July 8-12. Leading educators from all regions of Tennessee and from several other southern states took part in the conference.

Principal speakers at the conference were Directors James P. Pope and H. A. Morgan of the TVA, George Fort Milton, president of the Chattanooga Evening Tribune, and Dean John A. Thackston of the U. T. College of Education. Discussions were held on educational problems in the nation, the south, the state, and communities.

Discussing "The Changing American Scene," Director Pope declared democracy must be "modified to the twentieth century age" to compete with the totalitarian form of government.

"The argument is that a democracy is probably incapable of facing the strain of modern warfare as carried on by dictators," he said. "I think it is certain that the forms of the nineteenth century democracy must be changed. The problem is not to vindicate the old type of democracy but to work out a form of government that will plan and carry out its functions promptly and efficiently, and, at the same time, preserve individual freedom."

Mr. Milton spoke on "The New South," pointing out responsibilities of schools in preserving and utilizing resources. Schools first must ascertain the task which needs to be done, then organize a program toward building the new south and the new state, he said.

"The opportunities of the Tennessee valley, the needs of the state, the obligations imposed upon us by the nation's gift, call upon our public schools to make themselves the south's finest system. They need and must have provided the plant, equipment, faculty and direction to enable them to lead the people so that the influences generated in the schools will permeate the whole social mass," Mr. Milton said.

Conservation of capital resources was discussed by Director Morgan. Industry must use "exhaustible resources," such as minerals, sparingly, making fuller use of the "inexhaustible resources," such as agricultural products, he pointed out.

Dean Thackston spoke on "Education Of, By and For the Community," stating that the community is the "front-line attack" on all problems and that the community should extend its services to all individuals, children or adults.

"It is in the home and the community that the decisions and responses concerning international, national, regional, and state problems are originally made. It is here, then, that all we have said in the conference must be realized, if it is realized at all," said Dean Thackston.

New Orleans Traction Workers Demand Increase in Wages

New Orleans.—Seeking a flat 5-cent an hour pay hike, street car and bus drivers for the New Orleans Public Service company have notified the company that the men stand as a unit. They ask an advance from 55 cents an hour to 60 cents and from 60 cents to 65 cents an hour for bus drivers. Two decades ago the company refused demands of the men and a strike followed. Outsiders were brought to the city at a scale of $1 an hour with board and lodging. The union was broken and a majority of the union men left the city. Now the new force is asking for a living wage.

FOR THE MAN WITH A MIND OF HIS OWN

THIS is a time when every citizen of our country should be giving prayerful and thoughtful consideration to the Presidential election. We are all privileged to be free-thinking, free-voting Americans. We are expected to cast our votes as we see fit. We should take advantage of these privileges.

From some quarters comes the claim that there is only one man who can effectively guide the policies and the destiny of this nation. This democracy of ours would be much less of a democracy if such a doctrine were true. We would be very apprehensive as to the fate of this nation if we had to admit that only one man out of the total population could qualify as chief executive of our government.

This is a time for men to think and weigh and consider. A time to be critical of the influence of political groups. A time for a man to sum up the existing situation, judge carefully, and then make up his own mind. For, in the final analysis, we must remember that there are two sides to every question, and every man has a right to his own choice.

Calm thinking, and action based on such thinking, is of greatest importance in this critical period. We all realize that choosing a chief executive, especially at this time, is a grave task for every American, and that something must be done to assure that the choice will be the best possible one. Snap judgment will not assure it. The influence of political organizations will not assure it. The mere perpetuation in office of an individual or party will not assure it.

Only the serious thought of every man with a mind of his own, governed by reason and common sense, exercising his franchise at the ballot box unhampered and undictated, will assure that this nation will be led by the man best qualified for the job.

Our New AFL Secretary Sends Labor Day Messag

By GEORGE MEANY

Secretary-Treasurer American Federation of Labor

The strength of the American labor movement, as represented by the American Federation of Labor, is greater this Labor day of 1940 than it has ever been. The actual paid membership of our organization is today more than 4,300,000, as compared with a membership of only a few thousands in the year of the first Labor day celebration back in 1882.

During the last year the labor movement has successfully continued to carry on its efforts to achieve a better day for the wage-earners of our great country.

Despite the activities of anti-labor forces designed to impair the effectiveness of trade-union effort, the American Federation of Labor has pressed forward as ever, organizing, bargaining, counseling, consistently pushing the American standard of living higher and higher.

During the year the organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have obtained thousands of contracts calling for good wages and decent, American working conditions. In the legislative field, labor has also registered gains since we last celebrated Labor Day, although advances in legislation have been considerably fewer than in recent years.

Those who sought to destroy the American Federation of Labor by setting up a dual organization have encountered a rapidly growing revulsion toward their tactics on the part of all American workers who are still unorganized as well as those already in the labor movement and enjoying the manifold benefits of organization.

Recently this mounting revulsion to those responsible for the continuance of the division in organized labor took concrete form in the reaffiliation of one of the largest international unions, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, thus bringing back into the American Federation of Labor a total of 250,000 workers.

This action on the part of the garment workers has reawakened the hope that the day is not distant when all labor in America will be reunited in a strong, vigorous movement under the banner of the American Federation of Labor. Experience has taught that unity is desirable. Present day conditions throughout the world indicate that unity of labor in America is imperative. I have and trust that unity will be achieved before another Labor day rolls around.

Despite our great growth, I believe there can be no more appropriate message to the workers of the nation on this Labor day of 1940 than the Labor Day message of the revered Samuel Gompers almost two decades ago.

"Organize! Organize! Organize!" was the Labor Day message of the late president of the American Federation of Labor in [illegible].

We have come a long distance on the organizational road since Samuel Gompers voiced this exhortation, but I believe that

THE FAITHFUL FEW

When the meeting's called to order
And you look around the room,
You're sure to see some faces
That from out the shadows loom.
They are always at the meeting
And they'll stay until it's through—
The ones that I would mention
Are the always faithful few.

They fill the many offices
And are always on the spot,
No matter what the weather,
Though it may be awful hot;
It may be dark and rainy,
But they are tried and true—
The ones that you rely on
Are the always faithful few.

There are lots of worthy members
Who will come when in the mood,
When everything's convenient
They can do a little good.
They're a factor in the meeting
And are necessary, too—
But the ones who never fail us
Are the always faithful few.

If it were not for these faithful,
Whose shoulders at the wheel
Keep the institution moving
Without a halt or reel,
What would be the fate of meetings
Where we claim so much to do?
They surely would be failures
If we lacked the faithful few.

Courage!

Gen. Grant and several of his staff were discussing the difference between bravery and courage. One staff member suggested that negroes were not brave and that they also lacked courage.

Grant told a story of a young negro color-bearer to whom he had personally make a remark, after being admonished by his colonel never to give up the flag.

The colonel said: "Defend it and protect it; die for it, if need be, but never surrender it."

To which the young negro replied: "Colonel, I will return this flag or I will report to God the reason why."

Only Worries - - - - or - - - - Benefit Checks?

Employees of more than a thousand business and industrial firms have found the Provident plan of "HUMAN SECURITY" insurance a lifesaver — paying the bills when they are laid up by accidents or sickness; meeting hospital and surgical bills; paying benefits to dependents in case of the breadwinner's death. Many of these forward-looking firms are right here in Chattanooga, where their workers have enjoyed Provident protection for years.

More than 51½ millions of dollars have been received in benefit payments by Provident policyholders and their dependents. This vast sum has been speeded to relieve suffering and financial stress, so as to reach policyholders or their families when needed most.

Does your plant enjoy this kind of protection? By permitting moderate premium payments over their payrolls, they too can make it available to Employees upon a low cost, wholesale basis.

Life of Sam Gompers To Be Filmed

Biographical films, such as "The Life of Louis Pasteur," "Emile Zola," "The Story of Mary Pickford" have opened to the eyes of millions a more fascinating picture of the lives of great men than could be conveyed in any other way. Now to this speaking gallery of great characters is to be added another. This will be one of the most effective ways to immortalize a man of labor who is destined, even at present, to be an active figure in the world for many years to come. Many generations will be privileged to see and hear Samuel Gompers, the man who made American labor what it is today.

MORE ABOUT Meany's Message

...b is only begun. There are still ...ions of men and women work... ...n this land of ours who are ...ng for pittances, under mis...able working conditions, with no ...curity and little hope.

Trade unionism, which has ...ought good wages, short hours, ...acations with pay, job tenure and many other benefits to millions, can bring these same good things to those other millions who are still being ground into the dirt.

As I see it, it is our solemn duty to carry the gospel of trade unionism to these workers, so that they may benefit, so that the American labor movement may become an even more potent force than it is today and so that this nation may become better and greater through the increased well-being and prosperity of its people.

On this Labor Day, as on each Labor Day for the last ten years, the problem of unemployment hangs over us like a shadow. This problem still calls most urgently for solution.

It is clear that the way to end the unemployment of labor would be by putting the unemployed back to work in private industry, where the workers now jobless may again have the opportunity to toil and earn and become consumers of the products of industry.

The American Federation of Labor has proposed a constructive program for the solution of this pressing problem through co-operation between management, labor and government. The A. F. of L. is continuing to push for the adoption of this program as a means of putting millions of unemployed back to work.

For sixty years the American Federation of Labor has served as an instrumentality through which the workers have given expression to their economic hopes and aspirations. Rival organizations came on the scene, functioned temporarily, then fell apart and passed away.

The American Federation of Labor has endured because it has embraced a sound economic philosophy and because it is an American institution builded upon a solid foundation of devotion and loyalty to our democratic form of government and its Constitution.

Now our nation finds itself in a critical situation as a result of the onward march of totalitarian aggressors. The wage earners of the land, as represented by the American Federation of Labor, are wholeheartedly in favor of national defense. Much is expected of us and, as patriotic Americans, we shall do our part, as we have always done in the past. However, we cannot permit selfish interests to use the false pretext of labor shortages or any other equally specious claims to break down the standards which it has taken labor many years to build up.

The American Federation of Labor will continue its efforts to promote human betterment by following a course in harmony with the best traditions of our American life, and I am confident that when Labor Day rolls around again in 1941 we shall once more be able to point to the substantial results which come from carrying on such efforts.

In conclusion, I would again stress the vital importance of taking to heart and acting upon the advice of Samuel Gompers:

"Organize! Organize! Organize!"

A step ahead in Quality,
A step Below in Price!

LABOR DAY MESSAGE

By WILLIAM GREEN

President American Federation of Labor

In these moving times when that which gives value to our lives and civilization lies in the balance, the observance of Labor day takes on a new solemnity and a new obligation. Labor day is in labor's economic world what Independence day is in our political life. Labor day typifies the status which labor has secured through union organization. For the wage-earner the union means finding the way to those industrial rights which are the basis for justice and freedom in that important part of life spent in earning a livelihood. We know that if we exercise political freedom we must also have economic freedom. The trade union is labor's economic declaration of independence.

The union assures that basic right — representation. Through representation the union can present its views, influence decisions, and suggest ways and means for dealing with problems. The right to represenattion, whether in law courts, in political bodies, in special groups or in decisions on work terms and standards, is the provision essential to individual initiative and feeling of justice and self-reliance. Representation implies rights and status and lays the foundations for a continuous program for betterment.

Representatives must be designated by those represented. This alone can give them authority to act.

Free trade unions and democratic institutions are inseparable and grow from the same ideals of liberty.

Liberty cannot be given to any individual, group or nation. It must be achieved and maintained by those concerned. This implies responsibility and discipline on the part of those who are members and officials of free organizations as well as those who constitute a democratic people. We can be sure of preserving our rights only as we exercise them wisely and resist encroachments on them.

By common consent priority has now been granted to defense production. One and all agree that we can fight a revolution of destruction only with force. The keys to defense equipment are adequate air force, mechanized troops and ships. Our problem is to get equipment with the speed necessitated by the imminent danger.

Manufacturers and producers planning to undertake production required for our defense program, have been united on two demands: First, that their industries should be allowed to write off the cost of plant expansion for defense production within five years with allowances for depreciation and obsolesence; and secondly, the elimination of restrictions upon hours of work because of an alleged labor shortage. In the case of munitions the government is planning to build the plants and lease them to the producing companies.

In accord with this background of protection for manufacturers against undue costs, are legal regulations to pay workers overtime in excess of the maximum standard of forty hours provided by the Walsh-Healey act and forty-two hours in the fair labor standards act. The regulation does not prohibit longer hours but insures workers against long hours at undue expense to them.

On Labor Day 1940 we can rejoice in progress even during a period of depression and conflict. Our union membership is at an all-time peak. Employed workers have made progress despite the depression. Approximately 700,000 union workers have gained the thirty-hour week, while the average work week [illegible] dropped from fifty to forty; yearly earnings increased 20 per cent in dollars and 4 per cent in purchasing power. But progress for the employed is offset by the number unemployed who are seeking places to earn a living in our industries structure. While we know that during these decades productivity has increased 50 per cent, we realize that more and more [illegible] the light [illegible] must be established [illegible] that industries must be operated to capacity to provide work [illegible] for all and the materials for higher standards of living for all. As labor costs per unit of output have decreased 25 per cent, wage increases could without difficulty much more nearly approximate the increase in productivity. Sustaining purchasing power in the hands of workers' families is necessary to maintain production at capacity. And this is the basic step in solving unemployment which is our major and most imperative problem blocking the way to prosperity in peace and unity for national defense.

Upon the organized trade union movement rests the responsibility for maintaining labor standards for the maintenance of progress for labor and prosperity for the whole nation. It is our duty and our mission to maintain standards as our economic and social service, and to preserve our free trade unions as an organization necessary to government and justice in industry and to democracy in our political government.

The labor movement in the United States, the oldest labor movement of the Western Hemisphere, has a responsibility for helping to preserve free unions in the New World. Without free unions democracy and liberty cannot exist. This solemn duty rests upon the individual members of all unions. Labor Day, 1940, should constitute a day of rededication and planning to carry out this high purpose.

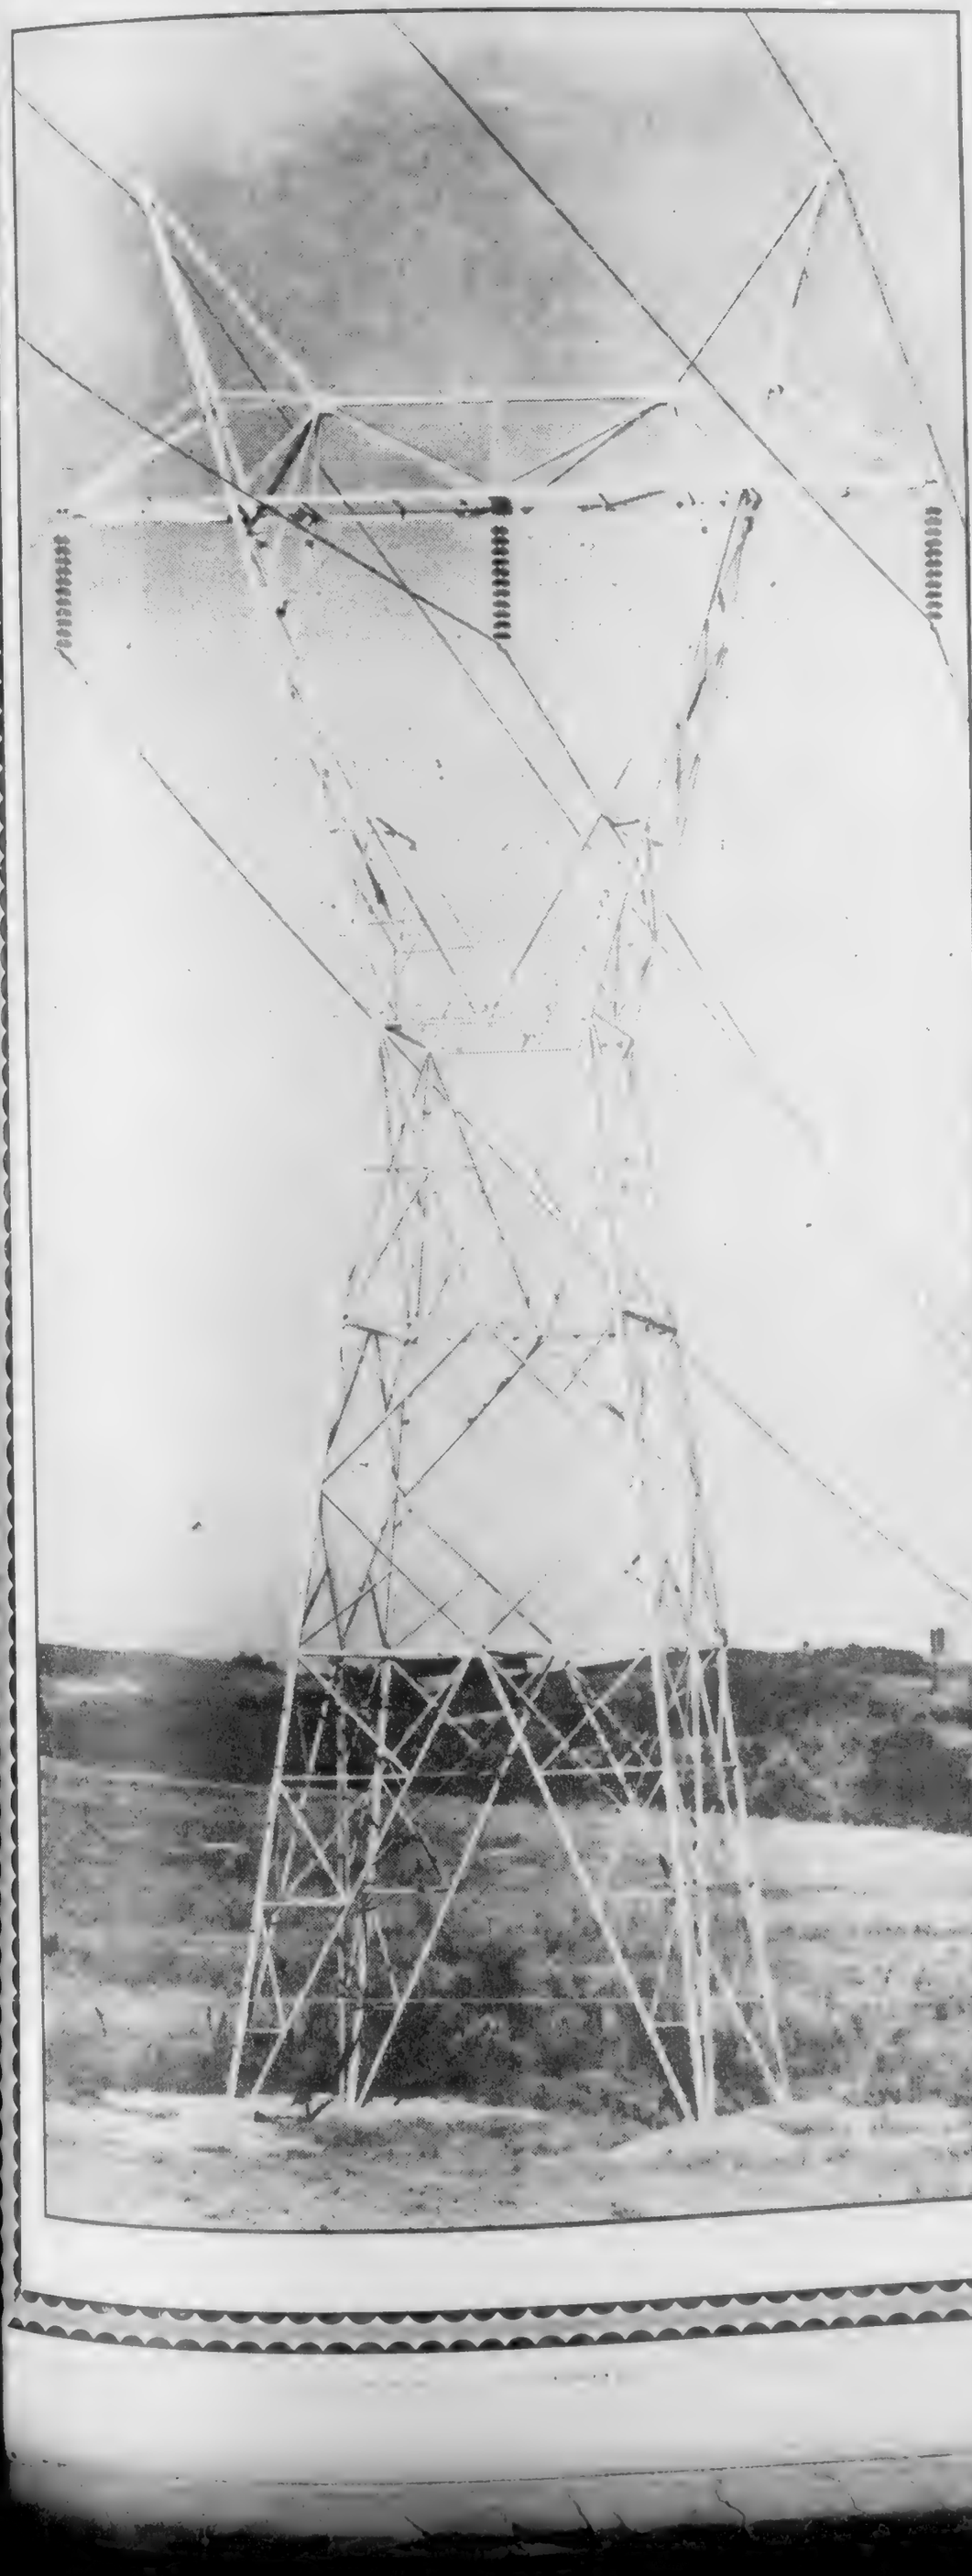
Public Power Giving Chattanooga Satisfactory Service Paying Taxes, Raising Wages, Rebuilding and Extending Lines, Reaching New Volume Peak in Electric Sales



BY MAINTAINING a high standard of service, by replacing City and County taxes formerly paid by the private utility, by equalizing the wages of its workers at an annual increase of $25,000, and by using its surplus net income to retire bonds and to make improvements and extensions, the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga has proven in this past year that Public Power can deliver satisfactory and dependable service at the standard TVA RATES and operate as a successful enterprise.

Based on the average rates charged during the preceding similar period, electric users of Chattanooga in ten and a half months of public power have saved at the rate of $1,700,000 annually. During that same period industrial users have saved $806,000; commercial users $181,000, and residential users $413,000, with the City of Chattanooga saving over $17,000 on its street lighting cost.

The good service of the Electric Power Board and the acceptance of the new low TVA RATES by the public has been reflected in over $2,000,000 of retail sales of electrical appliances by Chattanooga dealers to the Board's 40,000 customers—probably a record not equaled anywhere else in the nation in a ten-and-a-half-month period.

This economical and dependable electric power service, with rail and river transportation to all national centers, and other natural advantages peculiar to this section, indicates that Chattanooga will experience a great industrial expansion—the beginning of which is already evident. Agricultural practices and profits of the area, which are being improved by the TVA program of soil conservation, will round out or balance this growth.

Awaiting development in the vicinity of Chattanooga are large sources of coal, iron ore, manganese, shale, barrites, bauxite, ceramic clays, glass sands, lime and marbel. As a necessary aid there is available an abundance of intelligent, American-born labor. Important technical research and experimental work in these fields, made available by the TVA organization, is accessible to interested capital groups. For further information write us.

Sears Is A Safe Place To Anchor Your Shopping

A few people don't even yet understand how Sears can and do give you such high quality and still charge you so little money for it.

Maybe we can explain it—once and for all.

WHAT MAKES PRICE?
MANUFACTURING COSTS!
TRANSPORTATION COSTS!
HANDLING COSTS!
and the Cost of Doing Business!

All these things determine the figures that go in the price tag—if these four prices factors are high, it just naturally follows that the price has got to be high. If they are low, then the price can be correspondingly low—without injuring the quality—or without skimping anybody's pay-envelope anywhere along the line.

Sound economy, therefore, would seem to dictate in the interests of the consumer, meaning you—that every constructive device possible for holding down manufacturing, transportation, handling and business operation costs should be sought out and applied.

In other words, the answer to nation-wide consumer benefits and "the more abundant life" is the elimination of waste in the manufacturing and distribution.

Sears merchandise is manufactured as efficiently as is humanly possible, in competent factories, in which the cost-cutting magic of straight-line, mass production constantly operates in your behalf.

The same economic law, which has given you $3,000 automobiles for less than a thousand dollars, has given you Sears "better goods for less money."

Sears merchandise travels, from factory to you, over the shortest possible route—meaning low freight costs.

Sears merchandise goes through the fewest possible number of hands—meaning low handling costs.

Sears buys for cash, and serves you, without fuss or feathers, in simple, practical stores located outside the high rent district. We even omit some of the graceful gestures and niceties with which more expensive stores humor you—for the sole purpose of holding down prices; on the theory that, whereas the moneyed few demand and want to pay for these extras, the great rank and file prefer to have us put our money, and theirs, into the goods.

00,000 Cannery Workers Affected By Changes in Wage-Act Statute

Washington, D. C.—Changes in application of the wage and law to workers employed in processing of agricultural facts have been formulated by Wage and Hour Administra- Fleming, to go into effect Oct. These changes which modify present exemption from mini- wages and maximum hours estimated to affect the labor wards of more than 70,000 rkers.

"Area of production," as this m is used to exempt workers process fresh fruits and veg- bles from the fair labor stand- act will be redefined by the ruling.

Under the present definition, nts employing not more than ven persons, those located in s of less than 2,500 popula- and obtain their fruits and getables from within a ten-mile as, are exempt.

The new definition will exempt blishments having ten or few- employes and obtaining their ts and vegetables from farms the vicinity. No other fruit and getable establishments will be sidered to be within the "area production" under this new def- ion. This change would make more workers eligible for the 30 cents an hour minimum wage.

At the same time, Col. Fleming announced that Merle D. Vincent, director of the hearing branch of the division, has recommended a fourteen-week esasonal exemption of fresh fruit and vegetable establishments from maximum hours. If this recommendation is made final by the administrator, fresh fruit and vegetable warehouses will be granted a fourteen-week exemption from the maximum hours provision of the act allowing them to work their employes up to twelve hours a day or fifty-six hours a week without the payment of overtime during that period. This exemption does not relax the requirement to pay minimum wages.

Canneries and packing houses which already have the fourteen-week exemption will be granted an additional fourteen-week exemption, virtually removing the application of maximum hours to workers employed by them. This concession to the industry was strongly contested by the American Federation of Labor on the ground that it is contrary to the intent of the act to deprive the workers in a major industry from overtime rates of pay under pretext of seasonal need.

Maintaining that seasonal exemptions were solely designed by Congress to meet the peak production requirements, the American Federation of Labor contended that the stretching of the seasonality to twenty-eight weeks is an unreasonable and artificial device to contravene the requirement of the law and to avoid the payment of overtime to workers in packing houses and canneries. On behalf of its affiliated unions, the American Federation of Labor is petitioning for review of this recommendation.

resno Bakers Union ules No "Drinking n Job

Fresno, Calif.—The executive rd of Bakery Workers' union, al 43, voted a fine on one of r members for "being drunk the job." In accord with the s and regulations of the bak- union a member cannot work er an intoxicated condition.

Local 43 is of the opinion that it should protect the employer in all cases where production and efficiency are involved. Business Agent Baughman preferred the charges, and declared "that violations of the drinking rule would be strictly enforced," as the union is operating under a union shop agreement and it is the duty of the organization to furnish the employers with capable employes.

LABOR DAY

This day, Labor Day, 1940, finds the remodeling and building program for the Head Office well under way. The new building fronting Broad Street will be two-story, similar in construction to the fifteen-story building fronting Market Street.

The Safe Deposit Vault and equipment will be in the basement of the new building. A broad stairway, located in the center of the bank lobby, will lead to the basement. A modern elevator will be installed for the use of those who do not want to walk down. Forty-six tons of steel and three hundred and eighty-four tons of concrete have already been used in the construction of the Safe Deposit Vault and the Cash Vault. After the two twenty-ton steel doors are in place and the other fixtures installed, this part of the bank equipment will contain more than four hundred and ninety tons of steel and concrete. This department will be air-conditioned and modern in every way — designed to provide every safety, comfort and convenience for box holders.

This is the fifteenth time the bank has either built or remodeled the Head Office or one of its branches. When this work is completed, we shall be able to serve the public better than ever before.

...ill would provide coverage ...,000,000 additional wage ... for unemployment com-...sation to 5,000,000 more per-... and to increase old-age as-...ce payments to poorer states.

Senator Wagner announced he was introducing the measure at the request of the American Federation of Labor.

Amendment both of the social security act and the internal revenue code is involved in the proposed legislation.

To Eliminate Inequities

"These amendments, extending the old-age insurance protection of the law to approximately 10,000,000 additional persons, would make the social security act vastly more comprehensive and would eliminate the inequities which now arise because workers frequently lose their insurance when they shift from covered to uncovered employment," Senator Wagner said.

"The bill would also extend coverage for unemployment compensation to about 5,000,000 additional employes serving the federal government (in non-civil service occupations), non-profit institutions and enterprises employing fewer than eight employes.

"The 'agricultural labor' exemption is properly limited to bona fide agricultural workers as an incident to ordinary farming operations, as distinguished from manufacturing or commercial operations. Farm hands and domestic labor in private homes would continue to be excluded under these amendments because of the greater difficulty of determining unemployment in these categories.

Poorer States Aided

"The bill would increase the amount available for old-age assistance payments to poorer states. By changing from a flat to a variable grant basis, the federal government would make it possible for the poorer states to pay old-age pensions as high as those paid by the wealthier states, in justice to the aged in every state and with consequent benefit to the whole nation."

The bill will be referred to the Senate committee on finance, which has already established a special subcommittee to study various phases of the social security act.

Register With Your Public Job Office If in Search of Work Under Defense Program, Workers Are Advised

Washington.—Stay put and do not go to another locality in search of defense program jobs, unless you know definitely there is work awaiting you.

This is the advice of the bureau of employment security of the social security board and national defense commission, which say that the problem of getting workers for defense industries is to prevent hasty movements of workers from one place to another on hearsay or rumor which may bring only disappointment and hardship.

Recently the social security board reported that public employment registers throughout the country showed no general shortage of skilled workers for jobs under the defense program.

The board quotes recommendations drawn by at a recent meeting of the federal advisory council on employment security. The council is composed of outstanding representatives of organized labor, management, and the general public.

What to Do

To workers the recommendations are: If you are qualified for any of the kinds of work needed for the defense program, register at once with your public employment office. Don't apply or move to any other place until you know, by asking your public employment office, that there is demand in the other locality for your kind of skill or experience.

In other words, don't take the chance of losing an opportunity at home until you can be reasonably sure of a job somewhere else. Your local employment office has or can get the information you need about this.

Employers are urged to let the nearest public employment office know their present needs, and what they expect to need—how many workers, and what kinds of skill, training, or exeprience will be required.

Employers are urged not to advertise or compete for workers, and not to recruit outside the locality until the local employment office has had time to meet their requirements in the community or through clearance with other cities and states.

There are 1,500 full-time free state public employment offices throughout the country and there are 3,000 other points where part-time service is given.

If there is no such office in your locality, ask your post office for the address of the nearest one.

No Relaxation of Wage-Hour Law Either Necessary or Desirable, Administrator Fleming Says

at this time is either necessary or desirable," Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division of the department of labor, declared in a radio broadcast from Washington. He spoke as a guest of the Labor News Review program of WJSV, Columbia Broadcasting System.

Col. Fleming vigorously reiterated previous declarations that the defeat of France was not due to her forty-hour law. He declared a longer week would not increase production and added:

"We must not forget that we have a pressing responsibility to watch over 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 unemployed."

Two False Ideas Spread

"[illegible] patriots, the enemies [illegible] often seem careless [illegible] deliberately false," Col. Fleming said. "The [illegible] France was beaten because she had a forty-hour law. He referred to a report by Melvin Brown, vice-president of the board of directors, of the New York Real Estate board, that business was leaving the state because of "constant stoppages caused by labor over alleged minor infractions of labor agreements."

"Some people have all the solutions—that is to blame it on labor," Hochman said. "But reduce wages and the workers won't have enough money to pay rent."

Edward W. Edwards, secretary-treasurer of the State Federation of Labor, said the exodus allegations were "grossly exaggerated."

Edwards said the federation would co-operate in recommending measures to curtail any migration of industry if the committee finds such a fact to exist.

The committee called a conference of labor, business and industry in the capital July 23 and acted on the migration problem. It is expected to assist the committee draft its report to the 1941 state legislature.

TEACHER TALK

We're just back from the A. F. T. convention in Buffalo, where we received a pretty thorough education in the nature of the organization and the forces that it represents. Highlights of the meeting were the election of the officers that stand for the things we knew our local believes in and the passing of some strong resolutions on problems of both teacher welfare and the welfare of a democratic America. Dr. George S. Counts, who gave so freely of his time to the federation this past year, was ree-lected president, and our whole slate of vice-presidents was elected, including Stanton Smith for our own area. Significance of this is that Dr. Counts will have a council with which he can work more effectively than last year's.

There were several excellent panel discussions, one of which, "The Vitality of Achievement in the High School," included a free analysis by our own local president, Willard Millsaps. Nancy Lea Smith was untiring in her enthusiastic campaigning for our slate and our principles, and Stanton Smith spent most of the week in meetings of the executive council. The rest of us were busy attending a continual round of caucuses, general meetings, and committee meetings. All in all, it was a most instructive experience.

We were glad to hear of the cooperation that the teachers' locals are giving to the A. F. of L. in central labor unions and other bodies. Many of the delegates present were members and officers of such groups. The election of Mark Starr as vice-president of the WPA and adult education section, famous both in England and in America as a labor leader and publicist—he is now director of national education for the International Ladies' Garment Workers—should strengthen the relations between the A. F. T. and the A. F. of L.

An incident of this: We had noticed a picket line before the Statler Restaurant, which had been paying its employes 14½ cents an hour. One of the boys appeared to explain the situation, a hat was passed, and he was given $115.

There were many fine committee reports and studies by individual teachers. Facts from these will be published in this column from time to time.

Come around to the office and see the material we collected at the convention.

New York Labor Backs Roosevelt; Bars Communists and Nazis From Federation Offices

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—New York State Federation of Labor, in annual convention here, struck at Communists, Nazis and Fascists and endorsed President Roosevelt for re-election after protests by delegates from building trades unions, who bitterly attacked the government's anti-trust suits against building trades and other unions.

The convention was thrown into heated debate when delegates of the building trades demanded to know whether adoption of the resolution endorsing Roosevelt would carry with it approval of the anti-trust suits against labor. President Thomas J. Lyon's reply that this was not the case failed to satisfy the opposition and Harry Van Arsdale, business manager of Electrical Workers' union, No. 3, of New York City, charged that the suits were a threat to the very existence of union labor.

End to Suits Demanded

Following adoption of the resolution, the delegates approved a resolution calling upon the government "to put an immediate stop to these attacks which have served only to bring about undeserved and unjustified shame to the labor movement, and which can only have the effect of destroying the standards of the building trades workers."

The federation voted to exclude Communists, Nazis and Fascists from seeking or holding office in the organization.

Adoption of the resolution followed speeches by Senator Mead, Governor Lehman and George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor. They attacked "subversive elements" and demanded that the nation take steps to protect itself from their influence.

At the opening session, President William Green of the A. F. of L., reiterated the federation opposition to the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill as poorly drawn and unsuited to the nation's needs.

Labor Behind Defense

Green warned that labor will oppose any efforts to break down labor standards and would fight any excessive regimentation of the workers. He said the A. F. of L. was "uncompromisingly behind the president of the United States" in support of the defense program, and added:

"All that we ask in return is that the standards that have been set as a result of our efforts, the minimum wage, the Wagner act, social security legislation, unemployment legislation, vocational education—that none of these standards shall ever be lowered."

Green said that now was the time for employers and labor to co-operate "in the spirit of Americanism and patriotism."

Criticising the Burke-Wadsworth bill as "not well planned," Green urged that the voluntary enlistment system have a full trial before the draft was applied.

AMEND NLRA NOW, A. F. L. TELLS SENATE

Pres. Green Testifies on Changes Federation Demands.

Washington, D. C. — President William Green of the American Federation of Labor urged the senate education and labor committee to amend the national labor relations act at once.

Testifying at three secret sessions of the committee, Mr. Green strenuously objected to stalling tactics which have thus far held up affirmative action on this important issue.

In a careful analysis of the Smith amendments which passed the house, Mr. Green gave his support to some of these amendments and opposed others.

He told the committee the A. F. of L. endorsed the Smith bill in the house in order to get action, with the distinct reservation that the federation would try to perfect this bill in the senate. Rather than have "destructive" amendments adopted, he said, the A. F. of L. would resign itself to continue suffering from injustices under the present act and its maladministration.

This statement was misinterpreted by Senator Ellender of Louisiana, who told newspapermen that Mr. Green was opposed to the Smith bill and his attitude doomed any action on amendments at this session. Mr. Green said nothing of the kind. He insisted on immediate action by the senate and explained in detail the amendments which the A. F. of L. is determined to obtain. These are:

1. Creation of a new labor board of five members.

2. Protection of established unions by giving the workers themselves the right to decide by their votes the collective bargaining unit in which they wish to be included.

These are the two major amendments on the federation's list. Others include the "free speech" amendment and the right for employers to petition the board for an election.

The senate committee proposes to continue secret hearings for several weeks more, notwithstanding the fact that it devoted months of its time to public hearings less than a year ago. Unless the committee acts with reasonable promptness to report a satisfactory bill, the federation will use all the power at its command to expedite matters.

Embarrassing—

If you were selected as a delegate to your local central labor body or State Federation of Labor and were refused admittance because you failed to have the required number of union labels on your wearing apparel, wouldn't it be embarrassing? There is a certain way to avoid this or any other embarrassing situation that might develop from the same lack by demanding the union label on your hat or cap, clothing, shirts, underwear, hosiery, neckties, garters, belts and shoes. Thus equipped you can parade your virtues in any company.—The Catering Industry Employee.

Federationist Explodes False Myth That Labor Gains Must Be Scrapped

Washington, D. C.—American labor can learn vital lessons from the war-time experiences of French and British workers, according to the new August issue of the American Federationist, official organ of the American Federation of Labor.

Exploding the myth that American labor standards must be junked as an obstacle to defense preparations, the leading article in the magazine declares there is no parallel between legislation safeguarding working standards in this country and the labor laws which some writers say were partly responsible for the defeat of France. The French laws were rigid and arbitrary whereas the wage-hour act in the United States is flexible and does not prevent longer hours than the maximums, providing overtime is paid. Moreover, longer hours sap efficiency, the article says, quoting a general order of the United States army issued during the last World war showing that the output of workers on a ten-hour day "will be the same, or even less, than it was during the shorter (eight-hour) day."

Another article by Robert J. Watt, international representative of the American Federation of Labor, points out that democracy has been safeguarded in England despite the war emergency because labor has been given full representation in the administration of government affairs. Workers have willingly agreed to the suspension of former rights and privileges because of their patriotism and because they are assured of protection by their participation in the government, Mr. Watt says.

In an editorial, President William Green replies with an emphatic "No" to unfounded reports of labor shortages. He cites the conclusive fact that there are still almost 10,000,000 unemployed in the country and that a large percentage of these are skilled and semi-skilled workers who can be employed in defense industries.

A summary of the records of the Democratic and Republican candidates for president, together with the labor planks of both party platforms is presented in the magazine for the information of the 5,000,000 members of the American Federation of Labor, in conformity with its non-partisan political policy.

Hillman Rebuffs Lewis on Protest Against Exclusion of CIO Union From Labor Defense Committee

Washington, D. C. -In a hot uncover struggle for C. I. O. dominance, Sidney Hillman, labor member of the National Defense Advisory Commission and John L. Lewis, C. I. O. president, have clashed sharply over exclusion of the C. I. O.-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America from the labor policy advisory committee. This committee, named by Hillman, is composed of representatives of all factions of labor.

The clash resulted from a protest by Lewis against against exclusion of the union, after its national director of organization, James J. Matles, charged that it had been denied committee representation because of Mr. Hillman's belief that the union was "tinged with red" and that it had not taken steps to "square" itself politically.

Denies Raising "Red" Issue

Answering Lewis, Hillman declared he had raised the Communist issue in discussing the matter of representation with Matles and said: "I did not state to Mr. Matles that the U. E. R. M. W. A. was an organization 'tinged with red.'"

Hillman said the sole factor involved in the designation of sixteen A. F. of L., C. I. O. and railroad union leaders for membership in the labor advisory committee was the degree to which they could contribute to the task of national defense and assist Hillman in the discharge of his duties at Washington.

He further said he had had to apply "the best judgment and discretion of which I was capable" in determining the size of the advisory committee and in selecting its individual members. Under these conditions, he added, it was impossible to contend that the non-inclusion of any interest represented an act of unfairness.

"Grave Injustice" Charged

Matles began the controversy by a letter to Lewis in which he expressed the opinion that his union had been done a "grave injustice" by exclusion from the labor advisory committee and criticized giving of repreesntation to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and other A. F. of L. craft unions. Lewis, transmitting the letter to Hillman, voiced his protest and said:

"I am definitely of the opinion that this union (the U. E. R. M. W. A.) is entitled to representation in the defense set-up and above certain organizations that have been given such representation."

A Leader in Boiler Manufacturing

For nearly half a century the names Walsh Weidner and Casey-Hedges have ranked among the leading boiler manufacturers of the country. In 1928 these companies combined as the Hedges-Walsh-Weidner Co., the two organizations subsequently became affiliated with Combustion Engineering Company, Inc., one of the world's largest manufacturers of boilers, furnaces, fuel burning and related equipment.

In recent years, the Hedges-Walsh-Weidner Division plants in Chattanooga have enlarged and modernized their production facilities and have turned out — in addition to their normal production of water tube and fire tube boilers, soil pipe, range boilers, automatic gas water heaters, etc. — a great variety of pressure vessels, tanks, drums, and fabricated plate work for the chemical, oil refining and other industries.

The Combustion Engineering Co. wishes to take advantage of the opportunity afforded by this special edition to express its appreciation to the many business organizations of the South whose long-continued patronage has enabled it to become a leader in its field.

Federationist Explodes False Myth That Labor Gains Must Be Scrapped

Washington, D. C.—American labor can learn vital lessons from the war-time experiences of French and British workers, according to the new August issue of the American Federationist, official organ of the American Federation of Labor.

Exploding the myth that American labor standards must be junked as an obstacle to defense preparations, the leading article in the magazine declares there is no parallel between legislation safeguarding working standards in this country and the labor laws which some writers say were partly responsible for the defeat of France. The French laws were rigid and arbitrary whereas the wage-hour act in the United States is flexible and does not prevent longer hours than the maximums, providing overtime is paid. Moreover, longer hours sap efficiency, the article says, quoting a general order of the United States army issued during the last World war showing that the output of workers on a ten-hour day "will be the same, or even less, than it was during the shorter (eight-hour) day."

Another article by Robert J. Watt, international representative of the American Federation of Labor, points out that democracy has been safeguarded in England despite the war emergency because labor has been given full representation in the administration of government affairs. Workers have willingly agreed to the suspension of former rights and privileges because of their patriotism and because they are assured of protection by their participation in the government, Mr. Watt says.

In an editorial, President William Green replies with an emphatic "No" to unfounded reports of labor shortages. He cites the conclusive fact that there are still almost 10,000,000 unemployed in the country and that a large percentage of these are skilled and semi-skilled workers who can be employed in defense industries.

A summary of the records of the Democratic and Republican candidates for president, together with the labor planks of both party platforms is presented in the magazine for the information of the 5,000,000 members of the American Federation of Labor, in conformity with its non-partisan political policy.

Just think of the millions power utilities have lost in decreased light bills! Vote for Willkie and use less lights.

You have until Sept. 6 to pay your poll tax so you can vote in the presidential election in November.

SHRIMP WORKERS STRIKE

Biloxi, Miss.—Shrimp packing in Biloxi is at a standstill owing to the refusal of the packers to pay the $8 a barrel demanded by the union, inasmuch as the Louisiana scale is only $6.50 a barrel. Over 800 are involved in the strike, including pickers at the various plants.

...e said the sole factor in... ...the designation of six-teen A. F. of L., C. I. O. and railroad union leaders for membership in the labor advisory committee was the degree to which they could contribute to the task of national defense and assist Hillman in the discharge of his duties at Washington.

He further said he had had to apply "the best judgment and discretion of which I was capable" in determining the size of the advisory committee and in selecting its individual members. Under these conditions, he added, it was impossible to contend that the non-inclusion of any unionist represented an act of unfriendliness.

"Grave Injustice" Charged

Matles began the controversy by a letter to Lewis in which he expressed the opinion that his union had been done a "grave injustice" by exclusion from the labor advisory committee and criticized giving of representation to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and other A. F. of L. craft unions. Lewis, transmitting the letter to Hillman, voiced his protest and said:

"I am definitely of the opinion that this union (the U. E. R. M. W. A.) is entitled to representation in the defense set-up and above certain organizations that have been given such representation."

Fingerprinting of 3½ Million Aliens Starts August 27; Labor Unions Urged to Aid Gigantic Task

Washington.—As part of the national defense program a nationwide registration of aliens will be conducted from Aug. 27 through Dec. 26 by the immigration and naturalization service of the department of justice. It is expected that more than three and a half million aliens will be fingerprinted during this period in the postoffices of the nation.

The alien registration act of 1940 requires all non-citizens of 14 years or older to register and be fingerprinted. Children under 14 will be registered by their parents or guardians. For failure to register a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment of six months is prescribed.

The alien registration division is distributing more than 5,000,000 specimen forms listing questions which will be asked. These forms will be available prior to registration, and after being filed with the local post office the alien will receive by mail a receipt card which serves as evidence of registration. Following registration aliens are required to report changes of address within five days.

The alien registration act was passed so that the government may determine exactly how many aliens there are, who they are, and where they are.

Both President Roosevelt and Solicitor General Biddle have pointed out that registration and fingerprinting will not be harmful to law-abiding aliens. The records will be secret and confidential and will be revealed only to persons approved by the attorney general.

The immigration and naturalization service asks for the co-operation of all citizens in carrying out the registration program in a friendly manner so that our large foreign population is not antagonized. It is suggested that citizens can be of great help to their alien neighbors by explaining what the registration is, where aliens go to register, and what information they must give.

Milk Arbiter Fines Union $10,000 For Walkout; Company Agrees To Accept Half of Award

New York City.—The Sheffield Farms company, one of New York's biggest milk purveyors, has accepted the recommendation of Arthur S. Meyer, impartial chairman of the milk industry here, to cut in half an award of $10,000 damages he had assessed against Unit No. 3, composed of Sheffield employes, in contract with Local 584, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

L. A. Van Bomel, president, announced that the company had taken the action as a means of promoting better labor relations. He said that the money "will be set aside to supplement the $40,000 appropriated by the company for pensioning its long deserving employes."

Union Labor Credited with Big Gains In Movement for Paid Vacations

Detroit.—The important part taken by organized labor in winning vacations with pay for wage earners is discussed editorially in the August issue of the Motorman, Conductor and Motor Coach Operator, official organ of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America. The magazine, of which John J. Woods is editor, says:

"The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics has issued a report on vacations with pay, covering some 81,190 companies in the non-manufacturing field, which indicates that the proportion of workers included in vacation plans varied widely, from a minimum of 40 per cent, in the different industries, in 1939. In this category are the transit employes, and according to the latest data gathered at international headquarters, the number of members of the Amalgamated association who receive vacations with pay is far above the minimum, even the average, for the classification. Out of 366 local divisions, members of 254 divisions obtain paid vacations of from one to three weeks.

"The Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes was one of the first organizations to recognize the importance of annual paid vacations for wage earners in establishing better relations between employer and employe. Not only do vacations serve to improve the general health of workers, but they afford a form of recreation by caus-

There are unions devoted to the organization of office workers and others having no relation to newspaper writers, who should not permit themselves to be overwhelmed by elements extraneous to their craft and, therefore, having no relation to their particular problems.

"Nor will the American Newspaper Writers' association countenance the admittance into its organization of other completely outside elements, holding no jobs of any kind on newspapers, and, therefore, having no right whatsoever to hold cards in an organization of newspapermen and mold its policies.

"The American Newspaper Writers' association is an organization of, by and for newspapermen. It will not countenance interference by any political party and will not follow any party line. It will seek, however, to work in co-operation with all elements upon whom the welfare of working newspapermen depends, including the organized printing crafts.

"One of its most important tasks will be the promotion and maintenance of high ethical standards in the newspaper field.

"We have formed our organization in response to a widely expressed desire on the part of newspapermen for an organization of our type."

Plumbers' Local 43 Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary

By One of Them

Fifty years ago, Aug. 25, 1890, Local 43, United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters, was born. Fifty years of good times and bad times up until now, finding a strong, organization, a good wage scale and conditions that would have seemed just a dream to those seventeen charter members who went forth into the trades union world in a day and time when it was a risky thing to have a union card.

Only one of the charter signers is a member of Local 43 today. Maybe the $3.00 a day they wrung from the trade went to their heads and they went into business for themselves. Eight of them are known to have passed to an eternal reward: one of them, L. Brooks, is in California, and H. H. Watkins is in Texas and E. L. Bork is still in Chattanooga and to the best of our knowledge, is still working as journeyman at the trade, although all three of them had previously been in business for themselves. The records are silent on the others.

The complete list of charter signers might be interesting if some of them are remembered: E. L. Bork, Lawrence Brooks, R. E. Carroll, H. M. Crane, L. M. Davis, Thomas Eldridge, Joseph Garnier, Thomas Gouldson, E. Jones, E. Julius, A. A. Kunz, Gordon Lowery, Pat Maloney, J. W. Martin, Henry A. Rice, Herman G. Stormer and Henry H. Watkins.

The United Association itself is [illegible] years old. At that time P. J. Quinlan was general president and R. A. O'Brien was general secretary. President Quinlan died the first year in office, and Secretary O'Brien served a second term. In those good old days, the officers of the international were on the honors of the office, and [illegible]

[illegible] ters, who amalgamated with various independent unions and the Knights of Labor to form the U. A. into the American Federatino of Labor, which was established in 1881.

Coming back to this day and time, right here with Local 43, we have just cause to celebrate. With the membership of sixty strong and a good wage scale, no wonder our backs stiffen and chins go up when the honor of Local 43 is mentioned.

It has not been an easy job, at times clouds were low and threatening, and it took real courage to retain membership in old 43. But look at the line-up of leaders today and it does not appear so strange that we are so well off. Here they are:

President, G. D. Laws, assisted by Vice-President Edgar Jett.

Secretary-Treasurer E. S. Stacy has kept the books so long it is almost automatic.

Recording Secretary Ed Bork, Jr., is following in the footsteps of his father.

Sentinel George Hayden stands guard.

The between meetings executives are Ed Jett, D. H. Malone, A. (Sandy) Wheals, P. Wilhoit, Earl Shaw, and the dignified finance committee, composed of John Cotter, S. H. (Satchel) Martin and H. H. Kelley, do what finance committees are supposed to do.

This paper has preached the idea of getting behind the local labor labor paper.

One good way to help a local labor paper to keep clean, produce a good paper and reflect a good, clean movement, is to give it the support it deserves—MAKE IT DEPENDENT ONLY UPON THE LOCAL LABOR MOVEMENT AND ITS HONEST FRIENDS.

Many a sermon has been written about this general theme.

Advertising is useful, legitimate, healthful business. But when the advertiser is victimized into using an illegitimate medium to tell his story, then nothing can stay clean.

This newspaper is the enemy of the whole foul nestful of racketeering advertising promoters who misrepresent labor, offer a fraud and shoddy medium and offer the advertiser "protection" which he doesn't need and couldn't buy.

Readers, unions and businessmen can combine to help keep the frauds out of the way. Again, the best way is to offer UNITED SUPPORT TO YOUR LEGITIMATE LOCAL LABOR PAPER. Run up the old, old motto, still good: "Not a cent for tribute . . ." —C. M. W.

Fine Strength Shown By Labor Parade

At Least 6,000 Are In Line As Whistle Blew To Start Walk

Float and Flag Received Favorable Comment at Head of Hour-Long Parade

The Chattanooga Central Labor union last Monday astonished even themselves by the fine turnout for the Labor day parade which started on the dot at 7:30 p.m. One of the daily papers estimated that eight thousand A. F. of L. members were in line, while more conservative estimates place the figure at 6,000.

Winding up three days of fun and excitement, the parade was headed by an American flag sixty feet long, carried by 24 members of the Electrical Workers. Following the flag was a band of American Federation of Musicians, and then came the beautiful float which was as nice as any of the sixty or more other floats that rolled by. (Privately, we think our float was "nicer.") The queen, Miss Yvonne Erwin, brought forth many admiring comments. On the rear of the float was a husky, smoot-covered blacksmith, with rippling muscles and mighty arm.

And then came the local unions in a seemingly never-ending line started off by the electrical workers with special caps and then the white-clad carpenters.

After union after union had passed by, the Teamsters and truck Drivers wound up with a string of some 150 trucks, big, little and medium-sized, bread trucks, transfer trucks, ice trucks, milk Truck Drivers wound up with a by members of Local 515.

It was the finest demonstration of union strength in Chattanooga ever seen. Although it did not represent our full strength, there was heard on the sidelines comments that "we did not realize there were so many union people here."

The parade took an hour to pass by the reviewing stand.

Finis

The lecturer was emyhasizing the demoralizing effect of divorce. "Love," he said, "is a quest;" a proposal, a request; the giving of a daughter in marriage, a bequest; and marriage itself the conquest. But what is divorce?"

Voice from the audience: "The inquest."

Typo Auxiliary To Meet Tuesday

Typographical Auxiliary 219 will meet Tuesday night, Sept. 10, at 8 o'clock at the Times assembly room. All members please be present.

ADDIE UNDERWOOD,
Secretary.

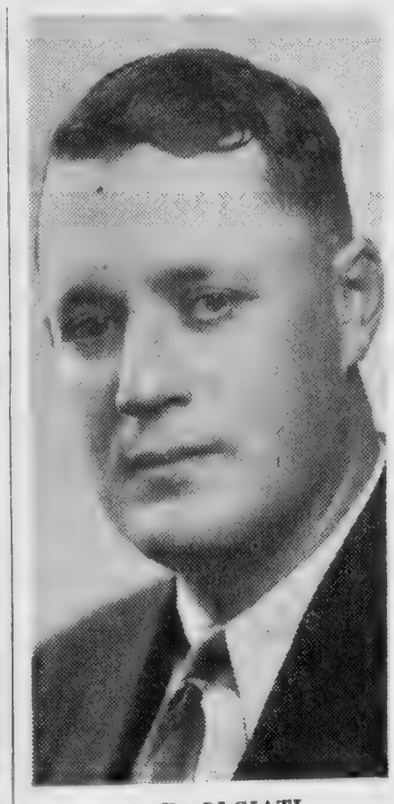
BUS AUXILIARY MEETS MONDAY

The auxiliary to the Street Car and Bus union will meet Monday evening at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Wallace, 1618 Dodds avenue. Every member is urged to attend.

There will be a lot of reminiscing to do over the splendid turnout made by the street car and bus men and the auxiliary in the mammoth parade last Monday night.

HARGRAVES, OLGIATI, DID FINE JOB AT WARNER PARK

ED HARGRAVES



P. R. OLGIATI

Much of the success of Labor day at Warner park is due to Ed Hargraves, director of recreation, and P. R. Olgiati, superintendent of the park. Ed supervised the play program, and "Rudy" made the ground spic and span for the thousands that attended.

Pres. Roosevelt Thrilled Thousands At Dam Ceremony

Central Body Did Not Have Speaker Because of President's Visit

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, incumbent and incoming, did more to make Labor day a success than any one individual. When word was received that he would come to Chattanooga, Central Body immediately decided not to bring in a special speaker due to the fact that no one could be invited more popular with organized labor than our president.

Hundreds of unionists met him at the train, while thousands waited for his arrival at the dam. In the reception committee that met him at the depot and drove to the dam, labor was represented by T. R. Cuthbert, secretary of the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

From the applause along the miles to the dam, there is no doubt about the November election.

After the president made a stirring dedication speech he was taken back to his train, where he went to dedicate the Great Smoky National park.

WIENER ROAST PLANNED BY GARMENT WORKERS

Next Saturday, Sept. 7, at 7 p.m. at Warner park will see the hot dogs fly. Local 846, Ladies' Garment Workers, will sponsor a wiener roast at that time, and all unionists and friends are welcome.

Did you see the flashy uniforms these fine trades unionists wore in the Labor day parade?

Everyone Worked Hard To Make Day Successful

Elmer Crosby and Helpers Sold Badges That Financed Expenses of Celebration

While such a successful and enjoyable Labor day could not have been accomplished by one man, but hundreds, credit is being given in great degree to the exhaustive work of President Vic Hallmark, Treasurer Ed Bork, Jr., and Elmer Crosby.

Ed was chairman of the Labor day committee, and he practically quit his trade the last week in order to make Labor day a success. Along with President Hallmark, these two loyal unionists appeared to be everywhere, and at midnight of Labor day they looked all in.

Hallmark had to use a motorcycle sidecar Monday night in order to cover the line of march being formed on Long street.

And Elmer Crosby did a bang-up job selling the Labor day badges which financed the expenses. This time Elmer sold every button, and when praise is being given out, the whole movement should stand in respect.

Hallmark, Crosby and Bork, with their assistants, put up a record this year for Labor day that will probably never be exceeded.

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

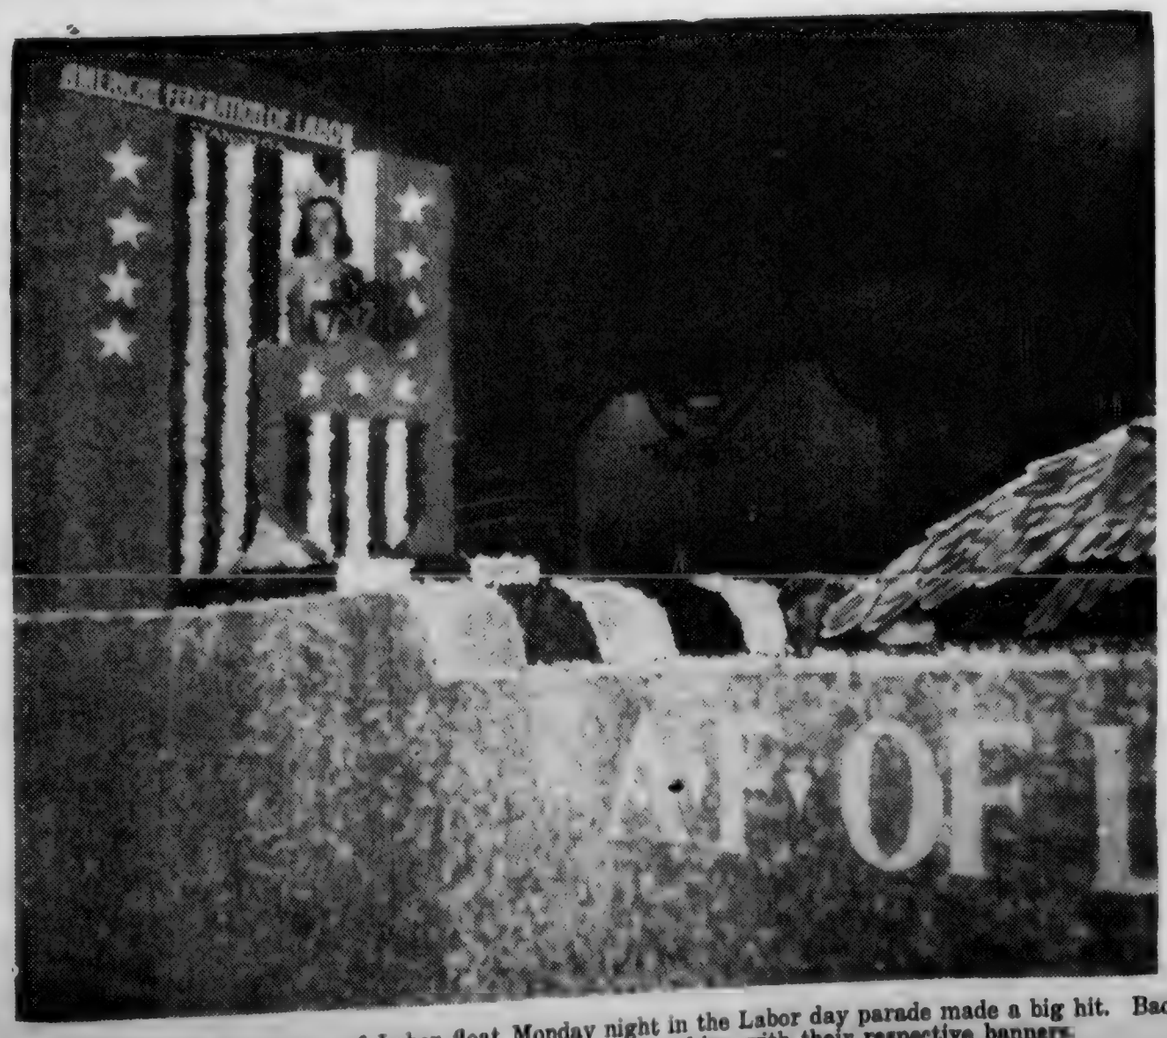
Our Float Made a Hit Labor Day



The American Federation of Labor float Monday night in the Labor day parade made a big hit. Backing the float were approximately 6,000 trades unionists marching with their respective banners.

We can well say that another chapter has been written in the annals of the men and women who labor in Chattanooga. We can look with pride at the accomplishments of the united efforts of our officers and members. In the future, there should not be any doubt in our minds, and if there is a task to be done, we should feel confident that it will and can be done.

We want to congratulate the officers and members of the Central Labor Union for the Labor day celebration. Their task was not easy by any means. There were many anxious moments and a lot of time was given and a lot of sleep lost.

Of course, that is past history now and the different committees that have seen their effort bear fruit do not begrudge the time and labor that it took to put that celebration over.

I feel mighty proud of our members who took part in the parade and want to especially thank Brother Schnee for coming in with us. I am sorry that we could not have a full turnout, but know that those who were absent had a good excuse. If the opportunity arises next year, I believe we will be able to say that a much larger turn-out will be possible. The expressions from different members were that they enjoyed every minute of the parade, even if there were many tired feet.

CHANGE IN BILL TO DEPORT HARRY BRIDGES IS ASKED

Washington, D. C.—As a substitute for the bill recently passed by the house ordering the deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. labor leader, a senate immigration subcommittee proposed that the attorney-general be directed to investigate the case to determine whether Bridges should be deported as an undesirable alien. The American Civil Liberties union has been fighting the bill in Congress, on the grounds that it represents an undesirable departure from American tradition and is patently unconstitutional.

Attorney-General Jackson, who would be obligated under the new proposal to make the investigation, recently announced opposition to the original house bill to deport Bridges.

A Cheap Alternative.

MacPherson was in love, and after he and his girl had had a walk one evening he invited her to have a drink, feeling sure she would ask for nothing more than a modest lemonade.

"Well, Jennie, dear," he sad, "and what'll I order for ye?"

"Why, thank you," she replied. "I'll take a large port."

"A large port!" he gasped. "Losh, woman, come on oot and I'll buy ye a picture postcard o' Liverpool Harbor."

Don't Forget—

In speaking of national defense the layman's thought naturally turns to fighting ships. However, fighting ships unless properly balanced and supported with auxiliary ships may lose their effectiveness. Many of us can recall that in 1907 when President Theodore Roosevelt ordered the American fleet on a round-the-world cruise, the Merchant Marine of the United States was so lacking that it was necessary to charter merchant vessels flying foreign flags in order to carry the supplies of the fighting fleet. — Commander Howard L. Vickery, U.S.N.

A lot of talk for Roosevelt does no good unless your poll tax is paid, you are registered, and you VOTE for him.

Fate—

The fate of England is not only our most important present problem, but it is probably the most important problem we have ever faced nationally, except, perhaps, during the Revolutionary and Civil wars. Those conflicts were fundamentally important to us as a nation, but now we are witnessing the remaking of the world.—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist, Cleveland Trust Company.

Support—

There have been times in the past when the Red Cross could hardly be said to deserve the support of organized labor. This is not one of those times. It is doing a great humanitarian work in war-torn Europe, and those of us who have been spared the horrors of war; those of us who are still able to enjoy the security of our homes and the liberties of a great within our power to aid in this democracy should do everything work.—Railway Clerk, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramplike pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI'S principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

Tennessee Climate Boasts Some Characteristics of Many Areas

(Prepared for The Labor World by C. E. Allred and others, University of Tennessee Department of Agricultural Economics.)

The climate of Tennessee compares favorably with that of other parts of the United States. It is characterized mainly by an abundant and well-distributed rainfall, a relatively long growing season, mild temperatures for the most part, and a relatively high percentage of possible annual sunshine. Weather changes are fairly frequent but extremes are rare and usually of short duration. Due largely to altitude, latitude, and longitude, Tennessee has some of the characteristics of the climate of every state from Mississippi to Canada.

The average annual temperature of 58.6 degrees in Tennessee is approximately the same as that of southern Europe. The thermal line representing this temperature passes through northern Spain, the southern extremity of France, and continues on through Greece and Italy. But the seasonal range in temperature in Tennessee is wider than in those countries, the summers being hotter and the winters colder.

Within Tennessee the average temperature varies from 54.3 degrees in northern East Tennessee to 60.4 degrees in southern West Tennessee. The difference is partly due to decrease in elevation from east to west. Average July temperature varies from 70 degrees in northeast Tennessee to 80 degrees in the western portion; average January temperatures in those areas are 36 and 41 degrees respectively.

Annual number of days with temperature continuously below freezing is five to ten in Tennessee, compared with sixty in northern Iowa and 105 in northern Minnesota. The state has an average of sixty days with freezing temperatures. Frost-free periods vary from 167 days at Mountain City to 226 days at Memphis. This growing season period is 200 days or more in most of West Tennessee, in Middle Tennessee around Nashville, and in the East Tennessee valley south of Knoxville.

Average precipitation in Tennessee is 49.9 inches. During forty-eight years the range has been from 40 to 60 inches per year. Autumn is the dryest season, with 9.5 inches. The remaining 40.4 inches is almost equally distributed in other seasons.

Average snowfall is 10.9 inches. Snow occurs on from one to twenty days per year, and remains on the ground from one to thirty days.

Tennessee has an average of 154 clear days, 101 partly cloudy, and 110 cloudy. Approximately 60 per cent of the total possible sunshine is available.

Hearst Pays $228,500 For Firing Union Men

Washington, D. C.—The national labor relations board approved the offer of Hearst Publications, Inc., of San Francisco, to pay $28,500 to five employes of the circulation department of the Los Angeles Examiner "found to have been discriminately discharged because of union activities." Hearst Publications also agreed to post notices that it will not discourage membership or activity in the A. F. of L. TEACHER TALK

More About the AFT Convention.

Following is the statement of principles to which the national executive council (president and fifteen vice-presidents) pledged themselves in their successful race:

First: The European war and developments in the Far East have produced a threat to our national safety. We stand, therefore, for an adequate program of national defense with which we can preserve and extend our democratic institutions.

(a) In the defense program we are opposed to any move to destroy or curtail the labor standards which have been achieved by the unions through their economic strength or through legislation. These must be safeguarded and advanced.

(b) Labor must be given adequate representation and recognition in whatever defense plans the congress may formulate.

(c) The unemployed must be returned to jobs and the productive capacity of the nation released from the shackles that bind it.

(d) Social security laws must be preserved and extended.

(e) Educational standards and services must be protected and expanded; the tenure and academic freedom of teachers defended.

(f) There must be no abrogation of the civil liberties of any person regardless of race, religion, creed, or political belief.

All of these are integral factors in defense and are essential to the preservation and upbuilding of the morale of the people of the nation.

Second: We are opposed to totalitarian idealogies which negate the fundamental concepts of democracy and we condemn the wars of aggression for imperialist ends by the totalitarian nations be they fascist, nazi, or communist. These are destructive of the idea of a society of free men for which we stand, proudly and with a determination to defend.

Third: In relation to our own union, we stand unequivocally for the right of any citizen, including members of the American Federation of Teachers, to hold any view on political and social questions and to membership in any legal political party, but we strongly condemn and oppose any attempt at manipulation of the American Federation of Teachers, or its program and policies, by a communist group or any other group whose activities in the union are directed primarily toward furthering the ends of agencies, foreign or domestic, external to the union and its policies.

We stand for election of an executive council whose loyalty to American democratic principles and to the American Federation of Teachers comes before every other consideration.

In conclusion we would like to say that the above statement of principles is not intended to be all inclusive. We are in agreement with the educational policies of the American Federation of Teachers on tenure, salaries, retirement, academic freedom, federal aid, equalization of educational opportunity, adult education, and vocational education. We have tried, only, to deal in general terms with two issues arising out of the world crisis and with the fundamental issue which the American Federation of Teachers must resolve if it is to continue to grow and to defend and advance American education and American democracy.

We print the above in full because we think all our members should know how their delegates represent them. All the delegates from Local 246 signed the statement and actively supported the slate of nominees that pledged themselves to it—and won.

AFL Asks 300 Million Dollar Fund To Build Homes for Defense Workers

Washington, D. C.—One of the most serious housing shortages in American history has arisen at the sites of national defense projects, the American Federation of Labor informed Congress.

William C. Hushing, chairman of the federation's legislative bureau, urged action on a bill by Senator Wagner of New York, to set up a fund of $300,000,000 for defense housing. Wagner's bill is in the form of an amendment to a pending deficiency defense appropriation measure now before the senate committee on appropriations.

Workers have flocked to industrial centers so rapidly that all dwelling space has been exhausted and "in hundreds of communities defense workers are forced to huddle in cars, trailers, garages or makeshift tents," Mr. Hushing revealed. At the very least, 122,000 dwelling units are needed and unless they are provided the defense program will be retarded, he said.

An unusualy desperate situation has developed in Bremerton, Wash., scene of a navy yard and other government undertakings. There, according to reports received by the federation:

"Men, women and children are sleeping in jail, on the grass in the city park, in parked automobiles, on makeshift beds in garages and in tents pitched at the outskirts of the community."

In Philadelphia the navy yard commandant made a formal request of that city's housing authority to put up immediately 1,000 units for married workers. Conditions there were described as acute.

Mr. Hushing contended that "the very existence of these conditions is a national disgrace" and warned that epidemics may follow if they are not corrected.

Los Angeles Trespass Ordinance Amended To Protect Labor

New York City.—The American Civil Liberties union announces that labor forces in co-operation with the Southern California branch of the American Civil Liberties union have just chalked up a victory for labor's civil rights with the adoption of a proviso in the new Los Angeles anti-trespass ordinance which is acceptable to labor and liberal groups.

The ordinance, aimed at protection of aircraft, utility and oil plants from sabotage now contains an amendment preserving "any activity for the purpose of engaging in any organizational effort on behalf of any labor union . . . or for carrying on the normal activities of labor unions."

Another proposed Los Angeles ordinance which would prohibit "lingering and loitering" in certain public places, is being studied by local attorneys for labor. Loitering ordinances have for many years been used against labor unionists and others to deprive them of civil rights.

Gompers Received Labor Day Law Pen

Congressman Amos J. Cummings of New York, joint author with Senator James H. Kyle of South Dakota, of the bill making the first Monday in September a national holiday took the bill passed by both houses of Congress to President Grover Cleveland for approval on June 28, 1894. Mr. Cummings presented the pen and holder used by the president in signing the bill to President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1940

Let's Use Our Strength

This message is addressed directly to all members of organized labor and their families It concerns the Labor day parade and the tangible lesson it could teach us if we would only learn

We think the parade surprised even our most optimistic members. We knew that we had a fine strength in this community, but were doubtful if a sufficient number would hurt their "dogs" by marching. As it was we had out about 50 per cent, some unions not being represented at all. Many of the service trades were actually at work and of course could not leave their jobs to parade

Even so, it was an impressive sight. A policeman, standing by me, remarked, "Cuthbert, if just that bunch in line would vote, families included, you folks could go places."

Truer words were never spoken

And if "that bunch" would spend its wages for union products only, there would be no trouble getting agreements signed.

Why doesn't labor see these simple facts? By the simple act of voting its strength labor can accomplish great things.

Last Monday's parade did a lot of good for labor. It opened the eyes of many people who did not realize we are so strong. And it is hoped that, realizing our size, some people we know will change their policies toward organized labor.

Thanks Messrs. Biggers and Engel

We wish to pay particular thanks to Mr. Joe Engel, in charge of the fireworks display Labor day, for the splendid series of thrills he afforded the thousands at Warner park last Monday night.

Many have said that the fireworks that night were better than ever seen in Chattanooga.

And we thank Mr. Biggers for his consideration in the parade. He showed a desire all through those hectic weeks of preparation to be fair with labor and not to interfere with our normal Labor day celebration ceremonies.

TIME FOR WORK

Something to Remember

"Where civil or religious rights are destroyed or threatened the whole structure of democracy is weakened and, in time, must crumble," Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, said the other day. History, especially recent history in Europe, bears out Mr. Lehman's words, which direct attention to something every American should keep in mind, when confronted with demands for curtailment or suppression of civil rights.

Time For Work

Labor day, 1940, is past and with it the record of a year of marked progress for organized labor. Will the year between now and Labor day, 1941, bring equal or even more progress? It will, if every union member buckles down to work NOW, determined to strengthen his organization and make it a more effective instrument for labor's advancement than ever before.

That means, among other things, regular attendance at union meetings, energetic support of all union activities, and consistent buying of union label products and services. This kind of support will make for a year of solid progress, which labor can recall with pride next Labor day.

"BLEST BE THE TIE THAT BINDS!" By Baer

Government Employes Exceed One Million

Washington, D. C.—Fo rthe first time in the country's history, the total of federal employes listed under civil service, has risen above the million mark, exceeding alike the World war mark of 917,960, and the previous all-time "high" of 987,857 reached in December.

Employment in the executive branch during the last half of June, totaled 1,011,066, a net increase of 33.076, or 3.4 per cent over the May figure of 977,990.

Almost 60 per cent of the increase was in the war and navy departments, the Panama Canal force and the Civil Aeronautics Authority, agencies characterized by the commission as in "the forefront of the defense program."

Deportation of Bridges Stalled by Senate Unit

Washington, D. C.—The senate immigration committee voted to report a modified version of the house bill which provided for the immediate deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, on the ground that Congress deemed his presence in this country hurtful.

The senate committee version directs the attorney-general to make an investigation of Bridges and "to proceed with his deportation in the manner provided by law" if the inquiry produces facts justifying such action. The house bill provides for deportation "notwithstanding any other provision of the law."

It Works—

I don't believe there are more than a handful of people, speaking relatively, who would like to see the minimum wage provision of the wage and hour law repealed. By means of this provision we raised the wages of nearly 700,000 workers up to the 30 cents an hour required by the law. Many said it couldn't be done—we'd wreck the nation's economy in the process. But we have tried it and it works. —Col. Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator.

Notes From Candy Workers

Dear Fellow-workers: Here we are in September again, and I am sure all are well pleased with the grand success of our great display of union loyalty in our Monday night parade. We enjoyed it to the fullest in spite of the heat and all the walking.

We owe a note of thanks for the way our lady members came out to do their part.

I want also to congratulate the members of one of the city churches for the way they defended one of their union members who is trying to help his fellow-men to gain their rights. I wonder if people who try to help the working folks improve their conditions in labor unions are not doing more for real Christianity than those who constantly fight organized labor.

* * *

Probably many of you saw our banner in the parade—and know that we make 100 per cent union peanut butter and candy.

It is terrible the way Roosevelt has made employers increase payrolls. Make things easier for them by voting for Willkie

"WHAT PRICE PATRIOTISM!" By Baer

Boeing Aircraft Strike Averted By Arbitration of Wage Dispute

Seattle, Wash.—A strike of 7,000 union mechanics at the Boeing Aircraft company was averted when the workers and management accepted arbitration of their differences.

Boeing executives had forced Local 751, International Association of Machinists (A. F. of L.), to the verge of a strike by insisting on a 12 per cent wage cut for new employes now getting 62½ cents an hour.

The company wanted to throw the entire wage contract into arbitration, including points upon which agreement had been reached, but the union's contention that only matters in dispute be arbitrated was upheld.

Union negotiators had previously obtained agreement on a scale of $1.15 an hour for premium workers, $1.05 for Class A mechanics and 85 cents for Class B mechanics. The issue was the union's demand for a 70-cent rate for Class C helpers, as against the prevailing 62½ cents and the company's counter-proposal of 55 cents.

The peace plan was overwhelmingly approved at a mass meeting. President Harvey W. Brown of the Machinists, also a member of the national defense advisory commission, assured the workers that the government would support the union in its fight against a wage cut.

After the meeting the unionists formed a motorcade several miles long for a parade through the business district. Headed by Local 751's brass band, the cars bore banners reading: "A Living Wage Is the Best National Defense."

Modesto Bakery Drivers Win $45 Weekly Rate

Modesto, Calif.—A wage scale of $45 per week has been obtained for Bakery Drivers and Salesmen of the Modesto and Stockton area in a new agreement.

Other provisions in the contract give an eight-hour day with time and one-half for overtime, together with eight holidays.

40-Cent Pay Rate Set For Leather Workers

Washington, D. C.—Col. Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator, issued an order calling for the payment of a minimum wage of 40 cents per hour in the manufacture of leather, effective Sept. 16. The minimum was recommended by an industry committee composed equally of representatives of the public, employes and employers under the chairmanship of Monsignor Francis J. Haas, dean of the school of social science, Catholic University of America, which investigated the economy of the industry. It is estimated that the minimum wage will increase the hourly wage rates of more than 2,700 wage earners out of 49,000 employes in the industry.

Senator Mead Opposes Labor Gains Blackout

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—United States Senator James M. Mead of New York told the annual convention of the State Council of Carpenters here that high labor standards must not be lowered in the national defense program.

"One thing," he said, "we must promise ourselves and make unmistakably crystal-clear to all who would use this crisis to break down the hard-won labor victories of the last seven years. That is, that there will be no blackout of labor gains, and no retreat from the advances we have made through seven years of legislative effort. Social, economic and labor legislation need not be sacrificed—must not be sacrificed—in the future."

If politics is "dirty," maybe it is because you do not take an active part.

Union Agreement Signed By Laundry in Bastrop

Bastrop, La.—An agreement was signed here last Friday between the local Union of Laundry Workers and the Jack Tyler Laundry. Earlier in the week the management had refused to negotiate with the union representatives and it became necessary for a strike to be called. E. H. Williams, representing the American Federation of Labor and president of the Louisiana State Federation of Labor, was called in to assist the union committee. Commissioner of Conciliation Morrow, of the U. S. department of labor, also was called in and aided President Williams and the local committee in obtaining the union agreement.

Sealed proposals for the furnishing and installing of Sub-Project Contract No. 7-N-1 of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, acting for and on behalf of the City of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

P. W. A. Project Docket: Tenn. 1105-P-DS

Electric Distribution System

will be received by the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, at the office of the Secretary of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Room 403, Power Building, Chattanooga, Tennessee, until 2 P.M., C.S.T., on the 16th day of September, 1940, at which time and place they will be immediately publicly opened and read by the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga.

Copies of the Proposal, Contract Documents and Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Electric Power Board, Municipal Building, Chattanooga, Tennessee. A deposit (certified check) of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars will be required for procuring the Proposal, Contract Documents and Specifications. The deposit for these documents will be returned to all except the successful bidder upon the return of the documents in good condition within ten (10) days after the bids are opened.

A copy of the Proposal, Contract Documents and Specifications may be examined free of charge at the Chamber of Commerce and the office of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check, or Bidder's Bond executed by the bidder and a surety company licensed to do business in Tennessee, in the sum of ten (10) per cent of the amount of the bid. The bond is required as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be immediately entered into and the performance of it properly secured.

The successful bidder will be required to execute a Performance Bond acceptable to the Electric Power Board in the amount of one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price and said Performance Bond, among other things, shall provide that the Contractor will pay for all labor and materials used by said Contractor or any immediate or remote subcontractor under him on said contract in lawful money of the United States. This Performance Bond shall be made through a company having a duly authorized representative in Chattanooga, Tennessee, upon whom process may be served.

All items in the proposal form must be properly filled out and must not be detached from the Specifications. No qualifying letters or statements will be considered.

WAGES: Attention is called to the fact that no less than the minimum wage rates as set up in the specifications shall be paid on this project.

WITHDRAWAL OF BIDS: Bidders may withdraw bids at any time prior to the opening, but thereafter no bidder may withdraw a bid submitted for a period of thirty days after the date set for the opening of such bids.

The estimated cost of the construction of the project covered by this contract is $8,000.00.

The Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any informalities therein.

Mr. C. M. Williams was honored with a birthday dinner at his home in Boynton, Ga., on Sunday, Aug. 25, sharing honors with his two grandsons, Dan and Charles Edwin Williams, who have birthdays the same week.

The furious diner bellowed to the waiter: "What's the matter with you, man? I began with fish and now you've brought me soup. Surely you know that soup comes first?"

"Yes, sir, quite, sir," said the waiter, in a whisper, "but between ourselves, sir, the fish couldn't wait any longer."

Vegetable Laxative With Proved Feature

The punctual, satisfying relief from constipation and its headaches, biliousness, bad breath, so often experienced by users of this laxative, is mainly due to its combination of purely vegetable ingredients.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient has high medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative"; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

A little of this spicy, aromatic product by simple directions at bedtime, generally allows time for a good night's rest; acts gently and thoroughly next morning.

Next time, take time-tested, economical BLACK-DRAUGHT.

NOTICE TO LIEN CREDITORS
No. 28237
Chancery Court, Hamilton County, Tennessee
George L. Rice, Receiver, etc., vs. Charles Cate, et al

To the lien creditors or lien claimants of Charles Cate and Eloise Cate:

In obedience to an order made by the Chancery Court at Chattanooga, in the case of George L. Rice, Receiver, etc., vs. Charles Cate, et al, being No. 28237 on the rule docket of said Court, all lien creditors of the defendants, Charles Cate and Eloise Cate, are hereby notified to come in by petition, accompanied by proper prosecution bond or pauper's oath in lieu thereof, and file and prove their respective claims against said defendants, Charles Cate and Eloise Cate, and lien rights against the property situated in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot Nine (9) Block One (1) Revised Plat of Hamilton Place, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 8, page 35, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said lot fronts forty-eight (48) feet on the north line of Sunbeam Avenue and runs back northwardly, between parallel lines, one hundred ninety-eight (198) feet to the south line of Lot Two (2) in said block.

Said petitions are required to be filed on or before the 17th day of October, 1940, in this cause, or they and each of them shall be excluded from the benefits of this proceeding.

All creditors, lien creditors or lien claimants against said defendants, Charles Cate and Eloise Cate, and/or having or claiming any liens, rights or interests in or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding except in this cause, and all parties to any and all suits now pending against said defendants and/or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding further in them than to judgment.

This order will be published in the Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton County, Tennessee, for four successive weeks.

This August 22nd, 1940.

STRIKE PICKETS DO BIT TO AID DEFENSE WORK

New York City—Pickets at the Circle Wire & Cable company, Maspeth, Long Island, did their bit to aid the national defense program when they forgot their grievances temporarily and assisted in loading several truckloads of heavy cable urgently needed for a battleship now under construction at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

When a fleet of trucks pulled up at the Maspeth plant to load a government order of heavy cable, the union truckmen refused to pass a picket line composed of striking members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local No. 3, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

After a conference of truckmen, government officials and Edward McAlinn, business representative of the electrical union, it was agreed to allow the navy yard trucks to be loaded.

The pickets not only approved of McAlinn's action but assisted in the loading of the trucks.

The wire and cable strike began Aug. 1. It is directed against five plants in greater New York, employing 1,500 workers. The strike is 100 per cent effective. The workers are asking higher pay rates, a seven-hour day, thirty-five-hour week and a union shop.

Bakers' Scraps

I was disappointed at not getting to see the president on his visit here, but after the swell turnout of the bakers for the parade Monday night I was very well satisfied with our Labor day celebration. We had over eighty members to turn out for the parade from the various bakeries which we have under contract. We were especially glad to have Mrs. Elibabeth O'Dear, from our branch local of Tracy City.

* * *

Sorry that Mildred Ritchie is reported sick and hope that she is getting along nicely. Sure missed Mildred in the Labor day parade last Monday.

* * *

The cute little girl that led our parade the other night was Ruth Adamson of the Erskine bakery. We are proud of our Erskine girls for the swell turn-out and I think there were about twenty-five girls there. Mary Newell Rhea was the delight of the parade with her cute saying along the line of march, thanking the many spectators for their applause and interest.

WALKER-OUTERS
By Charles Weigle

They are walking out again, they say,
Not with Roosevelt, but the other way,
But let them walk, they walked before,
They walked with Landon til their feet got sore.
Then big Jim Farley said let them walk,
Walking does not count, it was votes that talked.
So they walked with Landon and walked in vain
And all walked out in Vermont and Maine.
Now, you can hear the tread of walking feet,
But remember this is not a one-way street,
There is White, Stinson and Knox you see,
Walking with Roosevelt like you and me.
So walk with Willkie up and down,
And let the T. V. A. shut down,
And bring in the future, what you had in the past,
And see how long cheap power will last.
So walk with whom and when you please,
This little verse is only to tease,
So walk as you like, or climb a tree,
You can walk as you will, in the land of the free.

* * *

Would like to congratulate Brother H. E. Schaerer on his recent marriage. Brother Schaerer is secretary of our bakers local in Tracy City. Local 25 wishes for you and the missus loads of happiness.

* * *

Brother Ed Wilkey has returned to work after being off for a few weeks. Sure glad that Ed has returned to work.

* * *

Curtis Sims was too lazy to parade with us the other night. Brother Sims is in town on local business for the international.

350 CHARTER MEMBERS ARE OBLIGATED AT ASHEVILLE

Asheville, N. C.—Last Saturday night 350 charter members of a newly organized local union of the United Textile Workers of America were obligated at the presentation and installation of the charter. The local union had been organized ten days previously with 245 members signing the application for the charter. Announcement was made at that time that the charter would be installed Saturday evening, Aug. 17, and that all who made application and paid the application fee by that date would be taken in as charter members.

When the meeting was called to order it was found that 105 workers had joined in the meantime, and these, added to the 245 who had signed the application for the charter, made up the 350 charter membership list obligated at Saturday night's meeting. Council M. Fox, international president of the Textile Workers of America, came to Asheville and presented the charter and gave the obligation to the membership. He declared that it was the largest charter membership in the history of his organization.

Mark Felmet, secretary of the Central Labor union; L. D. Warren, president, and other members of the organizing committee who assisted Mr. Felmet, brought about this new big local union through their constant efforts to organize the unorganized.

THEY PREPARED FOR HODCARRIERS

Working all night last Sunday, G. T. Kay and P. P. Thurston prepared 1,500 pounds of barbecue for Local 846, Hodcarriers. The next day, Labor day, some 2,500 members of the local and families made it disappear. Warner park's splendid facilities made it a success.

Hodcarriers Serve Barbecue at Park

Local 846, Hodcarriers, enjoyed themselves at Warner park on Labor day, consuming 1,500 pounds of delicious barbecue. Members of the local and families, and some special guests attended the affair, which was sponsored and paid for by the union.

All Sunday night the meat was prepared under the supervision of G. T. Kay and P. P. Thurston.

Especial mention should be made of the cooperation of Mr. Bostain of the City Meat Market, who was a great help in the purchase and preparation of the meat.

The Soft Answer.

With a grim look on his face, the customer settled down in the barber's chair and let the man put the towel round him.

"Before we start," he said curtly, "I know the weather's terrible and that the dictators are a menace to the world. I don't care who'll win the next big fight and I'm not interested in horses. I'm aware I'm getting thin on the top, but I think it suits me. Now get on with it!"

"Well, sir," said the barber—he was a Boston barber—"if it's all the same to you, I'll be able to concentrate better on cutting your hair if you don't talk so much."

MOVE MADE TO FORCE VOTE ON ANTI-POLL TAX BILL

Washington, D. C.—Representative Lee E. Geyer of California has offered a petition to force House consideration of his bill to end the poll tax in states where it still exists.

The petition would require 218 House signatures to take it from a judiciary committee pigeonhole. Geyer introduced the measure on Aug. 5, 1939, but no action has been taken by the full committee.

"If the government must take young men from the South and elsewhere and put them in the army, for heaven's sake give them the right to vote," he said.

He charged that "largely because of the poll tax 75 per cent of the adult citizens in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia are denied access to the ballot."

LEMONS BROS. FURNITURE GNS CLOSED SHOP PACT TH RADIO WORKERS LOCAL

enty-two Months' Picketing Ends Last Thursday fternoon—Store Removed From Central Body Unfair" List.

e of the longest disputes in Chattanooga labor movement many years was ended last sday afternoon a few minutes The Labor World went to , when Clemons Bros. Furni- Company signed a closed shop ement with Local 662, Radio kers.

e argument started 22 months when negotiations with the ture company bogged down, picket was placed in front of tore. The picket stayed every te during business hours, even gh one of the bitterest win- experienced and the hottest of the summer.

rough the fine diplomacy of dent V. W. Hallmark of Cen- Body, and the changed feeling mpany officials, final negotia- were started last week that ly culminated in the radio de- ent being made a union one.

t Monday evening Central formally removed Clemons from the "unfair" list, and mends the store to all trades ists and friends.

Labor World congratulates the store and the union for tion.

rol System Accused Paying Men Only Cents Per Hour

w Orleans.—The New Orleans e patrol system, which fur- watchmen for private com- l houses, is a party to a ed by the wage and hour istrator for New Orleans. It rged the concern worked its 4 hours a week at 17 cents r and that its records were ed with the administrator.

Labor World Slipped On Hodcarrier Story In Last Week's Paper

The Labor World printed a story last week telling of the fine barbecue given by the Hodcarriers' union at Warner park on Labor Day. It failed to mention that a similar one was prepared at Lincoln park for the colored members of the union. Some 1,500 pounds of meat were consumed with all the trimmings, and the members and their families had a big time.

The Labor World is sorry about the omission, but we guess we had too much parading to remember everything there was to tell about.

Haverty's Signs With Radio Workers

Radio Workers, Local 662, is glad to announce that final negotiations have been concluded with the Haverty Furniture store and the radio department of Haverty's is now 100 per cent union.

Negotiations are in progress with another large furniture concern and the Radio Workers hope to have another union furniture store signed up soon.

Wage-Hour Exemption For Warehouses Stayed

Washington, D. C.—The wage and hour division announced that a proposed fourteen-week seasonal exemption from wage and hour regulations for country, subterminal and mill grain warehouses, issued by authority of the fair labor standards act, had been stayed because of the filing of objections by the American Federation of Grain Processors council, A. F. of L. affiliate. A hearing will be held in the fall on the proposal.

oosevelt's Fine Speech

We believe that every worker who could possibly do so, listened address of the President of the United States as he spoke to the sters' International Union. It was the voice of labor, itself, spoke and labor over the entire nation thrilled to the words of President.

We can do no more than quote excerpts from the President's talk more words would be superfluous. He describes the very aims eals of the American labor movement when he says:

* * * the assurance to labor of the untrammeled right organize and to bargain collectively with their employers. hat principle has now become firmly embedded in the law the land; it must remain as the foundation of industrial lations for all times. * * *

The benefits of social security should be broadened and tended; unemployment should cover a large number of orkers. Our old-age pension system must be improved d extended. * * *

We must make sure in all that we do that there be no eakdown or cancellation of any of the great social gains hich we have made in these past years. * * *

I know that America will never be disappointed in its pectation that labor will always continue to do its share the job we now face, patriotically and unselfishly. * * *

It is equally necessary and fair that every dollar of pital in America also contribute its share. Just so long as e continue to call upon men to train for combat, and for rvice behind the lines, we will also continue to call upon e industrial plants of the nations for the service which they n give. * * *

t no person think that Labor will turn against President lt. He will continue to have our united support.

NOT ONE PICKET IS WALKING HERE

For the first time in quite a while there is not a single dispute going on in Chattanooga involving picketing. This was made possible last week by the signing of Powell's sandwich shop and Clemons Bros.

Members of organized labor are "holding their breath", hoping that this condition will continue.

Brewery Workers Ask "No Alcohol" Rule for Temple

Petition Board of Directors Not to Permit Serving or Sale of Beer or Whisky in New Home When Opened.

Local 79, Brewery Workers, has taken an unusual action by asking the board of directors of Chattanooga Labor Temple, Inc., to prohibit the serving or beer or other alcoholic beverages in the new home for labor when it is ready for occupancy.

The bottlers believe that experience has shown that when such beverages are allowed in the labor temple it is hard to control and sometimes disorder results. If the board acts favorably on the resolution presented, it would mean that private entertainments would not be allowed in the home when such beverages are to be served.

The resolution formally passed by the local says:

"Whereas, organized labor of Hamilton county will be proud of its new labor temple when it is completed and ready for occupancy by the various local unions; and,

"Whereas, rules and regulations are now being drawn for the management of our home for the purpose of keeping it on a basis of decency and respect so that the community in which we live will regard our home as a place to which men, women and children feel free to come at any time; and,

"Whereas, if alcoholic beverages are prohibited in our labor temple there will be far less chance of ladies, gentlemen, and children being embarrassed by those who are unable to partake of such beverages in moderate portions; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by Local 79, International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers of America, that we sincerely request the governing board of our labor temple to strictly prohibit the entry of beer, wines or liquor into our labor temple; be it further

"Resolved, that this rule shall apply to any group renting our halls even for private parties or entertainment."

STREET CAR AUX. TO HAVE LUNCHEON

The ladies' auxiliary to Local 1212 will entertain with a covered dish luncheon on Tuesday, Sept. 24, at the home of Mrs. Aline Nelson.

All members are to bring a covered dish and come to Mrs. Nelson's about 11 o'clock on that Tuesday morning.

Powell Restaurant Signs Pact With Culinary Workers

Powell's Sandwich Shop, on Broad street near Eighth, signed an agreement with Local 574, Culinary Workers, last Friday morning. The place had been picketed for about ten days.

Through people outside of the labor movement who were friendly both to Mr. Powell and the union movement, both parties entered into a conference Thursday evening, and the contract was signed the next morning, with President V. W. Hallmark, of Central Body, playing an important part.

WILLKIE ENDORSES AFL DECLARATION ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Rushville, Ind.—In a statement issued on Labor Day, Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for president, pledged himself, if elected, "to enlist the wholehearted cooperation of labor, industry, agriculture and every other group in the task of overcoming our present economic stagnation and to wiping out unemployment."

Mr. Willkie declared that every friend of American labor should remember that in the totalitarian dictatorships of Europe free trade unions had been liquidated and union leaders had been imprisoned and in some cases murdered. He also pledged himself to check what he called the present trend toward government control of labor unions and expressed agreement with a statement of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor declaring that the present method of government spending, either on direct relief or work projects, could not provide a permanent solution for unemployment, and calling for removal of barriers to confidence so that owners and managers of industry would be willing to risk the expenditure of capital for the development of industrial enterprise.

Green Urges FDR Be Returned to White House

Pressmen Convention Installs Berry for 34th Consecutive Time—Two Go from 'Nooga.

Urging delegates to the fiftieth convention of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants union to "return Franklin Roosevelt to the White House," President William Green brought the delegates to their feet Tuesday.

George L. Berry was installed as president of the great international union for the 34th consecutive time.

Attending the convention from Chattanooga were Roy Reynolds, president of the Chattanooga local, and White Abel as its official delegate.

ROOSEVELT PROMISES LABOR'S BENEFITS WILL BE PRESERVED

Chickamauga Dam, Tenn.—In a Labor Day address here, President Roosevelt hailed "the miracle that man has wrought" by seven years of labor in constructing the great dams of the Tennessee Valley Authority's power projects.

Discussing the harnessing of natural resources, the President concluded:

"In that development let us always remember that we must and shall retain the great gains that have been made for human social security in recent years. We propose, indeed, not to retain them alone but to improve and to extend them. Most assuredly we are determined neither to repeal them nor to weaken them.

"We understand now what we did not understand in 1917 and 1918—that the building up of army and navy equipment and the training of men to use it ought not to break down the gains of labor or the maintenance of living wages.

"We are seeking the preparedness of America, not against the threat of war or conquest alone but in order that preparedness be built to assure America peace that rests on the well-being of the American people."

Barney Leaves For Machinists Convention

SOUTH PITTSBURG WOOLEN MILL WORKERS FORM UNION

South Pittsburg, Tenn.—A local union has been organized here by employes of the Star Woolen Mills, and application for a charter has been made to the United Textile Workers of America. Paul J. Aymon, associate director of organization in the south for the American Federation of Labor, and Alfred Jones, U. T. W. of A. organizer, assisted the workers in the formation of the local union and the election of temporary officers. Charter for the new local was installed last Saturday and all employes are in the new union today.

I got in late this evening and could feel the coolness of the air and came to the conclusion that summer has just about departed. It won't be long till Old Man Winter will be like a certain fellow's prosperity we used to hear about:—it's just around the corner.

And election time is just around the corner, too. If we are the proud Americans we think we are and want to see this country a good place to live in and be the best country on earth, then why not qualify ourselves to vote in the coming elections. We as neighboring people, owe it to ourselves and loved ones. We must cast off this indifference, we must take part in the affairs of our country and if we are as loyal as we want the world to think we are, then go to the polls on election day and vote our convictions for freedom and the preservation of democracy. If you have failed to register, I am told that you can register in the near future as the books will be opened at the set time before election.

I. T. U. Agrees to Hold Conference On Reaffiliation With Federation

New Orleans, La.—The annual convention of the International Typographical Union unanimously voted to authorize its Executive Council to confer with the officers of the American Federation of Labor for the purpose of arriving at a satisfactory basis for the reaffiliation of the I.T.U. with the A. F. of L.

This action was taken at the suggestion of Matthew Woll, Vice President of the American Federation of Labor, who addressed the convention. Mr. Woll told the delegates of the union, which is under suspension, that the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. will recommend to the next A. F. of L. convention that the one-cent assessment now levied on all international unions be abolished and that hereafter international unions may be suspended only on authority from the A. F. of L. conventions.

Instead of the present one-cent assessment, which was levied to increase the revenues of the A. F. of L. for organizing purposes, it is expected that the Executive Council will recommend a Constitutional amendment raising the present one-cent per capita tax to two cents. This will assure the A. F. of L. an adequate income.

Pay Increase for Pressmen

Washington, D. C.—Washington Printing Pressmen's union, No. 1, has signed a new contract with the Graphic Arts Association calling for an increase of 5 cents per hour this year, with an additional 2½ cents an hour beginning July 1, 1941. The new agreement retains the forty-hour week, five straight days, and contains a war service reinstatement clause.

War Orders Help To Put 130,000 More to Work

Washington, D. C.—Continued stimulation of industry by war work and additional gains in construction helped give jobs to 130,000 more workers in non-agricultural industries between June 15 and July 15, Secretary of Labor Perkins reported.

She estimated the number at work as 35,600,000, about 1,000,000 more than in the same period last year.

The secretary said that private and public construction had added 75,000 workers, a figure which was offset by a similar decline in wholesale and retail trade employment.

However, around 77,000 new jobs were said to have been added in industries aided directly or indirectly by the defense program.

The number of workers employed in arsenals and navy yards increased about 7,000. The total for all federal, state and local governments increased by 95,000.

Louisiana 18th State To Adopt Civil Service

Chicago.—With adoption of a state civil service act in July, Louisiana became the eighteenth state to employ its workers through a formal merit system, the civil service assembly of the United States and Canada reports.

Louisiana's new law will not become entirely effective until July 1, 1942, although certain provisions to lay the foundation for the system and to start the machinery for classifying jobs already are in effect.

Half of the 18 state merit systems have been adopted since early in 1937, according to the civil service assembly. These include, besides Louisiana, the systems of Alabama, Connecticut, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island and Tennessee. One state, Arkansas, which adopted civil service in 1937, has repealed its merit system. The other nine states which have state civil service laws are California, Colorado, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Wisconsin.

In addition, several states have set up personnel systems which perform many of the functions of civil service agencies, but do not hold competitive examinations. Among these are Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia.

Since the recent amendment to the social security act, effective Jan. 1, 1940, every state operating under the act—which includes all 48, in some degree—must place its employment security and public assistance employes under civil service.

A lot of talk for Roosevelt does no good unless your poll tax is paid, you are registered, and you VOTE for him.

The best and most effective leaders of labor are those who "never lose the common touch;" who never get "big-headed"; who can still consider themselves as one of the membership, temporarily selected to lead.

WHAT NEXT?

New radio weather robots have been successfully tested and may soon be used by the United States Weather Bureau on high mountain peaks or inaccessible sea locations to give complete and automatic reports. Untouched by human hands for months at a time, these automatic weather-observing stations send out radio messages at predetermined intervals, reporting barometric pressure, air temperature, relative humidity, wind direction and velocity, rainfall and other factors used in weather predicting.

PROTECTION—

In a democracy the only protection against an effective invasion by propaganda is a state of enlightenment and understanding among the people generally which will immunize them and enable them to resist the appeals to fear, prejudice and unreasoning emotions. This calls both for a program of adult education and for the rapid improvement of social studies and civic education among children and youth in schools and colleges.—John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Old awnings may be painted and made as flexible and as good as new if these suggestions are followed: White beeswax dissolved in turpentine to the consistency of soft butter is mixed in the proportion of one-fourth pound to one pound of zinc oxide. A tablespoon of soft soap is added. Stretch the canvass awning flat on a board and apply the mixture with a broad knife. Work well into the material and scrape off surplus. The canvass is now ready for application of two coats of paint mixed with linseed oil.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

The most dramatic job being held by a woman in government today is that held by Miss Harriet Elliott as member of the national defense advisory commission.

Miss Elliott, Quaker from North Carolina, has under her wing all consumer interests. Her announcements so far indicate she plans to lean heavily toward what she describes as welfare work, covering almost all civilian life.

Up to this time there are in Miss Elliott's official family, which is a fairly large one, no trade union women members. She runs to college women as her aids.

Interesting fact about this aggressive personality is that she alone, of all the seven members, has her own personal publicity department. Others, including Knudsen, use the one general defense publicity staff.

PANTRY PALAVER

Chef's Hints: For best results when beating egg whites let them heat to room temperature before breaking the egg. Then start to beat.

Add a can of mock turtle soup to the gravy of leftover roast, thicken and add what leftover meat there is, pouring the whoel over a bowl of cooked noodles.

Every try wilted spinach? Mince fine raw spinach, season with salt, pepper and onion; brown bits of salt pork or bacon, adding two tablespoons of vinegar and pour the mixture over the spinach, tossing well. Chopped hard-cooked egg is a pleasing addition.

Nothing works as well as a little butter to remove fish or onion odors from utensils or fingers.

Always try to utilize the juice from canned salmon as it contains good food value. As only salt is added to salmon, when canned, the liquor contains the natural oil and juices from the fish.

Don't salt turnips while cooking—it robs them of their natural sweetness.

For a change cut your corn off the cob, add green pepper slices and bacon strips and brown well.

Blend strawberry preserves into melted butter and use on your griddle cakes. Umm, so good!

Apples cubed and sprinkled with lemon are a welcome addition to tuna fish salad.

BABY TALK

This is the time of year when garden furniture and games may be bought at about half price and it is a good idea to lay away some for next season. Give your yard enough glamor to lure or hold your children there. It's better to have all the kids of the neighborhood around than to have your own children off "goodness knows where."

If you can't afford a wading pool, canvass wading tanks can be bought very cheaply and moved anywhere. Let the children be generous with the hose on hot days, it won't hurt them, and the use of bathing suits as hot weather attire surely cuts down the laundry bills.

"Keep Out of the Gutter"

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

The percentage of Negroes of the total population in the United States today about equals the percentage of the foreign-born. The progress made by both groups is a credit to them, but by far the greatest honor should go to the Negro race, because of the tremendous handicaps which have been placed upon Negroes from every standpoint.

In the first place, foreigners came to this country as a matter of choice, and they have been given every encouragement to succeed, scarcely any door being closed to them. They were accepted upon an equality with native Americans in practically every particular and given an equal chance. About the only limitation placed upon them was that no foreign-born citizen may become President of the United States!

On the other hand, Negroes were originally brought to this country against their will, and subjected to the degrading conditions of slavery, and for a couple of centuries we systematically and deliberately expunged from them the qualities which fit a man for citizenship in a democracy by depriving them of nearly every privilege granted to the white man.

We compelled the Negro to live in the worst physical sections of our cities and towns, often without drainage or sewerage or garbage facilities; we drove the worst forms of immorality and depravity into the Negro quarters of the city; if a "Red Light" district was permitted, it was usually confined to the sections in which the Negro was compelled to live; and then we cursed the negro because of his "moral weakness." Until very recently his opportunities for securing an education were very limited. In times of depression the Negro was the first man to lose his job, and the last man to be re-employed. Even to survive under such conditions required character and ability with which the Negro is rarely credited.

Isn't it about time that we gave him a fair chance? Neither race hatred nor mawkish sentimentality will settle this question. And don't lets forget that "you can't keep a man in the gutter without getting into the gutter with him." The future of the Negro lies as much with the white race as it does with the Negro race. Labor, in particular, must face this question. If the standard for Negroes is kept at a low level, the progress of white workers will be proportionately halted. As a matter of self-defense—if for no other consideration—we must be loyal to the high principle which organized labor has set for itself, namely, "never to discriminate against a fellow-worker on account of creed, color or nationality."

Hedges Urging Workers to Know Their Security Rating

Atlanta, Ga.—Marion H. Hedges, popular official of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and serving as chief the labor information division of the social security board, has addressed letters to labor unions throughout the south, urging that aall members inform themselves as to their social security ratings. Mr. Hedges' letter says in part:

"If you would like to know the amount of wages credited to your social security account, the social security board will send you a statement if you will ask for it. As your old-age insurance benefits, and benefits for your family also, depend upon the amount of your wage credits, the social security board provides opportunity for a check-up every year."

The board furnishes an addressed postcard to any one who wants to know their social security, these being available in all field offices. Workers living in places where there is no field office can obtain information about the cards from their postoffice.

Mr. Hedges requests local union officials to call attention of their members to this highly important matter, and assist the membership in obtaining full information about each one's social security account. Local unions may obtain supplies of postcards from the nearest field office of the social security board and assist the members in obtaining this information about the insurance benefits to each and every worker covered by the act.

2,300 CIGAR MAKERS COME INO JACKSONVILLE UNION

Jacksonville, Fla.—A closed shop agreement was signed here last Thursday morning between the John H. Swisher & Son, Inc., and the local union of the Cigar Makers international, covering 2,300 employes. The agreement provides for an increase in wages, the closed shop, and a week's vacation with pay for all employes covered by the agreement. The employes of the Swisher company went out on an unorganized strike, called upon the Cigar Makers International union for assistance, and President Van Horn requested J. L. Rhodes, A. F. of L. organizer, to represent him in the matter.

A local union was organized and chartered, officers named, and negotiations for a settlement begun. Reports from Jacksonville stated that the plant resumed full operations Monday morning, under terms of the agreement, and that everything is moving smoothly under the organization plan, adopted through that great democratic instrument, collective bargaining. Representative Rhodes has been highly praised here for the splendid manner in which he aided the cigar makers, while the membership and the company officials are being applauded for their spirit of co-operation.

A. F. OF L. WINS ELECTION BY VOTE OF 230 TO SEVEN

Mobile, Ala.—Employes of the National Gypsum company held an election here last week to select a bargaining agency. The election count showed a vote of 230 for the A. F. of L. to 7 against this organization. Walter F. Schaeffer, A. F. of L. organizer, and the organizing committee of the Mobile Central Labor union, have assisted the workers in the gypsum plant in conducting their campaign.

Let's Look Up

Now that it is all over, we want to talk a bit about one of the failings we have in the labor movement which we should remedy. We refer to our lack of appreciation of courtesies shown us.

For the past two years the Pilgrim Congregational church has held special Labor Sunday services, to which organized labor was specially invited. The attendance at these services have been disappointing, especially when one remembers the immense turnout for the parade the following Monday night.

We know that many of our members go to church regularly, and that some of them are members of their church boards, and some are ministers of the gospel. The Labor movement should realize that there is more to its cause than mere wage negotiations, strikes and lockouts. There should be a spiritual phase in our principles if we expect to live a long time. A labor movement without God is not good.

We do not attempt to determine for members of our movement which church they should attend. The writer is not a member of the particular denomination that paid Labor a special courtesy. But we do think that we are short-sighted when we snub friendly advances.

We need the Church and the Church needs us. Together these two agencies can and will make the world a nicer place in which we have to live. Together we might avoid the same plight that Europe finds itself in today.

Let's lift our eyes from the ground once in a while and look toward more spiritual guidance.

Drive to Enforce Wage-Hour Act in Five Industries

Washington. — A nation-wide drive for compliance with the wage and hour law in five industries has been begun throughout the country, with 237 inspectors especially assigned to the job, it was announced by Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division, U. S. department of labor.

These industries are: Furniture, leather goods and luggage, boots and shoes, hosiery and woolen goods. The compliance drive is to be completed by October 1. More than 5,000 factories will have been inspected by that time.

The concentrated inspection of these industries is the second step in the wage and hour division's drive to obtain compliance with the fair labor standards act on a national, industry-wide basis. The first move was a compliance drive in the lumber industry, now said to be approaching a successful conclusion. In the future, other industries will be selected for similar concentrated inspections by simultaneous acttion in all areas. The object is to benefit both employers and employes throughout a given industry—by protecting an establishment that is in compliance from the lower-cost competition of one which is not observing the wage and hour requirements, and by gaining for workers the wages and overtime to which they are entitled under the act.

Henry Grady Hotel Strike Settled

Atlanta, Ga.—An agreement has been signed between the Henry Grady hotel, the Operating Engineers and the Atlanta Federation of Trades, which reduces hours of employment of engineers from 80 hours a week to 56 hours, and an increase in pay of $25.00 a month, with a week's vacation with pay. Contained in the agreement is a clause which states that the management of the hotel has no objections to the organization of all other hotel employes into local unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Alex F. McDonald, southern representative of the Operating Engineers; Charles B. Gramling, an international officer of the organization, and W. B. Nixon, local representative, assisted the engineers in the procurement of the agreement. Albert W. Gossett, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades; W. L. Abercrombie, of the Taxi Drivers local union; Herman Steinichen, representing the union musicians, and W. M. Kemp, of the State Employes Local union, lent invaluable support to the workers involved.

A short strike preceded the final adjustment, and the entire membership of the Atlanta Federation of Trades loyally supported the hotel employes.

If you are a chauffeur or maid, you can get your poll tax paid for you, perhaps.

Just think of the millions p utilities have lost in decreased bills! Vote for Willkie and less lights.

Googe Warns Unions to Rid Their Locals of Communists

Tampa, Fla.—George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, warned officials of four local unions of cigar makers here to rid their unions of meddlesome communist influences immediately, or find themselves behind the eight-ball. The local unions had been suspended from the Tampa Central Trades and Labor council because of alleged communists influences and activities in the local unions. A hearing was held, which Mr. Googe attended, for the purpose of hearing evidence against the suspended local unions.

It was at the conclusion of the hearing that Mr. Googe made the plain statements to the officers of the locals involved. The evidence has been transmitted to President Green for presentation to the Executive Council.

It was in evidence that the cigar makers local unions had supported and sent delegates to communist and CIO sponsored meetings.

"The communists do not want to help the cigar makers' union, or any other union, in the task of improving conditions of labor. All they want to do is to use our local unions for their hellish purpose of spreading world revolution, and the communists cannot and shall not use our affiliated A. F. of L. unions for such unholy and un-American purposes. The American Federation of Labor has never wanted to have anything to do with communists, does not want to have anything to do with them now, and never will want them. If any of the officers of these local unions are aiding and abetting communists, such officers and members will soon find themselves behind the eight-ball," Mr. Googe said.

"When you find communists getting into your organizations and starting their activities, get rid of them, cold-cock them, if that is the only way you can get rid of them," Mr. Googe thundered. "We cannot afford to have our affiliated local unions under suspicion even of harboring communists, when all good citizens in the American Federation of Labor and in all walks of life are so tremendously concerned with the nobler task of preserving our freedom and our democracy. The communists have but one purpose, and that is the absolute and utter destruction of our democracy and our freedom. We will not tolerate any affiliated local union here or anywhere else lending the good name of the American Federation of Labor to the communists to be used in their hellish scheme to overthrow the very democracy which is tolerating them as residents of this free land. If any of our members love Russia and its red rag and philosophy of communism more than they love the freedom and security of America, let them go to Russia where they can get their bellies full of that dope."

Mr. Googe's appearance here and his plain statements have had good effect throughout this section.

No Blackout of Labor Gains

This Must Be Made Crystal-Clear, Mead Tells Carpenters' Meeting.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—A strong declaration against any destruction of labor standards as a result of the national defense program was made here by Senator James M. Mead, New York, in addressing the thirty-fourth annual convention of the New York State Council of Carpenters.

Mead said there may be sacrifices to be made by all but added:

"One thing, however, we must make crystal-clear to all who would use this crisis to break down the hard-won labor victories of the last seven years: There will be no blackout of labor gains, and no retreat from the advances we have made through seven years of legislative effort.

"Social, economic and labor legislation need not be sacrificed—must not be sacrificed—in the future."

Labor Peace Urged.

The senator urged a program of national co-operation to forward defense efforts, and declared that a "healing in the rift of labor's ranks would be a mighty contribution to the strength, prestige and effectiveness of organized labor."

"Labor is charged with a severe and trying duty," he asserted. "We must engender the highest degree of unity, co-operation and co-ordination among all groups and all factions of our people. There may be sacrifices to be made on the part of capital, and labor and government.

"Labor must and shall continue to contribute to the forces which uphold and enrich our American way of life. It shall contribute to increased tolerance and neighborliness which bind together the American people. The bigot, the demogogue, the agitator, will find no welcome in your ranks. In the emergency of today, and in the unknown possibility of the future, labor can aid in unifying our people and in solidifying our national efforts.

Moral Defenses Vital

"Through social activities, recreational facilities, and public forums, labor can help to promote increased friendliness among all classes, creeds and races; it can encourage clearer understanding of our national aims; it can foster increased patriotic devotion to the principles of free government. These are moral defenses without which we could develop would be futile."

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 5th day of November, 1937, L. E. Dietz, Trustee, hereby reciting that he has no beneficial interest in the property, with full power to sell, transfer, convey, mortgage, or dispose of in any manner, without the consent, concurrence or disclosure of the beneficiary, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale to Title Guaranty & Trust Company, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for record December 21, 1937, and recorded in Book 755, page 459, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, the said deed of trust provides that, if the party of the Third Part (Hamilton National Bank), for any reason, desires to replace the Trustee, it may do so and appoint a successor by a written instrument duly registered, and the Successor Trustee shall then have title to the property described vested in him, and shall have all the powers of the original trustee; and,

Whereas, the said bank, the holder and owner of the indebtedness secured by the said deed of trust, by virtue of the authority given it in the said deed of trust, has heretofore removed the trustee therein named and appointed J. E. HARRIS as Successor Trustee, and he is now vested with all the powers and authority the original Trustee had, said instrument appointing the Trustee being registered in Book 804, page 110, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said L. E. Dietz, Trustee, has failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and has failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and has remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, J. E. Harris, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1940,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, curtesy, and all other exemptions of every kind, the following described real estate, in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Number One (1), Brainerd Bend Addition, located in the East half of Section Twenty-nine (29), Township Six (6), Range Three (3) West of Basis Line in the Ocoee District, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 10, page 47, of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said lot fronts sixty-five (65) feet on the west side of Hunt Avenue and extends westwardly between converging lines to the west line of said addition on which it has a footage of forty-nine & 6/10 (49.6) feet; its north line being one hundred forty & 85/100 (140.85) feet and its south line one hundred forty (140) feet in length.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This September 4, 1940.

NOTICE TO LIEN CREDITORS
No. 28237
Chancery Court, Hamilton County, Tennessee
George L. Rice, Receiver, etc., vs. Charles Cate, et al

To the lien creditors or lien claimants of Charles Cate and Eloise Cate:

In obedience to an order made by the Chancery Court at Chattanooga, in the case of George L. Rice, Receiver, etc., vs. Charles Cate, et al, being No. 28237 on the rule docket of said Court, all lien creditors of the defendants, Charles Cate and Eloise Cate, are hereby notified to come in by petition, accompanied by proper prosecution bond or pauper's oath in lieu thereof, and file and prove their respective claims against said defendants, Charles Cate and Eloise Cate, and lien rights against the property situated in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot Nine (9) Block One (1) Revised Plat of Hamilton Place, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 8, page 35, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said lot fronts forty-eight (48) feet on the north line of Sunbeam Avenue and runs back northwardly, between parallel lines, one hundred ninety-eight (198) feet to the south line of Lot Two (2) in said block.

Said petitions are required to be filed on or before the 17th day of October, 1940, in this cause, or they and each of them shall be excluded from the benefits of this proceeding.

All creditors, lien creditors or lien claimants against said defendants, Charles Cate and Eloise Cate, and/or having or claiming any liens, rights or interests in or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding except in this cause, and all parties to any and all suits now pending against said defendants and/or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding further in them than to judgment.

This order will be published in the Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton County, Tennessee, for four successive weeks.

A. F. of L. CERTIFIED AS BARGAINING AGENCY FOR ALL EMPLOYES OF COPPER BASIN

Copperhill, Tenn.—Copies of the labor board's decision and certification of the American Federation of Labor as sole bargaining agency for employes of the Tennessee Copper company have been received here by officials of the A. F. of L. union. The election was held on July 26, and resulted in the A. F. of L. receiving 954 votes while only 174 votes were cast against the A. F. of L. On Aug. 3 the CIO filed objections to the ballot and election report.

The report of the labor board's regional director stated that objections filed by the CIO did not raise substantial and material issues with respect to the conduct of the ballot or election report, and the objections were dismissed, and the following notice of certification issued:

"It is hereby certified that the American Federation of Labor has been designated and selected by a majority of the employes of the Tennessee Copper company, Copperhill, Tenn., in the Ducktown basin, including those employes whose names appear on the company's preferential hiring list, but excluding clerical and supervisory employes, chemists and technical engineers, as their representative for the purposes of collective bargaining, and that, pursuant to Section 9 (a) of the national labor relations act, the American Federation of labor is the exclusive representative of all such employes for the purpose of collective bargaining in respect to rates of pay, wages, hours of employment, and other conditions of employment."

The order of certification is signed by Edwin S. Smith and William L. Leiserson, members of the national relations act. This certification following the overwhelming majority vote of the employes for the American Federation of Labor brings to a definite end a contest that has raged for years, and hope is expressed that permanent and lasting peace in this copper basin is now an assured fact.

Miss Perkins Reports Employment Gains

Boston, Mass.—Secretary Perkins, reporting an increase of more than 1,000,000 in non-agricultural employment in the last year, asserted that "this employment is some 9,000,000 greater than it was seven years ago, exclusive of some 2,000,000 additional men and women engaged on WPA."

She forecast that employment and payrolls would rise in the coming months "as industries expand under the comprehensive defense program."

In her Labor Day address Miss Perkins reported that the year had seen a marked improvement in industrial relations and that wage earners and business were co-operating wholeheartedly in carrying out defense tasks.

Long Handles

From Signal Local 346, Ladies' Garment Workers.

Saturday night found many of our members at Warner park making merry and having a good time. This was our annual September wiener roast and we thought 'twas mighty good, especially those really hot union hot dogs and that good lemonade.

While in our wanderings in and around the park after partaking of those delicious dogs we came across the president and secretary of the Central Labor union, Mr. Hallmark and Mr. Mabee. (Wonder why Mr. Hallmark didn't try the "Whirl"). The pressmen were represented by J. T. Hoodenpyle and the auxiliary was well represented by Mrs. J. T. Hoodenpyle and Mrs. "Pinkie" Reynolds. Behind a big smear of mustard we found two members of the Label league, Mrs. Arch Underwood and Mrs. R. C. Reynolds. (Mrs. Nancy Lea Smith sent her regards). Behind mammoth wieners we found Joe Dobbs of the Plumbers; Louise Petty of the Culinary Workers; E. E. Crosby of the Electrical Workers; R. C. Reynolds of the Pressmen; Olgiati of the Bricklayers; Glen Gamble of the Teamsters and Truck Drivers; A. C. Kamin of the Movie Operators (we wanted to see a first showing of "Boom Town"); Arch Underwood of the Typographical group; and last but not at all little, our attorney and next senator, John (Oh, Johnny) Mahoney.

Well, we would tell how many dogs all of us ate, only that might prove embarrassing to a few, so we will just keep it under our hats (?) and we will be seeing you at the bingo games soon.

Labor Must Work and Stand Together for Defense Of Democracy, Says Green

Tells Teamsters AFL Will Support Conscription If It Becomes Law.

Washington.—President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, in a stirring address before the convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters appealed to every worker in the United States to help make the national defense program a success and prove to the world that democracy is superior to totalitarianism.

Rousing the 1,400 delegates to a high pitch of patriotism, Mr. Green evoked enthusiastic cheers when he declared:

"We are not opposed to conscription if the country needs the manpower. When the legislation is passed by congress and approved by the president, we'll support it and we will carry it out.

"We need to think together, to work together and to stand together as never before in defense of democracy and in defense of America.

"If there is one appeal I want to make to every worker in America, it is never to slacken down, never to slow up, and never to interrupt, insofar as that is possible, the progress of the national defense program, so that we may show the world that democracy works, and that it is superior to the totalitarian form of government."

Mr. Green told the delegates of the great sacrifices made by the workers in Great Britain and urged that this country extend every aid, short of war, to England. The convention rocked with applause when he added:

"We favor wholeheartedly the new deal made by the President of the United States with Great Britain to exchange fifty overage destroyers for naval and air bases to defend the Western hemisphere."

Refuting attacks on the President by John L. Lewis, Mr. Green flatly declared that "no man in America has more sincerely and earnestly applied himself to the task of finding a solution for unemployment than has the President."

Mr. Green emphasized the need for labor peace and concluded his address with the pledge that the A. F. of L. is ready now and at any time in the future to sit down and negotiate a settlement of the differences with the CIO. He insisted that the CIO has refused to negotiate.

Other pleas for labor unity came from Secretary of Labor Perkins and Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters' union. Miss Perkins praised Mr. Tobin's efforts in behalf of peace.

In his annual report, Mr. Tobin warned that unless labor peace is achieved, the government may step in and force a showdown.

In the past five years, Mr. Tobin disclosed, the Teamsters' union has gained 135,000 members and is now the largest union in the A. F. of L. fold. Since 1935, he said, the average working hours of the union's members have been reduced from 60 to 48 a week. By the next convention, he predicted, the 40-hour week would be attained. He estimated that the union had won wage increases aggregating $12,000,000 in three years.

Other speakers at the opening day of the convention in Constitution hall were George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L., and I. M. Ornburn, secretary of the Union Label Trades Department

TEACHER TALK

First meeting of the year of the board of delegates was held on Wednesday evening of last week, when the chief subject for discussion was salaries of city teachers. Stanton Smith, chairman of the committee, presented its report and recommendations to the board, and negotiations are now in progress with the authorities. As we go to press a meeting of the salary committee and the executive committee of the union is scheduled. Working on this important matter are also a committee from the Central Labor union.

* * *

In response to much interest in the activities program, Lassie Munsie, chairman of the committee in charge, has been making arrangements for an early beginning of the various group activities. Your school chairman has received the information on this, and you will be asked to indicate your preferences. Get into one or more of the groups!

News item: The city shuffled its recent appointments to principalships so that the tenure law would not be violated. We rather suspect that the law administration is over-much concerned with one aspect of the tenure law.

Perhaps the city's new punch-as-you-enter-and-punch-as-you-leave regulations would not offend anyone if there were no returning as policemen for evening duty, no paper-reading at night, no preparation outside of the school day, and no staying on numerous occasions until dark for operettas, plays, athletics, publications, faculty meetings, or what have you. As it is, the scheme must be cruelly disillusioning to those who still think that teaching in the city of Chattanooga is a "profession."

Congratulations to the county teachers on their raises in salary!

Labor's Gains Not to Be Sacrificed In Defense Plan, Says FDR

Opening Election Campaign, He Tells Teamsters Vastly More Workers Should Be Covered by Social Security—Reasserts Opposition to War.

Washington. — President Roosevelt opened his third-term election campaign before the wildly cheering convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters with a direct pledge that the government will not abandon labor's gains in the national defense drive.

The new deal will not retreat in its domestic policies, nor will it offer appeasement in its foreign policy, the president declared in an address that was broadcast from historic Constitution hall to the entire nation.

"Our progress must continue," the president said. "We cannot stand still, we cannot slip back. We must look forward to certain definite things in the near future."

Among these "definite things," he listed improvement and extension of unemployment insurance, old age pensions and other social security benefits.

"I am convinced," the president continued, "that a breakdown of existing labor and social legislation would weaken rather than increase our efforts for defense. Continuance of them means the preservation of the efficiency of labor. It means the return to work of several millions still unemployed.

"The employment of additional workers and the provisions for overtime payments for overtime work will insure adequate working hours at decent wages to do all that is now necessary in physical defense.

"Our mighty national defense effort against all present and potential threats cannot be measured alone in terms of mathematical increase in the number of soldiers and sailors, or of guns or tanks or planes. Behind them all must stand a united people whose spiritual and moral strength has not been sapped through hunger or want or fear or insecurity."

Voicing his hatred of war, "more now than ever," and expressing his supreme determination to keep this country out of war, the president attacked the "propaganda of fear" which seeks to spread the belief that an attempt is being made "to lead us into war." He said:

"The American people will reject that kind of propaganda of fear. They know that against the raging forces loose in the world the best defense is the strongest preparedness — fighting men and equipment in front, and fighting industry and agriculture behind the lines.

"Weakness in these days is a cordial invitation to attack. That is no longer theory; it is proven fact—proved in the past year."

The president came out with a flat call for military conscription, but at the same time he insisted that it is necessary and fair "that every human being in the United States contribute his share" to national defense. That applies, he said, to the men who are drafted, to workers behind the lines and to "every dollar of capital in America."

The same principle of military conscription, he urged, should be applied to industry so that the government would be permitted to acquire the services of any plant or factory, for adequate compensation, if the owner refuses to make its services available to national defense.

The political high spot of the address was when the president referred to those "who regularly for three years and eight months block labor's welfare, and then for four months loudly proclaim that they are labor's true friends—from those who love the laboring man in November but forget him in January."

At these words, the 5,000 delegates from the Teamsters' union and their guests who packed the stately hall leaped to their feet with laughter and applause.

The president personally appealed to organized labor to seek internal peace and unity and to clean house of racketeers. He said labor organizations are not the only ones "which have to suffer innocently for the crimes and misdeeds of one or two of their selfish and guilty members." The

Coca-Cola Head Celebrates Birth

Sam R. Connelly, genial vice-president and general manager of the Chattanooga Cola-Cola Bottling company, celebrated a birthday on Sunday, Sept. 15—which one our informant has not been able to learn.

Mr. Connelly has always been 100 per cent for organized labor and has in the employ of his company members of Local 79 of the United Brewery and Soft Drink Workers.

On Saturday, while Mr. Connelly was out to lunch, the employes placed a large basket of white gladioli and red rose buds on his desk, wishing him many happy returns. We are also told that he received many congratulatory cards through the mail at his home and we understand that some of them were not of a very serious thought.

Building Trades Move Offices

Chattanooga Building Trades Council has moved its office to the Ferger building on the corner of Eighth and Cherry streets. At its meeting last Wednesday Brother Hungate was elected to succeed W. W. Orr as secretary-treasurer. Brother Orr is working out of the city.

Earl Shaw was named as trustee to succeed Oscar Cook.

Building Unions Cut Wage Scales in New York City Borough

New York City.—In a move to increase employment by encouraging building of small one and two family houses, seven A. F. of L. building trades unions in Bronx borough adopted a secondary wage scale, following a meeting with Borough President James J. Lyons. The unions reduced their standard wage scales from 20 to 35 per cent.

Union representatives arranged the meeting to enlist the aid of Lyons. They said "there have been a few builders not ready to accept the reduced secondary scale for union skilled workers, most of whom live in the Bronx, and have preferred to bring in non-union workers from other places, paying them far less than the union scale."

Lyons appealed to these builders to pay decent wages and not take advantage of other competitive builders who are co-operating with the labor representatives.

The unions adopting the new scale were the plasterers, cement masons, wood-wire and metal lathers, carpenters, glazers, excavators and concrete workers. Also represented at the meeting were the electricians' and plumbers' unions. They had already adopted a secondary scale.

Defense Program Boosts Work Hours and Pay

San Francisco. — Employment and the average work hours have been increased in California manufacturing industries by the national defense program, George C. Kidwell, state director of industrial relations, reports. Employment gained 14 per cent in the number of wage-earners on pay rolls in July over July, 1939.

Because of longer hours and higher pay, the workers received 25 per cent more in wages than a year ago.

In reading the daily papers, I am convinced that Uncle Sam is going to get him an army. I am told he wants nothing but he men and when he gets through with them they will be men. Those that are most likely to be called want to know how they will stand as far as their jobs are concerned. If the daily papers are correct, the one drafted will have his job and if he has any insurance or other company benefits he will be entitled to them when he returns.

Papermakers went on record at our last meeting that if any one of our boys is drafted he will hold his seniority and if there is a vacancy in the department above the one he had he will be entitled to it when he returns.

Meeting the Challenge of the Times . . .

As our nation looks to its defenses, speed is the order of the day. And vital to the quickened tempo of industry and national activity is the country's telephone service. From sea to sea, in every corner of the land, it must function smoothly, quickly, regardless of the added burden it is called upon to bear.

In the nine southern states served by Southern Bell, more than twenty-one thousand skilled telephone workers, with years of experience in meeting emergencies, are keenly conscious of the important part they play in the national defense program. They accept this new and challenging responsibility with full confidence, for they are prepared—organized, trained, and equipped—to meet the test of the times.

Southern Bell and the entire Bell System are in high gear. They are meeting the nation's needs today. They are ready to meet those of tomorrow.

Local 1212 sorrowfully reports the death of C. W. Searcy's mother in Atlanta, Ga. Also R. L. Blessing's father-in-law, Mr. Jennings, of this city. We extend our sympathy to the family and friends of these brothers.

C. W. Searcy has accepted a patrolman's position with the Hamilton county patrol. We regret losing Brother Searcy for he was a fine operator and a 100 per cent union man. He was an officer in our local, representing the extra board. We wish him all the luck possible and hope that he will drop around and visit with us whenever possible.

J. C. Allison has been elected to succeed Mr. Searcy as an executive to represent the board. We know that he will make a fine officer and will fill the place perfectly for he is a real union man and a congenial worker and will get the full co-operation from every member.

We are sorry to report that C. B. Woods is off on account of being hit by an auto. He is walking around on crutches now and is doing well. Hope to see him back on duty soon.

Frank Davis is back on duty after being off with a sprained foot. Glad to see him back in harness again.

Jim Varner is back at home after making a trip to Florida for his health.

J. S. Malloy is off duty on account of a sprained back, and we hear that he is seriously ill. Hope he will be better soon.

W. T. Manly is still sick and we understand that he is not improving. Visit him as often as you can.

Our next meetings will be held at the Wheland hall of the auditorium Friday, Sept. 20, at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Be sure and be present at one of these meetings and help to take part in our new contract. It is for the interest of every member so don't forget the date and place and time.

AFL Insurance Agents Sign Up Equitable Co.

Dashington.—The Equitable Life Insurance Company of the District of Columbia and Industrial and Ordinary Insurance Agents' Nnion No. 21354 signed an agreement covering the insurance agents employed by the company in the District of Columbia, following an NLRB election won by the union several months ago. Substantial improvements in working conditions obtained by the contract include increases in compensation, vacation with pay, five-day week, and arbitration of disputes or grievances. A special provision requires that agents now members of the union or those who become members during the life of the contract must remain in good standing with the union, whose membership now includes about 95 per cent of the agents in the District of Columbia.

The negotitions were carried on by A. F. of L. representatives Frank Weikel, George L. Russ and Ralph U. Boyer, together with Frank Sheehan, commissioner of conciliation of the department of Labor. Mr. Weikel in commenting on the agreement said: "We consider this one of our finest insurance agents' agreements. Improved working conditions have resulted through true collective bargaining. A very fine spirit existed between the board of directors of the Equitable Life Insurance company and our union representatives at all times during the negotiations."

...eal of Death on Dutch Trade Unions

...Control of Labor Movement And Party Handed Over To Native Nazis

Hitlerites Move for Destruction Of Workers' Rights and Liberties

London.—The workers of Hol-...d are beginning to feel the full ...pact of the nazi system.

When the nazis established ...emselves in Holland, they sol-...mnly and emphatically declared ...t the Dutch people would be ...lowed to live their own lives un-...r their own institutions.

Like every nazi promise it has ...en broken.

The flourishing trade union ...vement of Holland, with a mem-...rship of over 800,000, is now ...ntrolled by an obscure Dutch ...i named Woudenberg.

Union Leaders Replaced.

Woudenberg is the brother of C. ...udenberg, and secretary of the ...tch labor party. He was taken ... by the Dutch nazi party be-...se of his name. In the years ...fore the war, the Dutch nazis ...oped to the trick of announcing ...etings at which "Woudenberg" ...s to speak. They hoped that an ...dience would assemble in the be-...f they were going to hear Wou-...berg, the trusted labor leader. ...e Nazi Woudenberg formed his ...n nationalist-socialist trade union, but it never had more than 5,000 members.

Today this Dutch nazi, whose only claim to fame is that he bears the name of his brother, has replaced the union leaders chosen by the workers of Holland.

Traitor Heads Labor Party.

The General Council of Dutch Trade Unions has been swept aside. Evert Kupers, the president of the council, and his colleagues have been "forbidden" to take any further part in the organization they have built up during the past thirty years.

The Dutch labor party has suffered the same fate. The Reich commissioner of the occupied Netherlands has dismissed the entire council of the party, a party representing a quarter of the Dutch people. The Dutch nazi party, which only polled 4 per cent of the votes in the last elections, has now seized all the possessions of the labor party.

The new head of the "labor" party in Holland is Rost Van Tonningen, a bitter opponent of the labor movement. He has been described as a man who "knows nothing but hate." Before the Germans invaded Holland, the Dutch government declared that a state of siege existed in the country. At the same time 21 Dutch fifth columnists, whose activities were considered extremely dangerous, were arrested. Rost Van Tonningen was one of these 21 traitors. When the invasion came, they were taken to France. Now they have returned to Holland.

Labor Paper Seized.

The Dutch labor party had its own paper, Het Volk, and its own radio station. They have both been seized and the printing plant is now in nazi hands, turning out Goebbels-inspired hate and lies.

The labor radio station has been forbidden to mention politics. It is only allowed to broadcast non-committal recorded programs.

In Holland, as in every country he has invaded, one of Hitler's first moves has been to destroy the rights and liberties of the workers.

Throughout Holland, compulsion, backed by nazi bayonets, has taken the place of free trade unionism.

No. 28289
Chancery Court, Hamilton County, Tennessee
REED LUMBER COMPANY vs. GILBERT LESTER NAFTZGER, TRUSTEE, et al

To the lien creditors or lien claimants of Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee and individually, and Mary Lillian Naftzger:

In obedience to an order made by the Chancery Court at Chattanooga, in the case of Reed Lumber Company vs. Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, et al, being No. 28289 on the rule docket of said court, all lien creditors of the defendants Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, and individually and Mary Lillian Naftzger, are hereby notified to come in by petition, accompanied by proper prosecution bond, or pauper's oath in lieu thereof, or by informal proof of claim, verified by oath of claimant, and file and prove their respective claims against defendants Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, and individually, and Mary Lillian Naftzger, and lien rights against the property situated in Hamilton county, Tennessee, known and described as follows, to-wit:

Part "B" of Lot Number Three (3), Block One (1) Daytona Hills Addition, a subdivision of part of B. A. Crisman property as per plat of record in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee, in Plat Book 14, page 5, to which reference is here made, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the southwest corner of said Part "B" in the northern line of Daytona Drive, 314.3 feet eastwardly along said line from its intersection with the eastern line of Dayton Pike and running thence eastwardly along Daytona Drive 75 feet to the southwest corner of Lot No. 5 in said block; thence northwardly along the line dividing said lots Nos. 4 and 5, a distance of 147 feet to the southern line of the D. C. Wiley property; thence westwardly along the southern line of the Wiley property, 75 feet; thence southwardly along the line dividing Parts "A" and "B" and said Lot 4, a distance of 147 feet to the point of beginning.

Said petitions are required to be filed on or before the 7th day of November, 1940, in this cause, or they and each of them shall be excluded from the benefits of this proceeding.

All creditors, lien creditors or lien claimants against said defendants Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, and individually, Mary Lillian Naftzger, and/or having or claiming any lien, rights or interests in or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding except in this cause, and all parties to any and all suits now pending against said defendants and/or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding further in them than to judgment.

This order will be published in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, Tennessee, for four successive weeks.

This September 12th, 1940.

Real Estate Interests Block Vote Of Additional Funds for Defense Housing Under USHA Program

Washington.—Private real estate and related interests, long hostile to government low cost housing activities, are displaying the customary tactics in the fight now coming into the open against government sponsored defense housing projects.

Smooth sounding proposals from the National Association of Real Estate Boards published in the metropolitan press reveal to those who know the signs that the enemies of public housing are determined to stymie as much as possible of the whole defense housing programs so that rents can be jacked up in crowded centers where scarcity of homes persists and furthermore to insure that the very crowd responsible for the present headaches in the home building industries will obtain control of any defense housing that may have to be done.

USHA Measure Held Up

Within the past two weeks two different efforts which were made to include funds for defense housing needs in general defense appropriations hav been swiftly sidetracked or smothered. Efforts to blast loose a rule now slumbering in the house rules committee which would continue the United States Housing Authority on a much curtailed program of slum clearance and housing for low income workers have failed despite the fact that the Democratic party in Chicago adopted a platform plank insisting not only upon the continuance of these activities but also for the housing of defense workers with government aid.

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, author of the bill which created the United States Housing Authority, has introduced an amendment to a current defense bill which would have made available to the president $300,000,000 to build homes for factory, shipyard, or other workers engaged on government contracts or for families of low-paid enlisted men or civilian employes around the big navy or army training centers or bases throughout the country. Senator Wagner's amendment was so worded that army or navy officials could also have used some of these funds to build houses if need be right on the reservations or army posts where that was necessary.

Quick Action Wagner Aim

But the whole emphasis and purpose of the senator's amendment was to put quickly at the disposal of the president a fund with which to begin to relieve the very pressing shortage of decent homes which has developed in virtually every defense center where employment has increased to any proportions.

Senator Wagner, supported by army and navy officials and with the active support of the American Federation of Labor, presented evidence to the appropriations committee of a current shortage of over 122,000 dwelling units for workers in defense industries. The $300,000,000 in the bill would take care of about that number of units. The appropriations committee neatly carved the Wagner amendment so that the only money that was provided was for temporary housing or barracks on army posts or reservations. Workers in defense industries must do without new housing and must accept any rents their present position now subjects them to, according to the senate committee.

Wagner Needs Support

Whether Senator Wagner will be able to carry his fight for defense housing to the floor of the senate depends entirely on the attitude of administration forces and on the position taken on this issue by the rank and file of the labor and liberal forces of this country.

"Down where I live," said the Texan, "we grew a pumpkin so big that when we cut it my wife used one-half of it for a cradle."

"Well," smiled the man from Chicago, "that's nothing. A few days ago, right here, two full-grown policemen were found asleep on one beet."

We Live Under War Conditions

It is clear that a great many Americans do not understand the seriousness of the war situation. Many look at the developments as they might at a play on a stage—it is interesting, even dramatic, to watch, "but it won't mean anything to me."

It will mean something to everyone—AND VERY SOON.

Take the selective service measure alone. Within a matter of weeks there will be registration. But that doesn't end it. Then will come the long lines of young men GOING TO CAMP FOR A YEAR.

Nor does that end it. Next year another long line will go to camp for a year. And then EVERY YEAR. We are going to build an enormous army.

And that army may be called into action even before it is fully trained.

Why? Because nobody can tell where or when Hitler or one of his partners will strike the spark that will start the United States to fighting. It may be in Alaska, where Russia is only 12 miles away. It may be in the Pacific ocean, where Japan's ambitions call for huge expansion, BY FORCE IF NECESSARY.

And it may be in Canada, which is at war and with which we now have the tightest kind of alliance.

The United States, by giving aid to Britain, is actually at war with Germany. And Germany can, at any hour, declare that the war is a FIGHTING WAR.

There are a score of ways in which we can get into fighting war.

Washington lives today in a war atmosphere, really and truly. The fact will come home to Americans more and more as the days pass. And things happen in a hurry in these days.

American labor must not kid itself about safety, or peace, or about going along in the same old way. It needs to know all there is to know; and to understand that, if democracy is to be defended, WAR MAY BE A FIGHTING FACT, even before our defense armament program is much more than well under way. Burglars don't always wait for the intended victim to put locks on the doors and buy a watch dog.

Ill Fares the Land

By FRANKLIN E. WOLFE

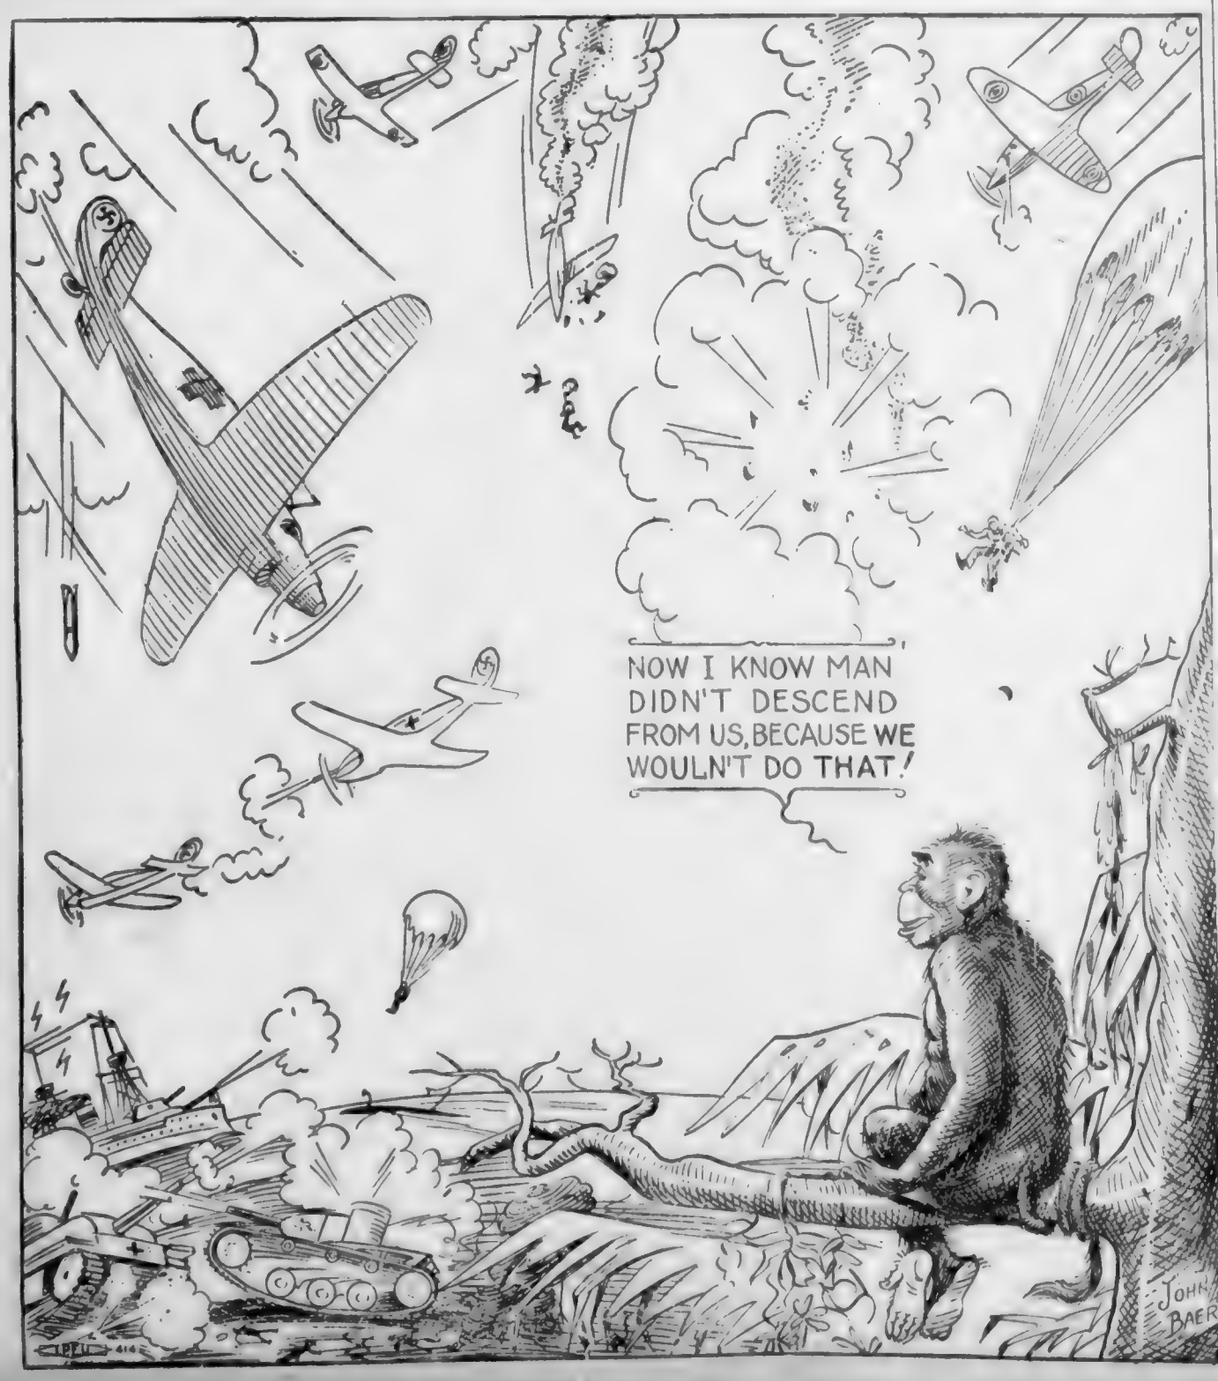
National officialdom is worrying about what to do with a vast quantity of farm products. All the master minds that tackle the problem do not seem to have thought of a simple expedient that might solve the problem and bring happiness to millions of people.

There is something like 6,000,000 bales of cotton on hand. Then there is something like 91,000,000 bushels of corn. The government has made loans on 460,000,000 bushels of corn this year and if the price does not go up it may have the whole amount on hand. What to do with it puzzles the experts.

May one who is not an expert make a suggestion? Why not take that food and fibre and provide for millions of underfed and poorly clothed Americans of the class that produced those necessities of life? Of course—withholding food from the hungry and clothing from the needy is holding to the old tradition of not letting the workers, who produce all, get any benefit from surplus production.

Why not put the mighty brains of the experts to work on the task of working out a way of distributing thesurplus of foodstuffs and clothing to the people of this country who need them and stop looking for some way to export cotton and corn in a way to add to profits for someone? Or is this too much to expect from a system where "wealth accumulates and men decay"?

DARWIN WAS WRONG! By Baer



THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

CONSCRIPTION BILL PASSES.

During the week the house and senate conference committee agreed on provisions of the compulsory selective training service bill. Last night the senate, however, refused to accept the draft industry provision as agreed to by the joint committee, and voted to send it back to the committee with instructions that more teeth be put into this provision. This will be worked out today and the bill will probably be passed and signed by the President before midnight.

It has taken a long time, perhaps too long, to bring this highly controversial bill into acceptable form, but in the end the democratic processes of debate and compromise have brought forth a measure with which the country should be well pleased.

PROVISIONS OF DRAFT BILL.

And now as to some of the provisions of the bill—it requires the registration of all male citizens and aliens who have reached their 21st birthday anniversary, but have not passed their 36th birthday. If on this fixed registration day a young man lacks one day of being 21, he will not be required to register at that particular registration; but if another fellow lacks one day of being 36, he will be required to register. Each registrant will be given a number at the time of registration.

Those who thus register are subject to call for one year's training and service in the army of the United States. After one year of training each trainee will become a member of the reserve.

The President will appoint a director of selective service at a salary of $10,000 per annum. This is an immensely important position. The President will undoubtedly seek and obtain an outstanding man. Local draft boards are soon to be appointed. The act provides that the President shall appoint these boards upon the recommendation of the governors of the respective states.

After the boards have been appointed and the men 21 to 35 have been registered, each local draft unit will be assigned a quota in accordance with its male population within the age group. Each county and state will be given credit in the quota allotment for the men already in service from that particular area. This will materially reduce the number to be conscripted from areas which have supplied large numbers of volunteers. In this connection it will be remembered that in some sections such as Tennessee, volunteer enlistments have been large while at the same time in other sections of the country, matrimonial agencies have been stormed by those attempting to thus avoid the draft.

The physical requirements will be practically the same as those for the regular army—at least 5 feet 4 inches in height, weight over 115 pounds, and general good health.

The army pay is raised from $21.00 to $30.00 per month by the bill.

The selection of men for training is to be on a fair and impartial basis.

Fifth Column Activities to Be Curbed.

Without a dissenting vote, the house approved on Wednesday a bill revising the nationality laws of the United States into a comprehensive nationality code. The bill now goes to the senate where passage is expected at an early date.

This measure was long overdue. At present rules and regulations regarding the acquisition and loss of American nationality are scattered helter-skelter through the statute books. Some of the provisions are obsolete; others have become inadequate, even dangerously so. President Roosevelt was right in urging congress to act on this problem with "as little delay as possible." The measure tightens provisions regarding eligibility for naturalization. It denies citizenship to those who advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence, or the unlawful damage, injury, or destruction of property or sabotage. In the same category would be persons affiliated with organizations fostering subversive activities of any kind.

Citizenship is a privilege which should not be extended to those who would use it to undermine American institutions. The bill also stiffens the regulations regarding loss of citizenship. Aliens who seek American nationality merely as a cloak of protection to enjoy its benefits while they actually live in some foreign country would find their citizenship revoked.

The bill is one of several that should be passed to help root out "fifth columnists," and prevent alien communists, nazis and fascists from making their homes in this country.

Bakers' Scraps

Jimmie Johnson has returned to work after being on a vacation for a week. Glad to have Jimmie back with us for we sure missed him. He visited relatives in Beuford and Carterville.

* * *

We are glad to have Mattie Kyle back at work at King-Dobbs. Miss Kyle is one of our good members, where those good union-made Fleetwood products are produced.

* * *

We are proud to announce that the Mercer Pie company will move into their new plant within a few days. All employes of this plant are members of a local union. We are proud of the members we have in our local from this plant.

Nonunion bakery products include: Dortch cakes, Ambrosure cakes, Ward's cakes, Virginia Dare cakes, Holsum cakes, Effie's pies, Wade's cookies and cakes, Malbra cakes, Gordon's cakes, Jack's cookies and cakes, Alton Park cakes and cookies, Chattanooga bakery products, and Federal bakery products. Please do not patronize any of the above mentioned products.

* * *

Union-made cakes and pies include: Mercer's, Hooper's, Erskine's, Dolly Madison, Dutch Maid, Stone's, Grandma's and Hostess. You can't go wrong by buying any of these union-made products.

* * *

The Hooper pie shop has installed a new oven and you should eat some of those delicious pies that are made there. Mrs. Mildred Ritchey, who is employed there, is still on our sick list. Mildred is at home and would appreciate seeing all her friends so drop by to see her.

* * *

These cool nights are mighty discouraging to the members who are interested in the local's giving a boat ride. Might be that it will stay warm enough for a while yet so we can carry out our plans.

* * *

All you boys between the ages of 21 and 35 had better make up your mind in a very short while whether you want a short war or a long one. Either get married or join the army. Personally I can't say which would be the best.

* * *

See you next week with more scraps from here and there, mostly there. News is scarce.

Notes From Candy Workers

Hello, everybody! We are still making good candy, and I hope everybody is feeling as good as our candy is.

* * *

Everybody at our place is working—nobody on the sick list.

* * *

It was good to read that the difficulties with Clemons Bros. and Powell's restaurant have been settled.

* * *

Sometimes it seems to me that we are just like two streams of water that start from the same fountain head, but their ways soon part. The one flows through pleasant valleys and green meadows to nice schools and colleges, but the other flows over the rough and stony ground, but by and by the two human streams will meet again, for we must all pass through the judgment of God and out into the ocean of Eternity. And the ones who possess the money of this world and fail to use it to relieve the needs of the ones who produce the wealth will surely ask in vain for mercy on the day the two streams meet again.

But people's ideas are changing, and I believe that in the near future we will all be working together for the good of all. Let us hope so!

Roosevelt and Willkie "Debate" Issue Of Federal Labor Policy in Current A. F. of L. Official Magazine

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie meet in degate in the columns of the September issue of the American Federationist, official organ of the American Federation of Labor. They were invited by the Federationist to state their positions.

Federal labor policy is the chief point at issue, with the presidential candidates stating their views on this subject, as well as criticizing each other's records and aims.

Roosevelt pledges adherence to the present labor policy of his administration, saying:

"If any one asks the question as to the future policy of the administration toward labor, the answer is that we sholl hold steadfastly to every advance gained and not permit present safeguards to be whittled away by yielding to the specious argument of those whose lip service to labor is loud and eloquent before election, but whose ears are deaf to all appeals to justice the rest of the time."

Social Legislation Stressed.

Social security, the fair labor standards act, the Walsh-Healey public contracts act, the federal employment service are stressed by the president in summarizing new deal legislation designed to benefit the workers.

"This administration," he says, "has been unremitting in its efforts to foster, promote and develop the interests of labor, to improve working conditions and to advance opportunities for profitable employment. * * *

"By that record we are willing to be judged and we offer it to the country as a basis of judgment and as a witness and a pledge of faith to American wage-earners."

"Washington's Attitude" Hit.

Willkie attacks the "attitude in Washington" toward labor, warning:

"If the new deal is continued I believe it will only be a matter of time before the American labor movement becomes completely dominated by government and that in place of the old discredited company union we shall have government unions as in Nazi Germany. For my part I pledge myself to help the principle of free unions."

America's prosperity, the republican nominee continues, cannot be restored through strife and bloodshed. It can, and it must, be accomplished through collective bargaining and the intelligent discussion of mutual problems around a table. * * *

Wagner Act Changes Backed.

"I sympathize with the criticism advanced by the American Federation of Labor against the national labor relations board and with the federation's emphasis upon the necessity for better administration of the labor act. * * *

"To achieve the desired end some changes in the Wagner act are necessary. * * *."

Every person owes a debt to organized labor, Willkie says in his article. He declares that organized labor has been a principal factor in bringing about improved working conditions, higher wages and shorter hours for all. He advocates "a continued rise in American wage levels."

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

No. 28208
Chancery Court, Hamilton County, Tennessee
SEWANEE COAL & SUPPLY CO. et al vs. J. M. DOCKERY et al

To the lien creditors or lien claimants of J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling:

In obedience to an order made by the Chancery Court at Chattanooga, in the case of Sewanee Coal & Supply Co. et al vs. J. M. Dockery et al, being No. 28208 on the rule docket of said court, all lien creditors of the defendants J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling are hereby notified to come in by petition, accompanied by proper prosecution bond, or pauper's oath in lieu thereof, or by informal proof of claim, verified by oath of claimant, and file and prove their respective claims against said defendants, J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling, and lien rights against the property situated in the Second civil district of Hamilton county, Tennessee, known and described as Lot 18, Block "F," Sequoia Place, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 12, page 9, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said petitions are required to be filed on or before the 7th day of November, 1940, in this cause, or they and each of them shall be excluded from the benefits of this proceeding.

All creditors, lien creditors or lien claimants against said defendants, J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling, and, or having or claiming any lien, rights or interests in or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding except in this cause, and all parties to any and all suits now pending against said defendants and/or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding further in them than to judgment.

This order will be published in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, Tennessee, for four successive weeks.

This September 12th, 1940.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 5th day of November, 1937, L. E. Dietz, Trustee, hereby reciting that he has no beneficial interest in the property, with full power to sell, transfer, convey, mortgage, or dispose of in any manner, without the consent, concurrence or disclosure of the beneficiary, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale to Title Guaranty & Trust Company, Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for record December 21, 1937, and recorded in Book 765, page 459, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, the said deed of trust provides that, if the party of the Third Part (Hamilton National Bank), for any reason, desires to replace the Trustee, it may do so and appoint a successor by a written instrument duly registered, and the Successor Trustee shall then have title to the property described vested in him, and shall have all the powers of the original trustee; and,

Whereas, the said bank, the holder and owner of the indebtedness secured by the said deed of trust, by virtue of the authority given it in the said deed of trust, has heretofore removed the trustee therein named and appointed J. E. HARRIS as Successor Trustee, and he is now vested with all the powers and authority the original Trustee had, said instrument appointing the Trustee being registered in Book 804, page 110, in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said L. E. Dietz, Trustee, has failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and has failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and has remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, J. E. Harris, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1940,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, curtesy, and all other exemptions of every kind, the following described real estate, in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Number One (1), Brainerd Bend Addition, located in the East half of Section Twenty-nine (29), Township Six (6), Range Three (3) West of Basis Line in the Ocoee District, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 10, page 47, of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. According to said plat said lot fronts sixty-five (65) feet on the west side of Hunt Avenue and extends westwardly between converging lines to the west line of said addition on which it has a footage of forty-nine & 6/10 (49.6) feet; its north line being one hundred forty & 85/100 (140.85) feet and its south line one hundred forty (140) feet in length.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed September 2, 1936, by HERBERT W. ANDERSON and wife, HARRIETTE BORK ANDERSON (Mildred Jane Anderson, being one and the same party as Mildred Faidley Anderson, former wife of Herbert W. Anderson, having died October 27, 1929) to GENERAL MORTGAGE COMPANY, TRUSTEE, which deed of trust is recorded in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book E, Volume 29, Page 374, et seq., reference to which is made for a full recital of its terms and provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned, default having been made in its payment, I, ROBERT N. CHAMBLISS, as substitute trustee under a substitution of trustee instrument recorded in Book 804, Page 233, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in connection with said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes evidencing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead and all other rights of redemption of every kind, at the west door of the Courthouse in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, on Monday, October 14, 1940, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate located in the Third Civil district of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Four (4) and the west twenty-five (25) feet of Lot Three (3), Block Twenty-seven (27), Mountain Land Company's Subdivision of Block Twenty-seven (27), Tract Number Two (2), Signal Mountain Properties, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 7, page 7 of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said Lot Four (4) fronts Seventy-five (75) feet on the south line of Signal Mountain Boulevard and extends back westwardly between slightly converging lines to the south line of said block on which it has a footage of sixty-seven (67) feet; its west line being two hundred (200) feet and its east line two hundred and 2/10 (200.2) feet in length; and that part of Lot Three (3) fronts twenty-five (25) feet on the south line of Signal Mountain Boulevard and extends back southwardly between parallel lines to the south line of said block; its east line being one hundred fifty (150) feet, more or less, and its west line one hundred fifty and 8/10 (150.8) feet in length.

SUBJECT to conditions and restrictions as set out in the deeds registered in Book D, Volume 15, page 158 and Book B, Volume 18, page 262. Said conditions and restrictions modified by instrument recorded in Book X, Volume 28, page 101.

The title to said property is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This September 20, 1940.

U. S. Survey Shows Highest Pay Goes To Union Workers in Women's and Children's Clothing Industry

Washington. — Trade union action and public support of labor laws have increased rates of pay in the women's and children's clothing industry through the years, says Miss Bertha M. Nienburg, chief economist of the women's bureau, U. S. department of labor, in discussing tre findings of a bureau survey.

The still unsolved problem of both employer and employe is how to make the high earnings in the few busy weeks of seasonal employment spread over the many slack weeks of little or no work, Miss Nienburg says.

Earnings and hours were the subject of the survey, the results of which are told in a new women's bureau report. The industry it deals with was formerly one of the worst sweated fields of employment for women. The investigation, planned and directed by Miss Nienburg, was undertaken at the request of the labor department's wage and hour division for use in the minimum-wage deliberations of its women's apparel industry committee.

Large Part of Industry Covered.

The total number of firms for which pay-roll data were secured amounted to almost half of all the firms in the women's and children's apparel industry in the spring of 1939. The firms included were in 22 states and employed over 140,000 workers, of whom 85 per cent were women.

The wage data given in the report are representative of a period of steady operation and are not typical of all weeks throughout the year, Miss Nienburg cautioned. Earnings are considerably reduced during dull seasons.

The center of the women's and children's apparel industry still remains in New York City. Over 40 per cent of the workers in this type of clothing manufacture were employed in New York state. The second largest groups were in New Jersey and in Pennsylvania, the proportion in each of these representing over one-eighth of the total. Next in rank according to numbers included were Illinois, with 6 per cent of all workers, Connecticut with 5 per cent, Massachusetts and Missouri with 4 per cent each, and California with 3 per cent. Other states employing more than 1 per cent of the total were Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Texas.

Highest average hourly earnings for all employes in the apparel industry were in the unit-priced dress branch, where about nine-tenths of the wage-earners included worker under union contracts, the bulletin shows. Important occupations employing more women than men are machine operators, with an average of 77.7 cents an hour in a busy spring week, and hand finishers, inspectors, and packers with an average of 55.8 cents.

Union Wages Highest.

The making of women's blouses was the next most remunerative branch of the apparel industry in the busy season. Here, too, about nine-tenths of the employes were at work in plants where unionization had taken place. Most types of work were more often done by women than men.

Jimmy Walker Named New Arbiter Of Ladies' Cloak and Suit Trade

New York, N. Y. — Former Mayor James J. Walker was designated by Mayor LaGuardia to serve as impartial chairman of industrial and labor relations in the women's coat and suit industry at an annual salary of $20,000. The mayor made his selection at the request of officers of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and four employer associations, after independent efforts to agree on the choice of an impartial chairman for the $260,000,000-a-year industry had failed.

The announcement met with quick approval from David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

"We are gratified with the mayor's designation of former Mayor Walker for this important industrial post," Mr. Dubinsky said. "We are confident that Mr. Walker's wide executive experience will aid him in approaching and solving the complicated problems affecting the coat and suit industry, one of the largest in the metropolis. I welcome Mr. Walker in behalf of the union and in his new position as industrial arbitrator, pledging him our full cooperation. I likewise wish to thank Mayor LaGuardia for his sustained interest in the affairs of our industry and for his wise selection, which I trust will meet with the unanimous approval of all its factors."

As impartial chairman of he industry, Mr. Walker will decide disputes which arise and will rule on matters upon which the parties could not agree when the new contract was signed in July. About 2,000 companies and 35,000 cloak-and-suit workers will be under Mr. Walker's jurisdiction.

Defense Schools Enroll Over 80,000 In First Month; Union Co-operation In Training Program Praised

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In one month's time, 80,614 persons have been enrolled in the vocational education national defense program, John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, has reported to Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt.

Approximately 8,000 men have been placed in jobs, Commissioner Studebaker said, adding that in one community alone, Paterson, N. J., 686 persons have been trained and placed since July 1. These placements have been in three very important national defense industries located in or near Paterson. Current reports of placement reaching the U. S. office of education indicates that 20,000 trainees may move out of the summer schools into defense jobs by Sept. 1.

"These figures have been gathered from forty-one states," said Administrator McNutt. "They show that the training of workers in vocational schools in 283 cities is one of the swiftest moving phases of the national defense program."

Two Types of Training.

Men and boys 18 to 60 are being trained in summer schools opened for the special purpose of training workers for defense industries. A few women are enrolled in places where such industries require women workers. The program was launched on July 1.

Two types of training are provided by vocational schools in the national defense program. Pre-employment short courses giving instruction in specific skills such as welding and riveting enroll 51,604 men. Supplementary courses that aid workers on the job, who attend school to extend or improve their skills, have 29,010 registrants. Skills for which training is being provided include: Blue print reading, lathe work, milling, chipping and filing, parachute-making, welding, riveting, tool-making, auto mechanics, aviation mechanics, pattern-making, drafting, electricity, radio, aviation sheet metal, foundry practice, machine shop practice.

Unions Aid Training.

"The co-operation of labor unions, industry and education in the initial phases of this program has been most significant," said Administrator McNutt.

In local communities more than 1,300 advisory committees consisting of representatives of labor and industry are working with the educational authorities in making local surveys of the supply of labor in relation to the needs of industry in their respective communities. These committees also determine the most satisfactory policies for operating a vocational training program in each local community.

Miners' Local Union Bars Foreign Born From Mine Jobs

Glace Bay, N. S.—Right on the heels of an order from the district executive of the United Mine Workers that foreign born miners who are in good standing in the U. M. W., be permitted to work, the U. M. W. union at No. 1-B colliery, here, voted 727 to 124 against allowing the foreign born to work. This local is right at the headquarters of the U. M .W. for the district.

The miners had walked out of the pits all over the district rather than work with men born in Germany, Italy, Bulgaria, Rumania, Russia, etc. Whereupon the district executive ordered the return to work and with the foreign born, providing the latter were in the good standing of the union. The order had followed an investigation by the dominion police, and was based on the police report. The police had recommended no discrimination, as nothing of subversive nature had been disclosed in the investigation against any of the foreign born miners.

At 1-B colliery, there are 125 men affected by the local stand, and, despite the order from district headquarters, the foreign born are unable to get work in the mine almost next door to the district headquarters. The local allowed the foreign born to vote at the referendum called by the miners without the knowledge of the district executive, but only 60 of the affected men went to the polls. So, despite the district executive order the 125 are without employment, although all are paid up to scratch in the union.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed August 1, 1936, by J. M. Smith and wife, Ellen Jane Smith, to General Mortgage Company, Trustee, which deed of trust is recorded in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book E, Volume 29, Page 55 et seq., reference to which is made for a full recital of its terms and provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned, default having been made in its payment, I, Robert N. Chambliss, as substitute trustee under a substitution of trustee instrument recorded in Book 804, Page 264, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in connection with said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes evidencing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead and all other rights of redemption of every kind, at the West door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, on within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate located in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

First Documentary Movie Of Union Convention

New York City.—For the first time in the history of the American labor movement a documentary movie has been made of a union convention. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' union now presents "ILGWU Convention, 1940" which in 2,000 feet of film depicts the opening parade of the floats, scenes from the pageant in Madison Square Garden, "I Hear America Singing," and the chorus and other cultural activities. The convention was held last May. The film gives convention shots of the delegates demonstrating for the Roosevelt third-term resolutions and welcoming the return of the ILGWU to the American Federation of Labor and also scenes from the ILGWU's day at the world's fair with Mrs. Roosevelt and Senator Wagner addressing the crowd in the Court of Nations.

CHALLENGE—

Let America accept the challenge to discover and put into effect measures for the cure of unemployment as one of the greatest possible contributions to democracy and to enduring peace among all nations.—Labor Sunday Message, Federal Council of Churches.

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources
CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

In summers past, Copenhagen's residents enjoyed watching thousands of visiting country children gazing in rapture at points of interest as they were being expertly guided through the city's streets, while Danish farmers chuckled over the inept attempts at milking made by children reared in the capital.

This interchange, during summer vacations, of city and country children has done much to further the democratic ideals of Denmark and to broaden the vision of the children of the nation.

Whether these children of Denmark will continue their carefree happy holidays depends entirely on the effect of the present Nazi invasion on that peaceful little country.

The origin of what is now known by the unwieldly name of the Copenhagen Communal Teachers' Society's Holiday Colonies started in the cholera year of 1853, when humane and hospitable farmers all over the country invited poor city children to vacation with them. Since then the idea has grown to such proportions that until today vacation time has meant mass migration of school children from city to country and from country to city.

Teachers of Denmark both sponsored and supervised the plan. Contributions were gathered through the Copenhagen press. The State Railways gave transportation, for which the city paid 10 per cent; private railways and steamship companies granted large reductions in fare.

The Society for Provincial Children's Holidays in Copenhagen has been able to send approximately 25,000 country children to Copenhagen each summer at almost no cost to the children. School dormitories, otherwise closed for summer, were made available, although the trips were short from three days to a week. Itinerary was so carefully planned that the more important educational institutions were visited.

About half of Copenhagen's 000 school children spent several weeks of their vacation in country either at holiday colonies or at private farms. And if the outfit was not all that could be desired for sturdy country life the Children's Bureau gave a helping hand.

Year after year the teachers' organizations expanded their holiday colonies until there were more colonies for a large number of weakly children. In various parts of the country where the colonies were situated, local people displayed warm-hearted sympathy through gifts to the community and local doctors gave free of their professional services. The holiday places have usually been at the seaside, and each one was in charge of two teachers.

After three weeks of fun and frolic the child was returned home but records kept of increase in weight during the holiday served as a guide for the school doctor. The question of nutrition and hygiene care were considered just as important in the Danish school as was the instruction, and it is in this regard that the holiday colonies made one of their great contributions.

"Holiday Homes" among the farmers of the country has become an institution in Denmark. This, too, was organized by the teachers. Often a child returned to the same farm year after year and was followed by a younger sister or brother.

FBI Head Assails Vigilante Methods

Milwaukee.—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, urged citizens to curb their emotions in the search for fifth columnists.

"The surging wave of patriotism which followed the declaration of a limited national emergency has its dangers," Hoover said in an address before the International Association of Chiefs of Police, in convention here.

"The vigilante method is distinctly contrary to American ideals of justice," he said. "Citizens groups could more effectively and expeditiously achieve their patriotic purposes if their energies were directed toward strengthening and supporting the law enforcement agencies in their communities rather than in seeking to take over their duties and powers," he asserted.

10,000 Painters Strike For 30-Hour Week

New York City. — More than 10,000 painters, members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America, went on strike Aug. 26, tying up union paint jobs in the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx and Richmond.

The strike was called after failure of the union to reach an agreement with the Association of Master Painters and Decorators on the union's demands for a six-hour day and a five-day week, an increase of 25 cents an hour over the prevailing hourly rate of $1.50, the allocation of 50 per cent of all hiring to the union and elimination of "chiseling."

We Salute Julian LaRose Harris!

We cannot refrain from expressing admiration for Julian LaRose Harris, who was editor of the Chattanooga Times until that paper announced that it was for Wendell Willkie for President of the United States. This also goes for Mr. Clements, assistant editor.

Editor Harris has been openly for President Roosevelt. His conviction that Roosevelt should be re-elected is so firm that when his employer took a stand in contradiction to his principles he refused to prostitute his pen so that his job might not be endangered.

To the credit of The Times, Mr. Harris was not discharged, but was granted a leave of absence during the presidential campaign. That also indicates integrity of a great paper, although we disagree with The Times' advocacy of Willkie.

We have known of other editors who mold their convictions to conform with their pay envelopes. No doubt Mr. Harris likes his pay envelope, but he preferred to remain at peace with his conscience rather than to be a "Me, too" man with his employer.

Action of The Times leaves The Labor World the only paper in Hamilton county consistently supporting the champion of the greater part of the citizens of the United States, who will be the first man to be elected for a third term.

And again we like to point out that if they were in Germany, Messrs. Harris, Clements, The Times and The Labor World would not have had a free choice of principles. In this country, these groups will disagree enthusiastically until November.

After November we will also all be for the President of the United States—OUR President.

J. B. Lowry Heads Southeastern Movie Group

Delegates from the outstanding local unions of the Motion Picture Operators' union in the southeastern district gathered in Nashville last week-end to establish a regional organization for better handling of mutual problems and objectives.

J. B. Lowry, president of the Chattanooga local, was elected president of the new organization; O. L. (Bud) Williams, recording secretary of the Memphis local, was elected secretary-treasurer of the regional group.

Purpose of the organization, Mr. Williams pointed out, was to meet for discussion and decision of methods of dealing with mutual problems and ambitions.

A. G. Shelton, business agent of the Memphis local, also attended the meeting here. There were two delegates from the following other cities: Nashville, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Atlanta and Birmingham.

The next meeting will be held in Memphis.

A big rubber tire manufacturing company has successfully tested the new bullet-proof tires it has been developing for the United States army. Though the tires are standard, the tubes used are so constructed that holes made by bullets are sealed without any appreciable loss of pressure. Triple layers of special rubber compounds give the tires their bullet-proof qualities, it is said.

Building Trades

A regular meeting of the Chattanooga Building Trades Council will be held at its new location in the Ferger building, on the corner of Eighth and Cherry streets. Sessions will start at 7:30 p.m., and all delegates are urged to be present.

WIENER ROAST FOR TYPO AUX.

Members of Auxiliary No. 219 and their families will get together for a weiner roast next Monday night, Sept. 30, at Warner park.

The party will start at 6 o'clock and all members are asked to bring enough weiners and rolls for their own families. Other "fixings" will be there—which includes the mustard and so forth.

Remember, auxiliary members, bring your families and your "dogs" to Warner park next Monday night!

The folks will meet at the pavilion.

Frank Coffee Tells Central Body of Social Security

Frank Coffee, representing the Social Security Board of the United States, made a brief summary of benefits to widows and children, when he addressed delegates at the Central Body meeting last Monday evening.

One of the unusual features was the series of questions from Delegate Dave Parks of the Bricklayers concerning the benefits a widow would receive, and how much she would receive if there were children.

Brother Parks is a bachelor.

Bldg. Trades Men Change Tallent On Labor Policy

Through the prompt work of Grover Tittle, president of Chattanooga Building Trades Council, and Dave Parks, Bricklayers' business representative, the construction on the Tallent Machine company job on Manufacturers' road, was completely unionized last Monday afternoon.

The Tallent company started out a construction project with some non-union men, but a little conference changed all that and today everything is union on the job.

Machinists 56 Will Meet in Different Place This Week

G. W. Axley, recording secretary for Machinist Lodge 56, wants all members to take notice that their next meeting will be held in a different location than is usual. The meeting, to be held on Tuesday, Oct. 1, will be in the mezzanine room at the Memorial auditorium.

Reason for the change is because the Church of God convention will be going on at that time, which will make the use of the regular meeting room impossible.

CHATTANOOGA TIMES MAKES SPLENDID GIFT TO NATIONAL DEFENSE

The Chattanooga Times this week did the unusual by going into the doghouse for one act, and climbing on a pedestal of praise for another act.

We will pass hurriedly over the Times' indorsement of Willkie over Roosevelt because of the third term issue.

We like to dwell on a notice that paper has just caused to be posted throughout its plant, telling employes that if they join or are drafted for military or naval service to defend our country, the Times will pay such employes one-half of the difference between the army pay and their pay they would have received while employed at the Times. This applies to those with dependents.

Furthermore, the management assures employes that at the end of their year's service in training their jobs will be waiting for them without loss of personal benefits.

We congratulate the Times for setting such a fine example.

(But, dern it, why did you come out for Willkie?)

Curves—and How

Dudge Ranch Guest—Did you get those bowlegs from a horse?

Parks Back From St. Louis Session Of Bricklayers

Seventy-Fifth Convention Sees Ancient Craft Stronger Than Ever—Progressive Changes Adopted.

Dave Parks, business agent for Local 6, Bricklayers, is back home after a two weeks' absence in St. Louis, where he represented his local union at the diamond anniversary convention of the Bricklayers' International union.

Brother Parks says that the southeastern states were represented by thirty-four delegates, two of which came from Tennessee. In order to more definitely secure unionization of residential and small house work, the convention gave its executive officers authority to establish what is known as secondary wage scales for that class of building work.

The art of bricklaying, known as far back as the days of the Pharaohs, is one of the mainstays of all the building crafts, and reports of delegates to the convention show that this union has established itself as one of the strongest of all building trades crafts.

5,500,000 Idle Men Available for Jobs On Nat. Defense

Washington.—The national defense commission said that 5,500,000 now idle workers are available for the nation's defense industries.

This number has been registered through offices affiliated with the United States employment service. The registration is broken down so that the number of workers available for any particular trade or skill is compiled for each locality.

The labor inventory was part of a three-phase program for meeting man-power shortages as the defense industries expand. Combined with it is a government-industry co-operative program for training men in industrial plants and a vocational training program for schools.

The commission is building a reservoir of skilled labor through training programs in the national youth administration, the civilian conservation corps and the WPA. The N. Y. A. program has 68,000 learning defense trades, the CCC 300,000 and the WPA 25,000.

The civil service commission is recruiting 100,000 skilled civilian workers for navy yards, arsenals and other defense establishments.

In another field of defense personnel activity, Gill Robb Wilson, president of the National Aeronautic association, proposed creation of a civil air reserve of pilots to form a noncombatant auxiliary for air defense. These fliers, beyond the age of military fliers, would be valuable to provide information, transportation, observation patrol and disaster relief in the event of emergency, Wilson said.

Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God!—Patrick Henry.

The firm of Caesar, Lamonsky & Nero Logsonovitch have applied for a charter to do business in second-hand pants and what have you. The following conversation was heard between Caesar and Nero:

Pants are made for men and not for women. Women are made for men and not for pants. When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man that makes a pair of pants. Pants are like molasses—they are thinner in summer than winter. There has been much discussion as to whether pants is singular or plural. Seems to me that when men wear pants it is plural and when they don't wear pants it is singular. If you want to make pants last make the coat first. So said Caesar.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

Speaker Bankhead Passing Mourned by Nation

This has been a sad week in Congress. Our leader is gone. Speaker Bankhead was loved by every member of the House of Representatives, Republicans as well as Democrats. He was a Southern Gentleman and statesman in the highest meaning of those words. He was always courteous, brave, gentle and considerate, especially of new members.

Speaker Bankhead was a Democrat of the old school. He was an intense partisan and yet he would lean over backward to be fair to the opposition minority.

He always invited new members to visit him upon their arrival in Washington. He gave them good, sound and fatherly advice and was never too busy to go over any problem with young members.

They Carry On

The death toll of the members of Congress is greatly in excess of that for the nation. Since 1935 Speakers Rainey, Byrns and Bankhead have passed on. Speaker Bankhead was consistently warned against overwork. His brother, Senator Bankhead, tried to prevent him from accepting the position because of his poor health. But, Speaker Bankhead, like many other members, in spite of warnings, carried on until he was suddenly taken by death.

Rayburn Elected Speaker

Following an old tradition, and in order that the business of the House might proceed with as little interruption as possible, Sam Rayburn was elected speaker the day on which Speaker Bankhead's state funeral was held.

Mr. Rayburn was born in Roane county, Tennessee, near Kingston. He moved to Texas when a lad of 6 years of age. He has a lot of pride in his Tennessee heritage and frequently visits his old home and many relatives in Roane county. He is a natural orator, very forceful, loyal, active and every inch a man. He has been seasoned by twenty-five years of service in the House.

Selective Service Act in Operation

The following is an approximate timetable, still subject to change, of the machinery to put the selective service act into operation:

From now until Oct. 16, nominations by governors and appointment by President Roosevelt of state draft boards; also printing registration cards and setting up registration machinery.

Oct. 16, registering the 16,500,000 persons involved. One out of twenty-three will be selected the first year.

Oct. 17-28, preparing master sheets and tabulating registration cards.

Oct. 28, lottery to be held, in which priority of service will be established.

Oct. 23-Nov. 1, distributing questionnaires according to priority, filling out, returning and classifying candidates.

Nov. 1, selection of first draft quotas.

Nov. 15, induction of first trainees into federal service.

Volunteers will probably fill a sizable part of the first quota. This is done in two ways:

First, volunteers will reduce the size of the quota assigned to the locality, and,

Second, they will be counted toward filling the quota after it is established.

The national quota is expected to be about 400,000 men for the remainder of 1940. The quota will be established for each state according to the number of men it has available in proportion to the national total.

The government recognizes the fact that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Hostesses will be employed by the army to direct club houses, cafeterias and arrange social events to furnish a touch of home and mother at the army camps. The entertainment on reservations will be under direct army supervision. Private organizations will not be permitted to establish recreational centers within posts' precincts.

Athletics—softball, baseball, volley ball and boxing—will be stressed. There will be movies and theatrical shows.

At the Pressmen's convention held in Rogersville last week, all waiters and bartenders were union folks. There were 2,600 pressmen at the convention, and 400 members of the Cincinnati Culinary Workers' union were brought in to take care of the crowds.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Wom

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!
It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pains are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.
Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice, thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.
Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease period discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years.

Hour Week Plan "Foolish Talk," age-Hour Administrator Says

w York City.—In a hard hit- talk before the International ciation of Government Labor ials in convention here, Col. p B. Fleming, wage-hour ad- trator, vigorously attacked hening of work hours in de- industries.

l Fleming branded as "fool- talk" a suggestion of a na- l conference board report that 0-hour week would mean an ase in productive effectiveness 0 per cent." The conference d is supported by large em- r interests.

nerican army officers reported e contrary in the World war, ing pointed out, adding that British have found during the present war that long hours of work are inefficient."

Hits "Misguided Argument."

"The argument that a serious labor shortage in some of the skilled trades necessitates longer hours of work is, likewise, to my way of thinking, misguided," the administrator added. "There are eight or ten million Americans looking for work.

"To compete with the totalitarian nations we must make our economic machine work. Only by doing this can we hope to preserve democracy. Freedom cannot be bought by arms alone. Its price is also measured in terms of human welfare. The wage and hour law is one of our weapons in that fight."

Referring to the supposition that social and labor legislation would go by the board under the pressure of defense preparations, Fleming said:

"That talk is just nonsense. It is based on the false promise that our social and labor laws are mere candy-sticks to keep the nation's workers from whimpering."

Higher Standards Seen.

Isador Lubin, U. S. Commissioner of labor statistics, told the convention that this country should be ablt to prosecute its national defense program "without lowering the standards of living."

"In fact," he added, "I believe we should be able to raise our standards of living during this national emergency."

Robert J. Watt, international representative, American Federation of Labor, said that "labor wants a full share of participation and representation in the operation of the national defense program."

A midget automobile which its builder, the Crosley Corporation, Cincinnati, O., says can carry four soldiers with full field equipment at 50 miles an hour on one gallon of gasoline has been shown to army officers at Camp Holabird, Mr. The car, designed for either light transport or scouting purposes, is powered with an air-cooled, opposed-cylinder type engine.

REED LUMBER COMPANY vs. GILBERT LESTER NAFTZGER, TRUSTEE, et al

To the lien creditors or lien claimants of Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee and individually, and Mary Lillian Naftzger:

In obedience to an order made by the Chancery Court at Chattanooga, in the case of Reed Lumber Company vs. Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, et al, being No. 28289 on the rule docket of said court, all lien creditors of the defendants Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, and individually and Mary Lillian Naftzger, are hereby notified to come in by petition, accompanied by proper prosecution bond, or pauper's oath in lieu thereof, or by informal proof of claim, verified by oath of claimant, and file and prove their respective claims against defendants Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, and individually, and Mary Lillian Naftzger, and lien rights against the property situated in Hamilton county, Tennessee, known and described as follows, to-wit:

Part "B" of Lot Number Three (3), Block One (1) Daytona Hills Addition, a subdivision of part of B. A. Crisman property as per plat of record in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee, in Plat Book 14, page 5, to which reference is here made, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the southwest corner of said Part "B" in the northern line of Daytona Drive, 314.3 feet eastwardly along said line from its intersection with the eastern line of Dayton Pike and running thence eastwardly along Daytona Drive 75 feet to the southwest corner of Lot No. 5 in said block; thence northwardly along the line dividing said lots Nos. 4 and 5, a distance of 147 feet to the southern line of the D. C. Wiley property; thence westwardly along the southern line of the Wiley property, 75 feet; thence southwardly along the line dividing Parts "A" and "B" and said Lot 4, a distance of 147 feet to the point of beginning.

Said petitions are required to be filed on or before the 7th day of November, 1940, in this cause, or they and each of them shall be excluded from the benefits of this proceeding.

All creditors, lien creditors or lien claimants against said defendants Gilbert Lester Naftzger, Trustee, and individually, Mary Lillian Naftzger, and/or having or claiming any lien, rights or interests in or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding except in this cause, and all parties to any and all suits now pending against said defendants and/or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding further in them than to judgment.

This order will be published in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, Tennessee, for four successive weeks.

This September 12th, 1940.

WORKERS IN U. S. RUBBER COMPANY PLANT ORGANIZED

Winnsboro, S. C.—Employes of the United States Rubber company's textile plant here have formed a local union and applied to the United Textile Workers of America for a charter. Gordon L. Chastain, president of the Southern Cotton Textile Federation; John W. Pollard, first vice-president of the United Textile Workers of America, and other UTWofA, have assisted the employes of the plant in forming the new local union, which promises to become one of the strongest textile locals in the state.

Inverse Heating.

The night was cold, and Mrs. Timms was disturbed about her new kitchen maid who slept in an unheated room.

"Mary," she said, "it's going to be a cold night. I think you had better take a flatiron to bed with you."

"Yes, ma'am," assented the girl, but without enthusiasm.

The next morning her employer inquired: "Well, Mary, how did you get along with the flatiron?"

Mary sighed and answered, wearily: "Well, ma'am, I managed to get it fairly warm before morning."

Burned at the Stake?

"Hey, waiter, this steak is burned black."

"Yes, sir, a mark of respect; our head waiter died yesterday."

WHY DRESS UP?

A big husky from the neighboring lumber camp was watching the unpacking.

"What's them things?" he asked, pointing to a package.

"Pajamas," replied the clerk.

"Pajamas? What's pajamas?"

"Night clothes. Want to buy a suit?"

"Heck no!" said the lumberjack. "I ain't no social bounder. When night comes, I goes to bed."

No Such Thing

A Dublin car driver was stopped for careless driving by a zealous constable. He refused to give his name.

Constable—You'll get yourself into trouble if you refuse to give your name.

Still the driver refused.

Constable (persisting) — Now, then, what is it?

Driver—Better find out.

Constable—Sure, and I will (going around to the side of the small trusk where the name should have been only to find it rubbed off)—A-ha, now you'll get yourself into worse disgrace, for your name is obliterated.

Driver (roaring)—You're wrong! It's O'Brien.

Loses Voice . . . Gains Votes

From Memphis Labor Review

It has been said—and not without reason in the past—that every time Wendell Willkie opens his mouth he loses votes. Such a charge is a very serious and very great one, to say the least, but quite within the bounds of fact and reasonable. Senator Pepper of Florida says that the Republican presidential candidate is the "second best Democratic speaker" which may be overstating things a little but it serves well to explain the point. Whatever assets Mr. Wendell Willkie ever had of being elected as this country's chief executive is dwindling rapidly from his own public utterances.

Never before have the American people been asked to listen to such irrational arguments and such underlings as espoused by this "barn storm" campaign. This adolescent political mouse trap method of public life has stranded him totally unfit not only to fill the office to which he aspires but unfit even to take up the people's time by asking them to listen to him apply for the job.

There is, for instance, the [illegible] in Illinois last week. President Roosevelt telephoned Hitler and Mussolini and urged them to call Czecho-Slovakia and Austria down. The crowd shouted. Nominee Willkie, who promised he wasn't going to deal in personalities. This absurd conversation was, of course, a lie and Mr. Willkie may or may not have known it when he said it. We shall assume it was an honest mistake. The apologies which followed the statement prove that it was official and furious, for, it developed, that wasn't what Mr. Willkie intended to say at all.

Here is a man who can make burning and damning charges from the public platform and make it off a few hours later as a mistake. Certainly America doesn't want such unstable men directing United States foreign policy. No nation could stand for long with such an executive. Instability and handicap to its diplomatic integrity, prestige and programmings.

Let's take another look at the record, the Elwood acceptance speech, for instance. Even the Democrats were disappointed over that, to say nothing of the ruddy-duddying, old-line Republicans who had expected great things from their newly found White Hope. But no, the chagrin, embarrassment and disappointment Accepter Willkie caused his cohorts and potential supporters on that occasion was equalled only by the chagrin, embarrassment and disappointment which resulted (and still results) from subsequent public appearances.

We could go on and on. There is the interview lately in Kansas City, when he told a group of doctors that "there is no one to whom socialized medicine as the only answer to their health problems" wooing the vote of the medicos, Mr. Willkie forthwith lost the support of thousands upon thousands of working men and women, who look upon group medicine as the nly answer to their health problems. Probably there are hundreds of doctors who haunt the temple of the money-changers that plan to support Mr. Willkie. As smart a businessman as Lawyer Willkie undoubtedly is, he should know, however, that to swap a hundred "ayes" for a thousand "nays" is not very good business.

We regret physical infirmity which befalls anyone. Mr. Willkie, however, appears to be having trouble with his voice, and this infirmity may prove a big asset to the Republican party. The more Mr. Willkie says, the more the Democrats like it. The more Mr. Willkie says, the less the Republicans like it. Mr. Willkie talks and talks, the public walks and walks.

It is not hard to imagine that Candidate Willkie's loss of voice might prove quite the nicest thing that could happen to the Republican party at this too-late stage of the campaign.

Bakers' Scraps

Well, the fair has left and we have settled back down to the regular routine at the bakeries after a mad rush for the past week. Saw a good many of the members at the fair last Saturday night at the various shows, rides and exhibits. Everyone seemed to be having the time of their lives. Our party sure had a swell time having our pictures taken. Hope to see everyone at the fair next year.

Notes From Candy Workers

Well, folks, we are still at the same old stand. There are two things we hear most about these days: one is war and the other is election. Well, we have to have the one and the war we just have to put up with. But I get disgusted with some of the candidates and some of their speakers and the rotten stuff they say. One of the favorite spiels of some is that we (meaning the working people) hate the business man; and I happen to know that when a man uses that moral he is losing votes for himself. I have been closely connected with many of the forgotten working people and I, with many others, have known many conditions that we hated, but I never yet have known any of them that hated their employers. I read an article in a paper today in which the writer spoke of the many mistakes that had been made and he left so broad a hint that anyone could see that it was our labor laws that he was hitting at; but a fig for him. We are just like a snowball, the further we roll the larger we get and we will just keep rolling on.

J. P. HUGHES.

Wall Street Bankers Waxed Fat On Reorganization of Western Railroad, Senators Reveal

Washington.—How Wall Street bankers made big profits from the reorganization of a western railroad was told by the senate interstate commerce committee in a report to the senate.

The committee found that bankers who underwrote the Missouri Pacific railroad's reorganization securties received half again as much compensation as the system's general officers did in running it from 1921 to 1930.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, and Senator Truman, of Missouri, declared in an accompanying statement that indications were that, "while investors in the Missouri Pacific suffered in 1915 and again in 1933, the road was a profitable enterprise for its bankers."

Big Pay for Bankers.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, and other participating bankers, they said, received a gross compensation of nearly $9,500,000 in the 10-year period from 1921 to 1930, while total sauaries and expenses of all general officers of the railroad amounted to $6,069,000.

The report discussed the system's reorganization, expansion and financing from 1915 to 1930.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the senators declared, "dominated the 1915-1917 reorganization by reason of their representation on the stockholders' proxy committee and on two bondholders' committees, as well as through their appointment as reorganization managers, their role as chief underwriters of the emerging securities, and their representation in the voting trust which controlled the railroad for five years after the reorganization.

No Decrease in Charges.

The reorganization plan, the statement said, provided for a $50,000,000 reduction in long-term debt and $3,250,000 reduction in annual fixed charges, but "subsequent financing, entirely through the sale of fixed-interest debt, wiped benefits from the reorganization." The debt, the report added, subsequently was increased by $185,000,000 and fixed-interest charges by $9,800,000 a year.

"The upshot was the 1933 bankruptcy," the senators asserted. "The story of how the 1915-17 reorganization postponed renewed insolvency for only sixteen years contains, in our opinion, a lesson for present reorganizers and future managements of the Missouri Pacific."

Industry and Social Responsibilieis.

Washington.—Speaking in a program, "Youth in Crisis," presented by the National Youth Adminisministration, in co-operation with the National Broadcasting company, Matthew Woll expressed the opinion there are many industries today who really feel their social responsibilities in the matter of unemployment and other matters. Asked if private industry realizes it has any obligation to provide youth with jobs, Mr. Woll said:

"I think that industry today is more conscious of its social obligations and responsibilities than it has been in some years past. There was a time when industry was concerned only with finances."

It is better to try to bear the ills we have, than to anticipate those which may never come.—Rochefoucauld.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy internally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Then, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, as relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed September 2, 1936, by HERBERT W. ANDERSON and wife HARRIETTE BORK ANDERSON (Mildred Jane Anderson, being one and the same party as Mildred Ramsey Anderson, former wife of Herbert W. Anderson, having died October 27, 1939) to GENERAL MORTGAGE COMPANY, TRUSTEE, which deed of trust is recorded in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book E, Volume 29, Page 374, et seq., reference to which is made for a full recital of its terms and provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned, default having been made in its payment, I, ROBERT N. CHAMBLISS, as substitute trustee under a substitution of trustee instrument recorded in Book 804, Page 233, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in connection with said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes evidencing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead and all other rights of redemption of every kind, at the west door of the Courthouse in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, on Monday, October 21, 1940, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate located in the Third Civil district of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Four (4) and the west twenty-five (25) feet of Lot Three (3), Block Twenty-seven (27), Mountain Land Company's Subdivision of Block Twenty-seven (27), Tract Number Two (2), Signal Mountain Properties, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 7, page 7 of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said Lot Four (4) fronts Seventy-five (75) feet on the south line of Signal Mountain Boulevard and extends back southwardly between slightly converging lines to the south line of said block on which it has a frontage of sixty-seven (67) feet; its west line being two hundred (200) feet and its east line two hundred and 2/10 (200.2) feet in length; and that part of Lot Three (3) fronts twenty-five (25) feet on the south line of Signal Mountain Boulevard and extends back southwardly between parallel lines to the south line of said block; its east line being one hundred fifty (150) feet, more or less, and its west line one hundred fifty and 8/10 (150.8) feet in length.

SUBJECT to conditions and restrictions as set out in the deeds registered in Book D, Volume 15, page 158 and Book B, Volume 18, page 262. Said conditions and restrictions modified by instrument recorded in Book X, Volume 23, page 101.

The title to said property is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This September 20, 1940.

THE STRENGTH OF AMERICA

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

If our country should become involved in the war which is now sweeping over the world, we will have to prepare ourselves as other nations are doing. But even more vital than the building of battleships and the creation of armies will be the character of our people and the form of our government. In an important sense the latter is of supreme significance.

Aristotle, the Greek philosopher said a couple of thousand years ago, that "the best government is aristocratic." Thomas Jefferson, the American democrat, said the same thing. But neither Aristotle nor Jefferson meant that the best government should be in the hands of those whom we today commonly call "aristocrats." If we were to coin a phrase which would cover what they both had in mind, we would say that the best government is an "aristocratic democracy."

The word aristocratic is derived from the Greek word "aristos," which means "the best." The word democracy is derived from the Greek word "demos," meaning "the people." Most of us will agree that government should be in the hands of the "best people," a combination of aristocracy and democracy. This means that the best government is that which is controlled by an aristocracy drawn from all who have achieved leadership because of their character, their virtue, their ability to govern.

This shuts out the mob which possesses none of these requirements. It shuts out the gangs which have secured control in many of our cities. It shuts out the politicians who scheme to serve their ring or selfish principles. It shuts out those who merely possess wealth. In the last analysis, the government should be in the hands of the aristocracy of all groups, regardless of race, creed, color, or economic condition. These are the people who should constitute the rulers in a democracy which is truly aristocratic.

This would be an aristocracy of brains, of virtue, of character. These qualities are just as prevalent among the workers of America as they are among the wealthy, the social leaders, the industrialists, or any others who now sit in "the seats of the mighty." Our country is strong because our Constitution is based upon the principles just described. There can be no better form of government. Herein lies our greatest strength.

The real aristocrat will defend this government against every attack that is made upon it. If the time should ever come when our form of government should fail, it will be only because we have lost our character, our virtues, our pride in it and our courage to maintain it. No outside force can take these from us. It will be only as we become flabby, or indifferent, or cowardly that this may happen. In other words, only as we lose our "aristocratic" spirit. This is the spirit which dominates the "common" people of America. And because they outnumber all others, we may rest assured that our democracy is safe.

TEACHER TALK

Be sure to attend the membership meeting of the union tomorrow (Saturday) at Dickinson at 10 a.m. Important decisions must be made at this meeting.

* * *

The newly-appointed fact-finding committee, of which Miss Catherine Perry is chairman, will meet Tuesday afternoon in the union offices at 4 o'clock. Idea behind the forming of this committee was to develop means of assembling all kinds of data concerning teachers everywhere, so that we can always be ready with objective statements to show the sub-standard and sub-average aspects of the local school systems. This information will be summarized and made available to the members of the union and at the proper time to the public. Much good can come of such a research group, we believe, and we are anxious to see it get under way.

* * *

Grievance committee had an enthusiastic meeting this week. After all, can you imagine a group with more to say? They are organizing and making plans for a vigorous year. If you have in mind any practice or condition that you think needs investigating, write to Chairman W. P. Bales at the office, 206 Ferger building.

* * *

Let's get after potential members early in the year. One school chairman was in the other day to get five application blanks. Look around and see who is eligible this year for the first time. Literature on the AFT and the local will be available at the office.

* * *

It's high time to be returning those activities questionnaires that we sent around over a week ago. Teachers are very busy at any time, especially, it may be, at the beginning of the school year, but we want to get the activities program organized and functioning as soon as possible, so if your school chairman has not yet got around to you ask him about it.

The bridge group will meet Saturday evening, Oct. 5, in the Hotel Patten at 8 o'clock.

The modern literature group will meet with Mrs. Ruth McCafferty at 7:30 Tuesday evening of next week (October 1), 4208 Anderson avenue. Misses Dorothy French and Virginia Munsey will review books.

Sixtieth Annual AFL Convention Will Open on Nov. 18 in New Orleans

Washington, D. C.—Official notice that the next annual convention of the American Federation of Labor will begin Monday morning, Nov. 18, 1940, in the Civic auditorium, New Orleans, La., was sent to all affiliated unions by President Green and Secretary-Treasurer Meany.

Organizations to be entitled to representation must have obtained a certificate of affiliation (charter)) at least one month prior to the convention; and no person will be recognized as a delegate who is not a member in good standing of the organization he is elected to represent.

"It is more important than ever," said the convention call, "that all organizations chartered by and in affiliation with the American Federation of Labor be represented at this historic convention. The great national and international emergency which confronts the nation calls for an expression on the part of the millions of members of the American Federation of Labor upon social, economic and industrial questions which affect the well-being of all classes of people. This objective can be reached if the membership is fully represented.

"Our great democratic movement must again re-emphasize its outstanding position in defense of democracy, democratic procedure and free democratic institutions. The convention will assemble at a time when the fate of world democracy is hanging in the balance. We must adopt wise policies, formulate and proclaim a declaration of principles and adopt a program which will serve to inspire new hope and a broader vision in the hearts and minds of the masses of the people. We must fight for the maintenance of the American way of life, for the enjoyment of liberty, freedom and justice, and for the consolidation of all our gains.

"If each and every member of the American Federation of Labor is represented at this Sixtieth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor by delegates who are conscious of their grave responsibilities, the work of the convention and the decisions it makes will make a profound impression upon the hearts and minds of all citizens of our republic."

Credentials in duplicate are being forwarded to all affiliated unions. The original credentials should be given to the delegate elect and the duplicate forwarded to the American Federation of Labor office, A. F. of L. building, Washington, D. C.

The committee on credentials will meet at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor six days previous to the opening of the convention, and will report immediately upon the opening thereof at New Orleans, here secretaries will observe the necessity of mailing the duplicate credentials of their respective delegates at the earliest possible moment to Washington, D. C.

Any resolutions or proposals received after the expiration of the time limits will be referred to the Executive Council and the Executive Council will refer all such proposals to the convention with the understanding that acceptance of such proposals is dependent upon the unanimous consent of the convention.

Any or all proposals emanating from directly affiliated local trade and federal labor unions will be referred to the Executive Council for consideration and disposition. The Executive Council will in turn advise the convention of the disposition made of such proposals.

Three copies of each resolution or proposal should be furnished.

Hotel reservations in New Orleans for the convention period may be obtained by writing Robert L. Soule, secretary, Central Trades and Labor Council, 333 South Patrick street, New Orleans, La.

Teachers More Important Than Buildings

We follow with interest and sympathy the protests now being made by school patrons in Alton Park against the run-down condition of the school in that community. We recognize that all over the city there could and should be many improvements in the equipment.

We also recognize that nothing will ever be done about it until an infuriated group of mothers and fathers force action to the extent that money will be secured.

We want to call to the attention of Alton Park mothers and fathers, along with mothers and fathers over all the city, that there is a condition inside the school room that is crying aloud for justice but which is falling on deaf ears, mainly because all of us are selfish. Until a thing adversely affects us and our families, we are prone to pay no attention to it.

Far worse than the state of disrepair of our buildings is the cruel wage conditions imposed on human beings that teach my children and your children. The school teacher (and the janitors) are paid on a nine-month basis. The teachers of this city average about $85 per month on a twelve-month basis.

The teachers have to spend hundreds and thousands of dollars to become competent to train our children. They must attend summer schools to further improve themselves, which costs money. The teachers must dress neatly, and are expected to partake in all civic enterprises, which also costs plenty.

Their hours of work are not confined to the time that classes are in session. They are called on to work extra hours and also a great amount of charity work is borne by them because they have not the heart to refuse it.

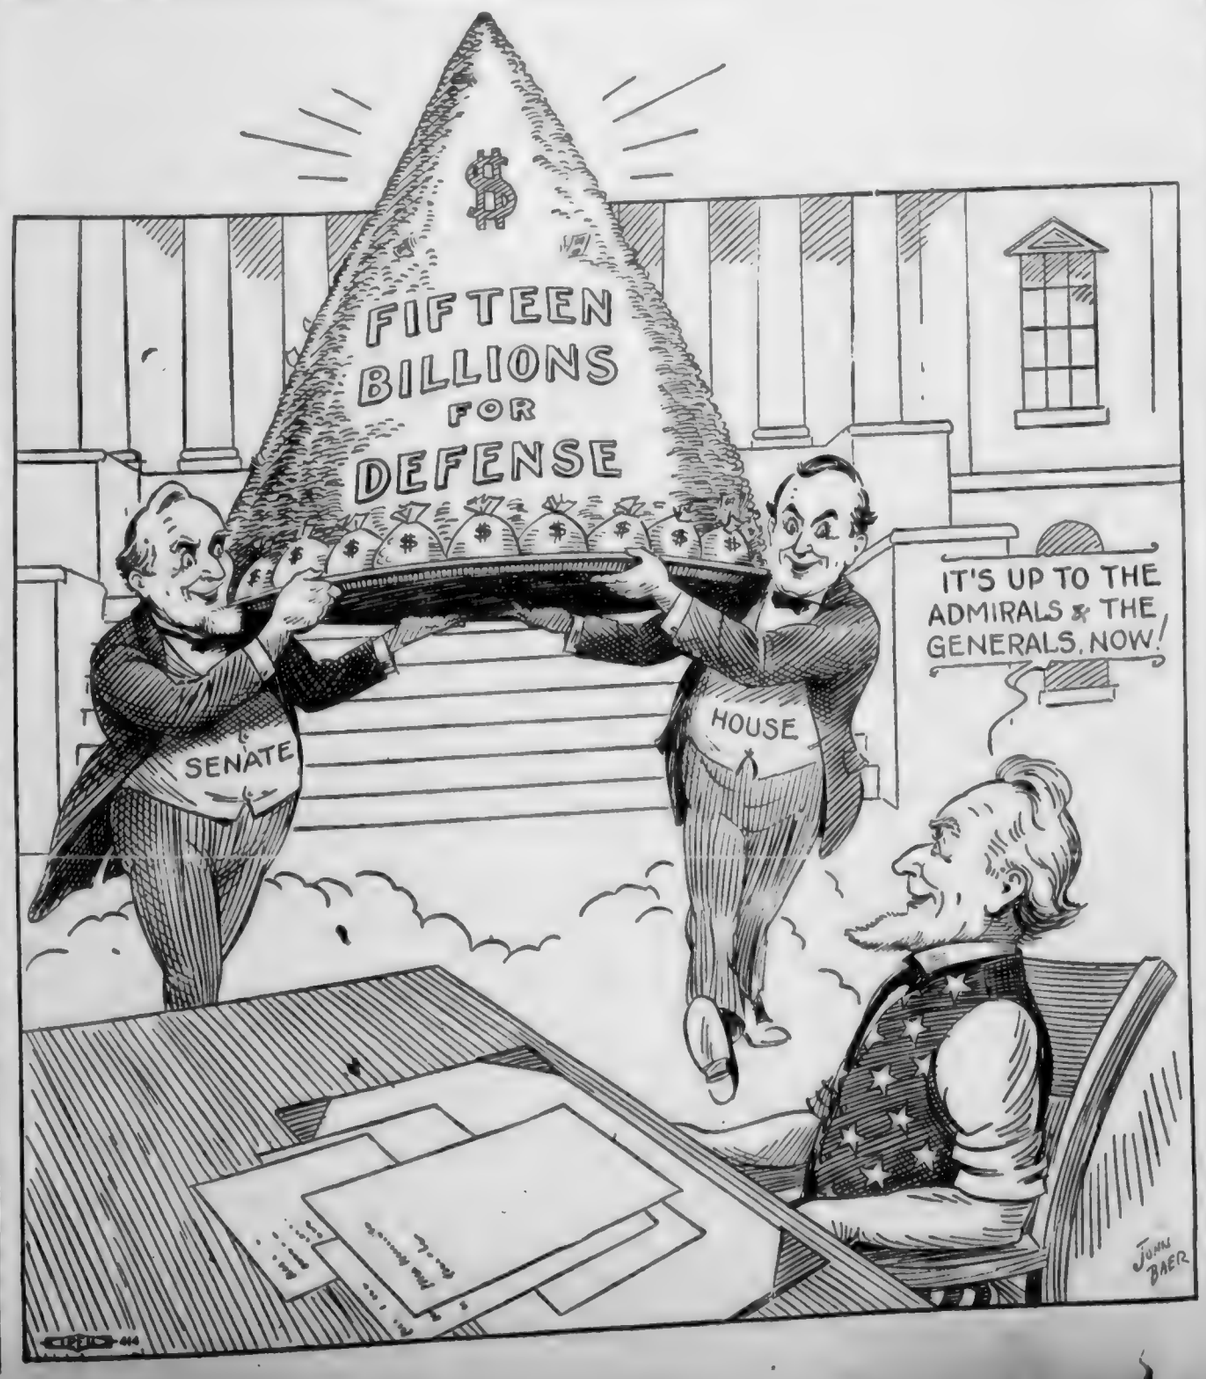
Undoubtedly many of the teachers' homes are in as bad a condition as our schools. And, after all, the children they teach are the responsibility of the parents first.

Yet we parents let the teacher pay a great part of the expense of educating our children.

We hope that the Alton Park parents, predominantly known as "working people," will recognize the injustice being done to our fine group of teachers, whom we are forcing to assume our burden, and will see to it that the teachers' salaries will be repaired before any other project is attempted.

After all, if more money is appropriated for sticks and stones, it will be the flesh and blood of the teacher that will foot the bill, not the taxpayers and parents. The schools need more money, and it is up to the parents to see that it is forthcoming.

CONGRESS DOES ITS PART! By Baer



TEACHER TALK

General membership meeting Saturday morning voted to continue salary suit against the city through the supreme court. City salary committee asked for more time to continue negotiations with the commission concerning rates for the present school year. . . Meeting was assured, on authority of Selma Borchard, AFT national legislative representative in Washington, that the Wagner amendment to the social security act that city teachers were asked to consider supporting recently had absolutely no chance of congressional action this term. Full report on the proposed action will come from Washington in ample time for us to consider it.

The union voted that we join the Chattanooga Labor Temple, Inc., contributing $3 each, to be divided into three installments of a dollar each. Every unionist surely knows by now that the labor movement in Chattanooga is going to have its own home, in the former Vine Street orphanage, which was purchased last summer. This home will be ideal for meetings and socials, and we know that our members will be delighted with its appearance and facilities.

ACTIVITIES

Modern literature group met with Mrs. Ruth McCafferty Tuesday evening, twenty-five of them, to enjoy talks by Misses Virginia Munsey and Dorothy French.

Bridge group will be unable to meet at the Patten Saturday evening, since another group has engaged the facilities there. They will meet a week later, Saturday, Oct. 12, at 8 o'clock.

Badminton, a little late in starting, will probably have its final session Thursday, Oct. 10.

Tax problems group will meet Monday of next week in the offices of the union at 7:30.

Notices will be sent to you of meetings in which you are interested. Directors in schools should get lists in to the office NOW, so that all groups possible can be formed.

Dues should be paid as soon as possible. The work of the union, which is being expanded this year, will require adequate financing. Don't let your union down!

Retail Clerks Sign 4 More Contracts

The Retail Clerks' union has had a big fortnight the past two weeks. Report has come in to The Labor World that a renewed agreement has been completed with Mills & Lupton company which continues a closed shop and one dollar per week increase in pay.

The Elliott Grocery on Forty-fifth street in Alton Park went closed shop this week when a contract was signed with the clerks.

And two billiard parlors signed closed shop agreements that included a $3.50 per week pay increase. They are the American Billiard parlor and the Brunswick. Fifteen members are involved in the two places.

TYPO AUX. MEETS NEXT TUESDAY

The auxiliary of the Chattanooga Typographical union will meet Tuesday evening, Oct. 8, in the assembly room of the Chattanooga Times building. Meeting will open at 7:30.

At the present time the United States boasts supremacy in the fur dying industry. Exquisite new fur colorings formerly associated only with rare and expensive furs have brought lovely furs within the range of every pocketbook. For centuries Leipzig was the center of the fur dying industry and its secrets were well guarded, but the coming of the last World War forced us to learn the intricate processes of the art.

GLAMOR

It's time for that first fall dress. It should be black and worn with a big black hat. It has a two-piece look achieved by draped folds over the high skin tight sleeves and a high neck, accentuated with a large flash of that costume jewelry that remains ever popular.

To take the guess out of the selection of sun glasses, the Gun Glass Institute recently has developed commercial standards under the procedure of the national bureau of standards.

Rest the eyes whenever possible by lying down in a darkened room and keeping the eyes closed. Apply herbal packs or ice cold cloths to the eyes. This relieves strain and fatigue.

An eye cup and a mild solution of boric acid for bathing the eyes is a necessity in every medicine chest. Two or three bathings a day is very restful to tired eyes and beneficial to red or granulated eyelids.

A rich tissue or eye cream applied at night will do wonders for preventing wrinkles.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKING

Bring out that old heavy dark Victorian furniture you have stored in the attic and paint it white! Take off the old horsehair coverings and upholster it in gay chintz or pink velveteen. The secret of using these pieces effectively in a room is to think of them chiefly as accents. Small accessories such as bouquets of wax flowers with their glass dome covers do much to make the Victorian pieces feel right at home.

If your room has two narrow windows close together, your room will appear more spacious if you treat the two windows as one unit, using simple straight hangings at the outer sides, a graceful valance across the top, and, if you wish, a single length of material concealing the wall space between.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

One of the biggest jobs for future years with the defense program crowding many ordinarily important things clear out of the picture is the maintenance of standards for women workers, in the face of defense necessities, which will grow greater instead of less as the months pass.

The women's bureau, U. S. department of labor, has formed an advisory committee to help in this extremely important task.

How far women's bureau may have to clash with civilian welfare division of defense advisory commission remains to be seen, but the advance indications of close co-operation are none too encouraging. Cast-iron authority is deemed likely, and unless someone gives way or learns to compromise, there is a chance that the welfare of women, as expressed in their working conditions, hours, etc., may get at least mislaid in the battle—one of the first casualties of getting ready for war.

PANTRY PALAVER

Chef's Hints: For those picnics in the woods this glorious fall weather try broiling steaks, chops, hamburgers or franks over charcoal fire, and be sure to take along a good barbecue sauce made as follows:

Mix 2 cups sauted onions and 6 garlic cloves with 2 tblspns salt, 2 cups vinegar, 1 tspn. cayenne, 2 cups canned tomatoes and 3 tspns. Worcestershire sauce. Mix well. Carmelize enough sugar to darken a quart of water. Add the seasonings and bring to a boil. When cold add tspn. or more of sugar to taste.

Use this sauce over a leg of lamb sometimes and see if you don't like the flavor of the lamb.

Soup, which has been more or less forgotten during the summer, will have an added zest these first cool fall days. Add a can of condensed tomato soup to a can of condensed pea soup, then add a can of evaporated milk and serve with crisp croutons.

* * *

For a quick, inexpensive desert, cut thin bread slices into 2-inch squares and press into small greased muffin cups. Brush with melted butter and make in a very hot oven 5 minutes. Fill with cream cheese and grape jelly; top with nutmeats, bake 3 minutes.

If you have trouble with bread molding in damp weather wrap well with waxed paper and store in a refrigerator.

And if that same dampness has lumped your brown sugar just put it in the oven for a few minutes to soften.

BABY TALK

Children, selfish little things that they are, tend to look down on other children of the same age who do not excel in athletics and games, and they show great respect for a boy or girl who can do something which they cannot do. Children who lack interest in rough and tumble sports should be given a chance to demonstrate their ability in other lines such as music, art or mechanics. Children are pretty fast on the uptake today. Their interest in comics is just 1 per cent higher than their interest in news stories.

Green Promises Full AFL Cooperation In Carrying Out Selective Service

New York City.—Full co-operation of the American Federation of Labor in carrying out the provisions of the Burke-Wadsworth selective service bill was pledged by President William Green in an interview here.

Passage of the bill ends the A. F. of L. campaign against the measure, Green said. The federation opposed the bill on the ground that it was poorly drawn and urged that the volunteer system should be tried before conscription was put in effect.

"The bill," Green said, "is not as we would like to have seen it but congress has decided that it is to be the law of the land and the American Federation of Labor will, of course, co-operate in carrying out that decision. These are times that call for giving, and we will give."

In addressing the fifteenth anniversary convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters here, President Green said the A. F. of L. would give "service of the highest order" in national defense industries and that the only thing sought in return was maintenance of labor's social and economic gains.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Point

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Beulah Ogle, Correspondent

(Apologies are offered to the Cooks and Waiters for the blunder in last week's issue when we put their column under the heading of another local. In asking for pardon we remind you that sometimes when we order coffee you get buttermilk, and so on.—The Editor.)

Last Tuesday night was our regular meeting night and we had a very interesting discussion on how to get our members to take more interest in our meetings. Had Mary Jenkins been there she would have won the jack pot or a month's dues. Now remember the jack pot will be double next meeting night and the lucky person gets two months' dues.

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY CONGRESSMAN Estes Kefauver

International Affairs Hold Spotlight

The world crisis again dominated the scene in Washington as it has so many previous weeks of the 76th United States congress. A tired house and senate put the finishing touches on a long, strenuous session by passing two important measures. The lower chamber acted quickly and approved the third supplemental defense appropriation, and the senate passed the much discussed Ramspeck civil service bill, which would bring some 50,000 hitherto politically appointed government workers under the civil service. This action, coupled with a majority party calendar, which for the time being envisages the introduction of no further controversial legislation, would clear the way for adjournment, if prospective adjournment could be based upon the completion of current impending bills.

No Adjournment Now

But hopes for immediate adjournment seem to have vanished. The Japanese-Axis agreement added materially to the already grave position in which the United States finds itself. In view of these striking developments and the general world situation, there seems to be a feeling among a majority of the members that nothing should be done that would prevent congress from reassembling immediately for the purpose of dealing with any matter that might arise.

Axis Move Anticipated

It is reassuring to the American people, in perplexing and distressing times, to know that the foreign policy of the United States has the guidance not only of the dynamic President Roosevelt, but also of the quiet, calm, forthright Tennessean, Secretary Cordell Hull. It is most comforting to know that the state department had anticipated the stroke of authoritarian diplomacy, banding together the totalitarian arms and the quarter billion people of Germany, Japan and Italy, in a 10-year pact of military and economic character, implying the total aid of all three against the United States in the event of the involvement of any one of them. Mr. Hull formally declared the new alignment had been fully expected and "fully taken into account by the government of the United States in the determination of this country's policies."

Vocational Schools

There are 300 vocational schools in the country at this time, which are training men to be skilled in the work that is necessary to carry on our national defense program. It is expected that the number of schools will be greatly increased. Those certified for WPA work are eligible to go to these schools and receive the regular WPA wage scale for that locality if they are otherwise qualified.

It is expected that there will be a shortage of workers with specific professional and technical ability when the rearmament program is expanded and gets full under way. Further labor shortages will develop within the next year because much of the existing surplus labor in the particular trades is not in the vicinity of the facilities at which the need for the labor will develop. The specific industries and industrial activities in which these shortages are expected include:

Aircraft, air transportation, automobile service, boilermaking, construction, ship and boat building, forging, locomotive, cement, clock and watch, communications, petroleum refining, cooperage, cord and twine, electrical, wire, electroplating, firearms, iron and steel, machine shop, furniture, hardware, heat treating, hotel and restaurant, light, heat and power, motion pictures, munitions, optical goods, metal, smelting and refining, printing and publishing, radio, transportation, sheet metal, meat packing, textile, automobile, signs, woodworking.

Undernourishment Seen National Peril

One-third of Population Not Properly Fed, Says Defense Board Member, Calling for Remedial Action

Washington,D. C.—One out of every three Americans is living below the "safety line" of proper diet, a spokesman of the National Defense Advisory Commission declared in a call to the nation to strengthen its defense powers by providing adequate food for all.

"Let's make America stronger by making Americans stronger," said Miss Harriet Elliott, consumer adviser on the commission.

Forty-five millions of us are living below the safety line right now because we are not getting the kinds and amounts of food necessary for food and health," she said.

"Hungry, undernourished people do not make for strong defense," Miss Elliott warned. "We have the lands, machines and hands it takes to produce and move and market all the food we need to assure everyone an adequate and safe diet. Let's get to work to see that everyone gets at least that."

Program of Action Offered.

In a special issue of the Consumers' Guide, Miss Elliott set forth eight suggestions under which she said groups and individuals could insure better diets for all.

1. A municipal radio market news service so household buyers will know each day what foods are good buys and cheap.

2. A school lunch program to insure that every school child gets at least one well-balanced and adequate meal daily.

3. Work for low-cost ways of selling milk, fruits and vegetables so low-income families can buy them in greater abundance.

4. Establishment of diet clinics where families can bring their food-buying problems and discuss them with experts in nutrition and consumer buying.

Food Stamp Plan Support.

5. Support of the food stamp plan now operating in 150 cities.

6. Learn, if you have the land, how to grow the foods you cannot buy, preserve the foods you cannot use immediately, and plan for balanced meals throughout the year.

7. Urge merchants to sell government-graded foods, and urge consumers to buy by grade so they will get the quality they want for the money they have to spend.

8. Know what your local, state, and national governments are doing to help get safe meals to more people.

The 45,000,000 Americans said by Miss Elliott to be undernourished comprise approximately one-third of the population of 131,409,881.

Former Union Chiefs Sentenced to Prison For Racketeering

St. Louis, Mo.—Two former union executives were sentenced here by Judge John Caskie Collet in federal district court to five years in prison and to pay fines of $5,000. They were found guilty recently on racketeering charges. Judge Collet denied a motion for a new trial. The case will be appealed to the supreme court.

John P. Nick, former first vice-president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators, and his assistant, Clyde A. Weston, business agent of the union, were found guilty on eleven counts.

Five alleged that, as heads of the union in St. Louis, Nick and Weston had conspired to obtain $6,500 from theater owners in 1937 by making exorbitant wage demands. Other counts charged that Weston had organized a sound service firm to be used for the same purpose.

Tracy Praises Labor For Defense Aid

Atlantic City, N. J.—Organized labor has rallied loyally behind the national defense program, Assistant Secretary of Labor Dan W. Tracy told the New Jersey Federation of Labor at its state convention.

"Never before have the men and women of labor been faced with a greater responsibility to our country, our families and our organizations," Tracy said. "Without the wholehearted co-operation of labor, the defense program would be ineffective. Labor has given such co-operation."

Tracy stressed that the defense program, "under our great humanitarian president," can be used not only to fortify the country from a military standpoint, but "to reduce unemployment, maintain living standards and strengthen the human fiber of the nation."

Guarantee of Democracy

The establishment and preservation of a strong, effective, aggressive trade union movement constitutes the best guarantee for the preservation of democracy, both in governmental affairs and in human relationships. Through the establishment of our trade unions we are seeking to erect a barrier against the invasion of foreign isms—communism, nazism—and for the perpetuation of democracy, democratic principles and democratic procedure.—William Green.

Let's Tell it to the World

Principles enunciated by the chief of ordnance of the United States army, in an order issued during the world war, are being given considerable publicity by government and other agencies.

In the order is a sentence of 19 words that, if taken to heart by all industry, would go far toward the maintenance and improvement of labor conditions in every section of the nation, now and in the future. The sentence is:

"Industrial history proves that reasonable hours, fair working conditions, and a proper wage scale are essential to high production."

This sentence, as well as other parts of the order, which is an admirable statement in line with what organized labor has always advocated, can hardly be given too much publicity. Why not tell it to the world on every occasion, until it is indelibly fixed in private and public policy throughout the nation?

Why Not Everywhere

The Federated Trades Assembly of Duluth, Minn., A. F. of L. central body, has been sponsoring a series of meetings with Duluth clergymen. It invites them to participate in a discussion of labor problems—how they affect the unions and how they effect the general public. This seems a good idea, worth trying in other cities. As the Duluth Labor World says:

"Much good can come from such meetings. A better understanding can be reached. Confusion which naturally follows little understand events can be cleared away for the most part.

The assembly is doing the labor movement a valuable service in conducting meetings of this kind."

Air Raid Shelters Studied

A commentary on the times is the announcement that United States Housing Authority engineers are studying demonstration air raid shelters with a view to possible inclusion in low-rent housing projects.

USHA engineers have discarded the suggestion of reinforced floors above cellars because such construction in Europe has been ineffective. They now are studying two types of "pill boxes" built by a New York company for testing by the National Bureau of Standards. One type is oblong with a parabolic cross section tapering towards the top. The other is dome-shaped. The latter should give more protection from gunfire and bomb fragments, USHA engineers say, but no "pill box" so far devised provides much protection from a direct hit by a bomb.

The idea of reinforcing the floor above the cellar was dropped after consultation with Michael Rosenauer, noted British architect, who is visiting USHA projects. Rosenauer studied air raid shelter in Spain, France and England. In Spain, he says, debris of buildings demolished by bombs frequently blocked entrances to bomb-proof cellars and occupants often were suffocated before they could be removed.

To Protect Workers' Rights

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor has urged city central and state labor bodies to press for labor representation on all boards administering the selective service act. Labor representation is particularly important, he says, on appeals boards, which pass on appeals, etc., from men selected by local boards.

Labor membership on selective service boards will go far to prevent injustices to workers and to refute the charges, made by left-wing and other elements, that the act is an anti-labor move. Typical of the charges is this:

"Conscription gives the anti-union employer a weapon far more powerful than the use of company unions or labor spies—because, today, if the employer merely wishes to get rid of an active unionist in his plant, all he has to do is to refuse to grant any worker under 36 years of age a certificate that he is 'essential to industry'—and off goes the unionist into the army!"

If the danger conjured up in this quotation has any basis of fact, then labor representation on draft boards and alert, determined unionism in industry, is the answer. Even if there is no such danger, labor representation is needed. As was said in these columns not long ago:

"Conscription is certainly a matter that directly affects the wage earners and their vital interests. Drafting of workers for military training and possible service, calls for a labor voice in the process."

Executive Council Authorizes Parle For Reaffiliation of I. T. U. With AF

Washington, D. C.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, meeting in its regular fall session here, directed President William Green to name a committee of five members to meet with a similar committee representing the International Typographical union to arrange for the reaffiliation of that union with the A. F. of L.

The two committees, Mr. Green disclosed at a press conference, will meet in New Orleans on Nov. 20 during the American Federation of Labor's convention to bring about the reunion. Mr. Green said he had made the arrangements with President Claude Baker of the I. T. U.

At its recent convention in New Orleans, the I. T. U. adopted a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to negotiate with the American Federation of Labor for reaffiliation. This action was taken after Vice-President Woll, of the American Federation of Labor, had told the convention the Executive Council would recommend two important matters to the coming A. F. of L. conventions.

These recommendations were:

1. That the per capita tax paid by national and international unions to the A. F. of L. will be increased from 1 to 2 cents per month per member and the special 1-cent assessment in force during the past three years will be dropped.

2. That power to suspend affiliated national and international unions will be reserved to the conventions.

The I. T. U. was suspended by direction of the 1939 convention because it had failed to pay the 1-cent assessment. It was the only union in the A. F. of L. which refused to do so.

The International Typographical union was one of the original small groups of organizations which founded the A. F. of L. It had 80,000 members. The suspension of this union was voted as a reluctant last resort and since then efforts at reconciliation have been made spontaneously by both sides in recognition of the fact that the I. T. U. belongs in only one home—the American Federation of Labor.

President Green also announced that the Executive Council had authorized the issuance of an international charter to distillery, wine and rectifiers unions now operating as a national council of Federal Labor Unions. Officers of the national council will confer soon with Mr. Green for the establishment of the new international union, the 106th in the A. F. of L. family.

Painters Accept Arbitration Plan

New York, N. Y.—District Council No. 9, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, accepted a proposal by Mayor LaGuardia that the union's five-week strike against the Association of Master Painters and Decorators be submitted to arbitration. The employers met, but issued no statement on the mayor's proposal.

The union stipulated that the negotiations should be continued before the New York State Board of Mediation and notified the board that it would resume discussions as soon as possible. In response to a statement by Mr. LaGuardia that realty interests had reported widespread confusion because of the strike the union said it had signed agreements with 325 painting contractors and builders and could do all the city's painting.

Pamphlet Gives Pointers on Jobs In Defense Work

Washington, D. C.—The United States department of labor has prepared a pamphlet, at the suggestion and with the aid of a representative group of labor officials, so as to inform workers as to how their efforts can best fit into the national defense program, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced.

The publication furnishes practical pointers about jobs in the government and in private industry and tells where to get more facts. It has information about training for the jobs that need to be done, about labor standards, and about safety and health. It describes the set-up of the national defense advisory commission and concludes with that group's comprehensive statement on labor policy.

The pamphlet will be ready for distribution in a few weeks. Copies may be obtained by writing to Director of Information, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

430,000 UNEMPLOYED GOT JOBS IN AUGUST

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of Labor Perkins reported that reemployment took a record jump during August. Over 430,000 jobless workers were hired, bringing total employment in non-agricultural occupations to 36,000,000, an increase of 1,130,000 over a year ago.

Payrolls rose by 7.5 per cent, or $13,600,000 a year. Both the job and wage gains are double the usual seasonal advance for this period, Miss Perkins said.

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Knocking the boss is a favorite indoor sport for many of us. The average boss isn't a saint—he's just a human being—like ourselves. This should explain a lot of his "cussedness" and "stupidity." He's up against about the same kind of everyday problems that we are, to say nothing about the special problems that come only to bosses. He's troubled, for example, to know how to get work that means jobs for us, and he must keep his organization together. Sometimes he worries about it after the rest of us have chucked the overalls for the night and gone to a motion picture show.

This, however, is only the beginning of his troubles. Perhaps, in getting a contract, his bid had to be so low that he will be lucky if he comes out even. That happens to be the system under which the average boss is operating. Sometimes he does pretty well if everybody works together and tries to give the other man a square deal. If you have a chance, look up the local credit agency's records. The average number of business failures in the United States during the past ten years was over 18,000 annually. And failure in business isn't always due to the incompetence or dishonesty of the boss.

The boss is up against the same social and economic system that we're all facing. He's no more responsible for it than we are. It isn't as bad as some people say it is, but it should be a lot better. There should be less poverty and fewer panics in a country like ours, when one considers our marvelous resources, and some day we're going to work out a plan whereby extreme poverty and panics will be eliminated. This isn't going to be done by fighting each other.

Until we learn a better system, let's look upon each other as coworkers and make our present system more effective. With all its faults it has worked out, for most of us, far better than has any other plan in operation for the workers of other lands. If we decline to do this, we'll never get together on any kind of a system, because, after all, what men do to each other, viciously or unreasonably, is more harmful than what any "system" may do to us. The generations which have gone before settled nothing permanently for us. They may have cleared some paths and laid some foundations, but that's about all. We may be sure of one thing—the labor question will never be settled until the last day's work is done. Meanwhile, let's give the boss a break. For if we do so, he'll be in a better position to give us a square deal.

AFL Wheel Workers Win By 894 to 42 Vote

Toledo, O.—W. H. Whetro, American Federation of Labor Organizer, announced that members of Federal Local 18528 won an overwhelming victory in a labor board election among employes of the American National Metal Wheel company. The vote was 894 for the AFL local to 42 for an independent union.

A new paint, designed for use in industrial plants, is said to take the "slips" out of slippery floors. The paint can be applied to any type of wood, metal or concrete floor, says the manufacturer, and forms a durable, granular surface. It is not abrasive, contains no sand or ground glass, but is tough and resilient.

From the CLERKS

The Retail Clerks' local union, through its representative and the union people in Alton Park, have signed the J. G. Elliott Grocery company, located at 422 West 45th street, to a union closed shop contract.

The contract provides raises in wages of from $3.00 to $6.00 per week and sets a schedule of hours at 68 per week. All overtime to be time and one-half time.

Mr. Elliott was praised by the representatives of the union for his straightforward manner in which he worked in the formation of the contract and the Retail Clerks' union urge the union people in Alton Park to see to it that he finds out that the labor movement in this city appreciates his attitude.

The American Billiard parlor, located at 1474 Market street, and the Brunswick Billiard parlor, located at 833 Market street, owned and operated by Leonard Lane, have signed contracts with the Retail Clerks' local, No. 625.

The contract gives to all clerks in the two stores a $3.50 raise per week. The porters and extra help received $2.00 per week increase tive.

Mr. Lane has for years been very friendly to organized labor, having operated union restaurants and giving to the building trades crafts all work he has had. In signing the contract Mr. Lane said that he was going to pay more wages to his help than any other employer in the city in his line of business.

The Retail Clerks' Local union, No. 625, have renewed their contract with the Mills & Lupton Supply company after a period of negotiations. The contract gives to each employe $1.00 per week increase and vacations with pay.

also a closed union shop, 40 hours per week and overtime.

It is the hope of the retail clerks local that other clerks who are not now getting anywhere near the union scale will come into the union and let the union work out their problems. The executive officers of the Retail Clerks' local, No. 625, are as follows: A. H. Elliott, president; William A. Hilley, secretary; L. E. Ireland, treasurer, and Erskine Mabee, representative.

N. Y. Electrical Workers Win Cable Plants Strike

New York, N. Y.—One thousand electrical workers resumed work after a strike of nearly two months in three cable and conduit plants here. The strikers, members of Local No. 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, voted to submit to the arbitration of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia certain wages-and-hours issues after having obtained concessions which included retention of the closed shop and seniority rights, the re-employment of all strikers and a guaranty that no plant should be moved beyond the New York City 5-cent fare zone during the one-year period of the agreement.

Lace Firms Must Pay $60,000 Back Wages

Washington.—Baird Snyder, deputy administrator of the wage and hour division of the department of labor, announced that in accordance with the consent judgment issued by Judge John B. Hartigan, of the U. S. court for the district of Rhode Island at Providence, ten lace-making firms must pay some 300 industrial workers back wages estimated at $60,000 to bring their rate up to the 32½ cents an hour called for by the textile wage order. The firms represent 70 per cent of the drawn lace production in the country. Wage and hour inspectors found that the women lace makers were working on piece-work rates established seven or eight years ago which yielded only 5 to 20 cents an hour.

600,000 Seek Employment Through N. Y. Job Service

Albany, N. Y.—A reservoir of nearly 600,000 job seekers registered with the New York state employment service has at the disposal of business and industry to aid in the temporary replacement of national guardsmen and the men who will be called to the colors in the first draft, Milton O. Loysen, executive director of the division of placement and unemployment insurance, state department of labor, announced.

"A recent inventory disclo... that in New York City alone m... than 400,000 workers were reg... tered with our offices for emplo... ment," Mr. Loysen said. "M... than 65,000 of these men a... skilled workers and over 110,0... are in the semi-skilled class. Abo... 65 per cent are under 45 years ... age."

Building Trades council reports ning up the Lloyd E. Jones Ma- ine company, which is building new building on Manufacturers' ad.

The meeting hall of the Building ades council last Wednesday ening had standing room only its regular session. Plans were ng made to man the Camp Peay in Tullahoma, which is said employ from 8,000 to 10,000 n to prepare barracks for the ny.

Union craftsmen have already e to work on the Ft. Oglethorpe ject, amounting close to $50,- .

In view of the national emer- cy which has been created be- se of the onslaught of Germany on the free peoples of Europe, must be on guard night and so that no representative of a eign country will be permitted in any manner influence trade ion policy in the United States. John P. Frey, President, Metal ades Department, A. F. of L.

Notice Building Trades

A regular meeting of the Chattanooga Building Trades Council will be held at its new location in the Ferger building, on the corner of Eighth and Cherry streets. Sessions will start at 7:30 p.m., and all delegates are urged to be present.

GROVER TITTLE, President.

Street Car Aux. Will Meet Monday

The Auxiliary Street Car and Bus Drivers' Local 1212 will hold a meeting next Monday, Oct. 14, at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Raymond Williams.

For those not familiar with the location of Mrs. Wililams' residence, go through the Bachman tunnel on to Ringgold road for four miles to Hudlow's service station. The house is next to this service station on the right side of the road going toward Ringgold.

The Paul Reynolds Move to Knoxville

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reynolds and their daughter, Dorothy, left Chattanooga last week and moved to Knoxville. Both Paul and Marie were very active in the labor movement here and will be missed by their many friends in Chattanooga.

Paul has served as president of the Pressmen's local union, and as a vice-president of the Central Labor union, as well as holding other offices in the local labor movement. Marie was president of the Label League last year, and a member of the Pressmen's auxiliary. Both of them were always ready to help the unions out in any way they could.

We shall miss them and hope that they will "carry" on in the labor movement in Knoxville.

Mrs. Erskine Fischer Has Operation

Mrs. Erskine Fischer underwent a serious operation at Erlanger hospital last Saturday morning, and is recuperating nicely, according to latest reports.

Mrs. Fischer is the wife of Erskine Fischer, secretary of Brewers Workers' Local 79.

Willkie said:

"* * * no duty has ever come to me in my life, even that in the service of my country—which has so appealed to my sense of social obligation, patriotism, and love of mankind as this obligation to say and do what I can for the preservation of public utilities privately owned."

TYPOS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Local 89, Chattanooga Typographical union, held a very quiet election of officers last Sunday, in which every position was named without opposition except one, that of vice-president.

The list of officers for the coming year line up as follows:

President, M. M. Beavers; vice-president, Hugh White; secretary-treasurer, F. T. Carter; recording secretary, Levy Williams.

Sergeant-at-arms, J. O. Sehorne. Executive board members are L. O. Beaumont, William Keels, W. L. Gardner, Arch Underwood and Leslie Murray.

The auditing committee will be Wallace Miller, L. O. Beaumont and Harris Hix. Arch Underwood was renamed as chairman of the apprentice and application committee.

The delegates to the Allied Printing Trades council are J. D. Frawley, Phil Mandre and John Hardin.

TEACHER TALK

Tax problems group met last Monday night in the office. This group will have the advice of Dr. F. W. Prescott in its researches, and is getting under way by splitting up the materials of its investigation among the members. Problems included are sources of revenue, per capita expense of the education of children, nature and percentage of the various kinds of disbursements in entire governing agencies, and especially the divisions of costs of operating schools. A number of cities will be studied, and comparative figures will be tabulated in such form as will make clear the relative situations locally and elsewhere. Much good can come of such a study, and it is to be hoped the committee will see it through in thorough fashion.

Commissioner McMillan says he is losing an average of two teachers a week through resignations to go elsewhere. Possibly the good people of Chattanooga will wake up before a large percentage goes.

* * *

An effort is being made to put more responsibility upon the school-unit, under the school chairman. Let's build up strong units where there are now few members, and let's work together within the school as an organization.

Dues payments for the current six-moths' period are coming in nicely. Pay up!

Thomas Holman, Member of 917, Dies

Thomas Holman, a member of the Operating Engineers' local here, died Wednesday night. Brother Holman had been ill for some time.

The funeral will be held at the National Funeral Home Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

What Did She Mean?

He—When we reach the third lamppost from here I'm going to kiss you.

She—Oh, William, isn't that going too far?

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

Remodeling Starts On Labor Temple

Actual work was started on labor's new home last Monday. This news will put more pep and interest in the project, located on Vine street, formerly the Vine Street orphanage.

While the entire remodeling job will not be completed at once, it is believed that sufficient progress will be made in time for meetings in the building before October has passed by.

At a meeting of the directors of Chattanooga Labor Temple, Inc., a building committee was appointed, in charge of Tom Rose.

$7,392,000 USHA Housing Loans Approved by FDR

Washington.—President Roosevelt approved $7,392,000 in United States housing authority loans to local housing authorities in Pittsburgh, Pa.; Quincy, Ill.; Peoria, Ill.; Galveston, Tex.; Twin Falls, Idaho, and Brownsville, Tex. The new list brings to a total of 193 the number of such agencies with approved USHA loans for construction of public housing projects. To date, 275 USHA projects totaling 99,043 dwellings in the low-rent and slum-clearance program have either gone into construction or have been completed.

American Mfg. Co. Goes Into Mounters And Signs Contract

The federal labor union at the American Manufacturing company is now known as Local 37, Stove Mounters. Under the care of this international union an agreement has just been secured with the company that grants a good seniority clause and other benefits.

These members have demonstrated they are real union people, and the labor movement is congratulating them.

Big Camp Job Discussed By Local Trades

A group of business representatives of Chattanooga building trades unions journeyed to Tullahoma, Tenn., last Monday to consult with a representative of the contractor who is to build the immense army camp at that place.

They were met at Tullahoma by representatives of the Nashville building trades and Gerald Foley, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor. Commissioner Bryant, of the Tennessee department of labor, was also there, with other representatives of the Tennessee re-employment service.

Schedules and plans were discussed in the group for the prompt and efficient construction of the camp, to be known as Camp Peay, and which is to house 40,000 soldiers.

Attending from Chattanooga were Herbert Bell (Bricklayers), L. T. Adwell (Plasterers), Raymond Floyd (Hodcarriers), W. A. Witt (Painters), Earl Shaw (Plumbers), A. V. Cordell (Carpenters), G. C. Tittle (Sheet Metal), and T. R. Cuthbert (Tennessee Federation).

California Legislature Bars Reds From Ballot

Sacramento, Cal.—The California legislature has enacted a law outlawing the communist party from participation in primary elections. There were only three votes cast against the measure in the assembly and one in the senate.

The bill reads: "No party shall be recognized or qualified to participate in any primary election which uses or adopts as part of its party designation the word 'Communist' or any derivative, or which is directly or indirectly affiliated with the communist party of the U. S., the Third Communist International, or foreign agencies which espouse a program of violence against this country."

Vote for Willkie and ride to the polls in your boss' Limousine.

More Buying Power Urged For Low-Income Groups

Washington, D. C.—The importance of increasing the purchasing power of low-income groups in both urban and rural sections was emphasized by Milo Perkins, director of marketing of the department of agriculture. "If every family making less than $100 a month in 1936 had its income boosted to the $100 level, the nation would spend two billion dollars more a year for food," he said, adding: "Farmers would have spent their part of their money to buy city goods and a great many of the unemployed would have gone to work."

MEN WANTED

National defense program calls for thousands of skilled mechanics and technical and scientific workers in the navy yards and arsenals. The pay is good.

Qualified tradesmen are urged to come to the postoffice and examine the civil service bulletin in the south end of the lobby and if the trade you are trained in is listed thereon as open for receipt of applications secure the necessary application blanks from the civil service window and mail it immediately to the designated labor board.

The need is urgent—act today.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Beulah Ogle, Correspondent

Next Tuesday night is meeting night. Let's everybody come out, as there are some important matters to attend to. And remember, it won't be long before we will be in our new home, the Labor Temple—that is, providing we sell those dance tickets, pay our pledged day and can share the new temple. Remember, the dance is to be Nov. 15 on Friday night.

* * *

Mrs. Bessie Phipps, of the Rathskeller, is ill with the flu.

* * *

Glad to see J. B. Maires back at McIsaac's corner after his recent operation.

Alene Kinley is also back on the job at Lowe's after a short illness.

* * *

Hear that Miss Clee Peek will soon be back to work at Millard's.

* * *

Charles Phipps is now at the K. & G. after wandering away from us for quiet a long while. We are glad to have you back with us, Charles.

* * *

I wonder if the rumor could be so that one of our union printers continues to use Happy Valley milk after being asked to discontinue it?

* * *

Robert Gass, formerly of the bus station, is now cooking at Ham's cafe and is responsible for those delicious meals we have been getting there lately.

* * *

Miss Irene Cooper is now at Barfoot's cafe. Miss Cooper transferred here from Cincinnati several months ago.

* * *

Mrs. Barfoot has returned from her vacation and reports a lovely time.

* * *

Miss Odell Scott is now at the Lunch Box on Sixth and Cherry streets.

* * *

To be a trade unionist is to be a self-respecting American citizen who carries into industry the principle of representation as the basis for fair dealing and the power of organization to win justice.

If members of a union are indifferent then the union may naturally fail to be responsive to their needs. But if the members of a union take an active part in their affairs, as they should, then they can run their organization as the majority wishes.

* * *

Let's be governed by a majority vote—be at the meeting next Tuesday night at 8:30, 114½ West Seventh street.

* * *

We are now picketing two nonunion restaurants—Hedges' corner on Eleventh and King street, also the Ross Hotel Coffee shop. The other nonunion restaurants are Harry's place, Chattanooga Steak House, Dennis, Maypole, S & W, Busy Bee, Ellis, McPherson and Glasgow Tavern.

* * *

Remember Jimmie DeMayo's place at 823 East Eleventh street is now a union restaurant and deserves your patronage, he having signed a union contract last week.

* * *

Union Gray has gone to Birmingham to work. Sorry to have him leave us and hope he enjoys his work there.

Plumbers and Steamfitters

All labor movement in this city affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are well aware of the fact that we have undertaken the largest job in the history of the labor movement.

Not only have we bought a labor temple, but we have purchased an enterprise which will be a monument to organized labor in time to come.

We, today, cannot take credit for the idea which was the foremost thought of many a charter member of many a local union, but we are proud to be the ones who are fulfilling this long-desired ambition.

May we take the privilege at this time to thank all of you who have so willingly co-operated in making so great an undertaking possible. Those who have joined with us in this movement are the [illegible] Carpenters, Painters, Plumbers and Steamfitters, Hodcarriers, Elevator Constructioners, Culinary Workers, Bakers, Sheet Metal Hands, Street Railway Employes, Moving Picture Operators, Central Labor Union, Cement Workers, Molders and Brewery Workers. These locals' contributions make this purpose possible. We wish to thank the teachers and musicians for their donations. We shall be very glad to have the teachers, who have pledged to come into this movement with us, and feel confident that in the near future we will have the Typographical union represented in this great enterprise.

At the last board of directors meeting, which was held Sunday morning, Oct. 6, a resolution was passed that a building committee be appointed to start construction on the remodeling of this property immediately, and to the surprise of some so-called "select few," who think they know all, and have so often stated that the work of remodeling this building would never get under construction and no meetings would ever be held in this temple, construction got under way Monday morning.

We would like for the Chattanooga Building Trades council to appoint a representative committee to look over this building and select a suitable office site for its offices so that remodeling may be done accordingly. Why not let's all be housed under one roof and work hand in hand?

We wish to invite all other organizations affiliated with the A. F. of L. to come into this movement with us.

In reading the Chattanooga News-Free Press under date of Oct 9, 1940, one could not help but notice page 17 headed "We Want Willkie." These quotations are presumably taken from all over the country, yet not one of them is charged to any particular person. The one "In a Letter to Mr. Willkie from Atlanta (Ga.'s) most Famous Golfer" we take to be Mr. Bobby Jones, but the others have us completely stumped. We could take one block on any side street or alley in any one town of consequence, find more than ten people who could give any number of reasons why they would not vote for Willkie . . . and what's more, give you their names. The whole thing seems as ridiculous as Mr. Stahlman's "What's My Name" game. Looks like the republicans must be doing a lot of guessing.

This writer is proud to state that the Plumbers and Steamfitters organization of this city purchased 1,000 Roosevelt badges which are being distributed throughout the city of Chattanooga. So far, there is only one issue on Mr. Roosevelt's platform with which this column does not wholeheartedly agree—we like our turkey the last Thursday in November, but, on the other hand, we still like our turkey. Working man, if you really like to be able to work, get out and work for Roosevelt and give him the largest vote he ever had.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Leonard on the arrival of their baby daughter, whose name we do not know. It is rumored around they named her Weatherstrip . . . she's keeping her pappy out of the draft.

We are proud to state that at this time all of the members of our organization are working.

The church outgrew the building and the small lot on which it was built and in 1919 the movement to construct the present building was begun. It was completed in the early 20's at a total cost of approximately $125,000 and stands today—20 years later—a monument to sound building ideas and good workmanship. Walk through it and note its splendid condition.

Union men built it. Union men have worked side by side with their employers to further the cause it represents and to support it financially. Let's meet with them and rejoice with them in this great celebration.

There will be services each evening showing in play, story and address the history of the church. Former members of the church now in religious work and former pastors will be especially honored with part on the programs. Among invited guests will be Dr. Carter Helm Jones, who dedicated the first building 48 years ago; Dr. C. B. Waller, who laid the cornerstone of the second church home, St. Paul's church choir and the Brainerd Baptist church orchestra. Mrs. J. M. Chauncey, the only living person of those that were there on that Sunday 50 years ago, will be present with loving memories of the past. Her husband was the first pastor.

Notes From Candy Workers

The candy business seems to be better and everybody is working regular time. We have none on the sick list, so far as I know.

* * *

We are near election day, and I am like the Irishman, who said: "Hurrah for the one who is behind, for he is the one who needs help."

Now I want to tell a little story as it was related to me by one of our best preachers of today. In a large business a man was working as superintendent of a plant. This man was taken sick and died, and his employer said: "That was a good man. He made me one million dollars since he has been working for me."

But here is the other side of the story. That man's wife had to start a little cake shop to live, and his children had to sell the cakes when they should have been in school. The man who got the million dollars from the labor of the man who died left his wife an independent fortune, his children were rich and had a fine education.

Now who is it that causes class hatred, if there is such a thing—the one who wants to give a man a living wage or the ones who will rob them of that chance?

Thatis not meant for the ones who are fair and willing to give the best they can.

"Build-Up" Good News For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary!

Many who suffer from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus it often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance to periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "the time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI more than 50 years.

Let's Have a City Tax Assessor

We wonder why the city commission has not taken steps to create a city tax assessor. We are told that every commissioner is for the idea, and we have heard of no opposition to the idea except from those sources that are now dodging just tax assessments.

As it is today, the city must accept the figures handed to the city by the county on property assessments. If the city had its own tax assessor we believe that hundreds of thousands of dollars in ad valorem taxes alone could be uncovered that are today escaping just taxation.

We have always contended that new taxes are not necessary if hidden property could be uncovered and taxed as they should be.

We believe that the city tax assessor could raise the city's income sufficiently to allow the teachers to receive decent wages, and for our schools to be adequately equipped.

We hope that the city commission will take this step to dig up our tax dodgers who should be paying, who are not paying, but who squawk the loudest against paying for public services.

Personalty Tax Holds Us Back

We note with regret, but not much surprise, that Chattanooga has lost another prospect for a large industry locating here. The Reynolds Aluminum company is locating a ten million dollar plant in Sheffield, Alabama, after making thorough study of possibilities in Chattanooga. No specific reason was given why we lost the prospect, but we think it is the usual reason—our tax structure in Tennessee.

No large industry is going to come into Tennessee with our antiquated constitution staring them in the face with such taxes as the personalty tax.

It is true and generally known that personalty tax returns are not taken seriously. If the personalty tax was rigidly enforced we predict that there would be no need for any other tax. We also predict that the tax would be eliminated with the minimum amount of time necessary to get our constitution revised.

The way we understand the personalty tax is that all personal property, such as equipment, house furnishings, autos, jewelry, cash in the bank, in short, everything that is not real estate, stocks or bonds, are subject to the tax.

The tax is either ignored or false returns are sworn to in many instances. A new industry investigating Tennessee does not care to take the chance of the law being enforced, and we do not blame it, for its caution.

The best thing to do is to get rid of the personalty tax, which was probably workable one hundred years ago, but which today would wreck every industry of any size if collected.

Just look over the personalty returns in this county if you want to see what kind of returns are made by individuals and businesses. Some of them are ludicrous.

Praise for Labor World Editorial

On September 13, The Labor World printed an editorial headed "Let's Look Up." It pertained to the lack of interest evidenced by the labor movement in courtesy shown by one of our churches in having a special Labor Sunday program.

We have received the following communication from the Pastors' Association in Chattanooga, which makes us feel good, of course.

"Mr. A. M. Pennybacker called attention to the pastors' Association yesterday morning to your editorial on Friday, Sept. 13, 1940.

"The Pastors' Association passed a motion asking the secretary to convey to you the sincere appreciation of the ministers of the city for your fine spiritual emphasis.

"We agree heartily with you that the church needs labor, and we also feel that the church has some real value to offer to any individuals or groups who are struggling for justice and right.

"We assure you of our sincere desire to be of help.

"With every good wish, I am,

"Sincerely,

"W. C. DANIELS, Secretary."

Schools Must Be Free

Democracy connotes freedom to learn; the public schools are the chief bulwark of that freedom; therefore the schools should themselves enjoy the largest practicable measure of freedom. The schools should be answerable solely to the general public opinion as registered in votes of citizens at school elections, in which the essential issues connected with freedom of the learner to learn are not blurred by extraneous partisan considerations.

This relationship to the public is difficult, if not impossible, when the public schools are made a department of the city or county government, when control of various phases of the educational program is distributed among several departments of government, or when local and state educational authorities are subject to periodic raids by political spoilsmen. —John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Safety -- Courtesy -- Service

Hello, everyone, I am back again to let you in on a little gossip.

I have been off sick with boils for two weeks so I have now been given the name of Job. I just had sixteen boils and from what I can read Job recovered with them so I know how to sympathize with him.

W. L. Stephens, I. C. Rowland and W. T. Manley are off sick. Hope to see them back soon.

We are glad to see Frank Jones, C. A. Brooks, Ed Kelly, C. B. Woods, J. E. Malloy and T. Eldridge back on duty after being off on the sick list.

J. M. Burke, one of our oldest operators, went on the retirement list the first of September. We hate to see these men leave us, but we know that they are better off at home with their pensions every month than trying to continue to fight the heavy traffic of today. Mr. Burke said that years ago they had their hardships and the inconveniences, but they were nothing compared to the heavy traffic that we have to contend with today. He said that he is going down in Georgia and stay on his little farm and relax and get his lungs full of fresh air and sunshine and just take it easy the rest of his days. I guess everyone in the city that has been here any length of time at all knew Mr. Burke, for he has been here ever since the mule car days.

M. T. Cunningham is operating a 100% union barber shop at 337 Market street, and it is his desire to serve every union man and woman in that end of town. Every member of Local 1212 has a standing invitation to drop in and chat and get acquainted with Mr. Cunningham and his operators. He says that he guarantees all of his work and that the place will be operated clean and decent at all times. Let's help this man to keep the union card in this shop, for it is a card that we wanted in there for so long a time, so it is up to us to do our part. A 100% union man will not patronize nonunion places.

J. R. Kersey has left us to secure a better job somewhere in the west, but I don't know exactly where, but we wish him all the luck possible,

Only a Charter Oak can give you more heat with less coal!

These 2 Big Features Do It

No matter what size or price parlor furnace you want, get a Charter Oak for real economy—for every Charter Oak Parlor Furnace is equipped at no extra cost with a Coal Saver and three heat deflectors.

The coal saver not only will save you a half ton of coal every year, but it also gives automatic, uniform heat control. It regulates the drafts to keep the fire burning evenly. Regulation is so continuous that temperature changes in room are hardly noticed.

This is the Charter Oak Coal Saver. Look for the red tag when you buy.

Charter Oak patented heat deflectors are another exclusive Charter Oak feature. They throw off extra heat [which other furnaces waste] so that the floor is kept warm and free from cold drafts. This is one of three heat deflectors which cause so much discomfort which keeps floor warm. You must see the full line of Charter Oaks—all sizes and prices—before you buy. Every one of them has these extra features at no additional cost.

Vegetable Laxative Makes Happy Friends

Here's a laxative that usually acts thoroughly as harsher ones but is a gentle persuader for intestines when used this way: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight; a drink of water. There's usually time for a good night's rest, with a gentle, thorough action next morning relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT is a splendid combination of vegetable ingredients, chief of which is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" that helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. It's economical. 25 to 40 doses: 25c.

SEWANEE COAL & SUPPLY CO. et al vs.
J. M. DOCKERY et al

To the lien creditors or lien claimants of J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling:

In obedience to an order made by the Chancery Court at Chattanooga, in the case of Sewanee Coal & Supply Co. et al vs. J. M. Dockery et al, being No. 28208 on the rule docket of said court, all lien creditors of the defendants J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling are hereby notified to come in by petition, accompanied by proper prosecution bond, or pauper's oath in lieu thereof, or by informal proof of claim, verified by oath of claimant, and file and prove their respective claims against said defendants, J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling, and lien rights against the property situated in the Second Civil district of Hamilton county, Tennessee, known and described as Lot 18, Block "F," Sequoia Place, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 12, page 9, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said petitions are required to be filed on or before the 7th day of November, 1940, in this cause, or they and each of them shall be excluded from the benefits of this proceeding.

All creditors, lien creditors or lien claimants against said defendants, J. M. Dockery, E. T. Payne and A. C. Stribling, and/or having or claiming any lien, rights or interests in or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding except in this cause, and all parties to any and all suits now pending against said defendants and/or against the property herein described, are enjoined from proceeding further in them than to judgment.

This order will be published in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, Tennessee, for four successive weeks.

This September 12th, 1940.

After thinking what a small writeup I had last week, I thought I had better get busy and sling some ink if I wanted to hold down this most important job.

Things are looking better for us in this part of town. At present we are working full time and we are congratulating ourselves on the fact that our sick list is down to zero.

Aaron Plemons, who was in an automobile accident, is still confined to his home, but we expect him back any time now.

* * *

We have been blessed with ideal weather for quite awhile and with the last of baseball having been played we can safely say that summer has departed.

The most important topics that confront us now are the coming presidential election and the draft.

Those that want to qualify for the coming election and have failed to register can do so by registering Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Oct. 16 has been set aside for those that are in the draft age, 21 to 36 years, and don't forget to register. Failure to do so might prove mighty costly.

The last war our country was in we thought we had the world safe for democracy and we never thought that so soon would we have to prepare to defend that ideal. It seems a common occurrence now to read that another government has fallen and we would like to know just how strong we are. To make ourselves worthy of being Americans we should demand that those that are at the head of this defense movement cut out the red tape and get down to business. The safety of our country demands it.

Snooping around the bullpen for some local news, I saw the chief toreador, Red Goforth. Seems like Red was down in the mouth about something. I proceeded to find out what it was about. Red told me about Cat Schnee buying himself a new Mercury with all the fixins', such as spotlight, free wheeling, etc., so that made Red feel bad. But Monday when Red came to work he thought it was his birthday or something for there in the middle of the bullpen stood a spanking new free-wheeling streamlined mahogany colored wheelbarrow. Red said it has full floating power and is self-oiling and dumping.

Another snake story is going the rounds and we thought that snake story of Si Perkins last summer was the limit, but it seems that Herman Norris has him beat to a frazzle. Herman lives away back on Walden's ridge, where the hoot owls lay eggs with the chickens, and it seems that Herman had another bilious attack from eating said eggs. This story happened while Herman was tramping over his vast domain when he came upon a vicious looking snake. He struck at it and it came all apart. Herman said it must have been one of those jointed snakes, for when he looked again it was all together and running down the road. We would advise Herman to see a doctor.

If you should ever meet Jess McNabb, your first impression would be what a sour puss. But that is not so, for if you knew Jess as I know him you would agree with me, for under that dirty shirt and thick hide is a heart of pure gold. Jess was down at the Greasy Spoon chophouse the other day and he asked Old Man Brown if he served crabs. Old Man Brown said, "We aim to please; eat here and your disposition will change."

Young Denton wants you all to know that if he passes you on the road, don't feel bad about it. While his car has four wheel brakes only two work and that just part of the time. The only way he stops that pile of tin is to head it into a pile of sawdust.

While rolling the baby down the street for some fresh air the other day, Lord Plushbottom was accosted by one of those jitter-bug flappers, who tried to flirt with him. Plushbottom promptly notified a policeman. We expect the law to deal harshly with this type of mashers from now on.

Expect to have more of this darn foolishness next week. All that can be at the meeting Saturday night, Oct. 12, 7 p.m. I'll be seeing you.

Sorry to have Clarence Logan on our sick list this week. Went by to see him the other night, and he seems to be feeling better.

Louise Wilcox is also sick this week, and had to leave her job at the Erskine bakery last week.

We hope our sick folks will be well again soon.

All Chattanooga bakery products—Orient flour and Crystal Pearl meal—are still unfair to organized labor. Do not buy these products.

Somebody was asking me the other day to give them a list of all union-made cakes and pies. Here they are: Erskine's, Mercer's, Hooper's, Dolly Madison, Stone's, Grennan's, Grandma's, Hostess and Dutch Maid. When you are buying a cake for dinner, you can't go wrong by buying any of the above mentioned products.

Cold-Storage —

Admitting that the machine often saves man from drudgery and that workers displaced may in time find other jobs in new industries that may arise to meet the ever increased demands of the population for more and more of the goods and materials available for their use, still the question remains, "What is to be done during the waiting period?" Human beings cannot be kept in cold storage to await the development of new occupations and industries!—Illinois State Federation of Labor Executive Board.

SUNSHINE GOSPEL

Liberal Minded—Narrow.

Be an original thinker. The only difference between the stupid man and the man who is "original" is the vital fact that one man thinks and the other does not. Do not "take things for granted," take them for what they are worth. Think your way through prejudice, precedent, custom, convention, style, fashion, and all the forms of modern folly and get at the heart of things. Socrates' brain was not any better than yours, but he wore a thinking cap. Think your way in and you will have small difficulty in thinking your way out. Applying your mental x-rays to every unanswered question and every unsolved probleb. Have faith in your own conclusions when handling the subject before you, you have applied every test known to reason, knowledge and experience. Be original. You can if you will tryfl To be liberal-minded is to be tolerant; to be tolerant is to be broad. To be sure we are always right, is to be conceited. To concede the right of opposite views to others, to generally feel respect for those who differ from us, is proof that we are growing in mind and heart. Truth has been termed a point of view. What is truth to one is error to another, both being honest in the assurance of their conviction.

MOVIE OPERATORS WILL CELEBRATE 30th BIRTHDAY

Local 259, Moving Picture Machine Projectionists celebrated its thirtieth anniversary Thursday night, Oct. 17, at the Patten hotel in the nature of a banquet. The editor of this paper remembers well the annual affair last year. He was requested to get up a special address for the occasion, which was done with great care and thought.

However, when he was called on to deliver the speech, the lights were turned off, the chairman declared the banquet adjourned, and the speech was never made.

Retail Clerks Almost 100 Pct.

Bogalusa, La.—"This local union of Retail Clerks is the most nearly 100 per cent. in membership that can be found in the United States". was one of the compliments paid President E. H. Williams ,of the State Federation of Labor, in addressing a meeting of the clerks here last week. The Central Labor Union's organizing committee assisted the clerks in their organization work, and it was reported at the meeting that but very few clerks in the entire city eligible for membership have failed to join the local.

As I approve of a youth that has something of the old man in him, so I am no less pleased with an old man that has something of the youth.—Cicero.

Labor Snubbed Again

There has been much talk about a dictatorship in England, ght about by war conditions, and the "hopeful possibility" on the of some that there will be a dictatorship resulting in America if should actually go to war. Some even advocate one right now in to "prepare" for war.

Before England voted for a temporary dictatorship, the country d labor into the picture and recognized that loyal and powerful of British citizens. Labor was taken into the British cabinet, was consulted, and WITH labor, the resulting dictatorship is that has the approval of British labor for the duration of the war.

Here in Chattanooga six draft boards have been announced, apted by the governor of Tennessee (suggested, we suppose, by the patronage dispensers) and approved, we presume, by the Presiof the United States.

To our knowledge, not one member of organized labor was ed to any of the boards in Chattanooga. Possibly the governor ennessee believes that Chattanooga labor has no members loyal gh or capable of serving on such an important board.

We notice that every one of the six Chattanooga boards has bers of the American Legion, in some instances more. The on is a fine and loyal organization. We have no complaint against so named.

We do think that at least one member of labor should have been d on at least one board, especially the boards having jurisdiction ose wards of predominantly industrial populaton.

We are comforted that the law specifies that the boards of ap to be named later specifically says that one member of labor T be named on them. Like it or not, labor must be repred there.

The federal government evidently believes that American labor mposed of American patriots just as much as any other groups.

COFFEE SHOP AT ROSS HOTEL HAS A DESERTED LOOK

Pickets in front of the Ross hotel coffee shop, placed there by the culinary workers, report that the public does not appreciate the attitude taken by the management, borne out by the lack of business going through the doors.

The trouble started when management discovered that its employes were joining the union, and several were discharged promptly. Reports are that the girls in the place make all the way from nothing to $3.00 per week, and work long hours.

W. W. Smith Elected Head of Tobacco Workers

Louisville, Ky. — W. Warren Smith was elected president of the Tobacco Workers International union, Robert Petree, secretary-treasurer and Elmer Keen, senior vice-president, at the union's convention here.

Mr. Smith is president of Local 185 in Louisville, Petree hails from Winston-Salem, N. C., and Keen comes from St. Louis.

Former President E. Lewis Evans was retired on pension and will remain a lifetime honorary member of the international.

Birmingham, Ala.—S. E. Roper, in charge of the A.F.L. office, has ordered charters for two local unions from the United Association of Plumbers and Steam Fitters. One of the newly formed locals is at Fairfield, organized by employes of the T. C. I. & R. R. Co. The other charter was for a local union at Montgomery, organized by R. R. Moore, and made up of employes of the Gas company in that city.

ANOTHER MOLDER UNION AFFILIATES WITH CENTRAL BODY

Central Body has another local union of molders affiliated, when delegates were sent from Local 8, composed of employes in the closed shop Somerville Iron works.

Local 53, Molders, has been in Central Bod yever since the beginning of time, and have remained loyal and in good standing without break.

CHATTANOOGANS WORKING AT WATTS BAR

Many of Chattanooga building tradesmen are working at Watts Bar dam, and the boys are anxious to get their addresses changed so that they can continue to get The Labor World, according to Earl England.

Mr. England says that Painters, Local 226, is well represented on the Watts Bar job.

Hobart Frank, Van Cummings, Lyle Shofner, Guy Jones and Lew Perew are living in Spring City while they are on this job. Conley Marshall is in Athens, and Earl England, Harry Jones and George Lowery live in the Watts Bar dam community.

Laborers Win Election By Vote of 4 to 1

Birmingham, Ala.—At an election held here among employes of the concrete plant of the Sloss, Sheffield Steel and Iron Company, Local Union No. 971, Hod Carriers, Common and Construction Laborers, won by a vote of more than 4 to 1. Hugh W. Brown, of the Birmingham office of the A.F.L., assisted the workers in conducting the campaign and election.

Two Brewery Workers Lose Father to Death

Karl H. and Wilbur Irvin, both members of Local 79, Brewery Workers, lost their father, William H. Irvin, on Monday, Oct. 14. He died at his home, 306 East Fourth street, and was buried Wednesday afternoon in Chattanooga Memorial park.

Surviving Mr. Irvin besides the the sons are a widow, Mrs. Gertrude Irvin, and a daughter, Mrs. Ida L. Roberts, of Nashville.

District 5, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers, Will Convene in City.

Attention of all the locals in District 5 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers will turn toward this city, where their international organization was founded, when they hold their first annual convention at the Hotel Patten from Nov. 8 to 10, it was announced yesterday.

Venton O. Cunningham, of Chattanooga, district president, expects between forty and fifty delegates here, representing the district's locals in South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida. Felix O. Jones, of Birmingham, business agent for the district, was in Chattanooga this week making plans for the convention with Mr. Cunningham.

Local 1 of the international union is in Chattanooga. It was formed here at the Signal Mountain Portland Cement company, July 10, 1933. Since the formation of that first local, 118 additional unions have been formed throughout the United States, with international headquarters in Chicago.

Program to Be Announced.

"Now we have 126 members in our local here and we have never been involved in any labor trouble with our employers," Mr. Cunningham, who is a charter member of Local 1 and is now its financial secretary, said.

Program details for the convention will be announced later, he said, but he did mention that William Schoenberg, of Chicago, the international president, and W. A. Pritchett, of Birmingham, Ala., are expected to be present.

District leaders are expected to arrive in this city Nov. 7 for an executive session to precede the opening of the convention on the next day.

ANOTHER CONTRACT FOR CANADA DRY

Local 79, Brewery Workers, announce this week that Wilkins Candy company, local distributors for Canada Dry ginger ale, has signed a contract with that union.

A new beer distributor, Eades Beer distributors, also signed up with the Brewery Workers. They handle Burger beer.

Willkie said:

(When it was revealed that his company had spent $20,000 to defeat municipal ownership in Chattanooga in 1935.)

If you are reducing don't forget that seafoods are low in calories and are plentiful right now. Pounds will vanish if you'll just keep within your calorie limit every day. A number of vegetables which are very low in calories include squash, spinach, chard, string beans, lettuce, asparagus, okra, celery, brussels sprouts and broccoli. But don't use butter or sauces. A 3-ounce serving of either carrots, beets, peas, turnips, onions, one small ear of corn or rutabagas will only count 50 calories. Cabbage, cooked or raw, is excellent in the reducers' menu, but some persons can't eat it. Tomatoes, high in vitamin C, are also in the same category.

Jackets are terribly important this season and are worn with everything. It is the wise girl who supplements her wardrobe with many and various kinds of jackets. The pastel ones heavily embroidered with gold or beads may be worn over a simple daytime dress to doll it up for afternoon tea, or will easily pinch hit over last year's evening dress to make a smart dinner dress. With two or three cloth or tweed jackets and wool or silk skirts combined interchangeably you may have as many different costumes as there are days in the week.

Almost every New York designer has gone for leopard skin in a big way this year. Coats, muffs, capes, belts and hats of leopard abound in the collections. Hattie Carnegie has even gone so far as to spot the "spots" with colored stones. American designers have turned out some handsome wearable clothes, but in some instances some models are so extreme as to be almost horrifying.

If you're going to be married this fall the traditional bride's bouquet should be gardenias, or white roses and lilies of the valley. For the modest, informal corsage, tawny dahlias, yellow roses or button "mums" are cheerful and cheap. Of course the groom buys the bride's bouquet, also one for her mother and his own boutonniere. However, if the groom has plenty of money big white orchids are in favor.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKING

If ceilings are extremely low, extend the wallpaper all the way up to the ceiling. Narrow striped paper adds to the illusion of height. Ceilings that are too high will not seem so disproportionate if the ceiling color is brought down onto the side walls 18 or 20 inches.

If your table doilies and runners look washed out, try tinting them some delicate shade to harmonize with your china. Light green makes a delightful ground for ivory or yellow china. For a very smart effect dye it brilliant red or blue and use with gay flowered breakfast sets.

Since there is a strong trend towards Regency period in decoration why not try purple for the color keynote of a Regency living room. The walls and carpet are midnight purple and the draperies are in deep blue corduroy. These furnish an excellent background for yellow corduroy furniture coverings, yellow glass curtains, white lamps, and large gold mirror frames.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Secretary of Labor Perkins points to 1939 civil service examinations to show how women excel in some jobs. Of 50,000 appointments made that year 16 per cent went to women, she said. Fewer women than men took the exams for technical and professional jobs, but in many cases more women than men passed. For consultant to public assistant 153 men and 201 women were examined. Of these only 18 men came through, with 78 women passing.

Not only here, but in England's war work is the fitness and ability of women being demonstrated. Added to World war WAACS and WRENS are the auxiliaries to the air force and the navy, where women are doing amazing work. And of course they are again at work in the munitions plants, where they do the identical work formerly performed by men.

In war work in every line women have demonstrated their capacity and also their heroism. Women are employed in highly technical jobs, as well as in the nursing and cooking jobs so long through their special field.

PANTRY PALAVER

Frozen foods lose vitamin C very quickly after they are thawed. It is best to plunge frozen vegetables into boiling water without thawing.

* * *

If you wish to preserve vitamin C in your vegetables do not add soda as a special trick for keeping them a bright green color. Soda is an alkali and destroys vitamin C.

If you haven't already done so now is the time to put away a few jars of peach jam or peach butter. For jam, first peel peaches, and crush fruit. Add ¾ lb. sugar for each pound of peaches. Let mixture stand several hours until juice is extracted. Heat slowly, bringing gradually to a boil and boil until fruit is clear and jam thick. Pour into hot sterilized glasses and seal.

For peach butter, crush the peeled peaches and cook until soft. Press through a colander and then through a fine sieve. Add half as much sugar as fruit pulp with a dash of salt. Boil rapidly and stir constantly. Cloves, cinnamon and a little allspice are good with peach butter. Test by dropping a little on a cold plate. If there is no rim of liquid separating around the edge it is done. While boiling hot pour into sterilized containers and seal.

If your tiny tot has been exposed too long to sun or wind don't wash him with water, but sponge him with milk because milk creates a lactic acid that softens and soothes when it touches the skin. Buttermilk not only allays irritation, but soothes and whitens the skin.

He's Prepared to do his Part!

THE thought of preparedness is not new to Bell Telephone workers. In fact, the South's and the nation's vast telephone system is what it is today mainly because preparedness is one of the fundamental principles of the Bell System's policy.

Telephone people are constantly at war with the elements, fire, flood and hurricane. They are prepared in advance to meet the emergency whenever and wherever danger strikes.

Rapidly changing industrial demands—shifting populations—quick expansions in some places and contractions at others—ever-changing problems of supply and demand are conditions under which all telephone people are accustomed to working.

Years of experience in anticipating, planning for and meeting these exacting demands strengthen the confidence of telephone workers in their ability to provide for the needs of the South and the nation under any conditions that may arise.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI'S principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

Room For Improvement

Marked progress has been made in recent years in improving the health of children, particularly of infants less than a year old. America's Children, a new Public Affairs Committee pamphlet, illustrates the progress by the statement:

"If the death rate for babies had been the same in 1938 as it was in 1928, approximately 41,000 more babies would have died than actually did. Similar, though less striking, gains have been made in reducing the deaths from such old childhood scourges as whooping cough, diphtheria, measles, and scarlet fever."

But despite these gains, the health protection of American children is not as good as it should be, an assertion proved by facts cited in the pamphlet. It says:

"The National Health Survey showed that 28 per cent of all children under 15, having illnesses which disabled them for seven days or more, had neither a doctor's nor hospital care. This was especially true of children in families with low incomes.

"In small towns 46 per cent of the sick children in families with incomes of less than $1,000 a year received no care from a doctor.

"Several million American school children have defective eyesight which needs correction with glasses. More than a million and a half school children have impaired hearing, at least some of which is due to unhygienic home conditions. At least two-thirds of our school children are in need of dental care."

Facts such as these do not justify a complacent attitude toward the problem of caring for the health of America's children and point to the need of continuing determined efforts for further improvement in their health conditions.

Strengthen American Way of Life

We are engaged in a defense effort because we as a nation feel that we have something to defend. Our effort will be not only vain, but self-defeating, if we do not maintain and strengthen our American way of life as we go along. It will be vain and self-defeating if, with our vast national resources, we allow the standard of living of the American people to be depressed while there are idle resources, idle men, and idle plants to produce the things people need; if we allow numbers of our people to continue at levels of living dangerously low from the point of view of national strength.—Harriet W. Elliott, Consumer Adviser, National Defense Advisory Commission.

Let Us Go Forward

In a recent plea for preservation of labor and social gains, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said: "Let us go forward" and urged sane thinking by all Americans.

"We must apply the rules of common sense, discretion and good judgment in a great national emergency, just as we do when conditions are normal, and our national thinking is normal," he said.

America needs to heed Mr. Green's plea. There is no need for hysteria and panic in the present situation. Those who stir up such feelings are enemies of the nation. If the "rules of common sense" are applied, there will be no backward steps in the fields of labor and social progress. On the contrary, progress will be steadily continued toward the goal of a better and happier America.

Turn 'em Out!

Racketeers in the labor movement were under a hot fire at the recent convention of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, whose Daniel J. Tobin denounced them in terms which left no doubt as to where he stood. At the same convention, President Roosevelt paid his respects to labor racketeers in terms which left no doubt as to his sentiments.

While the convention was on, two individuals with unsavory records who had wormed their way into the ranks of union labor, felt the heavy hand of the law—a hand which others of the same kind will feel in the near future.

All of which indicates that labor racketeers are likely to find the going very rough. Fortunately, there are few labor racketeers and the labor movement seems alive to their menace. But "even a single racketeer or gangster is one too many," as the Illinois State Federation of Labor executive board says. Incidentally, the board points out a fact that enemies of labor ignore--that a union racketeer must operate with a dishonest outsider.

"There is no such being as 'racketeer' or 'gangster' operating solely within a labor organization," the board says. "Wherever he appears he is a partner of some sort with unscrupulous political or business interests, usually with both! That in itself is sufficient reason for keeping such persons out of the ranks of organized labor."

Winnsboro Election Great Victory for Textile Union

Winnsboro, S. C.—Textile workers throughout the South are more active now in organization work than ever before, encouraged by the great victory in winning the election here two weeks ago in the United States Rubber Company's big tire cord plant. The very decisive vote of 855 for the local union to 287 against constituted a victory far greater than ever these imposing figures show, for the opposition that had been waged against the union was terrific.

Gordon L. Chastain, John W. Pollard, L. James Johnson and other U. T. W. of A. officials and organizers worked with the local membership and aided them in chalking up this great victory. An agreement is now being negotiated.

Aluminum Company Project Signs A. F. of L. Agreement

Sylva, N. C.—Agreement has been signed here between the Morrison-Knudsen Construction Company, contractors on the big Glenville dam tunnel being constructed for the Aluminum Company of America, and the building and construction trades unions whose membership is being used on the job. Organization work and negotiations for agreement have been in progress since the beginning of the work several weeks ago. The first local union organized on the job was that of the Common and Construction Laborers, which was soon followed by other crafts.

The Laborers' local union, first organized here, named Harry Dalrymple as president, Jesse Thomas as vice-president, and L. Barnard, Jr., secretary and business agent. Holt Ross, southern representative of the Common and Construction Laborers' Union, and John A. Turner, organizer, assisted these officers in their organizing work and in the negotiations. Other crafts entered the field, the A.F.L. office was opened here, located over the Western Union Telegraph office, and representatives of all interested crafts use this office as headquarters.

Newly Organized Plumbers And Fitters Order Charter

Birmingham, Ala.—Railroad patrol men on the L. & N., the Frisco Lines and the Southern have organized a local union ,and S. E. Roper, president of the Alabama State Federation of Labor, has ordered a charter for the new local.

NEW I. B. E. W. LOCAL ORGANIZED AT SHREVEPORT

Shreveport, La.—With 60 charter members, a new local union of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has been installed here. E. H. Williams, A.F. of L. representative in Louisiana and president of the State Federation of Labor, assisted the workers in their organization campaign.

Prepared for Pinching

An Italian who kept a fruit stand was much annoyed by possible customers who made a practice of handling the fruit and pinching it, thereby leaving it scarred and often spoiled.

Exasperated beyond endurance he finally put up a sign which read: "If you must pincha da fruit —pincha da cocoanut!"

SUBPROJECT—CONTRACT NO. 7-N-9

CITY OF CHATTANOOGA
ELECTRIC POWER BOARD OF CHATTANOOGA
CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE

Sealed proposals for the furnishing and delivering Subproject—Contract No. 7-N-9 of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, acting for and on behalf of the City of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee,

P.W.A. Project Docket Tenn. 1105-P-D-S Electric Distribution System Subproject—Contract No. 7-N-9

will be received by the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, at the office of the Secretary of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Room 602, Power Building, Chattanooga, Tennessee, until 1:30 P.M., C.S.T., on the 24th day of October, 1940, at which time and place they will be immediately publicly opened and read by the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga.

Copies of the Proposal, Contract Documents and Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Electric Power Board, Distribution Building, Greenwood and Oak Streets, Chattanooga, Tennessee. A deposit (certified check) of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars will be required for procuring the Proposal, Contract Documents and Specifications. The deposit for these documents will be returned to all except the successful bidder upon the return of the documents in good condition within ten (10) days after the bids are opened.

A copy of the Proposal, Contract Documents, and Specifications may be examined free of charge at the Chamber of Commerce and the office of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Each bid must be accompanied by a Certified Check, or Bidder's Bond executed by the bidder and a surety company licensed to do business in Tennessee, in the sum of ten (10%) per cent of the amount of the bid. The bond is required as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be immediately entered into and the performance of it properly secured.

The successful bidder will be required to execute a Performance Bond acceptable to the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga in the amount of one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price and said Performance Bond, among other things, shall provide that the Contractor will pay for all labor and materials used by said Contractor or any immediate or remote subcontractor under him on said contract in lawful money of the United States. This Performance Bond shall be made through a company having a duly authorized representative in Chattanooga, Tennessee, upon whom process may be served.

All items in the proposal form must be properly filled out and must not be detached from the Specifications. No qualifying letters or statements will be considered.

Bidder's name must be placed on the envelope containing these documents, and also upon this envelope shall be designated the name and contract number which the bid covers.

WITHDRAWAL OF BIDS: Bidders may withdraw bids at any time prior to the opening, but thereafter no bidder may withdraw a bid submitted for a period of thirty days after the date set for the opening of such bids.

The estimated cost of the equipment covered by this contract is $2,300.00.

The Electric Power Board of Chattanooga, Chattanooga, Tennessee, reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informalities therein.

Any bid received after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids will be returned to the bidder unopened.

Vegetable Laxative With Proved Feature

The punctual, satisfying relief from constipation and its headaches, biliousness, bad breath, so often experienced by users of this laxative, is mainly due to its combination of purely vegetable ingredients.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient has high medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative"; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

A little of this spicy, aromatic product by simple directions at bedtime, generally allows time for a good night's rest; acts gently and thoroughly next morning.

Next time, take time-tested, economical BLACK-DRAUGHT.

Before J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Henderson & Coleman vs. Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson.

Whereas, Henderson & Coleman, on the 14th day of October, 1940, made affidavit before me, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson was justly indebted to them by account in the sum of One Hundred Thirteen Dollars and Twenty-five Cents ($113.25), and that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson conceals herself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, and that said Henderson & Coleman has made bond as required by law in attachment cases; and,

Whereas, I, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, on that day issued an original attachment against the estate of Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson, returnable and set for trial for November 16, 1940, at ... at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, no property belonging to the defendant having been found in said county further executed by garnishment of moneys belonging to the defendant in the hands of the Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, and an order for this publication has been duly made.

Now, therefore, said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson is hereby notified to appear at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the 16th day of November, 1940, at 10 a.m., and then and there to defend this attachment suit or the same will be proceeded with ex parte.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed September 2, 1936, by HERBERT W. ANDERSON and wife, HARRIETTE BORK ANDERSON (Mildred Jane Anderson, being one and the same party as Mildred Findley Anderson, former wife of Herbert W. Anderson, having died October 27, 1929) to GENERAL MORTGAGE COMPANY, TRUSTEE, which deed of trust is recorded in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book E, Volume 29, Page 374, et seq., reference to which is made for a full recital of its terms and provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned, default having been made in its payment, I, ROBERT N. CHAMBLISS, as substitute trustee under a substitution of trustee instrument recorded in Book 804, Page 238, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in connection with said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes evidencing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead and all other rights of redemption of every kind, at the west door of the Courthouse in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, on Monday, October 21, 1940, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate located in the Third Civil district of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Four (4) and the west twenty-five (25) feet of Lot Three (3), Block Twenty-seven (27), Mountain Land Company's Subdivision of Block Twenty-seven (27), Tract Number Two (2), Signal Mountain Properties, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 7, page 7 of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said Lot Four (4) fronts Seventy-five (75) feet on the south line of Signal Mountain Boulevard and extends back southwardly between slightly converging lines to the south line of said block on which it has a footage of sixty-seven (67) feet; its west line being two hundred (200) feet and its east line two hundred and 2/10 (200.2) feet in length; and that part of Lot Three (3) fronts twenty-five (25) feet on the south line of Signal Mountain Boulevard and extends back southwardly between parallel lines to the south line of said block; its east line being one hundred fifty (150) feet, more or less, and its west line one hundred fifty and 8/10 (150.8) feet in length.

SUBJECT to conditions and restrictions as set out in the deeds registered in Book D, Volume 15, page 158 and Book B, Volume 18, page 262. Said conditions and restrictions modified by instrument recorded in Book X, Volume 23, page 101.

The title to said property is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This September 20, 1940.

ORDER OF SALE
No. 17844
Wilkie A. Neighbors vs Lou Owen
State of Tennessee
Circuit Court of Hamilton County

To the Sheriff of Hamilton County—Greeting:

Whereas, at the September term of said court, in the case of Wilkie A. Neighbors against Lou Owen, sent up by said court for condemnation of land by Mack Fryar, a justice of the peace of said county, to satisfy a judgment for $54.00 and costs rendered July 27, 1940, by Mack Fryar, J. P., in favor of Wilkie A. Neighbors against Lou Owen, it was ordered and adjudged that the land described below, levied on under said above named judgment, be condemned and sold to satisfy the said debt and all costs.

Now, in obedience to an order from the said Circuit Court, I will on

at 11 o'clock, a.m., at the west door of the courthouse at Chattanooga, Tennessee, offer for sale and sell to the highest and best bidder for cash the real estate in said order referred to, the same being the following described real estate, to-wit:

Real estate in the Fourth Civil District of Hamilton county, Tennessee, bounded on the north by the Tennessee River, on the west by the Frazier lands; on the south by Hunt and the line running between section 8 and section 17; on the east by Frazier, and being the southeast corner of section 8, range 5, west fractional township 1, North in the Ocoee land district, lying and being in the Fourth Civil District, Hamilton County, Tennessee, and a little bit east of the line running between Marion and Hamilton counties, being the 40 acres of land formerly owned by J. L. Douglas and conveyed by Sam Douglas, Seana Douglas and Jane Thompson, the only heirs at law of the said J. L. Douglas, to the parties of the first part by deed dated Sept. 30, 1924, and of record in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee, in Deed Book R, Volume 18, at Page 267, et seq.

This the 3rd day of October, 1940.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

The Papermakers enjoyed a visit and talk with Vic Hallmark, president of the Central Body, at our meeting Saturday night. We are always glad to have the officers of the C. L. U. visit with us whenever it is convenient for them.

Brother Hallmark spoke about the progress of organized labor in Chattanooga, and we heartily concur in what he said. Sorry that more of our members were not able to be present, but most of them were working.

The subject next to Mr. Hallmark's heart is the new labor temple, and it should be on the heart of each of us. It is a big undertaking and requires the co-operation of all of us. Rome wasn't built in a day and neither will the labor temple. But give us time and we will have a labor temple we will all feel proud of.

Knowing our union like I do, I feel sure that we will go down the line and do our share towards this enterprise.

Aaron Plemons is confined to his home on account of an automobile accident.

"Shorty" Carter had his foot injured Monday night. He is like some of the rest of us—his feet are so big it takes time to move them. Hope his injury isn't serious.

* * *

"Skunk" Travis is at it again—traded his old dog in—said he had to get a later model dog with a stronger chassis and streamlined.

* * *

Buck Logson tells this story on Caesar—he says that Caesar was taken to court and charged with being intoxicated. The judge asked the policeman how he knew Caesar was intoxicated. Said the policeman:

"Your honor, I saw this man hanging on a fire alarm box. He dropped a penny in the opening and looked up at the old clock at Fischer Bros. and said, "My goodness, I've lost 15 pounds."

* * *

But the story is going the rounds that Buck is in the doghouse himself. Mrs. Logson says she didn't think so much about it when he climbed the halltree, but when he told her to feed some bird seed to the cuckoo clock she knew that there was something wrong.

* * *

And Herman Norris says that when Mrs. Norris was coming to take him home in the car, a policeman stopped her and said:

"As soon as I saw you come around that curve I said to myself, 'Fifty at least.'"

"How dare you," says Mrs. Morris, "it's this hat that makes me look this old."

The ladies' auxiliary is coming along fine—will probably have something definite to report by next writing.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Beulah Ogle, Correspondent

Tuesday night was meeting night and we had a good meeting. This is the last meeting we will have in the old labor hall as we are moving into our new home on Vine Street. I know all of you will want to attend the meetings there and we are planning a big meeting with plenty of action in a business way. I will write you a letter later.

* * *

Hear Union Gray, our vice-president, is having a great time in Birmingham. Glad he likes his job.

* * *

Susie Williams, of Bob Green's, on Carter Street, has been ill, but is reported doing nicely. Hope she soon will be back on the job, as we do miss those hot biscuits and those delicious pies as only Susie can make.

* * *

Dropped in at Cate's on Seventh Street, and to my surprise found Margaret Basnan, formerly of George's, and Jack Brue, one of our old members who has been out of the city for some time. Every one of Mr. Cate's employees paid all their back dues and you will be served by Union employees.

Charles Phipps is back in the fold again, this time working for Mat Green at the K. and G.

Don't forget our Labor Temple dance, folks. This is to be the event of the season and something you won't want to forget, so get busy and sell those tickets. We only have till October 24th to get our payment in on the Temple, so let's have those pledges and see if we won't have a home out there we will be proud to call our own.

Ray Phifer is getting along nicely at Ham's Cafe. Mrs. Hamill has returned from her vacation in the sunny south and has captured Mr. Hamill for a few days. They would not tell us where they were going, possibly on a second honey moon.

Had a nice chat with our International Secretary, Mr. Hugh Ernst, Monday night at the airport. He was on his way to the sunny south via Atlanta and Birmingham.

* * *

Our pickets are still walking at Hedge's corner and the Ross Coffee Shoppe. We want to thank our against these non-union restau-union friends for their support rants.

* * *

Bessie Phillips, of the Rathskeller, is still sick.

* * *

Wonder what has happened to our president, Mr. Newton? Surely, he isn't working on the meeting nights.

* * *

We urge the patronage of those establishments that display our union service buttons.

* * *

Had Rebecca Morgan, of the State Cafe, been at the meeting Tuesday night she would have won the jackpot—two months' dues. Remember, next meeting night it will be three months' dues, so don't forget to come and see if you are the lucky winner.

Word of Canada's War Orders Top 50,000 Units

Montreal.—R. M. Sales, sales manager of Ford of Canada, states that it is reasonable to expect a good volume of new business this year as industrial activity is reaching a high level with a corresponding betterment of purchasing power.

E. F. Millard, company advertising manager, reported that the company is supplying more than 50,000 vehicles for military purposes to Canada, Great Britain and other empire countries. Production for civilian requirements is proceeding withont any interruption, but war work has priority over everything else.

New Unions Organized In Asheville, N. C.

Asheville, N. C.—Six new local unions have been organized in Asheville in recent weeks, according to reports from President L. D. Warren, of the Asheville Central Labor union. It has become necessary for the CLU to move from its former location on Pack Square to a larger building in order to provide meeting halls with sufficient seating capacity for the new unions. The organizing movement had its real start a year ago when the big Enka rayon plant was organized.

Employes of the Hans Rees tannery formed a big local and is now on solid footing.

Then came the organization of the employes of the Asheville Gas company, and a contract is now being negotiated with this concern.

Employes of the Asheville Mica company have organized a strong local union, and will soon present an agreement to the company.

Perhaps the most outstanding example of what labor can do when the workers decide to organize is that of the employes of the Biltmore Sayles Bleachery. With about 450 workers eligible for membership, this local has almost 100 per cent, and has presented an agreement. The management began stalling, the membership says, delaying negotiations, whereupon the union last Saturday night instructed its officers to call a strike any minute they deemed it necessary to enforce their demand for an agreement.

The I. A. M., through Representative F. T. Cornelius, has organized a local union of automobile mechanics, with a large membership.

The most recent addition to the movement was the organization last week of the production employes of the Southern Dairies, Inc., charter for this group having been ordered.

L. D. Warren, president, and Mark Felmet, secretary of the Asheville Central Labor union, assisted by a live organizing committee, have paved the way and done most of the work in the organization of these local unions. Rex W. Ingle, vice-president of the State Federation of Labor, and A. E. Brown, organizer, have aided in the campaign. For the textile units Gordon L. Chastain, John W. Pollard and L. James Johnson have directed the organization work.

The Central Labor union has leased the entire third floor of the Paragon building, corner Patton avenue and Haywood street, where all meetings are held now.

Bakers' Scraps

Lou Wilcox has returned to work after being off a week. Glad to see Lou back on the job.

Clarence Logan has improved enough to be out.

Dolly Miller is sick. Hope she recovers soon.

* * *

Mrs. Minnie Shellingburgh entertained with a weiner roast last Saturday night at her brother's farm. Had a good time wrestling with those delicious dogs, and wish everybody could have been with us. Why not have another wiener roast soon, Minnie?

* * *

Here's a bit of news: O. G. Courter is the proud "pappy" of an 8-pound boy. Congratulations, "Ozzie." Your son arrived just in time for the draft.

* * *

Carter Candy company has renewed its contract with Local 25 for another year. Carter and Benn-Hubb candies are 100 per cent union-made and deserve your patronage.

* * *

All products of Bagwell Preserving company are non-union. Be sure your breakfast sweets are Lookout brand—they carry the union label.

* * *

I had the pleasure of attending my first Central Labor union meeting last Monday night, and I learned a lot. Let's have our delegates present at the next meeting . . . understand that the Central Body will be meeting in the new labor temple in about a month.

Onlly One in Four Boys and Girls Properly Prepare for Life Work, American Youth Commission Finds

Washington, D. C.—The 1,750,000 boys and girls who leave school or college to hunt jobs each year have 18,000 different kinds of jobs to pick from, but only about one in four has proper preparation for work or any clear idea of what kind of job he should seek, the American Youth Commission of the American Council on Education reports on the basis of an intensive study.

The survey will be published Oct. 15 as a book titled "Matching Youth and Jobs," by Howard M. Bell, of the commission's staff. Bell's book is a report on a joint survey and demonstration recently completed by the American youth commission and the employment service division of the social security board. For this project the two agencies picked four urban centers, St. Louis, Baltimore, Providence and Dallas, and the suburban and rural areas around each.

The report further confirms the commission's findings during five years of survey and experiment in the field of youths and their jobs.

Major Conclusions.

Major conclusions of the report are:

Every community, meaning a local labor market, should provide in its high schools realistic vocational guidance, appropriate vocational preparation, and eventual job placement.

The establishment of such a system should be the work of the whole community, co-operating with the schools through a committee representing parents, employment agencies, employers, the church, and the various civic organizations, both governmental and private.

The schools' curriculum should be revised to include both the present general subjects and elective subjects bearing on the kind of occupation the pupil has found, with the counselor's assistance, he is best fitted for.

Complete Training Opposed.

The high schools should not attempt the work of specialized technical schools but try to turn out completely trained workmen and business men. They should rather, in class room and school shop, give the pupil the basic education and skill that will give him a head start in mastering the details of his chosen job when he gets it.

Parents, pupils and schools should remember that only one pupil in five plans to go to college, and that working with the hands is a type of culture too.

The commission, of which Owen D. Young is chairman, declares that occupational adjustment — to put the right workers in the right jobs—is an important aspect of national defense. If the country is to produce its needed defense materials in time.

In counsel it is good to see dangers; but in execution, not to see them unless they be very great.—Bacon.

Kentucky Labor Has Made a Remarkable Gain

Louisville, Ky.—Under the leadership of Edward H. Weyler, A.F. of L. representative in Kentucky with the co-operation of the State Federation of Labor and International representatives more than 15,000 new members have been added to the A.F.L. unions in Kentucky since the first of the year. In every case closed shop agreements embodying increases in wage, vacations with pay, better working conditions have been gained. The packing industries in Louisville, unorganized at the first of the year, now working under closed shop conditions with 1,000 workers members in the Butcher Workers Unions. The Teamsters Union have signed hundreds of contracts since the first of the year, practically every Kentucky line is now organized. Brother William L. Fitts, able representative of the Woodworkers and carpenters, has installed six locals in Kentucky, two of these in the center of the CIO United Mine Workers. Five local unions of the Distillery Workers established in Louisville. Closed shop agreements with increases in pay, vacations, etc., at Bernheim, Seagrams, Grand Dad, Sunny Brook, K. D. & W., distilleries. Negotiations are under way at Limestone Springs Distillery, at Shepherdsville, Ky. Charter recently installed for the Western Union Employes.

ALL UNION MEN ON BIG CAMP SHELBY STRUCTURE

Camp Shelby, Miss.—The J. A. Jones Construction Company has announced that all men employed on the big $11,000,000 construction job here are to be union men. This agreement gives work to about five thousand members of the Common and Construction Laborers along with other building and construction trades in proportion.

GADSDEN JOB TO BE DONE HUNDRED PER CENT UNION

Gadsden, Ala.—With the Rust Engineering Company as the contracting firm, the big government shell plant is to be done entirely by union mechanics. This project is one of the items in the national defense program, and representatives of the building and construction trades unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have completed all arrangements to furnish all needed workmen to the noted contracting firm.

ATLANTA ADDS MANY NEW LOCALS TO THE ROSTER

Atlanta, Ga.—Charter has been installed here for a newly organized local union of Building Service Employes, with large membership. Employes in fifteen large office and public buildings here are embraced in the membership of the new local union, and agreements soon will be presented to the management of each building. William A. Cetti, A.F.L. organizer, and the organizing committee of the Atlanta Federation of Trades assisted the building service employes in forming the organization.

Local 2, of Division No. 60, is a newly formed union of the Western Union Telegraph company's employes. Charter was issued by the Commercial Telegraphers' International Union. Good membership has been obtained, officers named and committees are active. Organizer Cetti and the officials of the Atlanta Federation of Trades assisted the Western Union employes in organizing the local union.

Vice-president G. X. Barker, of the I. B. E. W., and Organizer Cetti installed a charter last week for a local union formed by employes of the International Battery company, and obligated the newly elected officers.

Many agreements have been obtained since Labor Day by local unions affiliated with the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

Perhaps the most rapidly growing union in Atlanta at present is that of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers. Albert W. Gossett, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, has been named for the International Union of Hotel and Restaurant Workers, and is directing the work in Atlanta.

To the Point

The Mayo brothers never were tolerant of the wealthy, brash, with-self-importance type of patients. One of this type once approached Dr. William James Mayo with a certain peremptoriness, saying: "Well! Well! Are you the head doctor?"

Dr. Mayo replied with a certain directness: "No, I'm the best doctor!"

Ross Hotel Coffee Shop Signs Pact

The Coffee Shop in the Ross hotel this Wednesday completed a closed shop agreement with Local 474, Culinary Workers, which entitles the displaying of a union house card.

Much of the credit toward the amicable settlement is due to Fred Michaels, member of Typographical union.

The Culinary Workers speak well of the attitude of Mrs. R. W. Thatcher, proprietor of the coffee shop. Mrs. Thatcher wants all members of organized labor to feel welcome to visit her place of business, and the labor movement recommends that she be supported to the fullest.

Bitter Thought —

It is a sad and bitter thought that free press and free speech, the prizes which were so dearly won in these surroundings, have been extinguished everywhere in the world except the United States and in the British Empire. It is even a more bitter thought that within the past fortnight members of the United States senate have advanced the idea that these rights should be curtailed here.—Arthur T. Robb, editor of Editor and Publisher.

"High Plane" Appeasement Claptrap

"The real compensation in teaching is not in money one receives, though salaries of teachers are increasing. This is just as well, for it keeps out of the profession those who are interested only in the money they can get out of it." The good teacher was described as being optimistic, enthusiastic, patient, anxious to work with children, cooperative, neat in appearance, satisfied with comparatively low monetary returns, interested in community service, and eager to better himself.

Thus said Dr. Fred C. Smith at the meeting of the Southeastern Tennessee Education association held in Chattanooga last Friday.

This is the usual claptrap fed to teachers during the numerous teachers "associations," looked on by many as company unions, formed for the purpose of supplying moral stamina for classroom teachers to deaden financial distress and defeatist pessimism in the teaching profession.

That many teachers have lowered their fine moral sights lately has been borne out by resignations from the city system to accept better jobs out of the profession or better teaching jobs away from Chattanooga. Of course, the system is better off, according to the dean Dr. Smith, because those who resigned evidently were working with some thought in mind of paying their bills and making a decent living.

With an average of $85 per month for teachers in Chattanooga, our teachers must be optimistic, patient no end, anxious to work with children, and most co-operative.

How they can also be eager to better themselves and dress neatly on such low pay is puzzling to us. Being much better paid ourselves, we will admit that possibly our soul is not on such a lofty plane as described by the Dr. Smith. While we do not know Dr. Smith's compensation, we know that President-Elect Roy Austin, a principal, performs a community service at 2,600 bucks per year, and his wife assists in keeping high the flame in our school system at 1,200 smackers annually. The secretary of the "association" is none other than Commissioner of Education McMillan at $4,000 per year.

The advice given by Dr. Smith would have been more plausible had it been delivered by a classroom teacher who is optimistic and enthusiastic over an $85 per month income.

SIGNAL MILL STOOGES BEAT UP UNION WOMAN

Agnes Rivers Allegedly Held by Man, Others Beat Her and Tore Clothes—Left on Floor for Hour Without Medical Aid—Warrants Sworn for Arrest of Four Assailants — Similar "Accidents" Have Occurred in Recent Years.

Agnes Rivers, one of the staunchest union members in the Signal Knitting mill, was a victim again of the displeasure of the nonunion "men" in that plant last Wednesday morning.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Rivers was hit by a nonunion employe with a screwdriver. As Mrs. Rivers defended herself, three men took part by grabbing her, tearing her clothes and beating her. She was then was taken to the mill office, it is said, and given a lecture. As she left the office, one of the men knocked her unconscious with a blackjack.

One of the union girls called Edna Brown, representative of the Ladies' Garment Workers' union, who arrived at the plant about an hour later, found Mrs. Rivers still on the floor, with a bunch of men around her. No doctor had given her injuries any treatment. Miss Brown took the injured unionist to Erlanger hospital. She was in hysterical condition, and her head and body was badly bruised. Thirty minutes after the attack company lawyers were at the mill making drawings of the affair.

Warrants were sworn out for the three men and the woman and trial has been set for 2 o'clock Thursday in Squire Johnston's court.

About a year ago Foreman Tom Bell "accidentlly" discharged a shotgun inside the mill and missed Mrs. Rivers by inches. Another time Mrs. Rivers was blackjacked in her home late at night and left unconscious, and her car was run over a cliff.

In spite of all her misfortunes, Mrs. Rivers has refused to be run off her job. The company has several times been ordered by the labor board to dissolve the company union, and $3,000 in back pay given to discharged union people. Each time the order was obeyed and another association was formed.

Attorney H. G. B. King is representing Mrs. Rivers and the union.

Movie Ops Party Is Occasioned by 30th Birthday

The thirtieth birthday of Local 730, Movie Operators, was celebrated Oct. 17, at the Patten hotel. This year the banquet, starting at midnight, was more elaborate than usual.

Speaking to invited guests from the local labor movement, and movie representatives from Memphis, Nashville, Knoxville, Atlanta, Birmingham, Asheville, N. C., Charlotte, N. C., and Columbia, S. C., President Burson Lowry turned the program over to Toastmaster A. C. Kamm, who started a series of ribbon presentations to W. W. Hallmark, president of Central Body. Brother Hallmark took the ribbing gracefully, even when he sat down in a small pool of ice water.

After the food was disposed of and entertaining 30 minutes was spent trying to unravel some sleight-of-hand mysteries shown by a local magician.

Winn Home From Hospital

H. C. Winn, member of Electricians 175, has been moved home from the hospital, where he has been confined for some time, because of blood poisoning. Brother Winn will not be able to go back to work for at least two weeks. Members and friends are asked to stop by and see him at his home, 426 Poplar street.

Jack Carnes Now Knoxville B. A.

Members of Local 175, Electricians, are gratified to get reports from Knoxville that Jack Carnes, a member of No. 175, is making good as business agent of B-760 in our neighboring city, Knoxville.

Mr. Carnes has been in Knoxville for the past two months.

NOMINATIONS OPENED BY SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS SATURDAY, NOV. 2

Local 1180, School Bus Drivers, announce that at its meeting to be held on Saturday, Nov. 2, officers for the coming year will be placed in nomination. It is also urged that all who can bring in or send their donation to the Labor Temple fund do so. It was pointed out that last May the union voted to give one day's pay after the members received their second pay check for this term.

Typo. "Spooks" To Walk Oct. 29

Mrs. Joe Bush's home, 617 Tremont street, will be filled with ghosts and other hallowe'en spirits next Wednesday night, Oct. 29. The call for the costumed spirits has been issued by the auxiliary to the Typographical union, and they will start to assemble about 7:30 p.m. The entertainment is in charge of Mrs. Marion Seagle, chairman of entertainment.

No Excuse —

However it may be with nations that are actually on the fighting line, for us at this time there is no need and therefore can be no excuse for pigeonholing questions that concern the general welfare of the people in ordinary times. Some of these might, indeed, become even more acute in wartime than they are now; and our strength and power of endurance if we have to fight will depend partly on row much we have done to improve our social and economic conditions while there is yet time.—The New Leader, New York City.

Germans soon may wear suits and read newspapers produced from potato leaves and stems, the commerce department reports. A dispatch from the American consulate at Leipzig said that a large textile manufacturing company in Thuringia has succeeded in making satsisfactory newsprint and spinning fiber for textile manufacture from potato plant fiber. A Thuringia newspaper recently printed its entire edition of 100,000 copies on the new material. Clothes have already been made of the "potato fabric."

Occupancy of Labor Temple Postponed Because of Late Delivery of Boiler

Instead of Being Ready November 1, Final and Positive Date to Move in Will Be About December 1.

A snag was struck in Labor Temple plans this past week when it was discovered that the immense boiler to be installed would be late on its delivery date. This means, of course, that plans set for occupancy of the temple will be delayed until the latter part of November instead of the first of November.

However, Chairman Ed Bork stated that the boiler arrived last Wednesday, and work of installation is being speeded up as fast as possible. It is the intention of the Labor Temple directors not to move into the temple until everything is in fine order.

Painting of the interior has already started, and the electrical installations are practically completed.

All local unions, including Central Body, are being notified to continue meeting as usual in the old location, 114½ West Seventh street.

U S A Cleaners Sign With Union

Union cards have been placed in the dry cleaning establishments of the U. S. A. Dry Cleaning company, after employes of that company joined the union. Mrs. Guthrie, proprietor, immediately negotiated a closed shop contract with the union that reduced hours of work per day from twelve to nine.

The four plants are located at 2439 Broad street, Alton Park at Forty-seventh street, East Lake Courts housing project, and West Seventh street.

She Knew

"My dear, look there," said Mr. Simkins, as he stood on deck with his wife and pointed to a tug drawing several barges. "Such is life. The tug is like the man, working and toiling, while the barges, like women, are——"

"I know," interrupted Mrs. Simkins, acidly. "The tug does all the blowing, while the barges bear all the burden."

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

New York City A. & P. Management Accused of Using Dual Unionism To Forestall AFL Unions

New York City.—"The New York management of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company is hiding behind CIO and employes to deny the right of collective bargaining to its employes," William Collins, American Federation of Labor representative, charged in a statement accusing A. & P. management and organizations of the full support of the A. F. of L. and its affiliated organizations.

Collins declared that the attitude of the A. & P. management, which "is in contrast to the attitude of the American Federation of Labor in opening paths to industrial peace that would benefit the business world also the employment of thousands of workers in the chain store industry."

Anti-Union Attitude Charged.

The A. F. of L. representative further charged that the A. & P. has, in the case of its warehouse employes, "resorted to the same anti-union tactics which other employers have used in the past to prevent the organization of their employes."

"It should be understood," Collins said, "that the A. & P. management has no quarrel about the [illegible] throughout the [illegible] Federal Court and [illegible] New York [illegible] of the [illegible] Union, affiliated to the CIO, [illegible] the A. & P. employes."

Other Pay Raises Rumored.

[illegible] the situation, [illegible] Retail Food Chain Employees Union, [illegible] of the Retail Clerks International Protective Association, A. F. of L., [illegible] the organization [illegible] a union of employes [illegible] behalf of the A. & P. [illegible]

"Well authenticated rumors are that the A. & P. contemplates wage increases in the New York area for clerks, store managers and meatcutters, for the same purpose of forestalling unionism as in the case of its warehouse employes."

Up Boston Way.

"How old are you?" inquired the visitor of his host's little son.

"That's a difficult question," answered the young man, removing his spectacles and wiping them carefully. "The latest personal survey available shows my psychological age to be 12, my moral age 4, my anatomical age 7, and my physiological age 6. I suppose, however, that you refer to my chronological age, which is 8. That is so old-fashioned that I seldom think of it any more."

It is admirable to die the victim of one's faith; it is sad to die the due of one's ambitions.—Labartine.

Sorry to hear that H. W. Walker, W. T. Manley, I. C. Rowland and C. A. Green are now off sick. We wish these men a speedy recovery and hope to see them back on duty real soon.

We are about ready to start negotiating our new contract with the company. We have been very successful in the past with the contract, and have operated under 100% union working conditions. Our company has co-operated with us splendidly and we have tried to operate our equipment with a better determination to cut down all unnecessary expenses. We feel that we will continue working in harmony with our employers because they have lived up to their agreement 100% and are trying their best to make everything as comfortable as possible. We will have our new contract in about thirty days.

* * *

I am quite sure that everyone is keeping up with the foreign situation and is aware of the fact that there are some members of every local who are of the age to be drafted for training, so now is the time to get it ironed out with your employers to be sure that you will have your job back with your full seniority. Most of the companies will take care of you in this war the same as they did in the last, but there were a few that did not. I am glad that I work for a company which will take care of their men who are called to the colors and fight for our freedom.

I wish to call to every one's attention that we are about ready to enter into our new labor temple on Vine street. This home was purchased by union men and women who are anxious to see organized labor have a much better place to meet and to push forward much faster in the future than it has in the past. Every one who promised to donate and has not paid it all in please do so as soon as possible because it will keep the labor temple board from having to borrow to finish this job of remodeling.

A union man will not patronize nonunion places. Clyde Barfoot's restaurant is the only union restaurant at Main and Market street. Mr. Cunningham's barber shop at 337 Market next to Millard's cafe is 100% union. Powell's barber shop on the opposite side of the street is nonunion. STAY OUT.

* * *

It looks as if the company is going to have a new doctor bill to pay. Why? Dh, yes, I guess that I should explain it a little more clearly. I was standing at Main and Market street last Saturday when a bus pullel in the loading zone to pick up some passengers. Then all of a sudden there was a terrible scream and I looked to see what it was all about and this is what I saw. Two colored women started to board the bus with a little kid 2 years old and when it looked in the bus it started yelling. There are a lot of kids afraid to ride a vehicle while lots of them enjoy it. The operator, who was I. R. Harold, said that he knew that he wasn't the prettiest, but didn't realize that he was as ugly as that. So the two women walked to town and we lost 14 cents, so I guess it would be cheaper for the company to pay to have Bro. Harold's face lifted so that he will not lose any more business.

SAFETY FIRST

I wish to call to the attention of all motorists that the fall of the year is one of our slickest seasons. The leaves are falling and the streets are sweating, the mornings are foggy and smoky, and when these slow drizzles of rain hit the streets they are as slick as ice. So please drive careful and don't cut in front of another vehicle because he may not be able to stop quick enough. The rails that our cars run on are slick with leaves so don't stop in front of our cars because if the operator is unable to stop quick enough he will [illegible] into you. Remember when a street car hits you it is [illegible] larger, heavier and harder [illegible] your car and you or someone [illegible] you may get hurt or killed. [illegible] let's try to make this a safer [illegible] to live in by trying to help [illegible] other fellow a little and remember that he is probably in as big a hurry as you are, so don't [illegible] him out and cause an accident. [illegible] every one would use the Golden Rule with their driving there wouldn't be near so many accidents. Drive so that you can stop within the distance you can see.

* * *

Don't forget our next meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 7, 6 p.m., and Friday morning, Nov. at 10 a.m. Be sure and be present at one of these meetings.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Speaking about meetings [illegible] minds me that when we went [illegible] the other day to report for [illegible] the dispatcher informed us [illegible] there would be a safety meeting the next day at 1 o'clock [illegible] Frank Cook said, "That puts [illegible] on the spot." The dispatcher asked why and Frank said, "Well, I [illegible] already told my wife that I [illegible] been to a meeting twice this week already, so I don't know what to tell her now." If there is any [illegible] who can furnish Brother [illegible] with some good excuses I am sure he will appreciate them.

TEACHER TALK

The financial condition of [illegible] city schools gets no better [illegible] as the comparison between [illegible] 1939-40 expenditures and [illegible] 1940-41 budget for the department of education published in the [illegible] ning Times Wednesday shows.

One visualizes the gradual [illegible] crease in anticipation of [illegible] from the following year so that [illegible] the present trend is to continue [illegible] the department will be a [illegible] year short—a ridiculous situation.

In the summer of 1939, it [illegible] be recalled, the union backed [illegible] Commissioner McMillan in an [illegible] fort to get state high school [illegible] added to moneys accruing [illegible] other sources, the obvious [illegible] of state aid in the first place. [illegible] was not done, however, and a [illegible] icy was established. Now as [illegible] state raises its standards in [illegible] requiring cold cash, the department of education gets worse off [illegible] year, for if the high school [illegible] had been treated as they [illegible] have been, the other contributions would have remained intact [illegible] the supplementary fund only would have been affected. As it is, [illegible] items in the budget will have to suffer. The state requirements are all to the good, but at the present rate they will penalize [illegible] and more the other aspects of education in Chattanooga.

Biggest cut, of course, was in teachers' salaries. Teachers should know by now that they are the game on these occasions. We like to see some state requirements in the direction of adequate salaries for teachers.

When we say a cut in teachers' salaries we do not mean that the salary of any teacher was cut, but that would be to remind one of the colored boy's trousers which were so English that if they shrunk any more so they would choke him—but that teachers who leave the system are not replaced, with the net result of crowded classrooms and inefficient teaching.

The only answer is, [illegible] that decent schools cannot be operated on the revenue the department of education now receives.

AFL Exempts Draftees from Union Dues; Directly Affiliated Members Are Affected

Executive Council's Order Expected to Be Followed by National Unions.

Washington, D. C.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor announced that members of directly affiliated local unions who volunteer or are drafted for service in the nation's military forces will be exempted from dues payments and will retain their good union standing during their period of service.

In taking this action, the Executive Council followed a precedent established by the 1917 convention of the American Federation of Labor which voted a similar exemption to members who served in the world war.

President William Green also announced that all City Central Bodies and State Federations of Labor will set up machinery to assist draftees to regain their former positions in industry, wherever possible, after completion of their year of military training.

"The American Federation of Labor is determined to do everything in its power to protect the interests and promote the welfare of those who are called upon to serve their country in its time of emergency," Mr. Green said.

"It is the clear and patriotic duty of the American government, American industry and American labor to safeguard the physical, mental and economic well-being of the young men who are shouldering the responsibility of defending the nation."

Mr. Green also disclosed that national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are now considering what action they can take in accordance with their laws and constitution to protect the standing of their members who are drafted and continue their rights to union benefits. The national and international unions during 1939 paid out more than $25,000,000 in various forms of benefits to members, including old age pensions, death benefits, health and unemployment compensation and disability payments.

The entire defense program was thoroughly canvassed by the Executive Council. Members who had got information on various defense projects affecting their unions reported to the council on how the rights of workers were being protected. The center of the discussion, Mr. Green said, was the maintenance of labor standards. He said there was no evidence of danger as yet to these standards, but he expressed apprehension lest attempts may be made in the future to increase working hours without payment of overtime.

Committees representing opposing factions within the Virginia State Federation of Labor were given an extended hearing by the Executive Council, which decided to send a representative of the American Federation of Labor to the state body's next convention to see to it that the laws regarding representation are fully upheld.

Eleanor Gale Carroll's new book, "Two for the Money," tackles the problem of family finance in a thoroughly modern manner, and makes the whole problem good reading. It discusses not only how to spend and save your money, but how to blow it in, how to enjoy a few of the luxuries of life on a peanut income. A good time is guaranteed wth this book even if you have no money worries (if there be such a person!).

It will soon be time to remove bulbs from your garden for storing. Coating the bulbs with paraffin coating will prevent excessive dryness. Simply melt the paraffin wax in a shallow pan, place the bulbs in a wire backet, the type used for french frying and dip quickly.

You can remove white rings left by drinking glasses or vases from dark polished furniture by placing over the ring a damp cloth wrung out of warm water and ammonia for about a minute. Wipe dry with a soft cloth and polish with furniture polish or wax.

GLAMOR

Of course your hair never looked worse than it does right now at the end of summer. You've probably taken too much sun which has left your hair brittle and lifeless. The penalties of too much sun are fading, streaking and dryness. So you get out your trusty hairbrush and go to work. You can do much for yourself without the aid of beauty parlors. Just brush and brush and brush! That's the most reliable way to restore brilliance and natural lustre. Use a good stiff brush, but never a wire one which might irritate the scalp. Wash your hair yourself, being careful not to use too hot water, nor too strong a soap. Rinsing is most important—every particle of soap must be eliminated both from hair and scalp. Then massage the scalp with a cream or an oil tonic. Thus the brushing and massage stimulate circulation. Since the hair is nourished by the blood stream its beauty depends on healthy functioning of the scalp.

If you have lean features, and a severe coiffure you might do well to emulate the general sophistication of Wally Windsor and wear earrings. They are quite an important adjunct to this fall's quiet, ladylike clothes. Many earrings curve gracefully, follow the line of the ear and often cover the lobe. But if you go in for earrings use restraint in your other jewelry. Never wear more than one or two other pieces, and never blaze forth in numerous unrelated pieces of jewelry just because you have them.

With your fall costumes you'll have to get your feet into neat, trim fall shoes, and if you've sloshed around in beach sandals all summer you will find it most trying to wiggle your feet into new tight shoes. Do you know the best exercise in the world to strengthen the feet and arches is to go barefoot? And if you can run barefoot in the sand for a while longer, you'll find that sand hiking necessitates pulling the legs up high, which acts on the muscles not exercised in ordinary walking. This does worlds for the arches and for slimming the legs and thigs.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKING

If you have lovely eighteenth century mahogany dining room furniture and would like to "do" a beautiful, yet dignified room, upholster your chair seats with a blue leatherette (sold by the yard). Paint the walls a soft grey blue above a white dado. Use draperies and rug of the same shade of soft blue. Let your one extravagance be a crystal chandelier, but if that is out of the budget, use crystal or silver candlesticks on the buffet and other silver pieces to complete an elegant room.

An old brass bed can be modernized by repainting any color or style you desire. But first wash the surface with a strong soap and water or sal soda solution to remove all soil and grease. When dry use a priming coat of flat paint and from there on use any color that will fit into your scheme of things.

Remember that painting objects in certain colors gives them the appearance of altered weight. For instance, red and orange gives the illusion of heaviness, while yellow and blue lend the appearance of lighter weight. The same object appears larger when painted white than when painted black.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Only woman pilot working for Uncle Sam is Blanche Wilcox Noyes, who does the civil aeronautic authority's work of marking the nation's airways. Those huge signs you see painted on barn roofs, highways and prominent rocks for the information of pilots are under Mrs. Noyes' supervision. The government furnishes the plans for the program but the supplies and labor are furnished by local and state organizations. Part of Mrs. Noyes' job is to address meetings and persuade civic leaders to raise the money for this project. Formerly an actress, Mrs. Noyes is able to lend charm and persuasion plus a knowledge of paint chemistry and airport rating symbols, to these meetings. She was a friend of the late Amelia Earhart, who was responsible for giving feminine fliers a niche in government aviation.

BABY TALK

A little boy's room like his pockets should be his own business. The mother should provide little beyond a comfortable bed, a big table, a chest of drawers and a chair or two. Leave the rest to him—the decorative motive will change as the boy changes, reflecting each stage of his boyhood interests.

If there is room to provide an entire wall with built-in shelves he'll love it to park his "stuff," but let him fix it up to suit himself.

An Important Convention

The American Federation of Labor Executive Council has set the stage for one of the best and most constructive conventions in the history of the federation, opening Nov. 18 at New Orleans. The council prepared an annual report that will show notable progress in the past year and that foreshadows even greater progress in the year to come.

Action of the council in taking steps for the protection of trade unionists in military service, by setting up machinery to assist them in regaining former jobs on completion of training and insistence upon labor representation in all boards and agencies administering the selective service law, indicates that similar action will be taken by the convention delegates.

The convention, meeting at one of the darkest periods in the life of civilization, will be called upon to make decisions of momentous importance. That it will act with sanity and wisdom, is virtually assured by the record of past federation conventions.

In view of the importance of the New Orleans gathering, no trade unionist can afford not to follow closely its deliberations and decisions.

Medical Care Shown Inadequate

Startling evidence of the tragic lack of systematic and adequate medical care in the United States is being revealed again by the young men volunteering for the army. First Lieutenant D. H. Drummond, of the Army Medical Corps, declared in New York that he had to turn down 30 per cent of the recruits from the Metropolitan New York area because of physical defects.

According to the Herald Tribune, Lieutenant Drummond said that "he was too young to be able to compare the applicants with the World war soldiers, but he asserted he could not imagine how teeth, for instance, could be in much worse shape than were those of many of the volunteers. Some of the young men had almost no teeth left, he said. Poor vision, weak feet, shortness, bad ears, underweight or overweight were other defects."

The situation revealed is all the more distressing since, according to Lieutenant Drummond, almost all the men he examined believed they were in good physical condition or they would not have applied for enrollment. The selective service system will bring in many men with organic disorders and will undoubtedly result in an even greater proportion of rejections, the army official concluded.

Corroboration of Lieutenant Drummond's findings was given by Colonel L. B. Magruder, recruiting officer for the entire Second Corps area, who disclosed that over a long period of time only one out of every three army volunteers from New York City and one out of two from rural areas are found acceptable physically by the army physicians.

Citizens Entitled to Facts

Should that fabled little man, John Q. Citizen, be informed about how many kids used the city playgrounds last summer, and what the municipal hospital pays out for each patient? Does he have the right to find out whether the city's street lighting is adequate by examining the evidence of municipal crime and accident rates?

Yes, according to a document just published by the International City Managers' Association, which consists of a checklist of 257 items considered worthy of inclusion in annual municipal reports.

Yes, says organized labor, which, as a supporter and champion of democracy, stands for the fullest publicity on the workings of government.

The list, which was compiled with the aid of about 50 well-known authorities in the various government fields, includes items for every city activity from health to city planning. While many cities will not be able to report on every one of the items in the checklist, the association said, they should all report more information about their activities or departments than the checklist itself specifies. A general descriptive write-up is recommended for every municipal department, to include an outline of new and unfamiliar activities, and discussion of good and bad results, along with personal and financial information.

The checklist leaves the method of presenting the suggested items up to the individual city, but mentions that tables, graphs, pie charts and pictorial statistics are handy ways of showing John Q. how his taxes are spent. Lengthy statistical tabulations are "out."

The list is offered as a tentative one, and city governments are invited to send in their suggestions for changes and additions.

If honesty, integrity and frankness characterized the attitude of employers and employes toward each other in wage negotiations and in their relations in industry costly strikes could be avoided. When tolerance and a proper respect for the rights of all concerned influence and control all human relations in industry strikes, with all their attendant hardships and losses, will be reduced to a minimum.—William Green.

Teamsters' Heads Warns Violation Of Agreements With Employers Means Destruction of Unions

Washington, D. C.—Warning against violation by unions of contracts with employers was sounded by Daniel J. Tobin, veteran president of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America, at the closing session of the union's convention here.

On the recommendation of President Tobin, the convention voted to strike out the word "Stablemen" from the union's title and substitute "Warehousemen." Jurisdiction over certain kinds of warehouses was given to the organization last year by the American Federation of Labor.

Contract violation will bring about the destruction of unions, Tobin declared in vigorous criticism of unions which do not live up to agreements.

New York Case Cited

"Some unions pay no attention to the laws they themselves make. If they don't obey their own laws and the laws of the land, they'll see more trouble than they ever imagined."

Tobin referred to the difficulties of the New York Milk Drivers' union, against which damages were assessed after a strike held in violation of contract.

He reminded the New York union that its members are "dispensing one of the necessities of life" and added that "no government will permit you continuously to set aside the laws of the land."

"Unless you change your tactics," he said, "and observe your agreements and use common sense, you will bring about the destruction of this powerful union for years to come. I want every other union to take cognizance of what I have said."

Arbitration Clause Voted

A short time after Tobin had spoken, the convention adopted an arbitration clause as a part of its constitution, rewritten this year for the first time in 25 years.

The clause, representing a compromise over proposals which the convention rejected in a stormy session earlier, gives the president power to summon officers of a local union to explain refusal to arbitrate when he feels that they have acted arbitrarily. At the same time the board of the international is empowered to require the local to arbitrate on recommendation of the president.

The war in Europe with its implications for America, Tobin told the convention, already has provided trade unionism in this country with the greatest threat in its history.

"It is the judgment of a large number of people in this country that the last democratic nation on the other side of the Atlantic is in very great danger of being destroyed," he said. "If that nation is destroyed, this country will be attacked. If this happens, every semblance of freedom is liable to be set aside while we are engaged in this struggle.

"The trade union movement today is in greater danger than ever, and so is capital. Beware of the enemy of destruction who is almost approaching the doors of this country."

The convention voted to hold its next convention in Los Angeles in 1945.

Way "Build-up" Helps Will Interest Women

The cause of a woman's periodic suffering from headache, irritability, cramp-like pain, may be functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, a condition that is often helped by CARDUI.

Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; so increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.

It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is invited by its 50 years of popularity.

PUBLICATION FOR DEFENDANT
No. 4939
Before J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Henderson & Coleman vs. Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson.

Whereas, Henderson & Coleman, on the 14th day of October, 1940, made affidavit before me, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson was justly indebted to them by account in the sum of One Hundred Thirteen Dollars and Twenty-five Cents ($113.25), and that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson conceals herself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, and that said Henderson & Coleman has made bond as required by law in attachment cases; and,

Whereas, I, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, on that day issued an original attachment against the estate of Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson, returnable and set for trial for November 16, 1940, at 10 a.m., at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, no property belonging to the defendant having been found in said county, further executed by garnishment of funds belonging to the defendant in the hands of the Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, and an order for this publication has been duly made.

Now, therefore, said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson is hereby notified to appear at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the 16th day of November, 1940, at 10 a.m., and then and there to defend this attachment suit or the same will be proceeded with ex parte.

Teachers' Union Starts Organizing Campaign

Chicago.—Plans for an organizing campaign nationwide in scope among the public school teachers of the nation were formulated at a joint meeting of a committee of the American Federation of Teachers' Executive Council with a committee of the American Federation of Labor appointed by President Green, consisting of Matthew Woll, John P. Frey and Elmer E. Milliman. The teachers' federation was represented by President George S. Counts, Secretary Irvin R. Kuenzli and Vice-President John D. Connors, Arthur Elder and Mark Starr.

The general purpose of the campaign will be to organize the teachers as a first line of defense for American democracy in accordance with the recommendation made by President Green at the Buffalo convention of the A. F. of T., extending rather than curtailing educational facilities. State federations of labor and city central bodies will co-operate in the campaign.

Wilkie A. Neighbors vs Lou Owen
State of Tennessee
Circuit Court of Hamilton County

To the Sheriff of Hamilton County—Greeting:

Whereas, at the September term of said court, in the case of Wilkie A. Neighbors against Lou Owen, sent up by said court for condemnation of land by Mack Fryar, a justice of the peace of said county, to satisfy a judgment for $54.00 and costs rendered July 27, 1940, by Mack Fryar, J. P., in favor of Wilkie A. Neighbors against Lou Owen, it was ordered and adjudged that the land described below, levied on under said above named judgment, be condemned and sold to satisfy the said debt and all costs.

Now, in obedience to an order from the said Circuit Court, I will on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1940,

at 11 o'clock, a.m., at the west door of the courthouse at Chattanooga, Tennessee, offer for sale and sell to the highest and best bidder for cash the real estate in said order referred to, the same being the following described real estate, to-wit:

Real estate in the Fourth Civil District of Hamilton county, Tennessee, bounded on the north by the Tennessee River, on the west by the Frazier lands; on the south by Hunt and the line running between section 8 and section 17; on the east by Frazier, and being the southeast corner of section 8, range 5, west fractional township 1, North in the Ocoee land district, lying and being in the Fourth Civil District, Hamilton County, Tennessee, and a little bit east of the line running between Marion and Hamilton counties, being the 40 acres of land formerly owned by J. L. Douglas and conveyed by Sam Douglas, Seana Douglas and Jane Thompson, the only heirs at law of the said J. L. Douglas, to the parties of the first part by deed dated Sept. 30, 1924, and of record in the Register's office of Hamilton county, Tennessee, in Deed Book R, Volume 18, at Page 267, et seq.

This the 3rd day of October, 1940.

All Firms Must Abide by Labor Laws Or Be Barred from Defense Contracts

Washington, D. C.—A ruling by United States Attorney-General Jackson buttressed the policy of the national defense advisory commission to bar corporations which violate federal labor laws from obtaining government contracts.

This policy, approved by President Roosevelt and agreed to by both the war and navy departments, had one loophole—could firms held guilty of unfair practices by the national labor relations board be barred immediately or would their status have to depend on final court determination of such cases?

The defense commission asked Atty.-Gen. Jackson for an opinion on this key question. He responded:

"We have given informal consideration to your oral request for advice as to the effect of findings by the national labor relations board that an employer is in violation of the national labor relations act.

"It seems too clear to admit of controversy, though we will prepare a formal opinion if it is requested through the usual channels, that the findings of the national labor relations board that an employer is in violation of the national labor relations act are binding and conclusive upon the other agencies of the executive branch of the government unless and until these findings are reversed by a court of competent jurisdiction."

Mr. Jackson's ruling immediately aroused a storm of controversy, but President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and other labor leaders declared they considered it sound and reasonable.

If the policy of the defense commission and the ruling of the attorney-general are strictly enforced, it was pointed out, there is no reason why the national defense program should be impeded. The chief result would be to force corporations to abide by the law, a course of conduct required of them in any case.

The commission had made no immediate investigation to determine how many firms this informal ruling might affect. The staff of the labor board compiling a list of companies that had been held in violation of the act and had appealed their cases, but even after this data is available the defense commission will have to compare it with the list of firms for whom they have cleared defense contracts before taking any further steps.

Earlier the defense commission announced that the war and navy departments had agreed to abide by the commission's labor policies and refuse to give contracts to firms which had been found guilty by government agencies, such as the wage-hour administration, the Walsh-Healey division and the national labor relations board, of violating federal labor regulations.

Draft Shows American Unity

On Wednesday 17,000,000 American men marched to registration centers in every corner of the land and obeyed what their president called "the first duty to free citizenship," and signed up for possible military defense of the nation.

All through the day until well past the scheduled 9 p.m. closing time, 1,000,000 volunteer workers labored long to register the country's man power. The decision for the draft had been made by congress, and even though many opposed it, all joined in the American way to make it a great success, and to show the dictator nations of the world that once the American decision has been made, all people unite to effectively carry out the mandate. "The duty of this day has been imposed upon us from without," President Roosevelt said in a nationwide radio broadcast, "those who have dared threaten the world with war—those who have created the name and deed of total war—have imposed upon us and upon all free people the necessity for preparation for total defense."

PANTRY PALAVER

Now that the weather has turned cool try having hot hors d'oeuvres for your fall cocktail party. Many tiny chicken croquettes—about as big as your little finger—and fry in hot fat until golden crisp. Then there are "pigs-in-blankets" — tiny sausages wrapped in rich pastry and baked in the oven; there's the old favorite of baking powder biscuits as big as a 50-cent piece in which a sliver of ham and cheese have been baked in the center.

* * *

This is the season for peach desserts now that they are cheap and plentiful. There are so many ways to use peaches; use them in the upside down cake which is made in the skillet; use them in Brown Betty instead of apples; or a peach baravian with gelatine. (Receipt in any good cookbook.)

* * *

Next time you cook fresh or frozen peas add a head of lettuce chopped fine, a whole onion, a little salt, nutmeg, tablespoon of sugar and a large chunk of butter. Remove the onion before serving and pour in a tablespoonful of cream.

* * *

Every try stuffing baker acorn squash with creamed ham?

Or tried topping thick slices of Spanish onion with mounds of corned beef hash and baking in a buttered casserole for thirty minutes?

Or sprinkled grated cheese in the levt-over pie dough, cut in thin sticks and bake? Delicious with salads. You have a treat coming if you haven't.

One Great Aim—

Organized labor in the past has found solutions for its problems through reason and practical common sense; and organized labor is not less competent today. With the same determination and effort and will the different groups of American life must lay aside their differences and selfish viewpoints and unite on the one great aim—the expansion of industry, the raising of our levels of living, and the supreme necessity of all—getting men back to work and keeping them there!—Matthew Woll.

Bakers' Scraps

Another week rolls around and no one is reported on our sick list. Several of our members have reported having colds, including myself, but nothing more serious.

Rubber Workers Get Charter in Memphis

Memphis. — Memphis' newest union, the Rubber Workers' Local Union No. 22456, composed of employes of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company plant, took its place in Memphis union circles this week under the guidance of officials of the American Federation of Labor and the Memphis Trades and Labor Council.

Potentially, the union is the south's largest and most powerful. The new organization will hold its first formal meeting at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the labor temple, at which time officials of the Memphis Trades and Labor Council will be on hand to guide the youthful officials to make certain that every move and action is strictly legal and in full accord with the rules of the American Federation of Labor.

Organized Oct. 6, with D. A. Pitts, secretary-treasurer of the Memphis Trades and Labor Council, in charge, and with Ed Long, national representative of the American Federation of Labor, in direct supervision, the new union elected temporary officers, and was launched upon what old unionists here predict will be a most successful career.

Natural Bent.

"A fine child, madam," remarked the elderly gentleman in the seat across the aisle. "I trust he will grow into an upright and honorable man."

"Yes," smiled the mother, "but it will be rather difficult."

"'As the twig is bent, the tree's inclined,' you know."

"But the trouble is this twig is bent on being a girl."

From the amount of stock stored in the warehouse, we may have some shorter weeks ahead. If this happens, we might look forward to having a box supper at the hall, and inviting our wives—those not having a wife can bring a lady friend.

Hope you wives see this and tell your old man to get busy and talk this up. There is no reason why we can't get together and have a good time now and then. The old saying is, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." We don't want to get dull—let's whoop 'er up!

Saturday night is meeting n Let's have a big turnout. there are just a few at the ing, we can't do much. There some things that need to be after, so I would appreciate we could turn out full stre I'll be looking for you!

oosevelt's Re-election Seems ertain If Workers Will Vote

The election of Franklin D. Roosevelt takes place this ing Tuesday, when workers all over the nation will rn to their voting places to put their stamp of approval he efforts of the past eight years to alleviate the suf- g and injustices done to those who toil for a living. ed impetus was given to the support of Roosevelt last when John L. Lewis, head of CIO, made a speech in favor endell Willkie, utility corpora- magnate. Already thousands dignant telegrams of protest been poured into Lewis' lap CIO unions, who state em- ically that they will not follow ead.

is freely predicted that the convention next November give Mr. Lewis plenty of op- nity to resign as he threat-hat might be termed a ripple lsinterested interest was also ed by the statement of Presi- George L. Berry, of the men's international union, he was opposed to Roosevelt a third term. Mr. Berry is in his thirty-fourth term as dent of his union. Likewise pressmen locals are disown- Mr. Berry's pique against the deal.

cally, there is no doubt that sevelt will sweep through with ng. Although a few Willkie orters are claiming almost union labor votes signed up illkie clubs, an earnest search failed to discover them. It is ed that Roosevelt will receive ast 10,000 votes from union lies in Hamilton county.

Radio Workers Are Most Recent Entry In New Labor Hall

Working Like Beavers, Transforming Orphanage Into Swell Place.

At Central Body Monday evening, President Jean Paul Jones, of Local 662, Radio Workers, stated that his union had voted to contribute one day's pay per member to buy stock in the new labor temple on Vine street. This is the most recent addition to stock purchasers.

Chairman Ed Bork, Jr., and Central Body President Hallmark told the delegates that "it won't be long now." Moving into the old Vine Street orphanage some two weeks ago, some dozen or more building craftsmen have been busily engaged daily, working like mad to complete the place into a home for labor that will surprise the most optimistic.

Ed Bork is whipping the boiler into proper shape, and the painters are beautifying the walls. Electrical fixtures are now in.

Secretary Mabee warns all unions that their trustees should see him immediately to make selection of their meeting halls before all the choices are picked over.

Signal Knit. Mill Must Give Back Pay On Wage-Hour Law

Agnes Rivers, Slugged Victim, Returned to Hospital. Labor Movement Angry Over Repeated Attacks

An aroused labor movement discussed last Monday evening the most recent attack on Agnes Rivers at the Signal Knitting mill, which occurred last Wednesday by a woman and three men. All four of the attackers are under $500 bond, signed by the company president, it is reported, and the trial of the accused sluggers will be held as soon as Mrs. Rivers is physically able to appear in court.

Information has also come that last week the mill was forced to restore some $3,000 in pay to workers under the wage-hour law. The mill has also had to pay large amounts to workers discharged because of union membership.

"How long," it was asked by Central Body delegates, "must this community watch a bunch of mill foremen, apparently under the blessings of the management, manhandle women? If management will not stop it, somebody WILL stop it."

Mrs. Rivers was returned to her home after treatment at Erlanger, but early this week her condition was such that she had to go back. It is said that she is in bad shape, but every care is being given to her by the International Laides' Garment Workers' union.

Central Body sent a floral gift to her to express its sympathy.

2 State Amendments Should Be Strongly Supported By All

Two very important questions will be on the ballots next Tuesday that might be overlooked in the general excitement over the presidential race. Those questions to be voted on will be the two amendments to the state constitution that will provide a $10 per diem for legislators and will extend the governor's term to four years.

Both of these measures have received the indorsement of organized labor in Tennessee. There is a danger of the lack of interest defeating these important amendments because it will be necessary for them to receive a majority of all votes cast for president. Therefore, it might be possible for the amendments to receive more votes for than against, and yet fail to carry. Be sure to vote affrmatively.

Legislators now receive $4 per day for their services, which means that only people of means can serve in the legislature, or some attorney wanting the experience and publicity, or someone going to the legislature at the behest of special interests. The increase in per diem will make it more possible for citizens to hold such a post without too great a financial sacrifice.

The governor's term should be increased to four years. As it is now, a governor is elected for two years. He is forced as soon as he gets into office to start running for re-election, which tends toward harm to the state.

Our state constitution has not been amended for over a hundred years.

Labor's Own Boy, Johnny Mahoney, To Be Elected

Coleman, for Lower House, Also Has Backing of Workers in Hamilton County.

John T. Mahoney, the democratic nominee for the state senate, is scheduled to be elected in Tuesday's elections, along with D. M. Coleman to the lower house.

Johnny, a member of Local 80, Musicians, and a delegate to Central Body, will receive the enthusiastic votes of an overwhelming portion of the working people. Johnny served with great credit in the lower house of the legislature four years ago.

And D. M. Coleman, who has served about nine terms in the lower house, always receiving and meriting the support of organized labor, is scheduled to travel to Nashville with Johnny. Mr. Coleman usually runs like a house afire.

No man ever became great or good except through many and great mistakes.—Gladstone.

WPA Workers' Right to Make Voting Own Business Reaffirmed by Hunter

Washington, D. C.—Every WPA worker's right to vote as he pleases is reaffirmed in a letter to be enclosed with pay checks issued in the near future, Howard O. Hunter, acting commissioner of work projects, announced here.

The letter, which will reach all WPA workers before the Nov. 5 general election and will be posted immediately on all project and administrative bulletin boards, also restates that it is illegal for anyone to ask a WPA employe for a political contribution.

Regulations Restated.

The letter, addressed to "all employes of the work projects administration," says in part:

In order that there can be no misunderstanding of work projects administration rules about voting rights of employes, regulations of this administration on this matter are restated as follows:

1. You are entitled to vote or not vote, as you choose.

2. No one either connected with or not connected with the work projects administration can get you fired or change your wages because you do or do not vote or because you belong to or do not belong to a political party.

"Voting Your Own Business."

3. If you are employed in an administrative or supervisory capacity you may vote as you please and express privately your opinion on political subjects.

4. Every effort will be made to arrange the working schedules so that you will not lose the necessary time taken for voting purposes.

5. Voting is your own business. Keep it that way.

As acting commissioner of work projects, I will not tolerate any violation of the above regulations. The work projects administration is not in politics and does not take part in politics, either directly or indirectly.

Chatta. Implement Company Signs Union Contract With Molders and Foundrymen

H. Frank Ziegler, representing Molders and Foundrymen International union, announced this week that a union contract had been signed by the Chattanooga Implement company last Monday. The contract involves 174 members of Local 58, Molders.

Assisting in the negotiations was Vice-President Murrell Marks, of the international. On Dec. 1 of this year negotiations will be opened in regard to wages and hours.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

A CLEAR, FRANK MESSAGE TO WORKING MEN AND WOMEN

Here is a concise record of Franklin D. Roosevelt's political history in public life:

As governor of New York he sponsored and signed seventeen bills directly benefiting labor.

During his first term as President of the United States, under his leadership his administration was directly responsible for 38 pieces of legislation beneficial to the working man, and during his second term, just ending, he was responsible for 37 bills.

During his administration labor was given the National Labor Relations Act, which gives tangible protection to your already inherent right to organize.

Your savings in banks are safe because of his deposit insurance act that insures your life's savings from being destroyed.

Many of your homes were saved from foreclosure through the Home Owners Loan Corporation, and many of you have been able to build homes through the Federal Housing Authority.

Many of you now enjoy electric lights and all manner of electrical equipment in your homes that were not possible before TVA. Prior to TVA, in this section of the Tennessee Valley, you were unable to enjoy such fine luxuries, now considered necessities, due to high power rates exacted by the Commonwealth and Southern monopoly, which was headed by Wendell Willkie.

The Civilian Conservation Camps have saved many of your youth who were unemployed, discouraged and physically unprepared to be self-reliant. In the CCC these boys have been rebuilt physically and have been placed on the high road to become fine American citizens who will be an asset to themselves, their families and the nation.

Many thousands of old working men and women are now receiving old-age benefits, and many widows and bereaved children are receiving benefits due to Roosevelt's humanitarian leadership.

Unemployed people now receive benefits that were unknown but greatly desired before 1932.

When President Roosevelt was elected in 1932, the big industrialists and bankers were desperate. They called on him to save them, and told him anything he did would be gratefully received in order to snatch them and this nation from chaos.

Many of you remember what was in your pay envelopes, if you had such a novelty, back in 1932, and you know what is in those pay envelopes today.

SURELY YOU DO NOT WANT TO GIVE UP ALL THESE FINE BENEFITS!

From what I can hear there is nothing to worry about the war situation because some of the brothers have organized an army of their own. They have chosen Brother Susman to march in front so that he can stop all of the bullets. Then Brother (Cannon Ball) Parker will be next with his .45 being backed up by (Machine Gun) Dover, and then if they don't get that old (meauy man) Brother Dan Frueler will be right on the spot with a box of Wrigley's gum and a sling-shot to be the clean-up man and the ones that are not dead he will stick them up and take their popguns away from them. Then here comes Brother (Junior) Lawing bringing up the rear saying, "Look what we did—we won the war." Oh well, what is life if you can't have a little fun as you go along. So long, folks, I will see you at the meeting. Don't forget the time, place, and that the nomination of our next year's officers will take place. (Hear-in fail not!)

THE NATION COMES FIRST

The regular quarterly Board meeting of The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway was held in Atlanta, Georgia, Tuesday, October 22nd.

An excerpt from the minutes of that meeting follows:

"Captain Walter Stokes, Jr., offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

'Resolved, that the President of this Company be and he hereby is authorized and directed to put all the facilities and services of The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway at the disposal of the Government in cooperation for national defense.'

"Seconded by Lieutenant Robert Strickland said resolution was unanimously adopted."

Save that it offered its all on the altar of the Confederacy, this is now and always has been the policy of this Company.

Weekly Wage Agreements O.K.

Through Assistant Attorney-General Thurman Arnold, the department of justice has expressed the view that an agreement between a local labor organization and an employer in the building industry to establish weekly wages in place of daily or hourly wage rates does "not conflict with the provisions of the anti-trust laws so long as they tend to promote rather than restrain trade."

Arnold said that the anti-trust laws specifically exempt concerted labor activities which serve the objects of labor by reasonable means and that regularization of employment based upon greater volume of business at lower labor costs was "obviously legitimate."

Many of Thurman Arnold's views on labor matters have met with vigorous opposition from union workers, but they will heartily approve his views on weekly wage agreements. By every indication, it is based on the law of common sense, which is supposed to be the basis of all statute law.

Defense Training

Labor holds that training in work can best be acquired on the job and under work conditions. Management and workers know how to map out training fundamentals. Management's approach is from that of getting production within time limits, in accord with quality and quantity standards, and within estimated costs.

Labor's approach is based on handling materials, using tools, following work orders for the purpose of getting the product specified by standards within time limits.

Supplementary education needed to understand the job and to work and live effectively is the responsibility of vocational education.

In order to keep wages from rising as a result of the increased demand for workers, largely due to the national defense program, some employers think now is a good time for hamstringing organized labor and legislation which protects unions and wage standards.

That a drive on unions is shaping up is indicated here and there. Employers not accustomed to dealing with their workers on a basis of equality think they see a way toward lower standards by using the defense program as an excuse for urging longer hours and lower pay.

Maybe they'll be set back on their heels this November. Maybe when they take note of the defeat of anti-labor candidates, already forecast by a number of primary election results, they'll stop to think.

But they learn slowly and many, even yet, are prone to seize upon any old excuse for fighting labor.

Brown and Birthright Named to Fill Two Vacancies on Executive Council

President Green Also Announces Decision to Oppose Madden for Reappointment.

Washington. — The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor elected Harvey W. Brown, president of the International Association of Machinists, and William C. Birthright, president of the Journeymen Barbers' international union, to fill the two vacancies on the council.

Before adjourning its annual fall session, the council adopted its report for the year 1940 which will be presented to the 60th annual American Federation of Labor convention in New Orleans Nov. 18.

This report will relate the achievements of labor during the past twelve months, analyze domestic and world developments affecting the members of the American Federation of Labor and make recommendations to the convention for action to protect the future interests of organized labor.

The new members of the Executive Council took part in its final sessions and were welcomed by their colleagues. Mr. Brown becomes the 14th vice-president of the A. F. of L. and Mr. Birthright the 15th vice-president. Mr. Brown takes the seat made vacant by the resignation of Arthur O. Wharton, whom he also succeeded as president of the machinists. Mr. Birthright replaces the late John Coefield.

President William Green at a press conference disclosed that he had submitted a report on the national labor relations board to the Executive Council and that it had voted to oppose the reappointment of Chairman J. Warren Madden. Although Mr. Madden's term of office expired last August, President Roosevelt has not filled the vcancy as yet and it is not expected he will do so until after the national elections. It is considered very unlikely that the president will reappoint Mr. Madden, especially since it appears a majority of the members of the senate will vote against confirming him. Mr. Green announced that the Executive Council voted to oppose Madden's confirmation, should he be reappointed.

It was also disclosed at the press conference that Sir Walter Citrine, British trades union leader, has accepted an invitation from Mr. Green to come to this country and address the American Federation of Labor's convention.

Citrine will give the convention a first-hand report on the war situation in Great Britain, especially as it affects labor. He will describe the extent to which organized labor is participating in the government and in defense efforts.

Details as to the time and place of Citrine's arrival have been withheld because of the war censorship and because of the danger involved. It was recalled that the British fraternal delegate to the recent Canadian Trades and Labor Congress convention in Vancouver lost his life when the ship bearing him to this side of the Atlantic was torpedoed by a Nazi submarine in mid-ocean.

Beware, so long as you live, of judging men by their outward appearance.—La Fontaine.

Resolutions

THOS. WRIGHT HOLMAN

Whereas, the Supreme Ruler of the universe has again visited Local 917 and removed from our midst Brother Thomas Wright Holman; and,

Whereas, the members of this local realize that Brother Holman's influence as a loyal unionist will carry on for many years to come; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members shall stand in silent respect for the space of one minute, and that our charter be draped for a period of thirty days; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes, a copy be sent to the official magazine, a copy be sent to The Labor World and a copy sent to Brother Holman's family.

JOHN LONG, Chairman,
W. R. DKEYS,
JOHN L. HAND,
Committee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 10th day of July, 1939, William L. Scott and wife, Edith H. Scott, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to J. E. Harris, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration July 31, 1939, and recorded in Book 786, page 441, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said William L. Scott and wife, Edith H. Scott, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, J. E. Harris, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3rd, 1940,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Number Seven (7), Block Number Three (3), LeClercq's Addition to East Lake, as shown by plat now found of record in Book W, Vol. 8, page 556, of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This October 30, 1940.

J. E. HARRIS, Trustee.

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

PUBLICATION FOR DEFENDANT
No. 4939
Before J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Henderson & Coleman vs. Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson.

Whereas, Henderson & Coleman, on the 14th day of October, 1940, made affidavit before me, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson was justly indebted to them by account in the sum of One Hundred Thirteen Dollars and Twenty-five Cents ($113.25), and that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson conceals herself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, and that said Henderson & Coleman has made bond as required by law in attachment cases; and,

Whereas, I, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, on that day issued an original attachment against the estate of Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson, returnable and set for trial for November 16, 1940, at 10 a.m., at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, no property belonging to the defendant having been found in said county, further executed by garnishment of funds belonging to the defendant in the hands of the Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, and an order for this publication has been duly made.

Now, therefore, said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson is hereby notified to appear at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the 16th day of November, 1940, at 10 a.m., and then and there to defend this attachment suit or the same will be proceeded with ex parte.

This 15th day of October, 1940.

BY HARRY BEDOIT

The question that is in most minds now will be answered by the time we get the next issue of The Labor World—the question of who will be the next president of these United States.

Reading and listening to the radio and other sources of information one is led to believe that this party or that party is the best for the people. Knowing the condition of myself and lots of my friends and neighbors, I have come to the conclusion that I will take the party that is in power now with their known faults against the unknown virtues of the opposing faction. Being poor all my life I naturally leaned toward the democratic party and for the last thirty-four years have voted for it with the exception of the time I voted for Teddy and another time I voted for Hoover.

As I have said I was poor all my life I just thought I was, but after helping to elect Hoover I know what being poor was.

I hope that my friends and neighbors won't be influenced by the propaganda that is being circulated around and the promises of untold prosperity that would be ours if we vasen the Willkie. Well, it will be up to the people so go to the polls next Tuesday and cast your vote.

I attended the meeting of the Central Labor union Monday night and was much pleased with the reports of the different committees, especially the report on the labor temple. I am heartily in favor of owning a labor temple, and as Brother Hallmark said, a decent place where we won't be ashamed to bring our wives and children—a place we can call labor's own temple. Financing a proposition like this is a big task and the way that some have contributed should make the rest of us feel like we are slackers and rightwads. Brother, when you are called on for a contribution don't refuse. If you are a unionist be one. If the labor movement means anything to you or those that are following you, then I say let's help put this over in a big way. Let this be a monument to us—something we can look to with pride and say, I helped to build that. That boy or girl of yours that is growing up some day will have to work, then let us prepare the way for them and establish conditions that they will be proud to say our dad helped to make this possible. Again I say, brothers, let's help.

Making the rounds today of the mill I am glad to say that our sick list has dwindled to one. Brother Maynard, who was at Newell's, was to be taken home Tuesday. We are glad to see Brother Plemons back at work.

At our last meeting it was decided to give a box supper and to have it for the first meeting night in November. Saturday evening the 5th at [illegible]. We want the women folks and children to have a big part in this and any help that they can give will be appreciated. The committee on this affair [illegible] Sheets, Cecil S. Oliver and F. T. Murphy, Jr. We would like to know if any of our members have any musical talents or if any of the children can play any musical instrument. Please let us know at once. The committee will appreciate any suggestions that the ladies care to make for a good time. Let us hear from you, ladies.

Seems like Dick Lacey can't get to work on time and he can't couldn't start. Dick asked the Missus if she ironed the spark plugs—said she did, but she wouldn't run a pair of washing machine just to clean some old spark plugs.

Not knowing any more news for the present, I want to see you all at the polls next Tuesday. Let's put it over for F. D. R.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the [illegible] day of March, 1928, B. S. Smith, Single, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the hereinafter described property to F. L. Lindsay, Trustee, which said deed of trust bears date March 16, 1928, and recorded in Book U, Vol. 22, page 141, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed to secure the payment of a certain promissory note described in said deed of trust, reference to which is hereby made for a more complete description, and a certain sum of money payable by said deed of trust, and the said B. S. Smith has failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing said indebtedness, and has failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and has remained in default for [illegible] days, and the undersigned Trustee was made demand by the holder of said deed of trust for payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust;

Now, therefore, I, the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Lindsay, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, as Trustee as aforesaid,

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3rd, 1940,

[illegible] at the usual place of sale, at the City Hall in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption and homestead, the following described property, situated in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Schools—

The future welfare of our country lies in the hands of young people who are attending our schools and colleges today. We should not do anything that will shorten the school term. On the contrary, we should do everything that lies within our power to see that those we elect to school boards spend the taxpayers' money allotted to schools for that purpose alone.—International Molders' Journal.

Labor Puts F.D.R. Over In Grand Fashion

Concerning Political Ads

Organized labor has always been one of the most sincere group of American citizens, always on the alert to protect the right of free speech and a free press. In this country we boast that our newspapers must at all times be ready and willing to present all sides of a controversy, and we have insisted that a throttling of an opponent in a controversy is undemocratic.

Therefore, we feel that the action of Local 175, Electrical Workers, in publishing a paid advertisement in the Chattanooga Times which demanded an apology from the editor of The Labor World for publishing a paid political advertisement from the Willkie supporters indicated a lack of thoughtfulness on the part of those responsible for the unwalled-for condemnation of an act that has been the policy of this paper all during its twenty-five years of existence.

The Labor World and its editor have all during the campaign spoken for Roosevelt. The editor made a radio address for Roosevelt. The front page and editorial columns have been pro-Roosevelt. However, as always, the advertising columns of The Labor World are non-partisan.

When the time comes that this editor must tell the public that only his beliefs will see print in The Labor World, that is the time to get a new editor. Your present editor believes in free speech and as long as he remains editor there will be free speech in The Labor World.

JOHN MAHONEY WINS

Constitutional Amendments Seem to Have Been Passed

Apparently ignoring John L. Lewis' stab in the back, the CIO joined in with the overwhelming majority of American Federation of Labor affiliates last Tuesday and swept Franklin Roosevelt back into the White House for a third term, the first time anyone has been elected three times as president of the United Staates.

Tennessee and Hamilton county gave the president a very fine majority.

In Tennessee, two amendments to the state constitution, indorsed by organized, appear to be safely passed. One is to increase legislators' pay to $10 per day, and the other to increase the term of the governor to four years instead of two. He cannot run to succeed himself. The present governor, Prentice Cooper, re-elected to his second term Tuesday, will serve two years, and the next governor will serve four.

Labor also stood fast in electing John Mahoney, member of Musicians' union, to the state senate, the first time we have had a direct member of organized labor in the senate since Finney Carter served a term.

D. M. Coleman, J. B. Ragon and French Grubb came under the wire standing up. All in all, from labor's viewpoint, Tuesday's elections were very satisfying.

Hodcarriers First To Move Into New Labor Temple

Bricklayers Put in $1,000 and Typos Vote $500 as Final Push Is Made.

Local 846, the lowest paid of the building crafts, is taking the new labor temple seriously. In addition to putting in as much cash as any toward the project, they now claim the honor of being the first to move into it and set up for business.

They moved in officially last Monday morning. The small house on the rear of the lot contains five rooms, one of which has been brightened up and repaired, and the office therein looks mighty good. In addition there is a "call room" for the whites, and one for colored in the basement of the main building. The charter was proudly installed on the wall, and they say the water is fine.

In addition to the good news, Local 6, Bricklayers, made a substantial loan of $1,000 last Monlay, and on Sunday the Typographical union voted a loan of $500 for the venture.

The labor temple is really here, after more than forty years of hopeful dreaming, and it will be the prettiest in the south. By Nov. 20 Chairman Ed Bork, Jr., says that everything will be complete except the main auditorium. That section will be closed off until a later date for completion.

From the interest shown, and rentals already made, it also appears that every room in the temple will be occupied every night, thus insuring a good income for operation of the property.

International President Street Railway Auxiliary Will Visit Chattanooga Chapter Tuesday

Mrs. Anna Kelsey, international president of the auxiliary to the Street Railway and Bus unions, will visit the local auxiliary next Tuesday. Mrs. Kelsey's home is in Salt Lake City, Utah, and she is spending 8 weeks visiting all local auxiliaries, and helping them with their problems.

The Chattanooga auxiliary will entertain for Mrs. Kelsey on Tuesday night, November 12, with a banquet, so that all the members may have the opportunity to meet their president. It is Mrs. Kelsey's first visit to the local, which was organized some months ago.

Plans are also being made to take Mrs. Kelsey on a sight-seeing trip around Chattanooga on Tuesday, providing she arrives in the city in time.

Mrs. Harwood Wells, president of the local auxiliary, also asks that all members remember the regular meeting on next Monday night, November 11. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Lewis, 1101 Greenwood Ave., in Highland Park. Final plans for entertaining Mrs. Kelsey will be completed at that time.

Cement Workers Convention Opens At Patten Hotel This Morning

The first convention of District Council No. 5, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' International union, will open this morning at 9 o'clock. Our own V. P. Cunningham will be in the chair, because of his position as president of the district council.

Last year the various cement unions in the country, then organized as federal labor unions, met in St. Louis and were awarded a charter from the American Federation of Labor as an international union.

The local union in Chattanooga was designated as Local No. 1, being the first of its kind in the entire country.

The labor movement of Chattanooga hopes that the delegates from the various locals in this district enjoy their visit, and that the council will be harmonious and profitable.

George Masterson, Plumbers Head, On Short Visit Here

George Masterson, president of United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters, made a short visit to Chattanooga last Wednesday when he stopped on his journey to New Orleans to attend the American Federation of Labor convention.

He was met by a committee from Local 43, which showed him the beauties of the city, and that evening he was banqueted at the Patten.

Typo Aux. to Meet

Local 219, auxiliary to Typographical 89, will meet next Tuesday night, Nov. 12, at the Times assembly room. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

This will be an important meeting, and all members are asked to attend.

ADDIE UNDERWOOD,
Secretary.

Printing Crafts Set To Meet Saturday At Nashville

A statewide meeting of delegates from all printing trades crafts in Tennessee will open in Nashville, Tenn., this Saturday and continue through Sunday. A temporary organization of Tennessee printing trades crafts was set up in Memphis last June while the Tennessee Federation of Labor convention was in session, and the session in Nashville Saturday and Sunday will be the first delegated gathering.

From Chattanooga Archie M. Underwood will go from the printers and White Abel will represent the pressmen.

Purpose of the new organization will be to benefit the printing industry in Tennessee.

A. F. L. Signs Up 10,000 Western Union Workers

New York, N. Y.—Frank B. Powers, president of the Commercial Telegraphers union, announced that his organization, with the full support of the American Federation of Labor, is redoubling its drive for the unionization of the 43,000 employes of the Western Union Telegraph company throughout the country.

Mr. Powers disclosed that he is working in conjunction with Francis P. Fenton, national director of organization for the A. F. of L.

Asserting that 10,000 employes of the company had signed up with the A. F. of L., Mr. Powers emphasized that his organization excluded communists from membership. He said it should be "a matter of concern to the people of this country that the American Communications association, which has so often been accused of communism, should be seeking to get control of Western Union after signing a closed-shop agreement with the Postal Telegraph company."

11-Month Strike Wins Closed Shop Contract

Kansas City, Mo.—Ceaseless picketing of the Dye Candy company during an 11-month strike brought complete victory to the employes who are members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International union, A. F. of L. affiliate. Through the union the strikers signed a closed shop contract granting increased wages. The walkout was carried on

NOTICE

Chattanooga Central Labor Union will meet Monday night in regular session, Central Labor Hall, West Seventh Street, at 7:30 p.m. All delegates are requested and expected to be present.

Union people who like to smoke good cigars will be glad to know that King Edward cigar is made under 100 per cent union conditions. The John H. Swisher & Son, Inc., one of the largest manufacturers of fine cigars, located in Jacksonville, Fla., has a closed shop with a check-off in its contract. There are two large locals in the plant, Local 86 for white workers, and Local 119 for colored.

And both locals are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Radicals Are Defeated By Unions in Seattle

Seattle, Wash.—Two radicals with aspirations to bore into the executive board of the Central Labor Council were defeated by a vote of about 5 to 1 at the annual election of the council here.

The council elected all its old officers by overwhelming majorities, and in the case of the principal officers, without opposition.

Claude J. O'Reilly was retained as president of the council, Harry Ames as vice-president, and Chas. W. Doyle as secretary.

Resolutions

JOE TEMPLETON

We, the members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Local Union No. 1882, do hereby Resolve, That Almighty God, the giver of life, has seen fit to take away another member from Local Union No. 1882, when on Oct. 1, 1940, Brother Joe Templeton was accidentally killed at the H. L. Judd company plant.

As we try to find words to convey some comfort to those who are mourning the loss of a dear one, this glorious thought appears. We sincerely believe that while we are mourning the loss of him here on earth, his spirit is in blessed repose in the Paradise of God waiting for the resurrection when his spirit and body will be united and fitted for the eternal presence of God and all the redeemed, and we believe that our loss is his gain. Thank God for a hope in Jesus Christ, Who died for us all, that we might live again, and may God help us all that we may prepare for the day when He shall call for us.

We do hereby resolve, that a copy of this resolution and poem be sent to the family of the deceased, one copy to The Labor World, and one copy to be placed on our file.

W. O. BANKSTON,
A. T. DENHAM,
J. N. BUCKNER,
Committee.

"I cannot say and I will not say
That he is dead; he is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of hand
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very far it need must be.

"Since he lingered there you, O you who yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return,
Think of him faring, and as dear
In love of there as the love of here.
Think of him still as the same; I say he is not dead; he is just away."

JACK BANKSTON

Whereas, we, the officers and members of Local 1882, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, feel that the sorrow in the loss of a loved one cannot be allayed by mere words of condolence, yet we wish to express our sympathy to Brother W. O. Bankston and family in his recent bereavement of the loss of his son and our Brother, Jack Bankston, who accidentally lost his life, in the hope that the knowledge of our regret may lighten his sadness.

There is one thing, however, that should soften the sharpness, it is the assurance that we shall meet again when we, too, shall enter the gate through which he has passed to a place of peace and joy forever.

He is not dead, he has but passed
Beyond the mist that binds us here
Into the new and larger life
Of that serener sphere.

Therefore, be it Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our local and a copy be sent The Labor World for publication and a copy be sent the bereaved family.

A. H. MILLER,
ANDIE CARTWRIGHT,
Committee.

Anti-Union Laws Ruled Invalid By State Supreme Courts In Oregon And Also California

Salem, Ore.—Oregon's drastic anti-pocketing law, scathingly denounced by organized labor as an attempt to destroy the effectiveness of unionism, was declared unconstitutional here in a 5-to-1 decision by the state supreme court.

The decision reversed a three-judge circuit court in Portland, which held the law valid.

All labor joined in fighting the law, the legal battle being conducted by the American Federation of Labor, Congress of Industrial Organizations and railroad brotherhoods.

The high court declared it must follow a United States supreme court decision last spring, which held Alabama and California picketing statutes were invalid because they violated the rights of free speech and free press.

Labor Hails Decision.

The Oregon court said: "The supreme court, in the cited cases (i. e., California and Alabama), announced a broad construction of the guarantees of freedom of speech and the press, and applying this conception to laws aimed at picketing has held that publicizing the facts of a labor dispute in a peaceful way through appropriate means, whether by pamphlet, by word of mouth, or by banner, is within the liberty of communication which is assured to every person by the 14th amendment against abridgement by a state."

D. E. Nickerson, executive secretary of the Oregon State Federation of Labor, said he understood that proponents of the measure cannot appeal to the United States supreme court since no federal rights were involved.

"We really ought to declare a holiday," he added.

Paul E. Gurske, federation president, commented: "It is a great victory and comes after an unrelenting fight of nearly two years."

Two Big Legal Victories.

Under the law, passed in 1938 by referendum vote, picketing was confined to a bona fide labor dispute between an employer and more than half of his employes. The act forbade jurisdictional strikes and outlawed and curtailed political and fund-raising activities of union labor.

It provided that violators might be sentenced to county jails and fined up to $1,000.

Organized labor fought the law from the beginning, seeing in it an attempt to destroy unionism as an effective force for the betterment of wage earners' conditions.

The decision on the Oregon law is one of two big legal victories for labor, which are causing rejoicing in labor ranks in all the Pacific coast states. It followed a ruling by the California supreme court, holding that courts have no right to enjoin picketing, provided it is peaceful and honest.

California Ruling Sweeping.

The California court also held that labor's right to unionize a plant is paramount to an individual's right to refuse to join a union and flatly ruled that union shop contracts are legal in California.

Major points of the decision follow:

1. "It is not the duty of the court, in the absence of violence, to enjoin peaceful picketing."

2. "Unions may picket a business even though there is no dispute between the employer and his employes."

3. "The right of an individual to carry on his business is by no means an absolute one," and "An employer has no constitutional right to conduct his business as a closed, non-union shop."

Secondary Boycott Legal.

4. Closed shop contracts are legal.

5. "The secondary boycott is lawful, and the fact that a union intends to institute a boycott does not make the picketing illegal."

6. "Picketing without a strike is no more unlawful than a strike without picketing."

7. "The public ultimately pays the full cost of every labor dispute and better relations must be established."

8. "Workmen have the right to engage in 'concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid for protection.'"

9. The state labor code was upheld, in effect.

The decision was given in what is known as the Howard case, in which an automobile company sought to enjoin an A. F. of L. auto salesmen's union from picketing the sales office in an effort to win a union shop contract.

ELECTRICIANS CHARTER LOCAL IN SHREVEPORT

Shreveport, La.—A new local union with 60 charter members has been installed here by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, A. F. of L. affiliate. E. N. Williams, A. F. of L. representative in Louisiana and president of the state federation of labor, assisted in the organization campaign which brought the local into being.

"Obelisk" Flour Is 100% Union

Louisville, Ky.—A closed shop agreement, embodying an increase in wages of 5 cents an hour for all employes has been signed here between the Ballard & Ballard flour and feed mills and the American Federation of Labor. The increase amounts to approximately $35,000 a year for the employes. Edward H. Weyler, A. F. of L. representative for the state of Kentucky and secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky State Federation of Labor, conducted the campaign that resulted in bringing this big mill into the family of labor. The Louisville Central Labor union and the whole state federation of labor ably assisted Mr. Weyler in the organization and negotiations.

"We are giving this agreement as widespread publicity as possible," Mr. Weyler said, "in order that labor everywhere will be informed of the fact that 'Obelisk' flour is union-made flour, and we are urging generous patronage of this firm's products as a mark of our appreciation for the splendid manner in which the Ballard & Ballard company met the workers and entered into this agreement with us."

Baking Concern Signs Closed Shop Pact

Tampa, Fla.—The Henderson Baking company, one of the largest bakeries in the state, has just signed a closed shop agreement with the local union of Bakery Workers' international. Under terms of the agreement all workers obtained a flat 10 per cent increase in pay, while in the adjustment of hours some of the workers had their work-week reduced by as much as 25 hours a week. The Tampa Central Labor union led the fight in procuring the agreement, while Curtis Sims, international representative, assisted in conducting the negotiations for the local union.

WAGE-HOUR HEAD'S RIGHT TO SEE PAY ROLLS UPHELD

Washington, D. C.—The supreme court ruled that Montgomery, Ward & Co., Chicago mail order house, must permit the wage and hour division to inspect its pay roll records in connection with the administration of the fair labor standards act of 1938.

The court refused to review a decision by the federal circuit court of Chicago which ruled that pay rolls may be requisitioned as one of the functions of the wage and hour division in its routine enforcement activities.

Montgomery, Ward & Co. had challenged the wage-hour administrator's authority to examine the payrolls of 2,000 employes at the firm's branch store in Kansas City, Mo. The company contended the administrator was attempting unreasonable "search and seizure" prohibited by the Fourth amendment to the federal constitution and that the wage-hour division's subpoena violated the firm's right under the Fifth or "due process of law" amendment. The supreme court's action denied the validity of these contentions.

Shortly after the court's ruling, Philip B. Fleming, wage and hour administrator, issued a statement asserting: "There can be no excuse for any employers refusing access to pay roll records to wage and hour division inspectors in view of the court's refusal . . . to review the Montgomery, Ward decision."

AFL Laborers Union Wins Elections by 4-to-1 Vote

Birmingham, Ala.—Local Union No. 191, Hodcarriers, Common and Construction Laborers, rolled up a 4-to-1 vote in favor of the union at an election held here for collective bargaining representative among employes of the concrete plant of the Sloss, Sheffield Steel and Iron company. The workers were assisted in conducting the campaign and election by Hugh W. Brown, of the Birmingham office of the American Federation of Labor.

TEACHER TALK

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women
A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!
It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.
Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.
Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this also helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Important Labor Victories

Labor has good reason to rejoice over recent decisions by the Oregon and California Supreme Courts, upholding union rights, including the right of peaceful picketing.

An important feature of the California decision was upholding of union shop contracts as legal, and the court's declaration that, "An employer has no constitutional right to conduct his business as a closed, non-union shop."

Both decisions are of national significance and interest, probably heralding similar decisions elsewhere, as they were based fundamentally on recent United States Supreme Court rulings upholding peaceful picketing. The Oregon decision was especially important, as the anti-union law it killed was advocated nationally by union-hating interests and led to attempts to pass similar laws in other states. The few that were passed were not as drastic as the Oregon monstrosity.

It is worthy of note that the Oregon victory was won by united action of all labor, the A. F. of L., CIO and unaffiliated railroad unions joining in the two-year fight to have the law held constitutional.

Both Benefit

There has always been much written and spoken about the benefits to foreign-born persons in becoming United States citizens. Not so much has been said about the benefits America has derived from its foreign-born citizens, who have been contributing greatly to the nation's progress since its very beginning.

The New York Times recently emphasized this in commenting on the admission to citizenship of Prof. Albert Einstein, the celebrated physicist.

"We hope," said the Times, "that American citizens, native-born or otherwise, realize that our country is a beneficiary as well as a benefactor when it welcomes newcomers of intelligence and integrity who are able and eager to contribute their share to our national life."

Prof. Einstein, the Times further comments, "came, like many others, bringing gifts. We are the richer in having him for a fellow-citizen."

Truths pointed out by the Times call for wide circulation, in these times when public feeling may sometimes lead to blanket suspicion and distrust of the foreign-born.

Labor Law Inspectors

"A good inspector is as necessary as a good law," and trade unionists know this is particularly true of labor laws. Today more than ever it is realized that the effectiveness of our general labor laws—those limiting hours of work, setting minimum wages, regulating child labor, providing for collection of unpaid back wages—depends on enforcement by competent, trained, sympathetic inspectors.

"Qualifications for General Labor Law Inspectors," just published as Bulletin No. 38 by the Division of Labor Standards, U. S. Department of Labor, outlines the recommendations of an advisory committee to Secretary of Labor Perkins. The recommendations are based on the first-hand experiences of the committee, composed of state labor law administrators and representatives of organized labor, including Boris Shishkin, American Federation of Labor economist.

Work in the trade union movement is recognized as qualifying experience for labor law inspectors.

Qualified inspectors should be kept in the public service; they should not be subject to sudden dismissal without cause. "Definite provision for promotion, based upon quality of performance and length of service, and for tenure of office through the protection of civil-service system or its merit rating equivalent," is urged.

No More Manhunts

Announcement that there will be no mass raids on suspected draft dodgers in New York City is a triumph for common sense and the principle of the preservation of constitutional rights.

Col. Arthur V. McDermott, New York City director of selective service, says there will be no repetition of the disgraceful scenes of World War days when men suspected of draft dodging were herded into armories until they could identify themselves. The procedure was productive of gross violation of civil rights and other abuses. It went on to some extent in other cities but New York was a conspicuous example.

There was no excuse for the "manhunts" then and there is none now. Freedom and democracy rest on the patriotism of the nation's sets its fact firmly against such practices.

RAGON APPRECIATES

I wish to express to the people of Hamilton county my sincere thanks for the very fine vote that I received in my successful race for re-election to the state legislature and I hope that the wounds of this campaign will soon heal and that every one will pull together for the best interests of the county, state and nation.

I realize that the tremendous vote I received was not due to my own popularity but to the splendid efforts of my friends in the various precincts and to them I offer my heartfelt gratitude.

Hotel Workers Seeking 10 Per Cent Pay Hike In New York City

New York City.—The Hotel Trades Council, A. F. of L., is seeking a blanket increase of 10 per cent in the wages of 20,000 New York City hotel workers.

Union leaders have informed the Hotel Association of New York City thatthey would insist on a minimum pay raise of $2 a week for all employes in the eighty hotels covered by union contracts. Other demands will include a 40-hour week for mechanics and maintenance workers and 44 hours for all others, an increase in paid vacations from one week to two for employes who have worked two years or more in the same establishment and an agreement by the hotels to pay workers drafted for military service the difference between army pay and their normal earnings.

Whoever is a wolf will act like a wolf; that is the most certain of all things.—Fontaine.

Green Opposes Feeding of Europe; Tells Hoover Step Might Help Dictators to Continue War

New York City.—In a telegram to Herbert Hoover, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, opposed the lifting of the British blockade to permit sending food to the conquered peoples of Europe, on the ground that it would aid the dictatorial powers.

The telegram was made public by Francis P. Miller and Ulric Bell, who recently distributed a statement, signed by Green and 14 other prominent persons, declaring opposition to any attempt to feed the European nations unless Great Britain freely gave her consent. Green's message was sent to Hoover in response to a message in which the former president asked support for a movement to negotiate a feeding plan with Germany and Great Britain.

Plan Carefully Studied.

"All the facts and information submitted in your telegram have been given careful thought and serious consideration," Green telegraphed Hoover.

"It would seem contradictory for us in America to create a situation which might mean that the dictators who have waged the cruel war and who are responsible for the suffering which exists in continental Europe could secure more food which will enable them to carry on their ruthless, barbaric and uncivilized war.

Onus on Dictators.

"The responsibility for hunger and suffering in continental Europe rests with Dictators Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and their associates. I am deeply touched by the distress which prevails among those living in countries which were invaded by Hitler and his associate dictators. If a plan could be devised which would provide that they could be fed, clothed and cared for without inflicting a blow upon Great Britain I would support it.

"I am opposed to the extension of aid to Hitler and Mussolini and to the creation of a situation which might enable them to secure food and supplies for their armies."

21 More Locals Formed By AFL Textile Workers

Washington.—Officials of the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced that twenty-one local unions had been chartered since May, 1940, in Massachusetts, South Carolina, Maine, North Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia, Mississippi, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio. During the same period the union won thirteen out of fifteen NLRB elections held to choose collective bargaining representatives.

Textile Workers Win U. S. Rubber Co. Poll

Winnsboro, S. C.—Encouraged by the great victory in winning the election here in the United States Rubber company's big tire cord plant by the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. of L. affiliate, textile workers throughout the south are more active in organization work than ever before. The vote was 855 for the local union and 287 against.

Gordon L. Chastain, John W. Pollard, L. James Johnson and other U. T. W. of A. officials and organizers worked with the local membership and aided them in chalking up this victory. An agreement is now being negotiated.

St. Louis Electrical Company Held "Unfair"

St. Louis, Mo.—The St. Louis Electrical Workers Local 1 are prosecuting vigorously their eighteen-months strike against the Edwin F. Guth Electrical company of St. Louis who sell electrical fixtures both locally and on a national scale. In addition to picketing the plant the union has placed the firm on its "unfair" list. The union's demand for recognition and a living wage has the support of the St. Louis Building and Construction Trades.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

Before J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Henderson & Coleman vs. Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson.

Whereas, Henderson & Coleman, on the 14th day of October, 1940, made affidavit before me, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson was justly indebted to them by account in the sum of One Hundred Thirteen Dollars and Twenty-five Cents ($113.25), and that the said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson conceals herself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, and that said Henderson & Coleman has made bond as required by law in attachment cases; and,

Whereas, I, J. W. Johnston, Justice of the Peace, on that day issued an original attachment against the estate of Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson, returnable and set for trial for November 16, 1940, at 10 a.m., at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, no property belonging to the defendant having been found in said county, further executed by garnishment of funds belonging to the defendant in the hands of the Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, and an order for this publication has been duly made.

Now, therefore, said Mrs. Clara Neidhart Williamson is hereby notified to appear at my office at 624 Cherry street, Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the 16th day of November, 1940, at 10 a.m., and then and there to defend this attachment suit or the same will be proceeded with ex parte.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Substitute Trustee, as contained in Substitution of Trustee instrument filed of record in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on November 7, 1940, and as contained in deed of trust from Ada E. Mansfield to J. Mitt Payne, Trustee, recorded in Book "H", Volume 27, page 122 of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, notice is hereby given that the property described below will be sold by me at the West door of the Court House in Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, subject to all unpaid taxes, on the 12th day of December, 1940, at 11:00 o'clock A.M., to satisfy the balance due on promissory note from Ada E. Mansfield to the Home Owners Loan Corporation, Mrs. Joe A. Elliott, present owner; said note being dated January 15, 1934, and secured by a deed of trust to J. Mitt Payne above mentioned.

Said property is described as follows:

Being a part of Lot Number Six (6) of the T. J. Lattner Farm, as shown by plat registered in Book K, Vol. 2, page 10 of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and further described as beginning at the southwest corner of the property conveyed by L. L. Smitherman and H. L. Morelock to Thomas Woods by deed dated 30th June, 1888, and registered same date in Book L, Vol. 2, pages 596 and 597 of said Register's Office: thence south sixty-eight and one-half (68½) degrees east along the south line of the Woods lot ninety-eight (98) feet, more or less, to the southeast corner of said Woods lot and in the west line of the property conveyed by David Edwards and wife, Elizabeth Edwards, to W. H. Wilson and M. J. Wilson by deed dated 8th March, 1887, and registered 12th June, 1891, in Book M, Vol. 4, page 576 of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; thence south twenty-two and one-half degrees (22½°) west along the Wilson line one-hundred (100) feet to the northeast corner of the property conveyed by J. H. Bragg and wife, S. J. Bragg, to F. M. Wells by deed dated 5th March, 1890, and registered 6th February, 1891, in Book J, Vol. 4, page 187 of said Register's Office thence north sixty-eight and one-half (68½) degrees west along the north line of the Wells lot ninety-eight (98) feet to the east line of Roanoke Street; thence north twenty-two and one-half (22½) degrees east along the east line of Roanoke Street one-hundred (100) feet to the beginning; and being the same property heretofore conveyed by Lewis S. Walters and wife, Ada G. Walters to Willis C. Mansfield and wife, Ada E. Mansfield, by deed dated 1st July, 1927, and registered 28th December, 1927, in Book O, Vol. 22, page 139 of said Register's Office, and decreed to the said Ada E. Mansfield in the case of Ada E. Mansfield vs. Willis C. Mansfield, No. 43988 of the Circuit Court of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 10th day of July, 1939, William L. Scott and wife, Edith H. Scott, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to J. E. Harris, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration July 31, 1939, and recorded in Book 786, page 441, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said William L. Scott and wife, Edith H. Scott, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, J. E. Harris, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3rd, 1940,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot Number Seven (7), Block Number Three (3), LeClercq's Addition to East Lake, as shown by plat now found of record in Book W, Vol. 8, page 556, of the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

Bakers' Scraps

Now that the election is over and our man is back in office we are very proud. We have had him in for seven and one-half years, and in that time the laboring class of people have greatly succeeded. We feel confident that in the next four years we will go further than ever before. Let's hope that our members who were for the other candidate will be as good losers as we are the winners. Who said we didn't want a third termer?

Let's not forget that the U.S.A. Dry Cleaners are 100% union now and deserve our full support. The next time you have some cleaning to be done be sure you take it to a Union cleaner.

G. W. Bagwell Preserves and Jellies are non-union. Why not try some union-made preserves and jellies that are really delicious, and I do mean delicious. They are Lookout Brand and carry our own baker's label. Give them a try and I think that will be enough to convince you they are better.

Non-union cakes and pies that are sold in the city include: Dortch, Ambrosure, Jack Beckner's, Federal, Ward's, Wade's, Gordon's, Frank's, Holsum, Virginia Dare, Effie's, Travis, Royal, Malbra, Lance and Chattanooga Bakery products.

Orient flour and Crystal Pearl Meal are Unfair to Organized Labor.

No one reported sick this week. The Erskine Bakery girls and the Cameron-Barr boys got together for an evening of fun last Saturday night, entertaining friends with a weiner roast. Everyone reported having a swell time.

Housing Project Includes One-Family Houses, Yards

New York, N. Y.—The New York City Housing Authority announced that several hundred families of low incomes who are now living under substandard housing conditions will be accommodated in the new housing project now being constructed in the Clason Point section of the Bronx. Single family houses, two-story apartment buildings, front and back yards and other innovations not found in any other public housing project in New York City will feature the development, which will cost $2,248,480.

"The latest principles of community planning for small houses will be embodied in the variety of arrangement of the 334 row houses and the sixty-two two-story apartment buildings," the announcement said.

"The simply designed buildings will all be two stories high, cottage-type, with pitched roofs and small covered porches. All the buildings will be heated from three central heating plants. To avoid the monotonous effects of endless rows of houses, the project is planned with interesting courts of different shapes and sizes, attractively landscaped, around which will be grouped tenant gardens and lawns."

Job Gains Kill Unemployment Bogey

As Calamity Howlers Howl, Defense Steadily Slashes Army of Idle

Work for Millions Already Made, With Industry Fast Expanding

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington, D. C.—A mountainous answer can be and should be made to the clamoring that all is woe in the field of jobs and prosperity.

There has been much loose handling of statistics about unemployment and much wailing in the wilderness about relief jobs instead of jobs in private employment.

The welkin rings with "things that ain't so."

We have had for many months periodical figures, from labor department and AFofL among others, on volume of unemployment. One trouble, always, with these figures is that they do not go back into the years to show us what has been the volume of unemployment in times of prosperity. So we probably get a bluer picture than we should have.

Defense to Increase Permanent Jobs.

In those figures there are bound to be many unemployables and many who never work regularly. But they have been the best index we have had.

Now, however, employment is booming along. Defense is largely responsible, it is true—but defense work is going to continue. It's set for five years, but the enlarged military and naval establishment means MORE JOBS PERMANENTLY.

And, if and when the war ends, there will be a tremendous job of rebuilding. And no nation, except the United States, equipped to do it.

Big Gains Already in Employment.

Raymond Clapper, one of the fairest and least partisan of the columnists, has taken one good swing at the calamity howling. He lists some of the big jumps in employment. He shows that, during the howling for more jobs, THERE ARE MORE JOBS, already made, with millions more to follow as a direct result.

The defense program is bringing every kind of factory and mill back into forced-speed production.

Every industry is being steamed up by the demands created by the defense program.

Worriers Conjure Up Demobilization Bogey.

Nor is there much more sense to the fear expressed by a Pacific coast stumper profundo as to the effect of demobilization of the conscription army a year hence—an army of men going home to hunt jobs. It is all made to seem like a great menace to industry and jobs. That looks as if defense would cause industrial dislocation. John T. Flynn, Scripps Howard "economist," is another worrier about the "Economic Effects" of conscription. He is a generous carper in general.

Well, even if it does cause some dislocation, here and there, are we to scrap defense? But, first of all, probably the demobilization at the end of each yearly period will be of no more than a half million men. When that batch goes home another batch of the same size is called up. That does something that comes near to evening the score. Added to that is the fact that defense industries must keep on enlarging, calling for more men—and especially more of the highly skilled type.

Business Activity Rising Fast.

Those who talk as if depression reigned should read the Wall Street Journal, which gets facts, not fiction, for business. E[very] day that journal shows rising [em]ployment, expanding plants, [a] growing whirl of wheels, w[ith] nation plunging headlong int[o] speed in everything.

Examples: The Great Lake[s] fleet is operating at 100% c[a]ity; Steel is booming with [in]creased diversified orders; [the] demand for new autos sho[ws] better than seasonal demand; [for] cars; almost every divisio[n] General Motors reports abov[e] soned demand; federal re[-] board September production [in] was 125, three points higher [than] August; growing volume of [busi]ness went on through October; [the] best forecasters see continued [ac]tivity in November; construction is [at] year peak.

Skilled Men Continue in B[ig] Demand.

Demands for skilled men i[n] industries continue. Many p[lants] are just being tooled to get [into] production. Some governmen[t] ders are being held back to [pre]vent a runaway boom and to [keep] prices in line. The whole ou[t]look to any but the prejudiced, [the] blind and the halter-led, is [one] danger from a runaway boom [and] from the strangling hand of u[n]ployment. Unemployment [is a] mass problem for the next [few] years is out the window and [all] ous persons ought to stop p[ay]ing the dead bogey around [the] yard.

BIG ENKA RAYON PLANT'S COMPANY UNION DISSOLVED

Asheville, N. C.—The death knell was sounded here last week upon the "company union" that has been maintained in the big Enka Rayon plant for the past eleven years. The local A. F. of L. union preferred charges against the American-Enka corporation several months ago, among them being the charge of maintaining a company union. The labor board held a hearing, and last week announced its finding of facts, and among these was the fact that the "factory committee" name of the company union was a company union indeed, and the board ordered it dissolved and done away with.

The local union has petitioned the labor board for an election and leaders expect such an election to be ordered at an early date. There is no doubt, leaders say, as to the outcome of the election, and all labor in Asheville is hopeful of soon having the employes in the big Enka plant working under union agreement with the local union.

MEAT WORKERS WIN PAY INCREASE IN ARMOUR PLANT

Spokane, Wash.—The strik[e] the Amalgamated Meat Cu[t]ters and Butcher Workmen, A. F. [of] L., in the Spokane plant of Ar[-] mour & Co. has ended with [the] signing of a union shop agreem[ent] calling for a 3½ cents per [hour] wage increase.

Signing of the agreement [ends] a long fight of the Butcher W[ork]ers which had led to a union b[oy]cott of Armour products thro[ugh]out the northwest.

Better say to a man, "My [an]gel," than hurl "Fool" at his [head] —though men are more like [fools] than they are like angels.—Mi[ch]hov.

ocal 79, Brewery Workers, celeed the honor of holding the t official meeting to be held in new Labor Temple by putting an additional $500 alongside original $1,000 they had alady contributed. The splendid ure was made on the occasion the local's regular meeting date, rsday evening, Nov. 7.

Commissioner R. M. Cooke, him- a member of organized labor nearly forty years, made an fficial inspection of the almostpleted job and said the temple n finished will be the "finest in south."

uring its meeting night the wery Workers' union presented d Bork, chairman of the labor ple board, its check for $500 the third installment of its $1,- contribution to the fund for purchase and remodeling of temple.

he building was bought by contions of the various affiliated ns, varying from $1,000 to $1,- The down payment, Hallmark , was $5,000 and future payts are to be $1,000 a year. The ple board, elected by the varii unions to supervise the purse, remodeling and upkeep of temple, consists of Ed Bork, irman; V. W. Hallmark, vicerman; W. A. Witt, treasurer, Erskine Mabee, secretary, and Lee, C. R. Cunningham and R. Olgiati, trustees.

fter completion of the remodeland painting of the building temple will have an auditorium ing capacity of 500 persons in l chairs, upholstered in leather, rivate lounge for women and for men, a concession stand, a hen for cooking for banquets, ened back porch for use in the mmer, a new lighting system, tilator fans and a new heating nt. Approximately $8,000 will spent in improvements, Mr. lmark said.

the past the Central Labor n has paid rent on half a n halls, including the present at 114½ West Seventh street. rs have been Roosevelt hall r Liggett's store, the Poss build- on Market street between th and Ninth, Cherry street, ween Seventh and Eighth and Ferger building.

We are certainly proud of our temple," Mr. Hallmark said. is the culmination of a dream many years for organized labor Chattanooga."

Central Body Says Labor World Policy Not to Be Changed

Paid Political Advertising in Our Paper Is According to Rules Given to Editor.

At its meeting last Monday evening Central Body, owners and operators of The Labor World, upheld the action of the editor for accepting paid political advertisements, even though from candidates who are not generally supported by members of labor.

That such has been the policy of its paper for twenty-five years was reiterated by Central Body, and the editor was told to continue that policy until such time that Central Body should decide to issue new rules to the editor.

Local 846, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, had this statement to make this week concerning the protest made by Local 175, I. B. E. W.:

"Since there has been such an undue amount of criticism bestowed on Mr. T. R. Cuthbert, editor of The Labor World, in his acceptance of a paid political advertisement indorsing Mr. Wendell Willkie for president, we of Local B-846, I. B. E. W., find it necessary to publicly indorse Mr. Cuthbert's action.

"Organized labor has always been staunch supporters of freedom of the press, and therefore we of this local are inclined to believe that criticism of The Labor World in its policy was due to hasty action and ill feelings toward the republican candidate and not an effort to change the policy of The Labor World, a very democratic paper.

"In a true democratic form of government both major political parties must be free to express their policies and present their candidates, then in turn it is the privilege and obligation of every man to express himself freely with the ballot.

"It is in consideration of the above democratic principles that we do uphold The Labor World and sincerely hope that all labor, organized and unorganized, may in the future uphold these principles.

"Every citizen should remember that in these United States we enjoy more liberties than is known in any other country, and must fight to maintain them in a world beset with dictators who have outlawed every democratic form of freedom we enjoy in this country as free Americans.

"LOCAL B-846, I. B. E. W.
"W. A. HARRISON,
"Press Secretary."

SIGNAL KNITTING EMPLOYES SENT TO GRAND JURY

Mrs. Agnes Rivers Testifies She Was Blackjacked and Rendered Unconscious.

Three male and one female employe of the Signal Knitting mills, in North Chattanooga, were bound over to the grand jury last Wednesday morning in Squire J. W. Johnston's court. They were charged with assaulting and beating Mrs. Agnes Rivers, staunch member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

Mrs. Rivers was mistreated on October 23 inside the mill to such an extent that she spent some eight days in the hospital to recover from the effects. It was brought out in the trial that the fight was started by the female employe against Mrs. Rivers, during which three men joined in and tearing Mrs. Rivers' clothes, besides slapping and striking her. It was also testified that one of the men hit her with a blackjack with such force that she lost consicousness and fell down a flight of stairs.

The accused were put under $500 bond each.

Attorney H. G. B. King prosecuted for the state.

Famous Pianist Here Tuesday

Josef Hofmann, world-famous pianist, will be presented by the Chattanooga Community Concert association on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at the Memorial Auditorium. This concert will be the first presentation of the 1940-1941 season and is eagerly anticipated by music lovers. The concert will begin promptly at 8:15 a.m., and members who are late in arriving cannot be seated in the auditorium until the first number is over.

Cement Workers Hear Fine Reports At Convention Here

Forty-eight delegates and officials of District 5, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' International union, attended its first annual convention in Chattanooga last Friday and Saturday. The meetings were presided over by V. O. Cunningham, president of the district.

Seventeen of the eighteen local unions in the district were represented, reporting a doubling of its membership in the past year. Plans were made to organize all of the potential 3,000 employes in this industry into the union in this district.

One of the most interesting talks was made by the personal representative of Dr. John R. Steelman, head of the conciliation department, in the person of Newcomb Barco. It was Mr. Barco who participated in the first agreement secured with the Signal Mountain Cement company and Local 1 of Chattanooga.

The delegates were also addressed by Commissioner Bob Cooke, Central Body President Hallmark, Tennessee Federation Secretary Cuthbert, and the first meeting was opened by invocation by Rev. Frank Zeigler, member of the local molders' union.

V. O. Cunningham, of Chattanooga, was re-eltcted president of he council.

Injustice Is Done To Labor by Story In Daily Papers

Reported Strike at Tullahoma False—Two-Day Shutdown Not Labor's Fault.

Excited stories carried over Associated Press wires last Sunday said that union labor had struck at the Camp Peay job in Tullahoma, which is now using about 7,000 workers to prepare a camp for national defense. The story was issued after Major Bretweiser, in charge for the government, closed the job down Saturday and Monday in order to receive definite instructions that had been issued but which he had not received.

Naturally the story that union labor was striking an important national defense was harmful to labor, and the story has been branded as false. A statement issued by the Tennessee Foderation of Labor this week said:

"Versions have been given in the daily press Sunday and Monday concerning the Camp Peay job at Tullahoma, Tenn., which have been unjust to the labor movement. We do not charge malicious intent, but rather believe that wrong information was given by parties who did not know what they were talking about.

"There has been no strike on the national defense job in Tullahoma, nor has one been threatened. There will not be any strike on that job. Adequate machinery has been set up by the national defense commission that will handle any dispute that might arise on national defense jobs without one moment's stoppage of work.

"President Gerald Foley, of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, whose office is in Nashville, has this day issued a statement concerning the matter. He says that there is complete harmony between the labor unions and Major Breitweiser, who is in charge of the job.

"It appears that Major Breitweiser has specific instructions from his superiors concerning the running of the Camp Peay job. He was not certain concerning interpretation of some portions of his instructions, and therefore shut down the job over Monday until he received more definite information from his superiors.

"Labor is not stopping or hindering national defense programs. It has not happened in the Camp Peay instance, and it will not happen in the future."

HALLMARK IS PUT ON APPEAL BOARD BY GOV.

Post of President of Central Body May Be Shifted Because of Duties.

V. W. Hallmark, president of Central Body since last April, has been named as one of the members of the appeals board in connection with the selective service program. This board will have jurisdiction over nineteen counties, with a registration of about 70,000. Central Body approved of the appointment and wrote a letter to Gov. Cooper and President Roosevelt expressing its thanks.

However, because of the amount of time that will be required in this patriotic duty placed on Hallmark, he told Central Body Monday night that he would have to give up the presidency of that body, which he has held since last April. He stated that he hated to get out of the harness, but he could not refuse to serve the call to serve his country.

Delegates to Central Body did not want to accept a resignation, but informed President Hallmark that if he insisted on resigning that he should take the matter up with the executive board of Central Body, and a report be made at the next session of the body.

Special Notice To Auxiliaries

Members of all auxiliaries are invited to attend a benefit lemon social at the home of Mrs. R. M. Cooke, 2606 East Main street, on Friday night, Nov. 22, at 8 o'clock. Proceeds from the party will go to help pay for the furnishing of the ladies' club rooms in the new labor temple, and is being sponsored by the committee appointed by the auxiliaries for that purpose.

Plan to meet with the rest of the women's groups and enjoy a pleasant evening with them. Further details will be given by the telephone committees when they call the members.

What did She Mean?

He—When we reach the third lamppost from here I'm going to kiss you.

She—Oh, William, isn't that going too far?

Street Railway Auxiliary Honors Its National President

Street Railway and Bus Drivers' Auxiliary 212 entertained with a banquet last Tuesday night, in honor of the international president, Mrs. Anna P. Kelsey, of Salt Lake City, Utah.

The auxiliary colors of green, white and gold were carried out in the decorations.

The following members were present: Mesdames B. L. Hart, George Fine, J. E. Malloy, Frank Lewis, Thelma Ponder, Myrtle Hall, William Nelson, O. C. Torbett, Bessie Morris, Eva Young, Lois Thorne, Charles Wallace, R. A. Evans, Harwood Wells, Elizabeth Shutters, Elsie Steinman, John Cloud, Frank Dreamer, Fred Gillam, Marie Thomas, Mildred Self, Eva Hundly and E. D. Dodd.

The regular meeting had been held on the previous night at the home of Mrs. Frank Lewis, and two new members were obligated.

School Bus Men To Meet Friday At Soddy School

The local school bus drivers will have a special meeting in Soddy this Friday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m. They will assemble at the schoolhouse at Soddy. All drivers, whether members of the union or not, are urged to attend and learn of something of great benefit to them.

This is the first union of school drivers in the international union of street car and bus men.

Other members of organized labor will be welcome to visit the meeting.

Paper Makers Local 362

BY HARRY BEDOIT

At the last meeting of Local 362 a committee was appointed to see the new labor temple. Brothers Lex. Couch D. LaMay. J T. LaMay, Charlie Reed and myself braved the elements Sunday and gave it the once over. Want to say we were mighty pleased with what we saw and want to congratulate those that are working so hard to make it possible for the Chattanooga labor units to have a real place to call home. I never did see such an enthusiastic group of men and I know that this undertaking will go through with flying colors.

Roy Wells, Allen Stewart and myself attended the meeting of the C. L. U. Monday night. We were pretty much shocked when Brother Hallmark said that due to so many duties he would have to resign the chairmanship of C. L. U. We hate to give Mr. Hallmark up. He was appointed by Gov. Cooper to serve on the draft board. Good luck to you, Brother Hallmark. We will always remember you as a good loyal unionist and conscientious worker.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. J. J. Brown's father, J. R. Wyatt, who died Saturday morning.

Brothers Maynard and Plemons are the only ones we have on the sick list. We hope to see them out soon.

Lest we forget, let's remember our bit towards the labor temple.

Safety Talk Will Be Made At Personnel Club

Looking toward more effective safety measures in Chattanooga industries and commercial establishments, a joint supper meeting of the Chattanooga Industrial Personnel club and Safety Council will be held Friday, Nov. 15, at 6:30 p.m. at the Industrial Y. M. C. A., before which will appear Capt. A. A. Nichoson, personnel director of The Texas company, a noted authority on safety programs.

Capt. Nichoson, a World war veteran who was decorated for bravery, will take as his subject "A Company Training Program as an Aid in Accident Prevention." He has spoken upon this and similar topics in most of the major cities of the nation.

The Friday night gathering is expected to bring upward of 350 citizens, interested in safety measures, and will be made up of the membership of the Safety Council, the Chattanooga Industrial Personnel club and executives and department heads of local industry and commercial establishments who now have or will later develop definite safety programs.

James M. Alexander and States R. Finley are co-chairmen of the program committee, of which R. E. Biggers is ex-officio chairman. The committee includes Hugh Wasson, Hunter Byington, Richard Moore, Jr., Bart Leiper, Keith Harris, A. J. Moses, D. P. Barnes, C. L. Hunt, Ray Evans, W. E. Mosher and C. A. Culberson.

Printing Crafts Met in Nashville

Representatives from the various branches of the printing crafts in Tennessee gathered in Nashville last Saturday and Sunday and formed what is known as the Tennessee State Printing Trades council. The organization embraces printers, pressmen, stereotypers, photo-engravers, mailers and bookbinders, and the objective is to assist the industry to maintain healthful and profitable conditions.

President Gerald Foley, of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, was to address a welcome to the unionists, but strenuous and exacting duties concerning the national defense program made it impossible to attend. In his stead T. R. Cuthbert, secretary, represented the federation.

Prominent among the speakers were Dr. Alva Taylor, of Nashville; George L. Berry, of the Pressmen's union, and Commissioner of Labor Bryant.

Arch Underwood (printer), and White Abel (pressman), represented Chattanooga.

Notes From Candy Workers

With the eletction over, I guess we will have to find something else to talk about. I hope everybody will pull together for a united country and for better times for all. I believe we will. Let us forget the old bugaboo about a dictatorship for America.

There is nobody reported on the sick list at our place now, we are glad to say.

We are still working full time, and hope it keeps up. We invite everybody to buy our union-made goods. Some people have said that small business has little chance aagainst big business, but if we, who are a friend to the working people, will buy only union-made products it will help us carry on.

We are sorry to report that J. B. Fisher, W. T. Manly and I. C. Rowland are still sick We hope to see them back on duty soon.

Friday, Nov. 15, is election day for every member of our local and I hope that every member will be there and vote for our next year's officers. Every one should consider this election very carefully and study each member who is nominated so that there will not be any mistake. We should select men who are cool-headed, broad-minded and willing to forgive and forget so that he can help every member of the local. Every officer must be able to see two sides to every question and study them closely before handing down his decision. He must be a man that conducts himself properly at all times. Above all he must be a 100 per cent union man and willing to work for the good that he will accomplish for every member and not for something that he will receive for himself. If a man is not a 100 per cent union man he is not entitled to the office.

I would like to bring to your attention that the winter weather is here now with all of its hazards. First we should be careful in our homes about the fires. Where there are little children around an open fire there should be a screen around the fire to prevent the child from crawling or falling in. Second, we should caution our children daily about safety in crossing the streets. The streets are slippery now and it takes twice as long for a vehicle to stop, so caution them not to cross the street until the vehicle is gone. On the other hand, all automobile drivers should be extremely careful and be on the alert at all times so as not to hit anyone crossing the street. They should drive at all times so that they can stop within the distance they can see.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which offers BLACK-DRAUGHT to help the lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

Leaders of Cement Workers Meeting at Hotel Patten

Pictured above are leaders of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers, Fifth district, which met in Chattanooga last Friday and Saturday at Hotel Patten. About forty-five delegates from the seven southeastern states comprising the Fifth district were present. Shown at left, in the front row, is W. A. Pritchett, of Birmingham, second vice-president of the international union, who made the chief talk at Friday's session. Standing next to him is Newcomb Barco, commissioner of the United States labor conciliation department, who addressed the convention. Next to Mr. Barco is Floyd Burks, international representative of the union, and on the right is V. O. Cunningham, president of the Fifth district and secretary of Chattanooga Local 1 of the union. Second row, left to right, are Fred Sullivan, president of the Chattanooga local; J. D. Bradford, second vice-president of the district council; Harvey Chambers, first vice-president of the council; F. C. Jones, district representative, and W. R. Morgan, secretary-treasurer of the district council. —Times Photo.

Bakers' Scraps

A wedding of much surprise and interest was that of Miss Frances Bridges and Fred Ledford, which occurred on Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, in Rossville. Mr. Ledford is connected with the Toddle House on McCallie avenue and Mrs. Ledford is with the Mercer Baking company. The bride and groom are now at home at 751 Oak street. We wish for them much happiness.

Joe Yarbro leaves for Atlanta, Ga., this week to be a guard at the state pen. It seems that Uncle Sam is taking all of our boys. We wish for Joe much success and sure hope to lose such an active member of our local.

One thing that I am very proud of this week is that my grocer, L. A. Price & Co., on Rossville avenue, has signed a union agreewith the Retail Clerks' union and urge all members who live near the L. A. Price grocery to be sure and give him their business. Remember, as true union men you should patronize this 100 per cent union grocer.

Sure glad to report that we have renewed our agreement with the Mercer Pie company for another year with increases in pay and improved working conditions. We wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Mercer for his fine co-operation during the negotiations of this agreement. If your grocer or cafe doesn't handle any of Mercer's pies you see to it that he puts in a supply of these delicious union-made products.

Here's hoping that all the speech-making and special programs in and out of the schools this week will carry over to increased consideration by the body politic for the teachers as well as for the schools and the students that there may be an increased appreciation of the obvious but neglected fact that teacher welfare is student welfare.

TWO MILLION AFFECTED BY FORTY-HOUR WEEK

Washington, D. C.—Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division, estimated that approximately 2,000,000 working men and women were affected by the reduction of the work week from 42 to 40 hours on Oct. 24 under the provisions of the federal fair labor standards act of 1938. Overtime at the rate of time and a half in excess of 40 hours must be paid by employes in industries affected by the law.

Makes a Difference

By FRANKLIN E. WOLFE

An orator waved his arms and shouted: "It is time to brush aside this word 'democracy' with its connotations."

Those are strong words. They are almost seditious words—perhaps they could be played up as seditious if they had been uttered by the "wrong" man. In the event they had been uttered by some blatant communist soapbox orator the speaker doubtless would have been hauled from his precarious perch and thrown into the klink.

Let's see, who said that. Why, bless your soul, it was Merwin K. Hart who proudly proclaims himself "president of the New York Economic Council," speaking before the Union League Club of New York. Doubtless he was heartily applauded and lustily cheered, for he was in the home of the super Tories of the universe. The conclusion is that some words are seditious when uttered by the "wrong" people and patriotic when uttered by the "right" people. Truly it's a great system.

Full Steam Ahead

Results of the election are generally pleasing to organized workers, a big majority of whom probably supported President Roosevelt, thereby contributing largely to his re-election. They backed the President because, as William Green said, "they believe Mr. Roosevelt is their friend and the champion of social justice and economic freedom."

Friends of labor were elected in impressive numbers right down the line from congressional seats to minor local offices. The election was clearly a demonstration of the soundness of the American Federation of Labor's time-tested policy, "support your friends, defeat your enemies."

But the election aroused bitterness in labor's ranks as elsewhere and took up the time and attention of many union members for weeks. Now it is all over and the times demand unity and co-operation of all elements in the nation and the labor movement. Union workers will do well to turn their attention to strengthening the position of labor in every possible way. This means more labor organization, more education of old and new members in unionism's tactics and policies, more legislative activity—in short, more progress in all fields of union effort.

Valuable U. S. Publication

The U. S. Department of Labor has issued a pamphlet called Workers and National Defense at the suggestion and with the help of labor union officials.

It aims to answer in a practical way, such questions as these: How do I go about getting a job in defense production either in the Government or in private industry? What kind of workers are likely to be needed most now? Where can one get training for the jobs that need to be done? Can I brush up on skills which have become rusty?

Then it discusses the maintenance of labor standards at a time when production is geared to defense needs. It touches on collective bargaining, minimum wages and maximum hours, and the protection of workers' safety and health.

Copies may be obtained by interested individuals or organizations who write to the Division of Labor Standards, U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D.C.

National Education Week

During the past week, finishing this Saturday, this community along with the rest of the nation has been observing "American Education Week." Programs have been given over the radio as well as general topics in schools, churches and civic clubs.

We think that our American people, with all its vaunted progress, culture and advancements, must see to it that all of our people become interested infi education. Through education most of our social and economic evils may be prevented and cured.

Most important of all is the need in this world, our nation included, of a thorough and intensive course in spiritual education. A nation may have the most advanced culture in the world, and yet become a deadly menace if such an education is used to conquer other peoples.

We realize that the educational subject uppermost in most minds today is "Education for Common Defense," due to the immediate possibility of being forced to defend our very homes from invasion.

But it will do no good if we learn to defend our homes and society from destruction by outside invasion, only to destroy ourselves through ignorance in health, morals and wastage of natural resources.

Truly, no nation has long existed that has neglected education of its citizens or has been over specialized in education. It takes enlightenment of humanity in all ways to live, prosper here and live in eternity.

Tips Hints Helps For Women Keeping Ahead of the Times

DO YOU KNOW? . . .

Vitamin "C" cannot be stored up in the body. When the diet is lacking in this important vitamin the body becomes rundown, there is no appetite and loss of weight is noted. Tiredness comes on easily and there is often pain in the joints. Nutritionists recommend fresh fruits and vegetables, especially citrus fruits and tomato juice as very high in Vitamin "C."

Macadamia nuts from Honolulu have a very delicious and unusual flavor and texture not found in any other nut, and recent biological tests have disclosed that these nuts are rich in Vitamin B1, the vitamin essential to steady nerves. They may be bought packed in vacuum-packed jars, salted and ready for eating.

* * *

A pleated skirt, accordian or small pleats, travels better when packing if covered in sheets of tissue paper and rolled like an umbrella. If it's to long for your suitcase you can curve it around the edges when it's thus rolled and it won't wrinkle.

* * *

You can estimate the weight of a piece of ice, by measuring the length, breadth and thickness, multiply the three numbers together and divide the product by 30. The result is a reasonably correct approximation of the weight in pounds. Well-frozen ice weighs about 56 pounds per cubic foot. The weights and measures law provides, however, that ice shall be weighed at the time of delivery and housewives should insist upon that being done.

GLAMOR

Very few women walk with any degree of grace, but effect a slouch or slump that is anything but graceful. Poor posture is easily corrected if women will put their minds to it. Back yourself up against a wall with heels, buttocks, shoulders and head touching. See how much taller you feel. Pull your tummy up and in, not just in by holding your breath. But when you pull it up and in your buttocks automatically tuck under, making you flatter there too. See how good you feel in this position. Now hold it. As you walk down the street keep your mind on your posture. When you approach the stoplight, stop, pull yourself up and in again if you've slumped. Do this at each corner intersection. After you've practiced it for a week you'll surprise yourself to see how easy and natural it becomes to hold yourself that way. Shortly you'll travel with the air of a queen.

The trouble with American girls is that below the waist they are all springs instead of roller-bearings was the viewpoint of one of our latin friends while watching American girls rumba.

* * *

There have been lots of vanishing creams on the market, but at last there is a new one that is especially elegant because it disappears instantly into the skin. It's a beauty-saving night cream alright, lubricating the surface of the skin without grease. Use it and avoid soiling bed linen and nighties and that awful feeling that comes from going to bed with a face covered with greasy goo. Besides, it's perfumed heavenly. Ask about it when next buying night cream.

* * *

Of course you've tried your hair in a pompadour, but we don't blame you if you're not wearing it that way. Although the new hair style is appropriate to both young and old, and many of the new hats have been designed to flatter the pompadour, still, if it's not becoming, then, abandon it. Most of the young things seem to prefer it long in the neck, although the ends should be turned up in a sleek roll.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKING

Cornice boards covering the tops of your windows will do much to improve the appearance of a room and at the same time will help to keep the tops of the drapes clean. They can easily be made by the amateur by using pressed wood applied over a wood frame. The edges can be cut to any design, and this all-wood fiber material takes a variety of finishes.

* * *

To avoid the disturbance of the household by meter-readers, an electric meter may be mounted at right angles to or facing a cellar window so that it can be viewed from the outside, or else in a cabinet that can be secured to the exterior of the house. If you are building a new house have an ornamental wall niche placed on the outside and the meter in this niche. A small wrought iron grille can be used as ornamentation over the niche.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Women are among the most active and enthusiastic supporters of the slum clearance and low-rent public housing program of the U. S. Housing Authority.

A check-up of the membership of local housing authorities, which are building the hundreds of USHA projects now under construction throughout the country, shows 57 women of whom 20 are listed as housewives. The others are principally educators, professional practitioners, and welfare workers although some are engaged in business.

Four women are chairman of their local public housing authorities. They are Mrs. Otto Norwald, El Paso, Tex.; Mrs. Volney W. Taylor, Brownsville, Tex.; Mrs. Blanche Cronin, Hamtramck, Mich., and Mrs. Ruby Black, Lamar county, Miss.

BABY TALK

If you're giving the children a hallowe'en party make them a witches desert by placing a ball of orange ice on a sugar cookie. Make face by outlining features with raisins on the orange ice cream; for the witche's hat place a chocolate wafer on top of orange ice and invert an ice cream cone on top of cookie. They'll love it.

PANTRY PALAVER

The bureau of home economics, U. S. department of agriculture, has defined a cooking vocabulary for the amateur cooke so that she may more readily understand her cookbook. For instance:

Simmering means to cook in water just below the booling point.

Panbroiling means to cook in a skillet on top stove without added fat, water or cover. Pour off the fat that renders out so that meat will not cook in fat. Good for tender steaks and chops.

Sauteing comes from the French word "to jump," but in cooking it means to brown the food in a little fat, turning often to prevent sticking.

Frying means to cook in fat, either deep fat or shallow fat in a skillet.

Braising means to brown in a little hot fat, and then cook the food in a steam by covering, with or without added liquid.

Scalloping originally meant to cook in a scallop shell or a shell shaped dish, but today scalloped foods are generally combined with a white sauce and cheese, and baked until golden brown on top.

Au gratin is closely related to scalloped dishes, but means a dish with a browned covering of crumbs.

Batters and doughs are alike. They are both mixtures of flour and liquids with other ingredients added.

Creaming has two meanings. In a cake recipe it means to blend the fat and sugar until they are soft and creamy. However, when you cream vegetables you combine them with a sauce made of fat, flour, milk and seasonings.

Folding means to actually fold the layers of a thicker mixture into egg whites, by putting the spoon or egg whip straight down to the bottom of the bowl, turning it under the mass, and bringing it straight up. Repeat until the mixing is complete.

Cutting in describes the blending of fat and flour for biscuits or pie crusts.

* * *

Save the liquid on canned vegetables. It contains food value and flavor. Use in soups or sauces.

abor and Public School Education

By Willard Millsaps

public school is the largest most important social enter- in America and there is noth- ike our gigantic educational anywhere in the world. No has made so considerable ort to teach its children to to think and to act as we tried to do in our great ican democracy. In no other y do the people have so voice in the administration ir public schools.

story of the public school United States is a story of t for ideals, and the pub- ool system must be allowed erish if those ideals upon this democracy was built are preserved. Immediately fol- the Declaration of Inde- ce prominent leaders every- in the country spoke and in behalf of better educa- opportunities for the people. and there school societies formed to discuss and ad- the public school. The work- n began to demand a gen- nd equal system of educa- t as a charity but as the f every child. Humanitarian ents gained strength and ged the idea of universal ion. Slowly the government to be considered as the means moting public welfare, and ion came to be recognized activity which good govern- could encourage and support.

interest of American labor cation has been long and ous. As early as the be- of the nineteenth century eaders realized that if the atic principle of suffrage be exercised by having a ent by the people, it was y to have education of the so they maintained the such education. The con- of these labor leaders was our government is to be atic our education should ocratic also." When the ntary association of work- was formed in the city of lphia in the year 1828, pub- cation became an important its program. Immediately sociation recommended that chools be erected in every of the state so that edu- e given to the children of and poor alike. In 1834, ntion called by all trade n the country met in New ity and urged "the neces- an equal and universal e system of education."

In 1881 at the first on of the Federation of Or- Trades and Labor Unions United States this group record as favoring the of such legislative enact- will enforce by compul- education of children: the state has the right to rtain compliance with its demands, then it is the right of the state to educate its people to the proper understanding of such demands." From that date down to the present time the record of American labor's interest in education has grown from year to year.

The following are portions of principles and resolutions adopted by the American Federation of Labor:

In 1885 it demanded education of children to the fourteenth year.

In 1887 asked for the teaching of the science of government in the public schools.

In 1891 urged the necessity of a thorough education of children so that they may be able to judge in after years of their standing, rights and liberties that are guaranteed to a free people of which they are part and factors.

In 1894 insisted that the state compulsory education laws be strictly enforced, and that where there are no such laws, efforts be made to secure their enactment.

In 1903 insisted that political influence, so often required of school teachers, be eliminated, and that teachers should be compensated commensurately with the value of their duties.

In 1910 announced that a labor bill for vocational education was on the calendar for early consideration.

In 1911 recommended that free textbooks be furnished the children.

In 1913 demanded that a sufficient number of school teachers be employed to give a reasonable degree of personal attention to each child.

In 1915 urged that the federal government afford generous financial aid to industrial education.

In 1917 advocated that teachers be given security of positions during efficiency and that there be no dismissals without a fair hearing.

In 1918 indorsed the federal bill requiring the commissioner of education to devise methods and promote plans for the elimination of adult illiteracy in the United States, and urged the establishment of a federal department of education.

In 1919 advanced ample playgrounds as an essential part of the public school system.

In 1921 demanded high standards of cleanliness and safety in our school buildings.

In 1922 approved physical education as an essential part of the curriculum.

In 1928 opposed the use of the schools to spread propaganda of special interests.

In 1930 adopted as its policy tenure of office for teachers after two years of temporary service with proved efficiency.

In 1931 urged participation in the activities of the parent-teachers' association.

In 1932 urged vigorous action against curtailment or elimination of any school activity necessary to maintain and improve the educational standard.

In 1933 advocated federal aid to education.

In 1934 urged the employment of only regularly licensed and qualified teachers.

In 1935 reaffirmed their declaration of federal aid to education.

In 1936 advocated the appropriation of $100,000,000 of federal funds to assist the states and territories in providing more effective programs of public education.

In 1937 worked again for a federal grant to education.

In 1938 advocated again that the schools be free from political control and exploitation in order that they may provide more adequate training for citizenship and democracy.

In 1939 urged again the federal government give aid to public education so that educational opportunities will become equalized for the children in all sections of this country.

That is only a small part of the record of the American Federation of Labor in its attempt to assist in the building and in the preservation of our public schools. That record has convinced me that the American labor movement is the greatest and most loyal friend to our public school system.

N. Y. JUDGE FINES PRINTER FOR FAKING UNION LABEL

New York, N. Y.—Justice Alvah Burlingame, in special sessions, Long Island City, fined Elmer J. Holmes, proprietor of a print shop in Jamaica, Queens, $500 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of representing a non-union printing job as union made. Holmes was accused of farming out the cover of a publication to a union shop to get a union label on it, but printing the contents of the publication in his own nonunion shop. He was given a week to produce the fine or serve three months in jail.

Heart B'Lungs to Daddy.

A doctor's little daughter, deeply interested in radio, glanced one morning into the office where her father was testing the heart and lungs of a patient.

"Getting any new stations, daddy?" she inquired.

To the Point.

The Mayo brothers never were tolerant of the wealthy, heavy-with-self-importance type of patient. One of this type once approached Dr. William James Mayo with a certain peremptoriness, saying: "Well, well! Are you the head doctor?"

Dr. Mayo replied with a certain directness: "No, I'm the belly doctor!"

Brewers Contribute Again to Labor's Temple

Judge Etheridge's Sweeping Anti-Picketing Injunction Revoked by Judge Pomeroy

Atlanta, Ga.—Several weeks ago the employes of the Atlanta Paper company, members of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union, were forced to go on strike against intolerable conditions existing in the plant. Pickets were placed about the plant to inform the public and labor's friends that the institution was unfair to their organized employes.

On Oct. 13, the Atlanta Paper company applied to the court of Judge Paul S. Etheridge for an injunction to prohibit picketing of their plant. The accommodating judge issued one of the most sweeping and far-reaching injunctions ever issued as a means to ban picketing. The injunction said that R. L. Simmons, the international representative, and members of the local union or their friends, could not place pickets at any entrance to the plant of the Atlanta Paper company, or within four blocks of the plant's location. Judge Etheridge further said in his injunction that the defendants should not mail notices to customers of the Atlanta Paper company, and should not even make personal calls upon the customers of the company informing them of the strike.

On Oct. 22, Albert W. Gossett, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, in behalf of Representative Simmons and all other defendants, presented a motion for dismissal of the restraining order to the court of Judge E. E. Pomeroy, of the superior court. On Oct. 26, Judge Pomeroy handed down his decision, granting the prayer of President Gossett, and revoked the restraining order formerly issued by Judge Etheridge.

After hearing attorneys for President Gossett present many court decisions upholding the right to picket, Judge Pomeroy said in his decision:

"From these decisions, the court is of the opinion that the right to peacefully picket is established as a part of our judicial law and that a denial of those rights could not be granted, if at all, unless urgent and cogent reasons are shown therefor."

Pickets have been placed back at the plant of the Atlanta Paper company.

Auto Salesmen's Union Chartered in Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis.—Automobile Salesmen's Local No. 1291 has been chartered here by the Retail Clerks International Protective association, A. F. of L. affiliate. The charter was given to the local by Phil F. Koerner, international representative of the union here. Practically all of the 75 members of the local were present at the ceremony. Koerner said the local has county-wide jurisdiction and that plans had been made to organize the entire state.

Squirts from Clerks

By Flutterbug

L. A. Price Grocery company, 1509 Rossville avenue, signed a closed shop agreement with the Retail Clerks' Local No. 625 this week. The contract provides for vacations with pay and an increase of wages with many benefits not previously enjoyed by the clerks.

Mr. Price has always been very fair to labor in his dealings with the building trades crafts and was most agreeable during the negotiations with the clerks' union.

The retail clerks heartily recommend Mr. Price to the members of organized labor and feel that the service our union clerks will give to their customers will be of the finest.

Don't forget the King-Dobbs Grocery company is 100 per cent union and that they are co-operating in every way with the clerks and bakers. Drop in and get acquainted with Henry King there, and you will meet one of this city's most agreeable and personable men.

The clerks have arranged to move to the labor temple and it was our good fortune to be the second union to meet there. We had a nice meeting there Friday night and several new members were obligated.

* * *

All the clerks in the American Billiard Parlor and the Brunswick Billiard Parlor belong to Local No. 625 and are deserving of your patronage. We are trying to negotiate with Mr. Arch Norman for a contract for his clerks and feel confident that we will be successful as Mr. Norman has always been friendly to organized labor.

We are delighted at the high honor that has been given Brother Vic Hallmark and we feel that the country will benefit from his desire to serve in any way that the president sees fit to place him.

We are in hearty accord with the editorial policies of The Labor World and feel with the editor that as long as we have freedom oof expression in our paper that it will mean that we have kept the faith of Jackson, of Jefferson, Lee and the rest of the men that helped to establish this great and progressive democracy of ours.

We wish that all members of organized labor would get acquainted with our membership and to aid in that beginning next we will give you a case history of our members one at a time. Next week it will be the popular president of Local No. 625, A. H. Elliott, who works at King-Dobbs.

Hershey Workers Gain Pay-Increase Contract

Hershey, Pa.—A new contract has been signed by the Hershey Chocolate corporation and Local 464 of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' union, A. F. of L. affiliate, reducing the maximum work week to 40 hours and increasing the hourly wage 5 per cent. The new agreement was made effective Oct. 24 when the 40-hour week under the federal fair labor standards act becomes operative throughout the naiton. It was said the hourly wage increase will make up for the difference in the working time between the old contract calling for a 42-hour maximum work week and the new 40-hour contract.

Four Tacoma Sawmills Yield to Union

Tacoma, Wash.—Four local sawmills have acceded to the demand of Lumber and Sawmill Workers, A. F. of L., for wage increases of 7½ cents an hour, but nine other operations still are shut down while negotiations continue. The union members declare that increased business and higher lumber prices give them the right to ask for a 7½ cent raise, instead of the 2½ cents offered by the employers.

Saturday, Nov. 30, To Be Moving Day For Local Unions

Hallmark Announces Open House at New Temple December 2.

Saturday, Nov. 30, will be "moving day" for local unions in Chattanooga, according to announcement by Vice-Chairman V. W. Hallmark, of the Labor Temple committee, for on that date the great majority of the units composing the local central body will take charge of their various meeting places in the finest home in the south owned exclusively by organized workers.

Mr. Hallmark told The Labor World Thursday that the night of Monday, Dec. 2, will be observed as "inspection night" or a general open house, to which all members of organized labor and their friends are cordially invited. Details of this event are not yet complete, he said, but are in the making, and will probably provide for an interesting program, topped off with refreshments.

Members of the Labor Temple board, as well as many who have already inspected the magnificent institution, are jubilant over its completion, and it is generally conceded by these that organized la-

Bedoit Hears Angels Sing 'Peace on Earth'

Papermaker Offers Christmas Sermon With Batch of Live Notes.

In a few weeks we will be celebrating Christmas. If we could invent an apparatus that could take us back down through the centuries, could see and hear the angels proclaim the birth of a Savior and as they sang the voice of God say "Peace on earth, good will toward men," we sure would think it was wonderful.

Not many days from now we will hear on the streets and over the radio Christmas carols and in our less busy moments our thoughts will be of the One that was born into the world to save man from his sins.

Most of us will have a kind feeling for his fellowman, a feeling of brotherly love and a willingness to go out of one's way to oblige.

This has been the way it appeared to me in the past, and I hope this year will be no exception to all Christian countries.

When we view the condition of the world today we wonder if the Lord died in vain. We wonder when this world conflict will end

J. Mahoney Is Optimistic About Labor

Senator from Hamilton Hopes Statutes to Be Strengthened.

Poll Tax Repeal, Assurance of Real Labor Department Among Progressive Measures Advocated by Local Legislator.

By JOHN T. MAHONEY

It is my earnest hope that the 1941 general assembly of the state of Tennessee will approve and strengthen the many laws that have been advocated for years by organized labor.

Chief among these is the requirement of a poll tax receipt as a prerequisite for voting. Labor has led the fight for repeal of this unfair law. At this time it appears that labor's fight will meet with success.

I have had occasion to talk with a number of the men elected to serve in the general assembly and all with whom I have discussed the poll tax repeal have stated that they would favor the bill. This includes both city and rural legislators. While most are optimistic over the chance of the bill passing, it is generally agreed that the legislation would only have the power to remove the poll tax in the primary elections. The constitution of the state of Tennessee specifically requires the payment of a poll tax by all male citizens as a prerequisite to voting in general elections.

I would consider it a forward step if we can remove the poll tax in the local and primary elections, and pass a resolution to amend the constitution so as to totally remove the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in any election.

Efforts should also be made by organized labor to obtain an adequate appropriation for the department of labor to be used strictly for the enforcement of labor laws. This important state department exists solely from the efforts of labor, yet the state has never appropriated sufficient funds for it so that it could ade-

Safety -- Courtesy -- Service

Well, it looks like when it rains it pours down at the car barn. When one gets sick it seems that something has to happen to the whole flock. We are sorry to report that J. T. Brown's wife is seriously ill in a local hospital and I understand that she is not to have any visitors for about a week, but we hope that she will be able to have visitors soon so that we can go out and see her. We wish her a speedy recovery and the best of health that can be had. I wish to call to the attention of the auxiliary that they can get in touch with Brother Brown and find out when they can visit and render what service they can to Mrs. Brown.

* * *

We have also on our sick list W. T. Manley, I. C. Rowland, W. Knowlan, H. M. Walker, J. H. Cloud, A. L. Rice and Frank Jones. Frank Jones is in Newell's sanitarium with some broken ribs that he received from a fall in one of the grease pits at the car barn and is in a serious condition. They are doing everything possible to prevent him from taking pneumonia. We hope that he soon recovers and is back on duty real soon.

* * *

J. H. Cloud and A. L. Rice are now recovering from cuts and bruises received in an automobile accident, but are reported to be improving rapidly. We wish them a speedy recovery and the best of health.

* * *

I hope to have a list of our new officers for the coming year by the next meeting. We held an election but there are to be several runoffs that were tied. Brother Olinger will be our next president, so let's all co-operate and help to promote the interests of our local so that we can grow to be one of the largest and, most of all, strongest locals in the country. Let's not be a knocker or criticize unless we know what we are talking about. Too much cannot be said about the value of the local. It is the vital unit of our society. It must exist in harmony and operate under the laws set up by the government. While the camp is essential to the local itself it is also valuable to the workingman. Its greatest usefulness is found in the benefits and security to its own members. There is no form of democracy more fundamental than a local of good union men and women. Here all members meet on the same level. Here they learn valuable lessons on unionism and brotherly consideration. They also learn how to preside, how to debate, and with it all have a good social time. There is a freedom on the part of every member, knowing that every brother is working and pulling for the other. So let's all resolve that in the future we will work for the good of our local by helping one another and not knocking where it is not justified. If we will just consider the hammer we will notice that—it keeps its head, it doesn't fly off the handle; it keeps pounding away, it finds the point, then drives it home. It looks at the other side, too; and thus often clinches the matter. It makes mistakes, but when it does, it starts all over; it is the only knocker in the world that does any good.

Army Heads Ordered to Co-operate With Labor by Maintenance o Fair Pay and Hour Standar

Washington.—Declaring that the "great mass of Am can labor and its responsible leaders are co-operating the army in preparing for national defense," Assistant S retary of War Patterson has directed subordinates to full co-operation in return.

In a statement outlining the war department's polic the construction of camps, Patterson said that "labor sta ards as to wages, hours of work and overtime, among oth must be maintained if the defense program is to go ef tively forward."

"The army and each officer in it," he said, "must co-operate with labor, to the end that the defense program may move forward without interruption or delay and that our country may have and keep that real and visible national unity which is increasingly essential to any effective defense in modern total war."

"Must Work Both Ways."

The war department's policy, Patterson said, was summarized in these words:

"Just and equitable treatment of labor, the maintenance of existing standards for workers on defense projects, and sympathetic understanding by the service of the problems and aspirations of American labor, organized and unorganized, are essential to the success of the defense program.

"The overwhelming mass of American workers are intensely patriotic and want to help defend their country. They want to co-operate and they are co-operating. But co-operation must work both ways. Labor standards as to wages, hours of work and overtime, among others, must be maintained if the defensive program is to go effectively forward."

World War Policy Followed.

Patterson pointed out that the war department's policy followed the pattern set up during the World war when Secretary Newton D. Baker and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, signed an agreement establishing the cantonment adjustment commission.

Patterson noted that the army's labor difficulties so far have been minor. Discussing the recent one-day strike at Fort Meade, Md., the secretary declared it resulted from a "temporary misunderstanding," and that he expected no further difficulties of this sort.

The secretary said the army's policy provided for payment of union wage scales and an eight-hour day, with not less than time and one-half for overtime. It is governed, he said, by acts of congress and policy statements by President Roosevelt and the national defense commission, providing for a basic 40-hour, 5-day week.

No Delay in Program.

He emphasized, however, that the 40-hour week could not be applied to factories producing warplanes, tanks and other munitions where facilities are limited skilled labor scarce. All arse and many plane factories are running three shifts of six da week on an overtime basis.

"In no case throughout the tire defense program is delay ing allowed to result from limitations on hours of work," terson said.

Huge Unemployment Slash Recorded As Defense Production Expands

Washington, D. C.—The largest reduction in unemployment in any single month since April, 1936, took place last September, it was revealed in the official unemployment estimates of the American Federation of Labor. This decrease was 650,000. The unemployment total for the nation in September was 8,544,000, compared to 9,194,000 in August and 9,439,000 in September, 1939.

The conclusions of the unemployment survey follow:

"Employment gains in September were largely due to the stimulating effect on industry of defense program activities together with war orders from abroad and the customary Fall business pick-up.

"Despite the great employment gains it is surprising that with so many favorable factors progress in industrial re-employment has not been even more extensive. The increased productivity of workers may be responsible for the fact that employment gains have not kept pace with production gains. In the six industries listed by the Department of Labor as those most directly concerned with defense-aircraft and engines, shipbuilding, machine tools, aluminum manufacturers and explosives—69,000 persons obtained new jobs from June to September, 1940.

"The need for materials for defense industries, however, and the demand for goods due to re-employment and increased workers' buying power have brought about a general lifting of productive activity in the United States. This is shown by the fact that in industry and agriculture as a whole, from June to September, 1940, 1,150,000 workers have been added to payrolls.

"Since September last year, nearly 1,500,000 persons have gone back to work in the United States. This gain in employment has offset the 600,000 increase in our working population and reduced unemployment by 900,000. This decrease is small compared to the large number still without work. The 2,242,000 unemployed still working on CCC, WPA and NYA programs ought also to be absorbed into private industry.

"Workers' incomes in the United States are above last June by 3.6 per cent or $140,000,000 per month and above September, 1939, by 7.3 per cent or $273,000,000 per month. On an annual basis, workers' income today is at a level nearly $3,250,000,000 a year above September, 1939. This accounts for the important increase in demand for consumers' goods in the nation's retail stores today."

Let's Keep Our Feet On the Ground!

Sporadic labor disturbances in the great national emergency facing Americans today are unfortunate and should be unnecessary. However, such brief flare-ups may be expected and can be kept at a minimum only through the great and compelling weight of public opinion.

It seems to be the inevitable result of a labor dispute in times such as these, however, that a large number of people immediately, and unthinkingly, of course, place full blame upon the shoulders of the workers themselves and never give a thought to the fact that employers are not by any means immune from subversive activities of fifth columnists and saboteurs. The American labor movement, we believe, does not and has no desire to deny that such subversive forces may and have entered into its ranks, but no one can deny that its leaders and officers have done and are doing everything within their power to "spot" and purge immediately any and all such cattle. American history records entirely too many instances where such condition has been proven to exist. We are confident that labor can be depended upon to uncover any movement or individual who has in mind interference with or embarrassment to the government of the United States in its prosecution of defense measures.

Nor is this to be construed as an indictment of industrial leaders or as an intimation that they as a body would countenance sabotage or un-American activities. However, older trades unionists remember all too well in the days of 1917-18 many employers attempted to beat down labor standards, using patriotism as a club to force workers in line. The situation calls for Americanism of the highest type, both on the part of employers and employes, and the employer, big or little, who would resort to the despicable tactics mentioned above is certainly no better American than the fifth columnists in the labor ranks. It is up to us all to uncover and brand subversive activities in whatever group they may be found.

In the meantime, trades unionists and their friends should bend every effort toward the end that irresponsible or thoughtless people make sure at whose door to lay the blame for labor disturbances in this emergency.

Let's keep our shoulders to the wheel and our feet on the ground.

Nothing Is Wrong

Add things to worry about: Burning current question (since the recent election particularly) is, "What's the matter with the newspapers?"

Some light may be thrown on the matter by recent developments. A speaker before the AFL convention this week said:

"Those publishers who for years have been saying as Louis XIV said about the state, 'The public? We're the public,' are due for a great awakening."

A local editor the other day said in effect: "Nothing is wrong. The advertising volume is at its peak."

Maybe both are right.

"Foster Placed in Hall of Fame"—Headline. Stephen, not W. G.

"Overtime Evasions Illegal, Fleming Warns Employers."—Headline. Colonel, not Judge.

Editor Cuthbert and "Brownie" are "way down yonder in New Orleans" this week, helping President Green with the A. F. L. convention. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams accompanied them. The office boy got out this issue—just to keep the record straight.

Enlightened real estate men everywhere share the view of the Memphis realtors whose stand on public housing indicates they are citizens of vision and public spirit.

The A. F. L. Convenes

And now we have the AFofL convention—the great congress of labor. The election has made it doubly important as news. Read your reports of the convention in this newspaper.

It is no partisan statement to say that the AFofL goes into convention this year wits a vastly increased prestige because of the national election and its results. It could not be otherwise. John L. Lewis rode out into the night and lost his power to command. The policies he stood for have been given about the biggest rebuke any labor leader's policies ever got. That is a mild and moderate statement. Not even Hugh Johnson can save Lewis from the verdict at the polls.

Lewis was critical of national defense policies. That was one of his issues in his jump to Willkie. Roosevelt's refusal to grant his demands were regarded by Lewis as justifying a jump over the fence, which he did in his most grandiloquent manner, with a regular gadzooks flourish of accent and verbiage. To see one important phase of the verdict, observe the vote in the miners' districts of Pennsylvania. And thus, by sheer virtue of facts, the AFofL convention looms up in a new importance, which it has deserved all the time.

But, inevitably, the federation now stands as the champion of defense—not a maudlin and self-effacing champion, but a thinking, reasoning, performing champion.

The federation gets new importance, new power, new prestige.

Many years ago John Lewis said he heard a call to run for presidency of the AFofL. After the voting was over he arose and said he must have misunderstood that call. On the day after this election he didn't go to his office.

There is no point to riding John Lewis now. There is more important work at hand. There is the job of unity of every kind, which includes labor unity, for the biggest task this nation ever faced.

Facing this task it is important to know who's who and what's what. Don't look for the CIO to collapse; that isn't in the picture. But the passing of the power of John L. Lewis is in the news as we run. His power to shuot down all and sundry is finished. Perhaps it served a purpose; often things serve a purpose and then pass away.

The prospect of labor peace is enhanced. That is important. If it comes it will be because men are about to come into power who will talk with reason in their speech, with a care for labor in their minds, and without the burden of an overwhelming personal importance to blind and block them.

So, all in all, for labor, it seems as if another great marking point has been passed. The hand of the people has turned a mighty page in the book of history. The new page remains to be written upon, but the indications are that it can be written upon in a spirit of fraternity, patriotism, labor unionism and common reason; not with the ink of hatred and vanity, spread by a sweeping hand driven by lust for power and domination.

For final proof we must wait yet a little while—but it is cheering to be able "at long last" to say, "it looks that way." Wouldn't the beginnings of the new page, so written, make a nice job just around Thanksgiving?

"Buy Union" for Christmas

Heaviest Christmas buying in a decade is predicted this season.

Americans will have approximately three billion dollars more in their pockets to buy Christmas gifts, the Chicago Association of Commerce estimates.

This, as they used to say, is "all to the merry." It indicates more employment, rising standards of living, better times.

How much of the increased total of spending will go for union-made goods and services? That depends largely on members of labor organizations. They can give a big boost to sale of union-made products and services by "buying union" for Christmas.

Which means demanding the union label on everything they purchase and by insisting on being served by union men and women.

Union label buying of holiday goods will increase employment of union members, strengthen the position of union workers in dealing with their employers, promote organization of labor, help to increase wages and thereby increase national purchasing power and have many other beneficial results.

A good union member will lose no opportunity to "buy union" for the holiday season.

The 1940 Yearbook of the Memphis, Tennessee, Real Estate Board says of the local public housing program which is developed with United States Housing Authority funds:

"Probably no more constructive work has been done in the City of Memphis in the last 50 years than the attempt made in the past decade to eradicate local slums."

"Memphis is proud of her slum-clearance projects and hopes that within another decade there will be no slums left."

Bakers' Scraps

I'm kinda disappointed this week for we aren't going to be able to have meeting this month in our new temple as we had previously planned. I went through the temple last Saturday and just can't wait for our local to have a meeting there so every member can be just as proud as I am of our new temple. We will have our regular meeting this coming Saturday, No. 23, at the labor hall on West Seventh street at 2 p.m. All members are urged to be present. Support your local union with your attendance.

* * *

Anyone that missed going to the labor temple dance sure missed a swell time and lots of fun. Wish more of our members could have been there. By the way, what member did so much jitter-bugging that they had to go the next day to have their feet remodeled—I mean worked on?

We are glad to have Johnnie Grant working at the Betsy Ross bakery. Johnnie came to work last week in the dough room. An appropriate name for Johnnie now would be Doughboy. I hear that Frank Hickman is working at the Mercer pie shop. Glad to have Frank back in the fold after several months' absence.

If you missed going to the Culinary Workers' dance last Friday night at Turner hall you sure missed a good time. Van Arsdale's orchestra furnished the music, and nearly all the leaders of labor in the city were present, including Miss Edna Brown, international representative of the Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Mabee entertained with a dinner last Friday at their home, 2111 Union avenue. The occasion was Mrs. O. C. Mabee's (Mr. Mabee's mother) 61st birthday. Those present were Miss Edna Brown, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, and Mrs. Mabee's children and grandchildren. The highlight of the meal was a beautifully decorated union-made birthday cake. We suggest to all the ladies who are planning on entertaining during the holidays to be sure and purchase their cakes from the Erskine bakery. They are union-made and as delicious as they are beautiful.

It is hoped that all the local unions will soon be coming into the new labor temple. The temple is almost completed now and already has the distinction of being the finest in the south. The temple is a great achievement for the labor movement of Chattanooga and should have the support of every local union.

Our case history this week is Mr. A. H. Elliott, who is employed at King-Dobbs Grocery company. Mr. Elliott has been president of Retail Clerks' Local Union No. 625 for nearly a year. He is 42 years old, married and has two lovely daughters. He has been a resident of Chattanooga for twenty-one years and has worked at King-Dobbs for nine years. Those who know Mr. Elliott will say he is a man who is always jolly, a man who is never down and out. He is a good Christian man and is respected and admired by all who come in contact with him, especially his fellow-workers at King-Dobbs. Mr. Elliott's employer has always found him to be honest and trustworthy and willing to co-operate for their mutual advancement. When occasion demands, Mr. Elliott is a very strict business man. He has made a wonderful record as president of his local union, as he sees to it that the meetings are carried on in a business manner. We of Retail Clerks' Local No. 625 are proud to have such a man as A. H. Elliott as our president.

All our clerks are reported to be healthy and happy, so we expect to see you all at the meeting Friday, Nov. 22, 7:30 p.m. at the labor temple, 540 Vine street.

COOKS AND WAITERS

By BEULAH OGLE, Cor.

We had a good meeting Tuesday night, and now that the election is over we will promise not to keep you so long again. Mr. Mabee was re-elected business agent and I hope you will give the one he sees fit to hire to work in my place the support you have given me.

This will be my last chance to thank members of Central Body for their loyal support.

Bob Gass is back with Mr. Hamil at Ham's on West Seventh street.

Mrs. Bessie Phillips, of the Rathskeller, is on the sick list again.

Mrs. Alene Kinley has returned to work at Lowe's after a few weeks' illness.

Don't know if it's the war scare or cold weather that's taking all our members for a walk down the matrimonial aisle, but the last three weeks we have had three couples get married. Possibly it's the fact that Leap Year is so near over. Anyway, Mena Tittle and W. H. (Peanut) Rodgers are not to be left behind.

We signed a new contract this week. Mr. Ward from the Labor Temple concession now has his card on display, and is open for business. Let's give him our support.

In signing off, let me say goodbye to my readers and I hope my successor will make the column more interesting. I must run along now to work. Yours truly.

A. F. L. Membership at Record High

Washington.—Exceeding the post World war figure of 4,050,000 in 1920, highest before or since, the American Federation of Labor is now at its all time membership high, Secretary George Meany reports.

Combined enrollment of all unions affiliated with the A. F. of L., on the basis of per capita payments, stands at 4,247,433. This figure is almost 50 per cent above the membership three years ago, when the total was 2,860,933.

Making public the figures in the November American Federationist, just out, Secretary Meany says the phenomenal growth of the federation is due to "constant, constructive, sound organizing work, based on the American philosophy which our organization has always exemplified."

The CIO is condemned by Secretary Meany for causing civil warfare in labor's ranks. The Communistic dual organization, he writes, has now been eliminated "as an important factor in the industrial and economic life of the country."

Declaring that the American Federation of Labor has never been in a healthier condition than today, Meany adds:

"All signs point to a continued increase in strength in 1941 and beyond."

The effects of conscription and the national emergency on labor unions, with particular emphasis on the contracts between unions and employers, are discussed in an article by Joseph A. Padway, general counsel of the A.F. of L.

"Escape Clause" Urged

Foreseeing a sudden rise in the cost of living, Padway says:

"In times of emergency, when the real value of a dollar is more uncertain than ever, the need for flexibility is particularly desirable. . . . It is therefore inadvisable for unions to fix wage schedules in their contracts for long periods of time."

Padway strongly advises unions ments with employers to insist currently negotiating new agreements with employers to insist upon the insertion of an "escape clause" giving the union the right to reopen the wage question in the event "living expenses substantially rise."

Merit Rating Opposed

In another article so-called merit rating plans for the payment of unemployment insurance taxes by employers are vigorously assailed.

Adoption of such plans, the article says, would "stabilize employment at minimum levels."

A rather small boy asked a foreman in a shop for a job.

"What can you do, sonny?" asked the foreman.

"Anything," replied the boy.

"Can you file smoke?" queried the foreman.

"Yes, sir, if you'll screw it in the vise for me," answered the boy. He got the job.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 10th day of March, 1928, B. S. Short (Single), of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration March 13, 1928, and recorded in Book U, Vol. 22, page 141, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said B. S. Short has failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and has failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and has remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3rd, 1940,

Beginning on the north side of Rossville Avenue at the southeast corner of the property heretofore conveyed by J. D. Cotter, Executor, to W. T. Alsobrook by deed dated Jan. 10th, 1923, and registered Jan. 15th, 1923, in Book D, Vol. 17, page 606, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tenn., thence southeastwardly along the North line of Rossville Avenue, 64 feet, more or less, to the northwest corner of the property heretofore conveyed by James Cotter to John T. Cotter and wife, Kate Cotter, by deed dated April 10, 1882, and registered Feb. 10th, 1883, in Book M, Vol. 2, page 702 of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tenn.,; thence Northwardly along the west line of the John T. Cotter lot 179 feet to an alley; thence Northwestwardly along said alley, forty feet, more or less, to the Northeast corner of the property willed by William Cotter to J. P. Cotter as No. 408 Adams St.; thence Southwardly passing the Northeast corner of the Alsobrook lot at about 75 feet, in all 145 feet to the beginning, and being the property devised by Will of William Cotter, deceased, to J. D. Cotter as being located at 1904 Rossville Ave., a duly certified copy of which Will was issued 29th of April, 1925, and registered May 1st, 1925, in Book E, Vol. 19, page 511 of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tenn. Also the south part of the east 14 feet of lot No. 1, and the south part of the West part of lot No. 2 Cotter's S/D of the Wayne tract, as shown by plat of record in Record Book M, Vol. 2, page 676 Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tenn.; beginning at the Northeast corner of Rossville Ave. and Adams St. as now located; thence Northwardly along the east line of said Adams St. 71.6 feet to a stake; thence Southeastwardly along a fence a distance of 60 feet eight inches, to an intersecting fence, being a point in Lot No. 2 above referred to; thence Southwardly along said intersecting fence a distance of 107 feet to a point in the north line of Rossville Ave. 66 feet, 3 inches from the beginning point; thence Northwestwardly along the North line of Rossville Ave. 66 feet, 3 inches, to the beginning, being known as No. 1902 Rossville Avenue. Being the same property conveyed by J. D. Cotter, Executor, of the last Will and Testament of William Cotter, deceased, to the said W. T. Alsobrook, by deed dated January 10th, 1923, and registered January 15th, 1923, in Book D, Vol. 17, page 606 of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tenn.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

California High Court Again Upholds Union Shop, Picketing and Boycott

San Francisco.—By denying a rehearing in the Howard automobile case decision, the California supreme court has reaffirmed legality of the union shop and other fundamental rights of organized labor. The decision defined the rights of unions and employers in labor controversies.

The Howard case decision, hailed by organized workers as "a Magna Charta for California labor," declared that California courts have no rights to enjoin peaceful picketing, held the union shop legal, upheld the secondary boycott and found that unions might picket an employer's place of business even though there is no dispute between the employer and his employes.

In the decision, the court said: "It is not the duty of the court, in the absence of violence, to enjoin peaceful picketing," and "Picketing without a strike is no more unlawful than a strike without picketing."

The rehearing was asked by employes of the Howard Automobile company and two employers, one in Long Beach and the other in Oakland. In the original case, the Howard firm sought to enjoin an A. F. of L. auto salesmen's union from picketing the sales office in an effort to obtain a union shop contract.

Chaplain—How could you have the heart to swindle people who trusted you?

Prisoner—But, parson, people who don't trust you can't be swindled.

New York Mayor Awards Higher Pay to Painters

New York City.—Twelve thousand union painters in three boroughs of New York City will receive a wage increase of 10 cents an hour under the terms of an arbitration award handed down by Mayor LaGuardia. The award was based on a report by Louis S. Posner, former member of the state mortgage commission, whom the mayor appointed as referee after settlement of the strike called by District Council 9 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, A. F. of L. affiliate.

Stabilization Plan Asked.

After five weeks spent in collecting data from both sides, Posner recommended that the old hourly wage of $1.50 be increased to $1.60 and that an impartial chairman be designated to devise plans for stabilizing the painting industry. The referee reported that the average annual earnings of painters in this city under the $1.50-an-hour scale had been about $800.

"An industry that betrays so low an average of annual earnings is under a responsibility to demonstrate that it cannot pay any increase," Posner said. "We take it as an economic postulate that an established industry must accord its workers at least a living wage. Until this point is reached, there is no room for discussion as to whether or not wages are high."

The district council's plea for a short work-week in the slack winter to spread employment was heeded by Posner, who recommended that painters be restricted to a three-day work-week in the period between Dec. 15 and March 15, when unemployment in the industry is heaviest. The problem of devising an equitable formula for distributing work in this period was left to the impartial chairman.

Charley Chaplin Sues "Time" and "Life" Nonunion Magazines

Judge Knox, of the New York federal court, in mid-June granted a temporary restraining order against the publication of the number of Life containing a full-page likeness of Charley Chaplin as "The Dictator," in the film of that title, without permission of the film producers. Suit for a million dollars damages and a permanent restraining order was filed by Chaplin and his associates, and the editors and publishers of both Time and Life were named in the petition. While "The Dictator" was supposed to be a comedy, paradoxically it may turn out a tragedy to the publishers of Life and Time.

Both Time and Life magazines are printed by the notoriously anti-union printing concern of R. R. Donnelley & Sons company (Lakeside Press), Chicago, against whom a nationwide campaign is being carried on by the Chicago printing trades unions. The campaign has the indorsement of the American Federation of Labor as well as that of all state federations of labor affiliated therewith. Members of organized labor are requested to refuse to patronize these two magazines until such time as they are printed under union conditions.

Buying Power Boost Urged For Low-Income Families

Washington, D. C.—Milo Perkins, Director of Marketing of the Department of Agriculture, estimates that "there are 80,000,000 persons in this land of plenty who get along somehow on an average cash income of only $69 a month for the whole family." He said "the 65 per cent of our families" living on this small average monthly pittance "need twice that much income for a minimum standard of living. The unsatisfied wants of two-thirds of our people make up the greatest new market that has ever loomed before our businessmen and farmers. It's right in our own backyard We've got to use some imagination and find ways to build a more industrious, and therefore a more prosperous America."

MORE ABOUT Convention

The powerful voting bloc from the Chattanooga Central Labor union is under complete control of the delegate from that body, T. R. Cuthbert.

Because complete stenographic reports are being made of every word spoken in convention hall, The Labor World's correspondent is devoting much time in other fields in order to give its readers a complete coverage of the convention activities in every detail. For that reason a good deal of time has been spent investigating conditions in some of the cafes, and especially in the French quarter. Although the working hours of many of the singers and dancers appear to be unduly long, the strain of their work seems to have had no ill effect on health, all of them being in excellent form, from long-range observation.

The climate in New Orleans has been perfect and the food something to remember a long time. Inhabitants of the city say that the water is most palatable.

From time to time readers of The Labor World must be content with short bulletins due to lack of time in filing complete stories and the very large and numerous assignments that must be covered during the short stay here of the correspondent.

MORE ABOUT J. Mahoney

quately enforce the many fine labor laws that have been passed in the legislature.

Commissioner Sidney E. Bryant and his capable assistants have done all they could with what money that has been allotted to them. Today, however, we see a department of labor in name only with only a very small per cent. of its employes enforcing the labor laws, while the majority, paid from the federal social security board funds, are interested primarily in the social work of the employment service and unemployment insurance.

Tennessee and many of its counties, particularly Hamilton county, also need mediation or arbitration boards for the settlement of labor disputes. Laws could be passed giving the commissioner of labor or his representatives the right to serve as arbiter or mediator in labor controversies. Such a law could prevent many strikes and lockouts and thereby save thousands of dollars to employer and employe groups alike.

We, in Tennessee, have much to be thankful for the splendid progress that the Tennessee Federation of Labor has made in the past in labor legislation. I am confident none of these gains will be lost in the 1941 session and that we may look forward to many progressive steps in the 72nd assembly.

funds where retrenchment has been made. Organized labor has consistently taken the stand that national emergencies shall not be used as a means of lowering educational standards.

"Because of current drives of certain organized pressure groups, taxpayers leagues, and 'economy' groups to curtail public education, special attention is called to the following program of education sent by the permanent education committee of the American Federation of Labor to all state federations of labor and all central labor bodies throughout the nation:

"1. Adequate and proper enforcement of compulsory school attendance laws.

"2. Adequate appropriations for the maintenance of schools to be administered for the social well-being of the students to be taught in classes not to exceed twenty-five, in well-constructed buildings, by teachers paid salaries commensurate with the great value of their service to the community.

"3. Professional and social security for teachers, through: statewide tenure laws, teacher pension laws, and leave of absence.

"4. Provision for the training for civic responsibility for all persons in the community.

"5. Negatively, there must be no substantive legislation on curriculum making, and no limitations enacted into law which would prevent the teaching of social and physical sciences in our schools, a principle in absolute keeping with the great tradition of free government upon which our schools are founded."

Officers of state federations and city central bodies are asked to—

"Inform us of any and all attempts to: (a) Cut educational appropriations; (b) attack teacher tenure where it exists or prevent enactment of such laws at this time; (c) prevent teacher affiliation with labor; (d) enact legislation limitations upon courses of study; (e) attack or fail to provide broad vocational training, recognized as of the same importance socially as formal academic training; vocational training to be administered in close co-operation with organized labor in recognition of immediate, local problems."

Federation Head Is Local Visitor

Dr. George S. Counts, national president of the American Federation of Teachers, passed through town this week on his way to the A. F. of L. convention in New Orleans.

As he arrived late Tuesday night and left early Wednesday afternoon, he did not have time to meet with any group of the local membership. He spent the night at the Stanton Smiths' and conferred Wednesday morning with President Willard Millsaps, of the Chattanooga local.

He expressed appreciation for the assistance the A. F. of L. is rendering the A. F. of T. in organizational work, paying two organizers full time and paying the expenses of other workers. Prospects of the teachers' federation looked brighter than ever, since the Buffalo convention, he said.

The A. F. of T. will submit resolutions in support of federal aid to education and in defense of public education against the attacks of those who use the national emergency defense program as an excuse to curtail it.

Dr. Counts hopes to get back to Chattanooga for a meeting with the local later in the year.

and when we will have peace on earth again.

Should certain of the nations be successful in this war, we wonder just what status Christianity would have? Would Christmas be done away with? Imagine the coming generations waking up on Dec. 25 and it just being an ordinary day. To us that would be a terrible calamity and we think that couldn't happen to us. Do you know that in our very midst there are children and grown-ups to whom Christmas day is just Dec. 25, due to poverty, sickness, selfishness, and the indifference of many of us?

Let us look around and if there is any one that is less fortunate than we are, let's divide with them and prolong the reverent observance of the birth of our Savior and pray for the time when man will take the implements of war and make them into plough shares and that there will be peace on earth and good will to all mankind.

DIXIE FOUNDRY CO. TAKES LICKING IN FIGHT WITH UNION

A widespread campaign against the Dixie Foundry company of Cleveland, Tenn., because of its unfair attitude toward labor, has been highly successful, Central Labor union was advised this week.

Andrew Murphy, secretary of the Cleveland local of the Stove Mounters' and Porcelain Enamelers' union, writing the letter, said that practically every large customer, with the exception of the Montgomery Ward company, Chicago mail order house, had ceased purchasing the Dixie company's product.

Further it is set forth that the stoves purchased by Montgomery Ward company do not bear the Dixie foundry number plate.

Labor's Home Is Ready!

DEDICATION MONDAY

City and County Officials Invited As Old Vine St. Orphanage Receives Union Owners

Monday night, Dec. 2, will be one of the biggest dates in the history of the Chattanooga labor movement as the fine new labor temple will receive its "house-warming." Although several local unions have already held a few meetings in it, Monday night will be the occasion for an official dedication.

For over thirty years, from time to time, efforts have been made for union labor to possess its own home, under whose roof all the unions can meet together, and in a more substantial way be firmly knit together.

The last effort, finally successful, was fanned to life by Secretary Mabee, who began to "rave" again about a labor home. In spite of the fact that he was supposed to be "plumb silly" to start talking again about something that "cannot be done," the building is ready.

The old meeting hall at 114½ West Seventh street is abandoned, the charters have been removed, the telephones have been changed, and this Thanksgiving season is really significant.

Special honored guests have been invited for the occasion. It is hoped that President William Green will be present on his way back to Washington from the New Orleans convention. The mayor and board of commissioners have been invited, and also the county judge and the Hamilton county court. Judges Miller, Ballard, Foust and Lusk are expected to be present, and President Gerald Foley, of the TFL, will be there. Members of the Hamilton county delegation to the legislature are also invited.

There will be music, flowers and refreshments. The various auxiliaries and feminine delegates to Central Body have charge of refreshments and entertaining.

The public in general as well as all union members are invited to celebrate with union labor on the realization of a dream. People will be surprised at the splendor of the achievement. The old Vine Street orphanage on Vine street has been transformed from a dingy and dirty building into one with thirteen trim meeting rooms well lighted, tile floors, hundreds of gallons of paint and varnish being used to brighten it up.

An elegant ladies' lounge will please the most fastidious. That particular place has been the pet project of the womenfolk, and their labors have reached glorious success.

No business will be transacted by Central Body other than dedicatory ceremonies. The rest of the time will be spent in inspection and rejoicing.

Truly, every member of organized labor should come to our new home to welcome "outsiders" as they drop in for a visit. The opening will start about 7 p.m., rain or shine.

AFL Hears Labor Unity From FDR; Plans Urged For Defense Job Tapering

New Orleans.—The American Federation of Labor's 60th annual convention here settled down to the first week's work after listening to a number of speakers and the labor plea for peace, made by President Roosevelt in a message to William Green.

"Peace may not be easy to achieve and the intricate problems involved may not be easy to solve," the president wrote, "but when men of honor and good intentions sit down together they can work out a solution which will restore the much-needed harmony either by unity or by a sensible working agreement."

The president urged the A. F. of L to aid national unity and the defense program by making an unselfish, a far-sighted and a patriotic effort to bring about a just and honorable peace" in labor's ranks.

Ready to Meet CIO.

Replying to the Chief Executive in the name of the convention, President Green said that the federation was ready to meet with a negotiating committee from the CIO "anywhere, any time, and any place." He quoted the Executive Council's recommendation on the subject of labor unity, thanked President Roosevelt for his message and reiterated the federation's full support of the government's defense plans and policies.

Convention speakers included representatives of four federal agencies, Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board; Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing authority; Dr. John R. Steelman, head of the Federal Conciliation service, and D. B. Lassiter, deputy national youth administrator.

Altmeyer said that the board was considering methods of protecting the social security rights of civilian workers in navy yards and arsenals and of men called into military service.

Extension of Programs Used.

He reiterated his conviction that unemployment and old-age insurance programs should be extended to agricultural workers, domestic servants and employes of non-profit agencies, and expressed a hope that a plan of health insurance which would not interfere with a patient's free choice of a pyhsician could be worked out.

Mr. Straus stressed the necessity for formulating a program to meet the needs of 5,000,000 workers in national defense industries who might be thrown out of work by the re-establishment of a peace-time economy.

He urged expansion of the USHA program as the best answer to the problem. The lag in residential construction since 1929, the obsolescence of existing homes and the growth of population have combined to produce a need for 1,300,000 dwellings by 1950, Straus declared.

"Let us plan now," he said, "to take up the slack in employment that is sure to occur by a program of useful public works, thoughtfully conceived and carefully worked out now to provide maximum benefits at minimum costs.

"What kind of public works offers opportunity for almost unlimited employment without threat of competition to private business? What kind of construction will pay the biggest dividends in human happiness at the smallest cost to the taxpayer? What kind

Central Body "Puts" For Third Time

For the third time, Central Labor union last Monday night contributed another $500 toward the new labor temple, making a total of $1,500 that it has contributed. Delegates evidenced a determination that no matter how much opposition might be encountered, labor is to have a fitting home. Carpenters, painters, brewery workers and hodcarriers locals also contributed as much as Central Body, and they are to be congratulated on their fine union spirit.

Civic Chorus Has Five Attractions For This Season

Season to Open Dec. 10 With New York Guest Stars at Auditorium.

Conductor J. Oscar Miller, of the Chattanooga Civic Chorus, has announced five brilliant attractions for the 1940-41 season, including guest appearances of eight soloists during the all-star series. Miss May Archibald is ticket chairman for the chorus. Edward Schaefer, chorus president, is assisting Conductor Miller in arrangements for the concerts, all of which will be presented in the Soldiers and Sailors Memorial auditorium.

Mendelssohn's oratorio, "St. Paul," will open the season on Dec. 10. New York guest stars to assist will be Dorothy Sandlin, soprano; Hardesty Johnson, tenor, and Wellington Ezekiel, bass-baritone. Other events will comprise a recital by Allan Jones, Hollywood tenor, Jan. 28; a popular concert featuring "A Ballad for Americans" (Robinson), March 11; and the May Musical Festival, May 12 and 14, when Eleanor Steber, soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera association; Jean Watson, contralto; Willard Young, tenor, and Lansing Hatfield, baritone, will form the guest quartet. A concert performance of Reginald DeKoven's comic opera, "Robin Hood," will close the festival. Ottokar T. Cadek is concertmaster of the orchestra to accompany the singers at the December and May concerts.

Season tickets or single admissions may be secured at ticket campaign headquarters in the Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce, 819 Broad street, or at the Memorial auditorium. Mail orders will be filled in order of their receipt.

Dr. Harry A. Millis Appointed Member Of Labor Board

Washington.—Dr. Harry A. Millis has been appointed by President Roosevelt to succeed J. Warren Madden, former chairman of the national labor relations board.

Naming of Dr. Millis to the board was announced by secretary of the labor board Anderson B. Hoover, chief administrative officer. Last Thursday L. Emmett Hollowell, vice chairman, and Madden, chairman, were made members of the president's committee to investigate charges of unfair labor practices against the Ford Motor company.

Dr. Millis' appointment was announced by the American Federation of Labor which engaged him with assisting Madden in the Ford case.

Concurrent with appointment of Dr. Millis, the president nominated Madden to be a member of the United States court of claims.

Dr. Millis, who is 57, is professor and chairman of economics at the University of Chicago. He served on the old labor board in 1934 and 1935. He is a member of the National Academy of Economics and Political Science.

Mr. Ignatz would have this week hope to see all our members at their meeting night.

Reading in the daily papers about the A. F. of L. convention I heartily agree with the gentlemen that want to purge labor's ranks of racketeers and gangsters. Everyone knows that we have enough to contend with, and I believe it is the wish of the rank and file of the membership to keep our linen clean.

As this comes to you another Thanksgiving has come and gone, and as you pick over the bones of that turkey, chicken, rabbit, 'possum or plain pig just stop long enough to praise Him that made it possible for us to live in a country that is free from war and misery and pray that this may never happen to us. Hoping for many more happy thanksgivings for all of our people and praying for the whole world to come to a peaceful settlement, and may the Word of God be on each mind—Peace on earth, good toward men—than mankind advance.

He was 56 years old. He became ill after his arrival in Chicago on Nov. 11 en route to the American Federation of Labor in New Orleans.

Mr. Colleran was born in New York. After leaving the public schools he became a plasterer and active in union affairs. He served first as president of Local 60, then as vice-president of the international association and in 1929 was elected to the presidency. He also had served as president of the Building Trades Council of New York City. In 1934 he represented the American Federation of Labor at the British Trades Union Congress in England.

$650,000 BACK WAGES PAID LUMBER WORKERS

Washington.—At the completion of the first four months campaign of the wage and hour division of the U. S. department of labor to enforce the fair labor standards act of 1938 in logging camps, sawmills, lumber manufacturing plants, and associated establishments, Col. Phihlip B. Fleming, wage and hour administrator, announced that in 965 concerns back wages totaling $650,097 were found due employes to bring their wages or overtime compensation up to the figure required by the law.

Benefiting by this amount, a large part of which has already been paid, were 20,051. Many of these had been receiving wages averaging about 10 cents per hour and some were getting as low as a nickel. Col. Fleming said that in addition to the restitution already paid or computed, additional thousands of dollars are payable under investigations still under way.

Union people and friends are invited to enjoy themselves at Hedges. The house card is on the wall.

Overtime Evasions Illegal, Fleming Warns Employers

Washington, D. C.—Continuing to pay the same salary to workers for a 42-hour week after October 24, is a violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act, even though the employer makes a show of compliance through bookkeeping manipulations, Colonel Fleming, Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, U. S. Department of Labor, warned employers.

Pension Rights of Public Employes Will Be Guarded in Security Bill

Washington.—In a telegram to President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, expressed agreement with the principle of amending S. 4269 to assure "the complete protection of the existing rights of public employes."

The American Federation of Labor asked Senator Wagner last week to hold the bill in abeyance until conferences can be held to determine the question of whether amendments are needed to safeguard pension plans of public employes.

The main objective of the bill, which was introduced by Senator Wagner in the senate and Representative John W. McCormack in the house at the request of the American Federation of Labor, is to extend provisions of the social security act to some 15,000,000 persons not now covered.

Senator Wagner's telegram to President Green follows:

"Thank you for your recent letter on S. 4269. The essential objective of the bill is, of course, to extend old age protection to the millions who do not now enjoy its benefits, including the 1,500,000 public employes throughout the country who are not covered by a pension plan of any kind, as well as those who move in or out of employment covered by such a plan.

"Nothing in S. 4269 is calculated to repeal or interfere with the independent status of existing pension systems covering teachers, firemen, policemen or other public employes to reduce the benefits thereunder or to turn over to the federal government the reserve funds of such systems. The bill, as you know, was introduced in its present form at the request of the American Federation of Labor and is based squarely on your traditional principle of extending pension protection to those not enjoying it and safeguarding pension protection where it exists.

"From my discussions and correspondence with teacher and other groups I find widespread agreement with the object of the legislation.

"You may be assured of my wholehearted co-operation in working out every affirmative safeguard to carry out the intent of the bill in protecting existing pension plans. I am therefore in complete agreement with the principle of any amendment along lines suggested in your letter and have so indicated to all who have written me."

President Green commented:

"This bill was introduced at the request of the American Federation of Labor in order to extend provisions for income in old age to groups for which provision had not previously been made. All groups are agreed upon the big objective, and I am sure will solve the technical problems involved. The American Federation of Labor wants to protect existing pension plans as well as to extend protection to those not yet covered."

Chain Grocery Strike Won by Retail Clerks

Philadelphia, Pa.—Fifteen hundred chain grocery sores in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, closed since Oct. 15, reopened here when members of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, A. F. of L. affiliate, voted to accept the agreement with the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company and the American Stores company.

The clerks walked out when the Philadelphia locals of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America struck for higher wages. The butchers negotiated a new contract shortly after the strike carrying a minimum of $32 a week and managers of "super-markets" $40, but refused to cross the clerks' picket line until that union also secured an agreement.

Donald J. Marquis, vice-president of the Retail Clerks, said the agreement, affecting more than 6,000 employes, could cost the two companies $500,000 a year in pay increases. The new contract, to expire June 1, 1942, provides for general wage increases of $1 to $2 weekly, a closed shop, re-employment of clerk-draftees without loss of seniority or sick benefits, time-and-a-half for overtime to be paid in cash rather than time off, the right of the union to provide all new help, and the right of an employe to refuse to pass a picket line established by another union.

Firm Sfand Is Imperative

Attacks on the 40-hour week continue. Some spokesmen of big business think they see a chance to break down the 40-hour standard by spreading the erroneous idea that the defense program requires lengthening hours. There is no indication that they are getting anywhere, but the friends of the 40-hour week, which includes the vast majority of Americans, must be on the alert, as the American Federation of Labor Executive Council pointed out in its report to the New Orleans convention.

Only constant vigilance and united action on the part of labor can prevent the "pernicious drive of reactionary employers" for longer hours, the council emphasized. It went on to say:

"We must keep the facts before the public. We must insist on maintaining the 40-hour week because it makes for greater production. It has taken fourteen years of persistent effort, since we made our first declaration for the five-day, 40-hour week in 1926, to win this standard for the United States. We cannot now relax our efforts and see our gains for human conservation swept away.

"The 40-hour standard is one of the strongest bulwarks of American defense. Countries which have lengthened hours to increase armament production have found that longer hours defeat the very purpose they are intended to accomplish. Increasing accidents, poor quality of work, and decreased production are the result of lengthening the work week."

Fire Prevention Goes Forward

Fire departments of American cities are inventing new methods and adopting time-tested measures for the prevention of fire, the International City Managers' association reports. In view of the appalling loss from fires every year, this is cheering news.

The Cleveland fire department inspected 80,000 homes in an intensive campaign during the past nine months, and co-operated with the school system in giving a course in fire prevention to all high school students within the city.

Cincinnati, conducting a special campaign to eliminate the overloading of electric circuits, got 90,000 fuses of 25 and 30 ampere capacity replaced by 15 ampere fuses.

The Houston, Tex., fire department is sponsoring two educational radio programs each month over a local station. Miami and Tallahassee, Fla., have recently adopted ordinances setting up fire prevention bureaus.

Labor and Democracy

The American Federation of Labor has helped to make democracy work in America by practicing it as well as preaching it. We have helped to make democracy secure by fighting social and economic injustice and obtaining the enactment of a great body of social legislation. In these days, when the forces of hatred, oppression and dictatorship have engulfed most of Europe and are making threatening gestures toward America, we of the American Federation of Labor stand stalwartly in support of our government, ready to work, sacrifice and fight, if necessary, in defense of the American way of life.—William Green.

The national rate of preference for gas fuel in newly constructed homes is definitely on the increase, a survey by the American Gas Association reveals.

A report on 128,000 new homes built last year, according to gas utility companies, shows that 116,216 of these home owners, or 90.8% are cooking with gas, 99,118 or 77.4% have installed gas water heaters and 79,069 or 61.8% of the homes are heated with gas. These figures all reflect increases over the previous year, gas cooking having advanced 2.8%, gas water heating 2.4% and gas heating 3.2%.

Squirts from Clerks

By Flutterbug

We know that our clerks employed at King-Dobbs company are glad that Mr. Hedges of Hedges' Corner has signed a contract with Culinary Workers' Local No. 874. Hedges serve delicious lunches, and we want all our union people to stop by and try their lunches or sandwiches.

Did you know that Bennett-Hubbard peanut butter is the only union-made peanut butter in the U. S. A.? Take it from one who knows, it is the best and cleanest peanut butter you can buy.

Wonder why the editor of The Labor World spent so much time in the Latin quarters in New Orleans? Wonder if Brownie was with him?

When you men have some extra time to spend downtown (while the little woman is shopping, f'r instance remember that the American and Brunswick billiard parlors are the only union ones in the city.

What popular labor leader in the city had a birthday this week?

We cannot understand why all of the local unions do not come into the new labor temple. Are they waiting until a few loyal unions get it all fixed up and in A-1 shape then want to come in and share the glory? Any union that is loyal to the local labor movement should come into the temple immediately. Why let a few bear all the burden just because they are willing? Get in there and do your part by giving the temple your moral and financial support.

Our case history this week is Mr. H. K. Hall, who has been an employe of James Supply company for five years. Mr. Hall made such a good ("bouncer") for Retail Clerks' Local No. 625 that they promoted him to vice-president, which position he still holds. He is 24 years old, married and the proud pap of two little Halls. Mr. Hall's favorite sports are fishing and hunting (or hunting for fish). He says he is a farmer at heart, but will have to wait until he retires on his social security to take that up. We don't know so much about the farming, but we do know that at heart Mr. Hall is one of the jolliest men we have ever known. He always manages to have some fun and get a few laughs out of life and help others do the same. Besides being a charter member he is also one of the most loyal members of Local No. 625. He was sent as delegate from his local to the Retail Clerks' International convention held in Cleveland, O., two years ago and brought back such good report we are all afraid he will be sent to the next convention. When you have an opportunity go by James Supply company and get acquainted with our vice-president. You won't be wasting your time.

Get out your social calendar and mark a date for Saturday night, Dec. 7, and one for Saturday night, Dec. 14. Teachers' No. 246 are giving a bridge party at the new temple Dec. 7, and Bakers' No. 25 are giving a bingo party at the same place Dec. 14. Make your plans now to be present at both of these parties.

When you have any dry cleaning to be done be sure to send it to U. S. A. Dry Cleaning company. It is the only union dry cleaning company in the city and deserves your patronage. Go by and get acquainted with Mrs. Guthrie, the owner of the plant, and let her show you the beautiful work they do. You will find her a charming and amiable lady. All of her employes are members of Retail Clerks' Local No. 625.

Next meeting will be at the new temple and if we keep taking in new members you are going to have to give us a larger hall than the one we have engaged. The date is the second Tuesday in December, so don't forget, and the editor of The Labor World is invited.

HARRY STEVENSON

Harry Stevenson, President of the International Molders' Union of North America, started his career as a Trades Unionist in 1902 when he joined Local No. 40, Newark, New Jersey. His diligent work and organizing ability were soon recognized and he has served in many capacities in the New Jersey Labor movement.

Mr. Stevenson has been active in the Labor Union movement for nearly forty years. He was a delegate to the New York Conference Board from Local Union No. 40. He also represented his Local in the Central Labor Union as well as the State Federation of Labor.

He was elected as a delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention in 1919 and has attended every convention since that time.

Mr. Stevenson has succeeded in reaching a mutual understanding regarding wages, hours, and working conditions in the industry, which has given him great prestige among Labor leaders and employers alike.

His address is: Mr. Harry Stevenson, President, International Molders' Union of North America, Lock Box 688, Cincinnati, Ohio.

MOLDERS' UNION LABEL

The International Molders' Union of North America adopted its Union Label in 1890.

The Union was organized in Philadelphia July 5, 1859, and is one of the most inspiring pages of organized Labor's records.

The Molders' Union Label is a coated plate in brass which is affixed to the castings.

Vegetable Laxative With Proved Feature

The punctual, satisfying relief from constipation and its headaches, biliousness, bad breath, so often experienced by users of this laxative, is mainly due to its combination of purely vegetable ingredients.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient has high medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative"; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

A little of this spicy, aromatic product by simple directions at bedtime, generally allows time for a good night's rest; acts gently and thoroughly next morning.

Next time, take time-tested, economical BLACK-DRAUGHT.

TEACHER TALK

Come to the Labor Temple house-warming Monday night (Dec 2) and see what a transformation our fellow-unionists have wrought in the old Vine Street Orphanage. This will be our temple just as much as anyone else's, and we hope our members will turn out at this first official function in Labor's new home.

* * *

City teachers' hopes were dashed again Saturday when the state supreme court handed down its decision that the city would be discriminated against if the salary law of 1935 were followed. We suppose it's not the business of the courts if teachers are discriminated against year in, year out.

Badminton group, which did not meet this week, will meet as usual next Thursday night at Central.

Union Men Will Build Nantahala Dam, Tunnel

Andrews, N. C.—Several building and construction trades unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor negotiated a closed shop agreement with the Utah Construction Company for the work on the big Nantahala Dam and tunnel project following a strike caused by the refusal of the company to bargain with the unions to which their employes belonged. The increased wages called for by the agreement run from 15 cents to 50 cents an hour. The agreement was signed in Washington, D. C., by the president of the Utah Construction Company and the international officers of the unions concerned.

of public works will confer the greatest benefit on our children and on our children's children?

Big Program Needed.

"I believe the answer to all of these questions is slum clearance and the construction of low-rent housing. This is one program of public works that fills all of these conditions. Millions of men could be employed usefully and fruitfully in a nationwide program of slum clearance and home construction for a generation.

"I am not thinking of a small program or of small figures. I believe we must plan now to meet a big need in a big way. I believe we must plan to face the possibility that at least 5,000,000 men may be thrown out of work, directly or indirectlly, by the re-establishment of a peace-time economy in this country, unless we do something now to prevent it. Plans should be based on the reasonable expectation that employment may have to be provided directly for at least 2,500,000 men. The expenditures for consumption by those so employed will provide jobs for the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, and all the others."

Tips Hints Helps For Women Keeping Ahead of the Times

DO YOU KNOW? . . .

That dozens of scientifically and commercially valuable products can be extracted from old shoes and scrap leather. Chrome oxide green, the only perfectly permanent green known, has been extracted from old shoes. Many other things extracted from old shoes include animal charcoal, used in filtering and bleaching; gas for fuel; pyrocatechol, a photographic developer; indole, a perfume base and principal component of jasmine; an antiseptic better than iodoform; tropacocaina, a local anesthetic superior to cocaine, as well as fats and oils and many other products.

The furriers' goal this year is "Two Fur Coats for Every Woman." Federal reserve figures show the national increase in fur coats for the past year was 28 per cent. Very cheap furs are selling in unprecedented quantity, and so are the very expensive ones. Almost every working girl can have a choice of a fur coat in coney, muskrat, kid, caracul pay, mouton and many others in a price ranging from $50 to $100. Even the mink and sable girls want an extra fur coat for sports wear. Furs are cheaper, more plentiful and more attractive than ever before.

* * *

You loll in the bathtub and enjoy your bubble bath if you have one of those chromium gadgets that fasten across the tub to hold your book, your cold creams, or even a long cooling drink.

GLAMOR

Whenever you feel "nervous as a cat" and tied up in knots take a few minutes exercise. Surprising how this will relax your muscles and ease you into perfect sleep.

* * *

Up or down—we'd like to know? While daytime skirts have been getting shorter and shorter a new Paris collection comes out with skirts definitely down to the calf or about 12 inches from the ground, and at same time evening skirts climbed 2 inches above the ankle. Silly, we think, but we wish the designers would get together on the thing. Whether you wear a dinner suit or a plaid wool skirt with a velvet jacket dripping with sequins to this year's designers.

Housewives can keep in trim right in their own homes through the exercise they get running after children and doing the housework, but it is the business girl who sits at a desk all day who needs to take time out for corrective exercises. A few weeks of exercising will take out the kinks, pep up the personality and streamline the figure. All the current magazines are full of outlines for reducing and corrective routines, but for simply keeping in trim and limber, there is nothing quite so good as the old time card trick. Just scattered a deck of cards far and wide on the floor, then up and down you go, 52 times from bentover to erect position and pick them all up. If this isn't enough try using a bag of confetti!

We hear so much about reducing these days, but if you're one of those underweight girls who would like to have well rounded curves, you must consume more calories every day than your body actually needs. Plan a calorie rich diet and stick to it. A pint of cream a day, cream soups instead of clear ones, larger portions of food, milk and crackers in the middle of the morning, and afternoon will all help put on weight. Plenty of sleep is also necessary, so try and get nine hours every night. If you can't eat breakfast, try takink a walk before breakfast to work up an appetite, and think how lucky you are to be able to eat candy and sodas!

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

A woman chemist with the aid of two male associates in the bureau of home economics, U. S. department of agriculture, has discovered a method of sterilizing wool fabrics which has proved a boon to hospitals and dry cleaners. Existing methods, such as boiling and heating under pressure to destroy organisms, proved unsatisfactory, so far much experimentation it was found that by placing the wool fabrics in a standard dry cleaning solvent and heating it, it could be sterilized without damage to the fibers.

American women, who long ago won their battle for suffrage, will be interested in the fight being made by the women of Mexico, with labor women playing a leading part, to win the right to vote.

Congress enacted a law which, it was hoped, would give suffrage for the election just passed. But only two of the required 23 states had ratified the measure.

Now, with election out of the way, the fight has been renewed. Already the new congress has been put under fire. The Mexican branch of the Union of American Women submitted a letter demanding that the legal action be completed.

Now that suffrage can have no effect upon the presidency for another six years, it is hoped some progress can be made.

Some communist influence is in evidence, but the non-communist women's organizations believe they can handle that menace and that anyway it should not stand in the way of sound democratic development.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKING

Green is one of the most restful colors in interior decoration. The light tints should be used for the walls and the deeper shades for the floors or draperies. But do not combine blue-green and yellow-green in the same room as they are not a happy combination.

* * *

Protect your porcelain enamel sink and drainboard with rubber mats if you would make it last and remain free from discoloration. Once porcelain is marred then practically nothing can be done to remedy the damage. If you use a powdered cleanser see that it is free of grit. Be sure to protect your sink from acid fruit juices which will ruin the finish.

PANTRY PALAVER

Chef's Hints: Mix equal parts of crushed pineapple with sliced cabbage and mayonnaise—a grand salad.

Ever try adding orange peel to your chocolate icing before spreading? Another good but simple icing is whipped cream to which orange and lemon peel have been added.

Mashed bananas and peanut butter mixed and piled on brown bread is a swell quick desert.

At your next party combine your appetizer and salad course and serve first. Make it of avacado halves, drenched with french dressing and filled with fresh shrimps.

You've probably done it before but just a reminder to add nuts and raisins to your next waffle mixture before baking.

For another nippy dinner appetizer dissolve a tiny bit of anchovy paste in tomato juice.

If you haven't tried adding a tablespoon of preserves with little green pepper to a half cup of french dressing and eaten with fruit salad you missed a treat.

There are so many things to use nutmeg on. Just boil parsnips for 15 minutes in boiling water, mix salt and nutmeg in two tablespoons of melted butter, pour over parsnips and bake. They are different and delicious.

Put a half dozen ginger cookies broken up into a half frozen vanilla ice cream and freeze—it's a grand change.

BABY TALK

A great danger lies in the regimenting of youth in thinking and training. With an increasing number of years spent in school, there is a leveling off of individual thinking, for education is mostly the taking over of some one else's ideas.

Today the radio is doing much to unify the thinking processes of both adults and children. Practically all the literary magazines are gone and our news comes sifted and predigested by radio commentators.

It is the responsibility of parents to train their children to look at more than one side of a situation at a time when so large a part of the population read the same pictorial magazine, see the same movies and hear the same radio programs, then they will be less likely to be swept off their feet by mass emotional appeal.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI'S principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

REALIZATION OF 40-YEAR DREAM IS ACHIEVED BEYOND FOND HOPES

High Government Officials Honor Working People —Splendid Floral Tributes Blend With Graceful Ladies Serving Refreshments to Enchanting Music.

Organized labor thrilled and glowed last Monday evening when more than one thousand people swarmed on an inspection tour and dedicated its fine home, just opened at 540 Vine street, formerly the old Vine Street Orphanage.

During the past forty years several attempts to purchase a home wherein all labor could be adequately housed under one roof had failed. Indeed, so consistent were the reverses that many could not realize until the building was dedicated that it had actually happened.

Not only did labor rejoice. Practically every high and honored city and county official appeared in person to congratulate the successful attempt. The federal government was also represented by Commissioner and Mrs. Clarence Williams, of the United States conciliation service.

The Tennessee Federation of Labor was represented in the presence of President Gerald Foley, who came from Nashville expressly for the purpose. Paul Aymon represented the American Federation of Labor, and John Martin represented the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union in his official capaicty.

Vic Hallmark, president of Central Body, presided over the ceremonies in a most dignified, gracious but triumphant manner. In tracing the origin of the latest attempt he told the visitors that it was Central Body Secretary Erskine Mabee who revived a motion eight months ago on the floor of Central Body that a committee be appointed to "investigate the possibilities of purchasing and owning a home for labor." The results of Mr. Mabee's motion, coupled with hard work on the part of the local unions that pitched in, was ready for approval, he said.

Ed Bork, Jr., as chairman of the Labor Temple, was given a framed and mounted poem dedicated to leadership. It was presented by Mr. Hallmark on behalf of members of the unions. Miss Evelyn Dalton Haley, of WAPO, read the poem aloud. In return, Mr. Bork presented a Masonic pin to Mr. Hallmark.

Mr. Hallmark expressed the appreciation of the union to the Gilman Paint company for paint, which was donated for the building; to Clemons Bros. Furniture company for much of the furniture given for the ladies' lounge; to Herbert King for legal services; to Selmon T. Franklin, architect, for donating his services; to the Fischer company for two electric clocks; to Curle Sound Service for donation of a radio, and to the

Dies Expected To "Show Up" Subversives Here

Congressman Martin Dies, heading a congressional committee to expose subversive elements in this country that are attempting to destroy this nation, will appear at the Memorial auditorium this Friday evening. His lecture is being sponsored by the American Legion and the Rotary club jointly.

J. L. Levine, chairman of publicity for the lecture, said that working people should be particularly interested in hearing what Dies has to say. The American Federation of Labor convention, just adjourned last week, expressed itself bitterly against all fascist and communistic elements, both of which must first destroy the labor movement of a country before the government can be made to fall.

Mr. Levine further stated that it is believed that Dies will "name names" involving conclusions he has reached concerning this particular locality. Mr. Levine further expressed himself as believing that the percentage of subversive individuals in this community is not large.

Mr. Dies' address will begin at 7:45 p.m. Tickets of admission are only 50 cents.

Members of organized labor should find Mr. Dies very interesting and enlightening.

Auxiliary Meetings

Typographical Auxiliary 219 will meet next Tuesday night, Dec. 10, at 8 o'clock in the ladies' lounge at the new labor temple, 540 Vine street.

Each member is requested to bring some kind of canned food for the Christmas basket.

MRS. L. M. WORTHINGTON,
President.

MRS. A. M. UNDERWOOD,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Publicity Chairman.

TRACY CITY BAKERS HELP LTBOR TEMPLE

Members of Bakers Local 25 in Tracy City sent a check for $25 to assist in building the new labor temple here. They plan to come here in a body Dec. 14 to attend Bakers' bingo party.

Wiley Couch sent a telegram of congratulations and regretted inability to attend in person.

Hugh Wasson, president of Colonial bakery.

Commissioner of Education T. H. McMillan.

SPECIAL ACTIVITIES NEW LABOR TEMPLE

TEACHERS' benefit bridge party will be held on Saturday, Dec. 7. The committee is planning for a big party and a good time this Saturday evening in one of the large halls at labor's new home. Proceeds from this affair will go to help pay for the furnishings of the ladies' lounge.

STREET R. R. AND BUS AUXILIARY will sponsor a Heinz demonstration on Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Proceeds from this affair will also go to the fund for furnishing the ladies' rooms.

Members of all auxiliaries are especially invited to come, as well as the wives of all the union men. The auxiliary will receive 10 cents for each person who attends, so be sure to come. The meeting will start promptly at 7 o'clock in the ladies' lounge. Don't be late!

BAKERS' No. 25 are sponsoring a bingo party on Saturday night, Dec. 14, at the labor temple. Proceeds from the party are to help the Bakers' pay their pledge to the labor temple fund. Everybody is invited.

Millard's cafe at 339 Market street and the corner of Tenth and Georgia avenue is 100% union. The Dixon drug store at the corner of Fourth and Market street, where they serve lunches, soft drinks, drugs, candies, and etc., is 100% union. Ritchey's restaurant between Fourth and Fifth on Market street is 100% union. These are just a few of the ones that are handy to us, so let's all be sure and look for the union card. If you don't see it, ask for it.

We met at the new labor temple Tuesday, Dec. 2, and it is a fine place to meet. I think that it is something for every union man or woman to be proud of. It is a credit to this city and is something for us all to put our shoulders to the wheel and see that it is carried on through the time to come so that our children will have a much better place to meet and carry on their business than their fathers. If you have not been there, go out and visit this place and I am sure that you will agree with me and will help to encourage every local and show them where they will do much better if they are all under one roof pulling for the same thing.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, O. F. Olinger; vice-president, C. A. Brooks; financial secretary and treasurer, E. J. Self; recording secretary, T. E. Dawson; wardens, W. H. Killingsworth and R. L. Bearden; sentinels, Joe Robinson and John Farrar. Board members: Incline, C. R. Bice; shop and garage, Henry Hughes; car and bus operators, J. C. Allison, with T. C. Stewart and J. H. Cloud tied; corresponding secretary, T. R. Underwood, Jr.

We have just finished negotiating our contract with our company and we are very much pleased with it. We gained in hours, wages and several other working conditions. We received a raise in wages which amounted to about $22,000 a year for the entire group. Some of the men in the shop and garage received an increase in wages that amounted up to as much as 15 cents per hour.

The weather is getting bad now and I just want to call to the attention of all motorists to be careful at all school street intersections, blind alleys, and most of all, be sure and watch the railroad crossings so as not to get into a train.

* * *

We still have on our sick list I. C. Rowland, H. M. Walker, Frank Jones and W. T. Manley. Hope to see them back on duty real soon.

* * *

Be sure and be at the next meeting as there will be several important things brought up, and also the tie between J. H. Cloud and T. C. Stewart will be run off.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' SCRAPS

Would like to know why more of our members did not attend our first meeting Tuesday night in our new labor temple. Those who were not there missed something. Vick Hallmark was with us and made a wonderful talk on organized labor.

Lawrence Ward, who runs the concession in our labor temple, is a member of our local and don't forget to go in and patronize him when out there, as part of the proceeds go for labor.

* * *

Beulah Ogle made a talk at our meeting Tuesday night on how we should conduct ourselves at meetings, and I am sure all of you would agree with her if you had been there to hear her.

Remember your driver's license may be revoked under these four offenses: Manslaughter, operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, failing to stop after an accident, committing a felony in which a motor vehicle was used, and unsatisfied judgments in courts of record.

Never drive while under the influence of intoxicating drinks.

"The drink he took, to keep him warm, caused an accident that knocked him cold."

Be careful when approaching transportation vehicles.

More and more leaves are falling. The wind blows them hither and yon. Here today and there tomorrow. Leaves on the rail or on the pavement cause skidding when stopping transportation equipment, automobiles, and trucks—watch for them. Slow down when approaching them.

One For Dad.

Dad (reprovingly) — Son, when George Washington was your age he was a surveyor already.

Son—I know, dad, and when he was your age he was president.

Let's all of us get together and have a crowd out on our next meeting night, as we expect to have a lot of applicants up for initiation.

AFL Sees Pay Increases Possible Now

Raise Wages, Maintain 40-Hour Week To Boost Production for Defense, Survey of Bnsiness Urges

Washington, D. C.—Higher production makes wage increases possible and they should be given without delay, the American Federation of Labor declares in its current survey of business.

Survey keynotes are insistence on wage increases, maintenance of 40-hour week, cooperation for effective production.

Keynotes of the survey are insistence on wage increases, maintenance of the 40-hour week, cooperation for effective production.

"America's future," the survey says, "depends upon our ability to produce quickly the means for adequate national defense against the revolution that terrorizes Europe. Production is the key to our problem. The whole nation must work together, co-operating without waste of people, time or materials.

"Whatever minimizes or blocks co-operation, slows down essential production. Whether interference lies in individuals or groups it impedes progress toward national defense when every hour is important.

Spirit of People Key to Defense.

"The key to defense lies in the spirit of our people. If there is the will to do, to dare, to endure hardships rather than give up a way of life, to such a spirit all things are possible. But such a spirit is born of freedom and is nourished by confidence of rights maintained and confidence that even-handed justice will assure opportunity for progress and higher standards and levels of living."

The survey stresses the responsibility of union members to give their best and also to preserve work standards already won and to raise the standards of the lower paid. It says:

"Naturally union men and women are the nation's great reliance in this time of emergency. We can give the utmost in our daily work because we know that our rights are protected by union agreements.

Standards of Work Must Be Preserved.

"While giving our best, we also have another responsibility: To preserve the work standards already won in this country, and to bring a better living standard to those now below the danger line of health. Undernourished and underprivileged people are a liability to any nation at any time. In a time of national danger they are a danger. They are easily persuaded to communism or other un-American philosophies. With rising production and employment, and higher company profits, we have for the first time eleven years a chance to see that no one is undernourished. So let us eliminate danger to national unity from the hungry and those denied opportunity."

Short Hours Declared Production Aid.

The survey also stresses the necessity of maintaining the 40-hour week. "History shows that production increases as work hours are shortened," it is declared.

> Raise wages, the survey asks, pointing out that the president, the defense commission and many leading citizens have repeatedly declared that adequate living standards are a first line of defense.

"To bring those who are under fed, ill clad and poorly housed to a decent level will require industry to pay the largest wage increases possible," the survey said.

Higher production makes wage increases possible now, the survey contends, citing figures showing higher output and profits as proof that industry is able to raise pay. Discussing wage principles, the survey says:

"Employers are claiming that wage increases will bring price increases. Companies able to pay higher wages sometimes use a wage increase as an excuse for unnecessary price increases. This is against the public good. Figures show that increased production and profits furnish a basis for raising wages."

COMPANY UNION DISSOLVED.

Asheville, N. C.—After a full hearing on the charges filed by the local A. F. of L. union that the so-called "factory committee" set-up eleven years ago by the American-Enka corporation, rayon manufacturers, was a company union, the national labor relations board sustained the charge and ordered the "factory committee" dissolved.

Added Responsibility for Labor

It was truly a joyful throng of trades-unionists last Monday that inspected organized labor's new home, the first time in this city's history that Central Body has actually owned its headquarters and meeting place for itself and affiliated unions. Emotion was plainly written on the faces of many when the short dedicatory ceremony began. The beautiful prayer uttered by one of our own members for Divine guidance was answered by sincere "amens" in our hearts.

The dedication was a solemn occasion as well as one of jubilation. We have added prestige to ourselves in this community, not only through the possession of our own property, but in the astonishing beauty of the building. Not only have we added prestige to our cause—we have taken unto ourselves an increased responsibility.

Our home is in a semi-residential district, most of which is composed of nice edifices, occupied by home-loving families. Many of these families are raising children to be good American citizens. In addition, one of our next-door neighbors is a temple of religion.

Certainly we must be more particular than ever to set a fine example in that neighborhood. Growing children and quiet homes surrounding us will naturally become impressed for years to come as to just what sort of an organization organized labor is.

Therefore we should let it be known, in positive and cold-blooded terms, with no faltering whatever, that 540 Vine street is home to us. Disorderly individuals who, whether intendedly or thoughtlessly, create disturbances should be sternly suppressed.

It should be the duty of every union individual to see that this is carried out to the fullest. If such is not done, our moving into such a neighborhood will become a curse rather than a blessing.

We feel sure that organized labor's high principles will be observed. There need be no alarmist expectancy, but—

Woe to the unwise.

Printers' Secretary Lauds Labor Press of the Nation For Aid in Donnelley Fight

Chicago.—The labor press of the country came in for some fine words of praise from Hugh W. Matheson, executive secretary of the organization committee of Chicago Printing Trades unions, in his report to that organization on the progress of the nationwide campaign against the notoriously anti-union printing concern of R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co. (Lakeside Press). Excerpts from Mr. Matheson's report follow:

"The printing trades unions owe the labor press of the country a profound debt of gratitude for the fine co-operation it is extending in the present struggle against the arch-enemy of organized labor. Without this co-operation the anti-Donnelley campaign would have little or no chance of success."

"Until we get into a fight—such as we are now engaged in with the labor-hating Donnelley concern—little do we realize the importance, power, influence and necessity of the labor press."

"Members of organized labor owe it to themselves to support the labor publications in their community. They can do this best by subscribing for them and by giving preference to their advertisers."

The Chicago printing trades unions have been carrying on a determined fight against the anti-union Donnelley firm for more than two years. At the present time a special nationwide drive is being conducted to remove from that firm the two sports magazines known as National Sportsman and Hunting and Fishing. Members of organized labor are requested to refrain from patronizing these publications and to ask their friends and acquaintances to do likewise.

As substitutes for the nonunion National Sportsman and Hunting and Fishing magazines, the unions recommend these publications: Field and Stream, Sports Afield, Outdoorsman and Outdoor Life. If you are unable to obtain any of these union-printed magazines in your community, advise the organization committee of Chicago Printing Trades Unions, Room 1519, 130 N. Wells street.

Among the more important advertisers who have refused to remove their advertisements from National Sportsman and Hunting and Fishing magazines are the Anheuser-Busch, Inc., brewers Budweiser beer; National Distillers Products corporation, distillers Old Grand-Dad whisky; Manufacturing company, manufacturers of fishing tackle; Morris & Co., tobacco merchant and Gillette Safety Razor company. Trades-unionists are likewise requested to refrain from patronizing the products of these firms until such time as their advertisements are removed from the publications referred to. A complete list of these advertisers may be obtained by writing the union at the address indicated above.

The anti-union Donnelley concern also prints the two magazines known as Time and Life. Union printed substitutes for these publications are: For Time—News week, United States News, The New Republic and The Nation. For Life—Look, Pic and Click.

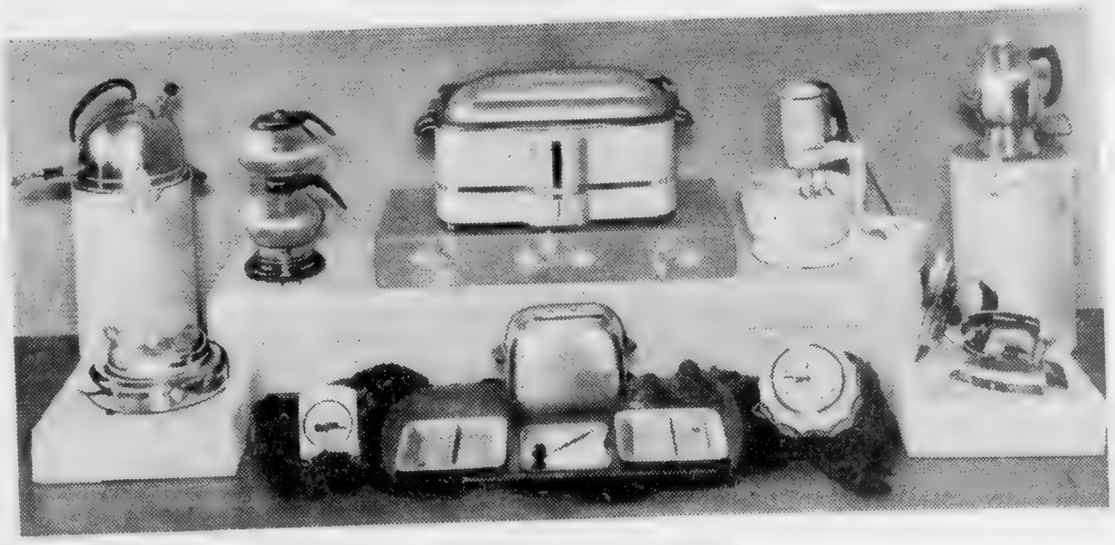
The anti-Donnelley campaign has been indorsed by the American Federation of Labor and by state federations of labor affiliated therewith.

Big St. Louis Victory Won by Building Trades

St. Louis, Mo.—One hundred twenty non-union contractors have signed contracts with the building trades unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor following a strike of 15,000 building trades workers. All construction work in the St. Louis area is brought under the union banner by the new agreement. The strike was ordered after a clash between A. F. of L. pickets and strikebreakers at a housing project during which one picket was killed and four other union members wounded by gunfire.

MORE PENNSYLVANIA JOBS

Harrisburg, Pa.—Job placements by the Pennsylvania state employment service totaled 8,939 during the week ending Oct. 18, bringing the number of jobs filled this year to 132,200 Secretary of Labor and Industry L. G. announced.



Who Wants to Give Sensible Christmas Presents?

WHY, EVERYBODY, of course—but what IS a sensible gift? Something that's useful and lasts, such as a small electrical appliance. Chattanooga dealers this year offer a wide choice of such articles, and the prices are extremely low. Small appliances are being shown on the floor of the Electric Power Board all day every day until Christmas. See them in operation, make your selection and then buy from your dealer.

Grocery Clerks Win Wage-Boost Strike

Washington.—A week's strike of nearly 1,000 clerks and managers employed by the Sanitary Grocery company in 215 stores in the Washington area was settled through an agreement between company representatives and officials of Local 639-A, Retail Clerks International Protective association, A. F. of L. affiliate.

The provisions of the agreement carried a wage raise of $1 a week for many clerks; one additional holiday—Washington's birthday; a two-year experience rating recognition for clerks employed after service with another company; a six-month seniority push-up for 314 men, and a maximum working day of 9½ hours for the five days, Monday through Friday, and of 11 hours on Saturday.

All of the 225 stores were closed during the strike. More than 500 members of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's union refused to walk through the picket lines.

Galveston Shipyard Men Win $100,000 Pay Boost

Galveston, Tex. — Officials of American Federation of Labor unions concluded negotiations with the management of the Galveston-Todd Dry Docks, Inc., carrying wage increases for over 1,200 workers. Rates for mechanics were increased 5 cents an hour and those of helpers, apprentices and laborers 3 cents. Jasper N. Davis, assistant international president of the Boilermakers, and S. W. Doerner, grand lodge representative of the Machinists, who directed the collective bargaining conferences, estimated that the annual payroll of the company will be enlarged more than $100,000 a year by the higher wage rates.

AF of L Backs Every Effort to Help British Arming

Plea for Quick Aid By Walter Citrine Stirs Convention

Speech of British Labor Chief and Pres. William Green's Response Bring Big Demonstrations of Approval — Congress Asked to Ban Letting of Defense Contracts to Labor Law Violators.

New Orleans, La. — American labor's determination to put forth every effort to aid in the arming of Great Britain was voiced at the 60th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, as the delegates swung into the second week of the meeting.

Following a long address by Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the British Trades Union Congress and president of the International Federation of Trade Unions, President William Green, of the A. F. of L., cried:

"Hurry, hurry up, America, and send to Great Britain all that we have of physical and moral strength so that you may quickly win the war. The American Federation of Labor will make its chief object to send a steady stream of war materials, of the things that Britain needs most of all in this great hour of her deepest need."

Need Is Urgent, Britisher Says.

Enthusiastic applause followed Green's address. Applause equally as enthusiastic greeted telling points made by Citrine, who pleaded for "plants and plants and more planes."

"Our need is urgent," the British labor leader declared. "I want you to make the American workshop the first line of defense of all democracy. We are grateful for the generous help we have received from you. I want you to realize that speed is the essence, now as never before, that the bombing is getting so intense."

While showing unmistakably its inflexible will to back the defense program to the limit, the convention made clear its determination to protect and maintain existing work and pay standards by demanding that congress prohibit letting of defense contracts to firms that violate federal labor laws. The resolution to this effect was recommended to the convention by the committee on legislation, under the chairmanship of I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department.

Convention Repeals Special Assessment.

The convention declaration said that "certain large corporations who bid on government contracts have flagrantly and willfully violated the law by employing coersion and intimidation and even by resorting to violence to impede or prevent workers from exercising their rights granted them under the law." The awarding of contracts to such corporations was "intolerable," the convention said.

Way for the readmission of the International Typographical union to the A. F. of L. was cleared by repealing the special assessment of 1 per cent a month a member levied in 1937 and doubling the regular per capita tax of 1 cent a month now paid by affiliated unions for each member. The I. T. U. and International Ladies' Garment Workers' union had opposed the special assessment, charging it was levied solely for the purpose of fighting the CIO.

Suspension Power Brings Long Debate.

The proposed constitutional amendment to deprive the Executive Council of power to suspend unions led to a long debate. The committee report gave the council the power to suspend only when two or more unions conspire to set up a dual movement and then only after charges and conviction before the council. President David Dubinsky, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, sought to amend the report by stipulating that suspended unions have the right to sit in the next convention, so that they might be inside the convention to present their case.

The amendment as adopted does not grant that right, but President Green gave official assurance that in the event of such suspensions, the suspended union may have its delegates appeal to a convention committee and to a convention from the floor. The committee report was passed by an overwhelming majority.

Miss Perkins Urges Labor Peace Effort.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins told the convention that labor's advanced position under the new deal imposed the responsobility of making "a sincere and conscientious effort" to end the A. F. of L-CIO fight and "thwart influences from dishonest or subversive sources" within the labor movement.

"Labor has status today as never before," she said, "and that status carries with it responsibility, responsibility to wage-earners and responsibility to all the people of the United States. That responsibility calls for the carrying out of all contracts agreed upon.

"The responsibility calls for vigilance in the maintenance of high standards so as to thwart influences from dishonest or subversive sources attempting to establish hemselves within the labor movement.

Secretary Stresses Co-operation Need.

"That responsibility calls for sincere and conscientious effort to bring about a fair and honorable adjustment of differences within the labor movement itself.

"That responsibility calls for cooperation by labor with employers and with all responsible groups to avoid delays and interruptions—to increase production and efficiency, and to preserve and promote human welfare and labor standards at the same time in the defense program which we as a nation have undertaken."

In the months ahead, Miss Perkins added, the nation's wage-earners, employers and all other groups must co-operate "as never before in the interest of the national well-being and in the interest of national defense."

Way "Build-up" Helps Will Interest Women

The cause of a woman's periodic suffering from headache, irritability, cramp-like pain, may be functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, a condition that is often helped by CARDUI.

Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; so increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.

It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is invited by its 50 years of popularity.

Squirts from Clerks

By Flutterbug

Well, folks, I think we'll all agree that a grand and glorious time was had by everyone present at the house-warming of the new labor temple Monday night. The ladies' lounge room is one of the main attractions in the temple. Even the men flocked in to see and admire the good taste of the women who planned and furnished it. Another attraction was the refreshment room, where punch and cookies were served by the ladies. There were beautiful bouquets of flowers in every room, and the union orchestra kept over 500 people humming and patting their feet. The house-warming was a wonderful success and if you missed it you certainly missed one of the greatest events in the history of the Chattanooga labor movement.

I wonder if it was Mrs. R. M. Cooke or the punch she served that drew so many visitors around her table?

* * *

I wonder why more of our clerks were not at the opening of the temple? I think the local union should have had more representatives.

* * *

Now is the time to start thinking about that Christmas dinner.

It will be extra good if you serve union-made Fleetwood coffee. All Fleetwood products, distributed by King-Dobbs & Co., are union-made and a welcome addition to any meal.

* * *

We want to remind you again this week that the U. S. A. Dry Cleaning company is the only union dry cleaning company in the city. Call them when you have any dry cleaning to be done and let them prove to you what beautiful work they do.

* * *

Why don't the clerks send in some news about themselves or their fellow-workers? Surely out of all the members in our local there ought to be a few things we could gossip about.

* * *

Even if you do live in North Chattanooga, Red Bank or Brainerd don't excuse yourself from trading at our union grocery stores—namely, L. A. Price & Co., 1509 Rossville avenue, and J. G. Elliott Grocery company, 422 West Forty-fifth street. Both stores carry a complete line of groceries and fresh meats and if you will just telephone your order in they will deliver it right to your door. Cooperate with us by trading at one of these stores and we may soon be able to give you a union grocery store in your vicinity.

Our case history this week is L. E. "Ebb" Ireland, who has been employed at the James Supply company twenty-five years. Mr. Ireland has been treasurer of Retail Clerks' Local No. 625 since it was organized over three years ago. He is one of the most trusted and respected members of our local. He is married and has three boys and two girls, and although you wouldn't believe it when you see him, he proudly confesses that he has a darling little granddaughter. Mr. Ireland is an active member of Jones Memorial church, East Ridge. When he can spare a little time from keeping account of the Retail Clerks' money he likes to get his shotgun and see if he can sneak up on a rabbit nodding somewhere in the fields. Those who know Mr. Ireland know that he is sincere, honest and conscientious in everything he does. He has made a wonderful record as treasurer of our local, so good in fact, that when next election rolls around we doubt if anyone will even think of changing the name of our treasurer.

The Retail Clerks will meet now on the second and fourth Tuesdays. Be sure to be at the meeting next Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock at the labor temple, 540 Vine street.

* * *

Federal bakery is nonunion and every true unionist will not patronize this shop during the holidays or after the holidays. Ask your friends to help us in our drive against the nonunion bakeries in this city.

* * *

Don't forget that the time of the bingo party is fast approaching and we still have tickets for sale. Let's get a party of friends to come along with us for we are going to have a swell time, believe me. Tickets are on sale at the office and in all the bakeries and candy shops. So get your tickets now and be with us the 14th of December for a swell time and remember that the proceeds of this party are to go to our new temple.

* * *

We had a good many of our members out at the temple last Monday night for the dedication and if you failed to be there you missed a swell time. I certainly am proud of our new temple and can hardly wait for our local to have a meeting there.

* * *

A little laff or two. . . . Several men standing in line at their draft headquarters were amused at the picket that was walking out in front with a sign which read: Quick Marriages. Performed by Joe Glotz, J. P., 650½ Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Mabee are the proud parents of a nine-pound son, born Nov. 30 at their home, 2111 East Twenty-fourth street. This being the only boy in the Mabee family you can see why all of them are tickled pink, as the saying goes. Congratulations to the proud parents!

AFL Agreement Signed By Distillery Company

Newark, N. J.—Brown-Forman Distillery company has signed a union shop contract with the American Federation of Distillery, Rectifying and Wine Workers' National Council F. J. Dillon, national chairman of the council, announced.

In addition to providing for seniority rights, vacations and substantial wage increases, the contract provides for union shop condition of employment. The agreement, retroactive to Oct. 1, 1940, was negotiated at a series of conferences participated in by executives of the American Federation of Labor and the bargaining committee of the Brown-Forman Distillery Workers' Local Union No. 22338.

The Brown-Forman Distillery company also owns and operates the Lynndale Distillery company, located in Kentucky, and the Old Kentucky distillery.

Union Contracts Not Voided by Hiring Of Men from U. S. Jobs Service Rolls

Washington.—It is reported here that some trouble has been made for union business agents in a number of places by the provision in defense work contracts that the employer shall hire his workers from U. S. employment service rolls. Some employers have argued that this stipulation voided union shop contracts.

Union representatives are directing the attention of employers to the regulation issued Sept. 18, 1940, governing "Co-operation Between the Local Employment Office and the Local Union," and to this particular sentence:

"In instances where an employer has an agreement or understanding, written or otherwise, with a labor organization, the employment service should not attempt to take any part in the situation with respect to referral of workers except on the request of the parties involved."

The practice is for the employment service to co-operate in the hiring processes provided in union contracts, the labor organization "being considered in a sense the employment agent of the employer."

305,000 More Workers Get Private Plant Jobs

Washington, D. C.—Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt reported that 305,000 workers were placed in private industry by the United States employment service during September, reducing the number seeking jobs through state employment agencies to about 4,900,000.

At the same time the civil service commission revealed that employment in the executive branch o fthe federal government reached a new record peak of 1,058,596 for that month, an increase of 19,702 over August, during which month the 1,000,000 figure was topped for the first time.

What happens to cabbage when it becomes kraut? Chemists in the U. S. department of agriculture explain that the salt, which is mixed with the shredded cabbage, draws out the juice which contains sugar. Then the bacteria ferment the sugar and form lactic acid, and the kraut takes on its distinctive flavor and texture.

Kraut is especially good in calcium, some vitamin C and minerals.

Glamor

Mlle. Rubinstein, the beauty expert, who has recently been making a lecture tour, sames some suggestions about making up your eyes. She says that if your eyes are too close-set, start your eye shadow in the middle of the eyelid and bring it out toward the temples. If your eyes bulge, the shadow should be applied on the edge of the upper lid. To give your eyes a dewy shine smooth a few drops of herbal oil on after the make-up. Beautify your lashes with waterproof mascara which stays on despite rain, wind or dlst. If you have rings under your eyes place a touch of make-up film on the darkened areas and powder lightly over. For under-eye puffiness add a touch of rouge to the under lid.

Keep a good brush on the door of the closet where you keep your clothes and make it a daily habit to brush your coat and hat before venturing forth. A shoe rag and suede shoe polish should also be placed conveniently for use.

At your office keep a clothes brush and shoe rag in your desk drawer. A jar of cleansing cream and facial tissue or a container of those saturated cleansing pads, together with a small box of powder and a clean puff are essential aids to the well-groomed business girl. You'll find that an immaculate appearance pays big dividends for the business girl.

A charming and inexpensive dining table decoration is made by placing gourds in their natural colors (which are yellows, browns and greens) in a shallow bowl. Women in Industry

The program of "total defense," which really means total, is developing in the field of home management as it relates to buying of household commodities. Harriet Elliott, consumer division member of the national defense advisory council, is driving this home in every speech she makes.

A real development in the matter of so marking goods that their quantity is at once clear to the buyer is impending. Women's clubs and consumer groups are being given an opportunity to have their "say" because they are on the job.

Women's auxiliaries of unions have an opportunity to fit into the national defense program, but not unless they get busy and demand a "place in the sun." If labor women do not want all places of influence taken by club women and professional leaders, they must find immediate methods of making their influence felt.

UNION WOMEN DID A SPLENDID JOB

The ladies' lounge is one of the "hits" in the new labor temple. The above shows some of our union women working on their room just before opening day. They are, left to right: Mrs. R. M. Cooke, Mrs. V. W. Hallmark, Mrs. T. R. Cuthbert, Mrs. J. D. Frawley and Mrs. A. C. Kamin. At the sewing machine is Mrs. A. M. Underwood.

Listening to the different speakers I was much impressed by what Judge Fleming said, and if I got his speech right the future looks mighty dark for the world and us included.

The watchword of today is unity. If we get anywhere it's going to be that we must work, think and act as one. If we succeed in arming this nation it must be done with a great deal of sacrificing and labor. We can't have any petty jealousies. We have a big task to perform and the best way is to put our shoulder to the wheel and push.

Getting back to everyday facts, I was told that Jake Smith was off sick. I was sorry to hear it and hope Jake will be back with us soon. I knew Jake would be sick because any one trying to make it on an okra diet and do the work that he does could not make it this winter.

While going through the bullpen the other day, Buck Maynard told me that Erskine Johnson was 20 years old before they got him to wear shoes and then they had to tie him up so they could get them on his feet. Erskine said he wore his shoes out from the inside and he had to be sure they fit him or they wouldn't hold out a week. We didn't know that Buck was a country boy and the first time they brought him to town they had to blindfold him to get him on a street car.

Toots McRoy and Arch Douglas want to know what that big explosion was over in Howsertown the other day. They found out that Jack Floyd and Tech Welles were trying to make a repeating shotgun out of that old muzzle-loader. They put in six charges and they went off at the same time. When you see these boys again tell them it's against the law to create so much excitement in Bigtown.

Getting back to some serious thinking, let's go over to the labor temple after the first of the year. We can't go wrong. We owe this much to ourselves and to the labor movement.

MACHINISTS REPORT 221 MORE CONTRACTS

Washington.—The International Association of Machinists, A. F. of L. affiliate, signed 221 new and renewed agreements with employers during the last month, General Vice-President F. D. Lautermann reported. Firms covered were located in fifty-five cities in nineteen states and Canada. Substantial wage increases, time and one-half for overtime and work performed on Saturday, Sunday and holidays, the eight-hour day, the 40-hour week, and seniority rights were secured for thousands of union members by the contracts.

Guild Group Starts Anti-Red Paper

Los Angeles.—The Guild American, a new publication pledged to "break the communist party line in the American Newspaper Guild," has been started here, the first issue having appeared on November 6.

The Guild American is a four-page paper of the same size as the Guild Reporter, official organ of the American Newspaper Guild. The new publication is issued by the Guild American committee, which says it has enrolled nearly 100 members in two weeks.

Judges Fine Employers For Violating Labor Law

San Francisco, Calif.—State Labor Commissioner H. C. Carrasco announced that fines had been imposed on two employers found guilty of violating the labor laws of California.

Justice of the Peace Fenwick L. Jackson fined Henry Detlefsen $50 for employing under-age children on his land in the Tracy-Banta section. The criminal complaint charged that he was employing three children, ages nine, 13 and 14, at periods when they should have been in school.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY SIGN IBEW AGREEMENT

Birmingham, Ala. — Another gratifying IBEW victory is rapidly approaching the final stage as negotiations for working agreement on the Alabama Power company take place. Signing of the agreement is expected to take place momentarily.

Members on the Alabama system have put up a magnificent battle against tremendous odds, but as in all such cases, the harder the battle the greater the victory.

With this unit of the vast Commonwealth and Southern corporation under agreement, and Consumers Power of Michigan—also a unit of Commonwealth and Southern—straightened out, there will remain only one bad hangover in utilities, that is the El Paso Electric, now reaching the end of its fifth year in NLRB hands.

Bakers in Steel Workers Local in Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala.—Curtis Sims, representative of the Bakery Workers' International union, announces the organization of a local union in this city. Mr. Sims says the CIO has been organizing bakery workers here for some time, with a coal miner acting as organizer for the bakery workers, and putting these workers in the steel workers' union. Leaders in labor here say that many bakery workers are beginning to wonder how it is they are placed in a steel workers union. The Birmingham labor movement is aiding Mr. Sims in the organization of the bakery workers into their own legitimate union.

Much of the success of the flower show had been due to Smith, who'd organized it all—and, being an ardent horticulturist, had won quite a few prizes.

Later on, he was reading the report in the local paper when he jumped to his feet, with an angry bellow.

"Why, what's wrong?" asked Mrs. Smith, dropping her knitting at the outburst.

"Listen to this!" he roared. "It says here: 'As Mr. Smith mounted the platform to open the show, all eyes were fixed on the large red nose he displayed. Only years of careful cultivation could have produced an exhibit of such brilliance.'"

PENNSYLVANIA JOBS GAIN

Philadelphia. — Employment at Pennsylvania factories increased nearly 2 per cent from August to September to an estimated 952,000 workers, and wage disbursements in the month advanced over 3 per cent to nearly $24,700,000 a week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reports. This represents gains of 8 per cent in employment and 16 per cent in payrolls over the low levels for the year, reached last spring.

"Why, thank you," she replied. I'll have a large port."

"I large port!" he gasped. "Losh, woman, come on oot and I'll buy ye a picture postcard o' Liverpool harbor."

NONRESIDENT NOTICE

No. 61898

Marguerite L. Hicks vs. Wellborn S. Hicks

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Wellborn S. Hicks is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a new paper published in Hamilton county, notifying said nonresident to appear at the next January rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in January next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

TEACHER TALK

The benefit bridge party which is being sponsored by the teachers' union will be an event of Saturday night. Between twenty and twenty-five tables have been arranged for the party, which will be held in the Central Labor union hall of the new labor temple, beginning at 8 o'clock. Proceeds will be used to furnish the labor lounge. A number of members of other local unions will be present as well as other guests. There is still time to get in on the party. Call Miss Virginia Munsey 6-2385.

Mrs. Christine Noble Gow spoke to the modern literature group Tuesday evening when a large number of our members met at the home of Mrs. H. B. Robinson in North Chattanooga. She discussed autobiographical elements in her books for children and told of the evolution of her mystery books.

Next meeting of the group will be held Jan. 7 with Miss Sara Jacoway, when Paul Long will be the speaker.

There was once a man of patience
In the days of long ago,
Who never lost his temper,
At least, the Good Book tells us so.
Now a modern Job we've discovered,
Who doesn't scowl or fuss;
Passengers, please take notice,
It's the driver of the bus.

He sits there like a statue;
Never looks behind,
And listens to the passengers,
Remarks that are unkind.
"Does'nt he make a noise," says one,
"When he shifts the gear?"
"This is shaking me to pieces,"
Says another in the rear.

"I missed you on the other trip,
I'll report you to the boss;
While I was running up the street
You never looked across."
But the driver, grim and silent,
With his temper has control,
He keeps looking straight ahead
And dodging every hole.

"Why don't he drive a little faster?"
"Gracious, isn't he slow?"
Are very frequent questions
When the streets are ice and snow.
When he speeds her up a little
Someone will inquire,
"Do you suppose that crazy driver
Thinks he's racing to a fire?"

"Great Scott! Where are you going?
You've carried me too far."
And she fiercely glances at him
As he swings the door ajar.
When he goes around the corner
These questions will arise—
"Is he trying to tip us over?"
"Where are that dumbbell's eyes?"

But the driver never weakens
Nor offers an excuse;
He sits there cheerfully and listens
To the passengers' abuse.
When his driving days are over
He should wear a crown,
For his grit and perseverance
Has won him great renown.
This little poem is just a few things that are heard from time to time. It is a great life, if you don't weaken. It will make a man out of you or kill you soon.

I never knew any man in life who could not bear another's misfortune perfectly, like a Christian.—Pope.

Central Body Asks City Dads Not to Juggle Official Posts Before Vacancies Occur

Mayor Bass Tells Spokesman That He Is Not Aware of Any Such Plans and Would Not Approve of Such Action.

Erskine Mabee, representing Chattanooga Central Labor union, at Tuesday afternoon appeared before the city commission and told them that organized labor would regret to see any switching of present city commissioner posts until after such time when there might be a vacancy in any one or more of the present offices.

Central Body took recognition of flying rumors that such action was contemplated in preparation for the prospective appointment of Commissioner Eugene Bryan to a federal receivership in the new federal court just created by congress.

From curbstone gossip it appears that Commissioner Betterton is slated for Mr. Bryan's post in the event he steps upstairs. However, certain interests are much concerned that a vacancy shall be filled by a person in sympathy with them, and in order to assure themselves of both objectives, the proposed switch is said to be planned before a vacancy exists in order to avoid any possible deadlock of the two remaining commissioners.

After the resolution was read by Mabee, Mayor Bass stated that he knew nothing of such proposed switches, and that he would "resent" very much any such plans behind closed doors.

In case there should be a vacancy on the commission, Central Body has unanimously proposed P. R. Olgiati to fill the vacancy on the city board. Mr. Olgiati is president of the Bricklayers' union. Another addition to the long list of local unions who are backing Olgiati, the street car union last week unanimously voted for Olgiati.

Commissioner Bryan was also complimented by Mabee for the splendid work being done by his department in safety work, putting this city at the top for accident prevention.

The resolution in detail said:

Whereas, well-founded rumors have it that Commissioner of Fire and Police Eugene Bryan is about to be named to federal position, which cause a vacancy on the city board of commissioners; and,

Whereas, it is further rumored that a majority of the present city board of commissioners, including Commissioner Bryan, is contemplating switching Commissioner Bryan's post with that of Commissioner of Streets and Sewers Betterton before a vacancy exists, all of such plans having allegedly been denied by all commissioners, but being freely discussed almost as facts in the daily press; therefore, be it

Resolved, by Chattanooga Central Labor union, in regular session Dec. 9, 1940, that we would regret seeing a federal appointee taking part in naming his successor; that we suggest to each commissioner that he should serve on the post now held until the expiration of his present elected term, and that no changes should be made in the present positions until after a vacancy should occur; be it further

Resolved, that persistent rumors concerning the bandying about of official positions of trust, behind closed doors, hidden from public knowledge, if proved to be based on facts, would do much toward injuring public faith in democratic procedure in our city government; and we believe would be inimical to the interests and the of the taxpayers and citizens of Chattanooga.

Gotham Electrical Workers Win 48-Hour Walkout

New York City.—Maintaining its unbroken record of never having lost a strike, Local 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, announced that 1,500 workers employed by 120 electrical supply concerns in New York returned to work following a victorious 48-hour strike.

Settlement followed two days and nights of almost continuous negotiation. The union was represented by Samuel Dobbins and a committee of twelve employes.

Allowed time out only for meals and short recesses, the participants of the conference emerged bleary-eyed and dog-tired and smilingly announced the end of the strike. The walkout affected clerks, managers, salesmen and buyers in 95% of wholesale and jobbing concerns which supply retail stores with electrical equipment and appliances.

The terms of the contract agreed upon was hailed by Dobbins as a clear-cut victory for the union and include an average 10 per cent increase for all employes, a 40-hour week with time and a half for overitme, one week's vacation with pay, seven holidays with pay and a union shop. The contract will be in effect for two years. However, after it has been in effect for one year, wages will be subject to an upward adjustment.

Firestone Union Wins Agreement at Memphis

Memphis, Tenn. — Settlement of the American Federation of Labor's rubber workers strike, called here last week, ended Saturday night when the company officials agreed that no reduction in pay should be effected because of the piece-work plan that had been instituted by the company. The strike was called in protest against the piece-work plan. Jake Cohen, editor of the Memphis Labor Review; Lev Loring, president of the Memphis Trades and Labor council; Paul J. Aymon, of the A. F. of L. organizing staff, and Virgil Finch, United States conciliator from the department of labor, assisted the officers of the local union in the negotiations.

W. M. Gleaves, Union Painter, Passes Away

W. M. Gleaves, for thirty-six consecutive years a member of Local 226, Painters and Decorators, died last Sunday afternoon. He was on his job at Tullahoma at Camp Peay and was suddenly stricken. He was rushed home to Chattanooga but died at 3 p.m.

Brother Gleaves was known as one of the most loyal and earnest union men in the city. During his thirty-six years as a union member he had held practically all the positions of honor in his union. He was also one of the faithful delegates from his union to Central Body. At the time of his death he was a trustee of Local 226.

Brother Gleaves lived to see the labor temple occupied by his union with others. None in the labor movement worked harder to bring a 40-year dream to actuality.

At Central Body last Monday a committee was named to draw resolutions and the charter was ordered draped for a month.

Brother Gleaves was 71 years of age, leaving a widow, a daughter and a brother. He was buried last Tuesday. Pallbearers were J. G. Burke, W. A. Witt, C. H. Thurston, J. A. McCuller and C. F. Weidner.

The Labor World feels a keen loss in his death, and will miss his cheery visits that he made frequently with the editor.

Olgiati Re-Elected Without Opposition

P. R. Olgiati was named president of Local 6, Bricklayers, last Monday evening again without opposition. With Mr. Olgiati named the following officers:

Vice-President, Howard McJunkins; financial secretary, S. A. Martin; corresponding secretary, L. C. Larson; treasurer, Fred Evans; trustee, Bob Adams; sergeant-at-arms, Albert Elrod.

The arbitration board will be Herbert Bell and Bill Rodgers.

1941 AFL Convention To Meet In Seattle

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The delegates to the sixtieth convention of the American Federation of Labor here selected Seattle, Wash., as the city in which the 1941 convention of the Federation will be held. In citing the advantages of Seattle, Delegate James A. Taylor of the Washington State Federation of Labor said:

"We invite you to come to our State, and to a city where the building trades have had a 6-hour day and a 5-day week for over six years, and many of our organizations have brought about that short hour day; a city where the movement knows how to co-operate and where every organization in our industries works together and brings about a condition for the entire industry. We ask you to come out and look at the greatest project in the world where 10,500,000 cubic feet of concrete has been placed in the Coulee Dam and where we signed a contract three years ago whereby every organization on that dam has been organized under the American Federation of Labor."

Central Body Wants Drive For Repeal of Poll Tax Requisite By 1941 Legislative Sessions

Every Local Union in Tennessee To Be Asked to Insist That Its Representatives Push for Measure.

At its meeting last Monday evening, Chattanooga Central Labor union delegates expressed fear that possibly the repeal of the poll tax as a requisite for voting might be laid into the discard like the fate that happened at the last session of the legislature two years ago.

In the various state races two years ago practically every candidate, successful or unsuccessful, vehemently proclaimed that each one would see to it personally that the poll tax receipt requisite would be abolished. Yet, when the legislature adjourned, nothing had been done about it.

In order that forgetful memories might be refreshed in plenty of time, Central Body approved a proposition to circularize every local union in Tennessee, asking them to petition their state representatives to support the measure.

Organized labor has for many years fought the antiquated and un-American system of requiring citizens to fill property qualifications in order to vote. The entire Hamilton county delegation is pledged to support the repeal measure.

Linemen For Power Board In Fine Open Meet

By W. A. Harrison

Thursday evening, Dec. 5, a meeting was held in Chattanooga that really set a precedent when organized labor and management of the local electric utility met in an open session. Local B-876, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, were proud that management met with them on such friendly basis.

Local B-846 was glad to show that it had an organization composed of electrical workers employed by the power board and the TVA that functioned in a business-like way and is a credit to the industry.

Principle speaker was States R. Finley, chief engineer for the board. He gave a review of the public power program from its inception to the present day. He showed the value of the huge undertaking to national defense, flood control, land reclamation and transportation.

He expressed an opinion that labor and management in the public utility in the TVA area will continue to work closely together, for the good of themselves and the public.

T. R. Cuthbert, editor of The Labor World and member of the board, made it clear that he believed in collective bargaining with the employes and the board.

E. E. McDaniel, IBEW representative, made a short but "to the point" talk, telling of the trials and tribulations of labor in the past, and declared the aims and desires of the IBEW in future dealings with TVA.

Other power board officials were present with Mr. Finley, including H. G. Williams, Ken Whitaker, E. C. Williamson, E. R. Kelley and J. F. Henley.

It is hoped by the local that similar meetings can be held in the future, for it is an expression of good relations between labor and management, and helps both to solve problems arising on and off the job.

Bakers to Bingo Saturday Night

Local 25, Bakery and Confectionery Workers, will sponsor a bingo party at the new labor temple this Saturday night. The party will start promptly at 7 o'clock.

Tickets will be 25 cents and will entitle you to play in the games. Proceeds will go toward the new temple.

All unionists and friends are invited to come out and have a god time.

Looks kill love, and love by looks reviveth; a smile recures the wounding of a frown.—Shakespeare.

TEACHER TALK

The benefit bridge at the new labor temple Saturday night was a success both socially and financially. Socially because a large crowd attended and everyone seemed to enjoy himself. Financially because enough money was collected to pay the teachers' obligation on the furniture.

Other local unionists represented at the party included Mrs. Beulah Ogle, Culinary Workers; Vic Hallmark, of the Elevator Constructors, and Mrs. Hallmark; A. C. Kamin, of the Motion Picture Operators, and Mrs. Kamin; T. R. Cuthbert, editor of The Labor World, and Mrs. Cuthbert; Archie Underwood, of the Typographical union, and Mrs. Underwood; Ed Bork, Jr., of the Plumbers, and Mrs. Bork.

Erskine Mabee, of the Painters, and C. E. Peek, international representative of the Meatcutters, came by but did not play.

Badminton and bridge groups will not meet again until after the Christmas holidays.

* * *

The tax problems study group met Tuesday evening and heard an extremely enlightening presentation of tax sources and their relative yields in several cities of size comparable with Chattanooga's. This problem is to be studied in greater detail, and ot include in its scope cities of sections other than the south, especially with a view to determine possible new sources of income.

The group is determined to know as much as can be found out about this pertinent problem.

Convention Condemns Racketeering; Votes Action to End Such Abuses

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Sweeping condemnation of racketeering in labor organizations was expressed by the 60th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. The convention unanimously adopted a report outlining this course of action to deal with racketeering:

1. All national and international unions affiliated with the AFL were advised to adopt rules or constitutional amendments embodying appropriate provisions for adequate disciplinary action against any officers or members found guilty of betraying their trust or having used their official position for personal or illegal gain.

2. The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor was authorized to "apply all of its influence" for corrective action if any union "seemingly evades its responsibility" in acting on its own accord.

The text of the convention declaration follows:

"Your committee is in complete accord with that portion of the Executive Council's report which declares that it is our purpose to maintain a high moral standard in our trade union movement, and that we definitely disavow racketeering and gangsterism, and that we want none of it in our movement.

"Your committee, without qualification, condemns the action of trade union officials who use their position of trust, confidence and high responsibility, for the purpose of exploiting those whom they represent, the employers and the public, for their private gain.

"While such conduct is reprehensible, and in every way injurious to our trade union movement as a whole, we direct attention to the fact that a far larger number of men in the professions, in public life, and in business, have manifested criminal tendencies and been found guilty.

"We submit with pride the record of honesty and integrity of the thousands of trade union officials as a whole, either in local, state or national capacity. The record for integrity which they have established with their membership, with public officials and with employers, is a just source of gratification.

"Those who make use of instances where trade union officials have erred, for the purpose of condemning the trade union movement and its leadership as a whole, are guilty of grave social harm.

"There is a direct moral responsibility on the part of the trade union movement to keep its ranks free from every tinge of racketeering and gangsterism. The membership of our trade union movement, and the public, have the right to expect that the leaders of labor will be men of unquestioned personal integrity.

"Your committee believes that declarations by this convention to be effective, must be accompanied by provisions which will place the American Federation of Labor in a position where the subject under consideration can be dealt with in an effective manner.

"In so doing we must keep in mind that the American Federation of Labor is a federation of self-governing national and international unions who have been guaranteed their right to self-government, which includes their election and selection of officers and control over their conduct.

"On the other hand the national and international organizations have the power and the obligation to protect the integrity of the trade union movement by the enforcement of disciplinary action which will safeguard the good name of their own organization, and the reputation of the American Federation of Labor.

"We direct attention to the well-established policy of the American Federation of Labor in connection with the directly affiliated local organizations. Whenever charges have been filed against officers of local and federal labor unions and investigation has shown the charges well founded, such officers have been removed from their positions of trust, and when necessary to maintain the integrity of trade unionism, offending organizations have had their charter annulled.

"In lieu of Resolution No. 32, and in support of the Executive Council's report, your committee recommends that all national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor be advised to adopt rules or amendments to their constitution or where no provision now prevails embodying appropriate provisions for adequate disciplinary action against any of their officers and/or members who may have been found guilty of betraying the trust reposed in them, or of having used their official position for personal and illegal gain, who have been or may be convicted of such acts which cast discredit upon the labor movement.

"That whenever the Executive Council has valid reason to believe that a trade union official is guilty of any such offense, and the National or International Union in question seemingly evades its responsibility, the Executive Council shall be authorized to apply all of its influence to secure such action as will correct the situation.

"The foregoing recommendations must not be construed as preventing any person from rehabilitating himself.

"Attention is also called to a certain type of gangsterism which requires vigorous action on the part of the trade union movement.

"There have been men of ill repute who, in some instances, have succeeded, through stealth and armed force, in securing control of existing local unions, or in organizing new ones, using the power they have acquired for illegal purposes. This is a most difficult evil to eradicate. It calls for the application of every means available."

Actions of Convention Summarized

New Orleans, La.—Following is a summary of some of the actions taken by the American Federation of Labor at its sixtieth convention here:

Social Security—Extension to employes of private hospitals, private and parochial schools, publishing houses owned and operated by religious and charitable organizations, and religious and welfare organizations whose products are sold to the public.

War in Europe—Extension of all help and assistance to Great Britain in her hour of need by our government short of war itself.

Dfense—Labor representation on all matters affecting labor's welfare; equal representation of employers and employes on advisory groups connected with employment control.

Selective Service—Assurance of re-employment at his old position upon return to civilian life of any man called for military service by the government.

Union Management Co-operation—Extension as rapidly as possible; AFL president authorized to appoint a committee to counsel union-management co-operation undertakings.

Works Projects Administration—Abolition of policy of invading the construction industry by transferring construction of public projects from contracts with private companies to W. P. A. undertakings with wages and labor standards below those fixed by union agreements and prevailing in private industry.

Anti-Trust Laws—Condemned the course of anti-trust division of justice department for its unwarranted and destructive activities against organized labor in enforcing anti-trust laws.

Fair Labor Standards Act—Commended administrator of the act for holding that there should be no lowering of labor standards established by law because of the national defense program.

Social Security—Extension of old-age protection for all wage-earners and their families.

Unemployment Compensation—Revision of state legislation to extend compensation period, reduce waiting period, provided larger benefits and eliminate experience rating.

Health Insurance and Hospitalization—More adequate hospital and medical care for persons of low incomes and inclusion of both permanent and temporary disability insurance in the social security program.

U. S. Housing Administration—Adequate appropriations to enable the USHA to continue its activities and supply the additional needed low rent housing and slum clearance to house under healthy and sanitary conditions workers in the low income groups.

Navy Yard Wages—Reopening of the wage schedules effective Nov. 18 so that adequate increases may be provided.

National Labor Relations Act—Amendments to include a change in the unit rule, to permit skilled employes and recognized classifications of workers to retain their separate unity; direct court appeal by labor organizations in representation cases; preserving the integfity of collective bargaining agreements lawfully entered into by bona fire labor organizations; elimination of unwarranted delays in procedure; five-man labor board in place of present three-man board.

Postoffice Employes—Legislation providing annuities for widows of retired postoffice employes and proportionate annuities for widows of employes who die while in the postal service.

Government Employes—Optional retirement after 30 years of service and compulsory retirement at age 60 for all groups regardless of roster title; legislation recognizing right of government employes to bargain collectively regarding conditions not determined by law.

Government Contracts—Amend Walsh-Healey act to prohibit the awarding of contracts by the United States government or its departments or agencies to concerns which have been found to have denied their employes the right to organize and bargain collectively.

Fire Defense—Action in support of the efforts of the International Association of Fire Fighters to secure the appointment of a national committee on fire defense.

Prison-Made Goods—Extension of legislation restricting sale of goods made in penal institutions.

Oppressive Labor Practices—Enactment of Senate Bill S. 1970, passed by the senate but not reported by house committee on labor.

TYPO AUXILIARY HOLDS MEETING IN NEW CLUB ROOMS

Auxiliary 219 to Typographical Union 89 met Tuesday night in the Ladies' Club rooms in the new labor temple.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Mrs. Claude Springfield, president; Mrs. Turner Bell, vice-president; Mrs. Arch Underwood, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Joe Bush, recording secretary; Mrs. Lossie Harrison, guide, and Mrs. John O'Brien, chaplain.

Members brought canned goods for the Christmas basket, which will go to a needy family in the labor movement. Mrs. Turner Bell is chairman of the committee which is preparing this basket.

PETER POORDEVIL'S PRAYER

Peter Poordevil went to church last Sunday. The preacher's text was, "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." As soon as the sermon was over, Peter Poordevil rose up and said: "Let us pray."

When people are in church, the motion to pray is a privileged motion and is not subject to debate. So there was nothing to do but listen, and Peter prayed as follows:

"O Lord, I've got to pray or bust. I know the people here don't want to hear me pray, but I can't help it. The preacher's text has taken the muzzle off of my mouth. O Lord, I'm getting awful uneasy-about this here earth of yours. Lord, I ain't right certain it's yours. That's what's a-bothering of me. I want to know if you still own any property here, and if so where is it? I want to know if you ever come here on a visit any more? They told me you was here and helped to run the protracted meeting last winter and did sich a grand and glorious work. But, O Lord, that work has all gone to pieces, and I'm afraid it wasn't yours. What I want to know is, do you guarantee your work not to rip, ravel or run down at the heel? If so, I know you wasn't here last winter. Sallie Perkins has done raveled, Bill Jones is a-running down at the heel, and a whole lots of others is a-ripping.

"O Lord, I just want to tell you this because I know they are imposing on you in these here diggins. If there is any real, old-fashioned, blue-jeans Christianity here they never put it out where a feller can see it. O Lord, ain't that kind of Christianity gittin mighty scarce, and what are you going to do about it?

"O Lord, if these people about here have got any religion, it has got so many flounces and ruffles, ribbons and tucks and gores that you wouldn't know it yourself if you should meet it in the road.

"O Lord, one thing more and I'll quit. I want to know if it is Christlike to make fun of people because they are poor and can't dress fine? Is it Christlike to backbite and run down folks in their absence and try to eat them up when you meet 'em? You never done that when you was here on earth, did you? Which is right, to go with the crowd or to be on the Lord's side?

"Lord, you needn't answer this publicly here, as it might break up the meetin', but if you feel like answering it in some way I

Dies Speech Enjoyed

The American Legion and Rotary club are to be congratulated for affording Chattanoogans an opportunity to see and hear Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional un-American activities committee.

Mr. Dies made a stirring appeal for patriotic alertness against subversive elements in every community who are trying to cause our government to fall. These subversive groups he named particularly to be fascism, nazism and communism.

In view of the past unpleasant publicity spread over the nation that Chattanooga is a "hotbed" of something or other, we noted that Mr. Dies failed to mention Chattanooga or Tennessee as being one of the "danger" spots. Had there been any subversiveness in either Chattanooga or Tennessee, Mr. Dies would most certainly possess some inkling of it. In view of his prescription calling for "pitiless publicity" we have no doubt that he would have called names on the Memorial auditorium stage.

In discussing fascism, nazism and communism in this country we feel that Mr. Dies overlooked diagnosing one of the breeding places of these two diseases in this nation. Poverty and un-American standards of living do more to unbalance the minds of people of any nation than paid agitators and propagandist. Mental, social and moral distress provide a fertile soil for subversive preachments.

A happy, prosperous and employed citizen of any nation never pays second thought to overthrowing his government.

Wages and Prices

Labor will need to be on its guard against the cry that wage increases will bring soaring prices. This cry has already been raised and will be heard more in the future. This is what the A. F. of L. Survey of Business has to say about this cry, branding it as unpatriotic and unsound:

"Employers are claiming that wage increases will bring price increases. Companies able to pay higher wages sometimes use a wage increase as an excuse for unnecessary price increases. This is against the public good."

The survey cites figures to show that increased production and profits furnish a basis for raising wages and says that principles governing wage increases are: "(1) Companies able, because of higher earnings, should do so. (2) An adequate wage should be the first charge against any business. Companies showing inability to pay adequate wages should make every effort to improve efficiency; workers should not be forced to live in poverty because of inefficient management."

Union Tackles Big Job

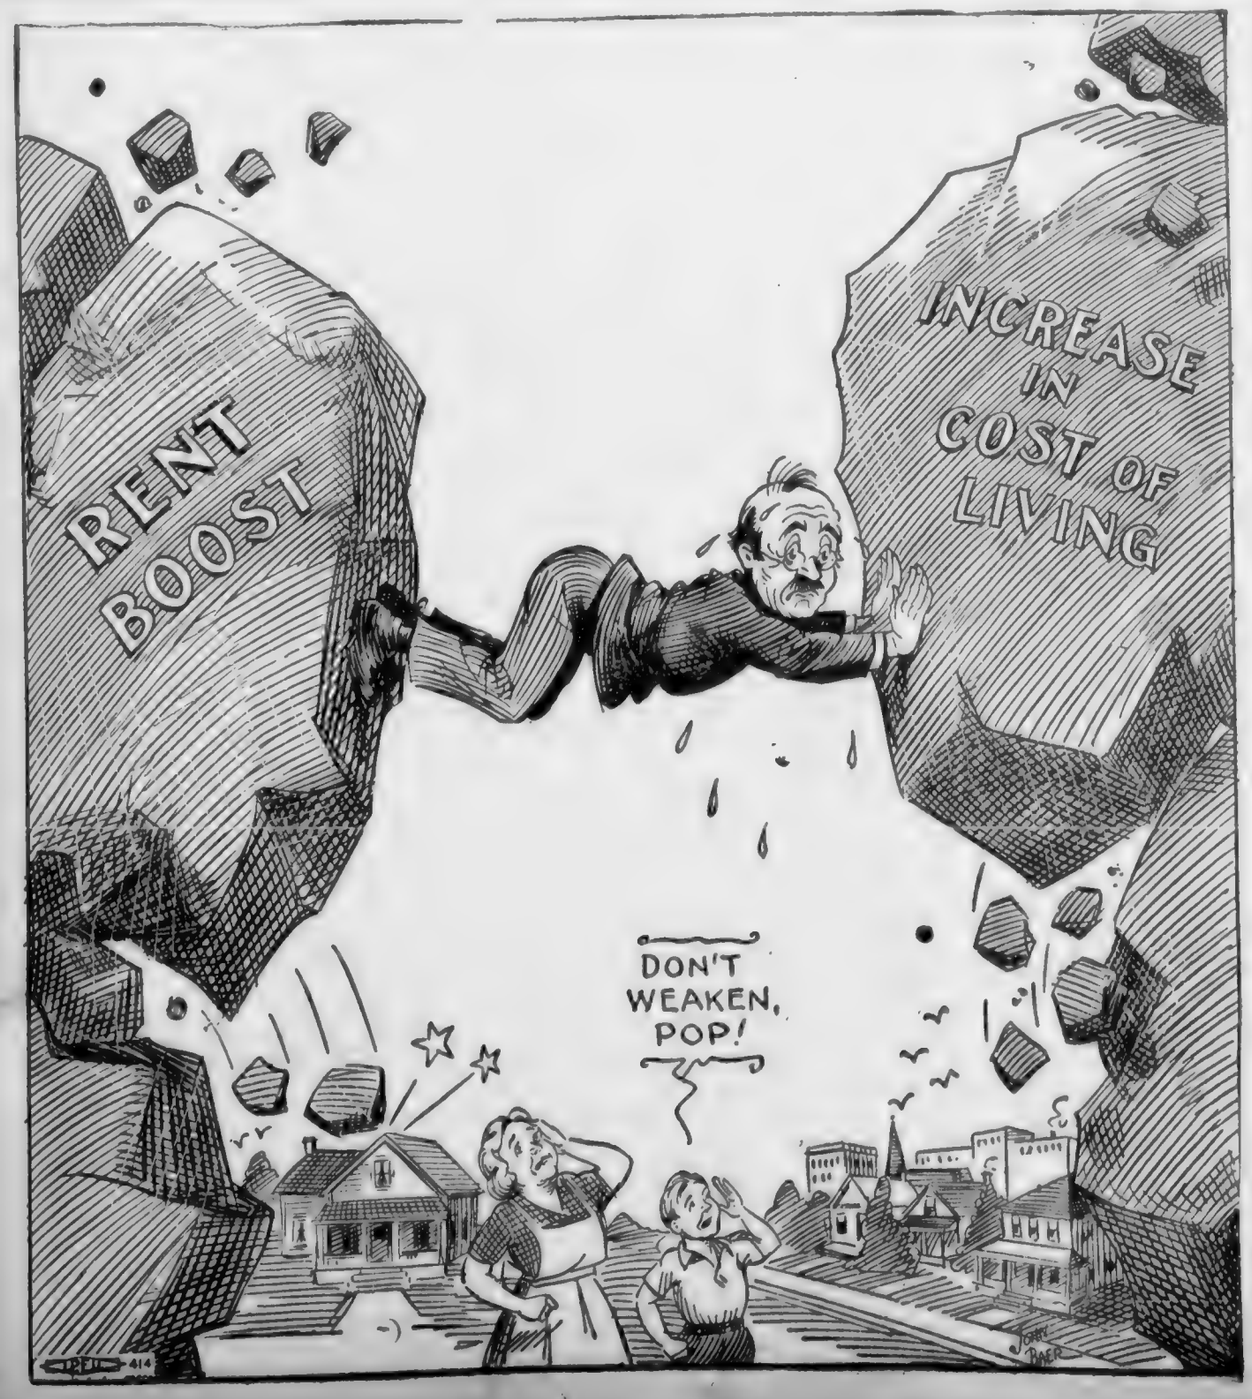
International Ladies' Garment Workers' union has done some big things in its long and successful career. In addition to making notable progress in the economic field of better pay, hours and working conditions, the union has pioneered in the fields of educational, recreational, and health work, making records in these activities that have attracted wide interest.

Now the I. L. G. W. U. proposes to tackle perhaps one of the biggest jobs in its history—launching of a co-operative program with the employers for greater production efficiency in the New York dressmaking industry and promotion of New York City as a world style center.

The proposed program is typical of this progressive union, which has never hesitated to take on tough jobs. Aim of the program is primarily to check the exodus of the dressmaking industry from the New York City area. Admittedly the problem is difficult of solution, but the union's record of constructive endeavor in the past gives assurance of success in the latest venture.

Buy Union for Christmas

What would be more appropriate than to dedicate the holiday shopping season to the great cause of the union label? It would be most appropriate because by urging Christmas shoppers to buy only union-made gifts they are also buying goods that are made in our own factories. In addition, this indirect boycott of foreign-made goods will create more jobs for our own citizens. If all Christmas presents that will be purchased in 1940 were made in America, employment would be increased and likewise taxation for relief purposes would be reduced to a minimum.I. M. Ornburn.



SQUIRTS FROM CLERKS

By Flutterbug

T. S. Adair, representative of the R. C. I. P. A. in Alabama, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Mabee last week. It was Mr. Adair's first visit to Chattanooga, and he was very enthusiastic over our city and our beautiful scenery.

* * *

Have you ordered your Christmas cards yet? If not, call E. E. Crosby at 2-0547 and let him show you the beautiful ones he has. They have the union label on them, something your union friends will be sure to notice.

* * *

If you haven't started your shopping yet you had better hurry up. The stores report a record-breaking crowd this year and the best merchandise will soon be gone. Be sure to fill your shopping bag with union made gifts.

* * *

Don't forget the bakers' bingo party Saturday night, Dec. 14. You can purchase tickets at the makers' office, 305 Hamilton National Bank, Main street. After our poor representation at the opening of the labor temple I think all our clerks should make an effort to attend this party. I am sure you will enjoy it.

* * *

Why don't we clerks give a party for the benefit of the labor temple? Some of the ladies want to organize an auxiliary and we think it would be a good idea for them to get together and plan some kind of a party. We want all the clerks' wives to send in their name and address to Mrs. Erskine Mabee, 2111 Union avenue. We plan on having our first meeting soon after Christmas.

* * *

The Grand Billiard Parlor at 27 East Main street has signed a contract with Retail Clerks' Local No. 625. They employ six clerks, who are all members of our local. We hope all our union men will patronize none but union billiard parlors. The others are the American and the Brunswick billiard parlors.

* * *

Teachers' Local No. 246 had a very large crowd at their bridge party Saturday night, Dec. 7. C. C. Peek, international representative of the Meatcutters, was present for a while. He was very pleased with the new temple and the teachers' bridge party, but did not like the large admission price on of the labor leaders made him pay. Wonder who it was that was trying so hard to get up a poker game?

* * *

Congratulations to Rose Mari Duncan, member of the faculty at Cedar Hill school. Miss Duncan made a grand slam at the bridge party, something that happens about once in a lifetime.

* * *

Retail Clerks' Local No. 625 regret the passing of Brother Walter Gleaves. He was a member of Painters No. 226 and a delegate to the Central Labor union for many years. He was a true and faithful member of organized labor for more than thirty-five years.

* * *

Our case history this week is William A. Hilley, who has been an employe of King-Dobbs for six years. Besides being the best golf player Mr. Hilley is also one of the most eligible bachelors in our local. We don't know whether he prefers blondes or brunettes, but he certainly has his hands full, it seems to us. Mr. Hilley was elected secretary of Local No. 625 last January and has made a fine record in that position.

* * *

Latest news flash: The City Dry Cleaning company has signed a contract with Retail Clerks' Local No. 625. Mr. Skeen, the owner, was very pleasant during the negotiations, and we hope our union people will send their dry cleaning to him. We wish to express our appreciation to Building Drivers' Local Union No. 212 for the help they have given us in signing up the City Dry Cleaning company.

Hod Carriers Reduce Initiation Fee To Aid National Defense Program

NEW ORLEANS.—In a move to deal with any situation threatening to hamper or retard defense projects," the executive board of the International Hod Carriers', Building and Common Laborers' Union of America has authorized Joseph Moreschi, general president, to reduce high initiation fees.

$25 Maximum Set

In a statement explaining the action of the board, President Moreschi announced that the organization's maximum initiation fee would be reduced from $50 to $25 and that men joining the union be permitted to pay his initiation fee out of earnings.

Moreschi acted under authority of the executive board to take any steps he deemed necessary to promote the national defense program and end any abuses on the part of local unions.

"Because of varied local conditions and differences in pay rates," the union head said, "it is impossible and impractical to set a fixed initiation fee on a nation-wide basis. The ceiling will be based on local wage rates and conditions. In all instances, it is my intention to issue orders that no man desiring to join the union where jobs are available should be required to pay an initiation fee higher than $25 and then only when his earnings are at a rate of more than 80 cents an hour. The fee will scale down to as low as $2 in some instances where pay rates are lower. In this connection, I wish to point out that the minimum initiation fee hitherto provided for in the laws of the international union was $5 and the maximum $50."

Given Broad Powers

Moreschi pointed out that he was empowered to act in "all instances of unreasonableness, abuse or restraint on the part of any member of affiliated local," and warned:

"I hereby serve notice that I intend to exercise these powers to the fullest so that we can give the Government every help and co-operation in the defense program."

AFL Blasts Anti-Trust Suits

"Fantastic, Inspired by Malice," Says Hot Convention Declaration

NEW ORLEANS.—If Thurman Arnold, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Department of Justice's anti-trust prosecutions of labor unions, had been sitting on the sidelines at the American Federation of Labor convention here he would have heard one of the most blasting attacks ever made by the Federation on a New Deal official.

In a bristling resolution, the convention declared the anti-trust suits inspired by "malice," based on "fantastic economic theories" and "the most vicious attack" ever made on organized labor.

"No power or force, intent upon destroying labor's rights, could have devised a more destructive weapon with which to accomplish its end than the revival of anti-trust law prosecutions against labor unions," the convention held.

Suits Called "Personal"

"These are not isolated prosecutions of alleged isolated violations of the law," the convention further said. "The prosecutions are a course of action planned to fit in with the personal views of the head of the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice as to what constitutes proper labor-union activities in relation to interstate commerce.

The convention declared that the union activities which Arnold seeks to prohibit are designed to prevent sweat shop labor, reduce unemployment and eliminate company unions.

Satisfaction was expressed that the Arnold attack has to a considerable degree been halted by the courts and the assertion was made that labor can see "no other reason for the prosecutions than that of malice toward A.F. of L. affiliates."

Halt to Arnold Asked

The convention warned unions against consent decrees, contended the anti-trust laws were never intended to apply to labor unions and said:

"We condemn most vigorously the unwarranted course pursued by the present Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice towards organized labor and the fundamentals upon which it is founded. We must demand from those occupying higher positions than the person in charge of the Anti-Trust Division that they curb these unwarranted and destructive activities against organized labor."

The declaration was approved with a roar of applause.

SKILLED LABOR SOUGHT

Albany, N. Y.—A rapidly growing demand for skilled workers is developing in certain occupations, primarily the metal trades, according to a statement on current employment conditions in New York State by Milton O. Loysen, executive director of the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance, State Department of Labor. The demand is attributable to the fact that the National Defense Program is swinging into production. According to the report, there is widespread hiring of older skilled workers.

N. Y. Restaurant Workers Gain Pay Rise Contract

New York, N. Y.—Officials of Cafeteria Employes Local No. 302, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced the acceptance by the 800 workers of the 24 Exchange Buffet restaurants of a new contract including annual wage increases of about $16,000. The question of further wage increases will be taken up with the company in 6 months. All the employes are members of the union. Since the restaurant chain was unionized in 1937 approximately $200,000 in annual wage increases has been granted to its employes.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

DO YOU KNOW?

You can save hours of precious time searching for that misplaced clipping if you keep on hand a package of 3x5 cards that fit into a recipe box and when you find a recipe you want to save clip and paste and file. Miscellaneous clippings have such a way of getting rumpled and lost.

* * *

A new modern plastic magazine rack would make a charming Xmas present for some loving friend. This modern plastic is surprisingly light weight and almost unbreakable.

* * *

Collecting of miniature vases, pitchers and animals has become quite a hobby for the shelves of those modern whatnots so popular today. Good suggestions for the very inexpensive Christmas gift, too.

* * *

Despite the war scare we are still able to purchase lovely French perfumes, but they are being put up in smaller bottles priced to meet your gift budgets. It is a question of how long we will be able to purchase these as France and other countries are greatly handicapped in raising flowers which are important to truly exquisite perfumes.

"Shelter boots" in gayly colored felt, fleece lined are finding a ready sale these days, and are comfy for other times than for what their name implies.

GLAMOUR

The South American influence is felt in nearly all dress and hat designs. Turbans are at the height of fashion again. Lilly Dache is showing more turbans than ever. The newest is one made of cellophane cloth shot with silver.

Hats are huge and off-the-face. They are made to show off your pompadour, which is now reaching magnificent heights for evening wear. You can even buy mesh "rats" in the dime stores and do marvelous things for your pompadour.

Almost everything is bedecked in jewelry. Very few of the newest styles are without some piece of real or costume jewelry decorating neck, pockets or waist. Enamel pins, four to six inches long in large flower designs encrusted with sequins make splendid dress ornaments or may be worn on your fur coat.

Fur is used extensively for everything. Have you seen the new fur earrings yet? It's enough to make you smile. Picture yourself going about to the latest tea or cocktail party with a pair of ermine tails dangling from your ears! The fur bad doesn't stop at earrings, either, but includes a necklace and bracelet of the same ermine tails. The necklace forms a collar and seems more feasible as an ornament. Even the bracelet is acceptable, but earrings are a bit fantastic.

If, by chance, you are buying clothes for a cruise, or a trip to the tropics, you might as well get familiar with some of the names of the new shades (they'll be favorites in the North next summer). Off yellow is called golden wheat, or lynx beige. Greige is a combination of grey and beige, and is very pretty. White still remains a sensation for evening wear.

Have you seen the new hat pins? About four inches long and finished off with natural looking mushrooms, owls' heads, frogs, etc. Whimsical to say the least.

Another gadget to think about for Christmas is a sprig of yew with bright scarlet berries, for a boutonniere.

FOR BETTER HOMEMAKING

For a most striking modern room use a white broadfelt (inexpensive) rug on a floor that has been enameled black around the rug. The walls should be painted or papered all white, while the woodwork should be black enameled. White venetian blinds with black tapes at the windows and curtains of white ninon banded with a two-inch band of cherry red satin ribbon, draped high across the window tied back with bands of red and black satin ribbon. With this you may use any modern furniture in natural woods. Small accessories should be in cherry red.

Paper pleated lamp shades which can be purchased in the dime store make excellent flower-pot covers. You may buy them in colors to match the room's accessories.

* * *

Rust stains in linens may sometimes be removed by boiling article ten minutes in quart of water containing 2 tablespoons of cream of tartar.

* * *

Decorate your kitchen by cutting motifs out of fancy patterned oil cloth and pasting them either on your cupboard doors or as a border around the kitchen wall. Oil cloth manufacturers are putting out some charming patterns in Mexican, floral and modern designs.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Food is part of good strategy at home in peace times. The right food and enough of it, for every man, woman and child builds strength for the present and the future. To quote Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, food economist in the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, "Every one of us in choosing our daily food, every homemaker planning meals for her family can play a definite part in national defense. By eating the foods needed for good nutrition we can help to make America strong, ready for whatever lies ahead. A third of America's families are below the safety line in nutrition. This is one of the hard facts that we must face and do something about. It is true that millions of persons do not have enough money to buy a good diet. But millions more who spend enough, do not buy the right food values."

PANTRY PALAVER

CHEF'S HINTS: Make your next pie with a crumb crust. It's so easy and never fails. Crush a cup of corn flakes and mix into a third of a cup of melted butter mixed with one-fourth cup sugar. Press mixture firmly around sides and bottom of a medium sized pie shell. Chill before adding filling.

* * *

Make a quick desert by lining muffin tins with the crumb crust and fill with ice cream. Top with whipped cream and nuts if desired.

* * *

If you've never tried chocolate fudge filling for pie, hie yourself right into the kitchen. In a double boiler put 2 cups of sugar, 1½ cups milks, 4 sqs. unsweetened chocolate and cook until the mixture forms a soft ball in cold water (about 5 mins.) Cool. When cool enough so that the mixture will not cook the egg yolks, add 4 beaten egg yolks, 2 tblspns. melted butter, 2 tblspns. vanilla. Put mixture into shell and bake 30 minutes in a modern oven. Make meringue of the stiffly beaten egg whites to which you have added 4 tblspns. sugar and a dash of vanilla. This quantity makes two small or one very large pie.

* * *

If your family likes beef liver, it makes a pleasing change to the family menu. Wash enough slices of liver for the family and dry. Lard liver with strips cut from strips of bacon and wrap three more strips around slices of liver. Place in a backing dish, covering with 2 onions sliced, and add bay leaf, salt and pepper. Pour half cup claret over and let stand several hours. Bake about an hour and half in moderate oven until liver is done.

BABY TALK

Many mothers have found the modern sleeping bags a great aid for keeping the small baby completely covered in winter. They are made of materials of various degrees of warmth, are large enough to tuck under the mattress and fasten around the baby's neck although they should be small enough at the neck so that the baby cannot pull his head through and slide down into the bag.

AFL Demands Labor Representation in All Defense Policy Making; Anti-Trust Suits Condemned

New Orleans.—A broad program of policy on national defense, public housing, aid for Great Britain, recketeering in the unions, WPA wage rates in the construction field and other matters was formulated by decisions of the 60th annual American Federation of Labor convention.

Labor representation on all polick making boards dealing with the defense program was demanded in a convention declaration that warned against permitting American democracy to be transformed into a "dictatorship" through efforts to curtail labor's rights. The convention declared that the introduction of undemocratic practices in the conduct of the defense program would be regarded by labor as a blow "at the soul of what we would defend."

"Labor should have representation on all pouicy-making and administrative agencies and draft boards," the convention said.

Housing Program Indorsed.

"Labor standards and other provisions for social welfare must be maintained under emergency conditions as essential to efficient production, as well as to national morale," the convention further declared.

On public housing, the convention asked approval by congress of a proposed $800,000,000 low-rent housing and slum clearance program and building under the United States Housing Authority of "sufficient sanitary dwellings" to house all workers in national defense industries.

The convention expressed the "fervent hope and prayer" that Great Britain would be victorious, and said:

"Our sympathies go to her people, the men and women who make the British Trades Union Congress, and to all who are fighting a heroic battle against tremendous odds.

Racketeering Denounced.

"We join in the recommendations of the Executive Council in favoring the extension of all help and assistance possible to Great Britain in her hour of need on the part of our government, short of war itself." An additional warning was given against any United States involvement in the war.

The convention approved unanimously a report calling for the exclusion of racketeer influence from the labor movement and giving the A. F. of L. Executive Council authority to aapply "all its influence" to force action against union officials found guilty of using their offices for personal gains.

The convention pointed to more "criminal tendencies" among public officials, professional men and in business than among labor men, expressed pride in the records of labor men for integrity and said:

"Those who make use of instances where trade union officials have erred, for the purpose of condemning the trade union movement and its leadership as a whole, are guilty of grave social harm."

The racketeering declaration was regarded as a compromise, but was accepted by David Dubinsky, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, whose delegates has been instructed to ask drastic action, Dubinsky said that the decision was "substantially" the equivalent of action he had sought.

The convention condemned WPA encroachment on work normally done under private contract and recommended the establishment of a long-range public works profiram, to take up slack in unemployment and business acticity during the depression periods. WPA building wage rates were denounced as an effort to lower skilled union wage rates and everything indicated the A. F. of L. will carry a determined fight to the WPA on the issue.

As forecast by the Executive Council's report, the convention bitterly denounced the government's anti-trust prosecution against unions as the "most vicious" ever leveled against labor.

"Malice" toward the A. F. of L. was charged in the prosecution of the anti-trust drive and the convention declared:

"Interference with interstate commerce in restraint of trade by

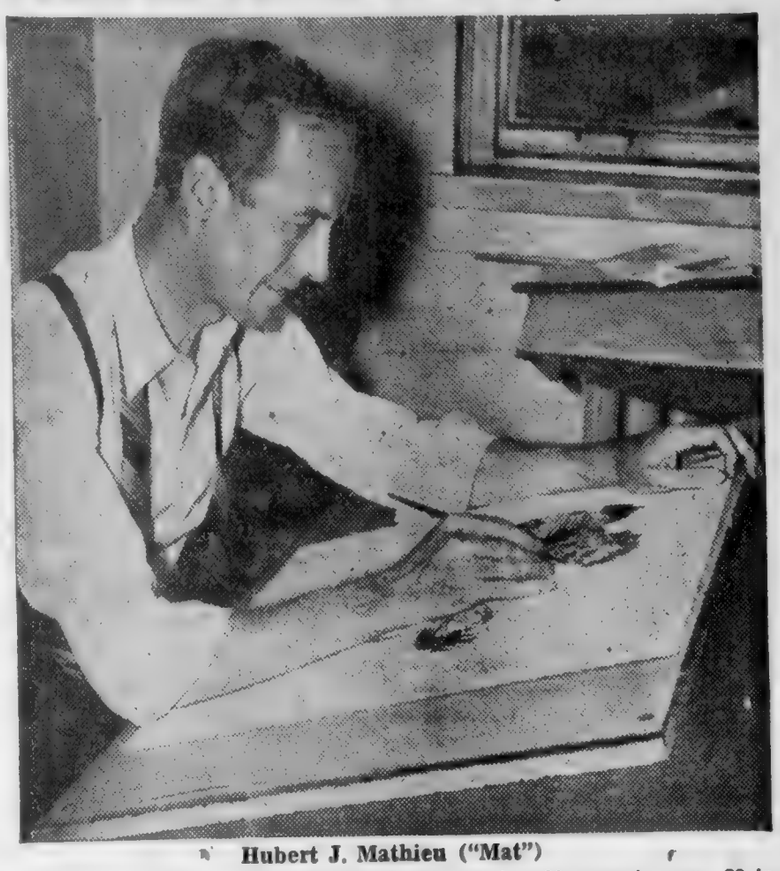
Famous Artist of "Our Democracy" Cartoons



Hubert J. Mathieu ("Mat")

Hubert J. Mathieu, who draws the "Our Democracy" cartoon series, has been nationally known for years as an illustrator of stories and serials in such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, Ladies Home Journal, McCalls, Cosmopolitan.

Mr. Mathieu's first paid job was as a farm hand, and he owns and lives on a farm today. Born in Brookings, S. D., the son of the late Hubert B. Mathieu, dean of South Dakota State College at Brookings, the artist worked as a boy on nearby farms. He graduated from South Dakota State College in 1919. In his years of success he has gone back to the land. He owns and lives on 150 acres in Bucks County, Pa. The farm which this year has 20 acres in corn, 20 in wheat and 15 in oats, as well as hay and truck, is operated for Mr. Mathieu by his nearest neighbor, on shares. Mr. Mathieu says the farm pays both him and the neighbor.

The series of cartoons "Our Democracy" scheduled to appear weekly in this paper, Mr. Mathieu draws partly on his farm and partly in a studio he rents in New York, where the photograph above was taken.

Mr. Mathieu is of American Revolution stock, of French, Dutch and English ancestry. He is married and has four children.

His uncle, Oscar Mathieu, is senior agronomist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, at Washington.

A. F. of L. to Press for 30-Hour Week To Prevent Unemployment Crisis When Defense Program Ends

NEW ORLEANS.—Foreseeing an acute unemployment crisis as intensive production for defense purposes slackens and finally ends, the American Federation of Labor stands committed to press for adoption of the 30-hour week when the war emergency passes.

Reaffirmation of the A.F.L. indorsement of the 6-hour day, 30-hour week as an ultimate objective came in the closing session of the Federation's 60th annual convention, which unanimously re-elected President William Green, Secretary-Treasurer George Meany and all other officers. Seattle was selected as the 1941 convention city.

The convention made it clear that the Federation would not insist on adoption of the 30-hour week now and approved the present 40-hour week as making for efficiency in the armament program. It instructed the officers to fight any encroachment on present hour and wage standards and declared:

"We hold that any lengthening of labor hours in the light of existing unemployment conditions would be a grave mistake and would be certain to react injuriously to the national defense program."

Short Week Seen Certain

Commenting on the declaration for a 30-hour week to spread unemployment as the defense program ends, President Green told the delegates that he regarded the 30-hour week as "the real remedy" for joblessness and predicted it would be accepted by industry "when the let-down comes."

Speaking after his re-election, Green said he believed there exists a strong desire for labor unity among workers of all kinds and added:

"I will, with all charity, devote my energies to bringing about peace in the labor movement in the coming year."

Union Drive Pledged

The A.F.L. head pledged himself to aggressive organization efforts among unorganized workers and to the mobilization of labor support for the national defense program.

Expressing his pleasure at adoption of a resolution hailing return of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to the A.F.L., David Dubinsky, president of the union, said his organization was happy it had severed its connection with the CIO and rejoined the Federation.

The convention condemned all moves to curtain educational opportunities because of the increased tax burden imposed on communities by defense taxation and held that such moves were "not only unfair to children but dangerous to the future welfare of democratic government."

ITU Reaffiliation Progresses

Matthew Woll, Federation vice-president and chairman of a special committee negotiating for the return of the International Typographical Union to good standing in the A.F.L., reported progress had been made in conferences held here and that further meetings would be held. The 80,000 members of the printers' union were suspended a year ago for refusal to pay a special assessment of 1 cent a month a member, but this assessment was repealed at the present convention.

AGE LIMITS RAISED FOR NAVAL WORKERS

Washington.—Qualified workers who have not passed their 62nd birthday anniversary will be accepted as boatbuilders, shipfitters, sailmakers and shipjoiners for the coast guard depot at Curtis Bay, Md., the civil service commission announced in raising the age limits for these jobs. An urgent call was also sent out for rigger helpers, flange turner helpers, foundry furnacemen and aircraft instrument mechanic helpers for the navy yard at Portsmouth, Va., and the naval air station at Norfolk.

A. P. Kellogg, turbine engineer of the General Electric company, is making plans for a floating power plant to be towed through coastal and inland waterways and connected with regular distribution lines to meet emergency demands for electricity for the national defense program. His plant would be installed in a low hull like that of a Great Lakes freighter.

Genuises are a nuisance, anyway. Some one should write a paean to Mediocrity.—Samuel Hoffenstein.

Electrical Workers Strike In 120 Supply Concerns

NEW YORK CITY.—A strike of 1,500 workers, called by Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, tied up 120 electrical supply firms here on Dec. 2.

The strike call was issued after expiration of the union's agreement with the Eastern Electrical Wholesale Association and failure to negotiate a new contract. The strikers demand a union shop, a 40-hour week, 20 per cent wage increase, time and one-half for overtime and legal holidays off with pay.

The same people who can deny others everything are famous for refusing themselves nothing. —Leigh Hunt.

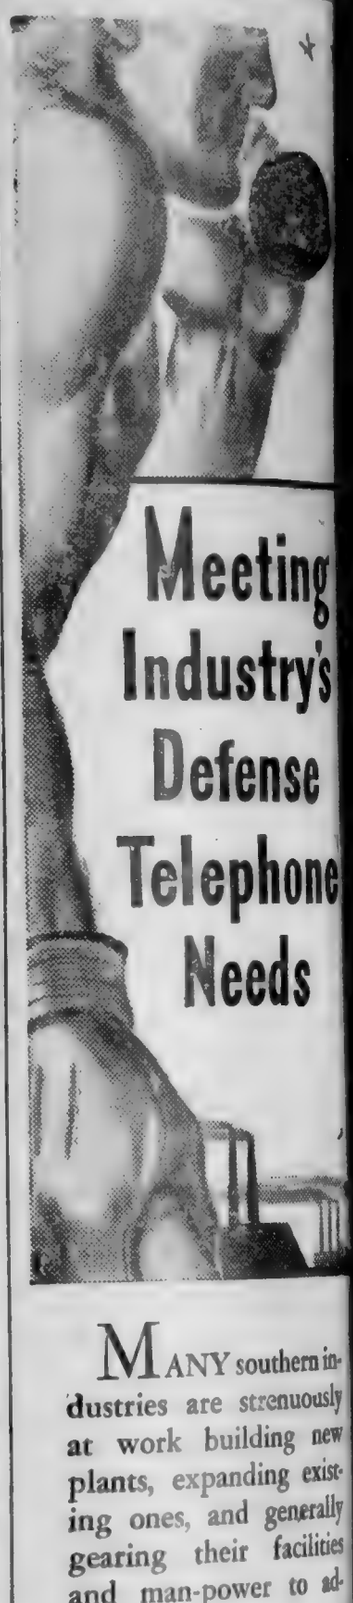
CHRISTMAS—

The spirit of Christmas is t spirit of democracy, and the spi of democracy is the spirit of o ganized labor in its effort to bu the common welfare of all m kind. That program it strives progress by raising the standard living through improving con tions for all working men a women.—Brotherhood of Locom tive Firemen and Enginemen Magazine.



MANY southern industries are strenuously at work building new plants, expanding existing ones, and generally gearing their facilities and man-power to advance the nation's defense program.

It is a tremendous and urgent job they have taken on. Their rapidly increasing communications needs create an equally important job of service expansion for the Telephone Company, including the engineering and installation of enlarged telephone facilities in many localities.

These industries are going ahead with their production and expansion activities and plans, with confidence that the Telephone Company will meet their telephone needs promptly and fully. Their daily requirements are being provided now, and the thousands of highly trained telephone workers are prepared with materials and experience to meet whatever service demands the future holds.

sit-down strikes and other activities staged by dual and rival unions brought no prosecutions against these dual and rival organizations, whereas the American Federation of Labor unions, having been engaged in peaceful activities, have been prosecuted by the score."

Union Activities Defended.

Present anti-trust suits, the convention held, were an outgrowth of the performance by unions of functions intended to benefit their members through improved wages and working conditions, the elimination of sweatshops and the displacement of company unions, and that none of these functions were subject to review under the anti-trust laws.

All prosecutions against unions and their leaders were brought under the criminal code, the convention asserted, while those against business men were brought on a civil basis.

"We condemn most vigorously the unwarranted course pursued by the present anti-trust division of the department of justice toward organized labor and the fundamentals upon which it is founded," it was declared.

The convention went on record as favoring extension of the social security program to include health insurance, urged enactment of federal legislation against lynching, demanded repeal of poll tax laws, asked that the award of the navy wage board of review setting wages in navy yards be set aside as "inadequate," and recommended barring of the communist party from the ballot in all states.

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

Tobacco Workers Union Going Places, With Program for Making Real Progress iu Modern Industry

New Orleans, La. — One of the international unions represented here really going places is the Tobacco Workers' International Union, with 100 votes, represented by President W. Warren Smith, of Louisville, Ky.

This union is just emerging from reorganization of its affairs and the retirement of the former veteran president, E. Lewis Evans.

The new officers pay tribute to the pioneering work of Evans, but are pointing their plans toward an industry that is far different than it was when Evans fought his battles, which required sacrifice and "riding the rods" now and then.

Smith B. & W. Worker.

Smith came to the presidency from the big plant of the Brown & Williamson Tobacco corporation which brands of union label cigarettes, along with several brands of tobacco and snuff. That plant is regarded as the best in the country, in point of employment conditions.

President Smith expressed full confidence that the Tobacco Workers' International union is due for real progress. It now has preferential agrdeements in some of the big plants and in several small ones. Certain difficulties may be ironed out, permitting extension of the use of the label and conferences are scheduled for that purpose.

Pioneering Work Counts.

But whatever may be the extension of the use of the label, the pioneering work done by the Brown & Williamson Tobacco corporation and by the late Col. Wood F. Axton, of Axton-Fisher, will remain as the foundation of progress and the measure of achievements to come.

President Smits is a young man, possessed of ideas, determination and balance.

"Build-Up" Important Protector of Women

A weak, undernourished condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get a foothold; thus leads much of woman's suffering from headaches, nervousness, and other periodic discomfort.

CARDUI'S principal help for such distress comes from the way it usually stimulates appetite; increases flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion; helps build energy, strength, physical resistance to periodic pain for many.

Another way, many women find help for periodic distress: Take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time." Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

LABOR MIGRATIONS HIT

Columbus, Ohio.—The Ohio State Employment Service warned that labor migration to the sites of major national defense construction jobs in Ohio have resulted in thousands of disappointments and tend to create serious community problems at such centers. The bureau renewed its request that workers seeking such jobs register first at their local employment security center, thus avoiding "fruitless migration, with disappointments at the employment gate."

Easily Broken.

Sailor—I see there's a rule against tips here.

Waitress—Bless your heart, apples were forbidden in the garden of Eden, too.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

THOMAS DURIAN

Thomas Durian, President of the International Glove Workers' Union of America, started his career as a Trades Unionist in 1909 at Chicago. In 1912 he obtained a transfer card to the Milwaukee Local Union. Mr. Durian showed his unusual leadership in the days of the National Recovery Act, when, as President, he reorganized the Glove Workers' Local in Milwaukee. In 1935 he was elected International Vice-President and in 1937 he became President of the International Glove Workers' Union.

The President of the Glove Workers is a staunch believer in the Union Label cause. As an organizer in the early days he carried on a constant educational campaign for furthering the emblems used by labor, which are placed on Union Label products and which designate Union services. In a recent statement Mr. Durian said that since he became President of his International Union, the use of the Glove Workers' Union Label has grown 400 per cent and that the industry requires hundreds of thousands of labels each year. Constant publicity and promotion of the Union Labels, Shop Cards and Buttons are showing definite results.

His address is: Mr. Thomas Durian, President, International Glove Workers' Union of America, 5377 N. Thirty-fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

GLOVE WORKERS' LABEL

The Union Label of the International Glove Workers' Union of America was adopted in March 1903. It is displayed by a printed cloth label on the wrist band or wrist seam of the glove. Each label is numbered so a thorough check-up can be made on the superior craftsmanship of the Union glove worker.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons, write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Another Insurance Firm Signs Union Contract

Washington, D. C.—The American Federation of Industrial and Ordinary Insurance Agents' Union No. 21354, A. F. of L. affiliate, announced the signiing of a contract with the Life Insurance Company of Virginia for its members employed by the company in the District of Columbia.

The company agrees to pay the agents a commission of 45 per cent on all first year increase (industrial) and gives a 10 per cent increase in first year ordinary commissions. The contract also includes provisions for a five-day week; vacations with pay; traveling expense of not less than $2 weekly, except those debits that necessarily have to be collected by automobile, then additional allowance is made; reduction in cost of agents surety bonds; no individual quotas or allotments and other changes made in the conditions of employment.

The negotiators representing the union were Frank Weikel, Ralph U. Boyer and George L. Russ.

DON'T BEAR A GRUDGE

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

We have just passed through one of the most bitter political campaigns in American history. In some countries, such a campaign would be accompanied by riots, murders, the destruction of property, the mass intimidation of voters, and very frequently the candidates for office would be compelled to seek protection from violence until the successful candidate had been established. Or, as often happens, the unsuccessful candidates had been "liquidated" so that they might not become embarrassing to the new government.

None of these things occurred in the United States. However, it happens that this particular election was held at a time when its results will be most widely felt during coming days. It was so important that it was carefully watched by the major nations of the world, because they believed that the noiseless American ballots would determine far weightier matters than the firing of guns and the dropping of heavy bombs by flying airplanes. For these ballots expressed the voice and heart and the mind of a free nation—the most powerful in the world.

However this may be, there is no doubt that the effects of the election will be most widely felt in the United States. It may mean greater freedom and prosperity for our people, or it may mean increasing strife and and discontent. And these will be brought about not so much by those who have been either elected or defeated for office, as by the attitude of our citizenry toward each other. Our country needs to fear what we shall do to each other more than we need to be afraid of what the warring nations of Europe may do to us. One of the worst things that can happen to us is to bear a grudge against our fellow-citizens, for in so doing we are simply nurturing a cankerous sore which will ultimately corrode and corrupt the best that is in us.

Regardless of who may be our president, or the makers of our laws, our future lies in the hands of "we the people"—and this means the whole people. Most important is whether we want unity, true patriotism, and industrial co-operation, through which we shall achieve re-employment, rebuilding of our homes and our institutions, and mainly the strengthening of our characters as true Americans. This is the way of American democracy.

AFL Union Is Chosen By Railroad Employes

Washington, D. C.—The National Mediation Board announced the certification of the Joint Council Dining Car Employes Local No. 384, Hotel and Restaurant Employes International Alliance, A. F. of L. affiliate, to represent lounge car attendants employed by the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad Company for collective bargaining purposes following an election held in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act. All of the employes eligible to vote cast their ballots for the Joint Council.

Paraffine Companies, Inc., has announced the discovery of a substitute for Tung oil, used in the manufacture of paints, varnishes and lacquers. The company added the new material was said to be as good as or better than Tung oil and could be produced at lower cost. The United States relies chiefly on China for Tung oil.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

WILLIAM SCHOENBERG

William Schoenberg, President of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union was formerly General Representative of the American Federation of Labor in charge of the Chicago office of the A. F. of L. Previous to his serving the A. F. of L. he was a General Organizer of the International Association of Machinists and for many years served as the Machinists' Business Representative in Chicago, Ill.

The United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union is one of the last additions to the family of National and International Unions within the American Federation of Labor. Its International Charter was presented to this organization by Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, in September, 1939.

The organization was granted jurisdiction over all workers employed in the cement, lime and gypsum industries. At this time there are approximately 20,000 employes in 130 plants organized throughout the nation. Of these about 120 plants work under Union agreements.

During the short period of the new militant Union's existence it has made a phenomenal record. This is principally due to the able leadership of President Schoenberg.

His address is: Mr. William Schoenberg, President, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, 549 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Illinois.

CEMENT, LIME AND GYPSUM WORKERS UNION LABEL

The Union Label of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union appears on containers of cement, lime and gypsum. It is printed on the cement bags and stenciled on other types of containers.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards or Service Buttons, write Mr. J. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Logical.

Pat, a truck driver, stopped suddenly on the highway. The car behind crashed into the truck and its owner sued the Irishman.

"Why didn't you hold out your hand?" the judge asked Pat.

"Well," he said indignantly, "if he couldn't see the truck, how in hivin's name could he see my hand?"

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

FRANK B. POWERS

FRANK B. POWERS

Frank B. Powers, International President of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, has been a continuous member of this organization since 1905. From 1921 to 1928 he held the position of International Secretary-Treasurer, and in the latter year was elected International President. Mr. Powers is an aggressive and persistent organizer, having been confronted during his tenure of office with such organizational problems as the Western Union and Associated Press. The Associated Press is now under a closed shop agreement, while Western Union is now in its organizational stages, with one partial closed shop agreement covering Washington, D. C.

This International Union had 4,500 members in 1928 when Mr. Powers was elected as President, and is now approaching the 10,000 mark. Some 500 radio operators are included in the increased membership.

Mr. Powers is also a member of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, holding a 25-year emblem. He was fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labor to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in 1932. He has been a delegate to the conventions of the American Federation of Labor since 1925.

His address is: Mr. Frank B. Powers, International President, The Commercial Telegraphers' Union, 113 South Ashland Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois.

COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' BUTTON

The Union Button of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union was adopted at its first convention in 1902. It is worn in the same manner as a fraternal emblem by both men and women members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union. It is the only assurance that the telegraphic services are Union.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons, write Mr. I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.

Militant Labor in the Mountain Metropolis Marching Forward

Asheville, N. C.—This city is claiming a local union having the youngest officers of any local union in affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. The local is that of the Asheville Mica Workers local union, organized six months ago, and is now preparing to negotiate an agreement with the management of the Asheville Mica Company. In the picture above the officers and their ages are as follows:

Seated at left, Miss Inez Whitaker, recording secretary, 20 years of age; standing, left to right, Miss Grace Cosgrove, vice-president, 21-plus (and this is the age she gave); Clenon Clark, president, 19 years of age; Miss Mary Wilson, financial secretary, 20 years of age, and Clarence Jackson, chairman of the executive board, 19 years of age. Miss Cosgrove is experienced in union activity, and ably assists the young officers in the work of the local union.

ASHEVILLE RAPIDLY RESUMING ITS FORMER PLACE AS SOUTH'S BEST UNION CENTER

Asheville, N. C.—This city's Central Labor union will close the year 1940 with a most remarkable growth of the labor movement. While 1939 was a banner year, the progress made in 1940 far exceeds that of the previous year. During the past two years the Central Labor union has added fourteen new local unions to the American Federation of Labor's official family, some of the locals being unusually large and powerful. With the newly organized local union in the city proper, and hundreds of members employed on the two big jobs at Nantahala and Glenville, these being under the Asheville jurisdiction, membership of A. F. of L. unions in this city has experienced a tremendous growth.

In Asheville proper the following local unions have been organized, many of which have already obtained agreements with employers, while negotiations are under way at this time for agreements in other plants and places of employment. The new local unions are:

The Enka Rayon Workers' local, the Tannery Workers' local, the Linemen's local of the I. B. E. W., the Auto Mechanics' local of the I. A. M., the gas Workers' local, the Sayles Bleachery Workers' local, the Asheville Cotton Mill Employes' local, Teamsters and Chauffeurs' local, the Creamery Workers' local, the Building Service Employes' local, the Beacon Blanket Workers, the Carpenters' local for employes of the National Casket company, the Mica Workers' local, and the Beauticians' local. Other local unions now in process of organization are the Retail Clerks, Meat Cutters, Bookkeepers and Stenographers, and others whose identity will not be disclosed until more progress has been made.

L. D. Warren, president; Mark Felmet, secretary, and other Central Labor union officials, with R. W. Ingle, vice-president of the State Federation of Labor, have won their laurels in the organizing activities of the Central Labor union. A great job has been done.

COOKS AND WAITERS

Hello, folks. Once again I'm with you, as our business agent is busy in Tullahoma. So here goes.

* * *

As I look around I find Fred Witmore is back at the Home Plate after several weeks at the Broad Street Cigar Stand. It looks natural to see Fred back on the job.

* * *

Didn't get around to Ham's this week, but understand he's doing some remodeling and has a new man on the job. Dick Wall is the name, in case some of you don't know.

* * *

Charles Parsons has remodeled the front entrance and I see has new venetian blinds at the windows. Rather ritzy, I calls it.

* * *

Bob Green's have their Christmas decorations all up and also new uniforms for the girls that are rather nice.

* * *

Millard's No. 2 are doing some remodeling and plan to seat around twenty more people, which will give room for those who have been waiting for seating capacity.

* * *

Mr. Smith has a new waiter on West Ninth street. Didn't get the name, but wish him success.

* * *

Margaret Basham and Jack Brue seem to be getting along splendidly at Cate's lunch on Seventh street, while J. W. Cate and Frank Wallace handle the situation nicely on Chestnut street.

* * *

E. L. Peek keeps things under control at Millard's No. 1 on Market street, with the support of George Henry Parks and D. R. Snell.

* * *

The George Dixon drug store is the only union drug store in the city. Let's don't forget that during Christmas shopping.

* * *

Charlie's place, on Market street, is doing a nice business. One of our oldest members, James Lasley, is working there. Also Richey's place on Market street is 100% union.

* * *

The Lunch Box at Sixth and Cherry streets is one of our union houses and deserves union patronage.

* * *

We are glad to say here that Hedges' Corner, Eleventh and King street, are 100% union. Mr. Hedges makes that good old apple cider we like so well.

* * *

Coming on down the line, the Rathskeller, Times Square, George's, Rex Lunch, Copelan's, Barfoot's, K. & G., Stubby's Grill, Broad Street cafe, Moreland's, Henderson's, Powell's, Joe Awad's, Zarzour's Place on South Broad street, McIsaac's Corner, Tom's Lunch in East Chattanooga and Jack's Place in East Chattanooga, State cafe, O K. Lunch, Cameo Lunch, Dick's Place, Phillips' Place, Shapiro's delicatessen, Ross Coffee shop and Lowe's cafe are all union houses and deserve your patronage. If I've missed anyone I'm truly sorry, but my time is limited and I must run along.

Hope to see every one at the meeting next Tuesday night at our new home in the labor temple, 540 Vine street, room 211. Don't disappoint me.

Don't forget the Bakers' bingo party Saturday night at the labor temple. Tickets are only 25c.

Resolutions

CHARLES WRIGHT

We, the officers and members of Local 1592, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, do hereby deeply regret the passing of our fellow-member and brother, Charles Wright, who died Friday, November 29, 1940, while working on his job at Chattanooga Sash and Millwork company.

Although his kindness and consideration will be greatly missed, we feel that the all-wise God has seen fit to permit his passing from this life to rest from all toil and worry and await the resurrection.

W. M. GLEAVES

Whereas, Walter M. Gleaves, beloved member of Local 226, Painters and Decorators, for thirty-six years, was stricken while on duty at Tullahoma, Tenn., on Sunday, Dec. 8, 1940; and,

Whereas, Brother Gleaves during his membership in our local union had contributed more than his share in building up an organization that has done so much for the well-being of his fellow workingman, and had entwined himself around the hearts of all who knew him, being a good neighbor, a splendid citizen and a loyal father and husband; therefore, be it

Resolved, by Local 226, Painters and Decorators, that we express our sincere loss and grief in the loss of this dear brother; be it further

Resolved, that we send copies of this resolution to the family of our departed brother, a copy be inscribed in our minutes, and a copy be sent to The Labor World for publication.

MRS. MARY ELLIOTT

Whereas, Mrs. Mary Elliott, mother of A. H. Elliott, was called to her reward on Dec. 4, 1940, at Englewood, Tenn., therefore, be it

Resolved, by Local 662, Retail Clerks, that we express to our brother our deep sympathy and condolence in his loss, extending an understanding hand of brotherly love; be it further

Resolved, that copies of this resolution be sent to the bereaved family, a copy be inscribed in our minutes, and a copy be sent to The Labor World for publication.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 13th day of July, 1928, Sam E. Reevin and wife, Sarah Reevin, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration July 14, 1928, and recorded in Book E, Vol. 23, page 374, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Sam E. Reevin and wife, Sarah Reevin, have failed to perform covenants in said note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, Trustee, will, on at, within the legal hours of sale, at the front door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The East 97 feet of Lot 16, Block 18, Map of Alton Park (formerly Oak Hills) in said county, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 3, page 8, of the Register's office of said county. Said part of lot makes one tract of ground fronting 50 feet on the West line of Highland Avenue and extends back westwardly, of uniform width, along the North line of Ninth street, a distance of 97 feet.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This December 12, 1940.

F. L. UNDERWOOD, Trustee.

American Can Renews Agreement With Union

Tampa, Fla.—Employes of the American Can company, at the Tampa plant on Twenty-second street, are now working under a new agreement, the second negotiated by Local Union No. 21978, since the plant was organized a little more than a year ago.

Under the new agreement signed last week, workers at the plant will benefit by an increase of wages amounting to approximately 3 cents per hour above the scale of the first contract, and other important gains similar to those listed in the previous agreement are again in effect for the ensuing year.

Negotiations for the new contract were carried on by members of the local under Charles E. Silva, president of the Florida Federation of Labor, and J. L. Rhodes, of Jacksonville, American Federation of Labor organizer for Florida.

Incriminating Evidence.

ppointment of Edward F. McGrady s Army "Trouble-Shooter" Meets ith Widespread Approval

Washington.—Appointment of Edward F. McGrady as ecial consultant on labor matters to Secretary of War imson has met with universal approval in government, siness and labor circles. He will serve without salary and e of his chief jobs will be to avert or settle labor contro- rsies that threaten to hamper defense production.

McGrady, former Assistant Sec- ary of Labor, Assistant Admin- rator of the NRA, and long leg- tive committeeman of the erican Federation of Labor, is vice-president in charge of la- relations of the vast Radio rporation of America. He will vote his mornings to the radio rporations and his afternoons to job with the war department.

"Ed" McGrady knows labor prob- better, perhaps, than any or man in America. The war partment will have the best pos- ble advice on the ticklish ques- , how to keep defense mate- ls flowing on specified delivery hedules, if delays of this charac- are traceable to labor.

Delays Cause Worry.

These delays have the depart- nt worried. They frankly admit y don't know what is causing m in most cases.

McGrady has been prominent in e labor movement for more than ty years. He worked as a wspaper pressman in Boston, be- me president of the Boston inting Pressmen's union and er was elected president of the ston Central Labor union and e Massachusetts State Federa- n of Labor.

For many years he played a ge part in the organizational d legislative work of the Amer- n Federation of Labor.

Served Under Baker.

He was called to a post similar his new one when he became ecial advisor on labor relations Secretary Baker in 1917 and 18.

Besides his governmental work the department of labor and e NRA, McGrady earlier in his eer, was a member of the Bos- n Common Council and of the assachusetts house of representa- ves.

In recent years McGrady fre- ently has advised the war de- rtment on labor relations.

Press Hails Appointment.

Typical of press approval of Mc- ady's appointment was that of e Washington Daily News, which d editorially:

"When labor disputes threaten fense production, it will be a isfaction to know that this vet- an trouble-shooter, domestic dip- mat and practical philosopher, o has served labor, industry and vernment with equal success, is hand."

ustodians Meet his Saturday

Hobart Martin, secretary for hool Custodians, announced to- that there will be a meeting the union Saturday, Dec. 21, at e new labor temple at 540 Vine eet. The meeting will be in om 212, and business will start 11 a.m. promptly.

Brother Martin said that the last eting was most interesting and hopes every member will be on d for the first session held in new labor temple.

New Radio Station Signs Closed Shop Contract With Union

Station WDEF, radio broadcasting company just organized by Joe Engel, has signed a closed shop contract with Local 662, Radio Workers, affiliated with International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The contract was consummated Dec. 16, and provides six new jobs in that industry for Chattanooga unionists.

Local 662 has similar contracts with Stations WDOD and WAPO.

Taxi Companies Must Provide Insurance Policy

City Ordinance Upheld by Judge Lusk Which Gives Protection to Public.

A city ordinance requiring taxicab operators either to file a bond for $10,000 with the city auditor or to carry accident insurance to protect their customers, was held constitutional by Judge Charles W. Lusk in a case that has been pending in court for over two years.

The case was handed down in a case against Frank Steil, manager of the Deluxe Cab company. Steil was fined $15 for failure to observe this ordinance at a hearing before City Judge Martin Fleming in October, 1938. Steil appealed the case to Judge Lusk's court and lost.

The facts in the case were not disputed and briefs were submitted by City Attorney Joe Anderson and by Attorney Fletcher R. Morgan, counsel for Steil.

Assistant City Attorney Eugene Tatum said that he thought the file containing the records of the case was lost two or three times.

The ordinance was proposed by Central Labor union, but Frank Steil, operator of a nonunion line of cabs, many of which do not use Hamilton county license tags, decided to appeal the validity of the law. At present, passengers injured in unprotected cabs must rely on collecting of judgments rendered in a lawsuit. Since it has been the practice to have ownership of the cabs registered under names other than the company, tangible assets have been hard to locate.

The Yellow-Jolly cabs have always been protected so that patrons may be recompensed if injured.

The constitutionality of the ordinance was attacked on the ground that it was unreasonable and arbitrary because no insurance company in the state will underwrite such risk, or issue such an accident insurance policy. Judge Lusk said this question had already been decided in a number of supreme court cases and he cited four or five rulings to support his action in affirming the city court fine

New Job Offered Eugene Bryan By Judge Darr

Betterton Might Succeed Bryan and Olgiati Offered for Vacancy

Judge Leslie R. Darr Thursday day offered the post of referee in bankruptcy for the new division of federal court to Commissioner Eugene Bryan, of the department of fire and police, and it is generally believed Commissioner Bryan will accept. Resultant vacancy on the board of commissioners opens the door to a number of major political possibilities locally. It has been generally talked for a number of weeks that Mr. Bryan would receive this appointment and that before leaving his post he would participate in the selection of his successor to the fire and police job by voting with other members of the board to switch departments with Commissioner Betterton. However, strong disapproval of such a course by organized labor, backed by editorials in all three of the daily papers, as well as almost unanimous public sentiment generally, is believed to have forestalled any action of this kind. If this conclusion is correct, it will therefore remain for the four-man board to choose a successor to Mr. Bryan as a member, and to decide whether or not the new member will head the police and fire or some other department.

Speculation as to who the new member may be is wide and varied. Organized labor has suggested as its first choice P. O. Olgiati, superintendent of parks in Commissioner Bob Cooke's department. Besides a long and honorable record of service to the local trade union movement, Mr. Olgiati, now president of the bricklayers' union and holding several posts in the Central Labor Body, has made an enviable and widely recognized record as a city employe. Trade unionists contend that the unusual ability which he has shown entitles him to first consideration in filling the expected vacancy.

It is pointed out that organized labor's objections to Commissioner Bryan's taking part in the naming of his successor is not aimed at Commissioner Betterton personally, but that such action would not be in the interest of the rights of the people and would set a bad precedent wherein a federal judicial appointee would in effect name his successor to the city post. There are still some who think the suggestion that a majority of the board, including, of course, Commissioner Bryan himself, switch Commissioner Bryan and Commissioner Betterton in advance of Mr. Bryan's resignation will be carried out, but local working men believe the practically unanimous sentiment in opposition to the proposal will be recognized by Mr. Bryan himself, and that the impropriety of such action on his part will forestall the alleged plan.

War Department Orders Contractors On Defense Contracts to Comply With Prevailing Union Practices

Washington.—In a recent letter of instructions to all construction quartermasters, Brig.-Gen. C. D. Hartman, assistant to the quartermaster-general, lays down rigid orders in relation to labor relations on defense works.

In a letter to John P. Coyne, president of the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL, Gen. Hartman states that labor conditions on any one project may have national significance, and that cases involving labor should be referred to his office before final action is taken on construction quartermasters.

The "Letter of Instructions" requires that all mechanics must be paid upon the site of the work at rates not less than those established by the secretary of labor. Payment also must be made in one check or in cash, and when by check facilities must be provided for cashing the checks.

"Kick-back" Banned.

Time in excess of eight hours per day must be paid for at not less than one and one-half times the basic rate, and time worked on Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays must be paid for at overtime rates "in accordance with local recognized practices."

Strict attention is to be paid to racketeering, and "No deductions of any kind from wages due employes except those required or permitted by law shall be made directly or indirectly in any manner by the contractor or subcontractor." Payment must be made in one check, with no "kick-back" or rebate.

Contractors are required to maintain at all times such safety devices as are necessary, together with "adequate emergency hospital and first-aid stations, equipment, supplies, trained personnel" and also "such living, health, water and sanitary facilities" as needed.

Nonunionists Benefit.

Labor officials point out that nonunion workmen who secure work on defense contracts are getting a good break in wages and conditions which was secured for them by organized labor.

The war department, besides requiring strict observance of union conditions, also gives workmen this further protection, also a benefit from organized labor:

"The contractor shall maintain at all times adequate employe's liability or workmen's compensation insurance for all mechanics and laborers."

These instructions to construction quartermasters on all defense projects insures that employes engaged on this work will enjoy all the benefits of union conditions and wages and is one of the reasons why nonunion workmen are flocking to defense work by the thousands and is causing nonunion builders to moan about a shortage of mechanics.

WPA Notice Stresses Return of Employes To Private Payrolls

Washington, D. C.—To emphasize the responsibility of all WPA employes to take private or public jobs, either temporary or permanent, whenever they are available under fair conditions, Howard O. Hunter, acting works projects commissioner, ordered notices of this policy posted on all WPA project sites.

Hunter emphasized that the policy applies to all persons certified to WPA as in need and employable. He said, in part:

"The expansion of private and public employment is providing increased employment opportunities, and it is essential to the interests of certified persons and of the nation that every effort be made, consistent with established federal policy, to facilitate the obtaining by certified persons of private and public jobs for which they qualify. The assignment and continued employment of such persons on projects financed with WPA funds is secondary to the responsibility of facilitating the obtaining by such persons of private or public jobs.

"This responsibility of the work projects administration shall be scrupulously observed and shall not be mitigated by the labor requirements of either defense or nondefense projects. Certified persons have a responsibility as well as a right to take advantage of private and public employment opportunities, and this responsibility shall be protected even though their services are needed on projects. Both defense and nondefense projects shall release certified employes when appropriate private or public employment is available."

CHICAGO TEACHERS FORM LIST OF BLOOD DONORS

Chicago.—Officials of the Chicago Teachers' union announced plans to protect its members in sickness emergency through a volunteer blood donors list. The blood of each member volunteer will be typed by the Civic Medical Center, a medical organization officially indorsed by the union, which believes itself to be the first large lay organization to arrange for such far-seeing preventive medical action.

Pearls Before ——?

A literature class showed signs of restlessness while the English teacher, Prof. William Lyon Phelps, was lecturing on Browning. Finally, seeing the restlessness growing more acute, the quick-witted professor said:

"Only a minute. I have just one more pearl."

TO WORK FOR LABOR UNITY

New Orleans.—A charter has been granted to a nonpartisan organization, the United Labor association, said to have been formed for the purpose of promoting unity among the various labor groups of New Orleans, by meeting together and discussing labor problems. The promoters believe it will be possible to bring labor peace here.

TOAST TO OFFICERS OF LOCAL 1212 FOR 1941

Here's to our President, Brother Olinger;
By our votes he still carries the stinger;
To our troubles he always lends an ear;
With a little co-operation I know we have nothing to fear;
So we wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy, Successful New Year.

Here's to our Vice-President, Brother Brooks,
Who is as intelligent as he looks;
In case of trouble he will soon have it clear;
Therefore, we wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to our Financial Secretary and Treasurer;
We look to him when we want pleasure;
I guess every one knows his name is Brother Self;
His work will always be done, and never on the shelf;
Being that to us he is very near
We wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to Brother Dawson, our Recording Secretary,
Who will do his work and never be contrary;
He will keep our minutes for the coming year,
So we wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to Brother Hart,
Who did his job the best he could from the start;
We wish to thank him for his splendid work from the depth of our hearts;
From this office we regret to see him depart,
But we know this brother will always be of good cheer;
Now we wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to Brother C. R. Bice,
To every one he is always nice;
He's the little fellow the Incline boys go to for advice;
He did his job so well the first term that they have now elected him twice;
I am sure if he needs any help he can call on his big Brother Bice;
He never drinks whiskey nor does he ever drank beer,
So we wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to Brother J. C. Allison,
Who puts his work before his fun;
He looks after his duties after his day's work is done,
Although as an officer in our local he has just begun;
We know that when we call him he will come on the run;
He's a jolly good fellow and always full of cheer,
So we wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to Brother Merriman, our Recording Secretary in the past;
He did his job well up to the very last;
He ran a little slow in the election but on his feet he is very fast;
When you see him coming with his little brief case, boy! what class;
When taking the minutes everything that was said he was sure to hear;
We wish him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

We now have elected for the shop and garage Brother Hughes;
If you try to run over his men he is liable to blow a fuse;
Therefore it will be best to treat them nice and not with abuse;
He will never take a case until sure he has it clear,
So Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to Brothers Hunley, Payne, the committee for the shop and garage;
They tackled every case whether it was small or whether it large;
In every meeting you always their shining faces,
Doing their bit to see that the men are in their places;
They go about preaching and practicing unionism without fear;
Therefore it gives us great pleasure to wish them a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Here's to the rest that I just can't recall,
But I am sure they will always ready to play ball;
They will do their jobs well run again next fall;
We take this time to let them know we love them one and all;
For the splendid work they have done in the past and will this year,
We wish them a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

TO THE MEMBERS OF LOCAL 1212:

This is from your correspondent T. R. Underwood,
Who did his job and wrote the best he could;
If you have any news to give him he wishes you would
When you move be sure and give him your correct address
By doing this you will help keep the mailing list out of a mess;
Bring him your pictures regardless of the looks,
He will see that they will be in the books;
With every member's co-operation
He will be able to write the news of the transportation;
So come on, brothers, and let's get into the harness,
And I am sure that with us the coming year will be a success.
United we stand, divided we fall
So stick together and make it the best local of all;
Do unto others as you would have others do unto you;
If you will do this you will not be weary and blue;
From the depths of his heart he is wishing every member of Local 1212
A Merry Christmas and a Happy Prosperous New Year.

Local 1212 wishes every one a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and hopes that every one will do their best to make the Christmas a safe one.

Brother Lex said the stag party is out for a while anyway, but he will see to it that when the proper time comes he will let you know.

Down in the bullpen the great and only Toreador, Red Goforth, said he would arrange the arena and if the brothers would they could stage their party there—that is, if they bring their own milk, cheese and crackers. I think that is a swell idea, Red, the boys might take you up on that.

* * *

Beginning in January, on the second and fourth Saturday of each month, we will meet in Room 211 of our new labor temple at 540 Vine street.

* * *

As a good deal of thinking is given to the holidays and time is scarce I will sign off for the time being.

Quick Work.

Arabella—That handsome bachelor kissed me last night, and today the whole town knows about it.

Agatha—Goodness, how did you spread the news so quick?

Bakers' Scraps

We certainly had a good turnout for our bingo party last Saturday night over at the temple. We want to thank the members of organized labor for their fine cooperation and support to our local by their attendance. Erskine Mebee won the grand prize, which was a beautiful sandwich dish. George Stubbs, who works at Cameron & Barr Baking company, had to borrow a big bag to carry all his prizes home in. Some people sure are lucky. Someone suggested that we give another party and the committee has it under consideration. We were proud to turn into the temple Monday the proceeds of the party.

* * *

While in town go by the Bowling Center and see the fine trophy that the Betsy Ross bakers are displaying in their window. This was won for having the best bread in a survey of numerous bakeries for the past month by the W. E. Long company.

* * *

Joe Yarbro was back in town last week for a short visit. We were sorry that Brother Yarbro could not be here for our bingo party. Joe left us a few weeks ago to work for Uncle Sam in Atlanta.

* * *

Curtis Sims was in town yesterday on business for our local union. Had a long talk with Curtis and he is doing a fine job for our international union.

* * *

Had our first meeting in the temple last Saturday and had a rather small attendance due to the fact that the candy workers had to work that day. We have our annual election next month and will have a meeting the second Saturday to have the report of the nomination committee and at that time we will have nominations from the floor so plan to be with us. A few of us can't carry all the load. It is your organization as well as it is mine and let's both do our part.

* * *

Among those present at our bingo party were: Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Mabee; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Cutbert (by the way we bakers wish to thank the editor of our own Labor World for the fine support that Brother Cuthbert has given us); Mr. and Mrs. Arch Underwood; Mrs. Vic Hallmark (where was Vic?); Miss Edna Brown, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, and lots and lots of our own members. If you failed to be with us you missed a good time. They didn't want to leave when the prizes gave out.

By the way, I hear that Betsy Ross is putting a truck over at Tullahoma. Brother Elkins was over to see about getting some union-made bread there this week and this bit of news sounds good to me.

Be sure that your Christmas cakes and sweets are union made. Be sure that your Christmas gifts carry the union label.

* * *

I'll sign off for I have some shopping to do. See you next week.

LEATHER WORKERS GIVEN 35-CENT MINIMUM WAGE

Washington.—A recommendation of the luggage and leather goods industry committee urging a minimum wage of 35 cents an hour for that industry, effective Jan. 6, 1941, has been approved by Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division, U. S. department of labor. It was estimated that the 35-cent minimum would increase the hourly wage rate of approximately 5,000 workers of the 18,000 employed in the industry.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL CHATTANOOGA

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1940

Record of Achievement

Meeting at a time of world crisis, the American Federation of Labor acquitted itself with credit at its New Orleans convention, which made a record of deliberation and action that points to another year of marked progress for workers of the nation.

The convention made clear cut, sound declarations on vital national and international matters, including that of aid to Great Britain, on which it responded with an "all out" declaration for full help to Britain to win the war. At the same time the convention warned against any United States involvement in the conflict.

Forthright stands were taken on racketeering in unions, amendment of the national labor relations act, the department of justice's anti-trust drive against unions, extension of the social security system and other important matters.

Convention decisions constitute a sound program of legislative and other action for organized labor to work for in the coming years.

Jobs for Older Workers

The defense program is dealing a welcome blow at employment discrimination against workers because of age. Age limits are going, both in government and private work and older workers are coming to their own, it is reported.

"Employers are seeking bona fide skilled workmen regardless of age: an extreme example reported by one state employment agency is the hiring of an 89-year-old man by an engineering concern," says the bureau of employment security of the social security board.

The bureau further says that experience and ability to do the job now outweigh all other considerations. This is as it should be.

Opportunities for employment made by the defense program will not solve the problem of discrimination against older workers, but it will be productive of good, by showing the folly of such discrimination. What is needed, as shown by studies made during recent years, is a comprehensive national and state program of educational, government and trade union action to deal with the problem, which has become of increasing seriousness in the depression decade.

He Said Something

Members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers recently won a 48-hour strike in 120 electrical supply houses in New York City. Substantial gains were made, including a 10 per cent pay increase.

Samuel Dobbins, of the union, praised the attitude of the employers during the negotiations which settled the strike, but said:

"This strike could have been averted if the employers' association had agreed to negotiate when we requested it ninety days ago. Considerable labor difficulty is caused not by any fundamental differences between employers and employes, but by an unreasonable refusal to bargain collectively."

Mr. Dobbins did not exaggerate. Considerable, in fact, much, labor trouble is due to the employers' bullheaded refusal to sit down and talk things over with the union. It might be thought that in this day and age that that sort of attitude had largely disappeared, but newspaper dispatches frequently testify to the contrary. When will the employers learn?

Promoting Rail Safety

Railroad spending for maintenance and new equipment has been picking up this year.

This is good news for the public, railroad workers and the railroads themselves. It means increased safety and efficiency and so benefits the entire nation.

For a number of years, American railroads made excellent records for safety in carrying passengers and cut down accidents among employes.

They can't keep up the good work if equipment deteriorates.

Unfortunately, there have been two bad railroad wrecks this year, one in New York and the other in Ohio.

Part of wisdom for the railroads is to strain every resource to keep equipment up to the standards which have brought such good results in the recent past.

AUXILIARY NOTES

Typographical Auxiliary members who have not yet contributed to the Christmas basket which the Auxiliary is preparing for a needy union family are asked to leave their foods or contributions at the office of The Labor World, 310 West Eighth street. For any further information about what is needed to complete the filling of a Christmas basket, telephone Mrs. Turner, Bell, 2-6271.

* * *

Market Street R. R. and Bus Drivers' Auxiliary will meet Monday night, Dec. 23, at 7:30 in the ladies' lounge at the labor temple. Each member is asked to bring canned foods or other foods for the Christmas basket.

* * *

Members of the Typographical Auxiliary enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. J. C. Finch on last Thursday evening. There was a lovely Christmas tree on which to hang the gifts which the members exchanged, and the refreshments carried out the Christmas spirit with ice cream santas and little cakes with holly wreath frosting.

Meat Workers Win Wage Increases In Store Chain

Washington.—Pay increases have been granted approximately 500 journeymen butchers and apprentices employed in stores of the Sanitary Grocery company under provisions of a new contract negotiated by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.

Under the contract, union officials said, the wages of journeymen butchers will be daised from $34.50 to $35 a week; apprentices with less than a year's experience, from $21 to $22, and apprentices with less than three years' experience, from $28 to $30.

The contract also includes a week's vacation with pay and other provisions.

Signing of the contract followed a strike of clerks employed by the Sanitary chain. The clerks also won wage increases and other concessions.

Union Wins Pact After Stoppage

Spartanburg, S. C.—The newly organized textile local union, made up of employes of the Dalagrave Textile company here, won a significant victory last week when a closed shop agreement was obtained, containing all standard provisions as to seniority, arbitration, overtime pay, etc., and a flat $1 a week increase in pay for all of the employes. A strike was called last Thursday when it appeared that the company would not recognize the union as the bargaining agency. Negotiations were immediately started by local union officials, assisted by Gordon Chastain, vice-president of the United Textile Workers of America.

An agreement was reached Sunday, and the membership returned to work Monday morning. Actual signing of the agreement was completed Monday.

The Legal Touch.

He had broken the law and things looked very black for him. His lawyer listened in silence while the man told him the full story. "A difficult case," he said at last.

"I know the evidence is strongly against my innocence," said the unhappy man, "but I have $10,000 to fight the case with."

The lawyer at once began to take a keener interest.

"Well," he said, confidently, "as your lawyer, I can assure you that you'll never go to prison with that amount of money."

He was right. A few weeks later, when the man went to prison, he was broke.

Points of View Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Wham go the torpedoes and bombs. Down go buildings and ships. It seems that human beings can stand more than buildings and ships can stand. The British keep on "taking it" and giving it right back.

"But how long? How long? That's the question. There is much said about the idea that the British can not only stand it, but that they will in due time take the offensive. Then there is other talk—talk that there is a limit to what the British can take and that American supplies aren't going fast enough.

Who knows where the truth may lie? But not knowing—knowing only that every plane and gun and bomb counts in the awful struggle, America must pour the supplies over the ocean as fast as possible and even faster. Nothing little and petty and trifling can stand in the way! Nothing.

As for the Italians—up to this moment of writing they are making tracks backward mighty fast. Maybe that can't last. Maybe weight of numbers will force the Greeks to a stop. There are friendly jokes going around now about the Greeks. There used to be jokes not so friendly. But times change. People admire courage. So now when someone says they don't consider an Albanian town really captured until a Greek restaurant has been established, it's a friendly kind of joke which intends to mean that the Greeks make the most of their victories—that they can fight like hell and also that they have an eye to business. They make jokes like that about "down East" Yankees. Whoever thought the Greeks could chase Mussolini's men all over their newly conquered back yard? And there, too, the British have been doing a noble job. But for how long?

That's the question. How long? Let's hope it's long enough—but keep the munitions and the planes rolling across the ocean!

There's a report—liiks like maybe it is straight—that the nazis plan a smash bigger than anything yet in about a month. A rolling, crushing smash into which they will pour everything they've got. Well, we can only wait and see. We know that as long as Englishmen can hold out that's what they'll do. But we know, too, now, that it's our war—that we are in up to our ears and that there's no getting out for us until Germany stops fighting, licked.

On what terms we send planes and munitions isn't the question. We can't back down without joining the defeated nations. Sounds strange? Well, think it over. When you get it that way, you know we have to keep going, win or lose—and we don't intend to lose.

So, a nation that loves peace, wants peace, is plunged into the greatest war of all time, with the greatest stake of all time—believe it or not. Not formal war—but war just the same. There is no more formal war. Nations just start at each other in whatever way seems to them best. We started long ago—months ago. In deeper every month. It had to be so. How else could it have been? Ask yourself.

There will be quibbling about this and that. Are wages right? Are our planes any good? Are there unnecessary hitches and stallings? Is this or that wrong? Probably a great deal is wrong. That seems to be our way. But whatever anyone thinks of the situation, Uncle Sam is in the fix of the old frontiersman who never dared take his hand off his gun. Believe it or not!

The Difference.

The 3-year-old boy had taken his mother's powder puff and was fixing his face as he had seen her do, when his 5-year-old sister grabbed it from him:

"You musn't do that," she said. "Only ladies use powder. Gentlemen wash themselves."

Building Reported At 10-Year High

Washington, D. C.—Construction work this year is at a -0-year peak, Jesse H. Jones, secretary of commerce, reported in announcing that an increase in private building had increased preliminary estimates of total construction in 1940 to about $9,925,000,000. This is the largest figure since 1930 and a jump of 2½ per cent over 1939.

"The large volume of contracts awarded late in 1940 assure high activity for the first part of 1941," he said. "Although work relief construction may decline as business expands, it will not be offset by increased private building and defense construction. Private residential, commercial and factory building will all show ssubstantial gains in 1941 if demand is not restricted by an increase in prices and costs.

"A 14 per cent rise in new private construction during 1940 was mainly responsible for the year's gain. Of the $9,925,000,000 total, $3,985,000,000 represents private building. This is significant, since the lag in private construction has been a prolonged weak spot in the general business picture of the past decade.

"The biggest gain in private construction during 1940 was the rise in residential building. The $2,050,000,000 expended for this purpose was largely independent of any stimulus provided by the defense program. Commercial, factory and utility construction all registered sizable increases over 1939.

"Actual defense spending on construction still is small in comparison with what it will be in 1941. Of the $2,000,000,000 earmarked for construction purposes so far, only projects representing little more than half of this amount have been started. The bulk of the work will be done next year."

Employes of Tennessee Copper Company Under AFL Agreement

Copperhill, Tenn. — Everything in the copper basin is progressing in splendid manner, now that the American Federation of Labor unions here and at Ducktown are working under union agreement with the Tennessee Copper company. Signing of the A. F. of L. agreement recently ended a struggle that has been raging here for the past three years, and marks the beginning of the return of the membership of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' unions back to the American Federation of Labor.

Since the International Union of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers went into the CIO in 1935 many efforts have been made by the membership in the copper basin to return to the American Federation of Labor. Three labor board elections have been held, the A. F. of L. winning the first, which was set aside by the labor board at Washington. Another was held, which was given to the CIO by a majority of five votes. For a year the CIO attempted to operate for the workers, but made such a miserable failure that another election was called, and the A. F. of L. won this last election by an almost unanimous vote. The agreement obtained, under which the employes are now working is the result of the last victorious election.

Paul J. Aymon, of the A. F. of L. organizing staff, has worked with the A. F. of L. local unions here since the beginning of the contests three years ago, and assisted the locals in obtaining the agreements now in force.

CONCILIATION UNIT ADJUSTS 506 LABOR CONTROVERSIES

Washington. — The conciliation service of the United States department of labor disposed of 507 situations last month involving 164,428 workers, Secretary Perkins reported.

Of these situations, 318 were strikes, threatened strikes, lockouts, and controversies, involving 145,851 workers. The facilities of the service were used in twenty-six major industrial fields, and were utilized by employes and employers in forty-one states, Alaska, and the District of Columbia.

PENNSYLVANIA JOBS GAIN.

Harrisburg, Pa. — A further monthly increase of 2.4 per cent in employment brought the October level to 2,653,200, the highest October level since 1937, and, with the exception of one month, the highest total reached in the last three years, the department of labor and industry reports. The payroll index exceeded any recorded since October, 1937.

HAPPINESS for some people is one thing, and for others something else altogether. But to bring real happiness, gifts must be ENDURING—not just a brief thrill. Electrical Gifts today are beautiful, they are enduring, and there are so many of them meeting so many different needs that it is no job at all to select a pleasing gift for any person of your acquaintance. See the complete display of small appliances at the Electric Power Board, and buy electrical gifts from your dealer.

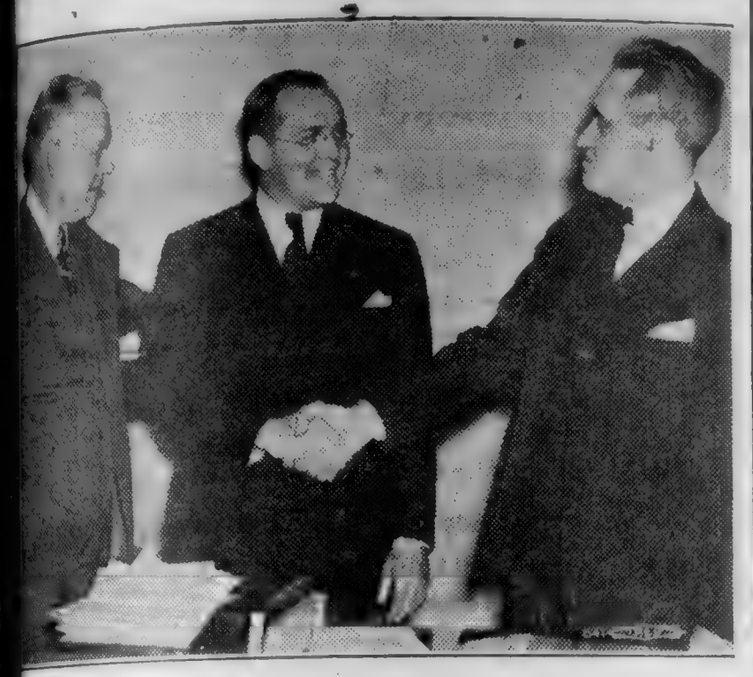
...er Appointment Expression of NYA ...esire to Maintain Labor Standards



President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, (left) and Deputy Administrator Dillard B. Lasseter, of the National Youth Administration, (right) congratulate Henry C. Iler, NYA director of labor relations.

Washington.—The recent ap-...tment of Henry C. Iler, for-...ly chief organizer for the ...erican Federation of Govern-...t Employes, as director of la-... relations for the national ...th administration, is an expres-... of the desire and intention of ...t government agency to insure ...intenanae of standards of con-forming to those of organized labor, according to a statement by Deputy Administrator Dillard B. Lasseter, of the NYA, at the American Federation of Labor convention in New Orleans.

Because the NYA regards suitable labor standards as essential, Mr. Lasseter said, it had asked the A. F. of L. to assign someone to this work, or to recommend someone who could take it up. Mr. Iler was recommended, and has already begun his duties, which in general are those of serving as liaison officer between the NYA and the A. F. of L.

CONTINENTAL LIFE AGENTS CHOOSE AFFILIATE OF AFL

Washington, D. C.—The insurance agents employed by the Continental Life Insurance company in Richmond, Va., in an election held by the national labor relations board, voted for the American Federation of Labor to represent them in collective bargaining, Geo. L. Russ, A. F. of L. organizer, announced. The agents voting in the elections are members of Local Union No. 22264, Insurance Agents in Richmond. The company has its home office in Washington, D. C., and operates in North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

NYA HEALTH PROJECTS FORMED IN 48 STATES

Washington, D. C.—Statewide health projects for NYA workers will be in operation before Jan. 1 in all forty-eight states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands as part of the National Youth Administration's $2,500,000 health program, NYA Administrator Aubrey Williams reported to Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator and co-ordinator of all health and welfare activities affecting national defenes.

Buy Only Union Label Gifts, Label Trades Official Asks

Washington, D. C.—In a message to all labor, I. M. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department, A. F. of L., says in behalf of the department:

"We urge all members of labor unions, their families and friends to buy only union label Christmas gifts. The union label is the best guarantee that goods are made in America. It is the only assurance that they are manufactured under American labor union standards.

"Union label buying will create more jobs, raise wages, decrease the hours of toil.

"We urge you to co-operate in the collective buying of union-made products and use of union services. Union labels, shop cards and service buttons are the emblems of justice and humanity.

"Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year."

Game Dame.

A handsome midshipman from Annapolis wandered into a tennis tourney late one afternoon. He sat down beside a demure young lady and asked, "Who's game?"

"I am," said the bashful one.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 13th day of July, 1928, Sam E. Reevin and wife, Sarah Reevin, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration July 16, 1928, and recorded in Book E, Vol. 23, page 374, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Sam E. Reevin and wife, Sarah Reevin, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1941,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The East 97 feet of Lot 16, Block 18, Map of Alton Park (formerly Oak Hills) in said county, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 3, page 8, of the Register's office of said county. Said part of lot makes one tract of ground fronting 50 feet on the West line of Highland Avenue and extends back westwardly, of uniform width, along the North line of Ninth Street, a distance of 97 feet.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

This December 12, 1940.

F. L. UNDERWOOD, Trustee.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Referee Holds Bond Default No Cause For Withholding of Wage Increases

NEW YORK CITY.—The fact that a corporation may be in default to its bondholders does not give it the right or the excuse to withhold wage increases from its employes if to do so "would violate the fundamental right granted the employes [illegible] by good conscience." [illegible] law, or to which they are en- This was the opinion expressed by Alfred E. Smith, Jr., acting as a referee on appointment by the Supreme Court of the State of New York, to report on whether the management of the Hotel Broadmoor was justified in refusing to sign an agreement with the New York Hotel Trades Council, A. F. of L., which agreement provides for raises for the hotel's 77 employes.

Union Pact Signed

Smith was appointed last August to take evidence in connection with whether David H. Knott of the Knott Hotel chain, and James C. Healey, who are receivers of the mortgaged premises of the Colonade Construction Corporation, owners of the hotel, should enter into the contract.

The New York Hotel Trades Council was certified as sole collective bargaining agent for the workers of the Hotel Broadmoor last June 24 following an employe election which was won by the council by unanimous vote.

Union's Attitude Praised

Following announcement of Smith's report, Jay Rubin, president of the council, announced that the hotel and the council had just signed the union agreement under which the workers will get wage increases of from $1 to $4 a week and other benefits. The council has at present contracts with upward of 80 New York hotels.

In his report Smith praised the "fair dealing" attitude of the union since it asked the management to sign the contract after the certification and the council's patience in agreeing, at the request of the receivers, to submit to the court the question of the propriety of signing the union contract, although, Smith added, "the union was not legally bound to do so."

Smith concluded his report by declaring that "it is the referee's opinion that the receivers should enter into the proposed union contract at the earliest practicable opportunity."

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

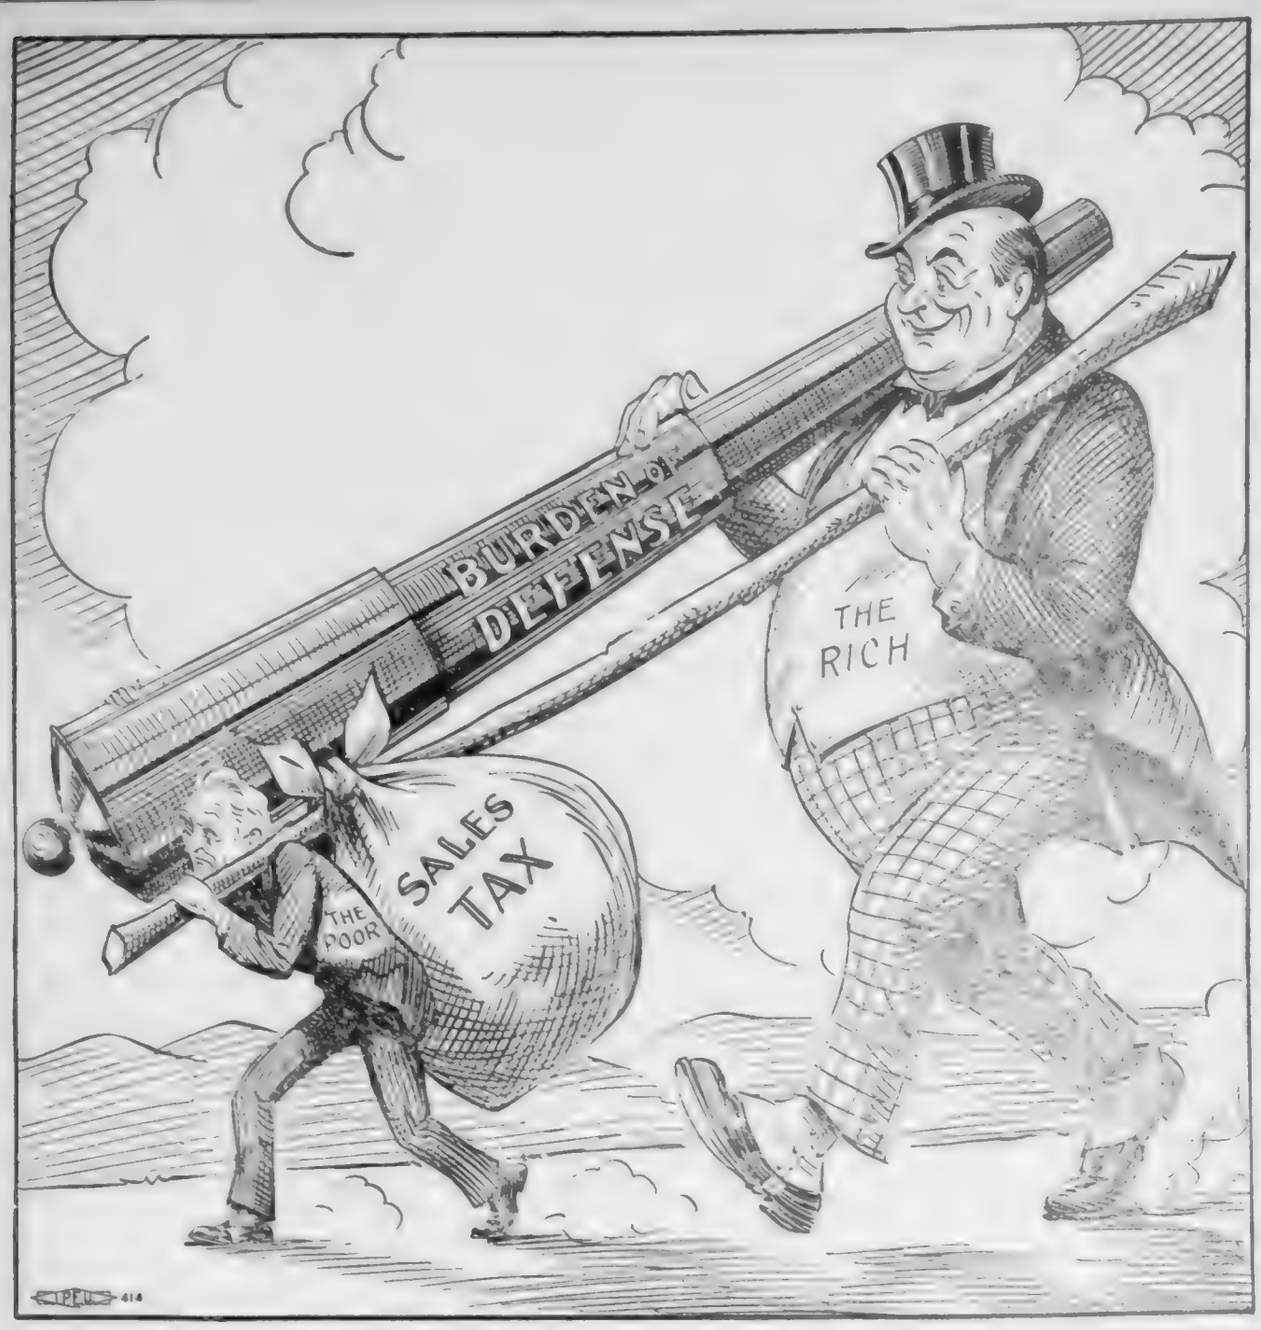
Wishes Organized Labor and Its Friends
A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year



The Silent Bells

By RUTH TAYLOR

"I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old familiar carols play
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men."

Only in our own land will the bells ring out in free and joyous song this Christmastide. Only on this continent will the sound of ringing bells mean the celebration of the great holiday of the world, which for centuries has brought joy and gladness to all people, even to the humblest homes.

Where are the bells of Germany that once rang out in such joy the Christmas season, while happy people gathered around the fir trees that Saint Wilfred gave as a symbol of Christmas to the Germanic tribes—a symbol of eternel life as opposed to the blood sacrifice of Thor and Wotan. From their hearths no longer rise the merry strains of "Oh, Tannenbaum." Instead, the Horst Wessel song blares defiance to the Prince of Peace.

The bells of Austria are mute. The lovely "Stille Nacht," written by a parish priest for his faithful flock, no longer rings upon the midnight air. Austria lies crushed, with little heart to sing.

The carillons in Belgium, singing from their tall belfries, have been stilled, and there is little hope in Holland this year of the kind Kris Kringle appearing with his bag of toys for good children.

The hauntingly exquisite "Noel, Noel," that sweet carol beloved by all Christmas singers, will not ring through a France saddened, torn by war and a more devastating peace, and threatened both within and without by new dangers.

Russia is long since mute, its golden bells silenced by those who fear religion more than an enemy army, so that they must needs try to blot it out completely.

The bells of Italy, what could they mean this year to the women left at home, their men to spend their lives in aggression against peaceful neighbors? What can the motif of "Adeste Fideles" mean to a nation linked in Comet bonds to the godless Nazis and Communists?

And in England—where the cathedral bells for centuries rang in Christmas from every village green—they ring only to warn of danger and death, instead of the new life which Christmas signifies, sending the children scurrying not to happy family gatherings around the yule log, but to deep underground air-raid shelters.

And yet—ring out, wild bells, in the land that is free—ring out your song, for you may reach and revive the hopes of those in other lands whose Christmas joy is dimmed. You may remind all those who hear your cheerful tones of the joys they still possess. You may recall to the world that the good tidings of great joy was promised to all the people, bringing peace on earth and good will to men.

PAY BOOST PACT GAINED BY POCKETBOOK WORKERS

New York, N. Y.—President Reinlib of the International Ladies' Handbag, Pocketbook and Novelty Workers' union, A. F. of L. affiliate, reported that he had signed a contract with the C. F. Rung & Sons, Inc., of Philadelphia, Pa., providing for a closed shop, a general weekly wage increase of $1 to $2, a majority of the employes receiving $2, with all the increases retroactive to Nov. 14, one week's vacation with pay for all workers and time and one-half for certain holidays and overtime work.

The company was established in 1850 and this is the first time it has ever dealt with a union, Mr. Reinlib said.

LABOR CONCILIATION SERVICE FOR STATES RECOMMENDED

Washington.—Increase use of the facilities of the United Conciliation Service, department of labor, in the settlement of industrial disputes and development by the states of conciliation agencies modeled on the federal service was recommended by the National Conference on Labor Legislation. The conference, in seventh annual meeting, was called by Secretary of Labor Perkins and attended by representatives of state departments of labor and other interested in labor legislation.

In connection with its recommendation on development of conciliation services, the conference also asked that collective bargaining be extended throughout industry "to he end that industrial conflict be minimized and full production be secured, particularly during the period of national defense."

Before adopting the report the conference authorized the appointment of a committee to join with the labor policy committee of the national defense commission in presenting the point of view of labor on pending anti-sabotage bills and legislation for establishing home guards in the states to take the place of the national guard units called into federal service.

The conference also approved the report of its committee on migratory labor.

"The lure of jobs operates as a new magnet for migratory workers," the committee report said. It is urged the co-ordination of the work of federal and state agencies dealing with this problem and emphasized the need of housing program for non-agricultural workers employed on defense projects.

This Week in Congress

Estes Kefauver, Member from 3rd District

ARTILLERY RANGE

The leasing of approximately ,000 acres on the Cumberland nteau, ten miles south of Spen-, Tenn., by the war department s announced this week. This e expanse of land will be used an artillery firing range. This oject brings the Third congress-al district actively into another portant phase of national de-se. Your representative wishes thank the many fine citizens of affected communities to whose ic spirit and tireless efforts may attributed the success in locat-this important military under-ing in this district.

THIRD DISTRICT BARRACKS AND TENTS

This week has marked a new h in the steady stream of proj-secured for the Third con-ssional district and vicinity. A 0,000 construction project has n approved for Fort Ogle-rpe by Fourth corps area head-rters in Atlanta. Approxi-ely forty buildings are included this project. In addition to bar-ks, administration and supply ildings and recreation halls for surgical hospital units, the pro-sed project will include barracks the housing of the corps area vice command at the post, a oline station, oil storage tanks a telephone building.

This is in addition to the work t lately begun for the construc-n of some sixty-two buildings. t Oglethorpe is receiving a ge share of the development and provement program now in prog-s.

DEFENSE PROGRASS

While congress continued to rk time the past week, the de-se program went forward on all nts. The nation has been wait-for a report on its government fense activities. The United tes of America is as one man, ted in its determination to be ended against all hazards. Last y 16, President Franklin D. osevelt, standing on the rostrum the house of representatives, eived one of the greatest ova-ns of his public career. The sident had just appealed for a new defense program, the mightiest ever undertaken by the United States in peacetime. The crowded chamber was rocked with applause. The longest burst of cheering followed an appeal for congressional aid to build up airplane production to 50,000 planes a year.

Last week, William S. Knudsen, key member of the defense advisory commission, gave the nation a complete and candid report on the progress of national rearmament. He asserted that airplane production was badly lagging. The goal set for next month was cited as an example. It was to have been 1,000 planes. Actual production, Mr. Knudsen predicted, would be 30 per cent off. Many aspects of the program were praised. But the tempo of defense as a whole was held too slow. This candor and frankness could not exist only in a democracy. This honest report will not be a source of alarm. It will be the source of renewed efforts to correct every weakness so far revealed. Total defense will be a reality for a united people in the United States.

DEATH OF BRITAIN'S ENVOY

"The issue now depends largely on what you decide to do. Nobody can share that responsibility with you. It is the great strength of democracy that it brings responsibility down squarely to every citizen and every nation. And before the judgment seat of God each must answer for his own actions."

The words were the words of Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States. He had written them as the conclusion to a speech in which he stated the case for American aid to Britain, but the ambassador did not deliver the speech. It was read for him last Wednesday night at a Baltimore dinner of the Farm Bureau Federation. Without the diners knowing it, the author was dying in the red-brick embassy on Washington's Massachusetts avenue.

This quiet unassuming man who had won the hearts of his American friends had played an important role in awakening America to the realization that the safety of Britain, and its navy, was in reality the first line of defense for the United States.

TEACHER TALK

Contributions to the labor temple have been coming in nicely, but we still have a good number of members who have not yet got around to making their payments. Let's have these as soon as possible. Central High school unionists deserve special commendation for the alacrity with which they answered the call for support of this fine temple which will belong to us and the rest of labor in Chattanooga. A check-up early this week revealed that they had paid $88.

* * *

Even the badminton and bridge friends have ceased operations for the Christmas season. No more meetings until the new year.

* * *

"Teacher Talk" wishes a very merry Christmas to all good unionists.

He serves his party best who serves his country best.—Rutherford B. Hayes, Inaugural Address, March 5, 1877.

Charity is a universal duty, which it is in every man's power sometimes to practice; since every degree of assistance given to another, upon proper motives, is an act of charity; and there is scarcely any man in such a state . . . that he may not, on some occasions, benefit his neighbor.—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

Bell Telephone Operators Organized at Shreveport

Shreveport, La.—O. A. Walker, of the I. B. E. W., has organized a local union here for the telephone operators of the Southern Bell Telephone company. Charter was installed last week, and E. H. Williams, president of the State Federation of Labor, and representative of the American Federation of Labor, assisted Representative Walker in the installation of the charter. President Williams has stated that this is one of the most significant steps ever taken by the A. F. of L. unions in Louisiana, and welcomed the telephone operators into the family of labor.

The Bakers' bingo party last Saturday night was a huge success. A large crowd of bakers and their friends played bingo, danced and made merry the whole evening. Attractive and useful prizes were given to the winners in the bingo games. Erskine Mabee won the grand prize, a beautiful cake plate and server. Wish I had been sitting at the table with Mrs. Vic Hallmark—she won about every other game.

Tips Hints Helps — For Women — Keeping Ahead of the Times

Last Warning! The best way to really enjoy Christmas and make hubby and the children happy is to get out of the way now all those Christmas chores that one is likely to put off until the last minute, thereby causing hustle and bustle, and the ensuing exhaustion on Christmas day.

When all the gifts are wrapped and on their way and the cards are all ready to post, it's a smart idea to have two or three small miscellaneous items wrapped ready for unexpected emergency. It saves many an anxious moment when that new little boy up the street whom you never thought of comes ringing a gift for your little Johnny. It's wise also to have a dozen or more Christmas cards on hand for those you've never thought of until the mail man starts his bell ringing.

Have you thought of decorating the outside of your house for Christmas? Of course it costs money (and the electric power companies love it), but it's fun to lend glamour during the hoildays to the outside as well as the inside. There are many possibilities. The lighting may be designed as some entrance decoration, window scenes, roof scenes, lighting of permanent evergreens and hedges, or a combination of all four.

Whatever you give for Christmas see that it is useful as well as beautiful. The smallest gift is always appreciated if it is something out of the ordinary—something which the recipient wouldn't buy for herself. A small exquisite gift is more treasured than a large, cheap, or showy one.

Have you ever seen the woman who didn't appreciate perfume? But unless you know the scent your friend adores it is best to stick to mild, discreet flower odors. Most women prefer subtle scents to the more potent essences, or "knock-out" brews, so unless she's a siren select a lighthearted bouquet.

There's a new flood of fashions stemming from Hawaii. The colors are softer than usual, and the prints of flowers and fruits are beautiful. You don't have to be a hula to wear them either. If you have a friend who is going south after Christmas why not give her a Hawaiian bathing suit made of quick-drying shantung containing acetate rayon with a lei of multicolored flowers made of rubber.

Running neck and neck in popularity with the large flower lapel pins are the patriotic lapel pins, made of handsome jeweled flags, elaborate gold eagles, and gold spangled drums. They make welcome gifts.

* * *

For that man who's hard to please there's a three-way measuring jigger of sterling silver which not only measures the drink but pours and stirs it. It's a measuring cup, posed atop a long-handled spoon. A miniature trap door arrangement in the bottom of the cup allows the liquid to run down into the glass and be stirred with the spoon.

Then there's that vacuum ice cube container which avoids constant running into the kitchen for ice when new guests arrive. It can also pinch hit for keeping soup or beverages warm.

If he's a sportsman, you might try giving him a walnut gun rack to hold four guns; but if he's the type that likes to sit at home and read, there's no end of new books, book ends, or a good reading lamp. The list is endless and bound to please.

* * *

Two comparatively new books that make excellent gifts for the children are Creighton Peet's "This Is the Way We Build a House," and "Su-lin," the story of a baby giant panda. One of the latest books that little girls adore is one on old and new dolls with illustrations and directions on how to make them. This gives a history of dolls which is interesting to old and young alike.

* * *

Homemade candies, packed in attractive tin containers, or homemade jellies or jams, the glasses decorated in cellophane, spiced nuts packed in small baskets and cellophane wrapped, or rich holiday cookies, make splendid Christmas gifts for friends away from home.

If you belong to that contingent who doesn't like eggnog on Christmas perhaps you'd like to have a bowl of sparkling punch on hand when the Christmas callers arrive. Make a syrup of a cup of sugar, a pint of water, and all one can diced pineapple, 1 bottle preserved cherries, 2 oranges cut in pieces, 2 cups grace juice, 2 cups lime juice, 1 cup grenadine. Chill. When ready to serve add carbonated water and ice cubes made of a lemon carbonated beverage.

Or for your eggnog fans, for each person allow 1 egg, ½ tbs. powdered sugar, 1 jigger rye whiskey, ½ glass sweet milk or cream. Beat whites and yolks of eggs separately, add sugar, whiskey and milk, stirring each in separately. Then add beaten white of egg and serve with nutmeg on top. It will make any man feel like Santa Claus.

Here's a new suggestion for a tantalizing mince meat pie for Christmas dessert. Mix 2 cups prepared mincemeat with ½ cup raisins and pour into unbaked pie crust. Cover with a cup of cranberries mixed thoroughly with 2-3 cup sugar, 1 tbs. flour, ½ ts. grated orange rind and dash of salt. Pour ¼ cup of orange juice or spiced peach juice over the filling and cover with top crust. Bake 15 minutes in moderately hot oven and then lower heat and bake a half hour longer.

118,000 NOW LIVING IN HOMES BUILT UNDER PUBLIC HOUSING PROGRAM

Washington. — With President Roosevelt's approval of $6,428,000 in United States Housing Authority loans the USHA announced that more than 118,000 people are now living in homes built under the public housing program and about 17,000 others are moving in each month.

The loans approved will go to seven local housing authorities and cover 90 per cent of the development costs on projects totaling 1,538 homes.

USHA Administrator Nathan Strauss stated that with the presidential action, loans have now been granted for the construction of 158,134 homes in 221 communities.

Extravagance—

When one considers the fact that at least 90 per cent of all accidents are needless it doesn't take much figuring to realize that most of the cost of accidents is simply money thrown away. In times like these can America afford such extravagance? — National Safety Council.

Christmas wouldn't be complete without the proverbial fruit cake to serve the holiday callers with that glass of wine or eggnog. Here is a very good recipe if you haven't made yours yet, although my grandmother used to make her fruit cakes and plum puddings at least three months before Christmas to have them properly aged and seasoned.

1 lb. butter, 1 lb. sugar, 10 eggs, 1½ lbs. flour, 1 lb. each of seeded raisins, currants, candied cherries, crystallized pineapple and dates, and ½ lb. each of pecans, English walnuts, crystallized citron, orange and lemon peel, ½ cup molasses, 2 ts. soda, 2 ts. cinnamon, ½ ts. cloves, ½ cup brandy, 2 ts. allspice.

Cream butter and sugar, add beaten eggs. Add 1 lb. flour. Dredge the fruits and nuts with remaining flour and add to batter. Bake in slow oven of 275 degrees until cake is done to straw test. At end of baking decorate cake with sliced pineapple, nuts and cherries. Return to oven from 5 to 8 minutes to glaze. This makes 12 lb. cake.

And when the dinner is ended an excellent turkey pie is made by adding 2 cups or more of diced turkey, a tablespoon of minced onion and green pepper and a half jigger of sherry to a can of condensed mushroom soup. Pour into a casserole and top with small baking powder biscuits. Bake about 20 minutes in hot oven until biscuits are done. You'll agree that it's almost as good as the original turkey.

Christmas conserve is made by soaking 2 lbs. of prunes in 2 qts. of water 12 hrs. Remove rind from 2 oranges and cut in small pieces with scissors. Remove seeds, slice oranges and add to prune pulp from which seeds have been removed. Cook ten minutes. Add 1 cup raisins, 6 cups sugar. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Cook ten minutes until mixture is clear, stirring constantly. Stir in ½ lb. nut meats and pour and seal in clean hot jars. Yield is about 5 pints.

VOL. XXV CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1940 Number 34

WAY PAVED FOR SWITCH ON CITY COMMISSION TO INSURE CONTROL

Last Tuesday's Commission Session Adjourned to Next Monday, One Day Before Next Regular Meeting.

The City commissioners met last Tuesday in regular session of the city commission. The minutes were read. Then the mayor stated: "Since today is Christmas eve, it has been suggested that we adjourn this meeting to next Monday at 8 p.m. Commissioner Bryan, do you make the motion?"

"Commissioner Bryan: "I so move."

Mayor Bass: "Commissioner Betterton, do you second?"

Commissioner Betterton: "I do."

Mayor Bass: "All those in favor say aye. Ayes have it."

Since City Attorney Anderson has ruled that any switch in the set-up in city hall must pass three readings, it is possible and also probable that a first and second reading for a swap of offices between Commissioners Bryan and Betterton will be passed. The next day will be another regular meeting, at which time the measure may be passed the third and final time.

No reason was expressed why the adjourned meeting was set so far off, and why, since the next day would be another regular meeting, it could not have waited unless it was to allow the blitzkriek measure to be passed.

It is believed that under the present plan, the switch can be effected within twenty-four hours, thus shortening the period of protest from the public over the deed.

Under regular procedure, if and when a vacancy occurs on the city commission, the remaining four commissioners name the successor for the vacancy. Since there may be a deadlock on the remaining four votes, the political bees want to switch while Bryan is still on the board, thus insuring control of the fire and police machine.

Anti-Parade Law Ruled Invalid

Los Angeles.—The Los Angeles ordinance giving police the power to prohibit parades has been held unconstitutional by a three-judge department of the Los Angeles superior court, which granted a preliminary injunction against the chief of police restraining him from interfering with the right of the American peace mobilization to parade.

The injunction suit was filed in behalf of the peace group when the police commission disapproved the purposes of a proposed parade in the negro section. The demonstration was to protest alleged discrimination against negroes in the national defense program and particularly by the aircraft companies of Southern California.

In its opinion, the court held the law invalid on the ground that it "delegated arbitrary and uncontrolled authority to deny a permit."

"Parading is a fundamental right, not of grace," the court ruled. "The exercise of that right cannot be made subject to an uncontrolled discretion, and a law or ordinance which purports so to do is invalid.

"By the recent and controlling decisions of the United States supreme court a line is drawn between business activities and the field in which lie the rights of free speech, free press and assembly, and the latter are declared to be more vital and important to the maintenance of liberty than the others, so that their exercise cannot be subjected to the aribtrary or uncontrolled distretion of any official board or person or to any sort of previous restraint which amounts to censorship. . . . "

Union Official Sentenced To Jail for Racketeering

Newark, N. J.—Anthony Sasso, president and business agent of Local 863, Brotherhood of Teamsters, has been sentenced to three to five years in state's prison on indicuments charging conspiracy to levy tribute on produce merchants. He pleaded non vult to the indictments.

In passing sentence Common Pleas Judge Walter D. Van Riper declared his action would serve notice to the community that "racketeering labor leaders need not be tolerated by workers and merchants." He told Sasso he had "sold the hard working men of his union down the river."

Edward High, secretary and treasurer of the local, who also pleaded non vult, was placed on probation for three years. The court described him as Sasso's "errand boy," and noted that merchants who had been extortion victims had signed a petition asking leniency for him.

SERVICE—

No other single agency has done more for the development of America than railroads. Their service is prodigious, their payroll enormous, their relations to the public exemplary. Taken as a whole, railroad employes are among the most stable and prosperous of Americans. Their independent spirit and sobriety make them admirable citizens; their magnificent loyalty preserves our sleek fliers as the safest, most comfortable ,most reliable, vehicles on earth; their faithful service is one of the chief fundations of American prosperity.—R. H. Markham in the "Christian Science Monitor."

AFL BUILDING TRADES HERE UPHELD BY COURT IN RIGHT TO REFUSE WORK WITH CIO

Throwing Out of Suit Entered by CIO Definitely Establishes Right of Building Trades to Prevent Invasion.

The right of the Chattanooga Building Trades council to forbid its members from working side by side with members of C. I. O.-affiliated unions has been sustained by Chancellor J. Lon Foust in a petition filed by the Brown Fence company whose employes are members of a C. I. O. union.

The Chattanooga Building Trades council is an organization of representatives from unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The council and its officers were accused of attempting to coerce the members of the C. I. O. union in order to control the labor market in Chattanooga "to the ultimate detriment of the public and the special injury of complainants."

The original suit was filed by the Brown Fence company against the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, an A. F. of L. affiliate, and all members of the union. The suit averred that the fence company was building a fence around the Combustion Engineering company's plant and that notwithstanding the fact none of its employes belonged to this organization the officers of the union had ordered them to stop the job.

The concrete contractor who poured the bases for the posts was employing A. F. of L. labor while the fence company employed C. I. O. labor. It turned out that the A. F. of L. men, presumably acting on instructions from the Chattanooga Building Trades council, had refused to work alongside the C. I. O. Men.

The original bill sought for a mandatory injunction to prevent the A. F. of L. men from interfering with the job. While the case was still pending in chancery court, the dispute was settled and the fence was finished, but the C. I. O. men subsequently filed an amended petition, naming officers of the Chattanooga Building Trades council and the council itself as defendants.

The amended petition accused the building trades council and its officers of forming a conspiracy to unlawfully interfere with the business of the C. I. O. men. The amended petition asked for an injunction to enjoin the council and its members from "wrongfully refusing to work with complainants and from obstructing the performance of complainant's business."

To this amended petition, Attorney H. G. B. King filed a plea in abatement for the council itself, alleging that the council was not incorporated and therefore not subject to suit. King filed demurrers for the officers of the council, averring that the requested relief would violate the freedom of speech guaranteed by the constitution.

The chancellor sustained both the pleas in abatement and the demurrers.

King represented the A. F. of L. unions and attorneys Maurice Weaver and W. R. Ferguson represented the fence company and its employes.

Machinists Confident Of Further Progress In Coming Year

Washington. — Continued progress is expected by the International Association of Machinists in 1941, the Machinists Monthly Journal says, recalling that the union has grown by 30,000 new members in 1940.

"Time is flying; the year is fast ebbing to a close, and although it has witnessed a world torn with strife and turmoil, the people of the North American continent, fortunately, have been spared the ravages of war, which has not yet touched its shores," the journal remarks. It continues:

"For the I. A. of M. it has been a good year, a year in which it has steadily forged ahead. It has enrolled more than 30,000 new members during the past twelve months, and has secured wage increases and improved working conditions for thousands of organized 'machinists,' which has been shared in by countless numbers who belong to no union.

"Having done a good job in 1940, we look forward with a determination to continue our march of progress through 1941. In this spirit, the journal extends to our members and its other readers sincere good wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Adieu 1940! Hail 1941!"

Judge Frank Dunne fined Brunswick Knitting Mills of San Francisco $50 for violating the 8-hour law for women. It was revealed that the company required their employes to return to work after they had completed their regular working day of 8 hours and had punched out. The overtime record was kept secretly and the time cards showed work for only 8 hours, it was charged.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has gained recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help you keep bowel regular. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Whereas, on the 13th day of July, 1928, Sam E. Reevin and wife, Sarah Reevin, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, executed a deed of trust conveying the property hereinafter described and advertised for sale, to F. L. Underwood, Trustee, which said deed of trust was filed for registration July 16, 1928, and recorded in Book E, Vol. 23, page 374, et seq., in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee; and,

Whereas, said deed of trust was executed for the purpose of securing the payment of a certain indebtedness, fully described in the said deed of trust, to which reference is made for a complete description; and default has been made in the payment of the said indebtedness secured by said deed of trust and interest thereon, and the said Sam E. Reevin and wife, Sarah Reevin, have failed to perform covenants in the note evidencing the indebtedness, and have failed to perform covenants in said deed of trust, and have remained in default for more than thirty days, and the holder of said indebtedness has made demand upon the undersigned trustee to sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, as therein provided, to satisfy the payment of said indebtedness and interest, as said holder of said indebtedness has a right to do under the terms of said deed of trust:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned Trustee, F. L. Underwood, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as Trustee, will, on

TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1941,

sell, within the legal hours of sale, at the west door of the Court House in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of all equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in the Second Civil District of Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

The East 97 feet of Lot 16, Block 18, Map of Alton Park (formerly Oak Hills) in said county, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 3, page 8, of the Register's office of said county. Said part of lot makes one tract of ground fronting 50 feet on the West line of Highland Avenue and extends back westwardly, of uniform width, along the North line of Ninth Street, a distance of 97 feet.

Said deed of trust recites that title to the said property is clear, free and unencumbered, and title thereto is believed to be good, but the sale will be made as Trustee only, and subject to any unpaid taxes.

Travelers' Tales.

There were three people in the British railway compartment—an old lady and two men. Suddenly one of the men said "25", and the other immediately burst into laughter. When he had ceased chuckling he called out "121", and the other man roared with laughter.

This went on for some time. No sooner would one call a number than the other would laugh.

The old lady, doubting the sanity of her two companions, turned to them and said, "Excuse me, but I don't see anything funny in shouting a number."

"It's all right, madam," one replied, "we are commercial travelers and we know all our jokes by numbers."

A victim of chronic bronchitis called on a doctor to be examined. The doctor, after careful questioning, assured the patient that the ailment would respond readily to treatment.

"I suppose you must have had a great deal of experience with this disease?" said the sufferer.

The doctor smiled wisely and replied: "Why, my dear sir, I've had bronchitis for over 15 years."

Looking at the old 1940 calen-ar, I could not but think, old fel-ow, your race is about run. It n't be long till we will be look-g at a new and probably differ-t calendar—one with, let us say, re eye appeal. Getting back to 1940, we can say old Father me surely gave us something to ink about. We can safely say at we had something different an other years. There are some hievements that were accom-ished that should make us feel ry proud. There are some things at should have been done that ere neglected, and we should feel rry.

If we would look at the old cal-dar as we would look at some riend, we could ask the question, ave I done my part in this game? ave I been a stumbling block in e way of progress? Have I let etty jealousy and frivolous no-ons retard the progress of my llow-men? Have I lived up to y obligation to my fellow-man? aybe some of us have made mis-akes this last year. Mistakes are a way progress if we don't re-eat them.

In the social, fraternal, religious and labor organizations it is customary to appoint or elect new guiding spirits to conduct the work for the new year. Why not make a New Year's resolution that you will do all in your power to make your organization and help your officers to make the coming year a banner year? Let your slogan be, Here's my hand, brother, let's advance.

And while you are thinking of old 1940 stop and give some credit to those that served you. You should know that they gave their time and means to carry the work on. There were times when you have absented yourselves from meetings because—yes, we can say because a hundred times—but the main reason was you just felt like—let the other fellow do it—and just stayed away. Now if you will look the issues straight in the face and consider that this is a fifty-fifty proposition, that no matter how conscientious your officers are, if you don't give them your wholehearted support you will be just where you started.

I don't care how good a craftsman one is if he can't have good material to work with that product which he produces will be inferior. You are one-half of this equasion, your officers are the other half. This time next year, if you have supported your organization faithfully, you can say, brother, we went somewhere, didn't we?

The hue and cry all over the country is we don't have unity. Without unity we are sunk. The old saying is we are weaker but wiser in these coming generations. Well, we are another year older, so that ought to make us some wiser.

Now that there are a few more days left in this year, how about taking an inventory of ourselves? Maybe by some thinking we could mount the obstacles that slow us down. As we go into the new year just remember that if we get anywhere it will be that we must work, think and act together. Let the watchword be unity for our country and the labor movement.

As we enjoy this Christmas vacation I hope that each of you have had a very merry Christmas and that the new year will bring you peace, prosperity and happiness. And a happy New Year to officers and delegates of C. L. U. and to the editor and staff of The Labor World.

All employes of the Tennessee Paper Mills were surprised last Monday by a fine bonus from the management. We sure do thank all the stockholders of the company, President John Stagmaier, General Manager C. E. Finley and Supt. L. P. Murphy.

English With a Tootle.

Outside the main police station in Tokio there is posted a large notice for the English-speaking motorists. It reads thus:

1. At the first raise of police hand, stop rapidly.

2. Do not pass him by or otherwise disrespect him.

3. When a passenger of the foot comes in sight, tootle the horn. Trumpet at him. Melodiously at first, but if he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with vigor, and express by mouth the warning—Hi! Hi!

4. Beware the wandering horse that he shall not take fright. Do not explode the exhaust box at him. Go soothingly by.

5. Give big space to the festive dog.

6. Go soothingly in the grease mud, as there lurks the skid demon.

7. Avoid entanglement of dog with your wheel spokes.

8. Press the brakes of the foot as you roll around the corner to save collapse and tie-up.

British Trade Unions Grow Swiftly, Gaining Two Million New Members Since Hitler's Advent to Power

By HERBERT TRACEY

London. — Membership of the trade unions in Great Britain has been growing continuously and at a rapid pace since 1933—the year which marked the advent of Hitler to power in Germany. The aggregate membership of all unions at the end of last year was about 6,234,000, an increase as compared with 1933 of nearly 2,000,000, and representing an increase in comparison with 1938 of 182,000. This figure takes account of only three months of war-time expansion of the trade unions.

The rise in membership during the present year has to be added to give the present total which is probably in excess of 6¾ millions.

1,000 Unions Covered.

The figures are given in the preliminary report compiled by the ministry of labor from data supplied by the chief registrar of friendly societies. They relate to all organizations of employes, including the unions of salaried and professional workers as well as manual workers. The report takes account of over a thousand unions known to have been in existence at the end of 1939. But it is pointed out that 680 unions—more than two-thirds of the total number, each had a membership of less than 1,000, and only 2½ per cent of the total membership of all unions is distributed amongst these 680 unions. More than one-half of the total membership on the other hand is concentrated in thirteen large unions. There are forty unions with a membership of 25,000 or over, and these account for an aggregate membership of nearly three-fourths of the total for all unions.

Total Still Below 1920.

Union groups showing the greatest proportionate increase in 1939 as compared with the previous year included the tailoring and other clothing unions, and the metals, machines, conveyances, etc., group. In the clothing trades there was an increase in the male membership of 8 per cent, and the female membership increased by 20 per cent. In the other group there was an increase of nearly 10 per cent in the male membership and over 11 per cent among females.

Total membership still lies behind the peak membership attained by the unions at the end of 1920. At its highest point the aggregate membership of all unions in that year stood at 8,348,000, almost exactly double the membership recorded in 1913. It would appear that the unions are growing more rapidly in this war period than during the last wear. The highest total for the unions affiliated to the Trades Union Congress, namely, 6½ millions, was not reached until 1919, and thereafter membership began to decline, reaching its lowest point at 3,294,000 in 1934.

From that year there has been a steady rise in the membership of the unions affiliated to the congress, to the level of 4,864,851. That is to say, between 1934 and the end of 1939 the T. U. C. membership increased by over 1½ millions, representing an average yearly increment of approximately 225,000 new members.

Help—

Good labor laws are a help, not only to workers and fair employers, but also to the public as a whole. For experience shows that when decent labor standards are not maintained, the community must ultimately pay, in taxation, the social costs of poor working conditions, low wages, long hours, and child labor.—Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor.

No Suspension of Labor News

National Defense Advisory Commission officials primarily concerned with formulating and activating defense production labor policy are reported to be certain that proposed legislation to suspend certain labor laws, primarily the Wagner and Walsh-Healey acts, will fail.

They are said to be confident that before congress can get around to act on the proposed legislation, certain voluntary reforms and regulations engineered by the commission's Labor Policy Advisory Committee will have removed any alleged necessity for the legislation.

Within the next few months it is expected a voluntary wage stabilization program will have been worked out in the aircraft and shipbuilding industries, in co-operation with the labor committee. Such stabilization should substantially decrease the likelihood of strikes in those industries. Whatever the basis of the final stabilization program will be, defense officials are said to be insistent that it shall be voluntary on the part of employers' and employes' representatives. "There will be no ramming a defense labor policy down anyone's throat," is the way it has been expressed.

These reports from the defense commission are most encouraging, indicating the national government's continuing intention to stand with organized labor in maintenance of present wage and hour standards.

Operators' Opinions

It seems a far cry indeed to the Christmas of our yesterdays when a sack of candy, an orange, an apple would fall out of our "holy" stocking, while we were standing barefoot on the cold hearthstone, waiting for "Dad" to build the fire, and then mother would call "Breakfast's ready" and we would all pile in the big kitchen, and the hot biscuits and gravy and sausages and molasses would disappear faster than Ma and the girls could put them on the table, and then Pa would open up the old family Bible and turn to that familiar scripture where it says "Peace on earth, good will to men," and when the final Amen was said we would jump out with a whoop for the old dog that knew where the rabbits were setting, and we would be off for the biggest day of all, and return late at night for a supper of fried chicken, hominy, sweetmilk and cornbread with a big onion thrown in for good measure, and Pa would sit with a smoothing iron between his knees and crack walnuts for the kids and if we had been especially good he would tell a war tale, and then we'd go upstairs and crawl in a feather bed and if the dog had dried off sufficiently he would sneak him in between us, until Pa would rear up and chase him out into the cold. But why sigh for the days that won't come back? You get a Christmas card from someone you hardly know and think "Well, I wonder what that guy wants?" or if someone stops you on the street to borrow a match you are afraid it's a touch, and tell him you don't smoke.

Walk down the street and look people in the face and ask yourself why you are so alone in such a crowd. It's you, Bigboy, not the people around you that are strangers. Every man that lives would like somebody if the somebody would only smile instead of frown. Some old feller said that "Hell is paved with broken resolutions," so let's resolve not to furnish any more paving blocks for his Satanic majesty, but set up the old code "Do unto others as you would be done by" and smile, damn you, smile.

Happy New Year to all of you.

Rival Labor Groups Co-operate More in Woodworking Industry

Seattle, Wash. — Increasing cooperation between AFL and CIO labor groups in Washington has been noted since rival groups in the woodworking industry joined recently in seeking wage increases.

The coalition group includes the Lumber and Sawmill Workers (AFL), the Columbia River district council of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO), several other locals of the IWA, several locals of the Boommen and Rafters' union (CIO), and the Inland Boatmen's union.

Ideal Labor Leader

By DR. CHARLES STELZLE

Moses was the great labor leader who delivered from cruel bondage millions of Israelites who were slaves in Egypt. He might well serve as an example for the modern labor leader. The development of such a leader is always a slow process. For in the labor movement there is so much at stake, and there are so many interests involved, that the raw enthusiast cannot be entrusted with the power of leadership.

Enthusiasm there should be, but it must be an enthusiasm founded upon intelligence, knowledge and self-control. It required long years of solitude in the land of Midian to transform the hot-blooded Moses, the adopted son of Pharoah's daughter, into the modest Moses who name has become a synonym for meekness. "Learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians," nevertheless he needed the solitary, deep-thinking life of the shepherd on the hillside to prepare him for the great task of leading out into liberty the slaves of the Egyptian ruler.

He came, too, with the consciousness of sure victory, because he knew that his cause was just. But more than that, he was confident because he came in the spirit of a strong moral faith. This emancipation in which he was about to lead was more than an economic deliverance dependent upon brute strength, and the ability of a mere man to exercise unusual power. He had back of him the Omnipotent God of Abraham, of Isaac and of Jacob, the forefathers of the afflicted Israelites.

The qualities that were so conspicuous in Moses must be found in the modern leader. He must be of the people, for he must understand their needs. He must have had an experience which sobered him, so that he is familiar with the deeper, truer things of life. He must depend not so much upon his speech as upon his character. He must have the power which can come alone through the consciousness that his cause is just, and that back of him, too, as He was back of Moses, stands the God of the common people, Who is saying through him: "Let my people go."

TAKEN FOR GRANTED—

Notwithstanding the too-prevalent propaganda from all sides, the hope and prayer of the American people today is that we shall be spared the horrors of war. They have taken for granted that the authorities at Washington meant what they said and said what they meant when they promised to kee us out of war.—William Cardinal O'Connell, Boston.

Public Assistance Payments Increased During October

Washington.—Total payments for public assistance and earnings of persons employed under federal work progrmas in the continental United States for October, 1940, amounted to $272,699,000, according to figures made public by the social security board. The total for October represented an increase of about 9.1 per cent from the $249,932,000 total for September and an increase of about 1.5 per cent from the total for October, 1939, it was reported.

Automatic—

Our experience during the last seven and a half years should make us extremely cautious in attempting to plan reductions in the program of work for the unemployed until the expected jobs in private industry actually materialize. The progress should be automatic. The WPA should employ needy unemployed persons and should be reduced automatically only as these persons are hired in private industry, or conversely, should increase automatically when workers are let out by private industry.—Howard O. Hunter, Acting Commissioner, WPA.

Guilt once harbored in the conscious breast, intimidates the brave, degrades the great.—Johnson.

Better Tasting Foods, Drinks, Are Newest Gift to Housewife

"Vinylite" plastic being kneaded between heated rolls. Its whitene heightens its resemblance to baker's dough.

A TIRED housewife sometimes says at the end of a hard day that "it seems a mile" from the kitchen stove to the family table. Yet the distance from the nation's kitchens to the nation's dining rooms nowadays is much longer than that. It is often 3,000, sometimes 6,000 miles. The housewife doesn't have to make that trip. "Big business" does that for her.

Food comes from thousands of giant kitchens, producing great transportation and storage problems. Modern refrigeration helps some of these foods to withstand transportation and storage. But for the most part they must travel and stand about in sealed cartons, cans, and bottles. These packages not only have to bring eatables and beverages to the country's tables in good condition. They must deliver them, whenever possible, with their flavors unaffected by the containers they come in.

A whole new vista of possibilities for better eating and drinking has now been opened up by way of the chemist's laboratory. The answer is a unique substance known as "Vinylite" plastic. In one phase, this appears as a lacquer which, coating the inside a carton or can, holds the food beverage in a plastic envelop This envelope imparts no taste any food or drink and seals it from all contact with the co tainer itself.

Foods and liquids that pick flavors and odors very easily be shipped and stored unscath in this plastic. Several large me ropolitan centers have approv it as a covering for the new ho type caps for milk bottles. Be out of a can lacquered with proves as true to taste as if dra from the keg. Bottle cap man facturers, who formerly had carry some fifteen to twenty d ferent kinds of coated paper, addition to metal foil, now u paper coated only with the n plastic.

The substance is so non-to that almost the first use found one form of it was in the maki of dental plates. As a lacquer, is not only bringing better fo and drink to the country's tabl It is expected to bring new e ables and vegetables—produ that never before have been a to withstand the rigors of co mercial handling.

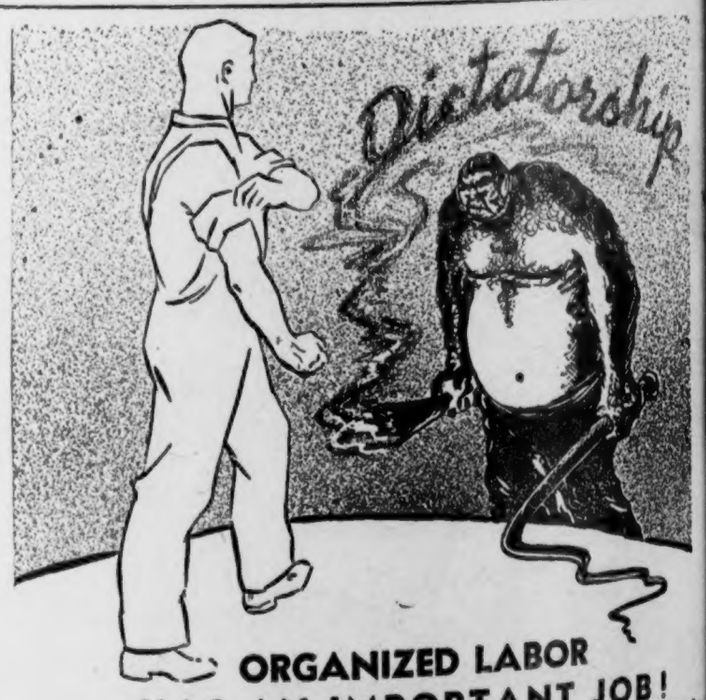
National Campaign Gets Under Way



ORGANIZED LABOR HAS AN IMPORTANT JOB!

(Taken from Bulletin No. 1, issued by the Le for Human Rights, Freedom and Democra

MATTHEW WOLL, Vice-President of the A. F. of L., called upon organized labor to support the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy, by forming local branches throughout the country to fight intolerance.

The League seeks to become the spearhead of the labor movement in its "persistent campaign to defend labor's rights, our civil liberties and our democratic order against the subversive attacks of the Fifth Column," Mr. Woll declared in his appeal to approximately one thousand city and state labor bodies and trade unions throughout the country affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The appeal included a bulletin briefly enumerating the fundamental principles and standards democracy which have been stroyed by the totalitarians, outlined a series of steps lead to the formation of a local bra of the League by the Central La Bodies.

The League for Human Rig Freedom and Democracy was org ized in 1938 by some of labor's m important leaders and organizati as a protest against the revolt barbarism and anti-semitic excess of the totalitarian regimes. Nati al officers are: William Gre Honorary President; Matthew W President; David Dubinsky, V President; Edward McGrady, S retary; the Honorable Jeremiah Mahoney, Treasurer.

PEACE IN AMERICA

As the Christmas season comes the United States, a major por- of the world is involved in a vastating and ruinous war. The r of bombers rends the air, and sky is filled with the smoke homes burned by the fire and hate of armed conflict. In contrast, a nation of 130,000,000 people, whose domain spans the breadth of a great continent from ocean to ocean is at peace. Its citizenry is free to worship as it sees fit and to celebrate the season to the extent of its capacity. Its government stands for worldwide democracy and peace.

Your representative feels devoutly thankful for the blessings of the United States. He wishes everyone a Merry Christmas and a Bright, Happy New Year, and to the latter end, urges you to join anew in subscribing wholeheartedly to William Tyler Page's classic expression of "The American's Creed."

"I believe in the United States as a government of the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag and to defend it against all enemies."

HONOR FOR TOIL—

It would be difficult, but not impossible to trace the influence through which we have lost our earlier respect for the labor of hands and arms and backs—machinery, growing leisure, too many material comforts, laziness, false ideas of superiority, wrong evaluations of culture, scores of influences. But one thing sure: If we do not regain that respect we are lost.—Evening Bulletin, Providence, R. I.

Senator Asks Ban On Nazi Goods

Boston.—Asking prohibition of the import of goods from low-wage totalitarian nations, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, urged that the United States "proclaim as a national doctrine that it will not follow a foreign trade policy which in any way supports or subsidizes nazism or communism.

Suggesting amendment of the wage-hour law to ban imports from countries having substandard labor conditions, he told the Canadian Club of Boston:

"It always seemed an economic absurdity to try to raise wages and lower hours in this country and at the same time erect no protection against the products of workers whose wages were low; whose hours were long, and who worked more like slaves than like free men.

"We now have the added factor that in the conduct of our foreign trade policy we should at least not help those who dislike us and that we should actively help our friends."

GREAT SUM SPENT ON REPAIR AND MODERNIZATION WORK

Washington.—Well over one hundred million dollars worth of work has resulted from the autumn campaign for property modernization and repair launched Aug. 15 by the building industry in co-operation with lending institutions and the federal housing administration.

Using FHA Title I loans as a guage, this campaign has almost doubled the volume of modernization work in America and has been the most successful in recent years, exceeding even the autumn of 1935, the FHA says.

While the campaign is continuing into the winter months, much has been accomplished in the banner months of September, October and November.

Before the campaign began, Title I loans were being reported by lending institutions to the FHA for insurance at the rate of around 10,000 loans amounting to about $4,000,000 a week. In September, October and November this rate almost doubled, averaging around 18,600 loans amounting to $7,692,000 a week.

Fashion is the abortive issue of Vain Ostentation and Exclusive Egoism.—Hazlitt.

My ways are as broad as the King's highway, and my means lie in an ink stand.—Southey.

Laws Designed to Outlaw Strikes Assailed by President Harrison

New York, N. Y.—George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, replied sharply to anti-labor spokesmen and warmly defended labor's co-operation in the defense program in an address before the Economic Club of New York.

Mr. Harrison gave so convincing an argument against legislation to outlaw strikes that even the predominantly business membership of the club joined in an ovation to him.

"What does a manufacturer engaged in production of materials useful for national defense do when he gets an inquiry from the government about furnishing certain kinds of supplies?" Mr. Harrison asked.

"He begins to bargain with the government for the price that he is to get. If he is unable to reach an agreement, there is, naturally, no contract, no order and no work.

"Well, now, is there anybody here that will accuse such employer of being unpatriotic and striking against the government because he has been unable to reach an agreement, there is, naturally, no contract, no order and no work.

"Compare that with the man who works. He is unable to strike a bargain on the things he wants for the labor that goes into the articles he produces. If then he says he does not care to give his labor at the employer's price, is he striking against the defense program? Is he, therefore, an unpatriotic citizen? Of course, not."

Harrison pointed out further that compulsory arbitration "works both ways." He asked how many business men present would care to submit their cases to government boards "in view of the present tendencies of the 'New Deal.'"

"I come from the railroad industry, where we haven't had a strike for so long I don't know when," he declared. "But we don't have any such prohibition against exercising our rights as human beings.

"I think the answer to the situation, from the standpoint of production of essential defense materials, is to advance the conference table idea to find a way out of our difficulties, in the light of national needs."

Arms and Money Are Urged by Bevin To Aid Britain's War for Democracy

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Appealing to those "who are equally determined with us to maintain the great principles of liberty of thought and action," Ernest Bevin, British Minister of Labor and Secretary of the Transport and General Workers Union, addressed a message to "all who accept these principles as their way of life" to "rally to the fullest possible extent in support of those who are actually in the battle-line," in a communication to Matthew Woll, President of the League for Human Rights, Freedom and Democracy.

His message expressed the firm determination of the British people to continue their struggle in the face of their terrible sufferings. It reads as follows:

"Present struggle for the maintenance of democracy and the right to use reason as against force in the conduct of human affairs should not have to be borne by one nation or commonwealth. It involves the fundamental rights and liberties of the human being, and all who accept these principles as their way of life should rally to the fullest possible extent in support of those who are actually in the battle-line.

"The future progress of labor absolutely depends upon the success of British arms. We are willingly standing up to the terror of the ruthless aggression of our enemy who seeks to break the democratic spirit within us by the murder of our women and children. It is a matter for those not in the fighting lines but who are equally determined with us to maintain the great principles of liberty of thought and action to determine how best they can help, and they must satisfy their consciences as to whether they are withholding anything in money, material, or sympathy.

"At the moment of this great crisis my message would be therefore to every lover of liberty throughout the world: Pour in your arms, your money, your effort to support those who willingly risk their lives to preserve the soul of mankind."

Bakers' Scraps

This is a bad week for news as everyone is Christmas shopping and getting ready for old Santa. Of course when you read this old Santa will have been here and gone but not forgotten by all the kiddies and some of us grownups. What officer of our local was seen during the holiday rush in one of the downtown stores playing with a lot of toys and when caught at it admitted that he hoped that old Santa would bring his kids a lot of toys?

terest and surprise was that of

A recent marriage of much in- Dewey Manning, who is one of our new members and is employed at Cameron & Barr. Congratulations to the newlyweds. May all their troubles be little ones.

* * *

I hope that during the holidays that everyone ate nothing but union-made bakery products, especially those delicious Erskine cakes.

* * *

Received a nice Christmas card from Bessie Rogers, who is in Oklahoma now. We sure wish Bessie the best of a Christmas, and sure wish she were here to be with us for the holidays.

* * *

G. W. Bagwell preserves and jellies are nonunion. Do not buy these products and purchase only union-made jellies and preserves made by Lookout.

* * *

Brother Joe Yarbro is in town for the holidays. It sure is good to see Joe again and only wish he was here to stay.

I'll sign off, wishing everyone a most prosperous new year.

And Nap Sauntered.

General Duroc and Napoleon were one day walking along the road to Marly. Chatting as they walked, they saw a plowman turning a furrow as he came toward them.

"See here, my good man," said Napoleon, "kour furrow is not straight. You do not know your business."

"It is not you, my fine gentleman, who can teach me," said the man. "Here, try it," and he gave the plow to Napoleon, who proceeded to turn an even more crooked furrow.

The plowman walked up to him, took the plowhandle out of his hand, and siad: "Come, your work is no good. Each one to his trade. Saunter along; that is your business."

I wonder is it because men are cowards in heart that they admire bravery so much?—Thackeray.

Modesty seldom resides in breast that is not enriched with nobler qualities.—Goldsmith.

They'll need "Help"
WHEN SUMMER DAYS ARE GONE

Like all prudent mothers, you've asked yourself: "How can I help my children keep the buoyant health of summer during the coming school days?"

One good way is to give them plenty of our "Vitex"* Vitamin D Milk—because it supplies in tasty form, many food factors necessary for buoyant health. And, it's rich in phosphorus and lime needed for building strong bones and sound teeth.

Each quart, too, contains 400 U.S.P. units of Vitamin D, lacking in most foods, but needed by our bodies to make full use of the milk minerals. It's the simple, sure way to replace the Vitamin D producing rays of the sun, blocked out by winter's indoor life, heavy clothing, clouds, fog and smoke.

Help prepare your children for the rigors of school days and winter months ahead—ask our routeman to deliver "Vitex" Vitamin D Milk tomorrow.
